Hill to appear in court today

SANFORD - Terrance Kenneth Hill is scheduled to make his first appearance in court today before Seminole Circuit Judge Alan Dickey to face charges he murdered Mildred Carver of Sanford in 1989.

Hill, 26, was being held at the state prison in Mayo following sentencing for several burglaries in Sanford during 1969, said Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett. Hill is charged with first degree murder, burglary to a dwelling and robbery with a deadly weapon. He could face the death penalty if convicted of the murder charge.

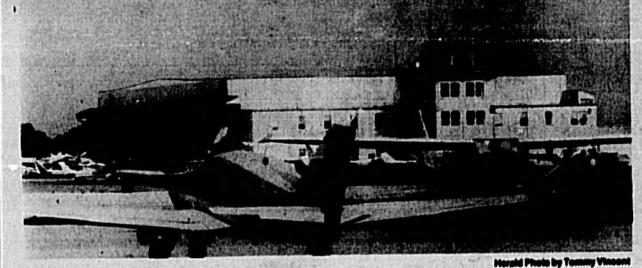

Hill is suspected of burglarizing the 211 Lakeview Ave. residence of Carver sometime between June 22 or 23 in 1989. The woman was later found, the apparent victim of a beating with a blunt object.

SANFORD - The first step towards completing the Seminole County expressway to Interstate 4 was made Wednesday.

Members of the Seminole County Expressway Authority unanimously approved retaining Wilbur Smith Associates as project managers for the final six-mile link of the expressway from U.S. Highway 17-92 at Lake Mary Boulevard to Wilbur Smith now serves as project manager for the expressway construction about to begin be-tween Aloma Avenue to U.S. 17-92. The firm will be paid $588,604 for the tasks.

Among Wilbur Smith's tasks will ere apdate traffic projections for the entire expressway and to review. ternative financing schemes. The firm also will review preliminary design plans and consider the addition of an interchange at Rinehart Road. In addition, the firm will coordinate the engineering firms that will actually engineer and design the road link. SCEA director Gerald Brinton said he plans to have design of the link to begin in early 1992, shortly after construction of the Aloma Avenue to U.S. 17-92 link is begun. Brinton said he hopes to have all designs and permits ready for state or other Bee Expressway, Page 5A

SANFORD - The Central Florida Regional Airport should consider taking some of the overload from the Orlando International Airport. The suggestion has been made in a new study of the Sanford airport's future.

The study indicates that the airport in west-central Sanford, has a bright future. That is because it is in a strong position to attract and develop a number of aviation activities and could have the effet of being an escape valve to relieve the pressure on Orlando International Airport.

Among the suggestions are scheduled service to Miami, international and domestic passenger charter service, air cargo and overnight express service, and corporate aviation.

Members of the Sanford Airport Authority are currently studying the report prepared by Wilber Smith and Associates, along with its subconsul-Bee Airport, Page 5A

Meter readers get the bones

MANCHESTER, N.H. - To help electric meter readers avoid dog bites, bone-shaped questionnaires were mailed to utility customers in hopes of identifying hazardous hounds.

"Not vicious!" wrote the owner of Bandit, a German shepherd mix. "Might jump on you. He has yet to learn good manners.'

The Public Service Co. of New Hampshire sent the bone-shaped questionnaire to customers with last month's bills.

"Our meter readers stomp around door to door all over the state and a common issue is harassment by a dog that they were not aware of." utility spokesman lan Wilson said.

More than 2,100 customers have returned the cards. Some assured the company that employees have nothing to fear, but the owners of a Siberian named Hombre sent a mixed message

"Overly friendly." they wrote. "But if you are afraid of him and he knows it, he may bite.'

SANFORD - The chairman of Seminole County's Democratic Executive Committee opposes a possible change of county commission candidate residency requirements that would allow any resident to run for any district seat. "I am definitely opposed to that."

said Bill Gilmartin. DEC chairman. "I feel that the commissioners should live in the district they are representing. It's the only way for them to be accountable."

Gilmartin said he and other local Democrats support single-member district elections where commissioners are elected by only their district constituents. Seminole County commissioners are now elected at large - by all county voters.

Gilmartin said if candidates are allowed to run for any district seat regardless of where they live, they would be less accountable to district residents.

Last month. Seminole County filed a request for a judicial opinion in Seminole County Circuit Court to determine whether a 1988 Florida

Supreme Court decision affected a section of the Seminole County Charter that requires county commission candidates to live in the district they are seeking to represent. The county charter was patterned on state election laws.

Last night, nearly 100 upset Midway residents braved the downpour to fill Mt. Bethel Church in Midway for an airing-out session. The words "racial" and "impeachment" were brought up by several of the angry residents, both young and old.

Child charged in stabbing

CLEARWATER - A 10-year-old was charged with stabbing a 6-year-old playmate in an argument over an inflatable raft, police said.

The victim. Ryan Barkow, was listed in fair condition Wednesday at All Children's Hospital in St. Petersburg.

Police questioned the 10-year-old about the incident Tuesday night and later charged him with aggravated battery, a felony, said police spokesman Wayne Shelor. The boy was released to his mother's custody, Shelor said.

Several children were playing in a pool at an apartment complex when an argument broke out over the rubber raft, the spokesman said.

"Some horseplay got out of hand, some feelings got hurt and some verbal insults were exchanged," Shelor said.

FORT LAUDERDALE - A Welsh teen-ager who disap-peared from a hospital after giving birth to a boy was allowed to choose his adoptive parents under an agreement with state child welfare officials.

"it's all over now, ian't it," said the 19-year-old mother, who used the fictitious name Samantha Thomas when she had the baby June 20 at Holy Cross Hospital. "It's turned out for the best."

Her son was turned over Wednesday to a Florida couple under terms of the agreement approved Tuesday by Broward Circuit Judge John Miller, said attorney Bennett Cohn, an adoption specialist who worked with both sides.

The state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services went to court when the mother tried to regain custody because she only wanted the baby long enough to give him away.

for HRS to make sure the child avas given good care, but he said he thought the agency overreacted.

"I believe the young lady was in a foreign country in unusual circumstances and had no one to course of treatment by opting for immediate surgery or a different form of chemotherapy.

"Learning whether a tumor responds to chemotherapy carly may be key to de-termining the patient's chances for survival," says Scott. "Right now, patients may undergo drug treatment for weeks before surgery without the drugs having the desired impact on the tumor. The tumor may, in fact, be growing and spreading throughout the body."

Patients typically receive 10 weeks of chemotherapy followed by surgery and more chemotherapy. But a tumor's response to chemotherapy is difficult to monitor even with CAT scans and magnetic resonance imaging.

Using magnetic resonance spectroscopy (a diagnostic technique being modified for clinical use). Scott says she can identify chemical changes taking place in mice tumors in response to drug therapy. The spectrometer "creates a "ingerprint" of the chemicals present in the tumor," she said. "This fingerprint changes in different ways if the tumor is growing or if it is arrested."

The work has been extended to humana but is still experimental. Early tests indicate "tumors in humans behave in a very similar manner as tumora in mice," she said. "This suggests we should be able to analyze whether the tumor is responsive to drugs within a matter of days after chemotherapy."

What does a rice farmer in Vietnam have to do with a seal hunter living above the Arctic Circle? As it turns out, one could be killing the other with chemicals.

Scientists have found that a wide range of toxic solvents and pesticides — including PCBs, DDT, dioxins, chlordane and several hundred other dioxins, chlordane and several hundred other related organic compounds — make excellent and persistent travelers. Though many of these substances have been banned in much of the industrial world, they are atill being manufactured and used in many developing nations. Once released into the air, they migrate readily along the world's long-range air and water currents, which eventually sweep them northward, toward the pole. It's not that the arctic is filling up with pollutants. But once in the ford chain of that pollutants. But once in the food chain of that harsh wilderness, the poisons tend to concentrate in the fatty tissues insulating the fish and animals that have adapted to survive there. By the time that PCBs devour one-celled plankton in the Arctic Ocean, move up through the chain into the fish that feed on them and so onto seals and eventually to polar bears, scientists have found that the concentration of the poisons can increase ability to the seals and the poisons can increase 3 billion times.

Thus researchers discovered that the 450 Eskimos living on Broughton Island - 70 miles above the Arctic Circle and thousands of miles away from factories, bug sprays and all the other perils of modern life - have the highest concentration of PCBs in their blood of any people on Earth.

Those discoveries underscore the importance of the agreement that the Bush administration signed recently with the seven other nations that have territory north of the circle - Canada. Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway, Sweden and the Soviet Union - to begin jointly monitoring pollution of the arctic by oil, radiation, heavy metals and organic contaminants Angeles Police Chief Dary! L. Gates unced he would ratire next year.

One day, historians will look back on 1991 and marvel at the sciencic events that shook the law enforcement community. The pending pro-fessional demise of dinossuric and dyspeptic Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl L. Gates was preceded by the death of one of America's most colorful cops, Philadelphia's bombastic and charismatic Frank L. Rizzo.

Frank L. Risso. The two had much in common. Both stretched public nerves to high-tension points with their dehumanizing police methods. (Risso once summed up his technique as "spaceo il caps" — bust their heads). Both were uncommonly loyal to their fellow cops. Both rejected criticism that their performance implicitly approved police beutality and recism. brutality and racism.

The similarities end there. When Risso died suddenly a few days ago at the age of 70, he was in the thick of a whiriwind campaign he hoped would re-install him as mayor. During the 1970s, he had been mayor for cight years, after a stormy lenure as police com blustering Horatio Alger exemplar during his political years grew to enjoy his outrageous humor and capacity for metaphorical and witty vulgarity. After his death, columnists and editorial writers recalled, with almost nostalgic sadness, "the Rizzo years.

Maybe that's Gates' problem: a surly obnox-iousness as offensive as it is insensitive. In such controversies, a sense of style helps. Officials without humor are persons without humanity.

A dour Gates refuses to concede that he may be out of step with the city's sense of reciprocal-civility, or with what Yale Law School Professor Charles L. Black calls the "eiusdem generis" rule — which cites those offenses which the community considers extremely serious and "which are plainly wrong in themselves to a person of honor, or to a good citizen, regardless of words on the statute books."

The report of the Christopher Commission in L.A. detailed a systematic pattern of behavior among policemen that clearly violated the "etuadem generis" rule. L.A. residents may not be able to persuade the dinosauric Gates to step down so that city can heal its wounded heart. But Americans may be more formidably persuasive by boycotting the city as a tourist or convention site.

WASHINGTON - Behind closed doors, Army Col. Millard Peck has told eight members of Congress and one senator that the government's effort to find live American POWs in Vietnam is a farce.

Peck told the riveted lawmakers about his feelings when he joined the Pentagon's Office for Prisoners of War and Missing in Action. "I initially just wanted to fix the office." After a while, Peck changed his mind. "I don't want to be part of this," he decided. "I don't want anyone to say I sold out my buddles in Vietnam."

His comments came in a closed-door session of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee hearing on May 30. The

Tax hike misinformation

Well, Citizens of Seminole County:

The County Commission stuck it to you again. In the information fed to us prior to the vote on the 1 cent sales tax by the Commission, property owners were threatened with a property tax increase if we didn't vote yes on the penny sales tax increase.

All the while, our County Commission and County Manager. Ron Rabun were sitting on the proposal to increase our property taxes anyway. Does anyone in Seminole County believe it only a coincidence that the utility tax proposal, the school tax increase, and the other budget proposals were not available to the public until two or three days after the 1 cent sales tax proposal was voted on?

Does anyone believe these tax proposals will be in any way influenced by what the public says at the hearings on these matters at the next commissioners' or school board meeting?

Did anyone, other than a handful who directly benefit, remember that they voted to "save the wetlands" with tax monies to be collected at a later date? That later date is now.

Do the majority of people in Seminole County really want to see their money (yes, taxpayers money!, Seminole County coffers hold your money) used to build a boardwalk at the zoo or plant trees to beautify the street to Heathrow. Most citizens can't get potholes fixed in their neighborhood streets because of the "lack of money." Many can't even get their streets paved.

The reasons given for additional taxes just won't wash when the taxes collected are used to raise the salaries of bureaucrats and politicians, to pay for things which are not absolutely necessary such as trees in the median on Lake Mary Blvd. to perpetuate the "ins", and to raise my "standard of living" against my wishes.

And how does the Commission arrive at the ligure of "a tax increase of about $112/year for people who own a $100,000 home." Unless my calculator is crazy it works out more like this:

Elect: $100/mo. x 12 mo. x 10% equals $120; Fuel oil: 100 gal/year x .04/gal equals $4: Water serv: $35/mo. x 12 mo. x 10% equals $42: Telephone: $14.25/mo. x 12 mo. x 10% equals $17.10; Total: $183.10.

And this is on a home appraised closer to $60,000. In addition to this, add street lighting. school taxes, state taxes, wetlands procurement tax, etc., etc., etc., and the reduction in county taxes from $5.75 to $5.53 as reported in the Herald means we who pay the bills save $13.20 on a $60,000 home with the $25,000 exemption, and pay about $200 more thanks to the proposed utility taxes. We are losing ground fast. If things continue as before, some of these new taxes will be diverted to use for pay raises for the politicians and bureaucrais.

If these people, who are feeding at the public trough, use the excuse for larger salaries via tax increases that the private sector pays more, they should be returned to the private sector at once.

Please don't raise my "standard of living" by raising my taxes any more. I can't afford it

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. Letters are subject to editing.

CHICAGO - The National Weather Service recently released the findings of a disaster survey team on its poor performance during a deadly tornado that struck the Chicago suburbs of Plainfield and Crest Hill on Aug. 28. 1990. Subsequently, NWS Director Elbert Friday Jr. accepted responsibility for the service's failure to give adequate warning about the twister, which left 29 dead, 300 injured, and property damage in excess of $160 million.

Now, however, NWS sources reveal the failure went deeper. As one veteran forecaster puts it. "This is the biggest NWS screwup I've seen in 20 years on the job.

Friday said that if his forecasters had provided adequate warnings, "We might have saved a very large number of those lives." Robert Maddox, head of the disaster survey team and director of the National Severe Storms Laboratory in Norman, Okia., said forecasters could have provided 10 to 15 minutes warning if the system had worked correctly. However, a careful reading of the report shows that - had the system worked adequate warning might have been issued 30 or even 60 minutes before the twister struck.

The report - technical, bureaucratic and purposely circumspect - uses phrases like: Communication and coordination among NWS offices and staff could have been more effective during the period of severe weather." Still, the report pulls few punches and relates an extraordinary series of errors and failures, if not outright negligence, by personnel at four different NWS offices.

Early on Aug. 28, the NWS Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, looking at satellite imagery, issued a severe thunderstorm "watch" for Northern Illinois. Around noon, the fast-moving front developed its first tornado, near the Illinois-Wisconsin border. The Rockford office (the NWS office northwest of Chicago), in conjunction with the radar facility at Marseilles (located 25 miles southwest of Chicago and the main NWS radar station for northern Illinois, including Chicago), issued a tornado warning. This warning mentioned that a tornado had touched down and that people in the area were in immediate danger and should take cover.

The report praises Rockford for this quick action. (In fact, at 1:37 p.m., one - and possibly two - twisters did touch down in Rockford's coverage area. But no deaths or serious injuries occurred.)

The front continued moving southeast toward the Chicago suburbs. Between 2 p.m. and 3:51 p.m., the Chicago NWS office (located in suburban Rosemont and responsible for castern and northeastern Chicago suburbs. including Plainfield) issued eight severe weather statements. However, several of these statements overlapped, contradicted each other or gave inaccurate information. Further. even though Chicago forecasters had learned through secondary sources that a twister had hit the Rockford area, none of these statements stressed the likelihood of tornadoes, except in routine fashion as a possibility in any heavy thunderstorm situation.

Only at 3:55 p.m. did the Chicago NWS office put out its first tornado statement. based on a police sighting in Crest Hill. By this time the killer tornado had already come and gone. cutting a 16.4-mile swath of destruction, having touched down for an

One critical finding was that video recordings of the radar screen at Marseilles show the "super cells" which produce tornadoes did show up and should have been seen. They were not.

What the report does not detail is that the operator on the screen at Marseilles was a traince. However, survey team member Richard Przywarty insists, "We found him to be completely radar-qualified, including training at our Radar School." Przywarty admitted the survey team never looked into how closely the traince was being supervised that afternoon. "It is my understanding the supervisor was in and out all day," says Przywarty.

This is the

biggest NWS

screwup l've

years on the

job. 📕

The traince, though, did at least one thing completely right - perhaps the key event in the entire sequence. The trainee made a telephone call from Marseilles to Chicago at 2:54 p.m. to report his radar was showing a "level six" intensity storm with a top of 60.000 feet. This is the highest level classification for a storm, and the extreme elevation of its top indicated it was a monster.

NWS sources say that a senior meteorologist who took the call diamissed the information. But Przywarty said the survey team "was never told that. I talked at length with (the trainee) myself, and he never mentioned it."

In any event, say experts, the call, combined with knowledge of the Rockford sighting. should have alerted the Chicago office. Why it did not is a question that still remains unanswered.

session has been classified as top SUCTUT. DOLLOUT associate Jim Lynch has pieced together what transpired.

The meeting was chaired by Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., who walked out after less than a half hour and declared to the waiting press that Peck's allegations were flimsy and that there was no government conspiracy to block unscrupulous people.

POW investigations. Solarz missed out on the last two hours of the secret session in which Peck exposed the failures of the program.

Peck's debut on Capitol Hill came shortly after his pithy resignation letter was made public. In that letter, he challenged President Bush's assertion that the POW/MIA issue was of the "highest priority" in his administra-tion. Peck wrote that "the entire issue is being manipulated by unscrupulous people in the government or associated with the government."

There have been 1.400 reported sightings of U.S. servicemen in Vietnam since the end of the war. None of them have been confirmed, but Peck implied that the Pentagon goes out of its way to debunk each report.

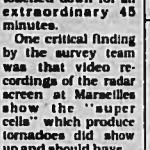

Peck told the committee about an Air Force captain who, while researching the war, found a credible Laotian general with new information about Site 85, an Air Force radar base in Laos. The general claimed he had participated in a raid on Site 85 and that he was sure two or three American soldiers were captured and taken north. The general was willing to talk, and Peck was willing to listen. But he said he was stopped by Ann Mills Griffiths, the director of the private National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia. Peck said Griffiths told him, "You're forbidden to do this. I'll handle it." We have reported in the past that Griffiths is not a government official and is supposed to be a watchdog for the prisoners and their families, but she mouths the government line. Peck told the committee that Griffiths repeatedly blocked his and others' efforts to pursue sighting reports and had access to intelligence data often before the Defense Intelligence Agency was able to review it.

Griffiths has previously denied Peck's allegations and called them "ludicrous." considering he only worked in the POW office for eight months.

It was long enough to convince Peck that the government wasn't sincere about going after remaining POWs if they exist. He described one report from a Laotian birdwatcher who reported seeing American prisoners. Peck said the information was dismissed on the grounds that the testimony of a birdwatcher was not credible.

In the closed hearing, Rep. Robert Lagomarsino, R-Calif., asked Peck if the problems were a matter of "disorganization or conspiracy." Peck replied. "It is charitable to say disorganized. I really think it's much more." By the time Peck uttered those words, Solarz had already left the meeting to tell the press there was no conspiracy, and had gone off to other commitments.

MR.WAUKEE - Relatives of confessed littler Jellwy Dahmer and they discovered a vat filled with bones and blass three earls ago when he lived with his grandmother but couldn't tell if the remains were human or animal.

Dahmer, 31, confeased to killing and cutting up 11 people whose parts, including three refrigerated heads, were found in his tiny, foul-smelling apartment, police said Wednesday. Police also found a photo of a boy who has been missing since May and whose brother Dahmer was convicted of molesting in 1969.

Dahmer told police he drugged and strangled his victime, dismembered them and boiled some of the heads to remove the flesh, according to court papers. Circuit Judge Frank T. Crivello set ball at $1 million cash.

Homicide charges could be filed today. District Attorney E. Michael McCann said.

The go-for-the-jugular celebrity biographer to herself the subject of a Kitty Kelley-style bio that accuses her of the same kind of scandalous behavior that made her books on Nancy Reagan. Frank Sinatra and others best sellers.

In "Poison Pen: The Unauthorized Biography of Kitty Kelley." George Carposi Jr. portrays Kelley as promiscuous and claims she stole dresses and perfumes — as well as other writers' words — and made up tales about the rich and famous.

"Kelley has been exposed internationally as a teller of inaccurate tales, manufactured scandal, and malicious mounds of made-up muck," Carpozi concludes in his book, which is due in stores next week.

iraq faces nuclear deadline today

WASHINGTON - Today is the U.N. deadline for Iraq to provide full disclosure of its weapons of mass destruction, but U.S. officials say no military strike is imminent despite their skepticism about Saddam Hussein's willingness to come clean. Asked about the significance of the deadline. State Department press officer David Denny noted Wednesday that U.N. officials have said much work and analysis remain before any conclusions can be made about just how complete the Iraqi disclosures to date have been.

Denny said the administration agrees with the U.N. assessment that a considerable inspection effort lies ahead before the full picture of the Iraqi efforts can be drawn with confidence.

He said today's deadline was a U.N. Security Council marker against which to measure Iraqi compliance with its require-ment to provide information on its nuclear, chemical, biological and ballistic missile activity. The council members did not specify a precise time of day for the deadline.

Isaac Bashevis Singer dies

MIAMI - Isaac Bashevia Singer, whose tales of Jewish life in Eastern Europe's ghettos and America won him the Nobel Prize in literature, has died at 87.

The Polish-born writer died Wednesday after several strokes, said his wife. Alma.

Singer wrote more than 30 books, all in his native tongue of Yiddish.

His work was inhabited by demon and dybbuks, spirits and specters. Most of the stories are of the shtetls, Jewish villages in Poland during the three centuries before the Holocaust. The modern stories were set in New York or Florida.

Democrats zero in on hostage strategy

WASHINGTON - Despite possible political peril, House Democratic leaders plan to pursue a formal investigation of whether the 1980 Reagan-Bush campaign struck a deal with Iran to delay release of American hostages until after the election, Democratic sources say.

The officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., would announce the probe next week and detail the mechanism he will establish to carry out the investigation.

President Bush has denied any knowledge of a campaign hostage deal with Iran but has said he would not mind if Congress carried out its own inquiry. Former President Carter has called for an investigation.

Foley is convinced that the persistent allegations are too serious to allow them to circulate without final answers, the sources said. He has become convinced, as well, that those answers cannot be obtained without the power of a formally constituted committee to issue subpoenas and to question witnesses under oath.

New $100 bill unveiled

WASHINGTON - The government is unveiling a new $100 bill designed to foil counterfeiters using state-of-the-art color copiers.

But because the changes are subtle — the addition of a nearly invisible thread and a microscopic line of type — most people won't notice any difference.

"It does not alter the appearance, for all intents and purposes, of currency notes." Ira Pollkoff, a spokesman for the Treasury Department's Bureau of Engraving and Printing, said in an interview. The new bills "will continue to look identical to current notes."

Dolphins hope Craver a 'catch'

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins rookie Aaron Craver, praised by Coach Don Shula for his pass-catching skills, quit football in the 10th grade because he didn't want to be a receiver. "The coach wouldn't allow me to play any of the positions I wanted to play — running back, quarterback, defensive back — instead of receiver." Craver said. "It was just a position I didn't want to play at the time." didn't want to play at the time."

But he likes to catch the ball, and he'll likely get a chance to do it in Friday's preseason opener at home against the Chicago Bears. Wednesday was the first full day at training camp for Craver, a running back from Fresno State. The third-round draft pick reported 11 days late Tuesday after signing a three-year contract for an estimated $950,000.

Craver's arrival left the Dolphins with 11 unsigned players, including eight starters. The only absent rookie is receiver Randal Hill, the team's first-round draft pick.

Severe weather pushed back the first round of the National American Baseball Federation district tournament at Lyman High School. The cancellation of Tuesday's genes was obvious, but would the field, which ky under at least an inch of water, be ready for tonight's contests?

"If we don't get any rain, the field will definitely be ready." said Lyman Bullets coach Bob Mcallough, whose squad does the intenance work on the field.

Oviedo and Lake Howell managed to play two-and-one-half innings of their contest before it was halted. Oviedo, the visitors, will hold a 3-1 advantage when they resume action the maniner. this evening. Lyman and Bishop Moore will follow with their game at 7 p.m.

Because of yesterday's weather, the championahip game won't take place until Sunday evening, or if a one-game-winner-take-ail showdown occurs, possibly Monday night. Saturday's action will feature four contests instead of the scheduled three.

Oviedo drew first blood in the second inning. Andy Holmes singled with one out and scored after Richard Brittle nailed a double to deep center field. He would later score on Lou Traeger's infield one run in their half of the second.

They faced DeLand, who defeated Pierson 10-5 in the first round, at 11 a.m. this morning.

Should the Orioles win. they would probably play a winner's bracket game at 4 p.m. If they lose, they might turn around and com-pete again at 1 p.m. All schedules following Sanford's morning game were tenative.

MIAMI - The evolving list of candidates to become the Florida Marlins' general manager currently includes six prospects, and all are employed in the major leagues, the expansion team's president said.

Carl Barger said he has already requested permission to interview three of the candidates. He also said the list is flexible.

Wednesday's edition of The Miami Herald quoted National League sources as identifying these candidates: Doug Melvin of the Baltimore Orioles, Dan Duquette of the Montreal Expos. Gord Ash of the Toronto Blue Jays, Bill Lajole of the Atlanta Braves. Walt Jocketty of the Oakland Athletics. and Lee Thomas of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Melvin, Duquette and Ash are assistant general managers. Lajoie is a scout, Jocketty is director of baseball administration and Thomas is the Phillies' general manager.

Collier OKs Orioles' plan

NAPLES - The Baltimore Orioles' plan to move into an $18 million spring training complex received approval from the Collier County Commission.

The board's 4-1 vote Tuesday authorized the team and the county to begin negotiating agreements for the complex about a mile west of Interstate 75.

The site plan is the fourth the Orioles have tried since committing to move to Collier County last summer.

"I think the time has come for Collier County to let this thing happen." said Tom Daffron, the Orioles' senior vice president.

Oh yes, the three-year Sanford resident and former head golf professional at Timacuan wants to do well in the tournament which begins today, but for another reason. # DiTore, Brown help keep Oviedo Seniors in the hunt

From Staff Reports

NICEVILLE - Pitching for the first time in nearly two months. Rich DiTore worked four strong innings Wednesday night to lead the Oviedo Senior All-Stars to a 9-4 win over Navarro in an elimination contest of the Section I tournament being played at Niceville's Twin Oaks Field.

With the win, Oviedo earns a rematch with Jacksonville-Arlington tonight at 7 p.m. Because Arlington defeated Oviedo 5-4 Tuesday, Oviedo must beat Arlington twice in a row to advance to next week's state tournament.

DiTore also paced Oviedo's eight-hit attack Wednesday with a pair of home runs and a single. driving in three runs and scoring

But the real story was DiTore's performance on the mound. Faced with the possibility of having to play five games in five days, DiTore, who had hurt his arm in the spring, gave the Oviedo pitching staff the boost it needed, striking out six and walking one while allowing four hits and one

Jason Fore relieved DiTore in the fifth but ran into trouble in the seventh, leaving in favor of Mark Metcalf with two runners on and one out. Metcalf faced just one batter, getting him to fly out to second baseman Mike Rugienius, who doubled the runner off first base.

Oviedo also turned a double play in the fifth to keep Navarro at bay.

"I don't believe I've ever gone to a tournament with a more positive attitude," .said Hen-dershot. "I'm hitting the ball well and my up-and-down game is extremely solid. I don't see any reason why I can't put four rounds of 69 together." Last year. Hendershot came in with 71-74-75-74 and finished in During the past six months. Brott has gained a better control of his swing. Last Monday, he the middle of the pack. He quadrupled bogeyed the same hole, the 180-yard par-three tied for first in a Central Florida Mini Tour event before losing a sudden-death playoff. He shot an even-par 72 at Heathrow fifth, on both Saturday and Sunday, knocking his tee shots into the water which borders two Despite his swing anxieties. Brott knows that he doesn't need sides of the green.

But he's confident that won't happen this year. "I have an excellent chance of well on the slick Bermuda winning," Hendershot com-mented. "It'd be nice to join the company of those who have gone on to succeed on the tour. It's a big title."

Other professionals include David Smith of Longwood. Winter Springs's Dan Wood and Mark Burek, and Casey $10,000-plus first prize. Nine others, including Timacuan's Dennis Postlewait, look to show Middleton and Tony DeMaria of Casselberry. Former Oviedo graduate John Pettit and Batt Bauer will compete as amateurs.

Ted Brown continued his red-hot hitting with a single that plated Bellhorn. Brown went to second on a pass ball and to third on a wild pitch before scoring on Andy Hynes' single. Hynes also moved up a base on a pass ball but that wasn't necessary as DiTore followed an out later with a two-run home run.

Navarro reached DiTore for a run in the bottom of the first, but DiTore got it back his next trip to the plate, launching a solo home run in the fourth.

Oviedo added three more insurance runs. Bellhorn scored on a sacrifice fly by Hynes in the fifth. In the seventh, a sacrifice fly by Bellhorn brought home Slavik while Ted Brown doubled to score Mike Rugienius.

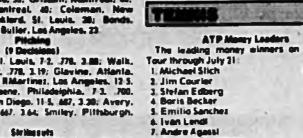

Brown, who did not have an at bat for Oviedo during the District 14 tournament last week, collected a double and two singles Wednesday, driving in two runs and scoring one. On the week, Brown is 7-for-8 with two doubles and a triple. Jay Busse and Rugienius each contributed singlesd in the win over Navarro on Wednesday. Slavik and Bellhorn each scored two runs, Bellhorn also getting credit for an RBI. Hynes scored one run and drove in two. For Navarro, Cody Cagle doubled.

implants could reverse impotence

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is your opinion, the cost and what can one expect from a penile prosthesis implant?

DEAR READER: I've answered this question before, but I'm happy to have another go.

There are many types of penile implants for men with impotence. These devices include both permanently erect prostheses and those which can be inflated. The type best suited to a particular patient should be chosen by a qualified urologist who is familiar with the patient's age, state of health and preferences. There are no standard costs for the prostheses, since the cost of each device is included in the entire surgical expense for implantation.

Therefore, I cannot answer your question more fully except to say that penile prostheses are a godsend for many men who otherwise could not enjoy normal sexual relations; you should direct your specific questions to a urologist. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long. self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My feet burn if I am walking on them. and at night I get Charlie horses. I've had all kinds of tests from family doctors and a neurologist. but all I get is a prescription for pain - no opinion or help. What's the story? DEAR READER: Your symptoms of burning feet and nocturnal leg cramps suggest a circulatory disturbance. When deprived of nutrients and oxygen, nerves will often cause burning and numbness. Similarly, muscles will often contract and cramp in the absence of adequate blood flow.

Because your doctors are scratching their heads, I suggest even the second-best play would work, or they are so foul that n .thing works. But if you keep trying, eventually a hand will come along on which your excellent technique is rewarded. If you would like to test yourself, cover the East-West cards in this deal from Ron Klinger's "Guide to Better Card Play." and plan your line of play in three spades. West starts by cashing three club winners and then switches to a diamond.

There are days when you wish your partner had stayed in bed. North had that feeling when he appearance of the jack was only heard his partner open three right and proper. West won with spades. But luckily no one doubled - and South even made the contract.

the opposing trumps were divided 3-3, there was nothing South could do; he would have to lose tricks to the jack and king. But if they were breaking 4-2, he had one chance: an opponent holding jack doubleton. (Finding someone with king doubleton would do no good, as the jack would even-tually score a trick.)

was to avoid two space losers. It

Declarer ruffed a diamond to get back to hand, cashed the spade ace and continued with the spade queen. South felt the the spade king, but declarer ruffed his heart return, drew trumps and claimed nine tricks.
