To accent her gorgeous ball grown, Mrs. Eoghan Kelly chooses a princess tiara fit for an empress from the assortment of crowns at KADER'S JEWELERS at the unbelievable price of $3.95 to $8.95. John Kader shows princess Jennifer accompanying bracelets of semi-precious stones. If the empress prefers diamonds or other precious gems, Kader is the jeweler for quality stones.

The '66 Pontiacs and Buicks at BILL HEMPHILL MOTORS, INC. reflect the same prestige and grandeur of the space-age as did the golden chariot of story-book saga. A fashion plate herself, Mrs. Robert Besserer admires the chic lines of the new Bonneville and the fashionable interior designed for the most discriminating to relex for year-round luxurious motoring.

Her toes will twinkle like sters and she'll float with the grace of a magic carpet in her peek-a-boe party slippers (by Jacqueline) from IVEY'S SHOE STORE, John Ivey points out to Mrs. William C. Hucthison, Jr. that glass slippers are not practical for today's modern dance, but the silver based flaked crystal slipper is durable and can be worn as is or dyed to match for heavenly foot fashions.

Long gowns will definitely be "the vogue" at the Champagne Ball and other forthcoming galas. Mrs. Paul Werner is intrigued with the exciting selection at THE VOGUE, which features only one-of-a-kind gowns in stock with any size available through re-order services. Just arrived are long cocktail skirts with lavish shells and companion items for the most elegant of gowns.

Wallace Philips delivers Mrs. Henry G. JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) - President Johnson started his third year in office today with indications that foreign policy problems are claiming a greater share of his time.

Next week's meeting with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, involving controversy over NATO's role in Mounting American casualties in the Viet Nam war, along with U. S. efforts to find a peaceful solution at the negotiating table, also occupied today in the pattern that has homage to the memory of his predecessor on the second anniversary of John F. Kennedy's assassination in Dallas. Foreign problems continued to concern the President even on the anniversary of what he called "that terrible day in November" when Kennedy The White House announced new dates for the Erhardsaid no site had been chosen for the meeting. They were dates of Dec. 6-8 and the Dec. 3-4 period that was announced
