Double Execution Set Lawyers Begin Appeals Process To Save Clients

STARKE (UPI) — Lawyers for Raymond Stone and Robert Parker appealed to a federal court today to stay their double execution scheduled for just after dawn Tuesday at the Florida State Prison.

Appeals for the two killers were being considered by U.S. District Judge Susan Black in Jacksonville.

Stone, 47, was sentenced to die in Florida's "Ol' Sparky" electric chair for the beating death of Jacqueline Smith in Union County, Fla., Aug. 23, 1974. Smith's body, partially eaten by alligators, was found lodged between two tree trunks in the Santa Fe River.

Last November, the U.S. Supreme Court rejected an appeal by Stone's lawyers, who said his trial counsel was ineffective and failed to investigate and present evidence of a depraved and deprived childhood as mitigating circumstances.

Parker, 31, was sentenced to death for the 1982 drug-related murders of Richard Padgett, 22, and Nancy Sheppard, 17, both of Jacksonville.

The killings became known as the "Donut Lake Murders" after the two bodies were found Feb. 10, 1982, in Donut Lake in suburban Jacksonville. Both Padgett and Sheppard had been shot and stabbed, and Sheppard's throat had been slit.

According to court records, Parker and an accomplice in the murders, Tommy Groover, who also is on death row, killed Padgett and Sheppard over an argument stemming from a drug buy Padgett allegedly made from Groover, who was selling drugs for Parker.

Last Tuesday, the Florida Supreme Court refused to give Parker a stay. Parker's lawyers argued unsuccessfully that his conviction should be overturned because the prosecutor at his trial made cash payments for lunch, travel and loss of earnings to several state witnesses.

Lawyers for Stone and Parker said if Black turns down their appeals, the next step would be to appeal to the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta, and then to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Heathrow Civil Suit Dismissal Approved

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford received word this morning that Seminole Brevard Chief Justice Clarence Johnson has signed the joint-motion attorneys for Sanford and the Heathrow Land Development Corporation submitted late last month for dismissal of the $28 million civil claim Heathrow brought against the city in response to its Yankee Lake condemnation effort. Both sides agree to bear costs of their respective attorneys' fees under the joint-dismissal.

The Sanford condemnation suit, which the city lost last spring, sought to invalidate the Yankee Lake purchase agreement Seminole County entered into with the site's owner Jeno Paulucci.

Under terms of the contract Seminole County and Paulucci entered into last fall, the Heathrow community Paulucci founded was to receive effluent treatment and disposal at the waste plant the county plans to build at the 2,867-acre Yankee Lake site.

The county also paid $7.5 million for Yankee Lake, an amount approximately $1.2 million more than Sanford came in with during its own efforts to purchase Yankee Lake from Paulucci last fall.

Sanford filed for condemnation of the site two days after Paulucci agreed to sell to the county. In January, the Heathrow suit was filed against the city, its five commissioners and manager, based on alleged contractual interference the Sanford condemnation effort was causing the county-Paulucci purchase agreement.

guards. It was all a civil defense exercise that tested the Guard infantry unit in its scheduled monthly exercise. It also tested the ability of the Guard and the SWAT team to work together as they would in the event of a real terrorist attack, according to Guard Sgt. John Reading.

Woman Raped, Slain

A 38-year-old Seminole County woman was found dead today, the apparent victim of an assailant who raped her, slashed her throat, then wrapped her body in a blanket. She was found by a friend who went to her South Seminole County apartment early this morning.

The dead woman was identified as Eve Aguilar of #106 San Jose Apartments, 2353 Winter Woods Blvd. near Casselberry, whose friend found her nude body wrapped in a blanket on her bed when he stopped by her second-floor apartment at about 6:50 a.m. Seminole County sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said the woman's throat had been slashed and she had been raped.

The friend found the door to the apartment open and a pane of glass had been removed from a window near the door, where the killer apparently entered.

Seminole County Medical Examiner G.V. Garay, who was scheduled to perform an autopsy this morning, reported that the woman had been dead eight to

Five Code Violators Cleared

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Five of the six multi-family residences city inspectors cited late last month for violations of Sanford building, safety and fire code requirements have now been brought up to standard, Sanford Building Inspector Dan Florian said today.

Full compliance with city requirements was determined during follow-up inspections, according to Florian, who said reinspection of the sixth residence is scheduled for this week.

Also set for this week are first inspections at seven of the remaining 77 multi-family dwellings located in downtown residential Sanford, Florian said.

The comprehensive canvassing of the district's 83 multi-family structures was called for by city commissioners last month and is being undertaken by personnel from Sanford's building, fire and police departments.

Florian estimated it will take eight to 10 weeks to complete all inspections and follow-up surveys. Sanford is using certified mail to contact the structures' owners to schedule inspections, he said.

The inspectors are looking into possible violations of standard housing and fire codes as well as safety upgrades that were to have been installed as of last October, under terms of the two year grace period adopted in 1983, when the targeted downtown district was rezoned from multi-family to single family residential.

Under the rezoning, multi-family residences were allowed to continue operating, contingent on installation of the safety upgrades by the October, 1985 deadline.

Sanford commissioners called for the inspections after a number of the area's single

Survey: Most Men Would Marry Same Woman Again

CHICAGO (UPI) — If they had to do it all over, 80 percent of the men who responded to a newspaper survey said they would marry their wives again.

The poll, conducted by the Chicago Sun-Times and printed in Sunday's editions, asked married men: "If you had it to do again, would you marry your current wife?" and "Why or why not?"

Of the 2,301 men who responded, 1,788, or nearly eight in 10, said they would, the newspaper said.

That compares with a recent Woman's Day magazine survey in which only five out of every 10 women said they would marry their husbands again.

When asked why they would marry their current wives again, most men in the Sun-Times survey responded: "Because I love her."

At least 5 percent said they would choose their current wife again because, "No one else would put up with me," or "Who else would do my laundry."

Lake Crystal's Plight Found

A Seminole County Health Department investigation into high bacteria counts in the City of Lake Mary's Crystal Lake has led health department officials to believe rainwater run-off and animal waste are responsible for unsatisfactory fecal coliform bacteria counts in the lake.

A leaking septic tank is not suspected in causing the high bacteria levels, which have prevented the issuance of swimming permits for public bathing at the lakes two beaches so far this summer.

The lake's east beach has been consistently in the satisfactory range of bacteria counts during testing which has been conducted for more than two months, but the west beach counts have been erratic, and

A Sanford officer views the top of a 1980 Buick driven into Lake Monroe in Sanford Sunday. According to a police report, the northbound Buick, driven by Dorothy Elizabeth Rouse, 58, of 146 W. French Ave., Orange City, failed to stay on the roadway at the intersection of French Avenue and Seminole Boulevard, which winds along Lake Monroe. Ms. Rouse was not injured in the 11:30 a.m. accident. She was charged with careless driving and driving under the influence of alcohol, according to police.

County Candidacy Filing Begins

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Candidates seeking seats on the Seminole County Board of Commissioners and School Board begin filing official candidacy qualifying forms today, but many have already filed official intent forms, according to county Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard.

Qualifying opens today at noon, and will last until noon Friday.

She said three candidates have filed intent for candidacy forms for the district 2 Board of County Commissioners seat, and three for the district 1 school board seat.

Two seats are available in this fall's county commission race

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm, Republican is expected to run for re-election to his district 2 seat.

Also expected to seek Sturm's seat are former county employee Robert Desmond, Jr., also a Republican, and a Democrat, Bob French, Casselberry.

In the district 4 race, Commissioner Sandra Glenn is the only candidate to file an intention to run form as of this morning, Ms. Goard said.

In the county school board district 1 race, board member Bill Kroll is expected to face competition from Norman Larry Betsinger and Rudy L. Sloan.

Board member Jean Bryant is expected to be challenged by former county schools personnel director Ann Neiswender for her district 5 seat.

Pat Telson has drawn no opposition so far for her bid to retain her district 4 school board seat.

Commission candidates qualifying requires a $1,520.65 fee, an oath of candidacy including how their name is to appear on the ballot, and filing a financial disclosure form, Ms. Goard said.

School board candidates qualifying for candidacy fee is $441.12.

County commissioners are paid $30,000 a year, and school board members are paid a base salary of almost $15,000.

IN BRIEF

California Shakes Again But Scientists Say Big One Coming

DEL MAR, Calif. (UPI) — The second strong earthquake to shake Southern California in less than a week apparently triggered a fatal heart attack, critically injured a man buried under hundreds of books and was felt as far away as Yuma, Ariz.

Scientists said neither quake relieved enough seismic pressure on California's earthquake faults to "waylay the big one" that will likely hit the state in the next 30 years.

A Sunday morning's earthquake, which was centered offshore along a different fault than Tuesday's quake, measured 5.3 on the Richter scale at Caltech in Pasadena, Calif., at 6:46 a.m. PDT.

The rolling up and down motion followed by a sharp jolt awakened residents along a 200-mile stretch of the coast from Santa Barbara, northwest of Los Angeles, to San Diego. It was felt 125 miles inland at Yuma and 100 miles away in Palm Springs, where Tuesday's 5.9 magnitude quake injured 40 people and caused nearly $6 million damage.

Panelists: Bill By Labor Day

(Note: See Analysis Story, page 8A)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A member of the congressional conference panel that begins work on a final tax reform bill this week says the delicate problem of who will head the compromise effort could be resolved by appointing co-chairmen.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., offered the suggestion Sunday as he and other committee members prepared for a task that is expected to last a month.

Both Gephardt and Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, predicted the House-Senate panel would convene Wednesday with a pledge to resolve differences in time to get final legislation on President Reagan's desk by Labor Day.

A crucial situation that must be resolved before work begins this week is the question of who will lead the panel — Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, or Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Justice Expensive For Locals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost 90 percent of the nearly $40 billion spent in 1983 for police, prisons and prosecution nationwide was borne at the local level, the Justice Department reports.

Combined spending for judicial proceedings at federal, state and local levels was $39.7 billion during that fiscal year, the department said Sunday — with state and local governments picking up 87.8 percent of the tab.

The report, "Justice Expenditure and Employment, 1983," was released by the department's Bureau of Justice Statistics.

It showed local governments alone spent $23.1 billion, almost three-fifths of the total, while states spent $11.7 billion and the federal government laid out $4.8 billion — just 0.6 percent of the total federal budget.

Judge Charged in Child Assault

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — An Alabama judge charged with sexually assaulting the 13-year-old grandson of another judge during a national conference of family court judges has been released on personal recognizance.

Family Court Judge James "Jimmy Dean" Sloan, 42, of Anniston, Ala., is charged with the first-degree sexual assault of a Pascagoula, Miss., judge's grandson, said Capt. Frank McGee of the state police.

Sloan was arrested Saturday and arraigned before Superior Court Judge Albert DeRobbio, who released the judge on $10,000 personal recognizance. Sloan, who returned home Sunday, is scheduled to appear for an Aug. 18 court hearing in Providence.

The boy had been unable to operate the television in his room and shortly after 10 p.m. Friday went to Sloan's room to ask for assistance.

Divers Describe Discovering Challenger Crew Cabin

COCOA BEACH (UPI) — Divers said they did not realize they had found the crew cabin of the space shuttle Challenger until an astronaut's flight suit floated from the mangled debris 87 feet below the surface of the Atlantic Ocean.

"It was just like a bomb had gone off in an airplane or something," said diver Mike McAllister. "It was a mess. It was nothing you could identify right off."

McAllister and Terry Bailey had six minutes of air left in their tanks on the last dive of the day when they spotted the spacesuit and knew they had found the cabin holding Challenger's seven crew members when the shuttle exploded 74 seconds after liftoff Jan. 28.

McAllister had worked in the shuttle program four years and knew flight suits were not worn during launch. But he also knew the suits were stored middeck in the crew compartment for use in orbit.

Bailey and McAllister marked their find with a buoy and returned to their ship, which was about 17 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral. Navy divers from the USS Preserver completed the task of raising the cabin.

Turbulence Jolts Passengers

MIAMI (UPI) — Jolts caused by heavy air turbulence over West Palm Beach, Fla., injured several passengers and crew members on an Eastern Air Lines flight from New York to Miami, an airline spokesman said.

Flight 977 landed normally at Miami International Airport just before 6 p.m. Sunday, said Toni Zahn.

There was no indication on whether any of the injured passengers were wearing their seatbelts.

Reports from three Miami-area hospitals showed all but three of the 10 injured passengers and all eight flight attendants were discharged late Sunday.

Hawaiian Con Artists Sought

TAMPA (UPI) — The body of an unidentified woman lying in the city morgue has put police on the trail of a Hawaiian family of con artists who apparently enjoy mud packs and use chicken eggs to chase away evil spirits.

The Merinos — Nancy, 26, her mother, Tina Heilen, 49, David, 25, Anne Mary, 34, and Mary, 24 — are wanted in Hawaii for grand theft. Two of them were arrested in Camden, N.J., last year on theft charges and bailed out of jail on $1,500 bond each.

In Wake Of Supreme Court Decision

Congress Faces Gramm-Rudman Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress returns from vacation this week to confront what is left of the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law now that the Supreme Court has ruled unconstitutional the act's automatic budget-cutting mechanism.

The court ruling last week invalidated $11.7 billion in automatic spending cuts made March 1 — the first round of Gramm-Rudman's five-year plan to balance the budget.

Congress now has until Sept. 5 to ratify those cuts or restore the money. Restoration of the funds would swell the federal budget deficit and snarl next year's budget process, which is now about half completed.

"It will be absolutely chaotic if we don't" ratify the cuts, said Rep. Marty Russo, D-Ill., a member of the House Budget Committee who supports Gramm-Rudman.

The Gramm-Rudman law, passed late last year, requires Congress and the president to reduce the deficit to zero by 1991. The law sets a deficit target for each year. If Congress and the president cannot reach that figure, automatic across-the-board spending cuts go into effect.

But the Supreme Court ruled on Monday that the law unconstitutionally placed an agent of Congress — the comptroller general — in the position of dictating to the executive branch.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., has pledged to begin work on the ratification process quickly.

"Fast action to reaffirm the March 1 executive order will demonstrate again that Congress shares the desire of the American people for a stable fiscal policy," O'Neill said in a statement.

But others appear to see the ratification vote as a way to get some money back for favored programs.

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., author of a bill to repeal Gramm-Rudman, said the ruling means "important programs providing key services to our nation's poor, youth and aged were forced to take unnecessary cuts in March since the court has nullified the process by which the cuts were imposed."

Biaggi appears to be in the minority. Even Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., who filed the suit that resulted in the Supreme Court ruling, said he would vote to ratify the March 1 cuts since everything that has been done since — including the fiscal 1987 budget passed last month — has used the post-cut numbers as a starting point.

"That ratification really is critical," said a professional staff member of the House Budget Committee.

The budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 was drawn to meet the Gramm-Rudman deficit target of $144 billion. But if Congress fails to carry out most of the savings specified in the budget or if slow economic growth continues, the deficit could exceed the target. If it goes over by $10 billion or more, Congress will be required to make a second round of cuts in the fall.

Initial economic estimates were that the deficit would be over by at least the $10 billion and closer to $20 billion or even $30 billion. But new, more optimistic figures reportedly show that with a little juggling, Congress may be able to avoid having to deal with the second round of cuts.

There are a number of ways the deficit estimate could be lowered, especially delaying payments like those to farmers or defense contractors.

House Budget Committee estimates show the deficit will be about $15 billion higher due to less favorable economic conditions. However, that could be offset by more than that amount in slower spending for defense allocations or re-estimates for Medicare spending.

Reagan, Fletcher To Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's meeting today with NASA Administrator James Fletcher may help the new space agency chief secure the funding he wants for a new shuttle to replace the lost Challenger.

Officials said Fletcher would respond to a presidential order by reporting to Reagan on how the agency is implementing recommendations of the Rogers Commission that investigated the shuttle explosion.

However, the meeting also could afford Fletcher an opportunity to strengthen his case with Reagan on support for a new shuttle — a decision that has been delayed more than two months by questions about $2 billion-plus in funding.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the decision remains at least two weeks away, though several Republican leaders have said they are confident Reagan will support the replacement effort.

Fletcher has said a fourth shuttle will be needed to allow the agency's $8 billion space-station program to meet a 1994 target date set by Reagan.

Speakes said that after today's

Woman Beaten, Raped

Two men who reportedly abducted a woman in Orange County at about 1 a.m. today were being sought in connection with the beating and rape of that woman.

The victim told Seminole County sheriff's investigators she was grabbed by the pair and forced into a van at the Tootale's a topless bar on State Road 50, in Orange County, where the victim dances. The abductors drove to a dirt road off Tuskawilla Road in Southeast Seminole County where they raped the Winter Park woman many times and beat her, sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said.

They took the woman back to Orange County where she was released. She reported the attack to Orange County officials and they referred the case to Seminole County investigators.

Fire At Sunrise

Extensive heat and smoke damage to Russell Bros. Aluminum Anodizing's entire structure and fire damage to a bathroom area were reported from a blaze that possibly ignited from electrical wiring, firemen said. Exact cause of blaze at 1001 Cornwall Road will be determined by state fire marshal investigation, firemen said. The fire, discovered by employees arriving for work in the area at 6:46 a.m.

briefing, White House officials would review the direction the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has taken since the Jan. 28 disaster that set the program back an estimated two years.

Fletcher already has announced two major steps to strengthen the program.

He said June 30 he was moving direction of the space station project from the Johnson Space Center in Houston to NASA headquarters in Washington, and July 8 he established a new office of safety, reliability and quality assurance to provide independent oversight of key projects.

The Rogers Commission recommended a safety office be formed with wide-ranging responsibilities to help prevent another space disaster. The panel, headed by former Secretary of State William Rogers, was especially critical of NASA management and the apparent absence of an agency-wide safety organization.

The commission's first recommendation was to change the design of the seals in joints of the twin solid propellant booster rockets required to launch each shuttle. The Challenger began under retired Air Force Gen. Samuel Phillips, former head of the Apollo moon landing program.

Oviedo Man Killed

An Oviedo man was apparently killed early Sunday when a Cadillac struck him as he lay on State Road 46 near Lake Jesup.

Dead is Richard Henry Heath, 23, of 1743 Pams Way, according to the Florida Highway Patrol. The incident occurred Sunday at 3:39 a.m.

Heath was lying on the eastbound lane of roadway when a westbound 1979 Cadillac driven by Joyce W. Weller, 42, of Weirsdale, Fla., pulled into the eastbound lane to pass another westbound vehicle. While passing she struck Heath, who may have already been struck by another vehicle.

FHP asks that anyone who may have knowledge of the incident or saw a man lying on the roadway in that area around that time to call them at 323-1800.

Heath is the 17th traffic fatality of the year in Seminole County.

frequently in the unsatisfactory range.

Late last year high bacteria counts were discovered to be the result of a leaking residential septic tank pipe. City officials feared another leaking tank was the cause of the current problems.

Russ Miller of the Seminole County Health Department said a survey of the lake and the surrounding shores was conducted recently. Water samples were taken at seven points in the lake, which included samples from the beaches, as well as from a boat.

City officials also walked the perimeter of the lake looking for septic tank pipes or other sources of pollution, Miller said.

One of the areas sampled near the east beach indicated that waste from ducks was responsible for the fecal bacteria found in that area.

Miller said rain water run-off carrying fertilizer, as well as other animal waste is suspected with causing the high bacteria counts.

"We have found no indication that human waste is responsible for the contamination," Miller said.

He added that the counts have shown some improvement around the lake and that the city is continuing to request permits for public swimming at the two beaches. Miller said that the county would continue testing of lake water.

He said that he is aware of no other bacteria problems in lakes within the city.

Cited late last month, and now corrected, were infractions involving missing, inoperative or improperly installed smoke detectors and/or fire extinguishers, minor structural deterioration, improper storage of flammable liquids and improper electrical wiring systems, Florian said.

Auto Salesman Sentenced For Bilking His Customers

A car salesman who pleaded guilty to 13 counts of misrepresentation in bilking buyers of money for non-existent U.S. government surplus jeeps was sentenced to 18 months in jail Friday.

Wayne Dale Dreyer, 41, of 103 Borado Road, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler. Lefler issued the sentence which had been agreed upon by Circuit Judge Robert McGregor who originally heard the case. The jail time is to be followed by 8 1/2 years' probation. While on probation, Dreyer must pay restitution to his victims, a sum between $5,000 and $7,000. He was arrested in June, 1985.

According to court records, dozens of people gave Dreyer a $200, downpayment each for the bogus jeeps. The jeeps, 1955 to 1965 models, were to be delivered un assembled.

The jeeps were never available from the government, records show.

In other court action, an occupational therapist charged with lewd assault will not be tried for a third time.

The state has decided not to go for a third attempt at J. Martin Burns, 38, of Winter Haven.

Burns was found guilty in early 1985 of molesting a boy in his charge but the conviction was overruled by the judge on the case. Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. threw out the conviction basically because he allowed unexpected witnesses for the state and defense to testify. Under Florida's discovery laws, there are to be no surprise witnesses.

Burns was tried a second time in 1985, but the jurors reached an impasse and could not reach a verdict.

Kurt Erlenbach, prosecutor in the case, said it would be difficult to get a conviction in the case of an alleged fondling lasting one or two seconds three years ago.

The fondling allegedly occurred when Burns was checking the diaper of a severely handicapped 8-year-old.

Haiti On The Brink

The joy that greeted the hasty exit of Haitian President Jean Claude Duvalier nearly five months ago has disappeared, and the Caribbean nation is now in an ugly mood.

Beset by grinding poverty, critical food shortages and civilian unrest, Haiti is an explosion in the making. Regrettably, the interim regime of Gen. Henri Namphy seems unable to defuse the dangerous situation.

Key government posts are still in the hands of Duvalier holdovers. Inefficient state-owned industries and high tariffs hobble Haiti's economy. The unemployment rate is 50 percent and rising steadily. And angry citizens have taken to the streets to vent their frustrations.

To its credit, the Namphy government is determined to restore civilian rule and recently announced a timetable for democratic elections. Political parties are being formed, a constitution will be completed next fall, and a new president is scheduled to take office in February 1988.

The problem, of course, is getting there from here.

The United States and its allies could improve the odds of a democratic transition in Haiti through increased foreign aid to the impoverished nation. Such assistance, however, ought to include strings, requiring that specific economic and political reforms take place there.

For starters, Gen. Namphy ought to be persuaded to pare the political deadwood from his government. Ready replacements could be found among the ranks of political dissidents, who are understandably impatient with the general's slow pace of reforms. Those who become part of the decision-making process are less likely to protest against the system.

The Haitian government should also be required to make specific fiscal changes before it receives any additional economic aid. For example, reduced tariffs and a healthy infusion of free enterprise might encourage farmers to increase their crop yields. Those yields could be enhanced still further with some timely assistance from American agricultural specialists.

For all of its problems, Haiti is no less capable of self-government than most of its neighbors. With increased foreign aid and some gentle prodding from its friends, this beleaguered nation can achieve the stability that will see it through these difficult times.

Different View

Asian leaders shouldn't need a reminder from the U.S. secretary of state that it would be a mistake to declare parts of the Pacific Basin of "nuclear free zone." But they do. Secretary of State George Shultz couldn't have selected a better topic to emphasize during a press conference in Singapore.

Asians in the past few years have discussed the possibility of a southeast Asian "zone of peace, freedom and neutrality."

Last August, eight South Pacific nations — including Australia and New Zealand — concluded a pact declaring the South Pacific a nuclear-free zone. The pact prohibits any nation from manufacturing, testing or situating an explosive nuclear device in the designated region. It also prohibits the dumping of nuclear waste and the exporting of nuclear material without strict precautions.

New Zealand has gone an additional step into isolationism with its denial of port access to nuclear-powered and nuclear-armed naval vessels. This has caused the United States to declare that New Zealand is no longer a working partner in a mutual defense treaty involving the two nations and Australia.

Shultz said the United States is compelled to maintain a nuclear arsenal so long as the Soviet Union maintains one. "The nuclear capability is a very important force for stability in this part of the world as well as elsewhere," he told the Asian leaders.

A zone of peace, freedom and neutrality might have superficial appeal to Asians who are able to overlook the history of nations that based their national security on hope instead of strength. But idealistic neutrality ignores the realities of the nuclear age. Non-nuclear zones aren't part of Soviet policy.

The Soviets press where the resistance is weak, and neutrality, from Moscow, looks a great deal like weakness.

Liberty Weekend Left Reagan Walking On Air

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has had some great backdrops during his presidency for memorable pictures in historic settings.

His visits to the Normandy beachhead in France, the Demilitarized Zone in Korea, and the Great Wall in China all added to his White House album of memorable photographs.

But it is the Statue of Liberty that seemed to be the most awe-inspiring to Reagan, who was walking on air even after he returned to the White House from Liberty Weekend.

His aides wanted to make sure that he could add to his collection of photographs without any interference in the backdrop.

When a reporter with Reagan on the USS Iowa observed a Secret Service agent standing between the president and the statue in the background, an aide rushed to the agent and told him to move. Apparently security considerations that put the agent there in the first place could be bent slightly for a good picture.

A bootleg photograph circulating around the White House shows a roll of toilet paper on the president's Oval Office desk with the face of Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi on it.

It was presented to President Reagan as a gag although the giver is unknown. Timing of the presentation apparently was after Reagan ordered a bombing raid against Libya.

The president, a former movie actor, borrowed a Hollywood line for his reply on how would he like to be remembered, say, in 2050. "I don't let myself think about that much," he said. "I just hope they spell my name right."

He made the remark in a recent interview with USA Today.

Reagan does not appear bothered that his son, Ron, appeared in his skivvies in the Oval Office in a satirical sketch on a television program. "How do you feel about your son going around in underwear," he was asked by the USA Today reporter.

"Well, now you have to remember his earlier training as a dancer. He was pretty well dressed in his viewpoint. But he also was doing a takeoff on a current movie." The movie was "Risky Business."

"So it's show business, huh?" he was asked.

"Yes. And I thought he did quite well. I was, as a matter of fact, a little surprised ... at the way he carried off that takeoff on the movie."

The president is moving into his wife's territory. He is considering delivering a major address against drug abuse, spurred by the cocaine-induced deaths of two star athletes, Len Bias, University of Maryland basketball player, and professional football player Don Rogers of the Cleveland Browns.

The first lady has crusaded against drug abuse among youth for five years and has raised the national consciousness to the growing problem. In her most recent speeches she has declared that it is the individual's responsibility to refrain from taking drugs whether at a party, on campus or anywhere else.

Why Diets Fail

By Deltha Ricks
 UPI Science Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Overweight people who tend to regain pounds rapidly after a successful diet may be victims of abnormal enzyme activity, scientists say.

Doctors studied a group of women who weighed about 200 pounds each and had each shed about 25 pounds on a strict diet. They found that enzyme activity was abnormal in all the women even after they maintained the loss for three months.

The apparent culprit in the recurring weight problem is the enzyme known as lipoprotein lipase or LPL, said Dr. Robert Eckel, who headed a team of researchers working on the project at the University of Colorado.

"This enzyme is a gatekeeper for fat storage," the endocrinologist said. LPL is produced by the body at what is called a basal or low level.

Eckel, a professor of medicine at the university's Health Sciences Center, told a recent meeting of the American Diabetes Association in Anaheim the defective enzyme is the one responsible for fat storage.

"To begin with, obese people produce too much of the enzyme at the basal level compared to normals," he said. "With too much LPL per fat cell, they are overworking to store fat."

Eckel explained that LPL production increases in response to a meal or administration of insulin to store triglycerides (a type of fat) in the cells of fatty tissue, so the women "continued to load fat into their cells at an excessive rate."

Eckel hypothesized that high LPL production could play a critical role in weight gain and the resumption of weight after dieting.

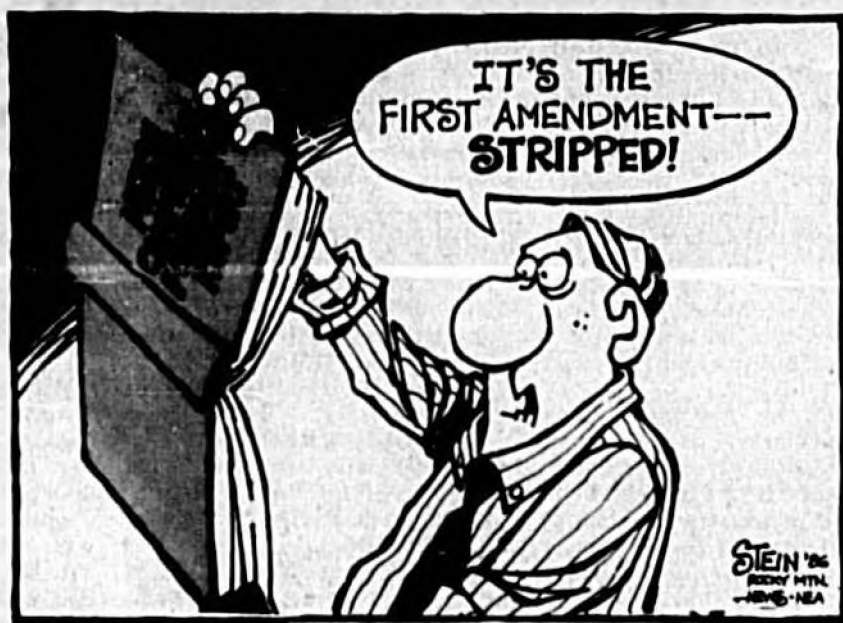

But he cautioned that finding ways of limiting LPL production could result in severe physiological complications.

"LPL is an important enzyme in many tissues, such as its critical role in removing triglycerides from the blood, which may help prevent the atherosclerosis (hardening and clogging of arteries) that leads to heart disease."

"At this time we have no way of lowering enzyme activity without impairing its important functions elsewhere," he said.

Eckel now is trying to determine if the LPL enzyme associated with fat storage is identical to the LPL enzyme in other tissues and physiological functions.

If the enzyme is structurally different in other tissues, then Eckel foresees development of antibodies against the LPL fat enzyme.

ROBERT WALTERS

Who's Killing Whom?

SEATTLE (NEA) — Like residents of other communities throughout the country, thousands of people here keep handguns in their homes to defend themselves and their families against intruders.

But who actually gets killed by those weapons? Compelling new evidence suggests that the gun owners, their relatives and their friends are slain far more frequently than burglars, robbers, rapists and other criminals.

The new study, characterized by its authors as a unique attempt to scientifically analyze the cause of firearms deaths in the home, examined all gunshot fatalities from 1978 through 1983 in King County, Wash., a metropolitan area of 1.3 million people that includes Seattle and its suburbs.

The study's most striking conclusion: Only 0.5 percent of all victims (two out of almost 400) were intruders fatally shot during an attempted illegal entry into a home.

For every instance in which a criminal was killed, there were scores of suicides, homicides and accidental gunshot deaths — often taking the lives of those who were supposed to be protected.

"In light of these findings, it may reasonably be asked whether keeping firearms in the home increases a family's protection or places it in greater danger," conclude the authors, Drs. Arthur L. Kellerman and Donald T. Reay.

Their findings were published recently in the New England Journal of Medicine.

During their six-year study, the physicians identified 743 Seattle area deaths attributable to firearms, including 473 that occurred in a home. Of those, 398 happened in the home where the gun involved was kept.

- Out of the 398 fatalities:
  - 333 (83.7 percent) were suicides.
  - 48 (12.1 percent) were homicides not involving intruders.
  - 12 (3.0 percent) were accidental deaths.

— 3 (0.8 percent) were due to unknown causes.

— 2 (0.5 percent) were slayings of intruders.

Are the King County findings applicable to other communities? If anything, the fatality rate is probably lower here because there is a smaller percentage of blacks — who experience a higher rate of violent deaths than whites — in the Seattle area than in the nation as a whole.

There are approximately 120 million privately owned weapons in this country, half of which are rifles and shotguns and half of which are handguns. About half of all the nation's households have a firearm.

Although most gun owners classify their weapons as primarily for hunting or sport, three-quarters say they keep a gun at least partly for protection. One-fifth cite "self-defense at home" as the primary reason for ownership.

Handguns take the lives of approximately 24,000 people every year in this country — but the FBI reports that in 1983 (the most recent year for which reliable statistics are available) only 158 of those deaths involved law-abiding citizens killing strangers in self-defense.

About 14,000 handgun deaths — almost 60 percent — are suicides. Those intent upon taking their own lives probably would find other weapons if guns were not available, but the surgeon general noted in 1979 that "suicide attempts are less likely to be fatal without firearms."

More than 1,000 people die every year from handgun accidents while at least 9,000 others are murdered. In that last category, the victim is far more likely to be a friend or relative of the assailant shot during a violent quarrel than a hapless homeowner or shopkeeper gunned down by a criminal.

"Guns kept in King County homes were involved in the deaths of friends or acquaintances 12 times as often as those of strangers," conclude the authors of the study conducted here.

WASHINGTON WORLD

Where Are Yesteryear Outspoken?

By Arnold Sawiak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The death of the tough little sailor who never hesitated to call an underdeveloped intellectual concept a dumb idea was a reminder that Washington seems to be running out of curmudgeons.

A few people around the capital might be able to partially fill the plain talk gap left by the departure of Adm. Hyman Rickover, but the supply of outspoken cantankerous characters is running low.

Rickover didn't go in for flowery phrases, but describing the Naval Academy as a "lousy boys' school" and suggesting that the best way to improve military efficiency would be "eliminating 40 percent of the jobs at the Pentagon" left a few sizzle marks on bureaucratic hides.

Education Secretary William Bennett and White House communications chief Pat Buchanan are two who may develop into curmudgeons of the right. Senate GOP leader Bob Dole, who gave the Democrats a pretty good sandpapering in 1976, also still delivers an occasional wicked one-liner.

But most of the people now in government are either pompous and dull or folksy and boring.

The first authentic curmudgeon on the Washington scene may have been Rep. John Randolph, who described a political enemy (either Thomas Jefferson or Edward Livingston, depending on the reference), as "a man of splendid abilities, but utterly corrupt. Like rotten mackerel by moonlight, he stinks and shines."

Sen. Thomas Hart Benton was famous for verbally taking the hide off his opponents in the pre-Civil War period. When one of his enemies died, another senator asked Benton if he had anything nasty to say about the deceased. Benton declared in a pious tone, "When God puts his hand on a man, sir, Benton takes his hand off."

New Deal Interior Secretary Harold Ickes was known as "The Old Curmudgeon," according to William Safire in his political dictionary. He dubbed Wendell Willkie "the barefoot boy from Wall Street," Thomas Dewey "the little man on the wedding cake," and said of Huey Long, "He is suffering from halitosis of the intellect. That's presuming that Senator Long has an intellect."

Gen. Hugh Johnson, a fallen-away New Dealer, described a newspaper publisher as a man with "a gangrene heart and rotting brain" and his former New Deal colleagues as a "cockeyed crew of wand-waving wizards."

JACK ANDERSON

Japan Passes Off Fake Bolts

By Jack Anderson
 And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Why would anyone counterfeit steel bolts? The same reason someone counterfeits $100 bills: to make money by passing them off as the real thing.

Granted, you don't make as much illicit profit from a fake steel bolt as you do from a phony $100 bill, but the counterfeit bolt is a lot harder to detect. In fact, it costs about $200 — real dollars, that is — to determine the exact metallic content of a single bolt. For this reason, few tests are done unless a bolt fails, and then it's too late.

Why should you care whether a steel bolt isn't what it's supposed to be? Consider that there are about 3,000 bolts in the car you drive, 7,000 in every Army tank your taxes pay for and perhaps 3 million in some jet aircraft.

Consider also that alloy-steel bolts are reliable to 800 degrees Fahrenheit, while cheaper boron-steel bolts turn to putty at 500 degrees. Recent bolt failures in nuclear plants and military equipment suggest that fraudulent fasteners may already be screwed into America's vitals.

A study last April by the Industrial Fastener Institute concluded that 80 percent of Grade 8 bolts — supposedly the hardest and most durable on the market — were counterfeit. Some Japanese exporters have admitted using cheaper, boron steel on their Grade 8 bolts instead of the specified alloy steel.

What's worse is that some U.S. importers appear to be cooperating with the Japanese bolt counterfeiters — or even to be investigating the fraud. Our reporter Jim Lynch was slipped a letter to an American importer from a major Japanese fastener manufacturer. Dated June 10, 1985, the letter suggests that the Japanese firm was well aware of the U.S. alloy-steel requirement, "but that regarding the present orders we will ship Grade 8 boron ... using 60-degree equally spaced headmarking." That marking on the bolt is the officially recognized identification of Grade 8 alloy-steel bolts.

Some Japanese bolt manufacturers have apologized for the mismarkings when caught, but claimed that the U.S. importers requested them.

"I wouldn't put a kid's swing set together with some of the junk I get in here!" griped an angry distributor in Houston.

Unfortunately, it's more than swing sets that fail because of faulty bolts — and the injuries are far graver than a bump on the head for a 4-year-old. Here are some examples of what some industry insiders call "The Junking of America":

— Two military helicopters crashed in separate accidents on the West Coast last spring, killing six occupants. Both crashes were traced to faulty fasteners.

— A neighborhood in Texas had to be evacuated in 1984 when a bolt broke and 5,000 pounds of deadly phosgene gas spewed out of a petrochemical plant.

— Five ironworkers died when a television/radio antenna tower in Houston collapsed in 1982 because of a bolt failure.

— A 1984 study, costing $2 million, estimated that almost half of the 67,000 bolts in a Midland, Mich., nuclear plant did not meet specifications. The failure of three main bolts anchoring two reactors had prompted the study. The plant is not in operation.

An alarming trend is that many foreign manufacturers now sell "generic" bolts and other fasteners — that is, without identifying factory marks. This makes tracing counterfeiters virtually impossible, especially when the importers deny responsibility.

Sanford Americans Dress For Success

Baseball

By Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer

In the past, the Sanford American League All-Stars were known as the team in the bright green uniforms which always gave it their best shot despite coming up short.

In 1986, the Americans shook the "little green sprouts" tag with some brand new blue and gray uniforms, compliments of United Trophy Manufacturing. And this year the Americans not only looked good in their new threads, but played a brand of baseball reminiscent of the days when the Sanford Nationals went to two consecutive state tournaments.

The Americans won four straight games in the Florida Little Major League

Sub-District 2 Tournament to win the title and advance to the District 4 Tournament. Sanford American opens play in the District 4 Tournament tonight at 6 at Leesburg. The winner of the district advances to the state tournament in Jacksonville.

The Americans are looking for a better showing than the Sanford American team of 1985, which lost two straight in the district. This year's squad, has better pitching, more power and more depth than a year ago.

In four Sub-District games, Sanford

American pitchers had a combined earned run average of 2.06. Mike Maples won two of the games with 25 strikeouts in 15 innings and an ERA of 2.00. Anthony "Redman" Roberts struck out 17 in an eight-inning victory and his ERA was 1.50. Britt Henderson also won a game and had a 3.00 ERA with seven strikeouts.

Sanford manager Otis Raines has the luxury of having two number one-caliber pitchers in Maples and Roberts and either one will start tonight's game in Leesburg.

The Americans also scored 35 runs in four games at the Sub-District Tournament and had a team batting average of .323. Here are the Americans' leaders for the tournament:

Batting average — Roberts .388 (10 for 17); Maples .329 (9-17); Tyrone Williams .400 (4-10); Tony Holley .400 (4-10); Corey Williams .288 (4-14); Al Holt .231 (3-13).

Home runs — Maples 4; Corey Williams 2; Roberts 1; Tyrone Williams 1; Willie Williams 1; Holt 1.

Runs batted in — Maples 7; Corey Williams 6; Tyrone Williams 6; Roberts 3; Holt 3; Henderson 2.

Runs scored — Roberts 8; Maples 8; Henderson 5; Corey Williams 3; Holt 3; Tyrone Williams 2; Holley 2; Ric Perez 2.

Doubles — Roberts 3.

Stolen bases — Roberts 2; Tyrone Williams 1; Narvell Fuller 1; Henderson 1; Holley 1; Holt 1.

Hamilton 2-Hitter Tips Dora

By Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer

Facing what manager Frank Harmer said was "the toughest kid we've faced this year," the going got a little tough for the Altamonte Nationals Saturday night.

And T.J. Hamilton got tougher.

Hamilton tossed a two-hitter and pitched shutout ball until the bottom of the sixth to offset a strong pitching effort by Mount Dora's Mark Howard as the Nationals came away with a 3-1 victory in District 14, Division 2 All-Star Tournament action at Mount Dora.

Altamonte National advances to tonight's losers' bracket final against Maitland at 7 at Eustis. The winner goes on to the division finals Tuesday night against unbeaten Altamonte American.

The Nationals gave Hamilton a 2-0 lead after two innings and he responded by pitching an outstanding game. Hamilton retired the first nine hitters he faced and gave up only a base hit through five innings while walking none.

With one out in the bottom of the sixth, and Altamonte holding a 3-0 lead, Mike Bean slugged a solo homer for Mount Dora to make it 3-1. The next hitter reached on an error but Danny Anson then made a good play of a grounder at third for the second out. Hamilton then got the next hitter to tap back to the mound for the final out.

"T.J. (Hamilton) pitched the greatest game he's ever pitched," Harmer said. "He took the approach that he was going to shut them (Mount Dora) down and he did."

Mount Dora's Howard held Altamonte to just four hits in the game but the Nationals' hits came at the right times.

Altamonte took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Frankie Harmer walked, took second on a passed ball, and scored on a double off the bat of Scott Davidson.

The Nationals made it 2-0 in the second. Marcus Bullock singled and went all the way to third on an errant pickoff attempt. He then scored when the throw to third was wild.

Altamonte added an insurance run in the top of the sixth when Hamilton reached on a two-base error and scored on Kevin Scott's single.

DIVISION 1: OVIEDO-OCOE

In District 14, Division 1 Major All-Star Tournament action, Oviedo takes on Ocoee tonight at 7 at Rolling Hills in the losers' bracket final. The winner goes on to the final Tuesday night at Oviedo against Rolling Hills.

After winning its first two, Oviedo dropped a 6-1 decision to Rolling Hills on Thursday. Ocoee had to come back the hard way as it lost its first game, then won four straight in the losers' bracket including a 5-3 victory over Apopka on Saturday.

The Seminole Savages had a lot to celebrate Sunday. After falling into the losers' bracket Saturday, they bounced back Sunday with an 11-inning victory over the arch-rival Renegades before taking care of West Orange for the title.

Resilient Savages Bounce Back To Take Metro Title

By Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer

Having your back against the wall is not the most comfortable of positions.

Although the Seminole Savages were in that position after their first game on Saturday, don't expect the local chiropractor's office to be bustling with business this week.

The Savages not only broke down the wall, but knocked off everything else standing in their way en route to the Metro Tournament title this past weekend at Lake Fairview Park in Orlando.

The Savages, Seminole Softball Club's 15 and under all-star team, advance to the ASA Southern Regional Tournament on Aug. 1-3 at Hollywood. The top three teams from the regional go on to the National 15 and Under Tournament later in August at Lubbock, Texas. The West Orange Gremlins also advanced to regionals by finishing second in the Metro Tournament.

After rolling through the losers' bracket on Saturday, the Savages went up against Seminole County rival Fern Park Renegades on Sunday morning in the losers' bracket final. And it turned out to be the game of the tournament.

In a game where good friends and high school teammates were on opposite sides, the two teams fought to an 8-8 tie after the regulation seven innings and went to 11 innings before the Savages' Dawn DiPiero unloaded a two-run double to give the Savages a 10-8 victory.

"We knew we were playing a good team and they (the Renegades) did as well," Savages' manager Carlos Martinez said. "It was just a matter of who made the first mistake. My girls were up to the task."

The Savages took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first and then came back to turn a triple play in the bottom half to get out of a bases-loaded jam. The triple play started when second baseman Anna Hollis fielded a grounder, flipped to shortstop Tammy Jenerette who fired to first baseman Rixja Millwood for the double play and Millwood alertly fired home to catch the runner coming for third for the triple play.

The Savages went on to take an 8-4 lead into the bottom of the fifth when the 'Gades led the bats going and scored four times to tie it at 8-8. It stayed that way until the top of the 11th.

With two outs, Corrie Lawson rapped a base hit and the 'Gades then intentionally walked Heather Meyer to bring up DiPiero. DiPiero drilled a shot over the left fielder's head for a double that drove in both Lawson and Meyer for a 10-8 lead.

Jodie Switzer was the Savages' leading hitter for the game as she was 4 for 6 with two RBIs. Heather Golden was 3 for 3 with a double and an RBI. Jenerette, who turned in a brilliant effort at shortstop, had an RBI triple and Terri Peters was 2 for 3. Tracy Saffold was 4 for 5 to lead the Renegades

SAVAGES DOWN GREMLINS

If you were to ask the Savages and Renegades what their main problem was on Saturday, they wouldn't have given any excuses about the rain or the humid temperatures. Gremlins — would have been the response.

The West Orange Gremlins defeated both the Savages and Renegades to force Sunday's losers' bracket final between the two Seminole County clubs.

The Gremlins downed the Savages, 3-1, in the opening game of the tournament Saturday morning and, late Saturday afternoon, the Gremlins defeated the 'Gades, 8-7, in eight innings. The Renegades had the bases loaded with no outs in the bottom of the eighth and couldn't score.

The Savages came back strong in the losers' bracket with victories over West Orange, 12-1, the Seminole Eagles, 20-8, and Conway Lovebugs, 8-2.

After the big win over the Renegades, the once-beaten Savages and unbeaten Gremlins went at it for the tournament title.

In the first game of the finals, the Savages punished the Gremlins, 20-6. Lawson and Meyer had four hits each to lead the onslaught while Peters and Golden had three hits apiece. Relief ace Brooke Burns was the winning pitcher in the only game backup third baseman Switzer did not pitch.

The Gremlins had a little left in win-

Juniors Roll On

By Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer

The Altamonte Junior All-Stars broke a 6-6 tie with six runs in the top of the sixth and Chris Pleicones pitched four innings of hitless relief in a 21-8 victory over Deltona in District 14, Division 2 All-Star Tournament action Saturday at the Eastmonte Complex in Altamonte Springs.

The win advances Altamonte to the Division 2 finals Tuesday night at 7 at Eustis. Altamonte awaits the winner of tonight's losers' bracket final between Deltona and Maitland at 5:30 at Maitland. Andy Spolaki will start Tuesday's game for Altamonte.

Nell James' two-run double was the big hit in the sixth inning for Altamonte while Matt Albert started it off with a single. Three walks and an error also contributed to the inning that broke the game open for Altamonte. Altamonte went on to seal the victory with nine runs in the top of the seventh.

Pleicones came on in relief of Jeff Jackson in the bottom of the third when Deltona tied the score at 6-6. The rest of the way, Pleicones allowed no runs on no hits, struck out two and walked three.

"One of the keys was when Chris (Pleicones) came in and shut them (Deltona) down in the fourth, then held them the rest of the way," Altamonte manager Duke Pleicones said.

One of those defensive plays came when Terry "Downtown" Brown picked up a line drive to right field on one hop and threw the hitter out at first base. Catcher Spolaki put an end to any Deltona hopes in the bottom of the fourth when he threw out two runners trying to steal second.

Altamonte took the early lead with six runs in the third with the key hit being two-run singles by James and Albert. Deltona scored four times in the bottom of the third and two in the fourth.

For the game, James led the way at the plate as he had two singles and a double and drove in six runs. Albert, Spolaki and Charlie Curley added two hits each while Brown slugged a double and Pleicones contributed a single.

OVIEDO BOWS OUT

The Oviedo Juniors played three, one-run games the past three days and, unfortunately, came out on the losing end two times and were eliminated from the District 14, Division 1 Tournament.

On Friday night, Oviedo was sent to the losers' bracket with a 16-15 loss to Rolling Hills. Saturday night, Oviedo rebounded with a 7-6 victory over Winter Garden.

On Sunday, Ocoee built a 10-0 lead going into the top of the seventh inning when Oviedo scored 10 times to tie the score. Ocoee, however, came back with a run in the bottom half to win it, 11-10.

Altamonte's Secret Weapon (Abreu) Keys Division Title

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Just call Carlos Abreu the secret weapon. Bating seventh in the Altamonte Senior League All-Stars' order, the smooth-fielding second baseman doesn't warrant much attention.

If Abreu, a sophomore at Bishop Moore High School, has many more games like he did Saturday night, however, the weapon will have lost its secret. The 15-year-old infielder singled home a fourth-inning run to get Altamonte on the board and then singled again in the fifth to break a 3-3 tie as Altamonte captured the District 14, Division 2 Senior League All-Star Baseball Tournament with a 6-3 victory over Altamonte before 151 fans at Eastmonte Park.

"I think about hitting him higher (in the order) every day," Altamonte manager Woody Woodard said. "But he's a better hitter down there. People think here comes a little old easy one and then he takes care of them."

Altamonte, 4-0, takes on the winner of Division 1 Friday night at Deltona, Ocoee, 4-0, is waiting for the winner of tonight's Apopka-Winter Garden game, which it will play Tuesday.

Baseball

Along with Abreu, a strong pitching effort by Alex Birle keyed the Altamonte win. Birle was roughed up for a two-run homer by Mike Anderson in the first and a solo shot by Rick Cloud in the second as Maitland took a 3-0 lead.

When Alex started shutting them down, it picked us up," Abreu said. "We just jumped all over their pitching in the fifth."

Birle, who struck out seven and walked three, allowed just one hit — Anderson's fourth-inning single — after the third inning. No Maitland runner advanced further than second.

"I just got lazy in the first couple of innings and didn't throw as hard as I could," Birle said.

Bobby Lieflander, a lefthander who pitched a no-hitter for the Lake Howell junior varsity this year, kept Altamonte in check through three innings. In the fourth, though, Aaron Iatarola drew a leadoff walk, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Abreu singled to right field to cut the edge to 3-1.

Altamonte knocked out Lieflander in the fifth. Leadoff hitter Shane Stuffed, who had two hits and stole two bases, singled to right and moved to second when the throw to the infield got away. Chris Knutson followed with a flyball to right which was dropped near the line, allowing Stuffed to score and Knutson to race to third.

Wes Weger lifted a sacrifice fly to center field to tie the score. Jimmy Kremer, who lost a homer when McCloud reached over the fence in the third inning, followed with a double to right center. Iatarola then greeted reliever Billy Magae with a single to right.

Abreu followed with a slow roller up the middle. Danny Royal flagged it down behind second base but couldn't stop Kremer from scoring. When Royal threw to first, the ball got away and Iatarola scored for a 5-3 lead.

Spartacus Ready To Fight Abuses In Nursing Homes

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Helpless..." who said she couldn't send gifts to her mother in a nursing home because they would be stolen.

Dear Abby

This is a lie. Theft is not a normal part of the aging process. The trauma for anyone to have a wedding ring stolen can be considerable.

I learned a great deal about nursing homes while doing research for "Amos," a television movie. I was horrified at the real-life abuses I discovered and spoke up.

I turned some of these letters over to the authorities, and one - a murder - to the police.

Answering all that mail was difficult. It was like writing hundreds of condolence letters.

got a small taste of what it must be like to be Dear Abby. I respect your stamina.

"Helpless" said that her mother was "attached" to some of the staff. Of course she was attached to them; she's dependent on them.

Over an 11-year period, a trusted woman employee embezzled $173,000 from 32 elderly servicemen living at the U.S. Soldiers' and Airmen's home in Washington, D.C.

Of course there are some good nursing homes. My mother, at her own request, spent her last seven years in one, and she was very well-cared for.

The non-profit nursing home where we filmed "Amos" had an excellent reputation, but it also had a three-year waiting list. I am sure those who operate good nursing homes are not happy about those in their profession who break the law and pass it off as standard industry practice.

"Helpless" is not helpless.

Nursing home records are open to the public. Before deciding on a nursing home, you should go to your local department of health and ask to see the state inspection reports of the facility you are considering.

If you have a problem with a nursing home, contact the state ombudsman through your state's Department of Aging; he or she will refer you to the local ombudsman. This is a federal program in every state set up specifically to investigate and resolve complaints in nursing homes and in board and care homes.

The last week in June was "Elder Abuse Awareness Week" in Los Angeles. We need a "National Elder Abuse Awareness Week" - 52 weeks a year.

Making the public aware of a bad situation is the only way to change it. Thank you, Abby, for bringing this hidden horror to light. You may use my name.

KIRK DOUGLAS

DEAR MR. DOUGLAS: Thank you for an excellent, informative letter and kudos for caring enough to write.

Local Boy Scouts Experience Wilderness Living Out West

Two local teenagers, Chris Irgang, Troop 259, son of Skip and Dr. Sara Irgang, formerly of Sanford now living in Sorrento, and Mike Garner, Troop 529, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Garner, Sanford, each of whom have been active in Boy Scouting for the last seven years, have returned after taking part in a 15-day trip to the American West.

The wind and rain, and the Cave of the Winds which was sacred to the Indians. They also visited Bent's Fort, which was the first trading post on the Santa Fe Trail.

During their stay at the ranch, the boys took part in wilderness living, spending the entire time on the foot trails, hiking and camping, with the average hike about 90 to 100 miles over the 8 day stay.

Misdiagnosis Of Rare Illnesses

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I recently read about a woman who experienced muscle spasms since childhood. She was told that they were emotional, and she was even admitted to a psychiatric hospital. She began to lose control of her body. Doctors thought she was mental case until she was examined by a Canadian neurologist and found to have dystonia. What is dystonia?

DEAR READER — Dystonia musculorum deformans is a rare neurological disease caused by a genetic disorder. It begins between ages 5 and 15 and appears most often in Ashkenazic Jews. The disease causes irregular muscle spasms of the trunk, shoulders and pelvis. Often, the first sign is intermittent spasmodic inversion of the foot — a turning in of the foot, producing an odd gait.

Because the disease is so rare, the diagnosis is often not made for years. Therefore, patients with dystonia frequently experience terrible crises in their lives, such as job loss and disruption of the family. Symptoms are often labeled "hysteria," meaning that the patients are emotionally unbalanced and may be placed in mental hospitals. However, the disease does not affect the part of the brain that controls thought, judgment or emotion.

Treatment does not cure the condition. Patients usually have to take medicine to relieve pain and reduce muscle spasm. The real tragedy of dystonia is that doctors are often unable to establish a diagnosis; therefore, they tend to label to label dystonics "mental cases" or they term the disease "psychosomatic."

I believe that the woman you describe is a good example of a mistake many doctors make: In the presence of an unusual disease, we may tend to assume that the patient's symptoms are psychosomatic. This puts the patient into an easy pigeonhole to satisfy the doctor. However, the patient continues to suffer. This is why I encourage patients to seek second, third or fourth opinions about troublesome symptoms that are not easily diagnosed. Dystonia is one of many illnesses that can go unidentified for many years, until its victims have reached the ends of their ropes.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am in my seventh month of pregnancy and have constant stomach pain and regurgitation. I don't eat spicy or greasy foods. My gynecologist says it's the baby pushing on the stomach wall. Is that right?

DEAR READER — Probably, yes. At this stage in your pregnancy, there is very little room in the abdominal cavity. As the baby grows, something has to give to make room for it. During the last part of pregnancy, before the baby drops deep into the pelvic area, a woman's stomach may be pushed and displaced by the developing fetus. Heartburn, discomfort and regurgitation may result.

Once you have given birth, the abdominal organs will return to their natural position and your symptoms will disappear.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

It is usually better if the no-trump opener becomes declarer. That way, the opponents will probably not see as many of the high cards. Today's hand is an exception. After West's lead-directing double of South's Stayman two-club bid, North passed on the off-chance that South might have a few clubs and decide to redouble and play it there. But South jumped to three hearts (a slight overbid) and was raised to game. If North were declarer in a heart contract, a club would be led, and when West eventually won a club trick, he would have an obvious diamond play. But with South declarer, West had a legitimate worry that switching to diamonds might sacrifice a trick. For example, South might have started with Q-10-x in diamonds.

Declarer won the club ace, played A-K of spades, ruffed a spade and exited with a club. West won and, not seeing the need to lead a diamond, played a third high club. East played a low diamond as declarer ruffed. East was right not to signal encouragement, since, knowing his partner had no more entries, he hoped declarer might foolishly lead up to dummy's king. But South had rightly surmised that West might have opened the bidding if he held the diamond ace as well as the club king. He played A-K of hearts, ruffed his last spade and ruffed back to his hand with dummy's last club. He now played his last trump. East had to win and give up the game-going trick to dummy's diamond king.
