To Find What Sum
Kidnappers Demand

EL PASO, Tex., Mar. 21—(AP)—Rescue plans for J. E. Bristow, 40-year-old American oil operator, reported held for ransom near Matanzan, Mexico, today awaited the definite determination of the amount of money sought by the kidnappers.

Word from the scene of the kidnapping has stated that both $3,000 and 10,000 pesos were demanded. American Vice-consul Eaton, at Matanzan, Mexico, has gone to Tepic, Nayarit, Mexico, to definitely determine the amount of ransom sought.

Gordon Obie Bristow, of San Angelo, Texas, son of the prisoner, arrived here by airplane today, and expects to take the money to the bandits.

If no word is received by tomorrow morning, young Bristow said he would take a plane of the corporation Aeronautica de Transportes for Torreon, whence he planned to proceed by plane to Matanzan.

The El Paso Times last night received reports that the Mexican government had ordered federal troops to effect the release of Bristow, who was captured by the bandits while he was prospecting for oil in the rugged country near Santa Maria Del Oro, Nayarit.

The Keystone Aircraft Corporation was awarded the contract for the bombardment planes at a cost of $2,208,100. Each of these giant bombers will be powered with two Pratt and Whitney 525 horsepower aircooled engines.

army will have a total of 78 men, announced that procurement of new army airplanes from funds which may become available for the fiscal year 1931 was being held up until the appropriation bill now before Congress has been passed.

DO YOU KNOW KLIM?

PURE, fresh whole milk in its safest, most uniform, most convenient form—that's Klim. Children like its own delicious taste and the flavor it gives to cooked foods.

Klim is a snow-white powder. It doesn't look like milk, but it is—the very finest milk from America's richest dairy lands. Only the water content has been removed. It's so easy to use! Just spoon it in with the other dry ingredients. It's easy to keep, too—indefinitely, without ice.

Whenever the recipe calls for a cup of milk, just add four tablespoons of Klim to the dry ingredients, mix, and add a cup of water. And, of course, more Klim will make the dish just that much more nourishing and tasty, without increasing the amount of liquid.

Our free recipe booklet, "This New Freedom," is full of information which will help you cook nourishing foods conveniently and economically. Write for your copy today.

"A UNIT OF PLANT FOOD IN ITS EFFECTIVE FORM SHOULD ATTAIN SIMILAR TO THE VALUE OF THE PLANT FOOD IN A FULLER STATE OF CONCENTRATION,"—R. E. LARSON, Anaconda Copper Co.

V-C Leads the Way

Full Rows is not much green to begin with, but when the talk turns to this fertilizer analysis concentrated fertilizer that means nothing more than the value of the plant food in its concentration."—R. E. LARSON, Anaconda Copper Co.

Full Rows is the first fertilizer manufacturer in this country to produce a high-grade fertilizer of concentrated analysis. V-C at the time was marketing a concentrated plant food, V-C, which has been the finest fertilizer of the time. The company turned early to the manufacture of concentrated plant foods.

Today V-C is marketing V-C Super Plant Food, a fertilizer of concentrated analysis. V-C Super Plant Food is a full line of fertilizers from the most concentrated to the least concentrated, from 20 millions to 100,000 parts per million.

Leading factors in the caption and Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company have been mentioned in this issue. "V-C Super Plant Food" has been introduced into other states because fertilizer is a product that travels from state to state. The only plant which is making the results would be the grower of Spring.

Today in the United States there is no greater change than in our work and thoughts, if they are to be in the direction of making the same."

Good Farmers Will Prosper

"The revolution in farm methods spills privately, even for profits, for the efficient and capable farmer in position to utilize the resources in power, machinery, fertilizers, and practices. It is still ideal for the incapable, except there are about a few types of innovation in farm production that will give them a satisfactory place under management."—Wheeler McMillen.

Three More Optimists

Among the optimists let us put down the old who said "I've got two teeth left, but think nothing they'll be." And the man drunk with "I may be blind in one eye, but I can still think," and the farmer who thinks he can beat the market with the cheapest fertilizer he can buy.

we hope for the sake of the state, $20,000,000. And still Mr.

Wood thinks Florida isn't fooling its state of the Meddy Bill

It has been suggested to us that this could be a good time to induce the government to speed some money on the St. Johns River. In keeping with the government's policy of public improvement, to relieve unemployment, it is conceivable that a reasonable expenditure in developing the rivers might not be out of order.
The arrival here the other day of Mr. Billings' henchman, Jack would seem to indicate the possibility of travel on this beautiful inland waterway.

An interesting situation has been created in Miami where Al Capone seems to be going, following his release from a Philadelphia court the dangerous Al, now a jailed and hunted by rival racketeers.

Miami would take Al in when the sale of an expensive mansion was at stake, but now that there are no such financial prospects in sight, only the possibility of open gang warfare.
Miamians revolt at the prospect of his arrival and insist upon police keeping him out even though there is no valid means by which they can.

Chall a Celery Market

The Herald is extremely gratified to learn that the celery market is stronger today than it has been for some time. Celery growing is the backbone of this community and any time the farmers suffer we all suffer. When they prosper, that prosperity is almost immediately reflected in the sales of the merchants, in the advertising carried by this newspaper. Without the farmer, and without his prosperity, we would have nothing. It is as essential that he prosper as we do.

Yet in spite of this fact a few of the farmers, apparently forgetting that our interests are almost as closely connected with the celery market as theirs, took exception to a news story published in The Herald on March 12, in which a representative of one of the leading marketing organizations was quoted as saying that this year's celery shipments were far in excess of any previous year. Some of them even declared that The Herald's story had ruined the celery market.

Yesterday we heard one of them say that he wished The Herald had ruined the market a little earlier in the season. For prices began rising the day after the story was published and have soared since. Day before yesterday celery sold in New York at what might be called fancy prices.
Threes and fours were bringing $2.50 and $3.00; sixes and eights were as high as $3.00 and $3.50 while tens sold for $2.75 and $3.00.

In Philadelphia the market was quite as strong. Threes and fours brought $2.25 to $2.75; sixes and eights, $3.00 and $3.50; and tens, $3.00 and $3.25. Fours were selling in Detroit for $3.25. In fact practically all prices there ranged above three dollars. So they did in Chicago, sixes and eights bringing as high as $3.50. And these prices, in spite of the fact that celery shipments to date amount to 5,382 carloads, while at this time in 1923 only 4,233 carloads had gone out and the market then was shot.

We mention these facts only to show that supply alone does not control the market; demand is quite as important a factor. It does very little, if any, harm to advertise that more celery is being grown than ever before, if that advertising makes people think about celery, makes people talk about celery, makes them buy celery, and eat celery. If no one had ever heard of celery, and hence never ate celery, it wouldn't make any difference if we shipped only one carload each season, there would be no demand for it, and consequently no price.

We hope that the farmers realize that The Herald is doing all in its power to help them create new markets for their product and to help them get a price which will pay them a profit for their work and trouble. We are first last and always for Sanford, and the backbone of Sanford is the farmer.

Things About Florida

Florida has seen many celebrities come and go this winter, and most of them have had their say about this state, some of them saying pleasant things, some of them trying to point out our faults, but none have more vividly or more accurately pictured Florida's situation than R. H. Davis, the globe trotting news gatherer of the New York Sun, who recently told a Tampa reporter what he thinks of this state as follows:

"I've seen catastrophes all over the world, from San Francisco to Mount Pelee, Java, and Mount Vesuvius, followed them up everywhere. The human race always survives but nowhere on the globe is there a race with the surviving power to dig out of the depths and climb in a hurry to new high levels like the native American."

"Why, your Florida hasn't had a 10 percent loss. This fine city is the product of the pioneers, the natives who grew up here and are sticking there, everything, and while they stick they build and progress and watch floaters from the north come drifting in looking for that unqualified comfort that doesn't exist anywhere in the world."

"Your troubles were caused by an overdose of northern visitors who found out that without real work and use of energy there was no happiness in life even in Florida, so the ones that didn't put out and work were weeded out. Now you have the most indomitable bunch of citizens in America."
"Will they climb out? It's foolish to even doubt it. Why the lava is scarcely cooled off from the sides of Mount Vesuvius before the natives of the region have climbed back and stuck new grapevine cuttings into the ground. I've watched it the world over. Whole towns in Kansas were out and built up by the natives whose energies created by difficulties soon have big cities where there were idle town filled with shacks before.

"Florida has everything: northern money that must yield dividends, fine roads and lots of them, plenty of railroads, and a huge population just a little way through the air that now recognizes it as the recuperation center of the country, the capital of comfort. Your airways are going to do a lot for the state in the near future. Tampa is only across the street from Miami right now; the Everglades are no longer a barrier.

"The man who expects to find Florida a deserted village is due for his greatest surprise."

The World's Widow

By Pierre Van Passen

As the Church of the Invalides in Paris has undergone the necessary repairs, the thousand and one old battleflags that hang there were temporarily removed again. On the morning when they were taken down and carefully moved to the crypt a considerable crowd of spectators had gathered, among them many an old Bonapartist. The military were represented by a battalion of drummers and a squadron of dragoons. The ceremony was one of those in which even a Frederick the Great could not have duplication with a hundred years of drilling in Potsdam. First came the tattered banners of Marengo and Austerlitz, of Leipzig and Jena and the innumerable standards that Bonaparte forbade. Then there was a pause. Horse-tapped, a label of voices broke out among the spectators. Then came the flag on which Napoleon planted the last flag at the foot of the staircase of Fontainebleau, the last which he wanted to pass into the heart of every grenadier. Silence came back with a roar. At the top, like that of an electric current, swept through the crowd. And following a gentle word of command was given, a shout of deep satisfaction by the present. A thousand bayonets and sabers blazed in the golden sunlight. A great sigh passed through the ranks of the Empire.

Local Celery To Be Furnished At Daytona Dinner

Received a letter from A. A. Coulter, secretary of the Florida Commercial Secretaries Association, last week asking if Sanford would like to furnish celery for the "Florida Products Dinner." The local organization immediately wrote a letter to Fred F. Dorner, president of the Seminole County Agriculture Club, holding that club's exposition. The growers replied that they would furnish the required amount of celery.

Mr. Papworth, then notified the chairman of the Daytona Beach dinner that enough of the Sanford product will be on their table April 8 to satisfy the 200 diners. The following letter was forwarded to the local chamber president from Mr. Coulter this morning:

March 19, 1930

"Mr. H. M. Papworth, president Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Sanford, Florida.
Dear Mr. Papworth:

"We sincerely appreciate the fine cooperation of your organization in agreeing to furnish enough celery for 200 people at the Florida products dinner to be served in Daytona Beach on April 8th.

"You can ship the celery marked: Southern Commercial Secretaries Association Convention, Ridgewood Hotel, Daytona Beach, Florida. Probably the celery should be delivered by Monday night, April 7th, so the hotel steward can have it chilled and ready to serve.

"We will be happy to have you send 200 copies of your leaflet on the use of celery for placing at plates of the guests. We are particularly pleased that you will have Mr. F. W. Bender, your secretary attend the convention."

V. V. MURRAY SHIRLEY

Very truly yours,

Lone Star Ranger" Is Feature At Princess

Old Home Week was celebrated at Fox Movie City on the day production was started on "The Lone Star Ranger," adapted from Zane Grey's widely read story in which George O'Brien portrays the leading role.

The reunion brought O'Brien in contact with a dozen or more actors who had appeared with him in his first starring picture for Fox Films, "The Iron Horse" and again in "3 Bad Men."

The prohibitionists were given seven days originally for the presentation of their case, a time equal to that taken by the well in their reading arrangement of the dry laws and conditions attributed to them. To date they have used six and a half of the days and have presented a long series of witnesses, including business men, government officials, women, labor leaders, etc., and a noted foot ball coach.

A special reunion was held by O'Brien and Walter McGrail who had not seen each other since they played together in "Bixby".

The cast for this all talking version of this romantic and thrilling story was selected with careful reference to types. Others given important roles are Warren Hymer, Russell Simpson, Ray Sweet, Edgar Kennedy, Richard

HASN'T HAD SUCH VIGOR FOR YEARS

"I still marvel at what has been done for me after I was infected. I have strength and vigor I never felt before in my life."

EDWARD G. LOTOS

"Even crackers and salts would upset me and cause vomiting. Rheumatic pains settled all over my body and my strength and energy were so low. One morning I could hardly stand upright out of bed. My skin was yellow and my whole system seemed full of poisons. I have just finished my fourth bottle of Sargos and I am in splendid health in every way. I never have a trace of indigestion, my appetite is fine and I now weight 170 pounds. Sure if I'll completely rid me of cancer in combination, my course is great and free life is a different name." —Edward G. Lotos, 1728 N. W. 22nd St., Miami.

Sargos may be bought in Sanford at Laney's Drug Store, Agency.
