Embargo End Doesn't Mean 'Fill It Up'

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer
High prices at the gasoline pump and on the utility bill are not likely to come down, and there won't be much more gasoline at the neighborhood service station for about two months.

That is what the nation's major oil companies said about Monday's announcement that the Arab oil embargo against the United States had been lifted.

Oil companies and industry leaders welcomed the news, and said it will have a positive impact on areas short of energy.

U.S. consumers for the first time since last fall's Arab-Israeli war. They said it would take two to three months for that to happen.

Gas Rationing 'Ruled Out'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline rationing was virtually ruled out for this summer by Monday's announced ending of the Arab oil embargo against the United States.

But petroleum supplies may still be tight enough to require continued fuel-conservation measures.

Both conclusions have been cited by energy officials as the likely results of an end to the embargo, although the Federal Energy Office declined immediate comment after the actual announcement.

Whether the issuance of long gasoline-ration lines is gone for good, however, depends on just how tight the summer supplies remain.

And that depends on a variety of things: gasoline demand, at the high prices now in effect, actual crude oil import levels; the availability of imported gasoline; and the impact of oil price increases in Europe, and policy decisions of use of existing gasoline inventories and the late-summer shift of refinery production toward other fuels.

John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office, said last week that an end to the embargo would lift the threat of gasoline rationing, if it would provide some assurance that fuel shortages over the next several months would at least get no worse and probably would improve.

But Sawhill also warned that the nation would have to continue its efforts to conserve energy.

The reason is that U.S. demand for gasoline and other petroleum products has been rising steadily. And the Arab nations appeared unwilling to increase their production levels higher than existed before the embargo, while U.S. domestic production has stagnated.

So there seems to be little prospect that total U.S. petroleum supply can expand much beyond last year's levels. Any chance for economic growth—at least if it depends on petroleum—will therefore require fuel conservation to provide some growth margin.

County Garbage Vote Today

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

A 60-day test period of an exclusive franchised garbage collection system, scheduled to start May 1, will be voted upon today by the county commission.

As soon as the test period begins, commissioners will start a "four months count-down" before the system is activated.

Commissioners were expected to call an April 9 public hearing on the ordinance, then set weekly work sessions prior to May 1 to work out the routing, bookkeeping and billing procedures.

Strange as it may seem... yesterday we told that the Arab oil embargo was going to be lifted.

Today I'm told by a service station operator on French Avenue in Sanford that "there'll be a gas war before the end of the week."

Sorta reminds one of the local couple who was seen with more than 90 packages of toilet tissue in their car - anticipating a (fake) shortage, I suppose. The shelves are full presently.

It was comedian Frank Capra who was credited with the following thoughts on the matter - "Today the way to get prices up is to tell you there's a shortage. There's a shortage of gas, a shortage of wheat, a shortage of paper - and the greatest shortage of all if the shortage of truth."

Battle Brews Over Rails

By The Associated Press A federal proposal to abandon unprofitable railway track in 17 states came under heavy criticism from businessmen, politicians and community leaders during a week-long series of hearings.

There are 61,144 miles of track in the Midwest and Northeast, and the Department of Transportation (DOT) says 15,375 miles are excess. It says the excess track carries only about four per cent of the freight volume.

Watergate Is Affecting Way We Vote

COPLEY NEWS
The Republican Party had been hoping that the Watergate affair would not unduly influence unrelated elections. Now, having seen two more special congressional elections on March 5, it is plain that Watergate is a political factor of broad and direct influence.

It is a grim fact of life that the GOP has lost three out of four of the special elections—and that the losses have been in Republican strongholds. Watergate was a direct campaign issue in three of them, and the halting was in a reasonable cross-section of the United States—Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and California.

Postelection opinion sampling disclosed a strong voter resentment against Watergate and a linkage between that sordid business and the GOP. Indeed, many citizens said they voted against Republican candidates even though they believed them to be the best qualified. They did so, these citizens said, to register their complaint against the administration.

If that is indeed the case it is a very discouraging fallout from Watergate. We would prefer not to believe that Americans would abandon their philosophical convictions just to spite a foe. Nor would we like to think that Americans will fill a Congress with candidates whose only claim to distinction is that they are outspoken against Watergate.

The silver lining for Republicans analyzing the special elections was the impressive victory of California state Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino in his bid for a seat in the House. Mr. Lagomarsino attracted more than half of the votes against seven Democratic opponents. It gives us reason to hope that honest, articulate candidates who speak to all of the issues will be heard and understood.

Moreover, as the President said in a recent press conference, the general election is nine months away and much can happen during that time. The problems at the gasoline pumps can diminish, the price of food could stabilize, inflation could be dampened, and programs to assist the economy could produce jobs. Progress in any of these could bring Americans from their unusual depth of discontent over life in general and Watergate in particular.

Or, for that matter, the attitude of Americans toward the administration could change. There are many hands of Congress and the courts exonerates the President of any complicity in the Watergate cover-up.

The Democrats have had some initial success in exploiting as an issue the stupidities of a few Republicans who broke into the Watergate Hotel. Now as the regular 1974 elections approach, the majority party must ask itself whether this thin reed will sustain it until November if the energy crisis continues, if inflation rages, if the nation is in a recession and if

We would think not. These are problems in which Congress shares the blame and for which Congress must accept the responsibility for developing solutions.

Partners Make Good Neighbors

By DON OAKLEY (NEA)

This month an organization called Partners of the Americas observes its 10th anniversary.

Founded in 1964 as a means by which private citizens in the United States and Latin America could, and do, join together to help one another raise the quality of life, Partners of the Americas now has committees in 41 U.S. states working with 41 counterparts in 18 Latin American nations in projects involving education, public health, agriculture, sports and cultural exchange, emergency relief and much else.

More than 50,000 U.S. school children, for example, have helped to build over 50 schools to date in Bolivia's Altiplano region where there were no schools before. The Bolivian Partners and Bolivian government are providing the land, labor and teacher.

Iowans have introduced new techniques in agriculture, livestock and poultry raising in Yucatan that are expected to have multimillion-dollar impact on that region's economy.

Wisconsin Partners are helping to rebuild Managua, Nicaragua, and restructuring its health-care system following that city's devastating earthquake.

All told, the 43 partnerships in 1973-74 conducted 557 projects totaling $6.4 million in value, exchanging 3,444 people and shipping 589 tons of equipment and supplies to Latin America. Worth noting is that for every dollar provided by the federal government through the Agency for International Development, the partnerships produced $13 in self-financed travel, donated equipment and supplies, scholarships, disaster relief and other cash contributions.

Summing it up, "We're what you might call an adult Peace Corps," says David Luria, an associate director of Partners. "A lot of people would like to be involved in aid programs, but they just can't take of two years to join the Peace Corps. They might be able to take off a few weeks or a month, however. And that's what Partners of ers." It may well be that the people-to-people philosophy and programs of Partners of the Americas will turn out to be the most effective way of bringing the nations of the Americas closer together.

Jack Anderson Nixon 'Frees' Natural Gas

WASHINGTON — President Nixon served notice on the House yesterday that he is determined to take natural gas out from under federal regulation even though it will drive up the cost of heating homes and fueling plants.

"Do you want natural gas at a higher price," he demanded, "or no more natural gas?"

He also believes the chance of avoiding gasoline rationing, according to confidential minutes of the meeting, is "no better than even." But to make sure of this, he would like to call in the oil barons for one straight talk.

This was suggested by Rep. Wilmer Mitchell, R-N.C. "Bring the oil companies in and bump their heads together," he urged.

"We're already having woodshed sessions with them," piped up federal energy czar William Simon.

But the President agreed he should huddle personally with them "at least once."

Any presidential round with oilmen, cautioned Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, should be public "to avoid criticism."

"I'd want the attorney general there," said the President, "to make it clear there's no antitrust violation."

Then he stressed again that "deregulation of natural gas is really the number one priority."

"Eik Hills, too," cracked Simon. This was a reference to his efforts to open up the naval petroleum reserves at Eik Hills, Calif., a move that has stirred strong opposition in Congress and the Pentagon.

Pinellas County Probe
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew has dispatched two state investigators to assist in a probe of the Pinellas County Commission, the St. Petersburg Times reported today.

The investigators, special agents for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, are assisting Pinellas State Atty. James Russell, the newspaper said. Russell reportedly requested the additional manpower about two weeks ago.

The investigators arrived last week and have already begun questioning persons familiar with some of the commission activities, the Times said.

ERA Tennis Rally Sunday
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Male lawmakers will meet women's tennis teams on the courts Sunday in what is billed as a symbolic showpiece for the Equal Rights Amendment in Florida.

The event, sponsored by Men for ERA, is the only statewide rally planned prior to the Legislature's vote on the amendment this session. Five more states need to endorse ERA for the constitutional amendment to be ratified. It has been approved by 33 states.

The matches pit women's tennis teams from the University of Florida and Rollins College against elected officials and community leaders.

Participants include U.S. Rep. William Gunter, D-Fla., state Sen. John Vogt, D-Merritt Island; state Rep. Ralph Turlington, D-Gainesville; Homer Hooks of Lakeland, executive director of the Florida Phosphate Council.

Navy Pilot Rescued
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A Navy pilot on the last leg of a trip from six months duty in the Mediterranean safely parachuted from his crippled plane and was picked up by helicopter, a Navy spokesman says.

LI. Robert P. Bush of Jacksonville ejected from his plane Sunday into the ocean five miles southeast of Mayport Naval Station and was located a short time later, the spokesman said.

Bush was reported in good condition and apparently unhurt.

Compensation Approved
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A House committee has approved $200,000 in compensation for Jesse Daniels, a mild-mannered retardate held 14 years in a mental hospital for a rape which now says he did not commit.

The Retirement, Pensions and Claims Committee approved a 54-Monday a claim bill providing $175,000 for Daniels and $25,000 for his mother, Pearl Eisentraeger.

Hawkins Is Considered For U.S. Treasury Post
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Paul Hawkins may be leaving the Public Service Commission to move to the U.S. Treasury Department.

Mrs. Hawkins has confirmed she's going to Washington Wednesday to be interviewed for a possible appointment but was unsure which post she was recommended for.

"I think it's Treasurer," said Mrs. Hawkins, a Maitland Republican. She said she did not believe she was being considered as a possible successor to retiring Treasury Secretary George Shultz.

Shultz is retiring at the end of this month. Romana Banellos is now U.S. Treasurer, a post held for many years by women.

Mrs. Hawkins said she was not the only person being considered for the position.

Federal officials called her last Thursday, asked her to go to Washington this week, and told her the appointment would be made shortly, she said.

"It is a great honor and I am flattered to be considered," Mrs. Hawkins said.

She said she wanted to find out more about the job and its responsibilities before making any decision.

In her election to the PSC in 1972, Mrs. Hawkins became the third person ever to receive more than a million votes in a statewide race in Florida. She was the only Republican elected statewide that year.

Active for several years in state and national GOP activities, she has been considering running for the Senate seat now held by Republican Ed Gurney.

Rangers Battle Muck Fires In Seminole, Across State

Forest rangers are fighting to keep up with muck fires that have broken out in sawgrass and woods in many parts of the state including Seminole County.

Casselberry Forestry Service crews daily are dispatched to keep under control a one acre muck fire adjacent to SR 436. Supervisor Gil Artman said a dozen men fought the fire when it started a week ago but now only four men are working the continuing blaze in six-inch deep muck.

Muck fires have also been reported in the Orlando, Lakeland, Jacksonville and Miami areas and in the counties of Volusia, Lake, Broward and Palm Beach.

Weathermen said the muck fires had been burning for weeks before the muck was exposed by a storm on Monday and 11 persons were given emergency oxygen for shortness of breath. Ten of the 11 were over 70 years old.

Weathermen said the smoke had been trapped by a temperature inversion but that southwest winds would blow away the haze some today.

"This smoke affects the older people sooner than the rest of us because their whole circulation system is slowed down," said Helen Parks, nursing director at Miami's South Shore hospital.

Askew: Gas Shortage To Continue

The Associated Press says the state's chief energy official says it will be at least 90 days before Florida begins to feel benefits from the ending of the Arab oil embargo and Gov. Reubin Askew warns that Florida's problems aren't over.

"We had a problem before the lifting of the embargo. Shortages will exist after it ends," Askew told an audience in Bradenton Monday.

Meanwhile, members of a House gasoline shortage task force were told that the legislature should pass a uniform oil-use gasoline rationing system, but only for use by counties that are short of gas.

Florida energy chief Homer Hutchinson, commenting on the official announcement that the Arab oil embargo was being lifted today, said that it would be 90 days before Floridians could expect much benefit.

Askew said that Americans "should not permit ourselves to get a sigh of relief until we know the real effect of the ending of the embargo."

"I recall a prominent economist telling the national governors conference the lifting of the embargo could turn out to be one of the major non-events of the year unless it signals increased production and a lowering of the price of oil," he said.

House task force members resumed Wednesday for the day of decision on what legislation they will recommend to cope with gas shortages anticipated in the future.

Chairman Vernon Holloway, D-Miami, recommended that Hutchinson be given authority to order odd-even rationing in counties that have refused to solve their own problems.

Other Thoughts

PRESS FREDOM
Some people are saying that the press, the "news media," looked very good this year because it exposed Watergate. Others say the press is getting too powerful and is out to ruin reputations and injure people by wallowing in Watergate. No matter from what angle you look at it, the press during the past year was not merely a mirror reflecting public issues but was itself a public issue. Even with Spiro Agnew absent from the scene, a heated debate about the role of the press continued.

One thing seems certain: the press of this country remains, despite continuous efforts to curtail or disparage its role, vigorously free. The variety of opinion to be found in the press itself, ranging from the extreme right to the extreme left, with every stop in between, proves it. And yet there is a certain nervousness in the press itself and among those who believe that freedom of the press is essential in a democratic society.

The reason, we think, is not that the press is hypersensitive to criticism. Rather, it is the realization that freedom of the press, like other democratic institutions, must be constantly guarded if they are not to be eroded and eventually destroyed. The price of freedom is eternal vigilance.

But while a free press is still strong in our country and in other democracies, there is danger. The International Press Institute, an organization of some 1,800 editors and publishers from the non-Communist world, fears that press freedom and the people's right to know are in trouble everywhere. Ernest Meyer, director of the institute in Zurich, Switzerland, warns that the fragility of democratic institutions and the practices of totalitarian regimes pose constant threats. Many of the developing countries span a free press on the grounds that it is a "luxury" they can't afford. Meyer says. Occasional hints of looser restrictions in Russia and other totalitarian countries are superficial and quickly obliterated, he adds. There are some hopeful signs, however.

WASHINGTON — Even with the most advanced oil extracting techniques imaginable, the proportion of usable resources would be according to responsible researchers — rise from a present 32 per cent only to around 45 to 50 per cent in existing wells. So new proven sources have to be found.

As these reports have indicated in prior times, some very promising estimates of future conventional crude oil reserves have been made. But proving them is not merely costly, but matter of getting a big, new batch of drilling permits.

The estimates include a potential added reserve of 90 billion barrels in the Prudhoe Bay area of Alaska's North Slope, where the proven supply is figured at 10 billion. They also include at least 190 billion barrels in off shore, continental shelf sites, a large share of WASHINGTON — Even with the most advanced oil extracting techniques imaginable, the proportion of usable resources would be according to responsible researchers — rise from a present 32 per cent only to around 45 to 50 per cent in existing wells. So new proven sources have to be found.

As these reports have indicated in prior times, some very promising estimates of future conventional crude oil reserves have been made. But proving them is not merely costly, but matter of getting a big, new batch of drilling permits.

The estimates include a potential added reserve of 90 billion barrels in the Prudhoe Bay area of Alaska's North Slope, where the proven supply is figured at 10 billion. They also include at least 190 billion barrels in off shore, continental shelf sites, a large share of offshore development. The touted these little-mentioned December report on "The Nation's Energy Future," by Dr. Dixey Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says simply that "improved drilling methods for offshore sites... offer much promise for immediate and short-term payoff."

Oil industry researchers with an obvious sense of public responsibility, like General Research Manager Philip C. White of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, confront this problem in more specific, if technical, detail. He testified recently before the House Udall committee, and dealt with the matter in a comprehensive report to a Rocky Mountain oil conference in mid-1973.

What White suggests is the need for more sophisticated, more direct methods of direct oil detection by "geochemical and geophysical means" which could, if found, greatly speed up new discoveries. This doesn't translate easily for the layman, but White gives it promise.

"Such a program would be by-pass exploratory drilling where ever-increasing costs contribute to the decreasing discovery rates. The value of improvements in these areas is that they could bring new oil and gas supplies into the picture much sooner than by any other way."

This comment, set forth in White's 1973 appraisal, is augmented by the idea that "improved drilling methods" include better drilling fluids to assist the process — "materials which can withstand the harsh environments imposed by off-shore, great depth, and Arctic climate operations."

All of this takes money, and White told the Udall committee that industry properly is and should be bearing the lion's share of the cost of exploration and of production research and development in these realms which offer highest hopes of immediate or early payoff.

Too Many Secrets Bug Leaders

By HAY CROMLEY WASHINGTON (NEA)

There is something dreadfully wrong with the way the U.S. Government is being run when a senior cabinet official must ask subordinates down the line what it is that other cabinet officers and the White House really have in mind.

When those queries have to be made not once but repeatedly and information they need to work together or with the White House. They're not always certain which volumes are crucial and what compromises are acceptable to the administration. They wonder why a President who spent so many years in and around the legislature does not understand the team play and the give and take necessary to win what must be won in legislation.

In this confusing situation, good men in Congress and in the Administration dig in and carve out programs on their own. The programs do not always mesh with those developed by other agencies and departments. As a result, there are three separate and sometimes competing foreign policies. There are five rival energy policies which conflict in crucial areas.

The trend did not begin with Mr. Nixon. It saw a strong growth during the Kennedy Administration despite a plethora of "debrief" talks. It grew with President Johnson, preoccupied with a war he did not know how to handle and a passion for cloakroom conferees. Mr. Nixon has added to the confusion.

This reporter had no such feeling in President Truman's day.

Golfing A - Round Staats' Glove Work, Hit Pushes Lyman By Evans

By John Cherwa
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Hal Staats Monday dazzled the crowd with his glove work and then came back and drove in the winning run in the bottom of the 21st inning over Metro Conference foe Orlando Evans. Staats proved he could play both offense and defense as he was back-peddling all afternoon after Trojan shots to his centerfield position. At the plate he went two-for-three, including the game winning double.

Staats lost his balance and fell down, but then reached out and snagged the ball. This week is considered crucial for the Hounds since they play the top three teams in the Metro; Evans, Winter Park and Columbia. McCallough considered the game so vital he had ace starter Bob Keane ready to go. As it stands now, Keane will get the starting nod against Winter Park Wednesday. The final run of the game came in the bottom of the last inning. Kevin Berry started by popping up to the first baseman, Ed Callan then hit a high pop to the catcher in the field who dropped the ball, putting Callan on second. After Callade struck out Staats boomed a ball to left field that dropped in for a double.

15 To Hit Both
Naturally he was always involved in heavy betting and carried a portable bar with him. Enough reminiscing. The point I'm trying to make is more people should be like Joe Novello and Valley Forge and help the young golfers of the area. As a matter of fact I remember at the tender age of 14, Joe came out on the putting green and tried to help me with my putting. Back to the subject of Valley Forge, the ladies Handicap Tournament is in progress and early results are that Montgomery in first with a 65 and Wanda Steinke in the second position with a 67.

4 Eagles At Hills
It was another fine week out at Rolling Hills with four eagles. Jack Gaipa got one on the fourth hole with a driver, four wood and a putt. Dan Slieman picked won up also on number four using the same kind of club. Barbara Burgan was the female representative of the eagle club with a two on the par four 18th. She used a driver and five wood. Lyman's golfer Steve Powell got an eagle on the fourth hole using a driver, four wood and a chip.

Tiger Optimism Prevails With Houk's Looseness
LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The optimistic banter is much like it is most years in spring training for the Detroit Tigers. "If we get off to a good start, I think we'll make some people eat raw," says pitcher Joe Coleman. "I think we're going to surprise a lot of people," adds outfielder Jim Northrup. "The critics have written us off, but we've got a lot of guys who want to win." "Baltimore is the team to beat and we have as good a chance as anyone else of beating them," chimes in new Manager Ralph Houk. The Tigers still have the ability to battle with the contenders — but when it's all over, it looks like they'll be third in the American League East, behind Baltimore and Boston. Having guys who want to win might help, but it won't help overcome Detroit's lack of hitting superstars and absence of speed. Al Carline will be the designated hitter and can reach the 3,000-hit club with 120 more hits. He has a .299 career bat-

Marquette 5 Third In Poll
By The Associated Press
Marquette's Warriors, ranked eighth last week, moved up to third with a 72-70 victory over Michigan in the NCAA Midwest Regionals and UCLA continued to hold the top two spots in The Associated Press' weekly college basketball poll released today. The victory helped bring the Warriors 479 points in voting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters while lifting Marquette's record to 25-4.

The Bruins — aiming at an unprecedented eighth consecutive NCAA title — crept closer to the top-ranked Wolfpack by gaining 12 first-place votes and 600 points in the voting.

The setback wasn't Fride's fault. He grounded out and singled Jim Palmer, the American League's 1973 Cy Young Award winner. Boog Powell and Don Baylor each delivered three hits and Mark Belanger's bases-loaded double highlighted a four-run Baltimore uprising in the second inning. Teen-ager David Clyde was tagged with the loss, surrendering four runs and seven hits in four innings. The Twins suffered two losses. They bowed for the 11th time in 12 exhibition outings when the Los Angeles Dodgers smashed 18 hits in a 13-0 rout. And they also lost slugger Harmon Killebrew for a while. The first baseman left the game with a partial shoulder dislocation after diving for a nine-hitter against St. Louis. Right-hander Jesus Hernandez was hit in a sling for 10 days to two weeks and probably will miss the regular season opener April 5 in Kansas City. Elsewhere on the casualty list, Manager Darrell Johnson of the Boston Red Sox reported that catcher Carlton Fisk will be hospitalized another few days because of a groin injury. Fisk was hit by a foul tip off the bat of Joe Torre in Sunday's game against the St. Louis Cardinals. However, the Red Sox didn't seem to miss their All-Star catcher. They beat the Chicago White Sox 4-1 for their 10th victory in 12 games as rookie Jim Rice belted a three-run homer and Rico Petrocelli contributed three hits. Run-scoring singles by rookies Chris Ward and Jim Tyrone, as their designated hitter in a 14-2 loss to the Baltimore Orioles. Al Oliver hit a game-tying three-run homer in the sixth inning and the Pittsburgh Pirates scored single runs in the seventh and eighth to defeat the Montreal Expos 5-3 at San Juan, P.R. Pat Bourque drove in three runs with two doubles and a single off Gaylord Perry and Reggie Jackson hammered a two-run homer off Ken Sanders, leading the Oakland A's to a 6-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. A pair of 1-0 games saw the New York Mets edge the New York Yankees and the Kansas City Royals nip the St. Louis Cardinals. San Antonio and Steve Simpson of the Mets limited the game to three hits while the Royals' Steve Busby, Steve Mingo and Gene Garber combined for a nine-hitter against St. Louis. Right-hander Jesus Hernandez was hit in a sling for 10 days to two weeks and probably will miss the regular season opener April 5 in Kansas City. Elsewhere on the casualty list, Manager Darrell Johnson of the Boston Red Sox reported that catcher Carlton Fisk will be hospitalized another few days because of a groin injury. Fisk was hit by a foul tip off the bat of Joe Torre in Sunday's game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Spurs Down Cougars
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — For Coach Tom Nissalke of San Antonio Monday night's 100-83 victory over the Carolina Cougars was a big one for the Spurs. The triumph moved the Spurs into sole possession of second place in the American Basketball Association West Division, six games behind first-place Utah. Veteran Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell will be with the Spurs next year, Athletic Director Jim Kehoe said Monday. Ray Mears — whose record at Tennessee is 217-92 in 12 years — had his contract extended through the 1978-79 season. Indiana, 21-5, and Vanderbilt, 23-5, are tied for 11th, followed by Alabama, Southern Cal, Pittsburgh, Dayton and South Carolina. Oral Roberts and Purdue share No. 18, while New Mexico rounds out the Top Twenty.

In other college basketball developments, two basketball coaches had their contracts extended while two others didn't. Veteran Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell will be with the Spurs next year, Athletic Director Jim Kehoe said Monday. Ray Mears — whose record at Tennessee is 217-92 in 12 years — had his contract extended through the 1978-79 season.

Market Takes Fast Dip, Embargo Worry Cited
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped lower again today, continuing Monday's abrupt drop. The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off nearly a point, and losers took a 2-lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange. Brokers said it appeared investors were turning their attention to other worries in the wake of the formal end of the five-month Arab oil embargo. Among the deepest concerns in the immediate outlook are inflation and rising short term interest rates, analysts noted. Today's Big Board prices included Levitz Furniture, down 4 1/4 at 45; Western Airlines, off 3/4 to 10 1/4; Norton Simon, up 1/4 at 15 1/4; and American Telephone & Telegraph, down 1/4 at 52 1/4. In the steel group U.S. Steel was down 1/2 at 42 1/4 and Bethlehem dropped 3/4 to 33 1/4. On Monday the market fell back sharply as investors chose the occasion of the lifting of the embargo to take profits after the strong gains of the past few weeks. The Dow Jones industrial average slumped 13.61 points to 874.22 for its poorest single-session performance in more than a month. Declining issues swamped advances by about a 5-4 margin in comparatively light activity on the Big Board. Analysts said investors had evidently discounted the embargo's end during the rally that carried through last week.

WFL Opens Draft Plus A Few Eyes

NEW YORK (AP) — Monday's World Football League professional player draft had a little bit of everything; one team selected a priest, another took a former pro basketball player, and a third chose the sport's greatest active rusher... The Heisman Trophy-winning running back from Penn State told a news conference Monday in Ram-owners Carroll Rosenbloom's office that the family personality of the Ram organization was a key factor in his decision.

Seminole Baseball Playoff Chances Getting Slimmer

By DOUG STORUM Herald Staff Writer... Its almost "do or die" time for the fighting Seminoles and the season isn't even half over. ## Consult Caribbean Cruises Plan An Island Vacation

The beautiful thing about a Caribbean cruise is it usually turns out to be even more wonderful than you anticipated. Make a Caribbean cruise your vacation dream this year — and make that dream come true through the travel agency services of Caribbean Cruises, located in the Winter Park Mall.

The experienced and friendly agents at Caribbean Cruises can arrange either a tour of all, or many of the Caribbean islands, or can feature just one of these glorious islands for your vacation pleasure.

Caribbean Cruises offers most reasonable packages to all the islands. It would be wise to consult with the agents at Caribbean Cruises before you select one for your next vacation as each island has its own distinctive atmosphere.

Barbados, for example, is charmingly British; Martinique is a colorful French island much favored by artists. If you like where the action is, thrilling Santa Maria may be the resort for you; San Andres, on the other hand, is well off the beaten track, a paradise for those vacationers who like their islands uncommercialized.

If this is to be your first visit to the Caribbean you may prefer to tour several islands — and get ideas for a return trip featuring just one of them at a later date. Many such tours are available through Caribbean Cruises.

A 22-day, fully escorted tour, available through Caribbean Cruises, takes you to 10 different islands. Running September through December, the inclusive tour cost is in the region of $1,700 — exceptional good value for your money.

You enjoy, by air, a fully escorted trip with deluxe hotels and a la carte dining to San Andres, Santa Marta, Aruba, Curacao, Margarita, Trinidad, Tobago, Barbados, Martinique and Haiti.

The romantic names alone are enough to have you calling Caribbean Cruises immediately for reservations!

Tremendous variety is offered on this particular tour. In three weeks you get about the Caribbean and at the same time see the different cultures of Dutch, English, French and Spanish who settled the islands. The Caribbean is as diverse and rich in sights as any area in the world.

Thrill to remote beaches where marauding pirates buried their treasures; to the Spanish colonial atmosphere of Margarita; to the quaint fairy-tale charm of the Dutch population of Trinidad and Tobago, with its rhythmic steel bands and calypso beat.

Each island offers sun-drenched days of new and varied sights, cuisine and experiences — always in sight of some of the world's most beautiful beaches.

Another group of islands just as romantic and beautiful are the Hawaiian Islands. Caribbean Cruises is again the travel agency to visit if you choose Hawaii, rather than the Caribbean, for your vacation this year.

A package rate from Orlando arranged by Caribbean Cruises, including your return airfare and hotel rates, will cost you less than the regular round trip fare!

One special tour takes you on a week-long trip to the paradise that is Waikiki on the island of Oahu. If you prefer, combine this with a few days in either the island of Kauai or Maui.

If your vacation is longer, visit three or four islands — Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawaii itself.

For added excitement, some tours combine a stopover in Las Vegas or Los Angeles.

Honey-moon packages are a specialty at Caribbean Cruises, and will give you a holiday of sun, surf, excitement and romance you will remember always. ADV.

Complete Western Store Cacti And Cowboy Boots

A visit to the Kactus Korral in Sanford could start you on a fascinating new hobby.

When you see the enormous variety of cacti displayed at the Kactus Korral, when you learn something about their unique characteristics and witness the beautiful blooming of these desert plants, you are sure to want some of your own.

And once you own a cactus, you're a collector for life!

Each new specimen is more interesting than the last, and pretty soon you'll find yourself with a valuable collection.

Collecting cacti is the ideal hobby for the busy person. Cacti needs little care and attention while giving a great deal of pleasure.

They are refreshingly different from the usual indoor and patio plants.

They are also stock in beautiful gift items and western accessories including ties, tie pins and belts.

Once you have selected the clothing items and feed requirements for your days in the saddle, ask Harrell to show you around the Kactus Korral so you can choose a couple of plants to give your stables, or your home, an interesting touch of the old west.

Harrell has brought back a fine selection of pottery from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, and from south of the border in Mexico also.

Plant your cacti in hand-painted Mexican pots, choose one of the quaint donkeys or a colorful clay gourd.

Special mix potting soil and chemicals for cacti are also available at the Korral.

Whether you are in Horse and Rider getting regular supplies for your animals, or are seeking a gift to give to a horse-loving friend, you will be pleased with the wide range of quality products sensibly priced.

If you have any problems about horses or riding, talk them over in the Horse and Rider clinic sessions every Tuesday night at 9 A.M.

APPRECIATION OF CUSTOMER SUPPORT EXPRESSED
 ... John Garza and sister-in-law Earline are Maryland hosts

At Maryland Chicken Appreciation Days Begin

The third annual appreciation week at Maryland Fried Chicken in Sanford is being held today through Sunday, and the management invites its customers to enjoy a free chicken dinner with the purchase of one regular $1.55 chicken dinner.

Maryland manager John Garza explains the appreciation week has been held for the past two years in appreciation of the support given to Maryland Fried Chicken by its many customers. This year their support has been better than ever, so he is continuing the tradition of an appreciation week.

In addition, starting next week, Garza invites his customers to enjoy special appreciation day rates every Tuesday when the regular $1.55 chicken dinner will sell for only $1.30.

This great savings offer is available to regular Maryland customers and to new customers also. # Oil Crisis Humiliates Russians

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Arab oil embargo has not only taken its toll on the Middle East but has also created frustration and even humiliation in Moscow.

The United States has gained, not lost, influence among the Arabs even though it armed Israel before and during the October war and stood behind her even in the face of the oil embargo.

Moscow broadcasts long have been telling the Arabs that they would be able to get the oil they wanted to punish the United States as the protector of their enemy.

Premature lifting of the oil embargo will enable the United States to undermine efforts to settle the Middle East crisis at some stage," said a typical broadcast.

Now, despite Arab anger over U.S. positions on Israel and all the Soviet encouragement in recent months to them to keep the lid on oil supplies for the United States, the producer nations have voted to lift that embargo.

The men in the Kremlin must be asking why the Arabs didn't heed them. After all, didn't the Soviet Union arm Egypt and Syria? Didn't the Soviet Union build the Aswan High Dam? Egypt after the Americans refused to? Didn't the Soviet Union back the Arabs in all they ask? Didn't the Soviet Union allow, even expose Arab aspirations?

Moscow indeed did all those things, and that is precisely why the Arabs are suspicious. The Arabs are nationalistic and devoutly Islamic. They are fearful of what they have seen of Soviet sentiments in those areas.

If there is to be peace, the Arabs know the United States still holds the key. If there is to be economic development in the Arab world, the keys are in the West, not the East.

The Russians sound a lot less like a regime bent on detente than one hoping to keep the waters ruled in the most sensitive strategic area of the world. Yet people who should know credit Moscow with wanting to avoid a major expansion, even while trying for all it can get short of that.

Moscow seems to have some political problems in this respect. Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist chief, wants detente and all it promises. But that costs a lot in terms of surrendering opportunities to be more disruptive in the Middle East.

There have been signs lately that Soviet hawks continue the long range perspective benefits of detente. This seems to be confirmed in recent Soviet press articles that for the first time in a long time are sharply critical of the Nixon Administration and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Nation's Top 'Ufologist' Convinced UFOs Are Real

By CLIFF SMITH
Copley News Service

The nation's top "ufologist" has suggested that it would be cheaper and more profitable for man to limit his search for extraterrestrial life and intelligence to his own planet for the present.

Nuclear physicist Stanton T. Friedman suggested that it doesn't make much sense to spend $1 billion to send a robot spacecraft to hunt for Martians when the search for extraterrestrial life and intelligence is being conducted on the ground, alerted by the bomber crew, also tracked the UFO.

The cockpit crew of the bomber visualized the object as "a very intense white light with blue tint" that approached the plane from all sides at various times, hovered motionlessly, changed directions instantaneously and tipped across the bomber's path at incredible speeds.

The flight commander, Lt. Col. Lewis D. Chase, now retired in Washington state, became so concerned that he tried to evade the UFO by slowing his plane, accelerating to maximum speed, changing altitude and turning, all without success. Finally, as the bomber was heading for its base in Kansas, the UFO flew away abruptly.

"Ufology" is Friedman's term for the study of unidentified flying objects or UFOs. Although the study was officially dismissed as a worthless pursuit five years ago by U.S. government investigators, Friedman and a few other responsible scientists doggedly trail the mysterious objects.

In 1970, Friedman, 33, quit a 14-year career in the aerospace industry to devote full time to the UFO investigation and its promotion as an unresolved "problem."

Unlike many UFO drum-beaters who stretch truth and reason, Friedman limits himself to the scientific method and still finds plenty of evidence which he says convinces him that UFOs are real.

"The evidence is overwhelming that the earth is being visited by intelligently controlled vehicles whose origin is off the earth," he said in an interview.

Most of the evidence, he said, is in the form of testimony and pictures "from witnesses whose character is such that their testimony about anything else would be accepted as valid in a court of law."

Two months after the incident, the committee noted, the Air Defense Command issued a report dismissing the case with this statement: "In joint review with the CAA (Civil Aeronautics Administration) of the data from the incident, it was definitely established by the CAA that object observed in the vicinity of Dallas and Fort Worth was an airliner."

This referred to a near collision of two airliners over the El Paso area about 3:30 a.m., when the bomber was over the Gulf of Mexico and 40 minutes before the crew sighted the UFO.

Friedman points to reports such as that about an encounter between an Air Force bomber and a UFO.

The report, published in Astronautics and Astronautics

Correction

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Associated Press erroneously reported March 11 that a former top aide had accused Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., of being involved in a kickback scandal.

The Miami Herald and other Florida newspapers have reported that Larry Williams, a former Gurney fundraiser, collected at least $300,000 in unreported contributions from builders seeking Gurney's influence with the Federal Housing Authority.

Gurney, who is seeking reelection in November, contends he is innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with campaign contributions and said that when he learned of the fundraising he insisted that it be stopped.

Williams, 29, was sentenced to a year in prison in February after pleading guilty to charges of attempting to evade federal income taxes and helping a contractor accept a bribe.

Running In Buff Stirs Memories

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

The bare torso is that nothing quite like streaking ever has hit this country, unless you want to count the record of a man running in the buff sumnons up memories of other fads which psychologists have classified as expressions of one kind or another—rebellion, boredom, exhibitionism, the search for freedom, etc.

America enjoys faddism. It especially was evident from the 1930s through the 1950s, but a few fads lingered over in the hot and heavy '60s, mostly on high school and college campuses. There always are some adults, though, who never want to forget their college days and use fads to take them back along memory lane to the campus.

The college boys of the 1930s started swallowing goldfish, then guppies—live, mind you—and the fad spread to high school campuses as well. The fishy diet didn't seem to affect the swallows' health, so the only real complaints came from parents and a few conservative groups whose members thought the fad was just too silly for words.

published in Guinness' World Records.

But the fad didn't catch hold again.

Telephone booth packing was a campus fad for a time. So far as is known the record for stuffing a booth was set by 22 undergraduates of St. Mary's College in 1934.

Somewhat they all crowded into a regulation-sized phone booth, but they couldn't close the door and nobody could reach the phone.

Campus party raids came along, to display the daring of some undergrads who couldn't attract attention any other way. But they were so harmless that after a few months of good-natured tolerance, the public later and made a millionaire out of a man who fashioned the first hoop just for something to do.

The goofy song craze revved up in the 1930s with tunes like "Three Little Fishes," "Flat Foot Floogie" and "Mairzy Doats and Dozy Doats." Growl-ups sang them along with the kids, for they were fun and helped to shrug off the fears of Americans that the depression never would end.

Fashions always have been linked to faddism, and the lippy socks and saddle shoes of the '40s and '50s still are with us.

Bobby socks for a time even got thicker and were called "jitterbugging" among the youngsters back in those days and sent many a young adult and middle-aged man to the chiropractor. So did Hula-Hooping, which came along later and made a millionaire out of a man who fashioned the first hoop just for something to do.

A weird fad, apparently designed to prove the ingenuity of American youth, found science students at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, tearing down a piano and stuffing all the pieces through an eight-inch hole in the record time of 10 minutes.

At any rate, it died down when the fish eaters decided they weren't really proving much of anything. But then in February, 1969, Charles Winfield, 19, of St. Mary's University, San Antonio, Texas, swallowed 210 live goldfish to claim a world record now.

Buckley: Quit; Nixon: No; Senators: Split

Nixon Tuesday night affirmed his determination to stay in office, despite the surprise declaration by Buckley, one of Nixon's allies in the Senate.

In The Associated Press poll, taken hours before the President vowed again that he will not resign, 39 senators declined to take a position and 17 others could not be reached.

Buckley, a New York Republican who was elected as a Conservative party candidate, and who strongly supports Nixon's policies, said Tuesday that Nixon's resignation would be the only way "out of the Watergate swamp."

He said Nixon's resignation would at once serve the greater interests of the nation, the institution of the presidency and the stated goals for which he so successfully campaigned.

Buckley said that Watergate has created an unparalleled national crisis that impeachment cannot resolve. "If the President resigns, this crisis would be resolved," Buckley said.

At the President's news conference in Houston, the first question brought up Buckley's statements.

Nixon replied that, while the senator had suggested resignation would be an act of courage, "I don't see how you think it right, and that is what I intend to do."

Nixon also argued against the senator's claim that it would be an act of statesmanship, declaring, "It would be bad statesmanship, and it would mean that our system of government would be changed for all presidents and all generations in the future."

After Nixon's appearance, Buckley said he "would have been stunned" if the President had heeded his call for resignation.

"I did not expect that any legislator would have an immediate effect anywhere."

Others were not as confident of their attitude.

"My thoughts are all jammed up," admitted Debbie Basso. "They've thrown so much at us I haven't sorted it out yet."

Glenn Hilliard said she was also confused: "There's just so much to consider; I haven't had time to sit back and work out what I really feel," she explained.

"I agree with Buckley," said Terry Mosley. "I'm getting pretty fed up with the President. I wish he'd do something about it, or forget it."

The Area Residents Back Nixon

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

James Buckley, the arch-conservative senator from New York, may believe President Nixon should quit now, but some Sanford area residents today said he should stick to his job, at least until he's found guilty in court.

Two people said they reacted positively to Buckley's call Tuesday for the President's resignation, four were undecided, and nine said Nixon should remain in office and continue to fight calls for his resignation through impeachment.

"I'm optimistic. I'd rather the President stay there and fight and come out smelling like a rose," commented Charles Babb, "it's gone this far, he should hang in—but he should do it with some degree of dispatch because this thing's dragged on long enough."

Sharing the optimistic view was Norman Weiss: "I think he should stay in. I hate to see a man in his present resignation. He should be proven guilty before he does that."

Weiss said it would be a definite crisis for the U.S. if the President were forced to resign because of hearsay. "He's done a lot of good while he's been in office," said Weiss.

Gunnar Mansson also thinks it would be wrong for Nixon to resign if he believes himself to be innocent. "It should be proved he's guilty of something, if he resigns I'll be like saying, 'I'm not guilty even if he's not,'" explained Mansson.

"I don't think he should resign until he's proven guilty," declared Lucy Jones.

FBI agent Martin Williams said he would support the resignation of President Nixon if he were proven guilty. "I feel sorry for him. I thought he made a good speech last night," she added, referring to the President's address in Houston.

MIAMI (AP)—The FBI says an Orlando fundraiser teamed with a Federal Housing Administration official to pressure Florida builders into contributing more than $200,000 for Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

The FBI's revelations came Tuesday as former FIA official William P. Pelekis pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges which the FBI said involved payoffs for himself and contributions for Gurney.

Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, has repeatedly denied any knowledge of the illegal fundraising in his name.

Pelekis, appointed south Florida FIA director through Gurney's patronage in 1970, resigned the post in 1972.

He was charged with conspiring to defraud the government by making FIA loan commitments to Gurney political contributors. The FBI said Pelekis personally received an additional $70,000 from Miami builder John Priestess.

Named as unindicted co-conspirators were Williams and James Groot, Gurney's former administrative assistant.

Williams and Priestess earlier pleaded guilty to felony charges stemming from the investigation. Priestess is serving a one-year prison sentence and Williams was sentenced to federal marshals today to begin serving his one-year term at the Eglin Air Force Base federal prison camp near Pensacola.

In a report read Tuesday during Pelekis's hearing by FBI special agent James Martin, the government charged that during the period from January 1971 to July 1973 Williams received over $200,000 from builders doing business with the FIA insuring office in Coral Gables.

FBI agent Martin testified that Pelekis' cut of the contract was $100,000. "I feel sorry for him. I thought he made a good speech last night," she added, referring to the President's address in Houston.

Pelekis, appointed south Florida FIA director through Gurney's patronage in 1970, resigned the post in 1972.

He was charged with conspiring to defraud the government by making FIA loan commitments to Gurney political contributors. The FBI said Pelekis personally received an additional $70,000 from Miami builder John Priestess.

Named as unindicted co-conspirators were Williams and James Groot, Gurney's former administrative assistant.

Williams and Priestess earlier pleaded guilty to felony charges stemming from the investigation. Priestess is serving a one-year prison sentence and Williams was sentenced to federal marshals today to begin serving his one-year term at the Eglin Air Force Base federal prison camp near Pensacola.

In a report read Tuesday during Pelekis's hearing by FBI special agent James Martin, the government charged that during the period from January 1971 to July 1973 Williams received over $200,000 from builders doing business with the FIA insuring office in Coral Gables.

FBI agent Martin testified that Pelekis' cut of the contract was $100,000. "I feel sorry for him. I thought he made a good speech last night," she added, referring to the President's address in Houston.

MIAMI (AP)—The FBI says an Orlando fundraiser teamed with a Federal Housing Administration official to pressure Florida builders into contributing more than $200,000 for Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

The FBI's revelations came Tuesday as former FIA official William P. Pelekis pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges which the FBI said involved payoffs for himself and contributions for Gurney.

Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, has repeatedly denied any knowledge of the illegal fundraising in his name.

All White Jury Questioned

By CHRIS NELSON

A possible constitutional challenge to Seminole County's jury selection process was averted—at least temporarily—Tuesday when a mistrial was declared in a case because no blacks were available for the prospective jury panel.

Circuit Judge A. J. Hosemann Jr. declared a mistrial and reset April 8 the case of James Barber, accused of running a prostitution ring from Spanish Trace Apartments in Altamonte Springs.

State Atty. Abbott Herring met with Hosemann after the ruling, and said he will "thoroughly research" what he called "differing" interpretations of the law.

Hosemann accepted the mistrial motion of defense attorney Gene Stephenson of Casselberry, because no blacks were available for the jury, saying case law is clear and there's a problem, and if there wasn't, you wouldn't have piles and piles of articles telling you how to use it (aluminum wire)."

Vihlen, himself an electrical contractor, said it is "some type of fantasy" to claim problems are not there, and ordered a "full investigation of the problem and what the county can do and what the citizens can do to protect themselves."

Among the items to be included in the building department's written report is a study of electrical code violations by contractors, because, in Kimbrough's words, "I want to know what in fact is happening."

Commissioner Greg Drummond urged the department to draw up a list of contractors and violations for the public to check before hiring a company.

Electrical Board Chairman Buddy Eidel defended the wire, and said problems were disappearing as county inspectors learned to check aluminum wire correctly, and the aluminum recaptives hit the market.

Eidel agreed that contractors repeatedly hit for sloppy workmanship should be hauled before the board, but said "I believe the problem is going the other way...now that the county can do and what the citizens can do to protect themselves."

When said he and Kimbrough have personally inspected situations "by the thousands" where proper wiring has not been done, and said aluminum wire presents a "nightmare" to county inspectors.

Aluminum wire has been endorsed by the county board of electrical examiners and building official Len Risner so long as it is installed and maintained according to manufacturer's specifications.

A manufacturer's representative at Tuesday's meeting told commissioners that problems with sloppy installation will correct as proper recaptives for aluminum wire arrive on the market, and electricians learn how to use them.

Risner and chief electrical inspector Cecil Harriet are already decreasing, and that while they are still a "little leery" about aluminum wire, the situation should improve with experience and education.

However, Kimbrough and Vihlen refused to be mollified, Kimbrough saying, "to me
