Truman Balks At Making Bet On Elections

Republican Trend Is Claimed By Wheeler President Plans No Political Speeches

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24, (AP)—White House reporters couldn't get President Truman to forecast today the outcome of next month's congressional elections. At the President's radio and press conference the newsmen asked him if he'd made a wager with himself the way Roosevelt used to do. Roosevelt used to write his guess on a slip of paper and put it in a sealed envelope.

President Truman smiled and said he hadn't done that. One reporter asked him if he'd be willing to make a bet.

President Truman said election bets are against the law where he comes from.

Later the President indirectly predicted that J. Howard McGrath would be elected senator from Rhode Island. A newsmen asked him if he'd accepted McGrath's resignation as solicitor general. Mr. Truman said that he had and added that a man couldn't be senator and solicitor at the same time.

For the third straight news conference, Mr. Truman told the newsmen, he doesn't have any plan for making any speeches in the congressional campaign.

Meanwhile Democratic Senator Burton K. Wheeler told newsmen that in his opinion there is a Republican trend in the nation. Following the conference with President Truman, the Montanan claimed that on the basis of registrations the Democrats should win in Montana, Washington and California, but that never-theless he saw a Republican swing. He declared that the answer will be found in the big silent vote—among those who aren't talking.

Highlight of President Truman's press conference as follows:

The Chief Executive said it's up to Interior Secretary J. A. Krug to handle the threat of a strike. John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' leader, refused to discuss the Lewis ultimatum for a reopening of the soft-coal workers contract.

Replying to questions about the budget, President Truman said he would have a statement on that subject later today. He gave no hint as to what it may contain.

Two Groups Oppose Constitution Change

(By Associated Press.)
The directors of two farm and citrus organizations are strongly opposing two proposed Florida constitutional amendments. The proposals would authorize the appointment of a director of citrus by the state legislature and abolish the state's continuing appropriations.

With citrus growers leading the way, Orange County Farm Bureau directors met in Orlando yesterday and came out formally against the proposals. They said they feared the effects the measure would have on control of Florida Citrus Commission advertising funds.

W. L. Story, chairman of the Commission's advertising committee and a director of the Orange County Farm Bureau, declared that the committee would be unable to work intelligently under the amendment which would eliminate continuing appropriations. Story also said that the requirement calling for legislative approval of the advertising budget would tie up the committee's fund until the new budget was approved or disapproved.

Meanwhile, the directors of the Florida Citrus Producers Trade Association, in session in Lakeland, also voted their opposition to the proposed amendments. Association president W. C. Pederson of Waverly said, "The situation under these two amendments could easily wreck the Citrus Commission at a time when the citrus industry needs it most in working out the problems ahead of us."

CORRECTION

In her appeal to Kwanians yesterday for contributions to ward new facilities for the Seminole High School Library, Miss M. J. Williams, librarian, referred to use of the library by people who lived in towns outside of Sanford. Today she corrected that by this she did not refer to pupils of other schools in the county, but to those attending a high school who live in outlying communities. The Kwanian donations mentioned were not to the local school library, but to another school library in the state, also mentioned in the article. The school mentioned was not the local Kwanian club.

Advertising Said Vital To American Way Of Life

NBC President Hits At Efforts To Curb Radio Advertising

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Niles Trammel, president of the National Broadcasting Company, said today that advertising is the right arm of a free press and free radio. In an address prepared for the National Association of Broadcasters, Trammel said advertising is essential to the American economy and the American way of life.

"In the case of a vast majority of newspapers and magazines," he continued, "advertising makes all the difference between progress and poverty, between printing news that has been sought out and news that has been handed out."

Trammel went on to say that in the United States, all radio programs, no matter whether they're commercial or sustaining, are made possible by advertising. He said that in other countries where the radio system is a state monopoly, the listener has to pay for his listening. But in America, he went on, the listener gets more news, information and entertainment than anywhere else, and is thanked for his listening.

Shirking the FCC policy of radio programs being in the public interest, Trammel said: "The broadcasting of any radio program which a substantial proportion of the available audience wants to listen to at the time it goes on the air is an example of broadcasting in the public interest."

Getting back to the subject of advertising, Trammel said this: "There is the criticism that there is too much advertising on the air. Since American broadcasting is entirely supported by advertising and the press not entirely so, it might be natural to suspect that advertising messages would occupy a larger proportion of radio programs than they occupy in the white space of newspapers and magazines. The reverse of this is true."

"In the case of the great majority of successful newspapers and magazines, 50 percent or more of their total space is occupied by advertising. In the case of a network with which I am familiar, only 6 1/2 percent of the network's total program time is devoted to commercial announcements. In other words, out of the 1,800 minutes this network is on the air each day of the week, the commercials take an average of only 74 minutes."

Attorney General Grants Stay For Visiting Estonians

18 Refugees Given More Time To Ar- range Departure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The 18 Estonian refugees who had been ordered to leave Miami today now have been granted a temporary stay by Attorney General Tom Clark. Clark has directed the immigration service to do what it can to arrange admission for the group to some country in this hemisphere. This development came as the Estonians prepared to set sail for the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean.

President Truman praised Clark for his action in staying the deportation of the Estonian refugees. The President expressed hope that immigration laws can be amended so that political refugees may be provided for in what he called proper cases. He emphasized that legislation will be required.

MIAMI, Oct. 24 (AP)—A galvanized little band of 18 Estonian refugees who have been ordered to leave the country are making plans today to sail for the Dominican Republic. Their decision to go to the island republic was announced late last night by the Rev. James Loeffler of the Great Catholic Church in Miami. The priest has worked in behalf of the refugees ever since they sailed into Miami on Aug. 21 aboard their tiny fishing sloop.

Rev. Loeffler says the Dominican Republic offers the best opportunity, and that Capt. Felix Tandrea, skipper of the boat, will confer today with Jose M. Nouel, Consul General of the republic.

Francis J. Dever, United States Immigration official, gave the Estonians until noon today to decide whether to sail away in their tiny craft or be sent to Ellis Island for deportation to Sweden. Another band of 11 Estonians and one Finn and a third party of 18 are calmly awaiting the same orders which were given to their fellow countrymen—orders telling them they must put to sea again.

Mr. Crumley has been operating his agency for the past two years and prior to that for eight years was representative for the Metropolitan Company. Before coming to Sanford he lived in Euclid with his family and now lives at 120 West Sixteenth Street. Both Mr. Crumley and Mr. Montleith are Kwanians and are also active in civic affairs.

CIO Leader Hits Removal Of OPA Prices

Reuther Says End Of Price Ceilings Blow To Health Of American People

DETROIT, Oct. 24 (AP)—The President of the CIO United Auto Workers, Walter P. Reuther, said today the removal of price ceilings on food is a blow to the health and welfare of the American people.

He declared that the removal of ceilings "is the inevitable consequence of a series of actions started last spring by the 79th Congress to destroy price control."

Reuther adds that the removal of food ceilings will cost the American people $10,000,000 more for food this year than last. He says that's more than a 30 per cent increase, and he adds voters will remember at the polls which representatives in Congress are responsible.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—High Administration officials predicted that Congress may kill OPA in January. But these officials added that by that time only a slim list of very scarce items in addition to rent will remain under ceilings.

In line with these comments, the OPA has announced the removal today of price controls from commodities and a long list of non-food items. Removal of price ceilings from virtually all food and beverage items was announced yesterday. Only sugar, syrups, and rice remain under controls after midnight.

With the de-control actions announced yesterday and today the OPA swept away another large segment of wage controls because the government applies its pay curbs only when higher price ceilings are involved.

Statisticians estimate that in the case of the food and restaurant industries alone, some 500,000 one-half million workers are out from under wage controls because the government applies its pay curbs only when higher price ceilings are involved.

One ranking official acknowledged frankly that there is a widespread belief in the government that Congress will come back prepared to knock out OPA quickly and finally. This official said privately that the policy from now until the end of the year will be to get rid of ceilings rapidly, but in an orderly sequence.

The official said that the view is that it would be to President Truman's political advantage to trim the controlled list to the bone and then Congress take the responsibility if it wants to go the rest of the way.

Meanwhile, consumers are wincing to see what happens to prices in grocery stores, restaurants and liquor stores. OPA officials predict that the cost of living and drinking certainly will go up at least temporarily as the result of the bread-to-beer retreat from ceilings.

One OPA official said increases can be expected in bread and baked goods, jams, jellies and preserves, dry beans, canned fruit, bananas and most whisky.

Trade sources generally expect some temporary price rises but said there would be a gradual return to the old price system based on supply and demand.

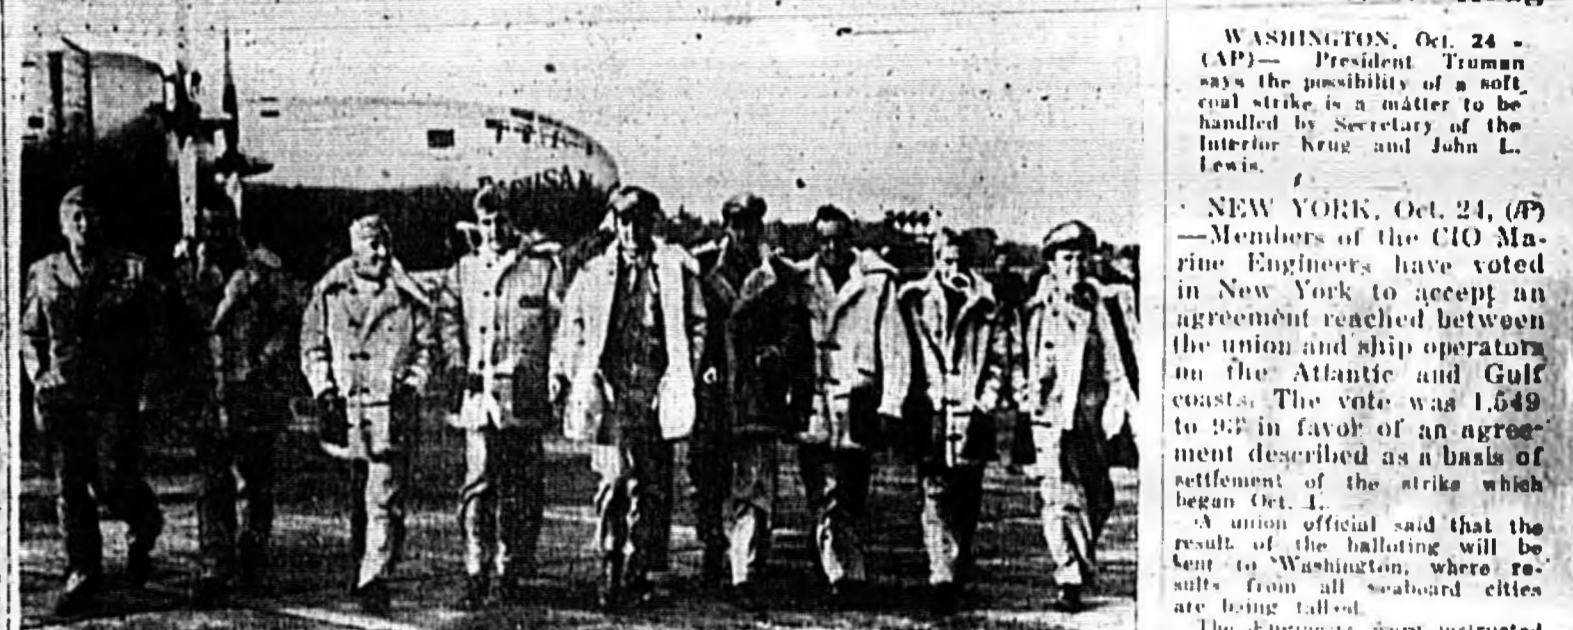

Liquor industry spokesmen predict that some aged Bourbon Scotch and other whiskeys may appear again at somewhat higher prices. They said OPA ceilings had tended to keep them from the market.

A New York bakery leader anticipated little change in consumer prices of bread and baked goods. He said he expected flour prices to remain about the same. But a Chicago flour mill spokesman forecast a jump of 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds in the price of flour.

Magnesium is finding new uses because of its vibration-dampening properties.

New Chain Fence Is Delivered For Use At Cemetery

A new chain link fence, four feet high and with a rail top, for use at the cemetery was today delivered to the City, it was announced this morning by City Commissioner H. N. Sayer. The fence will be placed at the front of the cemetery along Geneva Avenue and the old wire fence will be placed at the rear.

Concrete posts are now being stenciled on Park and French avenues to mark streets, and concrete posts have been placed to mark Sanford Avenue, it was said.

Mr. Sayer announced that the fence will be installed at other intersections as soon as they are available, he said.

The newly stenciled posts are attractive in appearance and fill a long felt need as most painted markings of street names on curbs have long since faded out. The work is being done under the direction of Sidney Thibault.

Six parking meters have been removed in front of the Post Office on First Street and have been replaced by yellow signs with black lettering announcing the new parking. The meters were replaced by signs following numerous complaints, but the five minute law will be strictly enforced, said Mr. Sayer.

FORCE USED

JERUSALEM, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Palestine government says it was necessary to use force Monday to disembark one of the 814 Jewish refugees deported to Cyprus after they attempted to enter Palestine illegally. The announcement says minor casualties resulted when 200 of the Jews had to be put ashore forcibly. No other details are given in the British announcement.

OPA Price Ceilings Hit Vacuum Cleaners

A. W. Huemme of Pittsburg, Pa., is now associated with R. W. McCullough, state distributor of the Kirby Vacuum Cleaner Company with offices located in the Sanford Atlantic National Bank Building. Mrs. Huemme is expected to arrive here this week, and they plan to locate here.

Mr. McCullough reported that he had 4,000 orders on hand for vacuum cleaners, which cannot be delivered because of the inability of the company in Cleveland, Ohio, to secure electric motors for 150,000 cleaners. This delay he attributed to OPA interference which he said holds prices to be paid for motors by old manufacturers to low levels, but permits new manufacturers to pay more and hence get deliveries.

Showdown Looms Between Lewis' Miners And Secretary Of Interior Krug

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Truman says the possibility of a soft coal strike is a matter to be handled by Secretary of the Interior Krug and John L. Lewis.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Members of the CIO Marine Engineers have voted in New York to accept an agreement reached between the union and ship operators on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. The vote was 1,549 to 93 in favor of an agreement described as a basis of settlement of the strike which began Oct. 1.

A union official said that the result of the balloting will be sent to Washington, where results from all seacoast cities are being tallied.

The Engineers were instructed not to return to work until they received clearance from the union. They were told that no clearance would be issued until orders were received from Washington. However, the Engineers also were instructed to respect the picket line of the striking A. F. of L. dock officers, who still are negotiating with the ship owners.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—It appears that the threat of another coal strike is a matter to be handled by Interior Secretary Krug and United Mine Workers' Chief John L. Lewis. Questioned about the situation at his news conference today, President Truman said the soft coal dispute is Krug's problem to handle. Mr. Truman refused to be drawn into a discussion of the John L. Lewis ultimatum for a new contract of the Mine Workers' contract.

Other matters, the Chief Executive declared, will give out a statement on the budget later in the day. When asked about the possibility of a wage control, he told reporters to read his Oct. 11 speech, in which he proclaimed the end of price controls on meat.

The President was asked whether Attorney General Tom Clark may be replaced by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. "I am absent for comment," was Mr. Truman's reply.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Lewis and the government over the time for renegotiation of a mine workers contract appears to be taking shape today.

Mine boss Lewis, widely known for his "no contract, no work" stand, has set Nov. 1 as the deadline for reopening negotiations. Lewis has emphatically stated that unless new contract discussions are begun by that date, the U. M. W. contract with the government will be "out."

His statements have been interpreted to mean that unless negotiations are started by Nov. 1, the government and miners will "talk."

Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug has expressed doubt that the miners' ultimatum was met by the new government. In Boulder City, Nev., last night that he did not see how he could be in Washington on the date specified by Lewis for beginning of the new contract talks. Krug is currently making a tour of western areas on federal business.

The negotiations dispute took on political significance today when the president of the U. M. W. district 17, William Blizard, termed the government's interpretation of the existing contract as one-sided, and he said it was "a plot by unscrupulous members of the Democratic party to destroy our union." To this Blizard added, "the miners should vote like they strike."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Lewis and the government over the time for renegotiation of a mine workers contract appears to be taking shape today.

Mine boss Lewis, widely known for his "no contract, no work" stand, has set Nov. 1 as the deadline for reopening negotiations. Lewis has emphatically stated that unless new contract discussions are begun by that date, the U. M. W. contract with the government will be "out."

His statements have been interpreted to mean that unless negotiations are started by Nov. 1, the government and miners will "talk."

Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug has expressed doubt that the miners' ultimatum was met by the new government. In Boulder City, Nev., last night that he did not see how he could be in Washington on the date specified by Lewis for beginning of the new contract talks. Krug is currently making a tour of western areas on federal business.

The negotiations dispute took on political significance today when the president of the U. M. Clover Blamed For Sexless Sheep

MELBOURNE (AP)—A new disease which affects the fertility of sheep is threatening the reproduction of flocks in Western Australia and parts of South Australia and Victoria. An Australian Government research officer, disclosing the presence of the disease, said it was thought originally it was associated with an early type of clover known as swainsonii, but now there was some suggestion that later clovers such as Mt. Barker and Tallarook were involved.

The officer said the clovers seemed to contain substances closely allied to oestrogen, a female hormone and similar to oestriol, a manufactured chemical used in human therapy and veterinary work. The substances, he declared, seemed to upset the ductless glands system of animals and affected the breeding organs of ewes.

Eddie Gilliland, Mud Hen President, Likes Local Park

Toledo Boss Was Florida State League President During 1936 Season

By ARTHUR BECKWITH
Herald Sports Editor

Eddie Gilliland, president of the Toledo Mud Hens American Association baseball team, arrived in Sanford three weeks ago to inspect the facilities of the Municipal Park in connection with the possibility of bringing the Hens to Sanford.

Gilliland, after looking over the local park, stated that the Municipal Park was very well suited for training activity.

Gilliland, who is leaving the Mud Hens to accept an appointment with the Detroit Tigers as director of the Tigers farm system, is a former resident of DeLand. From 1932 to 1936 he served as secretary of the Volusia County Chamber of Commerce. In 1936 Gilliland was elected president of the Florida State League.

Early in 1937 Gilliland was appointed assistant vice president of the St. Louis Browns and in 1942 was appointed president of the Toledo Mud Hens, a St. Louis farm club.

Gilliland stated "I have Bill Page of DeLand to thank for getting me into baseball. He sent me to Palatka to represent DeLand at a directors meeting in 1936. Later I was elected president of the league."

"It is not beyond the realm of possibility that the St. Louis Browns may arrange a working agreement with Sanford for the coming year," Gilliland added.

Picking All-Star Center This Year Will Be Difficult

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK—It will be very interesting this fall to watch the play of the centers on the football teams of Alabama, Navy and Clemson. They were one, two, three on the 1945 Associated Press All-American team.

Alabama, unbeaten last season and a 34-14 Rose Bowl victor over Southern California, had collegiate football's outstanding pivot man in 238-pound Vaughan Mancha. Coach Frank Thomas rates Mancha one of the best linemen ever to play for the Crimson Tide. Mancha is 24, a junior from Birmingham and stands six-foot-one.

Richard U. Scott is expected to bolster a Navy line weakened by the loss of key men through graduation.

For years to come people undoubtedly will be asking him "How come you played for Navy?" Scott lives within one mile of West Point and his dad has managed Army's Cadet store for the last 31 years. His brother Tom played tackle for Army in 1942.

But Dick Scott is happy at Annapolis and nothing would please him more than a Navy victory over Army when the service rivalry clash in Philadelphia on Nov. 30.

Scott played freshman football at Colgate in 1943; is 21, six-foot-two, weighs 190 pounds and will become an ensign upon graduation in June, 1948.

Clemson, South Carolina's agricultural college, believes it has in Ralph Jenkins one of the best centers in the south. He was chosen as the Associated Press third team center last year and has been a 60-minute player in most Tiger games during the last three campaigns.

This season he expects to become the first Clemson ever to win four football letters. Jenkins is a private in the Army in 1942, is married and comes from Newport, Tenn. He is 25, six-foot three and weighs 190 pounds.

THESE TWO STARS ARE THE GREAT DRIVING FORCE BEHIND THE 1946 ARMY FOOTBALL ELEVEN.

INSIDE SPORTS REPORT

By ARTHUR BECKWITH, JR.

By JULIAN STENSTROM

Rollins football coach Jack McDowell bit into a mighty tough piece of Gator meat the other day and forgot to put up his hurricane shutters when he proudly announced to the people of this entire state that his Tar machine could beat both the Florida and Miami grid squads scorchless.

Since McDowell made the statement many Sanford football fans have disagreed with him. However, there have been others, but only a few, who have agreed with the Tar mentor.

As far as we are concerned we do not think McDowell is right and we are convinced the statement was made for only one purpose. That purpose was more or less a method in which the Tar mentor could challenge Jack Harding of the Miami eleven and Bear Wolf of the Gator machine to play the Tars.

After seeing both the Gators and the Hurricanes in action, we are sure Rollins could not stop either team. We're afraid that the Rollins line, particularly against Miami, would have a tough time attempting to stop Harry (the Terrible) Ghau if the hefty Miami back rammed into the forward wall.

Although we completely disagree with McDowell's statement we will agree with anyone who advocates the Rollins-Florida contest each year. There's no reason why the two teams could not play an annual contest. A Rollins tilt at Gainesville would draw in the vicinity of 14,000 to 18,000 fans, particularly if it were an opening game for the Gators. A Gator-Tar encounter played at Orlando's stadium would draw a capacity of crowd of 10,000 and additional seating facilities could be set up to seat 3,000 more. We can't see anything wrong with that.

Florida has often failed to accept many Rollins invitations to meet each other as we understand it. It's about time the high and mighty Florida athletic officials come down to earth and give the other state schools an opportunity to vie for the Florida crown. Now that Miami has whipped Florida, Jack Harding's eleven will claim the state title.

Because we advocate a Florida-Rollins affair, we aren't intimating that Rollins would beat Florida, and we're not trying to say that Rollins would beat the Hurricanes. The fact is that Rollins would be beaten by either team and would be held scoreless.

But nevertheless, we can't understand how state titles mean anything if all the clubs involved aren't given a chance to play for it.

We would like to see the Tampa Spartans, Miami Hurricanes, Stetson Hatters and the Rollins Tars

Hamilton Points Middies For Army Football Contest

Back From Sea, Tom Hopes To End West Points Grid Reign

By JOHN F. CHANDLER
AP Newsfeatures

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Capt. Tom Hamilton, the man who inaugurated the graduate coaching system at the U. S. Naval Academy in 1934, is carrying on the Navy tradition, and fleet men hope his return means the end of two-year football drought against Army.

Navy men say that in general Tom Hamilton, who returned to the Academy this year after a tour of sea duty, they have probably the best regular Navy officer in the fleet for the job.

Hamilton, one of the Academy's greatest all-round athletes, coached Annapolis teams from 1934-35, winning 19 of 27 games played in three seasons. Then he returned to sea and later went to war.

In selecting Hamilton to succeed Comdr. Oscar Hagberg at the Tar helm, Navy men couldn't have overlooked the fact that Captain Tom gave the Middies their first victory over Army since 1921 when his team won the 1934 game, 3-0. That was on Slade Cutter's famed 20-yard field goal.

Army won the following year, 28-6, but Hamilton bounced back with a 7-0 victory in 1936, and since victory in the bitter service rivalry means a successful season no matter what the other scores, Tom was solid.

Navy regulations that an officer who has been on shore duty for three years must return to sea, sent Hamilton on his way.

Hamilton, who organized and directed the naval aviation physical training program during the war, likens football to mortal combat.

A great believer in the grid on the Florida schedule every season. Every club we've mentioned should play each other and then a state crown could be honestly awarded.

Until that time arrives it is a waste of words to be talking about state champions and what teams can beat and score on what clubs. McDowell's statement was the wisest we've ever heard of him making but we thoroughly admire his purpose.

point, he says that in football and war "we must seek out the opponent's weakness and pound upon it" and "use the element of surprise as a devastating scoring play."

He is credited with saving college football during the war, for Navy men attending preflight schools or V-12 schools were permitted to play.

During the war, Hamilton said: "This is no time to retreat. We are looking for a much more virile race and it will not come from calisthenics or jogging or other exercises where the incentive to excel is not present."

Now 41 years old and married, with two sons, Tom was a triple threat back in his playing days at Annapolis. He drop-kicked with skill and his educated toe brought the extra point which resulted in the memorable 21-21 tie with Army at Chicago in 1926.

Not generally known was the fact that Hamilton offered to resign his Navy commission and remain as a civilian coach at Annapolis after 1937, but Academy authorities thought this would be a step backward for both the institution and Hamilton.

In 1943, Hamilton asked for active duty, and leaving the physical training program he advanced from air officer to executive officer on the famous "Big E," the aircraft carrier Enterprise.

He participated in the invasion of the Gilberts, Marshalls, raids on Tulk and Palau, the first and second battles of the Philippine Sea, the invasion there, at Palau and Hollandia, and raids on Eniwetok and Iwo Jima. He wears the Bronze Star and the Legion of Merit for heroic action, and several battle stars.

Hamilton, a native of Hoopeson, Ill., has a home now in Columbus, O.—when he's not at Annapolis chalking up plans to get back in the swing against the cadets of West Point.

CROSS-COUNTRY BACK LARAMIE, Wyo.—(AP)—Cross-country running will return to the Rocky Mountain Conference this fall, with at least three schools represented. Wyoming, Colorado and Colorado Mines will compete in races and several other schools in the area may join the ranks.

JINX ON BEANTOWNERS MIAMI, Oct. 24—Boston College, beaten by Alabama, 37-21, in the 1943 Orange Bowl game, is rated the "unluckiest team" in the bowl series. Joe Repke, regular tackle, was injured in the game before the start of the game when a water cooler fell on him, and three other regulars were hurt early in the game.

Maryland Opens Drive To Stop Doping Of Horses

Commission Guards Stay With Charges To Stop Ringmen

By JOHN WEEKS
AP Newsfeatures

BALTIMORE—The man with the mustache approached the stable and held out a 50-dollar bill to the stable boy.

"Buy yourself a drink," he said, "and forget you saw me."

"Yesir," said the stable boy and he shuffled off.

The man with the mustache swung open the stable door and drew a hypodermic syringe from a case in his pocket. "Steady, boy!" he whispered to the sleek chestnut thoroughbred. "This won't hurt you a bit."

He raised the needle . . .

Is this the way horses are doped?

The chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, Ianly, outspoken George P. Mahoney, has an idea it happens something like that. Horsemen, understandably sensitive on the subject, aren't saying much about how doping occurs. Instead they're concentrating their fire once again on Mahoney's scheme for prevention.

That scheme, a "compromise" on the much-debated receiving-barn plan, calls for each horse to be stabled in a screened stall for two hours prior to post time. Guarding the stables are not the horsemen's employees, but blue-coated racing commission guards, mostly ex-patrolmen.

They're assigned one to a horse, and they stay with their charges through the Maryland commission's mandatory pre-race saliva test, through the identification by the track stewards, through the adding ceremony, until the horse is led from the paddock postward.

The "compromise," which narrowly averts a threatened boycott of Maryland's tracks by the powerful Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, lies in Mahoney's concession that if the saliva sample is injected into a white mouse in the commission's mobile-trailer lab causing the mouse to wiggle his tail, indicating the presence of a drug, the owner and trainer are not held responsible. The horse is scratched, and that's the end of it.

From a man of Mahoney's dogged determination to "protect" the racing public from needle experts, that's a small concession. The horsemen won this point only after a legal battle fought up to Maryland's highest court.

The fight centered around the commission's rules which held that if a horse was found to have been doped, the fact would constitute evidence that the trainer was guilty either of neglect or conspiracy.

When Mahoney began to bear down in earnest with saliva and urine tests last fall, a number of horses were found to have been doped. Their trainers were given hearings, and, when the commission found that the tests proved stimulation, the trainers were suspended for varying periods.

Trainers immediately began to cry "foul!"

They contended that they should not be deprived of following their occupation because that man with the mustache slipped into their stables.

The horsemen won that case on constitutional grounds, the courts ruling that the men were denied the right to work despite the fact that nothing had been proven against them.

But far from resting there, the

STAR OUT RIGHT

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—The University of Texas football team has lost only one opening day game in more than half a century of grid wars. The Longhorns dropped a narrow 19-18 decision to Kansas in the opening contest of 1938. The Bible coached eleven smothered Missouri 42-0 in the opener this year.

hormen have resumed the attack on the plan from other angles. Thoroughbreds, they not assert, are high-strung animals, and should not be subjected to the unfamiliar surroundings of the stadium in the crucial two hours before the race.

And they have resumed the fight on the accuracy of the mouse test.

Furthermore, says Harold W. Ferguson, secretary of the Maryland Horsemen's Protective Association, the parade of horses past the stables in the paddock—where their bluecoated "escort"—is "an affront to all horsemen."

New Father Reports Shortage Of Names

there's a shortage of girls' first names, according to the father of a three-week-old Liverpool, N. Y. girl, who returned a name form to the county unfilled.

chell, county registrar of vital statistics, the father wrote: "We have not named the child yet and have no reason for believing we will do so soon. The fact is we spent some time getting a name. The child turned out to be a girl and we could not get the name we spent so much trouble getting. Times being what they are, shortages of everything—it will be impossible to get a name within a reasonable time."

Mitchell said it was the first time in the history of the department that a supplemental name form had been returned without the necessary information written in.

Bodies Of Fliers Found In Heroes' Grave In Norway

VERSAILLES, France—The American Army graves registration command, in final reports issued here, told how the bodies of 11 United States Army air corps fliers, missing since September 9, 1944, were found in recent Scandinavian operations of a U. S. Army disinterment team.

The crew in a four-engine bomber bound with heavy cargo for Norwegian underground forces crashed into towering Mount Skor-vefoll, in the Telemark Mountains, shortly after midnight on September 10, 1944.

The disinterment team found that their bodies had been buried in a common grave by loyal Norwegians with a stone marker nearly engraved "they gave all a man can give for freedom and peace."

Fresh flowers decorated the white cross marking each grave, the report said—flowers that had been retrieved regularly throughout nearly two years until the American squad could reach the grave and bring the bodies back.
