Changes In Grid Rules May Be Made At Meeting To Be Held At Gotham

By Davis J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Within the next few days, there will be an absolute minimum of silence around the Hotel Astor, since being one of the things of which members of the football rules committee, the coaches association and the National Collegiate Athletic Association haven't too much to say. The occasion will be a meeting of the clinic and a meeting of the sports in general and will come from far and wide to make themselves heard and wider, depending on what opens to be listening.

These meetings feature one of delegates, affectionately known as a willing listener. The are too busy thinking of what they are going to say when the rat of the moment gets thru, which they are beginning to suspect will be never.

From football's standpoint, the focus of attack probably will be the goal line and that delicate fumbled punt, recovered by the kicker's side, dead at the point of recovery. There are likely to be other suggestions and when the rules committee officially convenes in February, it will take all of them under advisement. Which means that the committee probably will do nothing about any of them.

The oratorical contest will begin tomorrow when football's field officials are due to complain bitterly about all new rules as being conceived and made finite only to displease and embarrass them. That will start the ball rolling into the end zone, so the next day the N. C. W. A. will get down to business, which among other things will include the hearing of Chairman E. K. Hall's report on the subject of football in general.

Daytona Team To Play Junior High

The Junior High School basketball team will clash with the Daytona Beach Y. M. C. A. quintet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock on the local court, according to an announcement today.

The probable lineup of the Sanford team will be as follows: Harper, center; Ponder and Heister, forwards; and Kinlaw and Hoize, claw guards.

What Do You Mean By tire service?

What do we mean by tire service? Did you ever stop to consider what your tires go through—the millions of shocks they have to absorb? Few people realize the tremendous importance of keeping them inflated to the right pressure, having occasional inspections to make sure rims are in good condition, dirt and grit kept out, cuts and injuries fixed before they subtract thousands of miles from the life of the tire. That's what we mean by tire service—with honest advice as to what you should do to save money on tires.

This service means money for you. Hundreds of car owners are making this saving with Goodrich Silvertowns and the Inland Supply Company. Drop in and talk it over today.

A New Year's Resolution

Nineteen hundred and twenty-seven will soon pass out of existence and with it Sanford will bid good bye to one of the most crucial periods of its history.

One does not have to be a calamity howler to recognize the fact that our community has had unusual problems to solve and extraordinary circumstances with which to contend.

We have seen corruption in its worst forms revealed to us as being practiced in our midst for years. We have witnessed the exposure of crookedness in public office and the reckless misappropriation of public funds.

We are not urging Sanford people to forget all of this in facing the new year. We are not pretending to say everything is all right again.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight holds great possibilities for the City Substantial. The extent of those possibilities will be measured by the rapidity with which we go about the task of cleaning up the odds and ends in our political emancipation.

Honoring A Native Son

Florida will soon have an opportunity to honor one of its native sons who has reached the pinnacle in army circles of this country and incidentally is recognized as one of the foremost military men in the world.

The last session of the state legislature authorized the presentation of a saber to General Summerall.

Florida has in no official manner ever before recognized the achievements of General Summerall, but it seems quite appropriate that it should do this now as the officer sits in a position that carries with it more honor and responsibility than that of any other place in American military circles.

Every section of the state should have a part in the ceremonies honoring this soldier. Representatives from each community should be present to reiterate the esteem in which General Summerall is held by his fellow Floridians.

THE INSIDE STORY

The New York World is publishing what Colonel Forbes is pleased to term the "inside story of the Ohio gang."

Upon his release from prison, the colonel announced that he would expose the mendicants who fastened themselves onto the Harding administration as a means of vindictive the good name of Warren G. Harding.

To us thick-headed people not familiar with the "inside" of Washington, it will be difficult to harmonize the statements so as to find a vindication in a story which charges that the president sat in a poker game in the White House and gambled for a $75,000 stake.

No shock will come to the American people from the charges Forbes makes against Harry Daugherty, Albert Fall, Albert Lasker and Ned McLean; our credulity is put to no severe test when we are told that these gentlemen not only played poker with a high hand, but that they maintained apartments in the "little green room on K street" where plottings for graft were carried on.

THE COUNTING OF CHARACTER

In the end, character wins. A man may blunder, make grievous mistakes, even injure his health through dissipation and folly, but if there is this background of character, sooner or later it is possible for him to "come back."

COLONEL LINDBERGH will soon fly over mountain peaks in Guatemala, starting long flights in his one-engine plane over tropical regions in Central America.

Lindbergh's life is too valuable to be staked repeatedly on what, at best, is dangerous flying. It is necessary to risk a non-stop flight from Washington to Mexico City.

EVERYBODY KNOWS WHAT Lindbergh can do. It is not necessary for him to incur repeatedly risks as great as when he flew the Atlantic.

A DUAL PERSONALITY

S. S. Kresge, of Detroit, millionaire owner of a chain of five-and-ten-cent stores asserted the other night at a banquet closing the convention of the anti-Saloon League in Washington that he thought it "good business to put the booze business out of business."

The news that now comes from Washington throws a droll green after-light upon the anti-Saloon League's banquet drama. Agents of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, it appears, have visited the Kresge stores in Washington and have found that liquor drinking and liquor-making accessories are regularly and openly sold.

Azarians Of Baptist Church Give Pageant

On Friday evening the Azarian class of the First Baptist Church presented a beautiful pageant, "Light Eternal," at the Baptist church before a large and interested audience. The organist for the evening was Mrs. Charles T. Anderson, who was assisted with the music by members of the choir. The first scene was the "Garden of Gethsemane" when Mary meets the angel Gabriel who prophesies the coming of the Christ child. The scene was realistic with trees and palm trees, ferns and flowers. The second scene depicted in detail the happenings of the first Christmas night, showing the shepherds and wise men following the star and carrying gifts of gold, jewels and spices, while their song, "Glory to God in the Highest."

The third scene, 12 girls sang "Little Town of Bethlehem" and Mary in a manger. While an angel sang "Joy to the World," another angel, played "Holy Night" on the violin. As the curtain parted they revealed Mary, Joseph at the manger, while their song "O Worship the King," after which the shepherds and wise men entered while a quartet sang "Silent Night."

The final scene shows the passing of the nineteenth century while the 20th century appears bearing lighted candles, as the 21st century girls appeared as "Peace, Good Love, Joy and Service," also carrying candles and forming a star. As a recession the cast entered the choir sang, "As of Gladness, Men of Old."

Those taking part were members of the Azarian class, assisted with music by Mrs. A. M. Phillips, Mrs. Robert L. Glenn, Mrs. B. C. Moore, Mrs. C. H. Cook, Mr. Hanney, Fort Gatchell and B. C. Moore. Miss Pauline Cook was the violinist. Mrs. T. L. Hile as Mary, as a solo, while Mrs. Littrell as the angel, and Mrs. B. C. Moore sang "We Three Kings the Orient Are." Twelve chorists from the Sunbeam band sang songs. Mrs. W. C. De Courcy acted as head usher and was assisted by members of the class.

Following the pageant, the Christmas tree for the Sunday school took place. Old Santa stopped long enough from his labors to visit the Baptist church, and brought with him a large package which he distributed gifts of all kinds.

ANNUAL SHRINE DANCE
One of the outstanding social affairs of the week will be the annual ball to be given Thursday evening at the Hotel Forrest Lake by the Shrine Club. Each member of the club has the privilege of bringing a guest, and those expecting to have guests are requested to get tickets either from Ed. F. Lane, president, or George F. Rory, secretary. Good music has been arranged for and many features will be given in an all-night party.

Social Department Of Woman's Club Gives Bridge Party Tuesday

Of special beauty as well as pleasure was the Christmas bridge party given Tuesday afternoon for the members of the Social Department of the Woman's Club, with Mrs. G. Irving, Mrs. James F. Hawkins and Mrs. A. C. Fort as hostesses. There were 18 tables in play during the afternoon.

A lovely setting was arranged with numerous pine boughs, baskets of poinsettias, pine cones and red roses. Encircling the room were boughs of pines and bamboo. A festive touch was added by a large brilliantly illuminated Christmas tree arranged on the stage before the curtains.

Scores for the games of progressive bridge were kept on tallies in keeping with the decorations and after the usual number of rounds had been played, the prize for top score a pretty crystal pitcher was awarded Mrs. Lawley Ingalls of Atlanta, Ga., for having made second highest score. Mrs. Ed Rawson received a crystal candy jar.

At the tea hour the card tables were cleared and refreshments of stuffed red pears rolled in coconut, cheese sandwiches, date bars and coffee were served by hostesses assisted by Mrs. C. E. Myers, Mrs. John W. Sneed, Mrs. Charles W. Powell Jr., and Mrs. John W. Meisch Jr. The affair was one of the most delightful given during the season and the guests included a large number of holiday visitors.

In Holy Cross Church Baby Girl Christened

Betty Frances, three months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Brown of Dunellon, was christened in the Holy Cross Episcopal Church on Christmas Day, the Rev. Mortimer Glover officiating at the service.

Godmothers for the infant are Mrs. Harry Walsh of this city and Miss Mary Weber of Chicago. Horace Bannion is the godfather. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were in Sanford for the Christmas holidays being the guests of Mrs. Brown's uncle, Mr. Bannion.

Mrs. J. J. D. Taylor of Cape Charles, Va., arrived here last week to join Mr. Taylor. They are pleasantly located at the Hand Apartments on Park Avenue.

Miss Mildred Huston Entertains Tuesday

Miss Mildred Huston entertained Tuesday evening at one of the loveliest bridge parties given this season, at her home on Martin Street. The rooms were adorned with an abundance of red roses, and narcissus together with the usual Christmas greens.

Suggestive of the New Year were the tallies used for the game, being the forms of miniature clocks. After the fifth progression had been played, scores were compared and the prize for top score, a lacquer box was won by Mrs. M. Minarik. The men's high score prize, a whisk broom and combination shoe polisher, went to Mr. Minarik. Mrs. M. W. Glover held low score and was awarded a bud vase, while the other low score prize, a toy fell to George Maffett.

At the conclusion of the game the hostess assisted by her mother Mrs. S. A. Huston and Mrs. J. R. Stewart served butterscotch pie, fruit cake and coffee.

Those playing bridge were Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Glover, Mrs. M. W. Glover of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Victor Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Minarik, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Huston, Mrs. P. R. Stephenson, Miss Margaret M. Rae, George Maffett, George Babcock and Miss Huston.

MRS. TAKACH ENTERTAINS

A most enjoyable affair of the week was that of Monday evening when Mrs. Julius Takach entertained the members of the Junior Choir of Holy Cross Episcopal Church at the Parish House. The evening was merrily spent with games of all kinds as well as stunts. A prize was awarded Mortimer Glover for giving the cleverest stunt. At a late hour the hostess served several kinds of sandwiches, fruit cake and hot chocolate. Each guest was presented a Christmas box filled with candies. Members of the choir include William Harvey, Alfred Stanley, Phil Stanley, Harold Stanley, Chum Stanley, Frederick Daiger, Henrietta Edwards, Margaret Edwards, Martha Bishop, Nancy White, Katherine White, Daphne Takach. Assisting Mrs. Takach in entertaining her guests were Rev. Mortimer Glover and J. A. Takach.

Miss Helen Vincent Honors Younger Set

One of the loveliest of the many holiday affairs was the party given Tuesday evening by Miss Helen Vincent, young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Vincent when she entertained the members of the High School set at her home on Mellenville Avenue.

The rooms of this spacious home were bright with quantities of poinsettias, snap dragons, red roses and other cut flowers in red and green. Tall bamboo and pine trees banked in the corners and around the fire place. A cheery touch was added by large fires in the living room and library. A large Christmas tree gay with sil-

Mrs. Ashcraft Honors Visitors From Tampa

Entertaining with her usual charming manner, Mrs. E. H. Ashcraft was hostess at a lovely bridge party Tuesday evening at her home on Magnolia when she entertained honoring her house guest Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Cawthon of Tampa.

The rooms where the card tables had been spread for play were beautifully adorned with bows and baskets filled with red roses, red berries, poinsettias and ferns. The colors of red and green were accentuated in every detail.

Tallies suggestive of the New Year were used for the interesting games of bridge, and after the stated number of rounds had been played it was found that the high score prize, a hand painted powder jar, had been won by Mrs. Walter S. Coleman. The men's top score prize, hand made linen handkerchiefs, went to James A. Pittman. The cut prize, bridge cards fell to the lot of W. S. Coleman. Mrs. Ashcraft presented Mrs. Cawthon with dainty lingerie, while her gift to Mr. Cawthon was a silk scarf.

When the card tables had been laid with dainty covers the hostess assisted by Mrs. M. S. Wiggins, Mrs. Samuel Dighton and Miss Virginia Mc Daniel served a delicious chicken salad course with coffee.

Those enjoying this lovely affair were Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Cawthon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Dighton, Mr. and Mrs. William Moore Scott, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Sneed, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Markell, Judge and Mrs. James G. Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiggins of Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiggins Entertain At Country Club

The Sanford Country Club was the scene of one of the most brilliant social affairs of the holiday season when Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiggins entertained Monday night at a Christmas dance honoring their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiggins of Washington, D. C.

Never has the club house been more artistically decorated than on this occasion. The walls were decorated with boughs of cedar tied with fluffy bows of red ribbons and pretty holly wreaths. Over head were suspended festoons of red garlands and cedar caught with bows of red ribbons from which were hung red bells. The green mantles were banked with pine and cedar while wreaths of greenery were placed directly above. Bows of red roses centered the mantle, and tall red cathedral candles burned in silver holders at either side. The only lights were those from the large cheery fires and from the numerous red tapers placed on cabinets and tables.

Greeting the guests upon arrival were Mrs. William Alexander Leffer, while in the receiving line were Mrs. Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiggins and Mr. and Mrs. Braxton L. Perkins. Mrs. Leffer wore an exquisite creation of white crepe elaborately embroidered in crystals. Mrs. Wiggins received her guests wearing a stunning frock of tomato red georgette with trimmings of silver ribbons. A chic touch was added by a ruche of red maline. Her slippers were of silver with rhinestone buckles.

Mrs. Ernest Wiggins was regal in a gorgeous gown of black jet and sequins a touch of color was added by a large red rose on the shoulder, and an exquisite red Spanish shawl. Mrs. Perkins was gowned in a striking frock of orchid crepe georgette, with hand painted pastel tinted flowers and touches of silver.

Favors of caps, noise makers and novelties were distributed by Mrs. E. H. Ashcraft and Mrs. J. E. Brouse. Mrs. Ashcraft was attired in a most becoming gown, the bodice being fashioned of silver cloth, while the skirt was of ver. tinsel, threads, ornaments and multi-colored lights was placed in the living room. Dancing and promenade were the features of entertainment for the evening and at a late hour, Mrs. Vincent assisted by Mrs. S. D. Highleyman and Mrs. Tom Bolt served refreshments of chicken salad, cream cheese sandwiches and Russian tea. On each plate were sprigs of mistletoe to be used as favors. About 80 guests enjoyed the cordial hospitality of Miss Vincent.

At The Hearst Quiz In Washington

Where Winter Grips Big Ships

The hand of winter has reached out over the Great Lakes and played havoc with ships caught in ice locked channels. The picture at the top shows the tug General rescuing the crew of 21 men of the steamer Agawa which ran aground on Advance Reef of Manitoulin Island, Lake Huron. The crew was imprisoned for days in the ice-encrusted observation room, with little food or heat. The picture below was taken in the St. Mary's river below Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where several large boats have been imprisoned in the ice. The tug is trying to break a path for the big steamer.

Quebec Orphanage Where 50 Children Lost Lives

Here is the hollow shell of the St. Charles orphanage when the firemen played streams of water on the age at Quebec, where at least 50 children lost their lives in freezing weather. Many of the casualties lives when fire swept through the century-old build occurred when children who were not reached by the fire. Note how the walls are coated with ice, formed flames were suffocated by smoke.

She's Deputy

Miss Carmie G. Waterston of Montpelier, O., is the newest deputy United States marshal in the northern district of Ohio. She won't tote a gun, however, her principal weapons being pencil and typewriter.

Thaw And His Movie Proteges

Harry K. Thaw is shown upon his arrival in Los Angeles with Anita Rivers, left, and Susan Hughes at the screen. The girls are under contract to Kelliborth Productions, owned by Thaw. Although Thaw states at present that he has no plans for the girls, it is probable they will be loaned to Hollywood film producers.

Snyder-Gray

Mrs. Essie Jowers, top, and Elisha Swift below, are principals in Louisiana's copy of the Snyder-Gray murder case, according to a confession in the hands of Haynesville, La., Police. Mrs. Jowers held a flashlight while Swift killed her husband, J. F. Jowers, at the state market. The trial was to be held at Homer, La., beginning Dec. 19.

Fire Blackens California Hills

This remarkable picture, taken at 2 o'clock in the morning, shows a three-mile front ablaze on the ridge of the Verdugo mountains in southern California, where fires recently destroyed more than 10,000 acres and denuded thousands of acres of forest land. Note the eerie appearance of the moon, caused by the great clouds of smoke.
