Senior Citizens Are Hit Hardest

By DONNA ESTES

No matter who or what is to blame for the 20 per cent increase in rents to take place for tenants of Bram Towers on April 1, many of the senior citizen residents have been left with the problem of either moving or stretching their already limited incomes even further.

As one of the tenants told The Herald this morning, "Where will I move? Where will I find the additional money in my budget?"

Another said, "A lot of us cannot speak out. If we do, we may be forced to move and we have no place to go."

Still another declared, "It seems very unfair that a great many old people sold their homes thinking they had a new way of life only to have this blow up in their faces. This is a considerable increase. We have an old car to help us get about. But an increase in the parking rate from $3 to $5 monthly appears excessive. How could costs of operating the parking lot have gone up more than 60 per cent?"

"Surely there must be inefficiency somewhere. It would seem when investments had been made by other groups, the organization which owns Bram Towers could have seen its operating budget was not adequate, if it wasn't," one indignant elderly tenant declared.

In a letter dated Feb. 12, Hawkins Connelly, administrator of Bram Towers, announced to the residents of the senior citizens' community, "By order of the Board of Directors and with great personal regret I must notify you that effective April 1, we must adjust rents upwards (subject to the approval of the Commissioner, which has been requested)."

"With the best intentions in the world (I am quite sure) the office of the Housing Commissioner, under whose direction we operate, projected a budget which was completely unrealistic. This projected budget was accepted by the Board of Directors on a 'wait and see' basis, bearing in mind the efforts to which they are committed to bring to our people the best of living conditions at the very minimum of expense. The past five months has proven conclusively that the inflationary conditions prevalent throughout the country did effect even a 'non-profit' organization, under whose organization these inflationary conditions, together with an effective but expensive power problem, have done us all in."

Connelly in the letter continued, "The Board is aware of the fact that this announcement will be tremendous disappointment and perhaps even a shock to many of you and it is hoped that you will believe that we have done what we could to avoid this raise in your rents. And I must add here, that my personal concern and disappointment has cost me much peace of mind and many hours of sleep."

"The rate increase will be 20 per cent on the apartments and, in addition to that, the parking fees will go to $5 per month. Connelly, when contacted about the matter brought to the attention of The Herald by several residents Wednesday, (Cont'd On Pg. 2A Col. 1)

White House Checking On Vietnam Aid

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI

Oh, oh... hear about Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward's message to the Viet Cong that "this country will not tolerate a delay in the release of American prisoners held in South Vietnam in the future?"

What are you going to do then, General... drop some bombs to get 'em released?"

For those who are concerned about related growth problems in this county, please read of how a certain developer complied with the most stringent conditions... making everybody happy.

Details are included in the story on page 3A, Col. 1. Makes you wonder why all of the county's building proposals are not made to meet this same criteria.

We started to receive cards for Gerald Coffee and family. Have you mailed yours yet? Direct them to us here at The Herald and we'll see to it that they are presented in your name.

Let's all get in on it... How about the many youngsters looking for a classroom project? Wouldn't that make Commander Coffee and family proud to receive a "bushelful" of these personal welcome back thoughts? Do it today, neighbors...

Worried about the flu bug and tensions, and life in general? Do like the 92-year old steel worker from San Francisco has done. He has no plans on retiring and says that he stays fit by eating an onion a day. "I believe I'd rather cough, than you..."

Tuesday... the same old thing... the County Commission dragged on in its "infinite wisdom" and didn't conclude their meeting until 1 a.m. on Wednesday... after starting around 9 a.m. on Tuesday.

Last night, I'll be darned if the School Board didn't try to surpass that record, but fortunately did adjourn right around midnight.

Not to the many who make plans on attending these important meetings, nor to those who serve on these same councils.

Economic Program Faces Increasing Union Doubt

By NEIL GILBRIDE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Labor leaders voiced increasing resistance today to President Nixon's Phase 3 economic program, which continues a 5.5 per cent annual ceiling on wage hikes.

Paul Burns, president of the AFL-CIO Metal Trades Department, said he doubted that the federal wage guidelines would hold up in this year's coming big contract negotiations covering some 5 million workers.

One large union, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, already has breached the Phase 3 wage guideline with a three-year contract providing an 8 per cent pay boost this year and 5 per cent more in each of the following two years.

President Louis Stulberg of the ILGWU said he expected trouble from Nixon's reorganized Cost of Living Council, which now allows wage hikes to go into effect without prior clearance until challenged by federal officials.

If other big unions follow suit, it could set off a labor stampede for wage increases above the federal limit, union officials said.

They urged Congress not to renew Nixon's authority to control wages and prices when the present law expires April 30.

That would remove what Nixon has described as his "stick in the closet" to use against unions or companies that try to exceed Phase 3 limits.

Two Hospital Real 'Hot Potato'

By BILL SCOTT

The Seminole County School Board Wednesday night for the record pushed aside the two hospital districts "hot potato" tossed their way by the Seminole County Commission, but later the board majority advised The Herald they opposed the action by the county in seeking two hospital districts.

School Supt. William Laver brought up the matter of whether the board collectively or individually wanted to make a stand on the hospital issue. "The county commission has indicated it would not pursue its announced purpose of placing all the burden for paying for the Seminole Memorial Hospital taxes on those persons living in North Seminole County or Sanford, if the School Board would adopt a resolution asking the board not to proceed."

At Wednesday night's meeting, the School Board's reaction was confined to two members during the meeting, but after a recess, the other members were consulted on the issue.

During the meeting chairman A. F. Keith expressed his belief that a second hospital district was not in the best interest of the county.

Jean Bryant, vice chairman, answered Laver's query with the remark, "I can't see what that has to do with what we are doing." Later, during recess, Mrs. Bryant said she was opposed to the county commission proceeding with its effort to have the legislative delegation prepare a bill setting up two county hospital districts.

Dwice Sims, board member, also expressed his opposition to the county's action as did Bud Feather; both opting the issue could hurt the passage of the millage election, since it would anger some North County voters into voting against the millage since most of it goes to fund new schools in South Seminole.

Only Dr. Stuart Culpepper indicated a lukewarm agreement with the concept, but he was not ready yet with his recommendations regarding the Sanford ninth grade facility.

It had been expected that a recommendation would be forthcoming on Crooms since a portion of the school burned a

Congress Hides From Reality By Words

Persons unfamiliar with the stresses inherent in the separation of powers among the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government might believe that the United States of America is facing a constitutional crisis of the first order today. Unfortunately, the rhetoric from Congress does little to dispel the apocryphal notion.

and Great Society which gave the executive branch so many of the permanent powers that are raising such concern today. Rhetoric aside, the activities of the majority party in both houses of Congress appear to stem from three emotions. There is some genuine concern about the declining role of Congress—as there should be. There is additional concern about the erosion of the fiefdoms that have created problems as well as benefits in the legislative branch. Finally, there is a great deal of political maneuvering—the construction of issues and the fabrication of emphases for the 1976 presidential election.

Obviously it is a lot easier for Congress to attack President Nixon for biting the bullet on the budget than it is for congressmen to buckle down and correct their obvious inability to be adequate custodians of the public purse. It also is easier for congressmen to berate and harass cabinet appointees about the President's policies on executive privilege or impounding of funds than it is for them to address the constitutional separation of powers realistically.

It was a refreshing departure from the usual dismal fare that makes up so much of daily newspaper reading—the hullabaloo stirred up by the "plot" of the Atlantic City Commission to change the names of Baltic and Mediterranean Avenues, which, along with other of the city's streets, have been immortalized on the Monopoly board.

GOP Must Watch The Governorships

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—With nine of the country's 10 biggest governorships up in 1973-74, it looks as if the Republicans are going to press some of their veteran incumbents to run again to have real hope of keeping their present 5-5 split or recapturing the advantage.

Less clear is New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's intent, though the chances of his seeking a fifth four-year term seem to be mounting. His aids told me as far back as the summer of 1970 that national convention that he was entertaining the thought seriously.

Assuming he serves through his present term to the end of 1974, he will by then have become the governor of longest tenure in U.S. history—with 16 years. The present record is 15.

Phil Deere Opens March 17

Grand opening for the new Phil Deere Furniture, Inc. store on West SR 46 is scheduled for March 17. Faith in the inevitable future growth of Sanford was instrumental in influencing veteran furniture man, Phil Deere, to locate his new store here. He had made several trips to Florida over the years looking for a location before purchasing four acres on SR 46, one mile east of I-4.

Deere moved to Seminole County in August and resides with his wife, Peggy and their four children in Sweetwater Oaks. His father, Amos Deere and stepbrothers James and Earl Lee live in Sanford.

Partner in the business is Deere's brother-in-law Edward Quinn, who comes here from Chicago. Deere was in the furniture business for 15 years in Hammond, Ind. and prior to that was an industrial engineer for a furniture manufacturer.

The large stock of "just about everything in the furniture line" in all styles of furniture from contemporary to Early American will be housed in an attractive new building built in the Spanish style of architecture. Deere hopes to interest other businesses to locate on his property.

Featured will be the better lines such as Breyhill, Thomasville, Sealy, Lane, Jackson of Danville, Stanley, and RCA Electronics. Clocks, paintings, wall accessories, carpeting, draperies and televisions will be carried in addition to all types of furniture. An interior decorating service is planned.

Tom Adams Uses State Farm Help

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Controversial Florida Lt. Gov. Tom Adams says his 1,000-acre farming interest in Gadsden County is "a modest operation" and state employees who help him run it do it on their own time.

"I have... a small farm operation in Gadsden County of which I'm very proud, and I have an employee who is full time who runs the farm and manages it," said Adams.

Fort Lauderdale news correspondent Bill Cox and television newsman John Hayes of Tampa's WTVT reported Wednesday that Adams was running his farm out of his office as secretary of Commerce with the help of three state employees.

Eleanor Donnell, administrative assistant to Adams, notified several papers involving the farm, and Leah Fletcher, a Commerce Department secretary, is listed as corporate secretary of Hilltop Plantations, Inc., the owner of one of the farms, said Hayes and Cox.

Of Getford's apparent dual employment, Adams said, "he is not an employee of the farm at all. He receives no salary from the farm and occasionally in processing papers he is listed for that reason because I'm out of town and he is able to assist me in that capacity."

He said Getford helped him on the farm frequently, but did it on his own time — not the state's.

Adams, who claimed in 1970 to be $300,000 in debt from old campaign expenses, said he purchases all the equipment he uses on the farm and is making monthly payments on livestock.

'Goodies' Ready For POWs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Six specially-imported color television sets, six-way electric beds and seven-floor rooms overlooking the St. Johns River await the first of Florida's ex-prisoners of war due to arrive today at Jacksonville Naval Air Station Hospital.

Among the parents on hand for the POWs' arrival are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gaither Sr. of Miami, whose son, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Ralph Gaither Jr., was shot down over North Vietnam Aug. 24, 1965.

"We don't have any official confirmation when he will arrive," said Gaither Sr. "We just came here hoping it would be today. We are very happy because we know it will be soon."

He said their oldest son, whom they last saw in May 1965, has telephoned them twice from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, where the first group of freed POWs arrived Monday for initial medical checkups and new uniforms.

Court Nixes Trial 2-Year Limitation

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The Florida Supreme Court today rejected the claims of three men charged with murder that they could not be prosecuted because the crimes occurred more than two years ago.

Lawyers for the three contended that because the U.S. Supreme Court had outlawed the death penalty and state law forbade prosecution after two years except in the case of crimes punishable by death the three should be set free.

But the Florida Supreme Court ruled that the two-year statute of limitations did not go into effect in their cases until the U.S. Supreme Court made its ruling on capital punishment last June.

Defendants Arthur Eugene Mauney, William Estell Barber and Huey Fullard contended the state cannot try them because when the Supreme Court threw out the death penalty, they were no longer charged with crimes punishable by death—and therefore could not be held accountable for anything that Drive, was indicted by a grand jury last August on the charge that he fondled two eight-year-old girls at his home. Later, he was charged with fondling another two little girls.

In the case involving the alleged molesting of the girls at his home, he was convicted on one of the charges by a Circuit Court jury in December. The case involving the second little girl was severed from this case by court order, and it is upon the second case the state dropped charges.

In the first case, Rev. Grogan is in custody pending presentence investigation. A motion was filed in December for release on recognizance and for a new trial. Both motions were denied by the court on Feb. 7.

In the cases involving the other two girls, in which Rev. Grogan, a Baptist minister, was later charged, he was acquitted and the charges in one case by a Circuit Court jury in Dec. 15 and the state nolle prosequit in the second case.

Robinson Trial Set Feb. 26

Trial has been set for week of Feb. 26 in the case of Mary Madeline Robinson, 28, Sipes Station, charged with an instigator amendment to the body of the information with killing an unborn child of Mary Williams by shooting Mary Williams in the abdomen. The body of the information charges killing an unborn child by injury to the mother.

Mrs. Robinson, a diminutive woman who gave the appearance of a teen-ager with pig-tails and attired in slacks, entered an innocent plea at her arraignment.

The charges stem from an incident on Jan. 27 in Midway when the defendant allegedly shot Mary Williams, 35, of Center Street, Midway. The bullet fired from a small caliber revolver entered the woman's stomach and into the head of her unborn baby. Miss Williams had been nine months pregnant.

Mrs. Robinson also faces trial the week of Feb. 26 on charges of assault with intent to commit first degree murder and a criminal offender having a firearm.

According to sheriff's reports, Miss Williams and her boyfriend were "pulling on each other" when the boyfriend's sister, Mrs. Robinson ran out of the Cool Freeze Number Two on Sipes Avenue and ordered Miss Williams to "turn her brother loose."

Mrs. Robinson is reported to have stepped the gun three times before it discharged, striking Miss Williams in the stomach.

Seminole Fire Protection Studied By Council Panel

BY ANN SIECZKOWSKI

Fire protection in Seminole County continues to present concern and study. For a time now, the Board of County Commissioners has been looking into feasibility of a county wide fire protection plan. Assistant County Attorney Howard Marsee informed the board Tuesday that the decision determining the legality of creating a central fire district for the county may have to come from Attorney General Robert Shevin.

Because of confusion arising out of jagged county-municipal lines, unclear fire district boundaries caused by annexation practices, the entire issue of fire protection has become a "bedeviling" item of concern.

It was brought out in discussion that half of the unincorporated areas are presently receiving fire protection in the five fire control districts, most through volunteer fire departments. Districts are funded by property taxes in the respective areas. This money in the approximate amount of $14,000, provides four full time fire fighters for all districts.

According to a report from the State Association of County Commissioners, which was received by Commissioner John Kimbrough, the best fire protection organization is a contract between municipalities and fire districts.

The question of authority of balance of the amount is spent by part-time personnel in each district. There is no overall coordination of planning or spending.

Marsee said that the situation surrounding the fire protection problem, "is a real nightmare." Whether the county can abolish the fire districts, which were created under special state legislative acts, to provide total county-wide fire protection is questionable, he remarked. A county-wide district to fund a specific thing causes problems with millage limitations, Marsee added.

Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen summarized the problem by saying, "As I see it the commission has two questions to consider, a county-wide district or beef-up the present districts to provide the remainder of the county with service by contracting with cities."

Not all cities will be amenable to this arrangement and Marsee pointed out further that a funding snag with the individual districts concept is assuring that "every inch of the county is in a fire district because it is impossible to tax residents who reside in between districts."

WINNERS of the Eastbrook School Dental Health Poster Contest were Janet Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker, and Lori Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Parker.

Mars Trip Taken By 3rd Grade

BY GRACE E. SPINKS

Third graders at Bear Lake Elementary School used their imaginations to take a trip to the planet Mars, a fantasy provided via a kit donated by a soft drink firm in Orlando.

Through the kit, the pupils have the opportunity to express their ideas of creating an ideal city.

Bob Deyling, the instructor, explains that the board is similar to a real estate plat map, but more detailed in color and areas. It is supposed to represent a spot on Mars. The children had small pieces of cardboard representing airports, houses, roads, buildings and all the other factors that would be necessary for building a small city.

Purpose of the game, explained the teacher, is to teach or demonstrate ecology and pollution control.

The story reads like this. Two spacecrafts loaded with people and supplies took off on an expedition to the moon. On the way one spacecraft became disabled. The people on one craft went aboard the second craft, taking what supplies they could. Upon reaching Mars they had to start building a city with the remaining supplies because they didn't have enough fuel to return to earth. In the building process locating air strips and houses on this map was a matter that took a little thought. To put an airport in a residential area was not feasible so they put it on a vacant swamp area. This was all done with the thought of conservation of natural resources.

So a game became a lesson and fun at the same time.

Good Disposition, Keeping Busy Secrets Of Living A Long Life

By TOM HORTON
Copy News Service

Just when I'm wondering whether or not I'm going to make it to the end of the day—the bug, of course—those wonderfully cheery people, the American Medical Association, come along to ask if I am interested in learning how to live to 100.

The medical chaps have been surveying centenarians to find their secrets to long life. Says AMA, "Most 100-year-olds seem to have these traits in common: An easygoing disposition, a quick sense of humor and a desire to be busy—physically and mentally—as circumstances permit."

Most 100-year-olds have had another advantage over the rest of us. They have lived most of their lives without learning how so many of the things they were enjoying during life were actually killing them.

Today, we are informed anew almost daily of how something seemingly harmless, like coffee, is actually killing us. If you are feeling low, it may improve your outlook to know that there are nearly 7,000 men and women in America who have been around for more than 100 years. And things are looking up every year. Last year, there were only about 2,000 centenarians.

You won't find any easy guides to long life from studying the life habits of those who have survived for 100 years. There are the predictable ones, such as Augustus Grant in North Carolina, who says, "I never used alcoholic beverages, tobacco or carbonated drinks." But there are also the ones like Lee Greer of Virginia, who says, "I violated every rule of health I know and conformed to none."

John Parrish of Indiana says it is encouraging to hear from some stubborn old-timers who have somehow survived without following the health charts.

Surprisingly enough, the AMA failed to find any 100-year-old men or women who gave all the credit for their long life to following doctor's orders.

Mrs. Elizabeth Randall of Kansas says she still eats all the salt she wants on her food, which is a lot, in spite of doctor's orders against it. Charles Testard of Kansas says he eats meat and potatoes of any kind and hang the cholesterol. Mrs. Bessie Boom of North Carolina avoids beef and fish and gets along on fatback, collards, turnips and cabbage.

Altamonte To Fight U.S.

ALTAMONTE, SPRINGS—City Council Tuesday night reiterated its authorization to City Attorney S. Joseph Davis Jr. to defend the city against the charge by the U.S. Treasury Department that it violated federal wage and price guidelines by hiking Mayor Lawrence Swofford's salary in December, 1971.

Coincidentally at yesterday's meeting, the Council on a four-to-one vote increased its own and Swofford's pay even higher.

In a letter from Gordon K. Chapman, chief of investigation and compliance branch of the Department of the Treasury, district director of Internal Revenue office sent to the attorney, reasons given for the pay hike were discounted.

The city contends that it properly raised Swofford's pay in December, 1971, from $800 monthly to $1,000 monthly because the mayor assumed full-time duties and responsibilities from a part-time situation.

Chapman's letter states,

"Your statement that the mayor went from a part-time position to a full-time position thus assuming additional responsibilities and duties is not justification for exceeding the guidelines."

The letter explains that only a five per cent increase was, at that time, permissible under the wage and price freeze that went into effect on Nov. 13, 1971.

Chapman's letter said investigation has been completed. The city was given until Friday to submit a rebuttal and after this is reviewed, the matter will be referred to the cost of living council.

Coincidentally, Council on second and final reading adopted an ordinance increasing Swofford's salary still further last night from the $12,000 to $17,500. At the same time Councilmen's pay was raised to $3,600 each annually and salaries were hiked for many other city officers and employees.

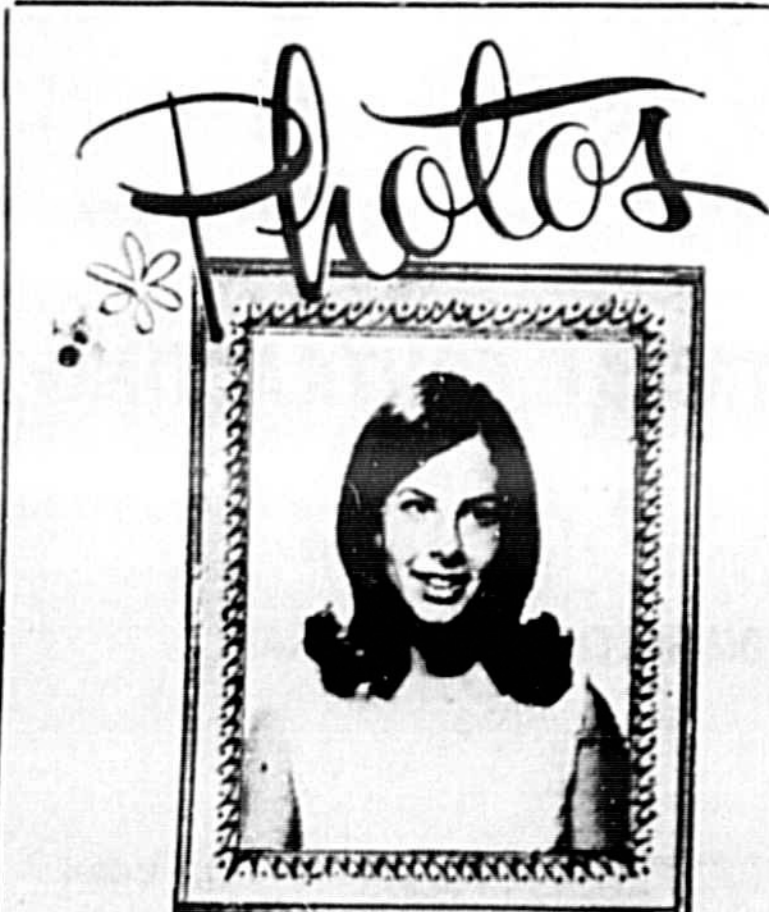

Mrs. Keyser continued her opposition to the raise for the Council by voting against the measure. Last week she said while she does not oppose the increase for the mayor she is against the additional money for the Council.

Lack Of Guidelines Slow School Board, SEA Talks

Amid rumors that other unions are ready to start negotiating with the board at a special session last both A. F. Keeth, board chairman, and had Feather, board member, objected to the timing of the SEA requests to negotiate before the March 13 millage election decided.

Keeth said he would like to meet with SEA, but added, "I don't want to sign any documents with you until after the four mills passes." Feather added that the issue was brought up before the board by the teachers' union.

"The primary interest is building of new schools for children and it behooves me that teachers who need adequate space are not out pushing the millage election instead of selflessly trying to bargain," Feather added.

Both SEA negotiators disputed that the millage election success would hampered by the teacher demands. Mrs. Schumacher said the SEA financial bargaining would not enter into the discussions until after the March 13 millage election. She added that labor unions are ready to come into the county now.

Stenstrom said further talks between the board and SEA could be construed by a judge as the board having entered into negotiations and there had been no guidelines laid down on what group should represent the teachers. "This could bring more groups before this board and you will have problems along the way," the attorney warned.

It was explained that the SEA had indicated it would not strike in accordance with state law which forbids strikes by public employees, but other union groups do not have this in their bylaws, the attorney added.

Stenstrom said the Board could set up a committee to come up with guidelines while he researched all the law regarding the legal ramifications of the Ryan Case, which is a Florida Supreme Court ruling, stated that public employees had the right to negotiate as well as private employees. Chairman Keeth advised the SEA negotiators to go back and do their spadework in regard to Stenstrom's observations and the board will go about setting up guidelines.

On Drug Charges City, County Vice Agents Arrest 3

Sanford County and Sanford Police vice agents arrested three people last night, including two in the execution of a search warrant on Weikawa Park Road.

Albert Eugene Capps, 20, and Robert Cecil Tittle, 39, both of Box 183, Weikawa Park Road, Sanford, were arrested when a search warrant was executed at that residence.

The men were charged with possession of cannabis (marijuana) and lodged in the Seminole County jail under $5,000 bond.

Norman Luke Gragg, Rt. 1, Box 86, Sanford, was arrested at First Street and French Avenue on charges of sale and possession of cannabis sativa L. He allegedly sold marijuana to an undercover vice agent. His bond was set at $5,000.

Det. Jerry Capshaw jailed four 14-year-old Enterprise youths on grand larceny charges after they allegedly took six boats and motors from two fish camps.

The boys were apprehended by Bob Johnson and E. A. Clifton of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, and the game wardens also recovered all the boats and motors.

Four of the boats and motors were taken from the Olden Bridge Fish Camp, and the other two, belonging to commercial fishermen, were taken from the old Crow's Fish Camp.

In other drug arrests, Patrolman Jim Pileosons of the Longwood Police Department arrested a 18-year-old Winter Park boy and a 16-year-old Longwood youth on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of narcotic paraphernalia. They were arrested after Pileosons stopped their car on U.S. 17-92 in Longwood.

A typewriter and an adding machine, total value $350, were taken from Eastbrook

County Youth Hall after he was found on a bus at the Greyhound Bus Terminal, Second Street and Park Avenue, Sanford.

The subject became violent after Coombs attempted to arrest him and it took several officers to subdue him.

Mrs. Kelly Smith, 3018 Chase Avenue, Sanford, reported the theft of a speeded bicycle worth $110 to Patrolman R. M. Nicholas.

Sam Houston Nearly Perfect
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sam Houston State has convinced all but two of the voters in the Associated Press poll that it is the best small college basketball team in America.

"That is the number one sin for a sprinter," said coach Tom Long. "If there is one thing a sprinter should not do it is false start."

New Finance Giant Is Coming to Life

By CARLTON SMITH

A huge new investment vehicle for the man in the street... is scheduled to come rumbling along into view some time in the not too distant future...

Variable life has been waiting the wings for quite a while, held up by contention over federal regulation of its sale...

A portion of a policyholder's premium payments would be invested in a portfolio of securities...

The SEC's ruling was to the effect that, yes, sellers of variable life insurance should therefore be regulated exactly as mutual funds are...

Some 30 states already have approved the sale of variable life insurance, and

Consumers Note: Buy Carefully To Avoid Complaints

By RICH SEELY Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES—Don Houghtman, deputy chief of the California Department of Consumer Affairs, wishes that people would take more care when they go out to spend money for goods and services.

Part of his office's job is to put out information aimed at helping the consumer to be a wise buyer. The most important rule is the hardest for most people to follow, he says. It is the biblical admonition not to be led into temptation.

IRS To Compute Your Tax JACKSONVILLE, Florida—Many Floridians may gain have the Internal Revenue Service compute their income tax and retirement income credit. A. J. O'Donnell, IRS District Director for Florida, said today.

He said the IRS on request will compute the tax for persons with incomes of $20,000 or less, who take the standard deduction, and whose income is solely from salaries, wages, tips, dividends, interest, pension and annuities.

He said the IRS will also compute the tax and send the taxpayer either a refund or a bill for the tax due, whichever is the case.
