Psoriasis tends to run in families

DEAR DR. GOTT: My decas) and you drink modest 14-year-old son has been diagnosed with paoriasis. How did he get it? Is it inherited?

DEAR READER: Psoriasis is a common skin disorder of unknown cause, although it tends to run in families, so a genetic factor is probably to blame. The disease appears gradually. without warning, as a dry. silvery, scaly rash, somewhat raised, with irregular borders. There is no itching. The rash may involve any part of the body, but most frequently affects the scalp, elbows and knees.

Treatment involves cortisone creams, lubricants and other salves. More severe cases require ultraviolet light therapy or methotrexate (an antimetabolite). Psoriasis does not affect health but is a cosmetic embarrassment. In my opinion, patients with the disorder should be under the care of dermatologists.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've received information that drinking decasseinated cossee is more apt to increase blood cholesterol than is regular coffee. At age 80, with a mild heart condition, why am I drinking decaf?

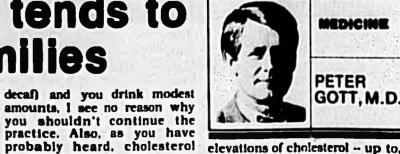

DEAR READER: Beats me.

First, reports condemned regular coffee. Then, later, it was exonerated. Still later, decaf is the bad guy. Don't touch that dial. We may yet see favorable studies on decaffeinated brew.

It's all too much. The hapless consumer is pulled this way and that, always in a crossfire, never knowing which claim to believe.

I think that the solution to all this media madness is moderation. Most experts agree that a cup or two of coffee (regular or decaf) a day won't hurt anyone. Excess consumption of any product can cause harm. However, most prudent adults don't overdo. With respect to coffee, a maximum of three or four cups is probably a reasonable limit. on a daily basis.

The magazine of the English Bridge Union. English Bridge. runs a declarer-play competition for its readers. The problems are set by Andrew Kambites. And to stop the experts from winning every time, the field is divided into three categories based on masterpoint totals.

I liked today's deal. How should South play in five diamonds against the club-ace lead? South's two-diamond opening is an Acol two-bid, showing eight or nine playing-tricks. This hand is a little thin, but Kambites needed a way to stop West and East from finding their big club fit. (Acol is pronounced like atol), not acorn.)

With thoughts of a missed dummy and discarded the heart two from hand. Then he tried the heart finesse. However, after winning with the king, West exited safely in hearts. Now South did his best. He played a trump to dummy, ruffed dummy's last heart in his hand, cashed the spade ace, played a trump to dummy and led a spade toward his queen. Here, that didn't work as the defenders took two spade tricks: one down. (I expect Kambites has received some mail because he carelessly gave West only king-doubleton in spades, when this line works.)

The right play is easy to overlook. At trick one, South should discard a heart from the durnmy and the spade three from his hand, leaving West endplayed. Whatever West leads at trick two concedes the 11th trick.

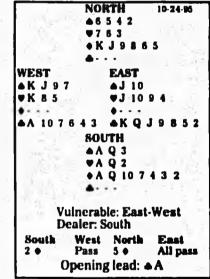

This is a rare double discard. slam. South ruffed in the which sounds more like an ice-cream flavor than a bridge play.

SANFORD - Since there were no eyewitnesses to the shooting at Lake Howell High School on Monday morning, sheriff's department investigators have to check out every possibility.

Yesterday afternoon, detectives interviewed Expeditas "Odette" Reyes in her hospital bed at Orlando Regional Medical Center in an effort to determine how the young woman was shot in the abdomen with her mother's gun.

Reyes, 16, is a junior at Lake Howell High. She told investigators she had had a dream on

There were no other students in the parking lot at the time of the shooting, they said. Four boys who were on the other side of a building came around when the shot rangout, investigators said.

Jeno Paulucci ad criticizes newspaper

MINNEAPOLIS - Luigino's Inc. founder Jeno Paulucci paid for a full-page ad in Tuesday's Star Tribune to criticize a series of articles about himself and his frozen pasta and sauce company before they appear.

Under the heading "MEOW MEOW," Paulucci's ad said, The articles will be written mostly by Joe Rigert, the so-called "Character Assassin," who also has admitted to BURYING HIS OWN PET CAT ALIVE ... believe it or not. But this is one "CAT" he isn't going to bury.'

Paulucci is the founder of Chun King Chinese food and Jeno's frozen pizza, based in Sanford, Fla.

Paulucci said the articles would be retribution by the Star Tribune "and their fancy editors and management for my suing them, in Duluth, for defamation when they lied about me a few months ago."

The lawsuit, which is pending, was over a Star Tribune article in April that said the Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation Board listed a loan personally guaranteed by Paulucci as more than $19,000 in arrears.

The article, though, said Paulucci was not responsible for the payments, but quoted him as saying he would have paid had he known about the debt. The loan was used to buy and renovate a Hibbing hotel.

Paulucci said he paid $14,000 for the ad "to let you know that, MEOW, MEOW, Mr. Rigert better FIND ANOTHER CAT TO BURY ALIVE ... It ain't going to be Jeno."

Rigert and Star Tribune news leader Pam Fine declined comment, referring questions to the Star Tribune's public relations staff.

TALLAHASSEE - Education can help curb teenage pregnancy but a study panel also recommends harsher action against older men who have sex with teens.

More than three-fourths of feen pregnancies result from sexual activity with men older than high school age, according to a report Tuesday to Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet.

"I don't understand why we have 39-year-old, or 29-year-old or 40-year-old men having sex with 8-, 10- and 11-year-old girls and nothing happening to them," said Ronald Joe of Cocoa Beach, chairman of the panel. "It just doesn't make sense that we should continue to allow that to happen."

Prosecuting men who have sex with underage girls would be more a matter of focusing attention on the problem than passing new laws, Attorney General Bob Butterworth said. "A lot of it would be enforcement."

Joe said laws can be changed as well. For example, one state law refers to unlawful intercourse with an unmarried person "of previous chaste character" under age 18.

What in the world does that have to do with an old person having sex with a 10-year-old?" he said.

Joe cited a January 1994 study indicating men older than high school age accounted for 77 percent of births among girls of nigh school age (16-18) and 51 percent of births among girls of junior high school age (15 and younger).

Survey shows local governments often answer questions wrong

By JACKIE HALLIFAX Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Higher property taxes are in the works in 140 counties and cities under the state's definition but that's not how many local officials see it. Florida TaxWatch Inc. has reported.

Under Florida law, any property tax rate increases taxes if it raises more money than the year before. That means a tax rate can go down and still be considered a tax increase — if higher assessments bring the local government more money.

TaxWatch has been getting complaints for several years from taxpayers who felt their county commissions, city councils or school boards were giving them the runaround on the phone about property tax proposals.

So the non-profit research group did an informal telephone survey of almost all of Florida's nearly 500 cities, counties and school boards, geiting replies from 412.

A form local governments must file with the state Department of Revenue Indicated that 309 of the 412 local governments proposed property rates

But that's not what TaxWatch was told over the telephone when its volunteers called. Officials in nearly half of the 309 governments - 149 - said they weren't proposing higher taxes.

But he said local officials must work harder to comply with the

"it's essential that local governments uphold the TRIM law and provide complete and accurate information to taxpayers in keeping with the letter and the spirit of the law," Calabro said.

John Smith, a governmental liaison with the Florida Association of Counties, said he didn't think the TaxWatch survey uncovered a problem as much as a fight over semantics.

Taxpayers are advised about proposed changes to the tax rate in the TRIM notice each is mailed. Smith said. The information also is published in newspapers and read at public hearings and meetings, he said.

FARGO, N.D. - They carved what could have been a swastika into her abdomen, bound her hands and feet and covered her mouth with tape. Then they set fire to her family's restaurant and left her there to die. They did all that, investigators believe, because she is Iranian. The attack, being investigated as a hate crime by local authorities and the FBI, followed weeks of terror for the victim and her family. And it prompted hundreds of outraged residents to join in an impromptu protest against hatred.

Zhaleh Sarabakhsh told authorities she never saw her working.

This system is broken

In reading the Police Briefs seen each day in the Sanford Herald, it is relatively obvious that many of the warrants served are on persons already being held in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Furthermore, for people who remember names, it is easy to see that many of the warrants are being served on the same people, often for the same charges. On many occasions, a person in jail.

We must wonder why. When a person is booked into the jail, are criminal and court records not immediately checked? If a person is arrested more than once for violation of probation, does that mean he or she is released almost immediately, giving more opportunities to violate terms of probations?

How many times does a person have to violate probation before that probation is lifted and the person is required to return to jail?

It would be foolish to assume there are no answers to these questions. Perhaps not what the average citizens would consider "logical" answers, but answers nonetheless.

Yet it seems to us that our deputies are spending a great deal of time in searching for, arresting, and re-arresting individuals time and time again. It seems like we have a revolving door on our jail.

There is one particular case which serves as an example of this. On October 13, deputies arrested a Sanford man at his residence for violation of probation on a conviction of possession of cocaine. Exactly 10 days later, the same man, now in jail, was served a warrant for failing to appear on charges of having an open container and possession of drug paraphernalia.

If these were two separate incidents, it shows that the quick release or probation is not doing what is may be intended to do. If these incidents were related, we must wonder why these charges were not uncovered when the person was taken to jail for violation of probation in the first place.

Confusing? Yes. There is no doubt that this is a complex situation. But it is happening much too often. Names of persons being arrested for drug connected crimes, open container violations, domestic violence, petit thefts in our retail stores, residential or vehicular burglaries, and other crimes, are being listed in our crime reports over and over again.

Everyone has heard the old saying, "if it ain't broke, don't fix it." We believe this probation system is broke, and as such, it must be fixed.

Public dole?

Those seniors who are about to lobby against the Republican plan for Medicare should put their minds in gear before they put their mouths or pens in motion.

Medicare is a program that should never have happened in a free society. No one should be guaranteed a right to anything for which someone else must pay. Medicare is nice but not necessary. It is broken and needs to be fixed. The Republicans are trying to find a solution to the problem and the Democrats have cranked up their smog machine looking for voters next year. This is nothing new.

The new thing is a bunch of people old enough to know better about to become part of the problem and not part of the solution. I never thought I'd live to see this day when people my age would be clamoring for a public dole while looking down their noses at those on food stamps and welfare.

World Series: Lure of the Tribe

Halloween isn't until Tuesday, but I swear I saw the ghost of Willie Mays and "The Catch" watching the Cleveland Indians extra inning victory over the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night at Jacobs Field.

Actually, Mays catch in the 1954 World Series had haunted Cleveland baseball fans for 41 years. It doesn't matter if you weren't alive in 1954. Even if you were an Indians fan who was born after the New York Giants swept the '54 Series, that's all you heard about from the rest of the baseball world. I have been an Indians fan for 17 years, and trust me, I speak from experience.

I must admit that I was a little nervous after the Braves took a two games to none advantage in the 1995 World Series, but I wasn't ready to panic quite yet. After all, the teams were now heading back to Cleveland and Jacobs Field. The Indians were headed back to the "The Jake", where they were 54-18 in the regular season and 4-1 in the post season. An Indians comeback seemed certain.

My faith in my beloved Tribe seemed well founded as they took a 4-1 lead in the second inning. Before I knew it, the fifth inning had rolled around and the lead was intact. But then the ghost of Mays began taunting me once again as the Braves evened the game 4-4 with solo home runs in the sixth and seventh innings. When Atlanta took a 5-4 lead in the eighth. Mays seemed to be laughing out loud in the face of every Indians' player and fan.

How bad was it? It seemed like the Indians would be facing a three games to none deficit when the night was over. A Braves victory seemed likely, and a sweep looked to be within Atlanta's grasp. I thought, "Oh no, here we go again!"

Two years ago, it seemed that a move to Jacobs Field form Cleveland Municipal Stadium meant the end to Mays' ghost. Just when the spectre had a grip on "The Jake". Sandy Alomar, Eddie Murray and Jose Mesa became exorcists. Alomar tied the game 5-5 with an RBI in the bottom of the eighth. Mesa shut the Braves down for three innings and Murray delivered the game winning hit in the bottom of the eleventh.

After Tuesday night, forget about the ghost of Willie Mays and "The Catch". That ghost, like Elvis, has left the Cleveland Indians franchise. There is Cleveland Indians magic in the air at Jacobs Field. At 24, my generation had never experienced an Indians victory in the playoffs or World Series, let alone a playoff or World Series beath.

The 1995 Indians are a dream come true for Cleveland baseball fans. After 41 years, the Tribe is back in the playoffs, and a six game World Series losing streak is over. The two youngest generations of Indians' fans have now experienced a a rare 100-win season, a division title, a playoff berth, two thrilling series wins in the American League playoffs and an American League Championship.

Now, we have experienced the thrill of winning a World Series game. With two games left at Jacobs Field, there could be more Indians' wins forthcoming before the 1995 World Series is over. Atlanta is a very good team, so such victories are not guaranteed. The Tribe has the talent to win again, too.

With all the things that the Indians have accomplished this season, and the 1995 World Series title still a possibility in Cleveland, it's extremely fun to be an Indians fan right now. Yes sir, I thought I saw the ghost of Willie Mays leaving Cleveland after Tuesday's game.

MORTON KONDRACKE

GOP content to be 'white' party

The spirit and rhetoric expressed at the Million Man March in Washington suggest that, with a little effort, the Republican Party could help heal America's racial division and make political inroads in the black community.

Unfortunately, the GOP seems perfectly content to be the national white people's party. Most Republican leaders used the march simply as an opportunity to bash Louis Farrakhan or, as presidential front-runner Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas did, to bash President Clinton for not bashing Farrakhan by name.

Two exceptions were Speaker Newt Gingrich. R-Ga., who made an impressive speech interpreting the meaning of the march -- but ended up offering nothing more positive than a diatribe against the welfare state -- and former Housing Secretary Jack Kemp, who courageously urged Jewish leaders to enter a dialogue with Farrakhan.

In an interview, Kemp declared that the march itself was "spectacular," that Farrakhan had a message that "white America should listen to," and that Jewish leaders, "anti-semitism aside," should take Farrakhan up on his offer to talk.

Kemp's interpretation was at variance with that of his partner in progressive Republicanism, former Education Secretary Bill Bennett, who said that the elevation of Farrakhan and his ideology of black separatism was "a disaster" that will "deepen the racial divide."

Kemp agreed that "a lot of what Farrakhan says is offensive. To call Korean or Jewish entrepreneurs who open businesses in black neighborhoods 'bloodsuckers' is palpable nonsense."

"But," Kemp said, "the message of self-help, reducing violence and reconciliation is something we ought to support. If you took out the anti-semitism, Farrakhan's speech could have been given by Newt Gingrich or Jack Kemp."

Well, you'd also have to take out Farrakhan's cosmic egomania -- not even Gingrich claims to be a messenger from God -- and his race-based version of history. But Kemp is basically right: Farrakhan's message at the march was profoundly religious, patriotic, moralistic, even Republican.

"We must accept the responsibility that God has put upon us not only to be good husbands and fathers and builders of our communities." Farrakhan declared, "but God is now calling upon the despised and rejected to become the cornerstone and builders of a new world."

Farrakhan condemned filthy Hollywood music and movies more stridently than Dole or Dan Quayle: praised America as fervently as Rep. Bob Dornan. R-Calif.: urged local action as strongly as Bennett or Lamar Alexander: and advocated religious faith as strongly as Pat Robertson.

Moreover, what the 400,000 men at the march did in confessing that they are responsible for social pathology in the black community validated a longstanding neoconservative argument that liberal Democrats -- Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan. D-N.Y., excepted -- have been terrifled to think of, let alone utter.

Besides Kemp.
Gingrich offered the

it beforehand. Gingrich said he had concluded that the march was "on balance, good." He said that Farrakhan is "a hatemonger" and "a disgrace," but "it should puse a challenge to us: How has our leadership failed so totally that Farrakhan is for many African-Americans a legitimate

Unfortunately, the GOP seems perfectly content to be the national white people's party.

Americans a legitimate leader? What does it say about our president, our speaker, or our governors that the desperation and pain is so great that Farrakhan's paranoid version of history is accepted?"

Gingrich said, "I don't think that white conservatives in America should look at Louis Farrakhan and just condemn him without asking, 'where were you when the children died, where were you when the schools failed, where were you when they had no hope.'

In the end, however, Gingrich offered nothing concrete but a blast at President Clinton for suggesting "sensitivity training" as the answer to America's racial woes -- in fact. Clinton offered help to go to college -- and a blast at Lyndon Johnson's Great Society for "killing more people in America than he killed in Southeast Asia."

Gingrich claimed that, by ending the welfare state, the GOP is offering African-Americans "lower taxes, more money in your pocket, better choices in education, and a future for your children that doesn't have violence and doesn't (involve) drugs."

The sad truth, though, is that GOP programs mainly dump responsibility for education, crime control, Medicaid, and welfare onto state bureaucracles — generally, less capable than federal ones — and provide them with less money to do their work while cutting taxes for the affluent.

GOP SUGGES

GOP suggests tree-hugging

WASHINGTON - A private memo suggests Republicans in Congress are starting to worry that their revolution will hurt them with voters who are concerned they're turning back the clock on environmental laws. So they've come up with a solution that has more to do with style than substance.

In recent months, environmental groups have turned up the heat on the GOP Congress for proposals that would gut the Endangered Species Act, open up pristine Alaskan wilderness areas to oil drilling and roll back two decades of clean water laws.

Now the Republicans are fighting back. An Oct. 17 memo from the House Republican Conference to GOP lawmakers borrows its title from the green movement: "Think Globally, Act Locally."

"Think Globally, Act Locally."

"As we all know," the memo begins, "the environmentalist lobby and their extremist friends in the eco-terrorist underworld have been working overtime to define Republicans and their agenda as anti-environment, pro-polluter and hostile to the survival of every cuddly critter roaming God's green earth."

The memo also takes a gratuitous shot at Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt, who has been a favorite foil for Republicans since he angered ranchers by suggesting they pay market prices to graze their cows on federal lands.

"Think of it this way," the memo states. "The next time interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt comes to your district and canoes down a river as a media stunt to tell the press how anti-environment their congressman is, if reporters have been to your boss' adoptahighway clean-up, two of his tree plantings, and his Congressional Task Force on Conservation hearings, they'll just laugh Babbitt back to Washington."

Among the recommendations included in the memo's "action plan": Tree planting, ("when participating in tree planting programs you should include both children and seniors"), attending Earth Day or Arbor Day activities, establishing a "Teddy Roosevelt Conservation Award," and touring recycling facilities in one's home district.

Another section of the memo recommends that lawmakers visit an environment-friendly company in their district. "During the tour make sure to invite the media to participate. Become briefed on the company's mission and offer your support. Chances are, the company will be happy to participate in this earned media opportunity which offers them positive media coverage."

positive media coverage."

And maybe it'll make voters forget all that stuff about clean water.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE -- The fact that the eight terrorist bomb blasts that have rocked France in the past three months have the fingerprints of Algerian fundamentalist rebels on them should be no surprise to readers of this column.

We've been warning of the danger of Algerian terrorism since February 1981, when we reported that dealing with the problem would be a "tough test" for the Reagan administration. As recently as March 1991, we revealed U.S. intelligence reports that said the virulent regime in Iran was trying "to establish Iranian-style Islamic states" in Algeria and several other nations.

French authorities now think that most of the eight terrorist acts are the work of Islamic militants in Algeria, who are making a bloody protest against France's ties to Algeria's military government. The most recent bomb ripped through a crowded commuter train at rush hour in Paris, wounding 29 people.

County extends private rescue service

By MCK PPENAUP Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Seminole County Commission has voted to extend a contract for ambulance service with Atlantic/LifeFleet. The move however, is considered more of a Band Aid rather than a life-saving operation.

O'Neal out with thumb injury

ORLANDO - Shaquille O'Neal could be out at least a month after sustaining possible ligament damage in his right thumb during Tuesday night's NBA exhibition between the Orlando Magic and Miami Heat.

O'Neal left the game, and his thumb was put in a soft splint. He will be evaluated further Wednesday, the team said.

An angry O'Neal said he was injured when he got tangled up under the basket with Miami's Matt Geiger on a play and he was called for traveling. The all-star center walked away flexing his hand but played the next 1:27 before leaving for the locker room.

Magic thump Heat

ORLANDO - Orlando Magic center Shaquille O'Neal sprained a ligament in his right thumb during a 106-91 exhibition victory over the Miami Heat and could miss a month or more.

In O'Neal's absence, Dennis Scott scored 27 points, included five 3-pointers to lead the Magic (5-2). Nick Anderson added 19 points and Ansernee Hardaway had 16 points and seven

The Magic led 56-54 at the half, and used a 15-3 run early in the third quarter to build a 75-62 lead. The lead went under 10 points only once after that.

The Heat were led by Glen Rice, who hit his first five shots on his way to 21 points. Kevin Willis had 18 points and nine rebounds for the

Before O'Neal's meeting with Geiger, Miami's Stacey King was called for a flagrant foul when he pulled O'Neal down as the Magic center made his move into the lane. The tactic is a common one around the NBA, but O'Neal vows to put a stop to it when he returns.

Panthers tied for first

TORONTO - Scott Mellanby scored his eighth goal in as many games and added an assist to lead to the surprising Florida Panthers to a 6-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The victory left the third-year Panthers with 12 points, tying them with idle New Jersey for the early-season lead in the Atlantic Division.

The game was tied 1-1 when Toronto's Mike Gartner coughed up the puck near center ice. Mellanby collected it, and sped down the right side before rifling a slapshot past Felix Potvin with 51 seconds remaining in the first period.

Mellanby also assisted on Rob Niedermayer's goal 1:20 into the second period, boosting his point total to 13 - was one short of scoring leader Adam Oates of Boston.

Brian Skrudland had two goals, and Jody Hull and Jesse Belanger also scored for Florida. Larry Murphy had the lone Toronto goal.

SHS rips Merritt Island; will face Satellite today

By GARY COATOAM Herald Staff Writer

ST. CLOUD - Seminole advanced to the semifinals of the Class 5A. District 6 girls volleyball tournament Tuesday with a 15-3, 15-11 win over Merritt Island. Tina White had 15 digs, 12 assists, seven blocks, five dinks, four kills and four service points to lead the Tribe.

Seminole managed to win without setter Marisa Alford, who could not play because she missed school due to illness Tuesday. The Tribe (14-9 regular season, including 3-3 in the district) got nine service points, four digs and three kills from Sabreena Sapp as she filled in for Alford.

"The whole team did a fine job of stepping up our game." Corso said. "I'm proud of the way our girls responded. Sabreena did a fine job. especially with her passing. Now, we're focusing on Satellite.'

Merritt Island had a 2-1 lead in game one, but Dawn Traina served the Tribe to a 13-2 lead with a 3 ace performance. The Mustangs closed to within 13-3 with an ace, before White and Niki Snell closed out the game with two service points. Aubrey Nelson closed out the first game with a kill.

Nelson ended the match with seven blocks, six kills, four digs, three dinks and three service points for Seminole. Traina had 12 service points, four digs and three aces, while Snell added nine service points, four digs and three kills. Harmoni Rosier had 15 digs, five assists and four dinks.

White gave Seminole a 2-0 lead in game two. Snell extended the margin to 10-0 with four aces, and Nelson used two aces to help put the match just out of reach at 12-0. Merritt Island closed to within 12-7 before Sapp and White closed out the match for Seminole.

Seminole will face Satellite (4-0 in the dsitrict) today at 5:30 p.m., and the Tribe can advance to the sub-regional tournament with a win. If the Tribe wins, they will likely face Osceola, which is 6-0 in district play.

"We just have to take it one match at a time," Corso said. "We have to get by Satillite first, and that should be a really good match. I just want us to relax and play one point at a time. We need to read, anticipate, react, then axcecute. We can't afford to have a slow start."

Girls 6A-District 4 volleyball starts today

By GARY COATOAM Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - The girls volleyball coaches in Class 6A, District 4 probably wouldn't complain very loudly about their chances of making it tosub-regional play. After all, the district champion and runner-up that emerge from the five team tournament field advance to the next level.

Ovicdo (18.5 overall, 8.0 district) earned the top seed in the tournament by sweeping through the district schedule this season. The Lions are relying on Leah Harkiewicz, Shannon Munns, Bonnie Dedelow, Cindy Liljenquist, Michelle Cutter and Michele Lowe to lead them to the district title.

"We expect to win the tournament, but its not going to be easy." said Oviedo coach Anita Carlson. "District tournaments are never easy because every team plays as hard as they can. Serving has always been our strength, and we're also going to have to hit well."

Carlson feels Lake Brantley gave Oviedo its toughest test this season, but added that Lake Mary and Lake Howell are also capable of providing worthy challenges in the tournament.

Lake Mary (13-11, 6-2) are led by the overall play of Traci Tombros, strong serving from Monica Camardese and the strong hitting of Jeannie Manz. Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry expects to capture the tournament.

"This is what the season is all about, and we'll take it one game at a time," Henry said. "We can't have one person out there who is not doing her job. We need a team effort to win.'

Henry echoes Carlson's thought that there is a dominant team, and added that anyone is □See 6A-4, Page 2B of winning the tournament. Henry feels Oviedo's experience in tournament play will be a factor, as will Lake Brantley's ability to get up for a match with the Rams.

Lake Brantley (16-10, 4-4)is anchored by seniors Kristi Finley, Kinsley Craven and Noelle Fehn, with Carrie Arago, Sara Winchell, Lauren Andrade and Michelle Cates filling out the supporting cast. The Patriots, 0-2 against the Rams this season, are looking forward to their first round match.

'We expect to beat Lake Mary," said Lake Brantley coach Stan Cutler. "We have been shooting for this all season, and we fought hard to get into this position. We also plan to give Oviedo a solid run. The key for us is to maintain a consistently high level of play. If our hitters are on, we will be hard to stop."

Cutler feels coaching and solid defense make Oviedo the team to beat in the tournament. He added that the Lions are competitive in large part because of their consistent play.

Lyman (9-12, 2-6) is the No. 4 seed in the tournament. The Greyhounds are led by Carolyn Crager, Jonnie Beland and Katara Beard. Lyman coach Christy Bryce hopes her squad can prove it is better than its district mark. Bryce feels the Greyhounds are capable of surprising any team.

We just haven't been able to put it together yet," Bryce said, "No one is expecting us to do much, and I would like to prove them wrong because we have the talent to win this tournament. There isn't a team in the district that is unbeatable, and we need to start playing as a team to win."

Lake Howell (2-14, 1-7) is looking for something to build on for next season. The Silver Hawks are lead by setters Angela Goff and Allie Danner. Lake Howell coach Joanna Luciano elevated Jennifer Gillespe, Patricia Cadilla and Erica Ortiz from the junior varsity team so the trio will gain experience for next season.

"Our main goal for this tournament is to serve recieve and pass well so we can run our offense." Luciano said. "We have a decent serving percentage, but we need to have an accurate serve recieve. We have 13 players returning next year, so this experience will help us next year."

Tournament action begins today at 7 p.m. as Lake Howell takes on tournament host Lyman. Lake Brantley and Lake Mary renew their rivalry at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, followed by the winner of the Lyman-Lake Howell match against Oviedo at 6 p.m. The championship game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, with both finalists advancing to the sub-regional tournament.

Halloween treats needn't be tricky

By Marielles Calts NEA Food Editor

I remember vividly an August afternoon in my childhood when I stunned my mother and older sister by wondering aloud what costume I would wear for Halloween. "SCHOOL hasn't even started yet," my sister howled. "How can you be thinking about OCTOBER?"

So I was not the least bit surprised when, sometime in the middle of summer, my youngest started obsessing about her Halloween costume. Because when you come right down to it, Halloween is WORTH planning for. It's a holiday that combines all the cool stuff (costumes, spooky-but-not-really-REALLY-frightening junk and, of course, CANDY) without any of the uncool stuff (relatives, Sunday clothes) of, say, Thankagiving or Christmas. I STILL wish I was young enough to go trick-ortreating.

But alas, as a grown-up it is my lot in life to stay home and dole out the goodies, while alternately manifesting horror or delight at the costumes sported by the pint-sized Draculas and Pocahontases who darken our door. Or, I am relegated to the role of the unseen hostess of a Halloween party, making sure the punchbowl and food trays are filled while maintaining a merely spectral presence.

The following are some recipes that might help if you are hosting a Halloween soiree. They are easy enough for kids to make, and yummy enough for Mom and Dad to enjoy. Wait 'til the kids are all bobbing for apples; they won't notice if you make a few goodies disappear.

Note: If you like the idea of serving Ghoulish Goo, or Bugs in Mud, or any other comestibles with disgusting names at your Halloween bash, you might consider calling 1-800-FOR-TYCO. The toy manufacturer is offering, for free, "Dr. Dreadful and Friends' Repulsive Recipe Guide," a collection of 500 recipes that the company promises are all created by kids and look gross but taste great." The Vampire Vein Quencher, below, is taken from the guide.

COCONUT HAYSTACES

1-3/4 cups shredded or flaked sweetened coconut

7 ounces bittersweet or semi-sweet chocolate, finely chopped

Center a rack in the oven and preheat to 325 degrees. Line a cookie sheet with waxed paper and set aside.

Place the coconut in a cake pan or a pie plate and toast for 4 to 5 minutes, stirring after every minute. Remove from oven, and cool completely on a rack.

Melt the chocolate in the top of a double boiler over hot (not boiling) water, stirring often with a rubber spatula. Take the double boiler off the heat, take off the top part (the part with the melted chocolate) and place it over (not in) a larger bowl containing about an inch of cool water. Gently stir the chocolate to reduce the temperature to 95 degrees (about 8 minutes). Be careful not to allow any of the water to mix with the chocolate, or it will "seize." Test with an instant-read thermometer or by placing a dab of chocolate below your lower lip. It should feel comfortable, neither hot nor cold. Replace pan of chocolate back over bottom of double boiler containing warm water.

Add the toasted coconut to the chocolate and stir to coat completely. Using a teaspoon, form 1-inch-diameter mounds and place them on the baking sheet: alternately, you can fill small muffin tins for larger candies. Refrigerate for 15 minutes to set the chocolate.

Place each round in a paper candy cup and serve at room temperature. To store, place between layers of waxed paper in an airtight container. Wrap container in aluminum foil and refrigerate up to 3 weeks or freeze up to 2 months.

Yield: 30 1 inch candles. - Recipe from "The Candy Cookbook," by Carole Bloom (Chronicle Books, 1995).

Car dealer's family resents bad rap despite honest work

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Undercover Undertaker," the funeral director who is reluctant to disclose his profession, brought tears to my eyes. He provides a much-needed service in time of crisis, yet he feels embarrassed.

I empathize with him. When people ask me what my husband does, I say he is an engineer. That's true; he did graduate with a degree in engineering, but he bought his own business 20 years ago and has been a used-car dealer ever since.

He has an honest job helping people who live with tight budgets buy cars they can afford. But the media have made his profession such a laughingstock that I feel ashamed to tell people what he does. Our whole family keeps quiet about his work, as though there is something wrong with it.

I just wanted to tell "Undercover

ADVICE

Undertaker" that he's not the only one. You'd be surprised at how many honest, hard-working people there are in our country that, for one reason or another, are embarrassed to admit it.

ASHAMED I'M EMBARRASSED DEAR ASHAMED: People who go to work every day and earn money by providing an honest service to those who need it have no reason to feel ashamed. If they do, that's a shame! Read on to see how other individual handled the undertaker question ...

DEAR ABBY: I have an answer for "Undercover Undertaker," the funeral director who was ashamed to disclose his profession. Many years ago in high school, I was fortunate to have Sam Levenson as a Spanish teacher. A noted comedian of that time, he kept our classes lively with his humor.

One of the stories was about his sister, who was dating an undertaker. Like "Undercover Undertaker," Sam's mother was embarrassed to tell people what the young man did for a living. She did everything she could to avoid the question. One day, when asked point-blank, she was silent for a moment. Then she smiled and answered, "He follows the medical profession.

RUBIN SPRING, ISELIN, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: Our teen-aged daughter and her girlfriend were arrested for petty theft. They were caught walking out of a store in a local shopping center with some Tshirts they had not paid for. They were fingerprinted, had their pictures taken and were released to us. as this was a first offense for both girls. They were very upset and knew that what they did was wrong. They are normally good kids. They wrote an apology to the store, got a long lecture from us and have been grounded for a month.

Both teen-agers said that they were not read their rights. Should we try to fight this in court? Or because they did steal and admitted it, should we as parents let them take another punishment in court?

We are confused by what is legal and what is best for the girls. Please

UPSET MOTHER DEAR UPSET: No one should appear in court without legal representation. If you are unclear about whether your daughter's rights were violated, you should consult a lawyer or your local Legal Aid office.

What teens need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, and getting along with peers and parents is in "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Pear Abby, Teen sellet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, III. 61054-8447. Fortune's heart in San Francisco

By RICK GLADSTONE AP Business Writer

NEW YORK - San Francisco overcame disadvantages such as high rents and earthquakes to leapfrog from eighth to the top of Fortune magazine's list of best U.S. cities for business.

The San Francisco Bay area bumped firstranked New York, which finished in fourth place this year behind Atlanta and Denver, in the latest rankings released Tuesday in Fortune's Nov. 13 issuc.

Fortune also called Singapore the top global city for business, extolling its virtues as a high-tech enclave with no corruption and an 'affordable, worry-free tropical lifestyle.'

Fortune gave San Francisco the top domestic ranking in its seventh annual list of the most attractive places for a business to call home. although the city's downtown rents are among the highest anywhere and the entire region remains susceptible to occasionally violent earth tremors.

'Yes, it's expensive, but you get what you pay for." Fortune said.

The draws - which outweighed disadvantages - include access to the West Coast's biggest financial center, a slew of powerful banks, law firms, ports, a stock exchange and a gateway to the fast-growing Pacific Rim.

In Fortune's view, San Francisco includes the industrial base of Oakland, biotechnology birthplace of Emeryville and brain centers of Berkeley and Palo Alto, which help the region's array of technological innovators like Intel and Genentech satisfy an "enormous appetite for

It also includes the epicenter of global computing. Silicon Valley, which alone accounts for $25 billion worth of exports annually, more than most

Even San Francisco's famed windswept baseball stadium has acquired a techno tinge. A Silicon Valley computer-networking parts company called 3Com recently acquired the right to rename Candlestick Park to 3Com Park.

The ranking was based on research by the magazine and the Arthur Andersen consulting firm, which analyzed data ranging from unemployment rates to transit systems to recreation in 60 cities.

Fortune said it blended that research with its own interviews of executives and economic development experts to concoct the final list.

Globally, Singapore bumped Hong Kong as No. I this year, which Fortune called a reflection of the island nation's evolution from a cheap manufacturing center into a modern Asian commercial outpost that beckons businesses with tax breaks and a highly educated work force.

Hong Kong, which fell to No. 6 globally this year, remains a critical business entry point into China, but political uncertainties still shroud the British colony, which reverts to Chinese control in less than two years.

Untimely death leaves void in lives of many

Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - Terry Michael Hart worked hard every day for 18 years as the meat market manager at Winn Dixie on French Avenue in Sanford.

There were no celebrations to mark his dedication to his job and to the community. There were no fireworks, no dinners, no

But when Hart, 36, was killed in an automobile accident on East State Road 46 near Cocoa, there was a void in the lives of those who knew him.

'Everyone knew him," said store manager David Childs. "Everyone knew him and everyone loved him. He was an outstanding individual. Hart lived in DeBary with his wife Jamie, his daughter Pamela Marie and his son Terry Jr., but his heart, those who knew him said, was in

He was raised in Sanford and graduated from Seminole High School.

He was an avid supporter of Seminole High athletics and a big sports fan in general, Childs

Hart played in various Seminole County and City of Sanford recreation softball leagues. He was also a member of the American Water Ski Association. Winn Dixie district manager Vergil Screws said Hart was a "great leader and role model for the young employees in the store." He noted that Hart had started young and worked hard.

"The young high school kids we have working here could really look up to him." Screws said.

He said that Hart "knew everybody" in the community because he took the time to speak with people.

"He took advantage of the opportunity to meet people and talk to them." Screws said. "When you work in a grocery store for all those years in a community like this you meet just about everyone."

Childs said the store staff was "devastated" by the death of their co-worker and friend.

'This is a terrible loss to us and to his family." he noted.

APPLAUSE Brandy Williams

Sanford Police Chief Raiph Russell and Deputy Chief Joe Dillard congratulate 13-year-old Brandy Williams for his life-saving work. The Lakeview Middle School student saved the life of four-year-old Nicholas Eaton who had fallen into the swimming pool at the Franklin Arms Apartments. Williams, here with his uncle Samuel Elmore, was also lauded by officer John Evans who was the first policeman on the scene and Cmdr. Bill Hasson.

Talks begin

Second study finished: Will courthouse stay or move?

By WCK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A second report commissioned by the county to study the best location for courthouse facilities is ready for review.

Today talks begin with Seminole County, commissioners and the design group that completed the study to either keep county court facilities in downtown Sanford or move them to Five Points.

Keith Reeves, president of Architectural Design Group is to make the presentation of the findings. Reeves said he is scheduled to meet with Commissioner Win Adams at 1:30 this afternoon, and Commissioner Pat Warren at 2:30.

On Oct. 31, Reeves will meet with commission Chairman Randy Morris, followed by a meeting with Commissioner Daryl McLain on Nov. 1, and Dick VanDerWeide on

"Until the discussions begin," Reeves said. "I can't reveal which position we have taken in our findings, but after the talks begin. the information should be made a matter of public record."

Reeves said it is his understanding that public hearings will eventually be held on his findings.

Earlier, Architect Bruce Andersen had been contracted by the county and City of Sanford to undertake a financial study of the move. It was dated August, 1995. In it, Andersen reported that the Five Points area has the potential to continue the growth it has seen in the past years. regardless of whether the court facilities are moved, while the downtown Sanford area would probably suffer if the operations were moved out.

Regarding the financial aspects of a move, Andersen's report said, "By ☐ See Courts, Page 5A

You can now buy liquor in Sanford on Sunday

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Sanford merchants with proper alcoholic beverage licenses may now sell their products on Sunday.

The decision has been approved by the City Commission, and became effective as of second reading and adoption of Ordinance 3271 on Oct. 9.

Several store managers and owners, aware of this change, have already tested the waters and offered sales beginning this past Sunday.

Shift manager Joe Schiek at ABC Liquors, 2885 S. Highway 17-92. said the store began opening on Sundays last weekend. "I wasn't on duty at that time," he said, "but I know that sales were only at their standard level."

Walgreens Liquor Store, at 2501 S. French, also opened for the first Sunday on this past weekend. Business was slow," said store manager Sheila Robinson. "but we hadn't put up any signs or advertised, so people didn't know we would be open.

She added that she expected a larger number of customers this week, "once people know that we can do this.'

The actual wording of the ordinance appears to be somewhat restrictive, then rather confusing. "No alcoholic beverage may be sold, consumed or served or permitted to be served or consumed in any place holding a beverage license under the laws of the state between the hours of 2 a.m. and 7 a.m. immediately following on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday, or between the hours of 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. on Sunday.

City Clerk Jan Dougherty explained that for Sundays, stores cannot open until 10 a.m. For the rest of the week, they may open at 7

After opening at 10 a.m. on Sunday, stores may continue to operate until 2 a.m. Monday morning, but if they wish, may reopen as
