Courtesy Week

The Herald would like to see every man, woman and child in Sanford, occupied in any position which throws them in contact with the public, attend the lectures on courtesy which have been planned for the next month by Vernon T. Grizzard, public relations counsel, through the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants association.

We can think of no greater contribution to the future growth and welfare of Sanford that could possibly be made than this trait of courtesy in its salesmen and its population generally. Learning the ways of courtely and practicing them provide an opportunity for everyone, not just for our civic leaders, or our business men, to do something toward making our city a more prosperous and descrable place in which to live.

For there is nothing which so adds to the pleasure of living in a town as pleasant courteous service on the part of clerks, salesmen and others doing business with the public, There is nothing more likely to make a permanent resident out of a casual tourist as efficient service. cheerfully rendered in our stores, hotels, restaurants and filling stations. And it is the importance of courfesy and how to achieve it which will be the subject of Mr. Grizzard's lectures.

But no matter how important the lectures or how well delivered, they can do no good unless the people who need them most come to hear them. For this reason the Herald hopes that the merchants particularly and all employers in general will do all they can to induce their employees to attend these lectures. It will do them good and it will do their town good.

Let's make Sanford famous for courtesy.

Russians Lose Fight On Troop Inventories

VOLUME XXXVIII

Molotov Over-ridden On Lumping Of Disarmament With Lo cation Of Troops

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 27—(R)—The Russians today lost out in one of their most stubborn battles to date before the United Nations Assembly. Overriding repeated and atrenuous objections from Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, the UN's 54-Na-Molotov, the UN'S D4-NItion political committee has voted to discuss the proposed troop inventory together with the question of arm reduction.

The Russians had been opposed to 'imping the two sublects together under one debate heading, but the committee chose to back up the urgings of both liritsin and the United States to have both issues considered tointly.

jointly... In fact, the decision was taken while the committee was voting paragraph by paragraph on a British amendment to the original Soviet proposal for a UN troop census. By a vote of 33 to 17 it decided that the two issues were separate aspects of the same general subject. France via d with Russia in opposition, while the other three members of the Big Five — the U. S., Britain and China — voted in favor of broadening of the dis-

The committee also approved by a vote of 36 to 12 a British proposal declaring that the troop inventory was the first step toward disarmament talks, It add 'ed that the census was needed to help set 'up UN's proposed international police force. Russia and pational police force. Russia and France also voted against this. On another section of the reso lution there was no opposition. That was the part providing for reports on troops in enemy and friendly states.

Earlier the United States and Britsin were on one side of the fence and the Russians on the other in talking about whether the troop inventory should in-clude domestic forces as well as
