Gangsters Won't Run State If Tomasso Is Elected, He Says

KEY WEST, Apr. 3.—"If a group of Chicago 'New York' gangsters is going to run this state for the next four years, if I am elected governor," said Peter Tomasso, Jr., Orlando candidate for governor, to Key Westers at Bayview Park here. He made this statement during an address in which, without mentioning names, he expressed regret that he was not a candidate for the post two years. "I let any man to justify a 27 percent gross increase in the cost of government, and I am willing to bet the man who will do it is not a man before me," he said.

THEY SING BEFORE BREAKFAST

Singing before breakfast may be bad luck for some people—but Eleanor Powell, Buddy Ebsen and Vilma Ebsen don't seem to think so in the scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's gala musical extravaganza, "Broadway Melody of 1936," playing a return engagement at the Rio Theater tonight.

Rollins Professor Talks On Ethics

Dr. A. B. Trowbridge, professor of religion and ethics at Rollins College, gave a lecture, "Social Ethics as Taught by the Bible," at the monthly business luncheon of the Woman's Club of Sanford held Wednesday afternoon at the club house. Dr. Elizabeth Tracey was program sponsor and Mrs. F. S. Lamson, Mrs. Clyde Ramsey, and Mrs. S. F. Doudney were hostesses.

Dr. Trowbridge traced through Biblical history man's sense of responsibility toward God and said, "This sense was caused first by his fear of God as depicted by the forces of nature and later through the successive stages of worship, adoration, faith, trust, and love toward God with corresponding expressions of responsibility toward his fellow man. As each new ideal presented itself, it finally exemplified in Christ, the crowning ideal of universal love and brotherhood with its inescapable coloration of personal, racial, and international love."

Mrs. Walter L. Cooper presided over a short business session conducted while luncheon was being served. At this time Mrs. H. J. Lehman gave an interesting account of the recent State Federation meeting in Tampa and Mrs. S. D. Highleyman reported on social activities at the convention.

Christ, Scientist, Apr. 5.
The Golden Text is from 1 Timothy 6:17, "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good." (Gen. 1:31).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make,—hence its unreality. In the science of Genesis we read that He saw everything which He had made, and behold, it was very good." The corporal senses declare otherwise; and if we give the same heed to the history of error as to the records of truth, the Scriptural record of sin and death favors the false conclusion of the material senses.

Phantom Eludes Police Of Miami In Merry Chase

MIAMI, Apr. 4.—(AP)—The phantom of Miami still continues at large.
Five weary policemen who pursued it over roof-top and gable volunteered the opinion someone with the talents of a motion picture apeman would be necessary to capture the phantom.

For the phantom is a small and excessively agile monkey which last week escaped from Arthur E. Hascom, pet dealer, and since has been giving law-abiding citizens the jitters.
It looked for a while yesterday as if the simian's vacation was at an end, for a houseowner reported the phantom freed. Patrolmen Marshall Campbell and J. J. Crawley answered the challenge and for the better part of an hour pursued the monkey hither, thither and yon.

No match for the fugitive, they eventually gave up the chase in disgust while the phantom hunked by his prehensile caudal appendage and hurled what soundly like insults at the retreating backs of the blue-coats.
Some time later, a second complaint came to police, and five policemen and a city health department employ sallied forth. This small army advanced with caution in echelon formation. The monkey retreated.

Presently residents were treated to the rare sight of six panting species of genus homo scampering wildly all over the neighborhood while the object of their pursuit swung calmly from branch to branch.
"I neck with it," panted the officers, finally, "lets go hunt down a mob of gangsters or something else easy."
So the phantom still is phantoming.

Umpires Of Florida League Announced By Gilliland As President Of Organization

Selections Made From List Of More Than 150 Job Applicants

DELANDA, Apr. 4.—The staff of umpires for the Florida State League which opens Sunday, Apr. 19, was announced today by President G. E. Gilliland, head of the new Class D Baseball circuit, following two months' consideration of more than 150 applications from practically every part of the United States.

In making the selections, President Gilliland pointed out that no umpire has been chosen who lives in a city holding a Florida State League franchise. Applications have been thoroughly investigated, he said, much time being given to every applicant's record, experience and recommendations, in order to get the best staff of umpires possible with salaries the league is able to provide.

The umpires: A. L. Maddock of Oakwood, Ohio; George A. Grant, Sanford, Ala.; H. Monroe Sheffield of Central, N. Y.; Archie Campbell, of Salem, Ore.; J. A. Lohr of Ft. Lauderdale and John A. Graham, Jr., of Bradenton.

Umpire Maddock Grant and Sheffield are all graduates of the Original All Star Umpire School, conducted annually by George Barr, National League Umpire, at Hot Springs, Ark. President Gilliland personally visited the school and selected these three men who are among 16 placed this year by Barr in organized baseball.

Grant, 33, stands six feet, one inch, and weighs 195 pounds. He attended Auburn, entered professional baseball as a pitcher in 1923, playing through the 1932 season. For seven years he was in the majors, playing three years with the St. Louis Browns, three with the Cleveland Indians, and one with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Since retiring he has officiated in college and high school athletics, and umpired in semi-pro baseball for the past three years. He is married and has three children.

Maddock, another of Barr's pupils, is 29 years old, weighs 205 pounds, and is six feet, two. He umpired 10 1/2 years in semi-pro leagues in Ohio and New York, and for 18 years was construction foreman for a telegraph company. He is married, has three girls, and does not smoke or chew, and writes that he does a little farming on the side.

Sheffield, the third Barr pupil, is a college graduate, holding A. B. and M. A. degrees, having attended New York State Teachers' College, the University of Kentucky, and the University of Vermont. He has coached and refereed basketball, umpired three years in semi-pro and independent baseball in the capital district of New York state. In addition he was a principal of a high school at Central, New York, and an instructor in the Sanford school.

CAMERA STORY OF THE HAUPTMANN CASE

Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., for whose murder Bruno Richard Hauptmann was condemned to death. The child was kidnaped March 1, 1932, and the body was found May 12 near Hopewell, N. J. (Associated Press Photo)

Here is Hauptmann in a New York police station soon after he was arrested, September 19, 1934, and grilled by police. A bill turned over to authorities by a suspicious gasoline station attendant proved to be a ransom note. Police discovered over $13,000 more in Hauptmann's home. (Associated Press Photo)

The state's star witnesses at the trial in Flemington were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Dr. John P. Condon, both of whom named Hauptmann as the man who received the ransom money. Among the evidence introduced at the trial was (top to bottom) the kidnap ladder, ransom money found in Hauptmann's home, and ransom notes. Below are defense witnesses, Louis Kies (left) and Elvert Carlstrom, who testified they saw Hauptmann in New York the night the baby was kidnaped.

Other state witnesses were Betty Gow (upper left), nurse of the Lindbergh baby and one of the last to see the child alive, and Cecelia Barry, theater cashier, who testified that she received cash afterwards found to be ransom money from Hauptmann when he purchased a theater ticket. Hauptmann is pictured in a Flemington jail cell after his conviction.

Albert B. Debern, Jr. (upper left), linked Hauptmann's handwriting to that on ransom notes and Arthur J. Koehler (upper right) testified that wood in the kidnap ladder came from Hauptmann's premises. Offered as evidence (top to bottom) were Hauptmann's tools, Dr. Condon's phone number found on a board in Hauptmann's home, and Hauptmann's known handwriting compared with handwriting on the kidnap notes. Below are Mrs. Christiana Friedrichs, Bronx bakery owner, and Henry Uhlig, who testified for the defense.

Here is Hauptmann's legal fight. At top is Edward J. Bremer, federal chief defense counsel; below is C. Lloyd Fisher, who served the duties of chief attorney; and below was released, and at bottom is Herbert Roosevelt. (Associated Press Photos)

19th Anniversary Of U.S. Entry In World War Sees 5,500,000 In European Armies

Largest Force Is In Soviet Russia Britain Will Spend $1,000 A Minute For New Armament

LONDON, Apr. 6.—With five and one-half million men under arms, and another seven million proposed to enter the field on 10-day notice, Old World nations, on the 19th anniversary of America's entrance into the World War to-day, present the greatest armed camp in history. Today, there are one and one-half million more men under arms than when the most terrible war of all history broke in the summer of 1914.

In Russia, where Josef Stalin is building the mightiest war machine the world has ever known, the standing army has been augmented to 1,300,000, but 2,500,000 more trained men could be thrown into action within three weeks.

Great Britain is in the midst of the greatest peace-time arm program in history. The program will cost between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 and reveals conclusive evidence that part of the next war will be fought in the air.

Within 24 hours, Italy could call up the colors 1,800,000 trained soldiers, and the 325,000 men in the Italian army are equipped with the most modern in the world.

Germany has 200 divisions and is expected to get one-third her entire population of 55,000,000 into combat.

Confronted with fingerprint evidence, James Rogers, negro, arrested by the police a week ago when he passed a quantity of food through the window of the Deussy lunch to another negro, confessed to the police that he conspired with a chain gang in Georgia after serving a small part of a 20-year sentence for burglary in Savannah.

Tupelo, Miss., and Gainesville, Ga., were hardest hit, with the menace of storm-generated fires adding to the horror of twisters and rain. Physicians and nurses were rushed to the stricken towns by the Red Cross. State and national agencies united to relieve suffering among the injured and homeless.

Lengthening death rolls early this afternoon listed these figures: Tupelo 82, Gainesville 22 to 85, estimated, Elkhorn, Ala. 3, Anderson, S. C. 1, Booneville, Miss. 1, Red Bay, Ala. 5, Coffeyville, Ala. 4, Columbia, Tenn. area, 6, Fayetteville, Tenn. 1.

Residents of Gainesville said 100 may have been killed there. There were no confirmations of rumors of one thousand dead. The storm hit Tupelo last night, and Gainesville was struck about 8:45 A. M. today.

Red Cross sources announced the report that between 100 and 175 persons were killed at Tupelo. Four persons were burned to death in Gainesville in a fire which broke out immediately after the storm struck. The Dixie-Hunt Hotel was badly damaged and was evacuated. Fire in an adjoining building was spreading toward the hotel. Ruins trapped the city's fire department in its headquarters, and it was helpless to assist except for stringing hose from the first department to the two fires.
