

MANY UPSETS ARE MAIN FEATURE OF CURRENT SEASON

Picking Leading Team Is Not Going To Be Easy Job For Anyone

By Davis J. Walsh International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—It ought to be somewhat more than legitimately funny when, a few weeks hence, this football season is no more and it becomes necessary for the all-American expert to look himself in the clothes press and try to make four take the place of 400 Mathematical geniuses have been trying for this year, off and on, but most of them were honest enough subsequently to take up paper dolls in a big way, thus tacitly admitting failure. But the all-American expert is a hardened imbecile. He not only plays the part, he publishes the proof of it in the paper. The state hospitals aren't big enough to house all the experts who will qualify without challenge this time.

Few seasons within memory have furnished so many ranking backfield men alone. For the sake of argument, there may be as many as 400 of them and there may be more. Either way, the point is without relative importance. A derby that can be pushed through a key hole no more readily than a baby grand piano. There are only four places available for as great a field of backfield stars as modern football has known.

Here in the East, where resistance is low and the all-American addict is permitted to roam about in a very rampant manner, it already is conceded that no backfield will do that doesn't include Booth, of Yale and Marsters, of Dartmouth. That ordinarily would mean that, if this pair played a few more games and failed to run desperately for 28 yards in the wrong direction, it would have been placed in nomination almost by acclamation. However it appears that Marsters is to be out for the rest of the year with injuries and this probably will affect his status. But Booth, virtually is "in." This would leave either two or three places open and, at Notre Dame alone, they have at least four backs, Curvidin Elder, Drill and Mullins, who ought to get individual in a body if any of them fall to low as second team.

And what of this Unsa down at Pittsburgh? He seems to play football, too. Whether he plays more of it than goes Banker at Tulane; McEver and Hackman at Tennessee; Lou at California or Pomroy at Utah is something for the 400-info boys to worry about, not me. At this time, it may be sufficient to say that Unsa, Banker, Lou, McEver, Hackman and Pomroy seem to play enough football to satisfy their opponents.

What about Lloyd Brazill at Detroit? They never had him in 29 but better this year and I am

CLERGYMEN ARE CHASE MEN PUT ASKED TO ATTEND ON RALLY WHICH DEDICATION RITE BEATS FARMERS

Significant Step Is Seen In Dedication Of Capital Church

Leading clergymen from all parts of the land, including the Rev. Mortimer W. Glover of Sanford, have been invited to participate on Thursday, Nov. 14, in the dedication of the College of Preachers of Washington, Cathedral. Designed to stimulate the Christian ministry by providing post-ordination training in the art of preaching, the College of Preachers is the first institution of its nature to be established in the United States and its dedication is regarded as a significant step in present day religious endeavor.

The Rt. Rev. Frank Theodore Woods, Bishop of Winchester, England, will have a prominent part in the exercises as will the Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, under whose direction this unique institution has come into being. Members of the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, who are to meet at Washington Cathedral on the day previous to the election of a Presiding Bishop, also will be in attendance.

Erection of the building to be occupied by the College of Preachers was made possible through benefactions of the late Alexander Smith Cochran of Yorkers, N. Y. It is a collegiate gothic structure, situated on Mount Saint Aloysius immediately east of the apex of Washington Cathedral, and is a memorial to the donor's mother, the late Mrs. William F. Cochran. The benefactor gave $100,000 for the building, its furnishings, its chapel and its landscaping; and bequeathed $1,000,000 as an endowment fund for the support of its activities.

Although its permanent home is yet to be opened, the College of Preachers has been functioning for more than five years. It has sponsored many important conferences which have been attended by members of the clergy and laity from virtually every state. These gatherings have been devoted to many phases of the Christian ministry and are believed to have been most effective.

Death Defying Acts Feature Picture Of Jack Holt, Lila Lee

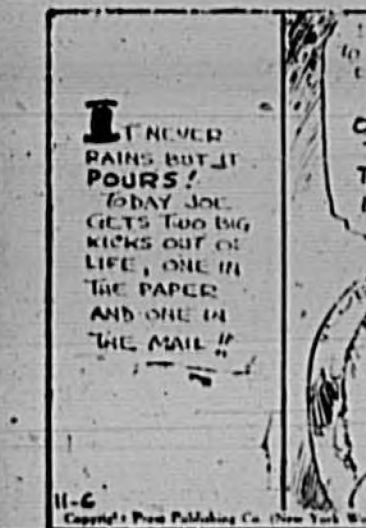

Before shooting the hazardous title scenes of "Flight," the Columbia all-talking drama of the air coming to the Milane Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, Columbia Pictures Corporation took out a bank policy totalling more than a quarter of a million dollars covering director Frank R. Capra, Jack Holt, Lila Lee, the supporting cast and the technical crew.

Never before in the history of the motion picture industry have such death-defying situations been photographed as in this picture. "Flight" was made with the full co-operation of the United States Marine Corps under the supervision of a group of Marine officers.

AI Marsters Will Not Play Football Again After Injury

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—(INS)—Football today had lost one of its most brilliant stars and Dartmouth was robbed of the services of its greatest backfield ace with the announcement that AI Marsters had played his last game of intercollegiate football. The announcement followed an x-ray examination of Marsters by Dr. John Gile in which it was disclosed that the quarterback was suffering from a fracture of the vertebrae when he hobbled from the Yale Bowl on Saturday. He will be in the infirmary for the next month while his team-mates battle Brown, Cornell and the Navy. The injury was officially described as a fracture of the right transverse process at the third and fourth lumbar vertebrae, but is not expected to have any permanent effect.

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you; If you can think—and not make thoughts you, aim; If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster And treat those two imposters—just the same;

Destroyed By War

We happened to be reading the other day Erich Remarque's amazing war book, "All Quiet on the Western Front," and as we turned to the last chapter, the one dealing with the period immediately before peace was declared, our eyes fell on the calendar and we saw that November 11 is again very near.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" is no pleasant reading, decidedly not a book to amuse or make one feel gay. A friend of ours objected to it on this ground, saying that there were enough tragedies in daily life without reading harrowing books.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" is the plain unadorned tale of a private soldier in the German ranks. It is war as he and his comrades saw it, a ghastly thing, shorn of clanking sabres and plumes and decorations, brutal and even vulgar in parts and yet reaching beauty by means of simplicity and truth.

But not only does Remarque enlist sympathy for those who were killed, he also shows us men who escaped death but who are unable to regain a normal outlook on life because of their experiences. In his dedication to the book, he says: "This book is to be neither an accusation nor a confession, and least of all an adventure, for death is not an adventure to those who stand face to face with it."

Speaking Of Mr. Grundy

The New York World admires frankness. So many people effect an appearance of innocence when they know they are guilty. Not so, Mr. Grundy, super-tariff lobbyist, who figured recently in the tariff investigations. He revealed an entirely different attitude from Senator Bingham who "meant no wrong."

"He is more honest, less hypocritical than the politicians he serves with campaign contributions. He tells the lobby investigating committee of the Senate that his business is to work to get high rates in the tariff measure."

"The reason he feels no embarrassment over being caught in the present tariff scandal is that he raised $500,000 to help elect Mr. Hoover President. And to elect the party whose platform favored the kind of tariff for which Mr. Grundy lobbied."

Love Your Town

That intangible something called "school spirit" is vital to the welfare of any school, is a quality which every town also needs just as much. Call it "town spirit" instead of "school spirit" and you have the same thing.

"I am your town." "Make of me what you will—I shall reflect you as clearly as a mirror throws back a candle beam."

"Ambition and opportunity call some of my sons and daughters to high tasks and mighty privileges, to my greater honor and to my good repute in far places, but it is not chiefly these who are my strength."

"It was the greatest of all Romans who said 'Better be first in a little Iberian village than second in Rome.' I am more than wood and brick and stone; more even than flesh and blood—I am the composite soul of all who call me Home."

THE FARMER'S ADVICE BY ALFALFA SMITH

When you borrow money from a person and he is put to the painful necessity of asking for it, do not say: "Oh, yes! That's so—I owe you a dollar. I had forgotten all about it."

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY By Robert Barry

The departure of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, the Administration floor leader in the upper branch of Congress, for a month's rest in Florida would be regarded as the final blow to Republican tariff hopes, if any remained.

Senator Watson is not running away from a fight. He would prefer to remain on the scene and take a thrashing from the coalition of Democrats and progressive Republicans. Always he has done so in the past. He is getting a bit too old to change his ways.

The Watson leadership has not been successful in appraising the Washington gives consideration to the fact that it is doubtful that of any other Old Guard leader could have been any more so.

The manner in which the Western Republicans went along for Herbert Hoover during the 1928 Presidential campaign may have encouraged the White House and the Republican caucus room to believe something like a cohesive backing of the President might be possible.

Insurgent Strategy Good The collapse of the Administration forces in the tariff fight turned out to be a more complete rout than any one had anticipated.

They began by executing a smart flanking movement, that of having the would have been postponed and the bitterness engendered thereby would not have run through the whole debate.

There is talk that on another roll call before the Senate finishes with the Tariff Bill there will be a switch of three Republican votes, just enough to give the bill a victory to the White House.

Had it been the other way around the coalition undoubtedly would have gone on the rocks. Watson would have been able to arrange the necessary trades to command a working majority.

Youth Has Found The Way! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cultivated the fertile field of opportunity and invites everyone to roam in search of desired pursuits. Nothing remains of that ancient prejudice which bound the apprentice, without choice, to his career.

"toasting did it" -- Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted" No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan. "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Leopold Stokowski and his Philadelphia Symphony orchestra returned to the air in an all-Russian program for the second special Philco hour, which was broadcast from the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, through WSIB and NBC coast-to-coast system last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Novel methods of broadcasting used in the Oct. 6 concert were followed on this occasion. Only one microphone was used and the monitor room was not enclosed. The list of last of these concerts will be on Dec. 8. Stokowski will continue to act as his own announcer.

Carol Lombard, who is one of the most popular actresses in the country, is seen here in a scene from the play "The Sign of the Cross."

NEGRO MAY PLAY AGAINST GEORGIA IF INJURY MENDS

Dixie College President States Agitation Is Unjustified
NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (INS)—Whether or not Dave Myers, negro football star of the New York University eleven, will play against the University of Georgia here on Saturday, today rested with a committee of 12 physicians. This was made clear in an open letter written by William H. Nichols, acting chancellor of New York University to Representative Emanuel Celler who, in a previous letter, protested the announcement of Coach Meelan that Myers would not engage in the intercollegiate game. Nichols declared Myers was suffering from an injury received in the Penn. State game and aggravated in the Georgetown contest and was under the care of competent physicians. If these physicians agree Myers was in shape, Nichols said, the backfield star would perform against the southerners. "We earnestly hope he is able to play, for he desires this chance to have a part personally in settling at rest this injurious rumor, to which you and others have mistakenly lent credence, a rumor which is as distasteful and distressing to him as it is to all friends and members of the university."

Ceremony To Mark Beginning Of Huge U. S. Navy Dirigible

AKRON, O., Nov. 7 (INS)—Traffic lanes by air and land to the Akron municipal airport were thrown open today to receive a crowd of 50,000 persons which was estimated will witness the driving of a golden rivet this afternoon completing the master ring of the navy dirigible ZR-4 and mark the beginning of the assembly of what will be the largest airship in the world. The ZR-4 with a helium gas capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet—twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin—will be the first of two aerial dreadnaughts which are being constructed here by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation for the United States Navy. Rear Admiral Willis A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, who will drive home the golden rivet in the 133-foot master ring, which is the first step in the ship's construction, arrived here late yesterday. He was accompanied by other high government and aeronautic officials. The ring-laying ceremonies are scheduled to commence at 2 P. M. when the huge 600-ton doors of the airship dock will be swung open and government officials headed by Admiral Moffett, mount a platform and drive home the rivet.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"Wet" Dinner Is Under Fire From Three Sources

(Continued From Page One) declined to invite Brookhart before the committee or to summon any witnesses he may desire to see here. This party though seems to be just one of many, held in the Capital in recent years. Personally shall be guided by the wishes of the committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (INS)—A "Wall Street house party," attended by financial kings and United States senators, was described today as a "festival" grand jury here Wednesday for senator Smith. Brookhart, chief lawyer, was a dramatic climax to the latest drive to enforce prohibition in the national capital. Brookhart went before the grand jury at 11:30 announcing he would "let the white-gloved" of the party give him by Walter J. Fahy, a New York broker in 1929; Brookhart's testimony was taken just in time as the statute of limitations will run against any possible violations of the dry law next month.

The Fahy party, Brookhart already has told the Senate, was featured by the distribution of silver flasks, filled with whiskey. The Iowa senator, who is a member of the Senate of Utah, Ohio, New Jersey, Missouri, New Hampshire and the late Senator Gooding (R) of Idaho, were present but that he saw none of them drinking. "The Wall Streeters, though, were very active in getting flasks," he said.

There was a strong possibility that Otto J. Kahn, New York banker, W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Edward B. Loring, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, and an official of J. P. Morgan and company would be summoned before the grand jury as witnesses. Brookhart's story, these capitalists were present at the dinner, Brookhart has said. He told the Senate in detail, how Loring, head one of the flasks and "poured himself a drink."

The question of calling and obtaining witnesses will not arise in grand jury, after it studies Brookhart's testimony, District Attorney James A. Hovey, who initiated the inquiry, indicated he would call any witnesses required.

62-Year-Old Doctor Is Held For Slaying

OCHEEA, Ga., Nov. 7 (INS)—Charged with the pen. knife murder of Roy Moore, 21, because of the theft of a handful of peaches, Dr. John C. Lacey, 62-year-old physician here, was held in jail today pending grand jury action. Moore was stabbed to death following an alleged altercation with the physician over a handful of peaches he had picked from the doctor's grove. In a dying statement, Moore accused the physician of stabbing him twice in the back.

SYNOPSIS
A "D"-Continent train three friends, Ivan, Armand, and Emil, and a French girl, Marie, to share their compartment, but a priest and two Americans, Travis and Al, interrupt the flirtation. The train is wrecked and Travis rescues the girl. The travelers find a wonderful scene. That night the three friends quarrel violently over the girl. Suddenly a group of German soldiers arrive, announcing: War is imminent! Emil, furious with his friends, denounces them as spies. But Armand and Ivan are appeased. Al, Travis and Marie, have bribed the maid, Hilda, to get them a horse and cart to make their escape.

"Don't talk so much and hurry up. We're damn lucky to be out of this alive," Travis returned. "And this is for you, Mademoiselle." He reached into his pocket and drew out several large bills and handed them to the astonished Hilda. "Tell her we thank her for getting us out of that hole," he turned to Marie. "If she hadn't known the way down those back stairs we never would have got out alive." He swung himself up onto the seat and picked up the reins. In a torrent of Alsatian patois the girl was thanking Travis for the money. She pulled up her skirt and shoved the bills down into an inner pocket.

"All set, Al?" Travis looked over his shoulder at his companion who was swinging up on the back of the cart. "Let 'er go, boys, and the quicker the better." He shuddered as the rifles resounded in a series of shots. Travis clapped the horse's head and back with his reins and the trio started off with a jerk.

CHAPTER VII
War and the beginning of war! War that was to blow at last the greatest nations of the world into conflict. War that was to bring red terror across white pages. Markets rose and fell in wild panic. Urave diplomats held frenzied conclaves. Whirling machines began an endless day-and-night activity. Usual, every-day matters of life that had once seemed so important suddenly became of no importance. All thoughts turned in one direction: all hearts beat to one rhythm—war!

Paris, the peaceful city that for so long had lain dreaming in the warm sun, during the night of the first close to its heart, turned in a brief moment into a maelstrom of seething turbulence. Paris, a city intimated with the turmoil of a national crisis, was met with the thrill of impending danger as a wild whirlpool of hysterical gaiety forced round and round by the uncertainty of approaching disaster. A tranquil life inched on the oncoming tide.

From the very top of Montmartre on the right bank, where the rounded, white, upstanding domes of Sacre-Coeur swelled to burst against the sky, to Montparnasse on the left bank where broad boulevards with their avenues of spreading trees abated, vagrant lovers, strolling, their arms about each other's waists, ran delirious riot. From the Arc de Triomphe stationed like a general inspecting his troops, which are the wearing procession of automobiles and horse cars on the Champs Elysees, across to the two analogously flat towers of Notre Dame, hedging half away. And in the centre of it all the lie de la Cite, when, at its very termination Heavy IV stirs astir his bronze horse, gazing meditatively out over the Place Dauphine.

And everywhere soldiers. . . soldiers. . . soldiers. They appeared as though by magic, springing from the ground, fully armed. Tall Souzars in blue and yellow boleros with their baggy trousers tucked into low boot tops, their red capes flung back over their shoulders. De-whiskered French officers with bristling moustaches in blue coats with the red spanglers and red trousers. The Chamberlain Alpin in marine-blue, their small berets perched on the sides of their heads. The Spanish, browned Arabs with the sky-blue cloaks and the red caps. The dragons with the red cloaks and the white catgut with the waving horse-hair tails.

At the Gare de l'Est an ironing maid beamed forth an anxious, yearning smile at the travelers. The rumour of war brought back in a hurry the vacationists, as well as the aliens who sought the refuge of a large city and all its perquisites in the time of stress. Pressing their way through the crowd, unburdened by baggage, Marie, Travis and Al forced their way into the street.

"Glad to see you," Marie interposed. "His studio it is very near. We come back later." "Sure, I know," Travis agreed. "We'll go to your place first, and then we can come back. We'd better get a taxi."

"We never find a cab tonight," Marie shook her head. "I know, when there is celebration everybody ride in taxi. It is better we walk." She pulled at Travis' arm and turned to leave.

YOU AND YOUR CHILD

A mother is "disgusted to discover her boy is a 'forward.' Her determination to 'break him of this silly notion' is laudable only if she goes at it in the spirit her statements indicate she will not accomplish her desire. Clinging to a drifting log for fifteen minutes in a nine foot deep pond and wondering whether he would be rescued before the log went over the dam into a deeper current of water is an experience which must leave an impression upon an eight-year-old lad. His objection to joining a swimming class this winter shows it made a deep impression and he is quite unfair to the boy to call him a coward.

Russians Celebrate Revolt Anniversary

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—(INS)—Hundreds of thousands paraded in Red Square today in a stupendous celebration marking the twelfth anniversary of the revolution of 1917. Splashes of red blazoned everywhere. Thousands upon thousands of revolutionary placards passed in an endless stream through the streets. It was the usual colorful orgy of enthusiasm in which the citizens of Moscow have indulged annually since the revolution.

Complaint of the Swindle, according to Hezamer, were received from R. F. Martin of Columbus, Ga., who's partner, owner, who charged that he was de lauded by three men operating in Canton through bets on running races.

Martin's story according to Hezamer, was that three men had lured him to come to Canton, declaring they had a fourth man waiting inside a local telephone office tapping wire for information on horses. Hezamer said Martin claimed he lost $25,000 on Aug. 30 and $22,000 on Sept. 11 to the trio, although he placed bets on winning horses.
