BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

AND THEY shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels; and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son, that serveth him.—Malachi 3:17.

SHINE WHERE YOU ARE

Would you have the world better and brighter? Then light up the way as you go; make some little part of it lighter with beams from your life's steady glow.

Make the world that you live in your debt. As through it you journey along; then "lift" it, and all will be better; do right, and the right will grow strong.—Publisher Unknown.

What's the use of hitching your wagon to a star if you are trailing behind?

Eustis has launched a clean-up campaign. Why not such a campaign in Sanford?

Joseph Caillaux, France's new minister of finance, could write a good book on "Struggling Upward."

The Sarasota Times prints an editorial, "Do not two-bit the Tourists." No, the more they pay, the better they like it.

Women are going from bad to worse. Out in St. Louis a woman struck her husband with the carving knife. Most deplorable! What was the matter with her gun?

A mother is indignant because she is accused of poisoning all five of her children. Libelous! She really only poisoned one and her husband.

"Can Woman Drive?" We'd like to have some good woman driver of Sanford answer that question through the medium of Sanford's Forum.

Local man was down at Tampa the other day and bought a couple of quarts of Davis Islands. But he has already resold them at a profit.

Another war in the Balkan. Now let's see? What happened to the last one and aren't they running just a little ahead of schedule?

Henry Ford and his Dearborn Independent are being sued for $1,000,000 damages by Aaron Sapiro who charges libel. Must remind Mr. Ford of the good old days when he was suing the Chicago Tribune on a similar charge.

"That was some lickin' I had last night. I gave the midget at the circus one drink and after whipping the strong man he bent three tons to death, then blew the tent over."—Fort Meade Leader.

Sarasota is conducting a Chamber of Commerce membership drive. Wonder if there aren't some men in Sanford who don't belong to the Chamber of Commerce, who should?

The State Senate has killed the proposed investigation of alleged race track gambling in Florida. Evidently the legislature doesn't believe there was any gambling at Hialeah.

Jack Dempsey, erstwhile prizefighter, has returned to New York on his honeymoon trip which took him to a number of countries in Europe. Jack says he is ready to fight anyone that Kearns picks for him but we'll wager that the astute manager will be able to find some flaw in any aspirant's claim to a championship battle.

Why did Fidel Linares, twenty-eight year old Tampa man, who is said to have been secretly in love with a pretty Cuban woman, shoot her to death and then take his own life when she refused to give him any encouragement? Almost surely because of some innate selfishness.

With Florida Stepping Ahead

"An amazing transformation" is what Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, found in seven states below the Mason-Dixie line, which he has just visited.

The dispatch from Newark, N. J., which quotes Mr. Duffield, neglects to mention what seven states the authority investigated, but it seems from that Florida was not in the itinerary. The South even without its most wonderfully progressing state on exhibit has startled the New Jersey man with its evidence of new life and new growth.

"Everywhere from North Carolina to Florida and from Louisiana to the northern boundary of Tennessee," says the dispatch, "the South is undergoing an amazing transformation according to Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, who has just returned from a trip through seven states below the Mason-Dixie line. The entire region, he said, is losing familiar characteristics and assuming instead something of the air and spirit long identified with Southern California and its people.

"If the South suffers," the dispatch continues, "from the loss of enormous numbers of negro laborers who have migrated northward, the effects do not show, so far as Mr. Duffield could see. On the contrary the country is advancing with rapid, assured strides, building roads, enhancing its natural attractions, and carrying out well-founded plans for the development of every resource and advantage."

And if Mr. Duffield found an "amazing transformation" in the states of the South north of Florida, what would he have found in Florida where an increase in population at a rate UNPRECEDENTED in the eastern United States in the last seventy-five years is shown by bona fide figures.

In the last five years, Florida has made a thirty per cent gain in the number of its resident population. And the increase represents the influx of several hundred thousand people who have brought their energy, their ideas, and their money to speed the utilization of the state's invaluable resources.

Within the next five years, it is entirely reasonable to predict, that Florida will increase in population another thirty, or even likely fifty per cent. To accommodate the newcomers thousands of dwellings and business houses must be built. And each of these newcomers will select the place in Florida that particularly appeals to him as the location for his Florida home.

The South is rapidly discarding the old way of doing things. Much of the romance, many of the reminders of the South of ante-bellum days must pass away. But this new spirit that is of no time nor place has come to fill the hearts and minds of the people in the South, opening their eyes to the boundless fields of opportunity, and giving them ways and means of producing that "amazing transformation" which has startled all the world into a display of interest in the South's development.

And this smiling Florida of ours is stepping on ahead, blithe and confident, and welcoming all who would like to share in her good fortunes!

THERE IS PERHAPS no parallel to the real estate boom that Florida is now enjoying. And it seems to have much that is substantial about it. It is as if a new land had been discovered and opened up. Yet Florida today, so far as the land and the climate are concerned, is the same Florida that Ponce de Leon traveled in search of the Fountain of Youth. But we know more about Florida today and the world knows more about it because the boosters of that state have been and are spending their good money in placing that state's assets before a people with money to spend and a desire for what Florida has to offer.—Nashville Tennessee.

FLORIDA'S NATURAL resources for exploitation are her phosphate beds, her fisheries, and a climate and a soil adapted to early truck and to citrus crops. Very beautiful is Florida's 800 or 900 miles of seacoast—with wide, clean and white beaches—and an unparalleled system of inland salt water rivers. But the economics of these waters are but little known, for these waters teem with life.—N. L. Willet in Augusta Chronicle.

MY FAVORITE STORIES BY IRVIN S. COBB

I can remember when, in one of the mountain counties of Kentucky, there was only one sewing machine and not a single cooking stove. Things have changed there since. The railroads, bringing with them civilization and its by-products, have crept up through the gaps; the feds have died out; school houses have sprung up; there are live newspapers, colleges even, and modern systems of living.

But these things mark the transactions of recent years. It is not so very long ago that life was primitive. They used to tell a story to illustrate how primitive things actually were. It may not have been true. Probably it was a lie, but at any rate it was an illustration, even though an exaggerated one, of a prevalent condition.

There was a narrow gauge, jerk-water road which skirted through the knobs about the feet of the mountains. One day the train—there was only one train a day, each way—was laboring slowly upgrade when the engineer halted his locomotive to let a cavalcade cross the track ahead of him. First there stroked past a pack of hounds, all having merry, behind the dogs followed men, on horseback and muleback, galloping at top speed and clearing the hunt on with shrill whistles and blasts from a horn. The troupe had vanished into the deep timber bordering the right-of-way when a Northern man, riding in the shabby day coach, addressed a fellow passenger who was a native. "Sheriff's posse, I suppose?" he said.

"Nope," said the mountaineer. "Perhaps your people are seeking to lynch somebody?" suggested the Northerner.

"No, 'tain't that neither." "Then may I ask what is the purpose—of the intent—of this chase?" "Well, mister," said the native, "it's like this. Judge Sim Junior, town's oldest boy, Simmy Junior, comes of age today and they're runnin' him down to put pants on 'em."

THE BULGARIAN HORRORS PROVIDENCE NEWS

It is no new practice for the Bulgarians to remove political adversaries by assassination. Former Car Ferdinand, "the old fox of the Balkans," was more than once suspected of having done this. And since his day Stambulinsky, the agrarian leader and prime minister, paid for his opinions with his life. The whole of Bulgarian history shows, in fact, that the country is peculiarly adapted to the sort of propaganda which Moscow has been sending it.

For there appears no doubt whatsoever that the wholesale slaughter now going on there has been instigated by Moscow. Dr. Popoff, the Bulgarian envoy in Berlin, says that written evidence of this fact is in existence, that the murderous usurpers in the Kremlin ordered a Communist uprising for April 15.

It may be recalled that Moscow has been in the habit of ordering such uprisings outside Russia. But in the last few years their orders have gone unheeded except in the Balkans. There is only too much reason to fear that the bloody hand of the Soviets will yet become far bloodier before the Bolshevik menace is ended.

The most curious thing about Bolshevism in Bulgaria is that it is mainly a peasant movement. The cities and towns have been opposed to it. That is a reversal of the usual order. The only reason why anti-Bolshevism does not exist throughout Russia today is that the Russian peasant will have none of it. Perhaps the reason for the Bulgarian phenomenon is the hope that through an uprising the peasantry will be able to get hold of their land. The present system of land tenure is archaic and lends itself to oppression of the peasants who have been known in the past for their industry.

At the bottom of the whole business is the stark fact that civilization has not yet really penetrated into the nature of some of the Balkan peoples. There is hardly a doubt that if two of them were again to go to war, the struggle would be marked by all the methods of barbarism that were used in the Greek-Bulgarian conflict of some years ago. The Bulgur is a good fighter, but he has the defects of his qualities. One of the world's hardest jobs is to tame Bulgaria, and it is all the harder because of Moscow's apparent determination to use that unfortunate country as a sort of spearhead thrust at the heart of western Europe.

As Brisbane Sees It

Same Grave, Same "Chair." Jumped with £200,000. On Mountain Top. First Sorrow, Then Cash. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

THE ANGEL Gabriel, patiently keeping track of us all, makes strange entries in his ledger. Once, looking down upon the tombs of the great in Westminster Abbey, he saw young Pitt, buried in the same grave with his father, another great Prime Minister of England. When that tomb opens on the last day two British gentlemen will step forth, expecting a suitable reward.

LAST FRIDAY, Gabriel's all-seeing eye, piercing the State prison walls at Raleigh, N. C., saw C. W. Stewart, fifty-one years old and his son Elmer, twenty-three, killed one after the other in the same electric chair.

The father said nothing as they killed him. A brain with a bad start becomes dull at fifty-one. The son said cheerfully to his executioners, "Take your time, boys, I'm in no hurry."

WHAT WILL happen to them when the graves open, and they appear for judgment with an electric burn on top of the head and on the calf of the leg?

Does the Angel Gabriel occasionally call the attention of his celestial comrades to unusual entries in his book? Did he point to the North Carolina memorandum and say: "Friends, this is new?"

SIMON SOROKIN jumped into the Chicago River; his friend Neimoroff jumped after him. Sorokin still lives, and the police, having examined his pockets, are puzzled. He took into the river $300,000. That, the police say, is a record and makes the case more puzzling.

"It can't be a woman," says the philosophical police official. "With a door ajar, one could get a dozen better ones, and it can't be an ordinary troupe, for with a roll like that he could buy himself out of it. Something wrong in the head, undoubtedly."

Many will agree that it is hard to understand the combination of suicide and $300,000.

SIX HUNDRED French soldiers—they work for a living, which keeps them out of mischief and contented—are building a wide road to a great plateau on top of Mount Saleve in the French Alps. The road will lead to a magnificent astronomical observatory, say the French authorities. The Swiss and others say the French will establish on that mountain top beside the observatory, a powerful wireless station and a great aviation field, aiming at Italian, Viennese, German cities and all points east.

ON THE English Channel, near Mont St. Michael, the French have a great "air base," aimed at their door ally, England, and all points west.

With air bases on strategic plateaus in the Alps and the Pyrenees, with their superb flying men and their great fleet of air planes, the French may soon stop worrying about their small birth rate.

AN EAGLE does not worry about the number of caterpillars or flies once on the ground below him. A flying nation, with the right fliers and flying machines, need not worry about the number of German, Polish or Russian or other babies born into the world. Mere numbers become less important, and that's fortunate for Europe and America, facing great breeding grounds.

LAST MONTH attention was concentrated on a cave in Kentucky, where the unfortunate Floyd Collins, pinned down by a great rock, died. Beyond the reach of his friends.

Now there is a fight for the ownership of that highly profitable Kentucky cave. Johnnie Gerards, who worked at Floyd Collins' rescue, says the cave belongs to him, and Collins' heirs claim it. The interested shift from the dead Floyd Collins and his misery to the cave gate receipts. Morbid crowds are willing to pay to see the place where Collins died. First sorrow, then cash.

THE EXPERIMENTAL airship from New Orleans to Chicago carried more than $3,000,000 worth of registered mail. The big plane stopped in Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, Nashville, Louisville and Indianapolis before reaching Chicago, a good way to impress on public opinion the value of flying machines.

The 100-mile trip was made in eight hours and fifteen minutes flying time.

BEFORE LONG this country, which invented the flying machine, will cease to be the conspicuously backward nation in aviation. Consider the safety of $3,000,000 sent by air. It is enough to make Jesse James, Dick Turpin and other old experts turn in their graves.

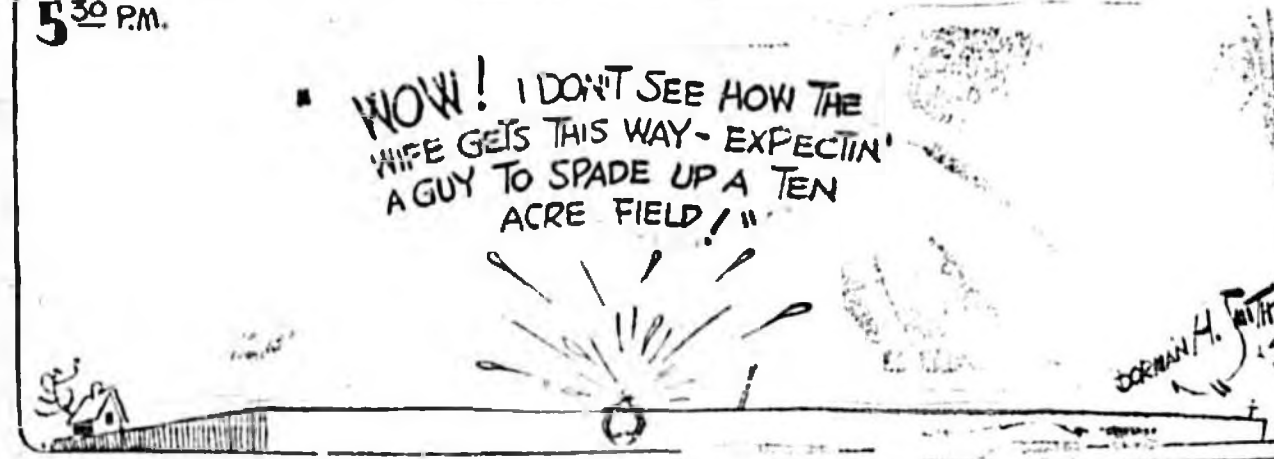

BISHOP BROWN, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, expelled for heresy, traveled from his Westchester home to tell the people of New York why he should have another chance.

Now Bishop Manning, head of all Episcopalians, forbids a New York clergyman to lend his pulpit to Bishop Brown.

YOU MIGHT say that Bishop Manning, being a foreigner, hasn't often read the Constitution of the United States, or thought very much about the right of free speech.

But the good bishop was born in England, where the right to say what you think is even more firmly established than it is here. Possibly the Constitution does not "go" good inside a church door.

SPRINGTIME MADNESS

A PRESIDENT'S OCCUPATION FT. LAUDERDALE SENTINEL

A certain younger man named John Coolidge, who has come to notice before this by reason of a certain commendable sense of restraint, gains publicity again for an unobtrusive little thing he does at Amherst College. Filling out a form required for purposes of records, he writes: "Father's occupation and address—Lawyer, No. 2 Masonic Building, Northampton, Mass."

CALVIN AND THE SNOBS ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

Why the sneer of the highfliers in the report that President Coolidge did not make a heavy investment in an Easter wardrobe? Why the thinly veiled hint that he is a cheap John and not merely economical? Publicity, of course, is a price every officeholder pays; but criticism of clothes, it might be supposed, would be left to members of the catty club. The president has lived without help from the neighbors for quite a few days and ought still to be qualified to act as his own master of wardrobe. Besides, a $65 suit of clothes is hardly to be despised. We imagine that the majority of males who cast their votes for Calvin Coolidge did not spend as much for their Easter suit. It is possible to spend more if one wishes—but perhaps the president does not regard a prominent place in the Easter parade as the be-all and end-all of existence. "Despite his economy," says the New York World, "the president's callers frequently comment on his neat appearance." His sartorial ambition ends there; he has no desire to be a model of fashion and a probably he is happy to create an appearance of such neatness that it is remembered, and the rest he can leave to the Prince of Wales. On such homely facts as these, applied to all political power in America and taken for granted by the people, are based American opportunity and freedom.

"INFERIORITY COMPLEXES" KEY WEST CITIZEN

As the above is one of the commonest phrases of modern discussion, and as many persons suffer from this fault without knowing what these words mean, it may be worth while for a newspaper to explain the significance of this term. A person is said to have an inferiority complex, when he has such a feeling of his own inferiority and inability to do things, as to handicap his efforts, destroy his confidence, and lead him to be satisfied with small results, when he might just as well accomplish very much more, if he had confidence. The bold and assured sails ahead and wins his triumphs, when such a one often does not have half the judgment and talents of one who is plagued by the sense of inferiority. The belief that you can do a thing is half the battle. The belief that you can't do it means defeat. "It can't be done" is an idea that hold back a great many

Thursday evening, in her usual gracious manner, Mrs. W. M. Scott entertained with a dinner party, at her home on Oak Avenue, hon- oring her niece, Miss Louise Sarles, who has been spending the winter here.
The color scheme of yellow and lavender was delightfully car- ried out in the decorations through- out the lower floor and on the small tables at which the dinner was served. An abundance of lav- ender and yellow larkspur, snap- dragons and stock was used. Tiny yellow birds held the place cards in their bills and lavender, nut cups completed the color note.
Following the delicious dinner the guests were further entertain- ed at the theatre.
Covers were laid for Miss Sarles, Miss Georgia Mobley, Miss Naomi Scoggan, Miss Mary Elizabeth Puleston, Miss Gladys Wilson, Miss Mae Holly, Miss Mildred Holly, Miss Sara Evelyn Wil- liams, Miss Olive Newman, Miss Kitty DuBose and Miss LeClaire Jones.

LAKELAND BEATS LOCAL WARRIORS BY SCORE 4 TO 3

"Ladies' Day" on Lakeland's Grounds Proves Lucky One and Celery Growers Unable to Bunch Hits on Craig

LAKELAND, Apr. 24.—The Lakeland Highlanders paid a pretty compliment to the ladies when they opened here Thursday afternoon with the Celery Growers for the second series on the home grounds, by winning their game. It was Ladies' Day on the local grounds and cheered on by the pretty misses and matrons, the Highlanders couldn't afford to lose and they didn't, taking the game by a score of 4 to 3.

While Craig was hit freely by the Cartmen, he kept the hit well scattered with the exception of the ninth, when the visitors made two runs, lacking one to tie the score.

Snowden of the Sanford team was touched for 10 hits, these counting for runs in the second, fifth and eighth innings.

TAMPA'S ERRORS PLAY BIG PART IN SAINTS' VICTORY

St. Petersburg Gets 13 Hits Off Delivery Of Knight and Takes 8th Straight Game of Season Thursday P. M.

TAMPA, Fla., Apr. 24.—The Tampa Smokers let the Saints get too big a lead on them in the first four innings in yesterday afternoon game and lost by the score of 6 to 5.

Again errors by the Tampa team played a big part in losing their eighth game, as these, coupled with poor base running and teamwork that was not up to the standard, let several runs in.
