Casselberry Mayor Responds To Funds Misuse Charges

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry is not misusing a 10 percent surcharge to the city's water and sewer customers who live outside the city, according to Mayor Charles Glascock.

Glascock, responding to charges made by Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen at an August 8 meeting of the Casselberry City Council, said the surcharge is within state guidelines. In a letter to the commission he said Mrs. Christensen is mistaken in her charges that the city is charging both the county and the individual customers for maintenance of fire hydrants in the unincorporated areas simply because the county never paid the bills.

Mrs. Christensen has criticized Glascock and other Casselberry officials for their handling of water rates to the unincorporated areas. She told city officials they

Mrs. Christensen 'broached subject matters I find of a low priority...'

— Charles Glascock

"should live up to their responsibility" in taking care of hydrants outside the city.

"The city has not maintained those hydrants and in fact has double billed the county for fire hydrant maintenance. This is both legally and morally wrong," she said.

Glascock said the 10 percent surcharge approved in 1976 was enacted to cover costs of fire hydrant maintenance and was established with the understanding that if the county paid for hydrant maintenance the surcharge would be reduced.

The city had been billing the county for the service for five years. The county never paid, contending there was never any contract obligating them to do so. More than $77,000 in bills had accumulated through last year when the city gave up and stopped billing the county.

Glascock said Mrs. Christensen's accusation that the hydrants have not been maintained is false as evidenced by the use of the hydrants to fight a recent fire at Lake Kathryn Estates, just outside the city.

He added that the dispute over billing for the hydrants was ended last year and had been considered settled by city officials until Mrs. Christensen's comments. He said Mrs. Christensen "broached subject matters I find of a low priority with the other problems facing the city...."

Glascock said if county officials wish to discuss paying the bills for fire hydrant maintenance or any other matters of mutual concern to both the city and county they should schedule a work session.

Mrs. Christensen has contended that Casselberry officials misused the funds received from the 10 percent surcharge by using money from the city's utility fund to build a new city building. The city rents space in the building from the Utility Department.

But Mrs. Christensen said the $1.1 million spent on the building could have been used to retire bonds on the city's water system and reduce the surcharge to residents in the unincorporated areas. She was unavailable for comment today.

Tax Drop In Sight

Budget Gets Airing Tonight

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The first of two public hearings on the city's proposed $9,225 million budget for fiscal 1983-84, which begins Oct. 1, and a proposed tax rate of $4.07 per $1,000 assessed valuation is slated for the Sanford City Commission's 7 p.m. meeting today.

The meeting will be held at city hall, 300 N. French Ave.

A second public hearing and final adoption of the budget is scheduled for Sept. 26.

If the $4.07 rate ultimately receives approval, it will mean a reduction of 30 cents per $1,000 over last year's $4.37.

The proposed new budget is up from the current year's $8.6 million. The increase in revenues is due in part to new construction. Another reason for the increase in both the revenues and expenditures sides of the budget is because of increased costs of operating the city's refuse department.

Costs of garbage disposal tripled when the dump it was using in Orange City closed leaving city use of the county's landfill facilities, where disposal fees are much higher, the only alternative.

The $4.07 tax per $1,000 is a reduction of 6.9 percent and will mean a tax savings to many property owners in the city. Of the $9,225 million budget, revenues of $1.1 million are expected from property taxes.

The taxable value of real property in Sanford over the past year has risen from $269 million to $286 million, an increase of $16.5 million due mostly to new construction.

Total property value in Sanford, according to Property Appraiser Bill Suber, is $504 million, but some $218.4 million or 43.3 percent is exempt from taxation for a variety of reasons, including homestead exemption, government properties, institutional exemption, disability exemption and widow's exemption.

Nearly half of the exemption from taxation is due to homestead exemptions.

The proposed new budget includes a 3.5 percent cost of living pay raise for the city's 276 employees, effective Oct. 1.

The percentage of raise was based on the rise over the last year in the consumer price index, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics.

Breakdown in the proposed budget is as follows: general government $5.9 million; refuse, $784,422; and utilities $2.5 million.

The largest single item in the proposed budget is for salaries and fringe benefits at $5.9 million, some 64.9 percent of the proposed expenditures.

Fringe benefits total 27 percent of the salaries budget.

Included in the capital improvement budget for the new year are: payment on replacement garbage packers, $50,690; replacement of a refuse packer $52,000; replacement of a refuse trash truck $18,000; sidewalk renovation program $5,000 for materials; street sweeper replacement $59,000; engineering plants for sewer plant expansion $100,000; an elevated water tank in the southwest section of the city $253,000 and completion of the Airport Boulevard transmission line $85,000.

Also continued in the capital improvements budget is $60,000 for downtown redevelopment which has been held up while legal actions against the city continue in court.

Shands Hospital Helicopter Transports Sanford Boy

Joshua Gaigano, 8-year-old son of Stacey and Larry Gaigano of 313 Granada Court, Sanford, in photo above, gets good-bye kiss from his mom Sunday as a transport team from Shands Teaching Hospital, Gainesville, prepares to load him on helicopter for the flight from Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, to Shands to undergo tests. From left, Harry Luke, paramedic; Fran Boulos, R.N.; Kevin Hartwig, hospital security guard; Gaigano with 4-month-old daughter, Brandi; Doug Grasso, pilot for Kenn Air Co., which leases the chopper to Shands; and Joshua's grandmother, Mary Small of Casselberry, Mr. and Mrs. Gaigano. In photo at left, watch anxiously as the helicopter takes off. The couple drove to Gainesville later to be with their son. Joshua came home from school with a fever and not feeling well prior to the Labor Day weekend, according to Mrs. Small, and on Monday night was taken to the emergency room at Central Florida Regional Hospital and released. He was later admitted as a patient and had been there for about five days before being flown to Shands. There was no word on his condition this morning.

Pay Raises In Store For County Officials

The 16 elected officials in Seminole's county government and public schools administration, whose salaries are based in large part on the county's population, will be getting pay raises beginning Oct. 1, with bigger than ever pay hikes slated for year from now.

Population increase is the major reason for the salary increases.

Jim Sayes, local government specialist with the state Department of Community Affairs, said today that even though the county now has a population of 201,906, according to preliminary estimates of the University of Florida bureau of economic and business research, pay raises for Seminole's elected officials based on that estimate won't be given until late in 1984.

When they are, the population statistics will place Seminole County officials in the more than 200,000 category, calling for a higher base salary. Another factor in determining the salary, Sayes said, is the amount career service state employees are paid and that will not be known until after the state Legislature meets next year.

Nevertheless, based on the growth in Seminole a year ago which saw the population then go to 195,133, county officials will still get pay raises beginning Oct. 1.

And elected school officials will also be getting pay raises, but theirs will be retroactive to July 1, Sayes said.

Under the new formula, School Superintendent Bob Hughes continues as the highest salaried elected official in the county at $46,731, up from $45,155.

The salaries of School Board members, who will receive the smallest increases, will go from $13,016 to $13,480, also retroactive to July 1.

Meanwhile, county government salaries to elected officials as of Oct. 1 will increase by the following amounts:

- County Commissioners Sandra Glenn, Bill Kirchhoff, Bob Sturm, Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Barbara Christensen — from $25,178 annually to $26,466.

- Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr., Sheriff John Polk and Property Appraiser Bill Suber — from $41,832 to $43,318.

- Tax Collector G. Troy Ray Jr. — from $36,846 to $38,197.

- Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard — from $34,819 to $36,098.

- In addition, when the clerk of the circuit court, the property appraiser, tax collector, sheriff and supervisor of elections are state certified, they are paid a $2,000 supplement annually. — Donna Estes

Odor Problems Eliminated

Seminole To Debate Iron Bridge Capacity Increase

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Orlando officials say they've eliminated odor problems at the Iron Bridge Regional Sewage Treatment Plant near Oviedo and want to increase the plant's treatment capacity by four million gallons a day.

A request will be made to Seminole County commissioners at a 7 p.m. public hearing Tuesday at the courthouse in Sanford, according to Michael Hanlon, Orlando's assistant public works director.

County commissioners refused to go along with the plan to increase the plant's treatment capacity to 28 million gallons per day at a March 22 public hearing in which 31 area residents complained about odor problems at the facility. The hearing was to have been continued until Dec. 13 to give Orlando officials time to show that the plant can be operated without odor or noise.

But Hanlon today said that the hearing was moved up because the city has answered all of the complaints filed by commissioners and the plant's neighbors.

"We've been talking to Seminole County staff and didn't feel the commissioners' complaints were problems any longer," said Hanlon.

The problems were related to difficulties with equipment at the plant, he said. Sedimentation ponds, where sewage is placed prior to processing, and a sludge drier were emitting foul odors which had neighbors up in arms.

Hanlon said the city spent $500,000 for caps which were placed atop the sedimentation ponds. The sludge drier has been turned off and liquid sludge is being hauled out of the plant, Hanlon said. Seminole County Commission

Chairman Sandra Glenn agreed today that the commission's questions have been addressed. "I think they deserve another hearing. They've made an honest effort to solve the problems."

According to Hanlon, the city has already filed an application with the state Department of Environmental Regulation to begin using water hyacinths to clean up the nutrients in the effluent from the plant.

Orlando officials believe that water hyacinths can be used to "polish" the effluent. By polishing, or reducing the nutrient level in the effluent, the plant can increase its treatment capacity without increasing the size of the plant, Hanlon said.

City officials have proposed constructing several large ponds at the plant. The ponds would be filled with hyacinths and the effluent would be circulated through the ponds prior to being discharged into the Little Econlockhatchee River.

Orlando is responsible for the operation of the regional sewage plant which also serves Seminole County, Casselberry, Winter Park, Orange County and Maitland.

Home Building Plan Underway

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A self-help program that will assist qualified families in building their own homes is getting underway in Seminole County after more than 19 months of being on hold.

Following the release of funds by the Farmers Home Administration on Sept. 1, Seminole Self-Reliant Housing Inc. program officially opened its office Friday at 110 S. Park Ave., Sanford.

A.A. McClanahan, who was named housing developer for the self-help project in January 1982, said it will mean about a $1 million boost to the area economy. The hold-up has been the release of the $140,100 technical assistance grant, which was approved three months ago.

The funding will provide qualified construction supervisors to teach, train, guide and assist the families in constructing their own homes, McClanahan said. He will be hiring persons to fill the five staff jobs. Some work, such as electrical work and plumbing—may have to be subcontracted to professionals.

The non-profit corporation is designed to give low to moderate income families the opportunity to acquire their own home by contributing "sweat equity." Each family accepted in the program is required to contribute a minimum of 700 hours toward the construction of not only their own house, but others in the group of six houses.

"This is not a 'give-away'. When they contribute hundreds of hours they will appreciate the opportunity to have decent housing and are going to take care of it," said McClanahan, a Sanford real estate broker, building contractor and former city commissioner.

The first six families, who will participate in the housing project, have already been qualified (a prerequisite to the release of the operating funds). At least 25 others are pending, McClanahan said. Since only a fraction of three will be eventually qualified for the program by the Farmers Home Administration, which is financing the loans, additional applications are still being accepted, he added.

He is looking for eligible families with incomes between $10,000 and $15,000, who would like to apply for the program. Interested Seminole County residents may come to the office, call 322-8983 or write P.O. Box 2586, Sanford, 32771.

The first of the 25 single family homes to be built for about $32,000 each (including the lot) under the program will be constructed in the Washington Heights subdivision on State Road 426 east of Oviedo. The houses would probably cost between $44,000 and

IN BRIEF

Lawmakers Say Congress Won't Recall U.S. Marines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senators from both political parties say President Reagan has not defined the purpose of the American troops in Lebanon, but doubt Congress will order the U.S. Marines to leave.

The purpose of what Reagan described last week as "civil war" in Lebanon has sparked new debate about the role of the Marines, and whether their assignment falls under the limits of the 1973 War Powers Resolution, adopted to forestall the danger of being sucked into a Vietnam-type conflict.

"The last thing America wants is to get embroiled in their civil war," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said.

The 1973 War Powers Resolution requires the president to seek congressional approval to maintain American force in hostile areas or areas where hostilities are imminent. Reagan has argued the U.S. peace-keeping role does not fit those circumstances. If the measure were invoked, Congress could order the 1,200 troops assigned to the multinational force home in 60-90 days.

Killer Has Double Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The man who assassinated San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk in 1978 could be charged with violation of their civil rights when he gets out of Soledad Prison in January.

Dan White, 37, convicted of manslaughter in the City Hall slayings, will have served slightly more than five years, a sentence many San Franciscans consider too lenient for his crimes.

That resentment has evolved into an attempt to persuade the federal government to charge White with violation of the 1968 Civil Rights Act, which provides penalties up to life in prison for a politically motivated killing.

During his trial, White was said to have killed the mayor because Moscone had declined to reappoint him as city supervisor.

Using what has been called the "twinkle" defense, White's attorneys successfully persuaded the jury that his capacity was diminished because he was in a mental state partly brought on by eating too many sweets.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: The deadly heat of the summer of '83 rode out of the parched Midwest on a line of cooling thunderstorms and blasted the Atlantic Coast full force with near 100-degree highs, shattering records from Massachusetts to Washington, D.C. Sunday was the hottest day of the year in New York, in Windsor Locks, Conn. — with 99 — and in Providence, R.I. which sweltered as the temperature hit 100. "It's at least as bad as the worst day this summer," said Rhode Island state police Sgt. Michael Brady, who reported "standing room only" at town and state beaches around Narragansett. New York's 99 tied the all-time record for the date and the 99 at Windsor Locks broke a record set in 1931. Hartford, Conn. and Boston each hit 99 — a high for Sept. 11. Newark, N.J. also hit 99, breaking the 1964 mark of 96. The high hit 100 at Trenton, but it was not known if that was a record. Portland, Maine reported a record 95. Readings in Virginia broke records set in 1900. Richmond had a high of 100 and Norfolk checked in with 99. Washington's National Airport reported 98. "It really isn't that bad out there," one forecaster at the weather service office in Camp Springs, Md. said. "It was worse in July and August when the humidity was way up there." Heavy rains and 70-mph winds lashed the Midwest and temperatures fell to fall-like readings. Nearly an inch of rain in 10 minutes doused Sparta, Ill. and power lines were damaged during the storm. High winds also accompanied storms at Charlestown, Ind. and Blairsville, Ill.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 80; overnight low: 76; Sunday's high: 92; barometric pressure: 30.07; relative humidity: 87 percent; winds: southeast at 4 mph; rain: .02 inch; sunrise: 7:08 a.m., sunset 7:37 p.m.

Death Of Flight 007

Soviet Pilot May Have Fired Warning Shots After All

United Press International
European pilots, incensed over the destruction of a South Korean jetliner carrying 269 people, began a 60-day ban today on air travel to the Soviet Union. And the United States said a Russian jet may have fired warning shots before shooting down the plane.

The ban halting more than 40 flights a week is intended as more than just "a demonstration of our revulsion and outrage," said a spokesman for the airline pilots from nine European countries.

Terry Middleton of the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations in London also said he hoped it would lead to new rules to protect civilian planes from military attacks.

Pilots from Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland and the Netherlands joined in the suspension, which Middleton said spurred other protests including a 14-day ban on the Soviet national air carrier Aeroflot by a majority of NATO members.

In Japan, where searchers today found more human flesh and debris apparently from the airliner, Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe said Tokyo plans its own two-week suspension on Aeroflot flights into the country.

The European sanction took effect a day after the State Department said Soviet fighter pilots — as the Russian government insists — may have fired warning shots at the plane carrying 269 people, including 61 Americans.

In Washington, U.S. officials said they reached that conclusion after a closer study of intercepted radio messages from Soviet pilots who pursued the Korean Air Lines Jumbo Jet through Siberian airspace Sept. 1.

Three passages in a transcript of the tape played before the U.N. Security Council last week were revised, including one the State Department described as "previously unintelligible."

"I am firing cannon bursts," the Soviet pilot is now quoted as saying. The passage could buttress Moscow's contention its fighter pilots tried to warn the Boeing 747 to leave their airspace before two Soviet air-to-air missiles streaked into it over the northern Pacific.

The department said the revisions do not change the U.S. position that KAL Flight 007 was unaware of the Soviet jets that "consciously" shot it down in a nighttime attack.

In Moscow, a Soviet general declared it was "absolutely impossible" to tell the difference between the Boeing 747 and a U.S. RC-135 reconnaissance plane at night.

Col. Gen. Nikolai Moskvitelev, in the latest Soviet justification for downing the jetliner, told Russian television viewers Sunday that both planes "produce an analogous signal" on radar screens.

"The RC-135 reconnaissance plane and the passenger Boeing 747 are of one type — they have the same shape and geometrical design. They have the same air speed," the three-star general said on the militarily oriented show, I Serve the Soviet Union.

The Reagan administration admitted an RC-135 jet had flown near where the attack occurred, but said it was more than 1,000 miles away when the plane was demolished on a New York-to-Seoul flight.

In Japan today, authorities said searchers off the northernmost island of Hokkaido found more human flesh and aircraft wreckage believed to have come from KAL Flight 007.

Police searchers Sunday recovered the oil-soaked identification card of a Canadian passenger aboard the plane along with shoes, handbags, pieces of clothing and other debris.

Police said the identification card of Mary Jane Hendrie, 25, of Ottawa — the "first direct evidence" of a KAL passenger — was picked up on the shore of a small fishing town about 75 miles northwest of Abashiri, a Hokkaido port.

Searchers also retrieved the mangled body of a Caucasian woman believed to be among the victims. An unidentified child's torso was found Thursday.

Janitor, 18, Arrested In $4,800 McDonald's Heist

An 18-year-old janitor at a Forest City McDonald's restaurant has been arrested after he reportedly admitted he took approximately $4,800 from the restaurant's safe Sept. 4.

The man first told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that two armed men wearing orange ski masks had entered the restaurant, opened the safe and fled with the money.

But the employee, Gregory Harold Daniels, changed his story after he failed a polygraph test Friday, sheriff's investigator Jack Cash said.

Daniels first reported that two men in ski masks entered the restaurant on State Road 436 at 3:40 a.m. while he was cleaning up.

He said both men had revolvers and one of them threatened him with his gun. Daniels said one of the gunmen apparently knew the safe's combination and quickly opened the safe.

Daniels said the man ordered him to put the money in a white bag and then took him to the ladies' room and tied him to the toilet.

Cash said Daniels at first refused to take a lie detector test, then agreed to do so Friday.

After failing, Daniels told investigators that a man whom he had known for some time came to the restaurant on Sept. 4, threatened him and forced him to open the safe and give him the money inside, Cash said.

Daniels said the man, who was apparently not armed, gave him two grams of cocaine, Cash said.

Cash said Daniels opened the safe himself after learning the combination "covertly." Cash said the investigation is continuing and no additional arrests have been made.

Daniels, who lives at 7624 Forest City Road in the Lockhart area of Orlando, was arrested Friday, charged with grand theft and making a false report, and booked into the Seminole County jail.

He was released Saturday after paying $1,000 bail.

but dropped the clothing and left the store when a sales clerk approached her.

Two women entered the Vogue store, 1150 State St., and one of them placed several dresses, blouses and skirts, valued at $150, under her dress and attempted to leave the store.

When a sales clerk approached her, the woman dropped the clothes, shoved the clerk aside and fled.

The other woman also left the store and it is unknown if she took any merchandise with her, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

DUI ARRESTS

—Lorenzo Homer Wells, 49, of 148 Academy Ave., Sanford, was arrested Sept. 3 on 13th Street west of French Avenue when police saw his car crossing the center line.

DUI DISPOSITIONS

The following persons have been either convicted or pleaded guilty in Seminole County Court of driving under the influence. Most of them, as first time offenders, have had their drivers' licenses suspended for six months and have been ordered to pay a $250 fine, $10 to the Crimes Commission Trust Fund, to attend Counter Attack School and to perform 50 hours of community service. In cases where periods of license suspension or amounts of fines differ from these figures, the actual sentences are given:

—Randall N. Bowman, 613 Burke St., Altamonte Springs.

—Gerald J. Miller, 576 Clemson, Altamonte Springs.

—Gall Moore, Rt. 1, Sanford, was ordered to pay a $500 fine, to seek alcohol counseling, to spend 10 days in county jail and her driver's license was suspended for five years and she was placed under supervised probation for nine months.

—Michael P. Bundrick, Brooklyn, N.Y., was fined $1,000, his driver's license was revoked for 10 years and he was ordered to attend Advanced Counter Attack School.

—Timothy R. Chaney, 263 E. Holley Drive, Orange City, was ordered to pay a $500 fine, to spend two days in jail, to attend Advanced Counter Attack School and his driver's license was revoked for five years.

—Robert A. Crowley, 2905 Geoffrey Drive, Orlando.

—Franklin L. Haggard, 807 Ribbee Drive, Altamonte Springs.

—Michael W. Hopper, 1511 Oak Lane, Casselberry.

—Regina Ann Lathrom, 910 State Road 419, Casselberry.

—Glen Woodrorn Lenhart, Star Route 2, DeLand, was ordered to pay a $500 fine.

FBI: Crime Rate Down Sharply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New FBI statistics show overall crime in the United States reported to police in 1982 dropped 4 percent, with murder, robbery and rape all posting declines.

The report, released Sunday, said the number of violent crimes reported to police in the United States dropped 3 percent in 1982.

According to the report, murder declined by 7 percent, robbery was down 6 percent and forcible rape dropped 5 percent. Aggravated assault, the only index crime to increase in volume, was up 1 percent.

The FBI's annual uniform crime report, which counts the number of crimes reported to 15,000 law enforcement agencies, said most violent crimes were down from 1981.

Attorney General William French Smith said Sunday he was pleased the crime statistics showed a decline, but noted they were 47 percent higher than in 1972.

"We are glad we won a battle but we are still in a war," he said.

In property crimes, burglary decreased 9 percent, motor vehicle theft dropped 2 percent and larceny-theft declined 1 percent.

The last significant decline occurred in 1977 when the crime rate dropped 4 percent and the number of crimes dropped 3 percent from 1976, according to the bureau.

The FBI said that overall serious crimes dropped 3 percent from 1981 when there were 13.3 million crimes reported.

In a report issued last Sunday, the department found the number of Americans victimized by crime fell 4.1 percent in 1982, the largest drop since the National Crime Survey started 10 years ago. The survey showed there were 39.8 million incidents of crime against people, down from 41.5 million in 1981.

Although the administration has launched a federal campaign against violent crime, particularly drug-related, the overwhelming number of serious crimes counted by police are local rather than federal violations, the latest report said.

James Fyfe, a criminal justice professor at American University, said the drop in the number of crimes likely was due to the aging baby boom generation, which is committing fewer crimes as they grow older.

"You have to remember you are talking about reported crime," Fyfe noted. "An awful lot of crime is not reported particularly in the areas most affected by crime — like the ghetto where people have given up."

The FBI's crime report has come under increasing criticism in recent years because it relies on statistics reported to local police. Some critics believe that many crimes are never reported.

The 1982 FBI report said the number of serious crimes was an estimated 12.9 million, the lowest number since 1979 when 12.2 million crime index offenses were reported.

Geographically, the crime index showed declines of 6 percent in the Northeastern states; 5 percent in the North Central states, and 3 percent in the Western states. The Southern states registered virtually no change in their totals for the last two years.

In other findings, the FBI said:

—There were 12.1 million arrests in 1982 for all offenses except traffic violations. The number of arrests was 2 percent higher than in 1981.

—Burglary victims suffered losses estimated a $3 billion. Seventy-seven percent of those arrested for burglary were under the age of 25.

2,000 More Marines Arrive In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Three warships carrying 2,000 Marines arrived off the Lebanese coast today to reinforce the U.S. contingent of the multinational peace-keeping force amid mounting pressure on Lebanese troops retreating Beirut from a Druze Moslem onslaught.

The U.S. Marine commander in Beirut, Col. Timothy Geraghty, said there were no plans to bring the 2,000 Marines ashore but said they were dispatched to reinforce 1,200 Americans already in Lebanon.

The Lebanese government of President Amin Gemayel refused to compromise on Syrian and opposition demands to end the week-old civil war despite what officials today said was an all-out thrust to break the Lebanese army.

Backed by long-range Syrian artillery and Palestinian and pro-Iranian forces on the ground, the Druze stepped up the pressure on army positions around the capital today — including forward lines jointly held with the U.S. Marines.

Leader's Sister Kidnapped

United Press International

Presumed leftist rebels kidnapped the sister of Guatemala's new military leader and the army said he would not negotiate with her abductors. Rebel commander Eden Pastora threatened more air attacks by his guerrilla group on Nicaragua.

A Guatemalan army communique said four armed men seized Celeste Aida Mejia de Velasco, the sister of chief of state Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores, Saturday as she left the Social Security General Hospital in southern Guatemala City where she has worked for 14 years.

The government placed security forces on alert Sunday to search for Mrs. Velasco, 54, who is the second sister of a Guatemalan leader to be kidnapped in three months.

On June 29, the Rebel Armed Forces abducted the sister of President Efraim Rios Montt, who was ousted by Mejia in a military coup Aug. 8.

Israeli Soldiers Ambushed

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Gunmen hurling grenades and firing automatic weapons today wounded three Israeli soldiers in the first ambush on Israeli troops in southern Lebanon since the army was redeployed there eight days ago, the military command said.

The attack followed a warning by Defense Minister Moshe Arens who said the army "would not hesitate" to cross its new line along the Awall River to attack Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas, "when and if the need arises." Armed Forces Radio said Sunday Arens made the remarks to the Israeli Cabinet.

The command said Israeli troops were searching for the guerrillas today following the ambush on military vehicles near a former PLO stronghold 4 miles northwest of Nabatieh, which is south of the redeployment line.

Angry Crime Victims Are Out For Revenge

MIAMI (UPI) — Angry victims, tired of being terrorized by a teenage gang, have launched a revenge campaign that has the young gang members begging police for protection.

Members of the 22nd Avenue Players have complained to Metro-Dade County police that they have been pursued, shot at and threatened. Police believe the gang's victims are responsible.

"It's the first incident so far where they've been hit back," said Metro-Dade Detective Juan Sanchez.

The episode began, Sanchez said, when some Players "jumped a kid" at a skating rink Sept. 4. The next morning, gunfire riddled the home of a 17-year-old boy who police identified as a Players member.

That afternoon, one of the Players rode his motorcycle to the same house and was chased by youngsters with a gun. The youth ran into the house. A few minutes later, two cars drove past the house and the occupants opened fire again.

One youngster was wounded in the gunfire, police said. Colin Ford, 15, who was visiting the house but was not a gang member, was shot in the buttocks.

$48,000 on the open market, according to McClanahan. The building sites have already been purchased with $120,000 in development funds borrowed from other accounts.

Construction sites had to meet the FmHA criteria that requires them to be in unincorporated areas of small towns.

The houses will have to pass FmHA inspection as well as county inspection.

Similar programs in Orange and Seminole counties have been quite successful, McClanahan said. When these funds run out, he said Self-Reliant Housing, incorporated two years ago, plans to apply for another grant to build an additional 30-40 homes.

Serving on the board of directors of Self-Reliant Housing, Inc. are Dr. David Dees of Oviedo, University of Central Florida professor, president; Harry Terry, newly elected Lake Mary commissioner, vice president; Treena Kaye, managing attorney for Central Florida Legal Services, Inc.; secretary; E.P. Bruce of Oviedo, treasurer; Rev. James Browdy, Oviedo; Al Buehler, Altamonte Springs building contractor; and Freddie Moore, Oviedo.

U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum R-Altamonte Springs, worked for nearly six months to assist Self-Reliant officials in obtaining the grant, before it was finally approved on May 31. It will extend over a two-year period.

Cancer-Causing Pesticide To Be Banned

ORLANDO (UPI) — The federal government has decided to ban the controversial pesticide EDB, which has seeped into water supplies across the nation since it was first recognized as a cancer-causing agent a decade ago.

The chemical has been banned in Florida since July 29, when it was discovered in drinking-water wells near citrus fields in the central part of the state.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is expected to halt the use of ethylene dibromide, or EDB, sometime this month.

The EPA first began to consider the ban in 1977, three years after the National Cancer Institute warned it was a potent carcinogen.

The delay has prompted Congress to schedule a hearing for September 25 to examine the EPA's handling of the issue. Many legislators and national environmental leaders say they want to know why the EPA has taken so long to ban the chemical.

"We'll still be interested in knowing why it's taken them almost six years to arrive at a decision," said Don Gray, staff member of the House Government Operations subcommittee on environment, energy and natural resources.

"What has happened that finally triggered the decision to ban now? It appears to be showing up in increased frequency."

The expected ban will prevent future use of the chemical. But it cannot stop the pesticide and gasoline additive from invading the nation's underground drinking-water supplies.

Contamination has been well documented in numerous states, especially Florida, where some municipal drinking-water supplies have been polluted. EDB has also been found in California, Georgia and Hawaii, the only other states where water has been tested for it.

The federal government launched a nationwide search for the chemical in a variety of foods when evidence was uncovered showing that some foods were tainted with the chemical.

EDB is produced by four chemical companies for use in 122 products around the nation.

Twenty million pounds of EDB are used each year to kill rootworms in soil and pests on harvested fruits and vegetables and grain-processing equipment.

Another 330 million pounds is added each year to leaded gasoline to absorb a chemical that can damage car engines. The chemical is also used to treat buildings infested with termites and insects.

EDB's most concentrated use has been in "buffer zones" along citrus groves where huge doses are sprayed to stop the spread of microscopic worms known as nematodes that destroy tree roots.

Florida officials stopped the use of the chemical July 29 after it was discovered that five drinking-water wells in Orange and Lake counties were contaminated.

Since that ban, dozens of other wells, including the drinking-water supplies of the Panhandle town of Malone and Desoto City, north of Lake Okeechobee, were found polluted.

EPA officials say they have found high levels of the chemical in papayas, mangoes, milk, meat, flours and baked goods made from contaminated flour.

This month, the EPA will collect food samples from grocery stores from Florida to Washington state and will test them for EDB contamination.

No one knows how much EDB in the daily diet can be considered safe.

Authorities have discovered that the chemical does not disappear or break down into less-potent chemicals as originally thought.

Too Many Liberals Could Spoil Chances Of Winning Presidency

By Arnold Sawlsak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the expected entry of George McGovern into the contest for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, the liberal cup may runneth over.

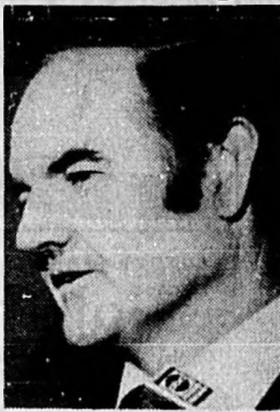

The former South Dakota senator and 1972 Democratic presidential candidate has scheduled "a major announcement" at George Washington University Tuesday, an aide said last week.

He declined to disclose what McGovern plans to say, but if it turns out to be other than a presidential announcement, political Washington will be truly taken by surprise.

McGovern, who took the second worst trouncing in presidential election history 11 years ago and lost his Senate seat when he was targeted by the New Right in 1980, would not be listed as a favorite in 1984.

But his entry could complicate the already tangled situation in the six-man race, which includes three candidates usually listed as Democratic liberals.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale and Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Gary Hart of Colorado have been in the contest since early in the year and many Democrats feel their competition has diffused the chance of a liberal winning the nomination next year.

George McGovern ...expected to join presidential race Tuesday as late entry

A McGovern candidacy probably would heighten that perception.

Mondale, who is closest to organized labor and has more national party contacts than Cranston or Hart, is regarded as the front runner for the nomination.

Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, labeled as the centrist Democratic entry, is seen as running second to Mondale, with two conservatives, Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina and former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida listed as relative conservatives whose appeal is primarily regional.

Earlier this year, Cranston pulled off a major upset by winning a straw poll at the Wisconsin Democratic convention.

Mondale was the favorite in that test and the Californian's surprise victory was interpreted as a setback for the former vice president. As conventional wisdom has it, any gains by either Cranston or Hart — who was McGovern's campaign manager in 1972 — can come only at the expense of Mondale and only help Glenn.

McGovern told an interviewer last week he will try to establish himself as a credible candidate in the early Iowa caucuses and New Hampshire primary.

Those states also are being targeted by Mondale, Cranston and Hart, which could mean that one or more of the liberal campaigns could be mortally wounded by the outcome in those two states.

McGovern's participation would seem likely to make that possibility stronger.

A Bit Of History To Be Enshrined In New School

A piece of history was removed Sunday from T.W. Lawton Elementary School in Oviedo as workmen began preparations for razing the school's main building.

And though the structure will be destroyed, the history will be preserved in a new building which will be constructed on the same site.

More than 300 people from the Oviedo area were in attendance when the cornerstone of the old school was removed.

Inside, Lawton Principal Michael Mizwicki found five Liberty pennies, lists of the faculty and students at the school, letters of congratulations from the Masons and a letter from School Superintendent T.W. Lawton, for whom the school was named.

Built in 1922, the school then served as Oviedo High School and had a graduating class of eight students that first year.

Over the years, additions were built on all four sides of the old building. Eventually, the school was replaced as a high school when a new Oviedo High School was built several miles down the road in the 1960s. At that point, the school was converted into an elementary school.

The old building was considered inadequate, even as a grade school. Its 20-foot high ceilings and narrow halls and stairways did not meet new specifications for school buildings.

But efforts to replace the building were opposed by many Oviedo residents. They were unhappy that the school, long a part of local history, was being razed. This year, however, school board members voted to tear down the old building down and replace it with a new one.

Demolition of the old building will begin Tuesday, Mizwicki said. A fence is to be erected around the building which will be disassembled by hand.

By the 1984-85 school year, the new building is scheduled to be finished. — Michael Beha

Pyramids Synthetic?

MIAMI (UPI) — A French industrial chemist says he has figured out how the ancient Egyptians built the Great Pyramids of Giza with only primitive tools — they poured their own synthetic stones one on top of another.

"We have now studied the stones from a chemical and a microscopic point of view and we have proof they are synthetic," Dr. Joseph Davidovits told the Miami Herald Sunday.

He said a strand of hair gave him the clue to the puzzle that has baffled scholars for nearly 5,000 years.

Archeologists have long wondered how a society without sophisticated machinery hauled millions of blocks of stone from pits that were miles away and then stacked them up to 40 stories high.

Some have theorized that brute strength or pulleys were the key. Others have even credited extra-terrestrial creatures with the feat.

Davidovits said his tests on five small casing stones from the largest of the Great Pyramids showed they were composed of a limestone fossil-shell concrete. He said the substance was bound together so well that it almost could not be distinguished from natural stone.

He says his theory is proved by a

2 1/2-centimeter-long strand of human hair found encased in one of the stones. The hair probably fell into the mixture when the pyramid was being poured, he said.

Computer War Chaos

In the film, "War Games," a teenage boy nearly starts World War III by using his electronic skills to invade the computer of the North American Air Defense Command. Department of Defense officials insist that NORAD's security precautions make such a scenario impossible.

Nevertheless, "War Games" is an example of art imitating life.

Numerous computer enthusiasts, known as "hackers," spend hours in patient attempts to gain access to computer systems throughout the nation. By trial and error, they often succeed. Now, the widely publicized electronic escapades of a group of teenage hackers in Milwaukee have focused long overdue public attention on the growing problem of computer crime.

The Milwaukee youths appear to have been motivated by nothing more than computer curiosity. But the ease in which they gained access to more than 60 computer systems, including those of the Los Alamos National Laboratory and Security Pacific National Bank, provides a dramatic illustration of most systems' vulnerability.

Experts say that anyone with a basic knowledge of computers can duplicate the Milwaukee group's feats. The only devices needed are a home computer and a modem, a relatively inexpensive piece of equipment used to link computers via telephone lines.

Criminal "hackers" already have infiltrated business computer systems. Money and valuable information have been stolen by electronic theft. And theft is not the only problem. A company's operations may be disrupted by implanting harmful instructions in its computer or deleting stored information.

The extent of such crime is unknown. Law enforcement authorities say many firms fail to report computer crime for fear of adverse publicity. But the vast amount of money at stake is shown by one case in which a computer criminal moved $10.2 million from a bank in Los Angeles to a Swiss bank account.

Private computers' lack of security is an invitation to crime. And many government systems share their vulnerability. National security computer systems are said to be secure. We hope so. But other government systems have proved easy to enter. In Madison, Wis., two newspaper reporters provided a graphic demonstration. Using a home computer and a telephone, they gained access to confidential income tax information stored in the state government data bank.

As computer use expands, electronic crime undoubtedly will increase. Within two years, nearly 9 million desk-top computers are expected to be able to access the nation's information systems. Swift action, therefore, is needed to deter computer crime.

Some government agencies and private firms already have made unauthorized computer use more difficult. The experts, however, say too many companies and agencies remain lax. Considering the simple steps that can be taken to increase security, there is no excuse for ignoring the problem.

Computers, for example, can be programmed to reject access attempts after two erroneous passwords are entered. More sophisticated and expensive measures include scrambling data that would have to be decoded to be understood.

New legislation also is required. Less than half the states now have laws dealing with computer crime.

In California, it is a felony to intentionally enter a system to commit fraud, or alter and destroy information.

On the federal level, laws are needed to punish interstate computer crimes. Congress should pass the computer Security Act introduced by Rep. Bill Nelson of Florida and Sen. Paul S. Trible Jr. of Virginia. It would outlaw robbery and abuse of federal government computers and private computers used in interstate commerce.

The technological marvels of the computer have opened new vistas for storing, retrieving, and exchanging vast amounts of information. But the computer age also has afforded new opportunities for white-collar criminals. Effective technological security and modern legislation are urgently needed to combat electronic crime.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Before we get into this program to eliminate sexually discriminatory laws, how about makin' me a cup of coffee."

The August issue of First Monday, the Republican news magazine, tells the story of how absentee ballot votes have proved crucial to GOP wins in recent years.

Political organizers are beginning to take absentee votes seriously, the magazine reports, noting the following:

● In 1982, Republican gubernatorial candidate, George Deukmejian of California had 19,000 fewer votes than Democrat Tom Bradley until the absentee votes were counted.

● In Rhode Island last year, the winner of the Senate race, Sen. John Chafee, was ahead by only 9,000 votes, at the close of the polling and there were still 15,000 absentees to count. "Those votes made the difference."

● Republican Gov. James R. Thompson of Illinois won his seat by 5,074 votes out of 3.5 million cast, when the absentees were talled.

● In 1980, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., was thought to have lost his reelection until he won by 7,800 absentee votes.

● In 1984, Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., general chairman of the Republican National Committee, lost to then-incumbent Howard Cannon by 84 votes.

"An increase of one vote per precinct, or absentee votes from Nevadans living aboard at that time, would have given Laxalt the seat," according to First Monday.

● Florida Sen. Paula Hawkins won by some 88,000 votes — more than 86,000 Floridians live overseas.

● North Carolina Sen. John East won by 7,004 votes. There are 52,000 North Carolina residents living abroad.

The magazine says that heavy absentee voting favors incumbents, candidates with strong ties to senior citizens, Republican candidates and candidates with strong ties to students — all constituencies Republicans are already targeting.

The article points out that 5 million to 6 million American voters live overseas. "Prompt handling of absentee requests is essential to ensure the voting rights of those 5 million to 6 million persons — military personnel and their dependents and citizens residing overseas," First Monday quotes Henry Valentino, director of the Defense Department's federal voting assistance program as saying.

And Lois Shepard, chairman of the Republicans Abroad International is quoted as saying, "Many fail to vote when the obstacles to getting the ballot application are great. Tough technical requirements, such as mandatory use of a notary, keep many overseas Americans from voting."

WASHINGTON WORLD When You're A Loser...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Rep. Morris Udall was considering running for president again earlier this year, an old friend and former aide wrote the Arizona Democrat a memo in the form of a poem urging him to forget it.

The rhyme scheme and meter wasn't all that much, but the advice was heartfelt. He told Udall that he believed no one would make a better president, but implored him to pass up the temptation run again.

There is no indication whether the poem was decisive in Udall's decision not to run, but the former aide and a lot of others who knew and liked the gangling congressman were happy he made it. They simply didn't want to see Udall become a latter day Harold Stassen.

Even though some who have lost presidential races have made successful comebacks (Grover Cleveland and Richard Nixon, for two), in general anyone who has his shot at the presidency and doesn't accept the negative verdict of the electorate risks being regarded as an egomaniac, a fanatic or an idiot, if not all three.

Making a strong first race, as Udall did in 1976, may confer the benefit of the doubt for a second attempt. But someone who is soundly thrashed the first time out is expected to accept "the will of the people," as did Barry Goldwater after 1964.

That does not mean Goldwater's example has become the norm in politics. Perhaps more typical is the post-defeat behavior of a John Anderson, who lost in 1980 as a candidate for the Republican nomination and the presidential race as an independent. Anderson, and other politicians before him, obviously choose to see past defeats as starting points rather than finish lines.

Such positive thinking, within reason, is regarded as commendable. At some point, however, it transcends optimism and enters a realm that most people would associate with fantasy.

All of which leads to the subject of George McGovern.

The former South Dakota senator and 1972 Democratic candidate intends to run again in 1984 but told an interviewer recently that the most compelling argument against the decision is the risk of ridicule. "The fear of just looking like a Don Quixote."

That should be no surprise inasmuch as McGovern is one of only two presidential candidates who ever got beaten worse than Goldwater. But his comments in the interview illustrate how a politician, even one as thoughtful as McGovern, can explain away rejection.

Nixon's disgrace may make McGovern feel vindicated, but it takes an Olympic-class leap of logic to translate that into a belief that the voters are panting for another chance to send him to the White House. And, in justice to McGovern's sense of reality, he did tell Reid, "I'm going into it in the hope that lightning will strike."

Bread For Egypt's Hungry: Where?

WASHINGTON — Millions of impoverished Egyptians will go hungry this year for lack of bread — thanks to the higgledy-piggledy operations of the Agency for International Development.

During the past four years, AID has funneled more than $16 million into the construction of automated bakeries that were supposed to provide Egypt's needy with cheap bread. Yet not one such bakery has been completed. Worse still, internal AID documents suggest none may ever be finished.

The story is documented by AID's inspector general in an audit report appropriately titled "AID-Financed Egyptian Bakeries: Will They Ever Make Bread?"

The American people, who put up the misspent $16 million, don't begrudge bread for hungry Egyptians. But they never meant their bounty to be squandered. Here's the depressing story:

In 1977, the Egyptian masses rioted when their government raised the price of bread from one cent to two cents. The government felt compelled to stabilize the production of bread and appealed to the AID mission for help in constructing automated bakeries. To evade congressional oversight, the bureaucrats at AID funded the project through the Commodity Import Program. That, says the inspector general, was their first mistake.

Because the bakery construction was classified as a "commodity," it was accorded the same attention, say, as imports of fertilizer or tractor tires. The construction plans got little scrutiny.

Here are other flagrant faults documented in the report and double-checked by my associate Lucette Lagnado who was raised in Egypt and understands Egyptian practices:

— An $18.1 million contract was awarded to the American Export Group, a Washington-based firm that unfortunately "had no experience in automated bakeries," the report charges.

— The contract approved by AID was so "poorly written, vague, ambiguous and contradictory," according to the report, that the contractor and the Egyptians have been arguing from the start over who is responsible for carrying out the various clauses.

— The Egyptian government "was understandably concerned about the supplier's technical capabilities and wasted much 'project' time attempting to secure iron-clad guarantees for performance," the report states. The relationship between the supplier and Egypt is described as "awkward and acrimonious."

— One audit report states that American Export Group invested an advance payment of $1.8 million in an interest-bearing account.

— The report alleges that AID was told in 1980 by Egyptian officials that several bakery sites "have been readied" and utility lines installed. But upon checking, officials found "there were no complete buildings ... no utility services ... and at some sites the ground had not even been graded."

— A contract provision allows the contractor to substitute certain bakery equipment that AID officials fear may be inferior or inadequate.

— The audit report places much of the blame for mishandling the project on the AID mission in Egypt, charging it did little planning, took three years to establish a monitoring task force and consistently overstated progress.

The mission has reported unhappily to Washington that "none of the bakeries will be operating this calendar year ... and that no more than five will be in operation by September 1984."

But AID officials in Washington are not holding their breaths. As one official confided in an interoffice memo, "I personally have serious reservations that these bakeries will ever be installed, become operational and accomplish the original objective."

Another official added this ominous note: "We are especially worried about the Agency's fiscal exposure should (the contractor) default through bankruptcy or some other reason."

The American Export Group denies it is going bankrupt and vehemently disputes the findings of the inspector general's audit, blaming the Egyptian government and AID for the project's problems.

The financial commitments, meanwhile, have risen from the original $18.1 million to $24.5 million. Costly though this is becoming to the taxpayers in this country, it's the hungry Egyptians who will suffer the most from AID's incompetence.

On May 7, 1915, without warning the liner Lusitania was sunk off the coast of Ireland by a German submarine. The Lusitania was unarmed and under British registry. In the disaster 1,198 passengers lost their lives, among them 128 Americans.

It was not the sinking of the Lusitania alone that hardened American public opinion against Imperial Germany, but the sinking coming as the culmination of a series of events dating from the ruthless crushing of Belgium in 1914, the sinking as summing up and crystallizing what a growing number of people perceived as the nature of the regime in Berlin: arrogant, lawless, the malded fist.

One cannot help but remember the Lusitania, and that hardening of opinion, in the wake of the Soviet destruction of the Korean Airlines 747 jet airliner along with its 269 civilians.

Is it possible that anyone, anywhere in the free world, can today regard this act as not revealing, yet once more, the nature of the regime in Moscow? Will this deed, like the sinking of the Lusitania, not crystallize an awareness of what we are dealing with?

Maybe not. One outrage after another impinges upon the public consciousness, only to fade into the forgotten, the discounted, the far-away.

But the people who gave the order to destroy that airliner and its civilian travelers are the same people who tried to kill Pope John Paul II, who are using poison gas in Afghanistan, who built the Gulag and the infamous "mental hospitals," and who put up the Berlin Wall.

In contrast to the sinking of the Lusitania, modern technology permits us to experience the "dastardly act," to use a phrase of FDR's, with chilling immediacy. Electronic monitoring by the U.S. National Security Agency establishes that at 2:26 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, the following dialogue took place between the Soviet command on the ground and the MIG jet Soviet commander: Ground to air, ground to air...do you have target sighted?

Pilot: Sighted.
Soviet commander: Take aim at the target.

Pilot: Aim taken.
Soviet commander: Fire.
Pilot: Fired.

EDWARD J. WALSH Reagan's Regulation Position

(Editor's Note: Edward J. Walsh is a staff writer for the USBIC Writer's Group. His column is published in a variety of newspapers throughout the United States.)

One of President Reagan's first official acts, if not his very first, was to issue an Executive Order establishing his Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Reform, to be headed by Vice President George Bush. The order was signed January 21, 1981. Mr. Reagan's first full day in office.

The Task Force included the administration's most important officials on economic policy: the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, the Secretaries of Treasury, Labor, and Commerce, the director of the Office of Management and Budget, and the Attorney General. The first executive director was James C. Miller, III, a prominent conservative economist.

Almost immediately, Mr. Reagan ended the federal controls on the price of domestically-produced crude oil, and abolished the Council on Wage and Price Stability and its wage standards program, a Carter-era bureaucracy that tried and failed to control inflation by controlling business. Within a month, the President ordered that all federal regulatory agencies observe the principle that regulations should be issued only when the benefits clearly outweigh the costs of regulation.

In mid-August, the Regulatory Task Force went out of business. The administration says that its work is done. As it closed up shop, the Task Force announced that the reductions in regulation it accomplished will save business and consumers $150 billion over the next 10 years.

The Task Force achieved some important goals. It killed a requirement that air bags be installed in new cars, which, if enacted would have added $800 to the cost of making every new auto. A silly rule dictating that employers contribute "walking around" money to Occupational Health and Safety inspectors was tabled.

In another move to ease the regulatory burden on the auto industry, the Task Force announced that 34 safety and environmental regulations would be eliminated or rewritten. The change was estimated to save $9.3 billion over five years, or $150 per vehicle produced.

The Task Force calculated that consumers will gain $42 billion in increased income due to removal of the interest rate ceiling on bank deposits. The administration also guessed that its regulatory reforms cut 300 million man-hours of government paperwork annually.

These guesses, of course, constitute bureaucratic self-promotion of a different kind. They are difficult, or impossible, to verify. But the Reagan administration's general direction on regulation is the right one, judging from the protests of Carter vintage regulators, who are terrified that U.S. industry may now be able to reduce regulatory compliance costs.

Fatigue, Adjustments Beat Seminoles, Not Complacency

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Can a team which has lost its last 11 games become complacent with a mere 6-0 lead?

Of course not, you cry. A team which has lost 11 games in a row would not take anything for granted, much less a scant touchdown lead over one of the top 3A powerhouses in the state.

Yet, if you witnessed the Seminole-Titusville Astronaut game Friday night, it appeared after building a 6-0 lead and dominating the first half, the 'Noles came but in a daze for the final 24 minutes.

Which is something you might be able to do against the Osteen Girls School or the Tampa Bay Bucs, but not the War Eagles of Jay Donnelly who have made a habit of taking care of the Seminoles on the second Friday of September for the past few years.

Losing to Astronaut, though, is no disgrace. And, there's no reason to get on the panic button. While it was apparent that Astronaut ran through the 'Noles with relative ease during the second half, maybe too much blame is being given to the Tribe defense and not enough credit to Donnelly, one of the top coaches in the state.

He confided after the game that he doesn't have his scout team run the Seminole offense because the second-teamers have trouble figuring out the Delaware Wing-T. "Those splits are so wide that it takes a very skilled blocker to handle it," said Donnelly. "We couldn't do it in practice. We just let the kids see it in the game, then make adjustments."

Astronaut made the adjustments, all right, shutting down the Tribe running game to 30 yards in the second stanza after Tim Lawrence, Cliff Campbell and Dexter Jones had rolled up 124 in the first half.

Although the offense was stymied, it seemed feasible that Seminole could keep the War Eagles out of the end zone if it continued to control quarterback Ethan Waldron. Nose guard Bryan Debose, who played the position with the saavy of 1981 standout Antonio Davis in half one, practically owned Waldron. He sacked him twice and befuddled him into several other mistakes.

Debose, just 5-6 and 166 pounds, is the new breed of prep nose guard which relies on outstanding quickness and good strength to get his job done. "He's just too quick for some of those bigger linemen to block," points out coach Jerry Posey.

At least he was the first half. Debose may have been one of those players defensive coordinator Dave Mosure was talking about when he said, "I think some different kids got into our uniforms in the second half." Anyway, Debose didn't make himself at home in the Astronaut backfield the second half and Waldron had room to operate.

And operate he did. Bogle Sathan killed the 'Noles on football's oldest play — the dive. It's a quick hitter over tackle and Sathan had the speed to slip through the line and beat the Seminole linebackers.

Linebackers are supposed to set up with their hands and arms away from their body, so as not to necessitate an extra movement. They should look like a weightlifter without a barbell. The Tribe's group of William Wynn, Ed Rinkavage and Mike Debose did this in the first half, but on occasion in the final half they were caught with hands on knees, which will cost you a second or two — enough time for the "Bogle Man" to get by you as he did in the third quarter.

The reason for the slip is, of course, fatigue. The players are tired and subconsciously drop their hands and arms. "I definitely thought we were in better condition," observed Donnelly. "It showed in the second half."

Conditioning and Astronaut adjustments are probably what did in the Seminoles Friday night. It would be hard

When you are in the throes of a 12-game losing streak, sometimes even the good Lord can't help as Seminole cheerleader Dana Ray found out Friday. Despite Dana's prayer, Sanford's Fighting Seminoles lost to Titusville Astronaut, 14-6. Seminole tries again Friday at home against Southwest Miami.

McBroom Finally Overhauls Cheeseman

Lake Mary's Kingsbury Beats Heat; Lake Howell Girls Sweep Competition

By Chris Plaster
Herald Sports Writer

Conditioning is of the utmost importance to prep cross country runners. Especially when the temperatures are up in the 90s. On a sweltering Saturday morning, the heat took its toll on numerous runners in the Lyman Greyhound Opener at Seminole Community College.

But, it was the athletes who had practiced longer that prevailed ahead of those who just started a week or so before the opener. Those who started practicing in mid August and ran in the Seminole Summertime Jamboree were in better condition and thus had better times.

The best examples were Lyman's Doug McBroom and Lake Mary's Sue Kingsbury. McBroom, a senior, finally overhauled his two-year nemesis Cheeseman by five seconds to win the boys three mile. It was the first time McBroom has ever beaten Cheeseman, who won the 4A state mile last spring.

"Doug had it in his mind to beat him (Cheeseman) before the race," said Lyman coach David Huggins. "He didn't want second or third. It was just one of those days where Doug handled the heat better than Kenny."

McBroom laid back most of the race while Cheeseman and Oak Ridge's George Gardner battled for the lead. At the two and one-half mile mark, McBroom made his move and overtook Cheeseman down the stretch to win in 15:49. Cheeseman was second in 15:54.

Kingsbury, meanwhile, an outstanding freshman for the Rams, had been running since Aug. 15 in preparation for the '83 season. She looked good in the jamboree as she finished eighth at 13:04.7. On Saturday, while numerous runners were cramping up and feeling the effects of the heat, Kingsbury finished second, behind West Orange's Louise Schwelzer, in the girls two-mile with a new school record of 12:13. The old mark was set by Kim Averill at 12:17.9, when she was a freshman. Averill is not running this season.

"She (Kingsbury) said the humidity was worse at the jamboree," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "Her time really surprised me, because we had a disastrous week of practice."

The sizzling temperatures all week long cause the Rams to cut practice short many times. On Tuesday, with the temperature over 100 degrees, Lake Mary scheduled a road race (four miles for boys and three miles for girls). Because of the heat, the race was cut short as the boys were stopped after three miles and the girls after two. However, Kingsbury kept on going and completed the three miles in just over 21 minutes (seven minutes per mile). That kind of dedication indicates that Kingsbury will probably be around the top in most races this season.

"If she runs anything like that (Saturday's time) at Trinity Prep, she'll break the 11 minute barrier," Gibson said. Lake Mary will be at Trinity Prep this Thursday for the Edgewater Invitational.

While Kingsbury was impressive in her first varsity race, Lake Howell's young runners stole the show in leading the Lady Silver Hawks to the Greyhound Opener title. Lake Howell was first with 76 points followed by Daytona Beach Father Lopez and Bishop Moore with 81. Lake Brantley was fourth with 110 while Lake Mary was seventh with 173 and Seminole was ninth with 271.

A trio of freshman, Lisa Samocki and Mary and Martha Fonseca led the way for the Lady Hawks as all three finished in the top 15. Samocki turned in a fine performance as she finished 10th at 13:10. Martha Fonseca was 12th at 13:17 and Mary Fonseca was 14th at 13:23. Sophomore Angie Smith was next for the Hawks with a 19th place finish at 13:33.

"It was a good team effort. I was surprised," said Lake Howell girls coach Tom Hammon. "Not that we couldn't do it, but that we're so young. Still, I think Lake Brantley is going to be there (later in the season) and you can't count out Lake Mary either and Colonial."

Conditioning was a plus for the Hawks also as all four of its top finishers ran in the jamboree. Meanwhile, Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots, ranked fourth in the state, settled for a fourth place finish in Saturday's meet. Kathryn Hayward was the Lady Patriots top finisher as her time of 12:66 was good for fourth place. Brantley's Barbara Holmes finished 17th at 13:29.

Cross Country

Behind Kingsbury, the best finisher for Lake Mary was freshman Tracy Blakely who came in 31st at 14:07.6. Blakely shaved more than a minute off her time of 15:23 at the jamboree. Junior Fran Gordon was 42nd at 14:40.6, her previous best was 14:47.

"All three of our top girls Saturday have been practicing since Aug. 15," Gibson said. "Most of our returning people didn't practice much at all. By the time the veterans get in shape we will have a good top six or seven runners."

Three of the top four off last year's team, Liz Stone, Andrea Beardslee and Shannon Weger, had only practiced for a week and a half before the Greyhound Opener. Stone, who's best time is 13:01, finished 48th at 15:07.2 while Beardslee was 51st at 15:52.6. Weger, who has only been practicing a week, did not run Saturday.

Cindy Gaskell's 15th place finish in 13:26 topped the Lyman girls. Julie Greenberg took second in the junior varsity race while Vaun Tschieder ran 13th in 15:25. Lake Howell's JVs edged Bishop Moore and Father Lopez, 51-49, to sweep the competition for the day.

Orlando Oak Ridge came away with the boys title Saturday, edging host Lyman, 57 to 69. Oak Ridge came in ranked eighth in the state while the Greyhounds were ranked third. Lake Mary turned in a fourth place finish while Seminole came in fifth. Lyman was hampered by a thigh injury to number two runner Brian Hunter.

The next highest Seminole County finisher was Oviedo's Marty Phillips who was seventh at 16:40. Lake Mary's Derek Tangeman was affected by the heat and, after cramping up, finished eighth at 16:43. The Rams' Mark Blythe was right behind Tangeman with a time of 16:44, good for ninth place.

"It was a real good meet for us," Lake Mary boys coach Mark McGee said. "They only teams that beat us (Oak Ridge, Lyman, Bishop Moore) are ranked in the top 10 in the state. We have a tough road ahead of us because there are a lot of good teams in our region. But, if we continue to improve, we will be in good shape."

Behind Tangeman and Blythe, freshman Dominic Rundle did well in his varsity debut with a time of 17:38, good for 21st place. The next highest finishers for the Rams were bunched together with Matt Palumbo in 31st place at 18:18, Ken Rohr in 33rd at 18:21, Jonh Amrhein in 34th at 18:22 and Brian LaVigne in 41st at 18:51.

"We ran well for the first meet," McGee said. "Our guys did exactly what they are supposed to do, they ran in a pack."

Seminole's Billy Penick turned in a fine performance with a 10th place finish and a time of 16:45.

Penick's run shattered the old sophomore record which was held by Steve Grey. The Seminole sophomore's 16:45 easily erased Grey's mark of 18:08 set in the Seminole County Junior Varsity Meet at Lyman. Kent Troutman (19th, 17:36), Kelly Faint (26th, 17:55), Larry Cosby (37th, 18:35), Kelvin Abney (45th, 19:14) and Ray Hardy (53rd, 19:55) were next for Ted Tombros' boys.

For the Tribe girls, Debbie Coleman (34th, 14:13), Glenda Bass (53rd, 15:59) and Katrina Walker (56th, 15:59) turned in strong efforts.

Other top finishers for Lyman included Marc Overbay (13th at 16:58), Brian Hunter (14th at 17:08) and Carl Schmalmaack (17th at 17:30).

In the boys junior varsity, Lyman finished first with 40 points, Lake Howell was second with 96 and Lake Mary was fourth with 108. The Rams' top JV finisher was Eric Hissam who was eighth at 19:24 followed by Chris Dapore in 16th at 20:43. Lyman's Wade Jacobsen was third and the Greyhounds' Rick Martin was fifth.

Trinity Prep's Adrienne Pollitowicz turned in Seminole County's best time of the week as she cruised to first place in the Luther Invitational Saturday at Trinity Prep with a time of 12:06. The Lady Saints' standout junior helped Trinity to a third place finish in the meet. The Trinity Prep boys team also finished third.

Thyhsen Strikes Again, Knights Win

College Football

STATESBORO, Ga. — For those of you who thought Dana Thyhsen's three-touchdown effort against Elizabeth City (N.C.) State University may have been a fluke, the 6-3 "DeLand Rifle" has got news for you. Three more TD passes.

Thyhsen, scrambling for his life much of the night, rallied the Knights from an early 13-point deficit to an exciting 33-29 victory over Georgia Southern before 5,185 fans at Womack Stadium.

"This was a very big win for us over a damn good team," said an ecstatic coach Lou Saban after the game. The victory runs the UCF record to 2-0 with Saturday's game with Southeastern Louisiana next on tap before beginning a three-game homestand in two weeks.

This same Georgia Southern outfit had trimmed the Knights, 16-9, last year and the game was headed toward the same outcome after two long runs for TDs erased a 2-0 first-quarter lead acquired when safety Jaime Lugo tackled Melvin Bell in the end zone.

Thyhsen, however, wasn't about to let a measly 12-point lead stand in front of the Knights' second straight victory. He completed 11 of 20 passes for 177 yards and survived five sacks. Like a week ago, he found three different receivers for his touchdown passes. The comeback trail started with a five-yard toss to tight end Glenn McCombs to pull UCF within 15-9, at halftime.

In the third quarter, the ex-DeLand High standout located wideout Jeff Froehlich for the second week in a row — this time an eight-yarder — to give the Knights a lead they never relinquished. Scott Ryerson kicked the extra point for a 16-15 edge. Later in the quarter, Thyhsen unloaded a bomb to fleet-footed Kelvin Collins for 46 yards and another score.

The running game took over at that point as Elgin Davis, a standin for injured (knee) Terry Bonner, ran around the Georgia Southern defenders for most of his 134 yards. Davis, a 5-11 165-pounder, took off on a 50-yard gallop in the third quarter to give UCF a 30-15 bulge.

And when Ryerson tacked on a field goal in the fourth quarter, it seems that the Knights were on the way to a rout with an 18-point advantage. The field goal, however, was a consolation prize since UCF had a third and goal from 20 inches away, but Thyhsen tripped over one of his linemen on a rollout for a seven-yard loss. Ryerson then came on and did his job.

Georgia Southern, meanwhile, got its running attack going behind quarterback Tracy Ham. Running the option to perfection, Ham took the Eagles on two drive which resulted in 15- and 13-yard touchdown dashes by Ham. The Eagles went for two and got it on the first one, but a try for the duce on the second TD fizzled, leaving Georgia Southern four points short, thus out of field goal range.

The Eagles reached midfield twice, but their undoing came when linebacker Jerry Nemethy separated Gerald Harris from the football with 2:58 to go and defensive back Brett Henley recovered at midfield. UCF couldn't move the ball, but McCombs nailed a nice punt which pinned the Eagles on their 10 — 90 yards from victory. Four plays later, UCF had its second win after last year's 10 straight losses.

"We made some mistakes," admitted Saban. "But Georgia Southern is a hard-hitting ball club. This is a great win coming up here. We'll take it."

'Ugly' Bears Beat Bucs — Dolphins Subdue Patriots

Pro Football

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears have borrowed a slogan from the Chicago White Sox that "playing ugly" and winning is better than "playing pretty" and losing.

The Bears outlasted the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 17-10 Sunday, thanks to a 32-yard interception return for a touchdown by cornerback Terry Schmidt with 10:46 left to play.

It was a day for the defense for both clubs that bended at times but in the end broke very seldomly.

"It wasn't pretty, but we got results," said Chicago coach Mike Ditka. "Last week, it was pretty but we came away with nothing."

The White Sox, poised to clinch their first pennant since 1959, have adopted the "winning ugly" slogan as their motto because of the way critics have charged they aren't artistically sound when they win.

The same could be said for the Bears in their win Sunday. Quarterback Jim McMahon was intercepted twice, their offense managed only 85 yards and they were penalized eight times for 60 yards.

But as has been the case so often in recent years, the defense, Schmidt in particular, came to the rescue.

Schmidt snared a pass from Tampa quarterback Jerry Golsteyn and raced around the right sideline for the tie-breaking touchdown to keep Tampa winless in two games.

"Let's just say that I smelled six," said Schmidt, who made a head-long dive into the end zone for the score. "When you can convert a turnover inside the other guy's territory, you have to make your own breaks and do it."

Golsteyn, who completed 22 of 42 for 277 yards, admitted he was trying to throw the ball away on the key play.

"I was trying to throw it away. It was a costly lesson and I hope I learn from it," Golsteyn said. "At first, I was looking for Theo Bell but he was covered. I don't know who I threw it to."

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins have turned New England away 17 straight times in the Orange Bowl, but it wasn't quite as easy as it looked going into the fourth quarter Sunday.

The Miami Dolphins took a 27-3 lead going into the final period but the Patriots scored three touchdowns to narrow the gap to 34-24 when the game finally ended.

"The good thing is that we won a game against a team from the AFC East for the second week in a row," said Miami coach Don Shula. "The negative is that when we had them put away, we couldn't keep them put away."

Connors Too Tough For Lendl In Open

NEW YORK (UPI) — For all those who saw the match, there is little question about the difference between Jimmy Connors and Ivan Lendl.

It has nothing to do with Lendl's awesome forehand and serve, nor Connors' unparalleled service return. There is no way to pick it out of the multitude of other statistics that are now available.

The difference between the two amounts to mental toughness, a quality Connors has honed while winning eight Grand Slam championships. Someday, after he has suffered through enough tough losses, Lendl will have it too.

Mental toughness made the difference Sunday when Connors beat Lendl, 6-3, 6-7, 7-5, 6-0, to win the U.S. Open Championship for the fifth time. It was the second year in a row the American had conquered Lendl in the final.

The key to the match came in the third set when Lendl was serving at 5-4. On break point he double faulted, giving Connors the only opening he needed. Although he was bothered by an upset stomach and a sprained toe, Connors completed the break for 5-5, and Lendl never won another game.

Earlier in the day, Martina Navratilova teamed with Pam Shriver to win the women's doubles with a 6-7, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Rosalyn Fairbank and Candy Reynolds.

Her prize money of $24,000 boosted Navratilova's weekend earnings to $644,000, including a bonus of $500,000 for winning the singles, and her career earnings to $6,113,756.

to believe a team becoming overconfident with just a six-point lead and the aforementioned past history.

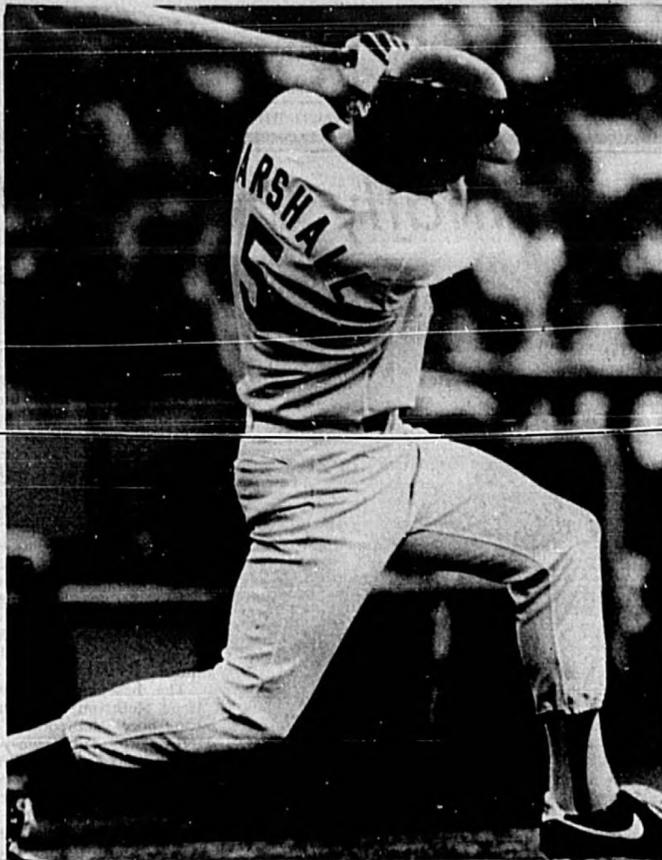

Whatever, the coaches didn't spare the sword after the game. Posey and Mosure each said their peace and it wasn't very peaceful.

When quizzed about the coaches had to say, Wynn said, "They just told us the same things I told you — but they used different words."

For the sake of the Fighting Seminoles and Sanford, let's hope they were word of wisdom.

TEPEE TALK — Win or lose, Seminole High had to be happy with the large crowd. "That's the biggest crowd I've seen in a while," said Seminole Principal Wayne Epps. "Let's hope they come back next week."

One estimate had the crowd at 6,500, but it was probably closer to 5,000, although after a thorough look after halftime, Epps said it was well over 5,000. The Sanford seats were jammed on both sides of the reserved seat (ticket section with lots of students and parents. Titusville, as usual, brought a bunch. The reserved seat section still has a little way to go, although it was 60 percent full, which was about twice as much as last year. Epps said some of the reserved section belongs to the top money contributors whose kids have been long gone, so they don't come. If they have that much money, there's a 32-year-old kid who hangs around football games that is up for adoption...

Mike Marshall contributed a big double in the ninth inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers rallied to beat the Atlanta Braves, 7-6. R.J. Reynolds squeezed home the winning run for L.A.

Dodgers Put 'Squeeze' On Braves, Lead By 3

United Press International
With R.J. Reynolds showing the nerves of a spy, the Los Angeles Dodgers stole a thriller from the Atlanta Braves.

"I had to be careful that I didn't give away the fact that I was up there to bunt," Reynolds said Sunday after squeezing home Pedro Guerrero in a four-run ninth inning to rally the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves. "I was just looking for something I could handle."

The decision upped the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to three games. Reliever Joe Beckwith, 2-3, was the winner, while Garber fell to 3-7.

Jose Morales doubled in the ninth for his 107th career pinch hit and Jim Anderson ran for him. After Steve Sax walked, Garber relieved and struck out Bill Russell, but Dusty Baker looped a single to right center, loading the bases. After Cecil Espy ran for Baker, Guerrero walked on a 3-2 pitch, forcing in a run. Marshall then doubled to the base of the wall in right field, tying the score.

Greg Brock was then walked intentionally, loading the bases. With the count 1-0 and Guerrero breaking, Reynolds, called up Sept. 1 from San Antonio of the Texas League, laid a bunt down the first base side, allowing Guerrero to score without a play.

"We had talked about the squeeze before I went up to bat," continued Reynolds.

Phillies 5, Pirates 3

At Pittsburgh, pinch hitter Sixto Lezcano singled home the tie-breaking run with one out in the seventh and the Phillies added an insurance run on Dave Parker's error. The decision kept second-place Philadelphia within a half-game of first-place Montreal in the East with the Pirates two games.

Expos 4, Mets 0

At Montreal, Charlie Lea, 15-8, tossed a six-hitter to set a club record with his eighth straight victory and Tim Wallach drove in two runs Sunday, lifting the Expos. The decision helped Montreal establish a team-high of 12 victories on a homestand in 16 games. Mike Torrez, 9-15, took the loss. Tim Raines was hitless in one official at bat for Montreal, but stole his 70th base and scored a run.

Cardinals 2, Cubs 1

At Chicago, Willie McGee smashed a two-out single off Lee Smith, 4-9. In the top of the ninth to score Lonnie Smith from second. John Stuper, who pitched the first eight innings and yielded five hits, evened his record at 10-10, while Bruce Sutter picked up his 18th save.

Giants 3, Astros 2

At San Francisco, pinch hitter Dave Bergman keyed a three-run ninth off Nolan Ryan, 13-7, with a two-run single and Tom O'Malley followed with an RBI single for the Giants. Greg Minton, 7-10, pitched 1 1/3 innings for the victory. San Francisco starter Atlee Hammaker struck out 14 before leaving in the eighth.

Reds 4, Padres 2

At San Diego, Paul Householder scored two runs, one on his fifth home run of the season, to lead the Reds. Rookie Jeff Russell, 3-2, was the winner. Tom Hume pitched the ninth to earn his eighth save. Mark Thurmond, who had won six of his last seven decisions, fell to 7-3.

Flanagan's Strong Outing Prepares Yankees For Mortician

United Press International

After Baltimore took three of four games this weekend from New York, Orioles pitcher Mike Flanagan was to see a doctor today for his sore arm. For the Yankees it may be too late for a doctor — a mortician at this point seems more in order.

Pitching on just three days' rest, Flanagan overcame 97-degree heat and oppressive humidity to throw 107 pitches and go 8 1/3 strong innings in leading the Orioles to a 5-3 victory over New York that all but embalmed the Yankees' playoff hopes.

The Orioles now lead the Yankees by seven games in the American League East. Detroit is in second place, 5 1/2 games out and Milwaukee is 7 1/2 games off the pace.

"We waited until this weekend to make that decision, because we wanted to see how Mike's arm was," Altabelli said. "I guess it's not too bad, but he's going to see the doctor tomorrow in Boston to see why it's a little sore."

"I'm pleased with the way we played especially after losing the first game of the series. But now we start a big series with Boston and nobody in this division is a pushover. It's not wrapped up yet."

Blue Jays 16, A's 6

At Toronto, Willie Upshaw belted his first career grand slam and Jesse Barfield had three hits, including his seventh homer in his last 11 games, to lead Toronto. Jim Gott, 9-13, scattered six hits over five innings.

Red Sox 4, Indians 1

At Cleveland, Rick Miller hit his first homer since May 1 and Jim Rice drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly to pace the Red Sox. Bob Ojeda, who notched his fourth complete game, scattered six hits, struck out five and walked four to improve his record to 9-7.

Royals 3, Twins 1

At Minneapolis, Willie Aikens hit a two-run homer with two out in the top of the ninth inning and Dan Quisenberry posted a major league record-tying 38th save to lift Kansas City. Quisenberry pitched the ninth inning to earn the save, which tied the record set by John Hiller of Detroit in 1973.

Tigers 6, Brewers 4

At Milwaukee, Larry Herndon collected three hits and four Detroit pitchers combined on a seven hitter, helping the Tigers dim Milwaukee's chances in the AL East. The loss was Milwaukee's 11th in its last 17 games.

Rangers 2, Mariners 1

At Seattle, Dave Stewart and Dave Tobik combined on a six-hitter and Buddy Bell and Bobby Jones drove in runs to spark Texas. Stewart is 3-1 since being acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers on Aug. 19.

White Sox 5, Angels 4

At Chicago, Harold Baines' single with two out in the bottom of the 10th inning scored Julio Cruz from second base to give LaMarr Hoyt his 20th victory of the season and lift the White Sox. Hoyt, who has 10 losses, became the major league's first 20-game winner by scattering 11 hits in his 10th complete game of the year.

IN BRIEF

Temple Heights' Rally Blows Away Trinity Prep

Tampa Temple Heights broke open a close game with 19 points in the fourth quarter en route to a 32-8 victory over Trinity Prep's Saints Saturday at Trinity Prep.

Two big plays in the first half, a 38-yard run and a 48-yard run after a lateral, gave Temple Heights a 13-0 lead by halftime as Trinity Prep couldn't get its offense on track.

But, the Saints turned things around in the third quarter by holding Temple Heights' offense down while Trinity Prep scored eight points to trim Tampa's lead to 13-8. Mike Lawyer scored the TD on a 24-yard pass from quarterback David Lilley. Lilley then ran in the two-point conversion.

Temple Heights put the game out of reach though, scoring three unanswered touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Lye Finally Triumphs

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — The bottle of Mumm's champagne has been in Trini Lye's house in San Francisco for six years and she was wondering if she'd ever get to pop the cork.

So was her son, Mark, who had given it to her. Only a PGA victory stood between the Lyes and some bubbly, but Mark was in his seventh year on the Tour and still without a win.

When victory finally came Sunday, Lye rushed to the telephone to call his mother. No one was home.

"That doesn't matter. We'll drink it together and we'll enjoy it together. It has been a long, long time," he said.

Lye ended his six-year victory drought Sunday with a sensational come-from-behind triumph in a $350,000 PGA tournament known as the Bank of Boston Classic. Starting the final round eight shots off the lead, he fired a sizzling 64 to capture the $63,000 first prize by one shot over John Mahaffey, Jim Thorpe and Sammy Rachels.

Colt Fans Chase Elway, DeBerg Rescues Broncos In 4th Quarter

United Press International
While a couple of rookies were cooking in Anaheim, Calif., another was being grilled in Baltimore.

In the most thrilling game of the NFL's second weekend, Vince Ferragamo connected with rookie Ottis Grant on a 57-yard pass to set up rookie Eric Dickerson's third touchdown of the game, a 3-yard run with 1:22 remaining that lifted the Los Angeles Rams to a 30-27 triumph over New Orleans.

Dickerson's jaunt helped rookie coach John Robinson to his second straight triumph — but not without some last-second doubts.

"We scored too fast on that final touchdown," Robinson said. "We're not sophisticated enough to know how to wait until the last seconds. But our defense held them and we got the win. It looks like Rams' football will be 'fight like hell' throughout the game and find a way to win it."

"There are a thousand things we have to do better, though. We'll probably look at the films tomorrow and throw up."

At Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, a howling crowd of 52,613 came out hoping to see the Colts hound million dollar rookie quarterback John Elway of Denver en route to victory.

The fans went 1-for-2.

With the crowd booing his every move and a charged-up Baltimore defense sacking him three times, Elway yielded to veteran Steve DeBerg for the second straight week and watched as the Broncos pulled out a 17-10 triumph.

DeBerg came on in the fourth quarter and completed 9-of-11 passes for 158 yards and a touchdown, but it was his 54-yard bomb to Steve Watson that set up his own 2-yard scoring run with 29 seconds left. Watson, a Baltimore native playing before 40 of his friends and relatives, pulled in six passes for 161 yards.

"It can't get much worse than this," said Elway, who forced a trade last spring after being selected by Baltimore with the first pick in the draft. "I get to go home now ... and hope they still like me there. They said it would be tough, but this was real tough."

Steelers 25, Packers 21

At Green Bay, Wis., Franco Harris led a grinding ball-control offense with 118 yards rushing and Pittsburgh, 1-1, scored on three short runs to overcome Green Bay, 1-1, despite three TD passes from Lynn Diekey to James Lofton. Harris and Frank Pollard, who added 90 yards, sparked a ground assault that gave Pittsburgh possession for 41:16.

"We were short on defensive linemen and we wanted to keep them off the field as much as we could," said Steelers' coach Chuck Noll. "We went out there with the idea of running the football and possessing it and keeping our offense on the field."

Cowboys 34, Cardinals 17

At St. Louis, Ron Springs ran for touchdowns of 1 and 19 yards and the Dallas defense intercepted four passes to lead the Cowboys to their second straight comeback victory. The Cowboys, 2-0, fell behind 10-0 in the first quarter before scoring 31 straight points to beat the Cardinals for the ninth time in the last 10 meetings.

"We have a habit of coming back," said Dallas defensive back Dennis Thurman. "It's happened so many times that I think other teams that play us are kind of snakebit — they just wait for it to happen."

Redskins 23, Eagles 15

At Philadelphia, John Riggins broke a 10-10 tie with a 14-yard TD run early in the fourth quarter and Mark Moseley kicked three field goals to lift the Redskins in a game played in on-field temperatures exceeding 100 degrees. The win was the eighth consecutive road victory for the NFL champions, 1-1, setting a club record.

Giants 16, Falcons 13

At Atlanta, a 54-yard kickoff return by Mike Dennis set up rookie All-Haji-Sheikh's third field goal, a 30-yarder at 3:38 of overtime that gave Giants' coach Bill Parcells his first NFL triumph.

Seahawks 17, Jets 10

At New York, rookie Curt Warner rushed for 128 yards and a pair of TDs to help the Seahawks raise their record over the Jets to 7-0. The Seattle defense recovered four fumbles and intercepted three passes to bring Chuck Knox his first victory as Seahawks' coach.

Bills 10, Bengals 6

At Cincinnati, Joe Ferguson fired a 14-yard TD pass to Jerry Butler, Fred Steinfort kicked a 28-yard field goal and the Buffalo defense had a late goalline stand to lift the Bills over the self-destructing Bengals.

Browns 31, Lions 26

At Pontiac, Mich., Brian Sipe set a club career record with four TD passes, then had to survive a nearly disastrous safety in the Browns' triumph.

Raiders 20, Oilers 6

At Los Angeles, Marcus Allen rushed for 96 yards and Jim Plunkett completed 19-of-28 passes for 229 yards to help the mistake-prone Raiders. The Oilers played without star running back Earl Campbell.

I Can Cope: A Program On Cancer

With hope, something wonderful happens...life.
Stressing the positive, Central Florida Regional Hospital in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, Seminole County Unit, is again offering "I Can Cope."

The special program for cancer patients and their families will be held weekly from 2 to 4 p.m. starting Sept. 21 and continuing through Nov. 9. All eight sessions will be held in the hospital dining room, CFRH is located on U.S. Highway 17-92 facing Lake Monroe, Sanford.

The course is free of charge.
"I Can Cope" has three main objectives. The first two are to increase knowledge and control, and through these decrease anxiety.

To do so, the faculty of health professionals focuses on specific areas of concern. The course covers up-to-date knowledge of cancer and its treatment, how to deal with daily health problems and how to increase communication effectiveness both with care givers and on a personal basis.

It also provides an opportunity to discuss sexuality and interpersonal relationships as well as explores ways to live up to total potential.

Co-leaders of the program are members of CFRH's Social Service and Nursing Education staffs. They are Ralene MacDonald and Betty Hanacek, director and instructor from Social Services, and Nancy Edwards, RN, and Betsy Fitts, RN, from the Nursing Department.

Pre-registration is required with enrollment limited. Persons wishing to enroll are encouraged to attend all eight sessions. To register or for additional information, contact the Social Services Department at the hospital, 321-4500 or 668-4441.

Pageant Seeks Area Girls To Compete

Miss Lakeland, Inc., will sponsor the first returning Miss Lakeland Pageant in November to be held at Joker Marchant Stadium in Tigertown, Lakeland. Contestants within a 75-mile radius of Lakeland are eligible to enter.

The winner will enter the Miss Florida pageant held to select the state queen who will compete for the crown of Miss America in the national competition at Atlantic City, N.J. in September 1984.

The event this year will be the first annual Miss Lakeland pageant sponsored by Miss Lakeland, Inc., a non-profit organization formed for the sole purpose of sponsoring the Miss Lakeland pageant.

David Bass, president, said, "We will sponsor the pageant this year because we believe it provides a valuable contribution to the community and to the young ladies who will enter. We believe it serves the community well because it focuses attention on the high calibre of young ladies who are residents of our area and we believe it serves youth well because it provides opportunity for the young ladies who compete to gain added poise through public appearances and to gain added maturity through participation in a community program such as the Lakeland pageant."

The pageant will provide the opportunity for the girl who is the winner to continue to seek scholarship awards at the state pageant, it will aid her in obtaining an education with the college of her choice. Committees to plan the program are being formed and organizations in the area will be asked to sponsor contestants for the pageant.

Anyone interested in entering the pageant should call David Bass, 813-858-5884.

Booth Space Available At Craft Fair

Only a limited number of spaces remain available for the 4th Annual Goldenrod Craft Fair Bazaar to be held Oct. 1. Chairman of the Bazaar, Laverne Ryan said, "Over 40 of the available 60 spaces at the Bazaar have been reserved with a little over three weeks to go. We are very pleased with the interest being shown for this annual event and fundraiser." Again this year the Bazaar is emphasizing three dimensional crafts and the requests for booth reservations have come from throughout Central Florida with many repeat artists from previous bazaars.

The event is sponsored by the Goldenrod Civic Club to raise funds for improvements at the Civic Center. This year it will be held Oct. 1, with a rain date of Oct. 8. The Bazaar is held on the Civic Club grounds, one block south of Aloma on Palmetto. Proceeds from all sales go to the individual artist. Food and refreshments will be available as will free parking.

To make reservations for booth space send a $15 check or money order to Goldenrod Civic Club Bazaar, P.O. Box 492, Goldenrod, Fl. 32733. Please include your name, address and telephone number and type of craft. Space size is 10 by 10 feet, and each individual is to provide his own table or display rack. Cut off date for entry is Sept. 25. For further information call Laverne Ryan, 678-8080.

Who's Cooking?

The Herald welcomes suggestions for cooks of the week. Do you know someone you would like to see featured in this spot. The Cook of the Week column is published every Wednesday.

Novice cooks and ethnic cooks, as well as experienced cooks and master chefs add a different dimension to dining. Who is your choice? Maybe it's your mother, father, brother, sister or friend.

Submit your suggestions to Cook of the Week columnist Lou Childers, 349-5790, Geneva, or Doris Dietrich, The Herald PEOPLE editor, 322-2611.

The Rev. and Mrs. S. Edward Johnson Jr.

Pair Honored On 50th Anniversary

The Rev. and Mrs. S. Edward Johnson Jr. had the "surprise of their life" on their golden wedding anniversary.

The couple were honored on Aug. 21 at the First Christian Church, Sanford, where he is pastor. Following the renewing of their wedding vows, the Johnsons were guests of honor at a reception.

The Rev. Dr. Jimmie Gentle of Orlando was the officiating clergyman for the renewal of the wedding vows. The couple's son, Edward III, sang nuptial selections accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Jane Ferguson of Orlando.

Mrs. Johnson is the former Eldora Sekinger. Both are from Ohio. They were married Aug. 22, 1933 by the Rev. J.N. Herald in Greenup, Ky.

Gold and white color tones decorated the reception area in the church social hall. A three-tiered cake was served with wedding punch. A money tree for the couple was featured by the guest book.

Rev. and Mrs. Johnson, who make their home in Hacienda Village, Winter Springs, are the parents of three children: Edward III, Winter Springs; Fred, Springfield, Ohio; and Mrs. Jim Linkehnocker, Enon, Ohio. They have nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Over 100 friends and relatives attended the celebration, many arriving from out-of-town.

The surprise event was sponsored by the Young Disciples Sunday School class under the direction of Mrs. James K. (Patricia) Johnson with "almost every member of the church having a hand in making this a surprise and success," according to Janet Montgomery.

Rev. and Mrs. Johnson were presented a gold serving tray by the congregation during the morning worship service. He has been the church pastor for the past two years, coming from Central Christian Church of Orlando.

Spouse's Altar Trip Upsetting To Wife

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a well-known professional man in our area. His secretary, who has been with him for four years, has asked him to give her 19-year-old daughter away in marriage. The secretary is divorced, and her ex-husband (a local resident) refuses to participate in or even attend his daughter's wedding although his name is on the invitation.

No one even mentioned the above to me until all the plans were made. I know the secretary but have never met her daughter.

I feel very uncomfortable about this and have told my husband that it is bound to create some speculation as to what the relationship between him and his secretary really is.

My husband said he had no choice because "they have no male family member to perform the duty." Am I wrong to be upset? And do you think I should attend the wedding?

WITHHOLD MY NAME IN FLORIDA

DEAR WITHHOLD: Are you wrong to be upset? No. Your husband should have discussed it with you first. Should you attend the wedding? Yes. It would look worse if you didn't.

DEAR ABBY: I direct a charitable organization that provides full scholarships to deserving youths. These scholarships cover tuition, books, room, board, laundry, etc. for the duration of college. There are no repayment obligations of any kind.

Dear Abby

Abby, don't you think the parents of our scholarship recipients should express a word of appreciation to our organization for the exceptional benefits their sons and daughters receive? An annual note, maybe "Thanks for the $6,000 gift you gave our son (or daughter) this year?"

Would you believe that we have spent as much as $30,000 to educate one youth whose parents have never once said thank you?

I predict that unless people begin to acquire a sense of gratitude for the generosity of others, the wells of charity are going eventually to dry up. Any comment?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: An expression of gratitude from the parents of students who benefit from scholarships would seem minimal, and the students themselves should also thank their benefactors.

For Abby's updated, revised and expanded booklet, "How to Be Popular" — for people of all ages — send $2, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Official Travel Costing Taxpayers Millions

By Gregory Gordon
WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 25,000 official U.S. visitors stopped at four European embassies last year and a U.S. ambassador says foreign travel has gotten so far out of control that 658 federal officials went to last spring's Paris Air show at a cost of more than $1 million.

"I doubt if anyone in Washington is aware of the full scope of the problem, its overall cost to the U.S. taxpayer, or the negative effects it can have" in crippling embassy operations, Evan Galbraith, the ambassador to France, said recently in an angry, internal cable to the State Department.

A study of government travel by United Press International and the Better Government Association, a civic watchdog group, shows more than 25,000 official U.S. visitors stopped at embassies in Paris, Rome, Bonn and London in 1982.

Embassy spokesmen said 8,000 to 9,000 U.S. officials visited Paris and 10,000 stopped in London, some en route to destinations such as Africa. Bonn reported 6,000 to 8,000 official visitors, Rome 1,000.

Indeed, travel costs of federal agency officials, congressmen, their aides and spouses now can be projected to run easily into the tens of millions of dollars, some expenditures hidden in obscure — even classified — budget accounts. Many trips amount to lavish, taxpayer-paid vacations, and lax controls fail to prevent unnecessary or redundant excursions and to guard against abuses.

While stressing the need for some foreign visits by top government representatives, administration officials acknowledge overseas travel is a vexing problem. Despite President Reagan's austerity drive, some ranking State Department officials believe travel abroad has increased.

One official said embassies trying to maintain ritzy visitor services "may be reaching the breaking point."

In his July cable, obtained by the BGA, Galbraith complained his embassy was so burdened with hosting the air show contingent, its normal operations "ground to a halt." Sources said the embassy had to solicit emergency funds from the State Department.

Galbraith argued his embassy no longer can cope with demands for scheduling, chauffeur and tour guide services, and other "frills" — such as personnel to meet ranking officials at the airport, often at a cost of $50 for a chauffeur's overtime instead of a $20 cab ride.

Estimating travel costs for the typical air show visitor at $2,000, Galbraith projected — conservatively — that travel costs for the U.S. representatives surpassed $1 million.

"I find that every time I raise a question about a proposed visit, I have a major fight on my hands — even when it seems obvious that the visit is superfluous," he said.

Galbraith did not return repeated telephone calls from UPI and the BGA in recent weeks.

In a review of government travel records and interviews with dozens of federal officials, UPI and the BGA found evidence travel abroad is out of control:

• Despite presidential edicts to reduce travel, no one monitors foreign trips or their cost. Many officials arrive at U.S. embassies without notice. Says James Barry of the Office of Management and Budget, "There's always a good excuse to go somewhere."

• Travel abusers run the gamut from State Department foreign service officers to Cabinet officials. Attorney General William French Smith last year, in a delegation that included his wife, used a military aircraft for a 22-day trip to Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand and Pakistan for talks on curbing narcotics traffic. Use of the aircraft alone cost $597,220.

• Congress Watch, a nonprofit group, reported last month that senators and House members took 991 trips to 114 countries from 1981 to 1983, more than half to France, Italy, England, Germany and Greece. Strife-torn countries seem to get few U.S. visitors. In 1982, 20 members of Congress visited sunny Barbados, but just 13 traveled to problem-plagued El Salvador.

• Congressional delegations usually fly on military aircraft and sometimes executive branch officials do likewise, even when commercial flights are cheaper and convenient. Congressional groups are accompanied by military escort officers, armed with traveling commissaries of snacks and stashes of money to cover expenses such as food, lodging and transportation.

• Although most federal officials stick to businesslike agendas, embassy personnel are dismayed to watch congressmen abandon the busy schedules they arranged. A former foreign service officer who served in South America said most official delegations to Brazil schedule meetings in the interior capital of Brasilia but quickly head for the beaches and "more exciting nightlife" of Rio de Janeiro.

Week-Long Miss America Contest Begins Today

By Louis Toscano
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — The 63rd annual Miss America pageant officially begins today, but the 50 women hoping to capture the crown have already spent a busy two days posing for pictures and preparing for the contest.

All grins and giggles, the contestants cavorted through three photo sessions Sunday, enjoying one last chance to relax before the pageant shifts into high gear. The contest climaxes Saturday night with the crowning of a new queen.

Pageant officials control the picture sessions, but some of the women still managed to bend the rules a little as their chaperones looked the other way. Miss Washington, Jennifer Havlin, and Miss Oklahoma, Trelynda Kerr, broke off a Boardwalk stroll to throw bread crumbs to a flock of seagulls, and Miss New York, Vanessa Williams, had an impromptu chat with boxing great Muhammad Ali.

During a scheduled poolside pose, Miss Georgia, Tammy Fulwider, Miss Illinois, Becky Bush, Miss South Carolina, Dalia Garcia, and Miss Utah, Lynn Lambert, dove into the water and briefly splashed around for photographers.

Meanwhile, Miss Pennsylvania, Jennifer Eshelman, and Miss Michigan, Denise Gehman, were working out on some weightlifting equipment in a hotel gymnasium.

The frivolities are aimed at framing the women in the pageant's all-American image, but the queen this year is not likely to be the girl next door. The 50 state representatives are mostly superachievers with big plans for the future.

As usual, many of the women — 21 to be exact — want to pursue entertainment careers, but a number of less glamorous professions have shown up on the contestants' resumes.

Many women plan conventional careers such as law, business, or medicine, but a few have offbeat ambitions. Miss Wisconsin, Wendy Wagner, wants to be a conference coordinator, and Miss Iowa, Karri Nussle, hopes to become a college band conductor.

But to win the title, with its $25,000 scholarship and potential earnings of about $150,000, the women have to attract some attention — and how they try.

Gary Collins will host the Miss America pageant Saturday, assisted by reigning Debra Sue Maffett of California.

Miss Minnesota, Vicki Plaster, notes she is a "self-confessed chocoholic." Miss Tennessee, Moira Kaye, wants everyone to know her home "was the subject of an indoor air pollution study" and that she collects ceramic frogs.

And Miss Maine, Brenda Theriault, an aspiring helicopter pilot, says she helped build her house and is protected by Weimaraner attack dogs — but won't say why until someone asks her this week.

Vesco Linked To Cubans, Cocaine

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fugitive financier Robert Vesco is working with the Cuban government and major cocaine suppliers to ship the drug to the United States as part of the largest operation supplying the American market, the Chicago Tribune reported today.

The newspaper said Vesco, who fled the country in 1972 with an estimated $60 million in stolen cash, told a congressional official of his drug link in a recent conversation.

A lawyer representing people trying to recover about $224 million in assets that disappeared when Vesco fled under indictment in a mutual funds fraud case, speculated Vesco turned to cocaine trading because he was running out of funds.

Federal law enforcement officials say the connection between Vesco and South American drug exporters is Carlos Lehder, a leader of what Drug Enforcement Administration officials say is one of the largest cocaine "mafias" feeding the American market.

The congressional official, who asked not to be named, said he maintains sporadic contact with Vesco, who told him he uses his contacts with Nicaraguan leftists and Cubans to arrange for drug smugglers to buy back drugs confiscated from waylaid ships and planes en route from Bolivia or Colombia to the United States.

Vesco is apparently based out of an island in the Bahamas called Norman's Cay, about 200 miles from Florida.

Vesco and Lehder bought the island for more than $5 million, said Nicholas Navarro of the organized crime task force in Broward County, Fla. Navarro said American agents have flown over Norman's Cay and spotted large refrigeration units attached to the rear of at least two small aircraft hangars next to an airstrip.

Last week, NBC News reported Vesco was operating a major cocaine smuggling operation from the island — and that top American diplomats had hampered the FBI's effort to arrest Vesco on drug charges.

Ted Swift, as spokesman for the DEA, declined to comment on the report. But other DEA officials said privately the agency had not developed evidence Vesco was running a cocaine smuggling business, the Tribune reported.

Justice Department officials confirmed that report prepared for the attorney general linked Vesco, through his tie to smugglers the officials refused to name, to cocaine operations.

3 Of 12 Agricultural Exemptions Granted

Three Seminole County property owners have been given agricultural exemptions by the Property Appraisal Appeal Board.

The appeal board, meeting Thursday night, gave exemptions to Thomas S. McDonald, and Allen K. Forrest of Sanford and William and Caryl Holmes of Winter Park.

McDonald is trustee for 251 acres of land used for grazing cattle. Forrest's 6.38 acres is also used to raise livestock and the Holmes' property is used for growing citrus trees.

An exemption request from Ahmad Y. Saidi of Orlando for 14 acres of citrus groves and horse pastures was continued until Oct. 20.

Eight other appeals for agricultural exemptions denied by Property Appraiser Bill Suber were rejected by the board.

Agricultural exemptions are given on property which is used for "legitimate agricultural purposes and is not being used as a tax shelter," according to state law.

Suber said 176 people have appealed his denial of homestead exemptions for their property. Four of those exemptions were granted Thursday after more information was presented, he said.

He also said 175 property owners who have appealed the appraised value of their property will be contacted and dates set for meetings with hearing officers.

The board is expected to rule on their appeals at its Oct. 20 meeting.

County Commissioners Robert Sturm, Sandra Glenn and Robert G. "Bud" Feather and School Board members Nancy Warren and Jean Bryant are on the appeal board.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Like Muscle, Memory Needs Exercising Too

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to comment on your excellent advice about memory problems and senility.

Four years ago I thought I was washed up and had trouble with memory and concentration. Today I have a full-time job, as a bookkeeper, at age 66. I feel more alive than I did years ago.

I'm sure that a lot of my recovery is due to my starting to do crossword puzzles and cryptograms two years ago. I have progressed to a point where I now pass up the easy, medium and hard and go right to the "expert."

I am now able to concentrate and my memory improves all the time. It is so nice, for instance, to be introduced to a group of strangers and remember their names. I hope your other readers do as well.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your success story. There are many reasons for a falling memory with advancing years but in many cases the problem can be helped by simply trying harder. It takes more effort but in time it gets easier. Don't forget the brain has some similarities to ordinary muscles and it must be exercised and used regularly to be able to perform at its best.

Not everyone will be as fortunate as you have been but it really does help to start training your memory. Memory exercises in books on training your memory — and above all training yourself to concentrate — helps. Poor concentration is often the real cause of a poor memory.

Another neglected problem that masquerades as senility with memory loss is depression. I'm struck by your comment about feeling more "alive." I wonder if that means you were actually depressed and have gotten over it.

Anyone who has signs of "senility" or severe memory and concentration problems needs a complete medical evaluation. Many medical practitioners can cause the same behavior. This is discussed in The Aging Mind in The Health Letter 14-2 which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does endocrine therapy consist of? What is involved and are there side effects? Can it be administered by a regular M.D. rather than an endocrinologist? Is there an age limit for the recipient of this type of therapy?

DEAR READER — Endocrines are hormones and come from endocrine glands. Hormones (endocrines) are chemicals that are carried by your bloodstream. They include insulin, thyroid, adrenaline, steroids from the adrenal gland or both male and female sex hormones to name a few.

They are used as medicines to correct a hormone imbalance. Insulin, for instance, is given to diabetics and replacement female hormones are used to combat the symptoms of the menopause. Some are used in the treatment of certain cancers. For example, female hormones may be used in the treatment of prostate cancer in men.

Obviously they are used by all kinds of doctors, from the family physician to the obstetrician and gynecologist, the cancer specialist and the endocrinologist. It depends entirely on why hormones are needed and how they are used.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY SEPTEMBER 13, 1983

Rather than going off on tangents and launching new ventures this coming year, first finish those which you have already begun. You're nearer to the payoff than you may realize.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If your motive in doing things for others today is that you hope to gain more in return for yourself, you could be severely disappointed. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Mail an additional $1 for your Virgo Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be optimistic and hopeful today, but also be realistic and practical. Keep your expectations within reasonable parameters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Financial conditions are likely to be a mixed bag for you today. You have the wherewithal to accumulate, but you may also be very extravagant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your ideas for achieving your objectives are likely to be sound today, but there's a chance you'll execute them in a slipshod fashion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have the ability to recognize opportunities today, yet you may let them slip through your fingers. When you grab the brass ring, hold on tight.

ability to recognize opportunities today, yet you may let them slip through your fingers. When you grab the brass ring, hold on tight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your judgment in important matters is quite keen today, but you may permit your reasoning to be overridden by less-wise associates.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extremely tactful with persons whose support you need today where your work or career is concerned. Goals won't be achieved without their aid.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Co-workers may lack your enthusiasm and industriousness today pertaining to a project which interests you. If pushed, they're apt to rebel.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against tendencies today to behave too possessively with loved ones. Give them the same freedom you expect for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not enter into agreements impulsively today. If you make a bad bargain, it might be impossible to rectify it later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Protect your self-interests today, but be very careful not to do so in ways which might offend others. Associates will not forgive selfishness.

LEO (July 23-22) Be prudent and use common sense in money matters today. Do not take any type of financial risk you can't afford if it should fail.

captained in 1970 and 1971. Three of us will be back in Stockholm in October to try for another championship. Mike is a great player and his books are all very worthwhile.

Oswald: "South has the big hand, but Mike has discussed the North hand only. It starts out as a good raise to two spades."

Jim: "South rebids three diamonds. Mike says that North might well bid four spades right now, but that three spades is preferable. Sitting North, your jack of clubs looks like a wasted value."

Oswald: "Now your partner bids four hearts. Your values suddenly jump. He is suggesting a slam, and is asking you have help for hearts. You might even bid six spades yourself, but Mike suggests that you bid five hearts to leave the final slam decision up to South."

Jim: "The South hand is one of several that Mike says justify his bidding. South bids 4♥. It is a lay-down since trumps divide 2-1."
