Camphor in the Philippines.
The bureau of science of the Philippine government is making a study of the plant known as Blumea balsamifera, known by the natives in the Philippines as "sambon" or "gabuen," which produces camphor. The shrub is one of the most common weeds in the Philippines. It grows from five to eight feet high, with a stem almost woody in texture, and has long been used by the natives of the Philippines as well as by natives of China for medicinal purposes. The Chinese in parts of Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces already distill considerable camphor from the plant, the chief drawback to the more extensive use of it being the amount of labor required to secure the gum. The bureau of forestry at Manila is introducing the ordinary camphor tree of China and Japan into the mountain districts of Luzon in large numbers for the purpose of building up future camphor production in the islands.

ELDER SPRING WATER
99.98 PER CENT PURE
ANALYSIS:
THOS. R. BAKER, Ph. D., Rollins College, Florida
Winter Park, Florida, April 19, 1915.
H. B. Coney, Esq., Orlando, Florida
Dear Sir:—I have completed a careful sanitary analysis of the sample of water that you brought me last week and have obtained the following result:
Color..... Clear
Reaction..... Neutral
Free Ammonia..... None
Albuminoid Ammonia..... None
Chlorine..... 6 parts per 1,000,000
Total Solids 8 parts per 1,000,000
Nitrates..... 1.00
Hardness..... 38 parts per 1,000,000
The absence of both calcium and albuminoid ammonia in the spring water and its very small amount of chlorine indicate its good quality. The indications are that it is of exceptionally good quality.
A very desirable feature of this spring water is its softness, containing less than one-fourth of the amount of calcium and magnesium carbonates found in many waters of this region, and just about enough, as many authorities think for supplying the lime and magnesia requirements of the body.
Yours Respectfully, (Signed) THOS. R. BAKER

SENATOR DONEGAN, THE PEOPLE'S FRIEND NOISE AND HEALTH

SENATOR ARTHUR E. DONEGAN
Our Senator, who has made good in two sessions of the Florida Legislature.

In discussing the constitutional amendment to exempt homes from taxation, introduced by Senator Arthur E. Donegan, the Florida Metropolitan has the following to say, which fully expresses our views on the question.

Florida's future lies wholly along the lines of development of her agricultural, agrostological, horticultural and live stock interests. There are many contributing issues, it is true, that will help Florida to grow and prosper, but with her millions of acres of productive lands, and her scant acres of producing land, Florida has more to expect along lines of land development, than from any other source.

If this state were as far along on the road to development as any other southern state she would be one of the most prosperous in America. She would have several cities as large or larger than Jacksonville now is, and would be leading all the states of the south in prosperity.

One of the best ways to induce immigration, and the development of our lands is to make the homestead of the real home maker exempt from taxation. It would have tremendous value for advertising purposes, and would attract the attention of millions of agriculturists to this state, who, after they investigated possibilities in Florida would be easily convinced that this is truly the land of agricultural opportunity. And now is the time for us to make our appeal to the farmers of the north. Now that foodstuffs are in greater demand the world over and that the indications are that farm products will continue to be in great demand and bring higher prices—when the farmer is offering more to the worker than the factory is the time to interest the people to come to Florida.

If this resolution passes at this session of the legislature it ought to bring thousands of farmers to Florida before another session is held.

Gilbert Leach in the Leesburg Commercial has the following editorial on Senator Donegan:

Senator Arthur E. Donegan of Kissimmee has introduced a resolution calling for an election on a constitutional amendment exempting homesteads from state taxes.

There's a man with a level head. He did not originate the idea for it has been advanced in various forms before, but he has seen the solution of two great problems in it and has had the moral courage to submit it publicly. In doing so he will come in for the censure of some of his closest associates, land owners on a great scale, men who will come in for increased taxes on land they are holding for future values.

This resolution provides for the exemption of 160 acres in the country, or for a lot of lots up to one-half acre in an incorporated town or city provided the tract or lot is actually used as a homestead and the owner makes his or her permanent residence upon it. It does not exempt from city, town, or county taxes.

Should this amendment be passed, the first great reform would be the raising of assessment on land that is now valuable but, because it is held in the wild state, is taxed on a valuation of $1.00 an acre or thereabouts. Such valuation has been holding back many sections from development because the owners could hold the lands wild at so little expense that the development on all sides of it brought up its relative value by leaps and bounds. If this amendment passes, development will not be so expensive for these people will sell at a reasonable price.

Another advantage will be the uniform valuation for state tax purposes. Counties that now hold to a low valuation in order to escape high state taxes, and in consequence are compelled to make appallingly high millage rates, will be able to bring up their valuations and keep their millage upon a basis that will not frighten investors and homeseekers.

Another advantage will be that taxes now being paid upon homes in cities can be applied to civic improvement and the standard of Florida cities and towns can be materially raised. It will amount to brick streets where dust is now, to sewers where none exist, to parks where children now play in the streets and couples sit in sweltering parlors.

Well done, Donegan!

NOISE AND HEALTH

There's a distinction between noise and noises.

Noise very often means nuisance, whether it be a human annoyance or one of mere sound that may be abated by brute strength or by ignoring it. By the plural of the word is meant here the aggregate of sounds more or less unnecessary, that makes life in a city a constant and a more or less unrealized tax on the average nervous system and that results in a quicker wearing out of the human machine.

Two sets of conditions force on us a realization of the noises of a city. One is the first arrival in a big city from the quieter surroundings of country life. The other is when exhausting sickness has reduced the resisting power and emphasizes the detrimental effect of sudden and startling sounds on the condition of the patient.

A further analysis of the noises of the busy city, shows that many, perhaps most of them are unnecessary to the extent that they might be prevented. Most of them are not accidents. They are avoidable.

Physicians and scientists have left no doubt that excessive noise has a distinctly harmful effect on the human system, which each individual resists in proportion to his physical power of resistance. He is the exception who is not injured by it sooner or later.

The bells, the few that are left to call us to church, are unnecessary; they are more the recognition of a sentiment than a tribute to utility. No bells are sounded to call us to the theatre or to catch railroad trains, or to keep a dinner engagement or one with the dressmaker or the tailor. Hardly more necessary are the bells on which the hours are sounded in steeple clocks, yet they are in part justified by practical utility and by the fact that there noise is not incessant.

The city that permits the blowing of locomotive whistles within its limits is behind the times. The city of Chicago some years ago declared against this nuisance and demanded the abolishing of grade crossings, just as any other city has the right to demand.

The inharmonious jangling of street car bells as a sort of command to "get out of the way," is an infringement on the rights of the citizen. By their constant and excessive ringing they lose the effect for which they are intended.

The increasing complexities of modern living have added to the list of abatable noises. The automobile is responsible for some of these, with its disagreeable and excessive honking and the violence of its unmuffled exhaust. Too often public sentiment is indifferent to the cutting out of the muffler in violation of city ordinance, and the selfish driver in the residence sections, away from direct police observation, presuming on this, takes all kinds of liberties with the rights of helpless citizens.

A number of the smaller cities of Florida make the occurrence of a fire a gala occasion, calling from their deepest slumbers at night every man, woman and child outside the cemetery, by siren whistle or other contrivances that make their victims hate the inventor with a righteous hatred. It's entirely unnecessary.

There are motorcycles and street fruit vendors; there are the newsboys who drive away slumber in the earliest daylight hours; there are the neighbor's children whose musical education is a torture to the children and to all within hearing of the crippled pianos—they all rob us of what is ours, our rest, our physical welfare.

"This is a free country," is the defence, "wherein every man has a right to do as he pleases with his own." Yes, perhaps a legal right to make a nuisance of himself in a good many ways, but not the moral right. He may defend himself on the of forgetfulness or carelessness, but these are only a form of selfishness. No desirable citizen is selfish. He regards the welfare of his neighbors, even to the point of sacrificing his own convenience. He would not hesitate to forego his own pleasure for the sake of a sick neighbor. Why should he not regard the welfare of his neighbor who is in health?

Unless Properly Packed, Fruit Will Not Bring Top Prices

The marketing of Florida's citrus fruit crop so that it will be profitable largely depends upon the manner in which the fruit is packed. No matter how carefully grown, sprayed and protected in the grove, fruit that is not properly prepared and packed will not bring top prices.

Under normal conditions next season's crop of oranges and grapefruit will be much larger than that of this year. The grower who sends first-quality fruit to the market will again be the man with a big bank account. There will be demand for the best, no matter how great the volume.

Anticipating a greater demand than ever for machinery of this kind to be installed in houses now standing and others soon to be erected, we have enlarged our Dunedin plant and this year hope to be prepared to fill all orders.

Future profits in citrus culture depend upon efficient packing house equipment as much as anything else. Skinner's "Satisfaction Guaranteed" machinery has demonstrated that it is a paying proposition to growers of good fruit.

SEMINOLE'S ABLE REPRESENTATIVE

The Man Who Won Even After He Had Lost

HON. FORREST LAKE From Pen and Ink Sketch by Ben Guthrie

The legislature will adjourn this week and our representative, Hon. Forrest Lake will rest from his arduous labors of the past sixty days. Mr. Lake is probably one of the best known and most talked of members of the legislature.

There have been many prophecies made as to the future political horoscope of Forrest Lake but up to the present time he has said nothing and we await his home coming to get at first hand just where he intends to break into politics again.

The East Coast League An effort is being made to organize a baseball league composed of cities of the Florida East Coast.

The movement is being fostered by Tom Bryan, formerly a resident of Jacksonville, but now living in Fort Lauderdale.

The proposed league will be composed of cities selected from St. Augustine, Palatka, Sanford, Orlando, Daytona, Titusville, New Smyrna, Fort Pierce, Fellsmere, West Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Miami and Key West.

The following letter has been sent to the managers of baseball teams in the above named cities: Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., May 18, '15.

It is the purpose of the organization to call a meeting of the representatives of the various towns along the East Coast with a view of putting such a move before them.

While many of the towns supported ball clubs last season, we feel that it will be more practicable and less expensive for a league to be formed, as the regulated salary limit will prohibit expensive players.

I write this letter for your consideration, and hope that you will be able to send a representative to Daytona to enter into the spirit and help to boost the Florida East Coast League.

know at once if you can attend this meeting? Very respectfully yours, Signed, Tom M. Bryan.

SMALL TRACTORS FOR FARMS.

Profitable Only When Farmer Can Dispose With More Costly Power. Prepared by United States department of agriculture.

Generally speaking, the farm tractor is a profitable investment only when, besides the farmer, he dispense with other forms of power, which cost him more. The most usual form of power on a farm is, of course, horses.

The type of tractor which appears to be most in demand at the present time is a small, low priced outfit, capable of pulling two to four plow bottoms and with a belt capacity sufficient to operate any of the ordinary farm machines.

The small tractors that are now being built for medium size farms are of simpler construction than the large ones, which also were obtainable up to a year and a half or so ago.

School Tax Apportionment

The apportionment of state school was today given out by Superintendent of Public Instruction W. N. Sheats, showing that each county gets eighty cents per pupil.

More than one hundred thousand dollars was on hand when the estimates were made and a balance of $1,000,000 will be left when each county is sent vouchers for their share of the one-mill school tax.

The report in full by counties is as follows:

WHY TAKE CHANCES WHEN PURE WATER CAN BE HAD ELDER SPRING WATER

99.98 PER CENT PURE ANALYSIS:

THOS. R. BAKER, Ph. D., Rollins College, Florida Winter Park, Florida, April 19, 1915

H. B. Coney, Esq., Orlando, Florida Dear Sir:--I have completed a careful sanitary analysis of the sample of water that you brought me last week and have obtained the following result:

The absence of both free and albuminoid ammonia in the spring water and its very small amount of chlorine indicate its good quality--the indications are that it is of exceptionally good quality.

A very desirable feature of this spring water is its softness, containing less than one-fourth of the amount of calcium and magnesium carbonates found in many waters of this region, and just about enough, as many authorities think for supplying the lime and magnesia requirements of the body.

Daily deliveries made in Sanford in five gallon bottles sealed at the spring. Phone us for further information as to deliveries, prices, etc.

Our Moral Codes. Our moral codes were invented, not to prepare men for heaven, or for Utopia; they were invented by men who were none too good themselves for people who were not much worse. There are great differences in human beings as to the amount of knowledge and wisdom which they possess, but there is small difference in regard to the amount of goodness or rascality that they manifest.--Mowry Saben, in Forum.

LEGISLATURE WILL CLOSE SESSION TODAY AT NOON

MANY BILLS PASSED IN THE LAST DAYS OF THE SESSION

Tallahassee, Fla., June 3.—A strong effort was made in the house to abolish the state tax commission by cutting the appropriation for its maintenance out of the general appropriation bill, but the house refused to cut the item out mainly because a majority were convinced that the 1915 act carried an appropriation with it and that this method would not abolish the tax commission.

The general appropriation bill, which had passed the senate, passed the house although this bill is $159,000 less than the last year's appropriation bill. The special appropriations made this time will run the appropriation for 1915 up to about $1,200,000 more than 1914. The special appropriation of $125,000 for citrus canker and the $60,000 for a new building at the Marianna reform school building and $40,000 for building for girls reform school are responsible for the increase.

Senate today passed the joint resolution submitting to the president a bill to amend the constitution of the state for the year 1915 and thereafter it provides one senator from each county and one senator from each city.

Additional representative for each 10,000 population up to limit of 100,000 population and one representative for each 10,000 population up to limit of 100,000 population.

PRZEMYSL HAS FALLEN INTO AUSTRO-GERMAN HANDS

Big Victory Over Russian Forces in the East

London, June 3.—Przemysl has been reclaimed by Austria. Official announcement was made at Vienna that the great Galician fortress won by the Russians ten weeks ago, after a long struggle had been recaptured.

With Przemysl in their hands, the Austrians and Germans have concluded the first phase of their new Galician campaign, launched in the drive from Cracow. Przemysl's fall has not been conceded at Petrograd, so far as cable advances show, but the latest Russian official statement admitted that the besiegers of the fortress had won some successes, including capture of two outlying forts.

The great Austrian fortress of Przemysl, situated between Lemberg and Cracow, in the province of Galicia, was captured by the Russians March 22 last after one of the fiercest sieges of modern warfare. Since then the Austrians and Germans have made a vigorous effort to recapture the fortress for the drive toward Lemberg, the next Cracow.

Recent dispatches have said the Austrians captured the fortress, but the Russians have denied this. The capture of Przemysl would be a major victory for the Austrians and Germans.

Why Do You Like a Store? If you were asked to tell which stores in Miami are the most satisfactory to deal with would you have an answer ready? And if you could at once give the names of the stores, what governed your choice? Did you think of the merchandise or the proprietors or the clerks? It is interesting to ask your self these questions, and it would be valuable if the merchant could have the replies in a confidential way. We think that it would even be valuable for the clerks to have the replies in a confidential way, too, for so often such a little thing can work big improvements.

Take me out the county road quick!" Ashley shouted. The occupant of the cycle car, seeing the man was pursued by the police, hesitated. Intimidated by the snarling threats of Ashley, the driver made room for him and started the car. At the edge of town the driver, complaining that his motor would not work, got out to tinker with the machinery. Policeman Riblett overtook the car, and he and Ashley opened fire simultaneously. Riblett sank, mortally wounded in the head, but from his prone position he raised his pistol in reply and sent a bullet through Ashley's abdomen.
