Allies' Policy On Freed Russians
Accuses Britain, U.S. Of 'Intolerable Conditions' And Delay

Moscow, May 4 (AP)—General F. I. Golikov, chairman of the Soviet Reparation Commission, accused Great Britain and the United States of "intolerable conditions" and delay in releasing 1,700 Russian prisoners of war held in Germany, and of "systematic removal" to America of Soviet citizens who were going on without the knowledge of Soviet authorities. "Three hundred Soviet citizens disappeared from England and we are still searching for them," he said.

Golikov conceded that every where are our citizens living under intolerable conditions. However, he charged that Soviet representatives in England recently discovered 1,700 Russians in three camps, the existence of which had not previously been disclosed.

"The camps were managed by American military police under intolerable conditions," he said. "In Camp No. 1, the Russians were held together with Germans, under German administration. Camps 35 and 46 were enclosed with barbed wire, with machine guns on watchtowers. The Russians worked underground ten to twelve hours daily and were badly dressed."

"When a Soviet general appeared, the prisoners were joyfully and demanded immediate repatriation."

Golikov said "outrageous incidents" took place in Egypt in which "Poli agitators, with the approval of the British, 'spread malicious anti-Soviet propaganda' and tried, with provocations and threats, to dissuade Russian ex-prisoners from returning to the Soviet Union."

Russia, Golikov asserted, has observed all obligations under-the newspaper in which this Order shall be published for four consecutive weeks.

Director Wilson Suggests Markets Consider Oysters

JACKSONVILLE, May 7, (Special)—A suggestion has been made by the State Marketing Board, according to William L. Wilson, Director of State Marketing, that there might be a good market for oysters in the State.

Wilson said that he had been talking to some of the oyster producers and the oyster consumers, and they would like to have us try this out. We are willing to confer with the State Conservation Department and perhaps work out a plan which they can be tried out.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

LIFE WOULD BE DULL IF IT WERE NOT FILLED WITH CONTINUOUS DISCOVERIES...

A restaurant in Chicago has hung out a sign, "No Help Wanted." The war must be over.

Field Marshall von Rundstedt says air power decided the war. Yes, Hitler's hot air started it and the Allies' airplanes ended it.

It seems to us peculiarly appropriate that Admiral Donuts should have been placed in control of the German nation now that there is nothing left but the hole.

The next time the Germans start a war they will know what war is like. This is the first time in modern history that the people on the home front in Germany have had a real taste of their own medicine.

Now that the war is over in Europe and priority restrictions may soon be reduced, wonder if it wouldn't be possible to get our proposed raw swimming pool finished in time for use this summer and to make a memorial to soldiers of World War II.

Meat is getting scarcer and scarcer and good meat is scarcer than meat. Since it is the chief source of protein in the American diet and since protein is the chief source of energy, those who are not eating as much meat as formerly would do well to eat more eggs, drink more milk, and both of which are also rich in protein.

The Tokyo radio is shedding crocodile tears as it announces that Japan now stands alone against virtually the entire world. The other two Axis partners, Italy and Germany, have both gone down in defeat...

Leut. Charles Brandt of Oklahoma found the going pretty tough in Europe, he was hit in the arm with shrapnel in Sicily. He got a bullet wound in the knee while in southern Italy. He was wounded by a piece of shrapnel at Venafro. He was hit in the chest and caught another piece of shrapnel in the elbow at Anzio. But he's not blaming anybody. "God took care of me, is the way he puts it."

There seems to be some inconsistency in the Army's announcement that 2,000,000 men will be released, while at the same time insisting that draft calls will have to remain at 100,000 a month. It would seem to be a waste of money and effort to substitute at this point in the war green men for experienced troops, but it may be that the men to be released are those with no such experience or with so much experience that they are no longer available for combat duty anyway, while most of those to be drafted will be young and vigorous who with little training will make first class soldiers.

The policy of drifting with the tide of riding the wave of the future, where matters of principle are involved, is shown by the crushing and ignominious end of the fascist movement in Italy. Anne Lindbergh says that she was subscribed to by her leave her magazine, as well as many others, "The Wave of the Future," and it is she who said that while she did not like fascism and the things for which it stood, it was causing the inevitable crisis of the future, and there was nothing we or anyone else could do about it. And since we couldn't do anything about it, we might as well subscribe to the magazine. "I'm not a fascist," she said, "but I'm a realist."

Political Prisoners

A group of American newspapermen who have been touring concentration camps in Germany as the special guests of General Eisenhower has issued a formal report in which they assert that the treatment of political prisoners there was far worse than they had expected from what they had previously seen or heard. Despite all the pictures and articles which all of us have read on the subject, no doubt we too would be surprised at the horror of it all if we could witness it for ourselves.

"The conclusion is inescapable," the report said, "that the Nazis had a master plan for their political prison camps. That plan was based upon a policy of calculated and organized brutality. The evidence we have seen is not a mere assembling of local or unassociated incidents. It is convincing proof that brutality was the basic Nazi system and method."

These methods included "deliberate starvation," "routine beatings," "sadistic tortures too horrible and too perverted to be publicly described." "Murder was commonplace." This was the punishment meted out not to criminals or others convicted of serious offenses, but to people against whom the Nazis could lodge no other charge except that they happened to be born Jews, or Poles, and to those who objected to this sort of persecution.

"Prisoners whose only crime was that they disagreed or were suspected of disagreeing with the Nazi philosophy were treated with uniform cruelty," the report continued. "When death came, as to multiplied thousands of them it did, it must have been a relief from worse than death... to the basic policy of brutality toward political prisoners there were, however, no significant exceptions."

Indignant over the cruelties perpetrated against Nazi enemies, these newspapermen while demanding the severest punishment for all those connected with these crimes and responsible for them, nevertheless stuck to a fundamental conviction of all English speaking people that justice requires punishment for the guilty only. It is not right or just that anyone should be punished just because he is a German or that any "cruel or unusual punishment" should be inflicted.

"In punishing these crimes," the report urged, "the historic principle of individual and personal responsibility must be preserved and all those responsible for these atrocities must be punished in accord with the accepted laws of civilized nations."

To do otherwise would put us in the same category as the Nazis over whose methods we are so shocked. There should be no reprisals against innocent persons. There should be no enforced starvation or torture chambers. The accused should be given a fair trial and if found guilty punished according to recognized civilized standards; if found innocent, acquitted.

The plight of the average German has been a sorry one indeed. If he closed his eyes to Nazi brutalities he stood before the world as the colossus of ignorance. He could acquiesce, and accept his share of the responsibility. Or he could protest and subject himself to the same concentration camps, the same starvation and torture from which other German political prisoners who survived are just now being released.

Individual Peace

Allied war activities may properly be regarded as a branch of human correction in which it becomes necessary to kill in order to cure.

We can thus restore peace, at great cost of life and property, pain and sorrow. Then the inevitable question arises, as it has often risen before—how long will the new peace last? How long will it be until some members of the society of nations break the rules again and seek what they want by force?

It is a matter of men in national groups controlling their spirits, their tempers and covetousness, as civilized people are expected to do—and mostly do satisfactorily—in private and individual life.

In aiming to make and keep a peaceful world, we have to tame and civilize the animal known to anthropologists as to tame and civilize the animal known to anthropologists as Genus Homo. When there is peace in enough people's hearts, and enough faith in progress and happiness through cooperation, there may be international peace.

But the sparks and fires of new wars must be looked for and guarded against without ceasing. So there must be policing among nations as there is already in cities and states. There must not be another failure this time, from impetuosity or jealousy, in setting up the necessary machinery with adequate power. If we should fail, there might not be another chance for a century.

Retribution

One of the most eloquent and illuminating comments of the European war appeared on a magazine cover the other day. It showed a Nazi officer sitting disconsolately among the ruins of a city. All around him nothing but wreckage, vast, formless and complete.

He might have been another Calus Marius sitting in the ruins of Carthage as in the old Roman story except that he was in heavy modern military garb, and was eating his cold lunch out of a can. His face was a mixture of sullen wrath and hate, as he contemplated the depth into which he had fallen.

Or he might have been a contemptible modern version of Milton's rebellious angels cast out from heaven, except that in that picture there was dignity along with the wrath. It is a good thing to have the Nazis' lost war shown in this realistic manner. If it were possible to get pictures of all the unpleasant tragic and horrible situations into which Hitler's war and their own vanity and cruelty have plunged the Germans, and place them all over Germany to be viewed by the people for a whole generation, it might end the glorification of national war crimes.

SANFORD FORUM

Editor Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla. Many people in Seminole County may not know of an improvement in the southern part of the county. I refer to a clay road that has just been built from Sanlando Springs crossing to Lake Bentley. This road leads to the home of a friend of mine, that is of great convenience to me. This friend of mine has tried for years to get this road and it was not until the present County Commission, Mr. Orer, took office that anything was done. The former County Commission, because Mr. Orer was the only man who had the courage to stand up to the former County Commission, had been so afraid to spend money to benefit a constituent, I understand that a bill is to be passed by the present legislature, giving the job of the County Commission to the Board of Supervisors. I am sure that the people of Seminole County will be glad to see this bill passed. Yours truly, LEO E. DEBARTY.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Senator Pepper Pledges America To Finish Japan

(Continued From Page One) reign, foreshadowing the re-establishment of democratic institutions throughout the length and breadth of the European Continent and throughout the world. "It is a day of rejoicing, and it is a day of re-dedication, for peace and prosperity for the world for the victory won; re-dedication for the winning of victories still to be achieved in the Pacific, and the establishment of a lasting peace. "For let us not forget, in our rejoicing, that Japan is still a ferocious, ruthless power still to be defeated. Let us not permit ourselves the slightest let-down in our determination to produce a fight for total military victory against Japan. "Much remains to be done before the Nazi poison is finally eliminated. German industries, which have been turning out the weapons which have killed so many thousands of our young men and those of our Allies, must be dismantled and dispersed until there is no harm left in them. Their General Staff must be liquidated until not a trace remains. "Reparations in kind must be exacted for the devastation the Nazi armies have wrought. And finally, every German, whether officer or enlisted man, Nazi official or ordinary civilian, who has played any part in committing the unspeakable Nazi atrocities must receive grim punishment for his acts from the military tribunals of the Allied Armies. "These things were pledged the world by our late great President Roosevelt and by Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill at the Crimea Conference last February, and they must be pledged with new force today by the peace-loving peoples of the world. "The general appropriation bill will come in for a lot of discussion, pro and con, some members trying to have others seeking to pad. Give and take will be the final result, but that who will give and who will take is beyond the ken of the average observer. "It looks at present like the flood of local bills being tossed into the hopper will take up most of the time of the lower house for the next several days. So many minority groups are seeking legislation that they have important bills sometimes get pushed aside, thus taking the time of the session and benefiting only a small percentage of the people. "The expected veto has started in the Senate in the form of a filibuster against the extra 10 cent cigarette tax bill. Yours very truly, J. H. LYLES.

Surrender Is Made At Eisenhower's Headquarters By German Staff Chief

(Continued From Page One) The world waited tensely. Then at 9:26 A.M. E.W.T. came the Associated Press flash from Reims, France, telling of the signing of the unconditional surrender at 2:41 A.M. French Time (3:41 A.M. E.W.T.) Germany had given up to the United States, Allies and to Russia. "Loud whistles and whistles were blowing down from skyscrapers. A cheer came from the German-controlled radio at Prague. A broadcast mentioned by the Czechoslovak government offices in London said the German commander in Czechoslovakia did not recognize the surrender of Admiral Donitz and would fight on until the French have secured final peace for German troops out of the country. But the Prague radio earlier announced the capitulation of Breslau, long besieged by Russian forces. "All announcements on the wave length of the Flensburg radio, which has been carrying German communiques and orders for several days, said: "German men and women, the high command of the armed forces has today, at the order of Grand Admiral Donitz, declared the unconditional surrender of all fighting German troops." The announcement was attributed to the new German foreign minister, Count Schwerin von Krosigk. "Crowds gathered in the flag-decked streets of London and crowded about microphones. Prime Minister Churchill had arranged to go on the BBC with the official Allied announcement whenever it was ready. It was announced that week that King George VI would broadcast his message at 7 P.M. (8 P.M. Eastern War Time) on V-E Day. Patton's forces early today were racing along the last 100 miles to Prague against only feeble resistance and it appeared that the final battle of continental Europe might be joined within a matter of hours. "Patton's radio reports from the front during the day said that Soviet paratroopers had landed near Prague in response to an appeal from the resistance movement. Then, late last night, the German-controlled station in Prague said that because of the unavailability of the capital as a "neutral" or open city, the announcement added, however that all the important German defense positions were outside the city and that flags of all nations would be allowed to fly by the population except the Soviet flag. In the last hours of the European war the Germans were obviously avoiding any capitulation to the Russians at whatever the cost. "All enemy communique reported that Russian forces had burst through the German lines 100 miles east of Prague as Allied armies sped across the last 100 miles of Nazi-held land in continental Europe at a rate that promised to bring an end to fighting in a matter of days.

Report Russian Arrive A radio broadcast heard by BBC said that "relief" had arrived in the form of Russian units under Gen. Yermachenko, described as a member of the staff of Gen. Andrei L. Yeremchenko whose Fourth Ukrainian army was officially placed 128 miles away. New First Lady Is Not Like Eleanor

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP News Features Writer

Indications are that if Mrs. Harry Truman, America will have a decidedly different type of First Lady than it has had in the last 12 years.

While President Truman indicated his intention of following President Roosevelt's pattern—those who know him well predict that his White House will be a "hard-boiled" one, and that he will be a "hard-boiled" man.

Mrs. Truman, it is said, is a great admirer of Mr. Truman's career and helps him with it. But after that her first interests are her daughter and her home.

American women are not used to a First Lady who is a "hard-boiled" woman. The First Lady of the United States is usually a woman of the "soft" type. She is usually a woman who is a "soft" woman. She is usually a woman who is a "soft" woman.

Truman—until after her husband's selection as Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate. Then they saw a gray-haired woman, serious and glum, Mrs. Roosevelt, who sat untroubled and laughed at the swarms of reporters and cameramen who besieged her box.

"No speechmaking," she said of the coming campaign. "I never have. Probably I shall help with Mr. Truman's speeches that is in the editing of them—as we have always done in Washington. Two heads are better than one, when it comes to re-arranging words and phrases."

During the President's career as Democratic Senator from Missouri, Mrs. Truman served as his clerk at a salary of $1,000 a year. Mr. Truman said on the eve of the last campaign that he never made a "re-arrange" of a speech without her editing it.

People from Missouri call the new First Lady a "folksy person"—cordial, unaffected and possessed of an air of dignity. Most of her comments center around her husband. She dresses generally in simple tailored clothes. In cool weather she often wears grey or dark suits with simple white blouses and brimmed hats of the sailor type. In summer she wears printed or dotted crepes with white accents and white shoes.

The Trumans were schoolmates, Independence, Missouri, where the grandfather of Mr. Truman and childhood sweethearts in Independence, Mo. (born Hess Wallace) served as town's first Mayor. After World War I, as a child, Mr. Truman served overseas. They were married. They have one daughter, Margaret, now 21, who attended George Washington University, majored in music and hopes to be an opera singer in some evening. Margaret and her father occasionally play piano duets or sing to the accompaniment.

In their simple five-room Washington apartment, Mrs. Truman daily rose early, got her husband's breakfast and started Margaret to school.

"Breakfast and fried potatoes are what my husband likes," she once said.

Between household tasks Mrs. Truman has given several hours daily to work at a United Service Organization campaign.

"It is just what the chairman of the day asks me to do—just like everybody else," she said in describing her work.

Reading, her favorite recreation, her favorite authors are Charles Dickens and Sir Walter Scott. Recently she has been studying Spanish.

Most Babies Belong To Native Born

(Special) About nine tenths of the present crop of high school graduates are the children of parents themselves native-born, according to the statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. This is in distinct contrast to a century ago, when a large proportion of American babies were born to parents of foreign birth.

In 1915, the earliest year for which annual records are available, the statisticians state, as much as 41 per cent of the births in the registration area were to parents both of whom were foreign-born. In 1930, the proportion had decreased to 31 per cent, and in 1940 only 12 per cent of the babies had both parents of foreign birth. These decreases, quite naturally, were accompanied by corresponding increases in the proportion of babies born to parents of native birth. Whereas in 1915 only 47 per cent of the babies had both parents born here, that figure in 1930 rose to 66 per cent by 1930 and to 83 per cent by 1940, and has since continued to increase.

As to births to parents of mixed native and foreign birth, the proportion of total births to such parents rose slowly from 12 per cent in 1915 to a high of 15 per cent in 1920, and then receded to 12 per cent in 1940.

These figures, the statisticians point out, pertain to the Birth Registration States, which except for Michigan and Minnesota, lie in the northeastern area of the country, and have a relatively high proportion of foreign-born persons in their population.

Vienna, Recaptured By Russians, Was First City To Fall To Nazis

By TRUDI McCULLOUGH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

VIENNA, first capital to fall to the Germans in the bloodless conquest of 1938, has been three cities in its six-year span of occupation.

The capital the Nazis seized had been characterized by its spirit of gaiety. It was a city of cafes, of Strauss waltzes, of leisurely business practice and a sense of the importance of living.

Its memory was rich as a tapestry of the Celts who fashioned it before the time of Christ, of Marcus Aurelius, of Charlemagne, of Napoleon, of the glittering roll call of the Congress of Vienna—Talleyrand, Metternich, Alexander of Russia.

Heritage of splendor was exhibited in the palaces of the Austrian emperors and the German emperors before them, who ruled it. It shone in the Gothic spire of St. Stephen's; in its renowned medical university, dating back to 1365; in its incomparable opera house; in the fashionable Ring Strasse and Inner City.

But it was also a city of industry, of heavy iron and steel machinery, of optical goods, chemicals, clothing, leather, artistic and luxury goods. Situated on the banks of the Danube, it was one of the most important traffic centers of Europe and the junction of eight international airlines.

That was the first city of German occupation, but it didn't last long. In less than two months Americans there were sending word of charges in Vienna.

Increases of traffic brightened sluggish Vienna tempo. Electric signs and red-covered Nazi youths obscured the vistas. Cafes changed their names to "Berliner" or "Berchtesgaden." There was constant marching in the streets past shops where crowds bought and hoarded in fear of privation to come. Bookstores whose windows had always held a wide international display showed at midday exclusively the works of Nazi leaders. The coffee houses, the focus of Vienna social life, had a decline in patronage. Viennese newspapers became uniform.

Divorce lawyers had their hands full arranging for the "Berlin" "Aryan" and "Aryan" marriages. All were being up on terms. Law, Church, and state were reported to be more than busy in life to the day.

Short-legged Austrians were learning to be efficient in controlling traffic.

Mostly it was only the German visitors who entered the city. Wine festivals in nearby Carinthia and Styria were sponsored by the lack of American films, but mostly they were taught Nazi efficiency in controlling traffic.

Then came the third phase. The Americans had finished the Atomic Bomb from the Manhattan Project. U.S. heavy bombers began paying incessant calls to Vienna's oil refineries. According to a Paris report, Hitler had refused a Viennese plea to declare their capital an open city, and the bombings went on.

CLEAN SEWING MACHINE
Clean the sewing machine to put it in top running condition for a busy spring season.

A machine which had a thorough cleaning last fall will generally need just a light going over this spring, unless it has stood idle long enough for gummed oil and dirt to accumulate. Flush out the dirt and gummed oil with a cleaning fluid, such as cleaning fluid obtained from gasoline dealers, kerosene, or carbon tetrachloride.

Squirt the cleaning fluid (using a small oil can) into oil holes and on bearings and other places customarily oiled. Run the machine while flush out dirt and gummed oil until it runs smoothly. Then wipe carefully with a lintless cloth and let the machine stand several hours for cleaning fluid to dry.

Caution: Since most cleaning fluids are inflammable, it is safest to run electric machines by hand rather than by motor until all cleaning fluid has evaporated.

After cleaning, oil the machine well and run it a while to work the oil into the bearings. Wipe any excess oil off carefully so it won't collect dust. For later oilings, one drop of oil in each bearing and oil hole is enough. Oil after each day's work or after 8 to 10 hours use. To prevent drying and gumming, oil machine occasionally, even when not in use.

For detailed instructions on cleaning and adjusting, check the manufacturer's book of instructions, and send for the bulletin "Sewing Machines," F. B. No. 1211, which is free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, 25, D. C.

Russia And Allies Split In Frisco On Polish Question

By TRUDI McCULLOUGH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7. (AP)—The Big Three chiefs—Truman, Churchill and Stalin—are reported to be taking a hand in the bitter Polish dispute, seeking both to break the inter-Allied deadlock and to remove the thorny problem from this world conference scene.

The split between the Western Allies and Russia over the arrest of Polish underground leaders was so wide that officials reported only chiefs of government had authority adequate to straighten out the snarl in diplomatic language, it was now a matter for "the highest levels."

This has been the procedure in the past when foreign ministers and ambassadors could not agree on Anglo-American-Soviet affairs. Conference officials said the first step probably was meetings from President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill to Premier Stalin, reinforcing previous requests from Secretary of State eastward to Mintal and took that town, two miles from Davao, in a brisk fight.

Battle Rages
On tiny Tarakan island, Borneo just off the southwest edge of the Philippine archipelago, Australian and Dutch troops battled the Japanese in Tarakan town and on one end of its airfield. Aussies were led by tanks as they penetrated the flaming Pomoesian oil region.

The Japanese defenders of Davao counter-attacked heavily before they withdrew to the north on Friday. Associated Press correspondent Richard Bergholz reported the counter-blow momentary threatened the American hold on the city but was finally beaten off with flamethrowers, mortars and automatic weapons.

In central Mindanao the 31st infantry division under Maj. Gen. Clarence Mackin advanced a mile north from Kibawa in a drive which Gen. Douglas MacArthur said blocks the enemy's northward avenue of retreat from Davao.

The 31st also was bearing down on the big Japanese air center at Valencia, about 73 air miles northwest of Davao.

Some 50,000 Japanese troops were estimated to be on Mindanao April 17 when the Yanks made their second landing on the big island to start their overland push on Davao. The force has to be met in strength. The Japanese are believed to have been caught in the northeastern sector, where guerrillas already have cleared Surigao province.

The Australian Dutch invasion of Tarakan ran into stiff opposition in the hill areas near Tuguegarao town. Point-blank fire from the 75 mm. guns of Matilda tanks was required to knock out Japanese firing from a honey-combed bunker on the hill.

Tanks pushed dismounted Australian cavalry commands into their push across the heart of the burning Pomoesian oil field, bunched from burning and over the rich little port island.

Dutch Aid Aussies
The Australians, freshly bolstered by Dutch troops, cleared the Bontoc and Arakan districts and held the western edge of the Tarakan airfield. The Japanese defended the other end with blanks of machineguns.

The Japanese were making full use of high ground, tunnels, land mines and old Dutch defenses, Associated Press field correspondent Spencer Davis reported.

The airfield itself continues to be in no-man's land, although its dispersal revetments are empty, reported Davis, it is worth a man's life to walk into one because each appears to be covered by Japanese machineguns and mortars.

At 9:35 A.M. E.W.T. came an Associated Press flash from Reims telling of the signing of the unconditional surrender. General Eisenhower was not present at signing, but immediately afterward Jodi and his fellow delegate, General Admiral Hans-Georg Friedburg, received by the supreme commander, the German surrender asked for mercy toward the German people and the armed forces.

The BBC said telephone conversations were going on between London, Washington, and Mos-lay. Again in the third inning Dyess, Fed second baseman, was walked and managed to steal to third. Jackson made a clean ball and scored. Dyess, the inning ended, Sanford 5, Winter Garden 1.

At the beginning of the fourth inning Winter Garden staged a comeback. The first man to hit, Tidale, made a easy three base hit. Walker singled to right field to score Tidale. Another three base hit by Teal scored Walker. A Fed error scored Teal. The rally was ended by Callahan striking out two men in a row.

Again in the fifth inning a three base hit by Ross put Winter Garden in a position to tie the game up. Tidale made a hit scoring Ross. Sanford opened in the last half of the inning by quickly loading the bases. Charles Adams scored. McKee hit to right field to score Callahan and Lingle and left Brunley on third. Brooklyn singled to right field scoring Brunley and McKee. The score ended the inning at Sanford 10, Winter Garden 5.

Winter Garden failed to score again but Sanford scored three more runs by Callahan, Lingle and Brunley. Callahan allowed only six hits and struck out six. The pitcher for Winter Garden, Ross, gave up eight hits and struck out five.

In the final Sanford met an old rival, Orlando. The game proved a pitchers' duel between Callahan and Willsey with Callahan proving to be the better pitcher. In the second inning did things start popping. Clark was walked. Callahan hit to left field and Lingle was walked. Jackson made a hit to center field. In the fifth Sanford singled third and easily made a run. The inning closed with bases loaded in the fifth and again tidale Sanford scored a run.

Mayor Edward Hugueny stated that City areas formerly closed for blackout purposes would be sounded when the official V-E proclamation is made. Public schools will go to school immediately following the announcement, according to Supt. F. W. Lawford. Classes will then be resumed.

News of the German surrender was received quietly today, there were no demonstrations on First Street, and everyone was awaiting the President's message.

The Sanford Naval Air Station was "standing by" awaiting the official word of the peace declaration, according to Fleet W. K. Story, public relations officer.

Callahan was forced to pitch 21 consecutive innings in the tournament. Callahan allowed five hits and struck out 12 men. Willsey, Orlando veteran pitcher, gave up four hits and struck out 18 Sanford men.

Two of Sanford's first lineup players will not be able to play in the State tournament to be held in Lakeland May 10 and 11. Clarence McKee reports for Naval training at Jacksonville. May 8 and Bob Callahan reports to Ft. McPherson, Ga. the same day for duty with the Army Air Forces.

The loss of both players may be one handicap for Sanford in the State tournament. Sanford is slated to play Robert E. Lee of Jacksonville in their opening game.

ARE YOU JUDGMENT PROOF?

There are a number of reasons why the uninsured automobile owner is taking a bigger chance in going without insurance now than in pre-war times.

Many uninsured people have considered themselves judgment proof. They didn't have the amount of money required to pay a big claim. They didn't own homes and they didn't think they'd have an accident anyway.

In the first place, your car is a cash asset today, and the court will see to it that it is "liquidated" to pay the judgment against you. And if this is not enough the courts have discovered that if a man has a job he can be made to pay at the rate of $21 a month for instance this interest.

A lot of folks who have always rented homes have had to buy them, the landlord having decided to take advantage of the favorable market to sell.

So, if you have a car, or a job, or a home, or all three, you are certainly not judgment proof. Protect what you OWN NOW. See C.M. Boyd & Co., Your Mutual Insurance Friend! Adv.

Hall Of 11,000 Victims of Nazis Die On March

New Yorker Reveals Prisoner Fell Every 10 Yards En Route

WITH THE UNITED STATES 90th DIVISION, on the Czechoslovakian Front, May 4, 1945, Marcel Cadet, an English-speaking Pole, who formerly lived in New York, told this week how 11,000 prisoners were marched out of the Buchenwald concentration camp in the path of advancing American troops and how scarcely 600 survived to greet their liberators.

Cadet, who is thirty-four years old, lived three years in New York, at 144 West Seventy-first Street. He married an American girl, Stella Margolis, who will this year be 34, on New Year's Eve and at 194 Riverside Drive. He has not heard from them since June, 1942.

Five Years a Prisoner Sent as a military prisoner to France in 1941 after serving at the French Army cadet had lasted the years since then at Nazi jobs and concentration camps.

The war's end, of all were spent on the march, he said. "On the morning of March 8 we were told we would leave Buchenwald. The Americans were coming close."

At the first hearing of the news, none of the men in the black barracks showed any signs of happiness at leaving the camp. They had heard tales of horrors about other men who had been forced to evacuate their camps. They knew many had died.

Following started outside the gates of the camp. I saw fifty men beaten to the ground and then carried by the guards until they were dead. All the S.S. (Elite Guard) troops and there was a staff of five yards were equipped with rifles, heavy clubs and bayonets. Cadet's column was marched nine and a half miles from the camp to Weimar, where the men were held until their liberation.

The Shooting Starts "There were 1,000 of us who were shot at by the S.S. as we were marching out of the camp. We were shot at by the S.S. as we were marching out of the camp. We were shot at by the S.S. as we were marching out of the camp.

78 Communities In Southeast Gather Tons Of Clothing

NEW YORK CITY, May 7.—(Special)—Missions of mercy now being carried out by the twenty-member agencies of the National War Fund touch 125 countries and geographic areas and reach into the lives of more than 62,000,000 people. Winthrop W. Aldrich, President of the Fund, stated in his annual report which was submitted today at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Fund.

Frederic S. Bush, Vice-President of the Fund, also reported, was advised that the campaigns which were carried on in the fall of 1944 by 10,000 local community war funds such as among local campaigns, raised $116,257,675 for the National War Fund.

With reference to the future of the National War Fund, Mr. Aldrich stated in his report:

"We have made it clear from the beginning that the National War Fund remains first as a purely temporary organization, but our task will not be finished until the service flags in the windows of American homes are finally taken down."

Mr. Aldrich pointed out that victory in Europe will tend to increase rather than diminish the work of member agencies of the Fund such as USO, USO Camp Shows, and United Seamen's Service. He also pointed out that the work of many of the agencies will "increase in the Pacific as the tempo of the war against Japan builds up to its inevitable climax." He laid special emphasis on increased needs which may arise in the Philippines and China, which can best be met by the efforts of private agencies.

He also stated that relief work by member agencies of the Fund in Europe are now largely centered on emergency services provided in recently liberated countries.

Summarizing the current work of member agencies of the National War Fund Mr. Aldrich said:

"For instance, USO-Camp shows has more units in all combat zones than ever before. Many of the 1,000 parties of the front lines. They play to audiences averaging a million a week. The number of USO clubs has been somewhat reduced during the year, but the attendance at more than 2,500 clubs in operation in this hemisphere is more than 30,000,000 a month. New clubs have been opened on short notice to provide for the troops brought back from Jim and the work of the USO in the Pacific is constantly increasing. There are 500 USO clubs operating near general hospitals in this country, providing recreation for the wounded as they become ambulatory patients."

"Happily, during the past few weeks many American prisoners of war have been released, but there are still many prisoners of war, both in Europe and Asia. As a matter of Christian conscience and treaty obligation, War Prisoners Aid must stand by them serving them until the land barbed wire bond has been broken. United Seamen's Service is at work wherever there is an invasion beachhead, for the merchant marine in the Pacific and the evidence of their prompt service when we hear that a USO club was open and ready for action two weeks before the first American cargo ship sailed into liberated Manila."

"The achievements in aid of our Allies have been no less stirring. Only a few days ago when a group of distinguished nutritionists went into the land Holland and found many children too weak to take normal nourishment, it was American Relief for Holland, formerly known as the Queen Wilhelmina Fund, that flew a new and treasured drug to save the lives of many starving children. When the Army authorities found clothing, one of the great needs in newly liberated territory, it was again one of our agencies that was able to move the needed clothing in to meet an emergency. Clothing supplies are being rushed to the Philippines by yet another of our member agencies. These and many other missions of mercy are being carried out daily by National War Fund agencies."

The Board of Directors of the National War Fund met for luncheon aboard the merchant ship, American Seaman, as the guests of the War Shipping Administration and the United States Maritime Service.

Filipinos Faced With Big Problem Of Rebuilding

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Paul V. McNutt, former U.S. High Commissioner to the Philippines wasn't talking just to make himself heard when he warned the leaders of the islands not to press for independence now.

McNutt based his warning on the fact that if the Filipinos defer the question of independence, they are more likely to get "a sympathetic reaction from Congress on rehabilitation measures."

There's much more to it than that, no matter how true it is. McNutt believed, as many students of the Philippines and some Filipino leaders believe, that if independence is granted now or even July 4, 1946, the latest date set by law, the Commonwealth may step off into a permanent economic sink-hole.

Let's go back to 1934, when the Tydings-McDuffie Philippine Independence Act was passed. Enjoying a long period of free trade with the United States, the Filipinos had emerged with a higher standard of living than any of the natives in the south Pacific. New industries such as mining (mainly gold, copper and some iron) were getting off to a good start. The old industries—sugar, copra, coconut oil and hemp—were flourishing. Moreover, the Filipinos were enjoying a measure of self-government probably greater than any other dependent nation.

The clamor for independence was nothing new. The disposition of the United States, which had fought its own war for independence 160 years before, was to grant it.

According to those who debated the issue a decade ago, there was no selfishness in the opposition to Philippine independence. There was only the fear that cutting the ties with this orphan commonwealth—which had come into the family after the Spanish-American war—would be throwing it to the wolves of economic and military exploitation.

Possibilities of war in the Pacific or even in Europe seemed remote in those days. Congress Seamen's Service.

Officers of the National War Fund for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Winthrop W. Aldrich, President; Jean R. Adoue, Jr., Dallas, Texas; Frederick S. Bush, New York City; Robert M. Hines, Winston-Salem, North Carolina; Francis P. Matthews, Omaha, Nebraska; Walter Rothschild, New York City; Edward L. Ryerson, Chicago, Illinois; Robert G. Sprout, Berkeley, California; Henry M. Wriston, Providence, Rhode Island; Vice-President—Ralph Hayes, Secretary—Gordon S. Remickler, Treasurer—Gerard Swine, Chairman Budget Committee—Thomas D'Arcy Brophy, Chairman Public Relations Committee.

Hitler Was Main Force Behind Nazi Drive To Power

Nothing In His Early Life Indicated His Destiny In World

NEW YORK CITY, May 7. (AP)—No psychic medium could have foreseen a maker of world history...

Hitler began life April 20, 1889, as Adolf Schicklgruber, the son of a poverty-stricken customs inspector.

As a boy Adolf sang in the choir school of the Benedictine monastery at Lambach, acquired a taste for drawing and decided to become an artist.

Adolf was a weakling as a child but possessed of a personal magnetism which made him the center of his playmates in Braunau...

Disgusted with Vienna he moved to Munich with only 20 kronen ($1) to his name. When war broke out, Hitler enlisted in the Bavarian army as a volunteer.

The future Fuehrer was sentenced to five years' imprisonment but was released in 1924 after only a year's stay in a prison cell.

In the last days of peace Hitler shortened his title of "Der Fuehrer and Reichkanzler" to "Der Fuehrer."

Hitler and Gen. Erich Ludendorff, reckoning with the support of the masses in northern Germany...

Hitler early in life became convinced of the desirability of anschluss and conceived a deep hatred for the Austro-Hungarian monarchy.

The northern island of Nagaya Zamiya, off the coast of Russia, is entirely gemless and fresh water can be left exposed for months and so as fresh as when originally exposed.

Audacity And Swiftness Of Charge Across Bridge Made Final Drive Easier

By DON WHITEHEAD and RICHARD TOMPKINS

When Janek Alexander Drank of Holland, Ohio, charged across the Remagen bridge with his platoon March 8 to capture passage over the Rhine, the entire course of the war on the Western Front changed.

The bridge, more audacious than their hold on the Ruhr and pressure on toward Berlin against fresh and little German efforts.

Secure of the bridge, on top of the mauling given the Wehrmacht west of the Rhine, was a tremendous gamble.

The capture of the bridge, on top of the mauling given the Wehrmacht west of the Rhine, was a tremendous gamble.

It is the only bridge in the world which has been captured by the U.S. Army.
