W. S. Hart in Spectacular Play of Ancient Aztecs

Triangle star seen in striking role, differing widely from his western characterizations.

William S. Hart will be seen at the Lyric Theatre tonight, in the long awaited Triangle "Aztec story," "The Captive God." This play is from the pen of Monte M. Katterjohn and offers Hart in a role that is totally unlike anything he ever has attempted since his desertion of the footlights for the film studio. The part is that of a stalwart Spaniard, who, shipwrecked in the early part of the sixteenth century, is adopted by the people of Tehuan, in ancient Mexico, and made their leader because of his superior wisdom.

Never since he first entered the motion picture fold has Thomas H. Ince bent his efforts toward the production of a drama like "The Captive God." He has preferred to let pass untouched that period of the world's history which contains some of the most interesting and unusual romances ever written. But when Katterjohn wrote "The Captive God," Ince saw in it the possibilities of a remarkable motion picture play.

With his customary care, Ince incorporated a great amount of detail into this subject, and the result is a magnificent spectacle romance. Its scenes are rich with the picturesqueness that abounded in the Aztec country, and its action is tense with dramatic situations.

In the titular role, Hart is declared to have rendered another fascinating performance that will establish him still more firmly in the popular favor. He appears, it is true, sans chaps and some o and six shooters, but his magnetic smile is as powerful as ever.

The cast that appears in support of Hart includes Enid Murkey, D. D. Tabler, Dorothy Dalton, Robert McRim, Dorcas Matthews, Herbert Farjean and Robert Kortman.

Louise Huff and Jack Pickford in "Seventeen" at Star Monday. The Paramount Pictures Corporation added another laurel to their crown in the production of the absorbing photoplay "Seventeen" in which Louise Huff (who lived for several years at Gainesville, Fla.) and Jack Pickford (little Mary's brother) is starred and is an unusually delightful comedy of the days that only happen once, when young whiskers itch at their roots and love and spring run rampant and one borrows one's father's evening clothes and speedy roadster from an auto company to elope with love's young dream. It almost ends disastrously—but it don't.

Three Triangle Maids of Note in Hart Play

For the first time since they became associated the charms of Enid Murkey, Dorothy Dalton and Dorcas Matthews are matched against one another in "The Captive God," the Triangle drama by Monte M. Katterjohn in which Thomas H. Ince presents William S. Hart as star.

CALIFORNIA CHANGES RESULT AFTER TWO DAYS ANXIOUS WAITING

tions were being made to begin legal proceedings for recounts in states where the result was close.

Chairman Wilcox included California, New Mexico, North Dakota and New Hampshire and Minnesota in his list of states where recounts undoubtedly would be demanded.

Democratic headquarters was not behind the Republicans in preparing for legal developments. Chairman McCormick conferred with Alton B. Parker, former Democratic candidate for President, Morgan J. O'Brien, Delancey Nicoll and John B. Stanchfield, all prominent New York lawyers. It was evident that if the election which is to be taken into the courts the legal points of both parties were being marshalled for such a royal battle as the United States never has seen.

Claim 272 Votes for Wilson

In official statement the Democratic National Committee claims 272 votes for President Wilson and a popular plurality of from 200,000 to 300,000.

"To say there will be any contest," declared the statement, "is an insult to the intelligence of the American people."

It will probably still be another day before the full reports are received from any of the four states left in the doubtful column and certainly not until there has been an official count in New Hampshire and possibly Minnesota. As Mr. Hughes is leading in Minnesota and West Virginia and a change in these states could in no wise affect the result there may be no demand for extraordinary haste to bring about the recount demanded.

Virtually all the states where the recount is close are carried in the Hughes column and for that reason the Democrats profess not to be apprehensive that any overturning could come from a recount.

New York, Nov. 10.—With New Mexico, where President Wilson is leading, left in the doubtful column, the electoral college shows Wilson, 269; Hughes, 235. Doubtful 27. It is constituted as follows:

St. Paul, Nov. 9.—Three nights of unofficial canvassing have failed to take Minnesota from the doubtful column of the presidential race. Charles E. Hughes maintained a slight lead over President Wilson throughout the day, but the standing continued so close that politicians of both parties declared tonight that only the official count would settle the presidential contest.

When returns had been received from 2,940 precincts out of 3,024 in the state, Mr. Hughes had a plurality of 672, the count standing: Wilson 175,558, Hughes 176,230.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLORIDA

I appreciate the fact that Florida is the "Playground of the Americans," and I will be happy and content to continue its upbuilding. I am a broad minded man and not a fanatic, as has so often been charged in this heated campaign, and will work to upbuild, and not tear down, what is destined to be the greatest state in the Union.

You can say for me that I will appointe every Democratic nominee, whether he be for judicial or administrative office, without exception, and will work for harmony and peace. They will all have my cooperation, and I shall expect their cooperation in return.

I am very sorry that the state Democratic executive committee did not consider me a good Democrat, but if I am ever permitted I will show it—that I am just as loyal a Democrat as ever lived. In fact, I have always insisted that this was a family row. I have frowned upon, and would not tolerate, a negro vote coming in to settle a Democratic fuss.

You have honored me by your vote, and whether you be Catholic or Protestant, gambler or saint, rich or poor, you will receive fair and considerate treatment at my hands.

I have no enemies to punish, and the people will find that my policy will be a broad, liberal and just one. It would be ridiculous for any one to believe that I would even attempt to force religious views upon the body politic. I would rather have the people of the state to know at the beginning that my policy will be broad, philanthropic, and for the best interest of all concerned, and that no sumptuary or blue laws of New England will ever find a place in my administration.

People of Florida, now that the governorship has been decided by you it is best that we forget all differences and let the cordial spirit of cooperation permeate our great state. I shall meet all in the spirit of fairness, and as I shall meet you on that basis I shall expect to have the same treatment.

Roller Rink Opening Succeeds

C. J. Flynn of Orlando opened up his skating rink last Wednesday night and the patronage which was accorded him by the local people was excellent under the weather conditions which were very bad on the opening night. The spacious floor, 42 by 90 is well laid and the skaters find no trouble in having pleasure on this beautiful floor.

Mr. Flynn, who for years has been in the skating business and who has also made a study of what the people want says that he always found it necessary to cater to the best people, as the rules of the rink which he has placed in his business must be obeyed.

Mrs. Flynn will have charge of the ladies' session which will be held on Thursday mornings and the ladies are particularly wanted to bring their skates, or skates can be secured at the rink at a nominal sum of fifteen cents.

The sessions in the mornings commence at 9 a. m. to 11.30. In the afternoons at 2.30 to 5 p. m., and in the evenings from 7 to 10.

The management of the rink is contemplating giving parties and entertainments during the winter season and from present indications the success of the rink is assured.

Another particular point which Mr. and Mrs. Flynn will devote special time to is the children who come to skate, and in the afternoons those who bring their skates along are admitted free and every afternoon there will be no admission except for the use of skates only.

Twelve Great Serials in 1917

Some of these are story groups like those inimitable stories of the old home done in Maine in which C. A. Stephens shows himself a master. There will be serials for girls, serials for boys, serials that hold the rapt attention of all reader of either sex and all ages. And the fiction is only a corner of The Companion. It is brimful and running over with all manner of good things. There's not a better $2.00 worth of periodical reading anywhere. Send for the Forecast for 1917, which discloses some of the delightful secrets of the new volume.

New subscribers for 1917 who send $2.00 now will receive all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1917 free; also The Companion Home Calendar for 1917.

"John" Various Pronounced. Those who laugh at the Swedes for pronouncing John as "Yon" may well look to their own English fatherland, where the name still survives with that pronunciation, and spelled "Jan." Ivan, the Russian name which is pronounced like the French Yvonne, is merely another way of saying the same thing.

SCHOOL APPORTIONMENT

One Mill Tax Given to Various Counties
Tallahassee, Fla., Nov. 9.—The semi annual apportionment of the one mill tax for school purposes has been made by W. N. Sheats, state superintendent, on the basis of $1.25 per pupil in average daily attendance. The table shown herewith gives the average daily attendance in the Florida public schools as 136,378. The amount of the apportionment was $184,243.42, against which was drawn $170,472.50 in accordance with the pro rata determined. Two counties, Jackson and Taylor are not included in the distribution of the state fund as the superintendent's offices in the two counties failed to file the report.

Hillsborough county leads in the average attendance with 11,785 school children, over a thousand more than Duval, which had 10,648. The amount turned back to Hillsborough county from the one mill tax is $14,731.25. The figures are for the state follow:

Amount apportioned		170,472.50
Balance not apportioned		$13,770.92

The receipts from the apportionment of the one mill tax for schools brings back to Hillsborough practically the amount paid out to the state on the one mill levy. In May of this year the first installment was received, of $7,218, which with the $14,731.25 now available makes $21,949.25, of the equivalent of one mill on $21,949,250. In 1915 the revenue from the apportionment was $6,955.20 in May and $13,533 in November, a total of $20,488.20, or one mill on $20,488,200. This approximates the one mill paid out by Hillsborough taxpayers.

TO SAVE BIRD SANCTUARY
Audubon Societies Working to Prevent Threatened Destruction of Reservation in Oregon.
The destruction of one of the largest, if not the largest, federal bird reservation in the United States is threatened, according to an announcement made by T. Gilbert Pearson of New York city, secretary of the National Association of Audubon societies. The reservation, threatened is at Lake Malheur, in southeastern Oregon, and is a breeding place for hundreds of thousands of wild ducks, wild geese and other water fowl.
Application has been made to the federal authorities for permission to drain the lake in order to secure the land it covers. The lake is six miles wide by 15 miles long, and is about six feet deep. It supplies an ideal breeding place for wild water fowl, Mr. Pearson says, and, therefore, it attracts wild geese and ducks from Canada in large numbers. Its destruction, he declares, will leave thousands of young water fowl without a home.
Secretary Pearson has taken the matter up with the officials of the general land office, who have promised to investigate. It is understood that those who plan the destruction of the bird reservation have already secured the co-operation of the state land board of Oregon. For that reason, Mr. Pearson regards the situation as imminent and believes it will require quick and earnest appeals to the secretary of the interior from those who believe in the protection of wild birds, to prevent the destruction of the colony.
"There are about five million guns in the United States," said Mr. Pearson, "and the only way to preserve our migratory game birds is to have these sanctuaries—areas in which they can never be killed, under any circumstances."

Crops.
In Quebec the chief crop is hay. The area devoted to its cultivation in 1915 was estimated to be about 3,000,000 acres, and much of it was exported at high prices. About 1,400,000 acres were sown to oats, and the crop was an excellent one, both as to quantity and quality, high prices being realized for the estimated yield of about 44,000,000 bushels harvested. Little barley is raised in Quebec, but the area of about 85,000 acres produced in the neighborhood of 312,000 bushels and brought good prices. The wheat grown in the province is all of the spring wheat variety. The total crop in 1915 was estimated at 1,447,000 bushels, an increase of nearly 500,000 bushels over 1914.

Open-Air Schools.
The first open-air school was opened in 1907. In 1910 there were but 13 such schools. Now it is estimated that there are more than 200 open-air classes for tuberculous and anemic children. Massachusetts has 86 of these, New York 29, Ohio 21.
It has been said that in all cities there should be an open-air school for every 25,000 of the population.

New Arrival Among Coats

A new arrival among coats forecasts no radical change in the styles which are expected to prevail with the coming of fall. Except for a little additional length it might be classed as a model designed for spring. It envelops the figure as completely, with a collar high enough to more than cover the neck, ample width and a length of skirt that is only six inches shorter than the dress worn under it. There are big patch pockets and a rather narrow belt that extends only across the front of the coat. The coats of spring fastened at the waistline however, while this one extends its line of buttons half way or more down the front.

ably smaller than those on coats of the current season, and the raglan sleeves promise a continuance of the vogue for them which has been so useful to designers. It has helped them in getting the required flare, in making variety in models, and assures easy adjustment in the garment. The coat pictured is of a kind that will prove useful to the motorist and serve for almost any wear. If one must choose at this between-seasons time it is a model worth copying. In fact such a coat may be relied upon for several seasons' wear without appearing old-fashioned. The materials used in it are lasting and the style selected for good stuffs should be conservative enough to last as long as they do.

"But, Santy, there are limits." Babette pushed back her white sunbonnet belligerently. Down on her knees, she was diligently weeding out the sweet pea rows. Her hands were soiled and unseemly looking, her face was flushed and freckled, and altogether she looked absolutely unrepresentable, as her mother would have said.

"It isn't everyone who has such a lovely mother. Can't you appreciate that?" asked Santangelo, amusedly. He leaned over the fence from his side of the garden, a large flexible Panama shading his dark, strongly-lined face. "How old are you, Babette—fourteen?"

"No, I'm sixteen, going on seventeen. And I'll never have the ghost of a chance, Santy. She takes every last fellow away from me that comes to this house."

"You mean your youthful companions admire your mother more than your own self?" Santangelo's eyes were brimming with enjoyment of her indignation. "You know the remedy for that—marry her off."

Then a gray and silver car slipped into the curving drive around the house and Babette jumped up.

"There she is now. And Doctor Romley with her. He's an explorer; Santy, with medals all over him and scads of money."

He watched the slim figure in the linen skirt and middy speed away to the car. His eyes glowed, watching her alight, the lady mother, as Babette loved to call her. She was hardly older than thirty-four, slender and beautiful as an artist mind counts beauty. Santangelo had painted her portrait twice and yet he felt unsatisfied. He had never caught the infinite, tender charm of her after all. It eluded him even as she herself always had in the years of her long widowhood.

And now her child Babette was frowning into womanhood. And the time was drawing near the limit that he had imposed upon himself when he would ask her mother again for her love.

The shadows were beginning to fall along the far horizon line of the sea when he heard Nathalie call him at the little opening between the two gardens.

American paintings at Philadelphia finds itself being talked about. The painting represents Columbus' career the night before the big find. There is a full moon just above the horizon, while the reflection of the setting sun is seen on the ship's sails. A critic opened a controversy, and Dr. Eric Doolittle, professor of astronomy at the University of Philadelphia, settled it. The critic said he didn't think there was a full moon that night. Doctor Doolittle, consulting his charts, proved there wasn't.—Philadelphia North American.

Effects of Baking Powders on Bread. That modern methods of milling remove from wheat and corn flour the vitamins that are now believed to be an essential to health is made certain by Drs. Carl Voegtlin, M. X. Sullivan and C. V. Myers in a recently issued public health report. Another point of importance in their report is that the peculiarities of dough made from these highly milled flours make necessary the use of much baking powder. Plain bicarbonate of soda is often used as such, but the experiments conducted by the authors prove that in baking this separates, discharging carbon dioxide gas and remaining as carbonate in the bread. Now carbonate of soda is highly alkaline, and the alkali destroys the vitamins. If, however, buttermilk or tartaric acid be combined with the bicarbonate of soda, it neutralizes the alkali and protects the vitamins.

THE ETERNAL FEMINE

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

"Hello, hello! Yes, this is MILT. Oh!—Milton's tone breathed interest and surprise—"It's you, girlie?" Beth turned around and stared with wideopen eyes, listening. "Indeed, I will—right away. Not a bit of it. I'm awfully glad to help out. Goodby."

He hung up the receiver and wheeled about, looking not at Beth, but at the clock. "It's Mrs. Hewitt. Her husband's in Baltimore, and wired her to meet him, and the maid's gone, and there's no body to help her down with her suitcase. She wants me to run up to dinner and take her to the station afterward. You don't mind, of course, Beth?"

"Who is Mrs. Hewitt?" she asked frigidly. "Why, she's a girl I knew out in Denver, you know." "I don't know. How old is she and what does she look like?" "Now, Beth"—Milton looked a bit bored as if he hated to go into the subject, it was so trivial—"I think we agreed that real love is above jealousy. This is only common courtesy. I've known 'Girlie' Cooper—she used to be a Cooper—since I was a boy at school. She's about twenty-four, I guess—around there."

At eighteen twenty-four looks worldly wise and experienced. Beth pursed her lips. "I'll be back by nine," added Milton. Both looked at him with growing suspicion.

"Do you think you'll need a cushion as a tame cat?" she inquired wittily. "You needn't come back here, Milt. She could call a taxi and go down by herself. Of course, you can do just as you please, but you needn't come back here if you go carting suitcases around for old sweethearts."

"You know, Milt, you can't deceive me one bit." She leaned her adorable chin on her palm and looked up at him. "I've heard of 'Girlie' Cooper. Mrs. Daniels told me you were engaged to her and perfectly wild over her five years ago. I think it's terrible for the man you love to have memories of other girls."

She rose suddenly and left him standing there, expostulating. She really did need a lesson, Milton told himself severely. Utter lack of faith in him was too much to bear unchecked.

All this he told himself going up to Girlie's, all the way through dinner, all the way downtown. Girlie talked incessantly of Hobart, her husband, of his congressional ambitions, his tastes, his achievements. She was a little, appealing sort of woman, with big brown eyes and a wistful chin. Milton found himself comparing her mentally with Beth's beautiful clear-eyed buoyant girlishness.

"You know the real reason why I asked you to see me to the station, Milt," she said as they entered the taxi. "It's for Hebert's sake. I want you to see that his new bill is handled fairly by the papers. You will, won't you, Milt? I don't know myself just what it's about, but it must be a splendid measure or he'd never take it up. He's that type of man, you know, Milt. Just ask Miss Wharton."

"Beth?" asked Milton, alarmed, "what does she know about him?" "Why, didn't you know?" The big brown eyes met his in surprise. "She saved his life. We've been married a year, and it was before he met me. She was hardly more than a child, he told me, and they were all down at Pinehurst for the late winter season. I believe he was accidentally shot, and she found him as she was riding through the mountains and saved him."

"Was—was he in love with her?" asked Milt feebly. "Quite romantic, wasn't it?" "He was till he met me," Girlie answered complacently, "but he'll never desert her pictures. He's got forty snapshots of her, I do believe, taken that season. I hated her till I heard you were going to marry her."

The next morning, Beth met him, radiant and ready for their usual walk in the park. "I'm so sorry, dear," she said, "but you know you would go. I know women are perfect cats, and she only wanted to tell you about Hobart and me; so I tried to keep you from going. I refused him about ten times, Milt, and I'm not one bit jealous of her."

Milton stared thoughtfully at the spring vista ahead of them. And he had feared to wound her, had wanted to teach her a lesson.

"Why didn't you tell me you knew her?" he asked.

"I never even thought of him. Don't you know, Milt," her voice was strong with faith, "when the real big love comes into your life it seems to just sweep away everything else. Besides, I didn't want you to know I was—er—lobbying. Isn't that what you call it? The woman's club I belong to is behind a bill, something about fountains at street corners, and we wanted him to present it, so I wrote to him about it and it comes up tomorrow. Aren't you mad, dear? If you only could get something into the papers about it, I'd love you for it, Milt."

Milton gloomed at the landscape, realizing for the first time in his life the underlying power of the eternal feminine.

"I'll try," he promised. (Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In the Good Old Days. How thankful we should be to every discoverer for every "discovery," for, were it not for discoveries, we might be doing the same kind of day's work as I describe in this record from the diary of one Abigail Foot of a certain Connecticut town. I lately had access to the diary and this describes one day's work in 1775: "Fixed gown for mother; mended Mary's riding hood; spun short thread; fixed two gowns for William's girls; carded tow; spun linen; worked on cheese basket; hatched flax with Hannah, together so did fifty-one pounds; plaited and ironed father's stock; read a sermon of Doddridge's; milked three cows; spun linen, did fifty knots; made a broom of guinea wheat straw; bleached thread and set a red dye; carded two pounds of wool; dipped candles, and scoured the pewter!"—Good Housekeeping.

Red-Necktie Problem. New York, with its well-known provincialism, is in the throes of a controversy that threatens to become as bitter as the conflict between the preparedness advocates and the peace-at-any-price adherents. And the cause of it is the last thing in the world you would guess—the red necktie "to be or not to be," to quote the bard whose memory is now being honored. There are anti-red clubs, black-silk-knitted tie clubs, red-at-any-cost clubs, and various other organizations based on what their members believe is the correct thing in ties. A colonel who served in the Civil war under Custer has come out as a strong advocate of the red, flaming tie, as that's what Custer wore with "his old union suit" both in the Civil and the Indian wars. As the fight waxes the haberdashers stocked up with the red neck circle get sadder and sadder. The point certainly is a small one to stir up a city.

$10,000 Echo to Dog's Bark. That the bark of a dog may have a $10,000 echo was indicated in the supreme court of Brooklyn, when Richard Schoeneweg applied successfully for permission to amend the complaint in his suit against Henry Johnson, a neighbor, who had him arrested six years ago in an effort to put a silencer on the dog. In December, 1910, Schoeneweg was acquitted and brought suit for $10,000 damages. When the suit first came up Johnson, an English instructor in the boys' high school, said the board of health had advised the arrest and moved for dismissal on the ground that the complaint did not state whether the action was for false arrest or malicious prosecution. The purpose of the new motion is to amend the complaint to specify malicious prosecution.

WILSON--THAL'S ALL

President Woodrow Wilson.

OUR PRESIDENT

Sometimes the voters can be depended upon to do the right thing at the right time and this is one of them. The whole country can fall upon their knees this morning and thank God that Woodrow Wilson has been re-elected President of the United States.

The people of America can celebrate a most glorious Thanksgiving this year. They can rest in security while the countries of Europe are in the trenches. They can rest assured that Wilson will be firmer in his demands now that he is re-elected but he will never plunge this country into war for fancied insult to fancied honor. The greatest victory for the people of the United States has been won and having been won by the votes of the people against Wall street the people will have the whip hand under Wilson and not Wall street. We are getting into the safe and sane column for the first time in the past twenty years and Wilson is not only a good Democrat but he is a friend of the people, regardless of politics.

SPECULATION IN LAND

There are a great many young men who would like to go into farming on their own account. But they are deterred by the high cost of land. Real estate offered low usually has some defect. Commonly it lacks access by good roads. Or it may need much hard work and expense to prepare the soil.

A recent government report speaks of the large amount of potentially good land lying idle in many states. It says that much of it is being held speculatively for higher values. It is certainly unfortunate that with food scarce and high, would be land owners cannot get well located farms with good soil at moderate prices.

The old phrase about being "land poor" applies to many people. A persuasive agent induces them to buy at a good price a tract which he promises will advance in value. It is often in some distant city or state which the buyer never visited. He pays taxes year after year, often other charges. A decade later he finds the land is worth no more than he paid for it. He is out his expenses and the interest the money would have drawn in a bank. Meanwhile by placing a fancied value on it, he has discouraged people who would have paid a fair price and made it productive as a farm or for dwellings. High prices for land tend to make rentals high, to discourage housebuilding and farm investment. Conservative business men deplore land speculation. It does enrich a small class of shrewd men who see possibilities early. But others find their money lies idle. Any land owner has a perfect right to hold his property for any figure he may set. But holding it for an abnormal price works against general prosperity. Every time a man sells land for a fair value to some one who will use it for agriculture or for house construction, he helps on the productive forces of the community.—Reporter-Star.

THE GOVERNOR'S RACE

Florida has just passed through one of the most spectacular battles in her history. Since last June when the question of the primary nominations for governor resulted in a recount of the second choice votes until last Tuesday when the matter was settled at the polls the state has been in an uproar and business has almost been suspended while the disciples of Knott and Catts have ranted and roared through Florida making charges and counter charges and the Democratic party has been rent in twain, the real issues of Democracy forgotten, platforms burned and discarded while the question of a man's religion was cursed and discussed by men who knew nothing of real religion. The Herald before the primaries discussed the governor's race and picked F. M. Hudson for governor and we still believe he is the proper man for the position and our only regret is that so few of the thinking people of Florida failed to vote for him. After his defeat and he was slaughtered by the politicians and pseudo prohibitionists and ringsters this paper had but little interest in the fight. When the head of the Democratic party, the state executive committee, the canvassing board and all other authorities proclaimed W. V. Knott the nominee The Herald stuck by the ship and we have no apology to offer for that stand. We gave the views of others, gave our own and, without any meddling and vituperation supported W. V. Knott and now that he is defeated we do not intend to throw up our hat and shout we told you so, or attempt to tell just how it happened. We are tired of the whole affair and we are satisfied that our readers are tired of it. The chapter is closed as far as we are concerned and we ask for no favors either from the defeated or the winning candidates. Governor elect Catts has made a campaign on an anti-Catholic platform. The editor of the Herald is a member of the Presbyterian church and has no connection with any Catholic institution and yet we have persisted in our contention that religion has no place in politics. For the reason that the mixture has stirred the state and fomented disruption in the party, turned brother against brother and father against son we are not inclined to look with favor upon such a campaign or to pat the successful one on the back. It is all over now and our hope and prayer is that S. J. Catts will make Florida a good governor for the sake and peace of our state. Florida is on the eve of a wonderful development and this development should not be retarded in any manner whatsoever. We should all settle down to real business and forget that any political strife ever existed. We should all work together toward a common end and that end be Florida, one and undivided. The future political horizon at this time does not concern us and we will not attempt to cross any bridges before they are in sight. Political sores heal quickly and the future of the state rests upon the men who handle the reins of government. There is no reason to doubt that any more political upheavals or earthquakes will disturb our peace and prosperity for the next two years at least and if Woodrow Wilson is elected President we can all rejoice and forget the differences in our own state.

MAY RECOUNT VOTE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—With two precincts missing, the count in New Hampshire at noon gave Wilson a lead of 121. This was based on certified returns to the secretary to state from 238 precincts and press returns from 54.

The vote was—Wilson, 43,842; Hughes, 43,721. Secretary of State Bean corrected his earlier statement in which he said that the state was complete. The two towns unreported cast a very small vote.

Discovery of an error in official reports was a factor in reversing the leads which Hughes had last night, he said. Mr. Bean said returns from 120 of the 274 towns and wards still to be verified might still further change the results.

Official figures from 77 of these missing districts have been received but not tabulated. Secretary Bean in announcing the difference of 93 in favor of Wilson gave no total figures. The totals upon which his preliminary statement was based had been reached, he explained, by adding to the verified returns newspaper figures from the districts not heard from officially.

"We found several errors," said Secretary Bean. "One clerk in Ward 8, Concord, reported the vote as Hughes, 225; Wilson, 88. Our knowledge of local conditions made us doubt this result. Investigation showed it should have been Wilson, 225; Hughes, 88. We are scanning the returns very closely, realizing that the slightest error may change the result not only in the state but the nation."

The returns are being delivered to the secretary of state by special delivery mail on the official blanks. The Democratic state committee, when Hughes was reported to be leading last night was said to have decided to petition for a recount of the vote.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Returns at 1 o'clock showed 213 Democrats and 201 Republicans elected; with sixteen districts not yet accounted for. Seven of these districts are Democratic in the present race and nine are Republican. Should each keep to its present political affiliation the count would stand—Democrats, 215; Republicans, 212; which would give the Democrats a majority of three over the 212 Republicans and four representatives of other parties in the house. There are two progressives, one independent and one socialist in the four. Democrats are assured of the majority of the next national senate.

COUNTY VOTE TABULATED GIVES RESULT

LIGHT VOTE POLLED IN THE CITY PRECINCTS—NO EXCITEMENT

The election in Seminole county was a surprise to several as Catts supporters had claimed it for Catts by 300 and Knott people had claimed by 100 and it flopped around and finally landed on the Catts side by 72. Allen ran strong at Oviedo and the other Republican nominees received complimentary votes with the exception of J. M. Cheney, candidate for Supreme Judge who pulled more votes than his fellow Republicans on account of fight on Judge Taylor of the Supreme bench.

Election day was very quiet in Sanford and the full vote was not polled here much to the surprise of the many adherents of the candidates. There was no excitement except in the race for governor and a few primary Democrats who were anxious to vote for Republicans. The mixing of the presidential elector on the ticket was confusing and many a good Democrat found out to his sorrow that he had unintentionally voted for a Republican elector and vice versa. Following is the tabulated vote of Seminole county:

Guard Kills Convict
Cyrus Smith, a guard of the county convicts shot and killed a negro man named Collins yesterday at ten o'clock on the east side of Beardall avenue. The convict gang were working on the roadway and Collins had been ugly for several days according to eye witnesses of the affair. He advanced upon the guard with a heavy shovel and with the intent of doing him bodily injury and when the guard warned him to stop he continued to curse him and as he came close the guard fired, killing the negro instantly. A coroner's jury empaneled yesterday afternoon and, hearing the evidence brought in a verdict of self-defense. 24-1t

Cooked Food Sale and Shower at Rest Room

Club members are reminded of the "shower" and cooked food sale at the Rest Room on Saturday afternoon. Call and inspect the cozy room that has been provided for the use of the public. It is hoped there will be many useful articles given upon this occasion that will be appreciated by the committee in charge.

Chicago, Ill.—At the board meeting held in Chicago, Sept. 23rd, 1916, by resolution the General Federation re-designated the General Federation Magazine as its official organ, and further, requested all officers, department chairmen, as well as other members to give to the magazine their support and co-operation. (signed) Lucretia L. Blenkenburg, Chairman Publicity Comm.

The New Editor's Manifesto
To the Readers of the General Federation Magazine—

It is held by some of the readers of this magazine that club women do wish to have a club magazine. It is due to the women who have this idea that I have consented to accept the editorship. You will forgive me if I speak in a personal way, and say that the work as far as I am concerned is a labor of love. I have taken it up in the same way in which women accept club presidencies, knowing that a club is a child to be carried near to the heart, and loved and loved and then loved some more. I believe that club women may draw nearer together with a medium of communication than without one, and that their work and their interests may receive impetus through inspiring interchange of constructive messages. If I had not this idea should not attempt the work. I am laying down a club presidency that has taken the most of my time for the past four years; the same heart interest which I put into that work, I shall put into this wider service, as a part of the great system of club life. Therefore, in joining the long list of those workers in the sun who are on love's payroll, I shall be glad to feel that every club woman is a contributing editor, and that we are all making the magazine together.

Haryot Holt Dey,
Past President of the Woman's Press Club of New York City.

Literature Department
The Literature Department convened Wednesday, Nov. 8th in the club rooms with an attendance of sixteen, Mrs. L. R. Phillips presiding. Mrs. A. D. Kelly gave members a review on the map of South America.

Having had the "Flora and Fauna" last week the next step of progression in study of South America was the Aborigines. As in days of yore we were want to begin our stories with the phrase "Once upon a time," so begins the history of the earliest inhabitants of South America. During the progressive stages of human culture are the savage, the barbarian and the really civilized man. We see that he whom we consider a savage would regard a barbarian civilized and we may presume that the men of a thousand years hence will look upon our present condition as barbarous.

"The Empire of the Incas" was an entertaining paper read by Mrs. G. B. Dickinson, citing history from the first Inca who was Manco. The wonderful architecture, interesting beliefs of these early people, their mode of living, their government, so called, too was even peaceful. The literature which was kept in those days was but documents on knotted strings, which they called "quipas." These served as aids to memory. The quipa consisted of a thick cord with thinner cords tied on it at certain distances in which knots are tied. Cords were of various colors, each having their own meanings. As red for soldiers, yellow for gold and white for silver.

"The Prehistoric Remains" was delightfully told by Mrs. J. N. Whittier who also showed pictures and described them.

Mrs. Blackman, state chairman of literature program was a visitor of the afternoon who spoke of Sanford Literary Society as mother of all others in way of good papers and interesting programs so well perfected. Mrs. Dickinson's paper is the second one from Sanford to be selected as reference for all other literature societies of the state in their study of South America.

For Piano Fund

One of the series of the delightful silver teas that are being given in the interest of the Music Department piano fund was given on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Woodruff, with Mr. Scoggin and Mrs. Woodruff joint hostesses. Although the weather was so inclement there was a good attendance, and several charming music selections contributed greatly to the pleasure of the guests. Mrs. Claude Herndon sang a beautiful solo, "Only Waiting" (Frances Mason Maeo), in which her sweet voice was heard to advantage. A group of songs much enjoyed was rendered by Mrs. James Taylor, including "The Rose" and "The Nightingale" (Hawley), "Mistress Mary Quite Contrary" (Jessie Gaynor); Mrs. Albert Phillips' charming numbers were "Rose of My Heart" (Hermann Lohr) and Erwin Berlin's lovely little song "When I Leave This World Behind." The occasion was marked by a delightful informality and agreeable sociability.

IMPLICATED IN BANK ROBBERY

Business Man of Punta Gorda Commits Suicide

Punta Gorda, Nov. 7.—Following his arrest on a warrant charging him with complicity in the robbery of the Bank of Homestead at Homestead, in September, R. C. Addison, agent here for the Gulf Refining Company committed suicide here this afternoon, by shooting himself through the head. It was at 3 o'clock that Deputy Sheriff Carlton had served the warrant on Addison at the door of the latter's office. Addison asked to be allowed to straighten up some papers on his desk, which request was granted, he shot himself as he stood by his desk.

Addison, familiarly known here as "Tish," has been burdened recently with charges of having burned the fish houses on the railroad rock here several months ago. It is not believed here that Addison had anything to do with the robbery, as he, as well as his brother, Locke Addison, also arrested here today on similar charges, were here at the time of the crime.

The deceased leaves a wife and one son, a youngster of ten years. The warrant charges that the two

Addison hired Frank Rice and his associates to rob the bank.

The death of Addison makes the sixth in the case following the robbery of the bank early in September by Frank and Leland Rice, Hugh Alderman and Jim Tucker. The bandits got only $4,300, according to a statement made by Alderman after his arrest.

Charlie Williams and two Henderson brothers, members of the posse following the bandits through the Everglades were the first victims of the affair, both being shot by the posse. Jim Tucker was drowned and Leland Rice was killed at the end of the chase when he, Alderman and Frank Rice were wounded up in Choekoloskee Island by authorities of Lee county. Frank Rice was badly injured but is said to be improving now. Hugh Alderman, caught several days after this last clash, made a complete confession to Sheriff Dan Hardie upon their arrival in Miami. It was said at the time that he implicated others but nothing was done until yesterday, when it is supposed the authorities in arresting the two Addisons at Punta Gorda, acted on the information furnished by Alderman.

Russells Well Received at Lyric

The Russells lived up to their reputation as leaders in the art of Harmony Singing when on Tuesday night they opened up the Lyric and took the large audience by storm. This team of singers besides having powerful and well trained voices possess a personality that extends right into the audience. The Russells will sing songs each night and Mr. Lane the manager made no mistake when he secured them for his theatre. Those who have not heard them as yet better avail themselves of the opportunity because their engagement is limited.

Weights in Germany

Germany uses the metric system of weights and measures, but with German names. The system of weights may best be compared with ours by noting that one kilogram, which equals 1,000 grams, is equal to 2.2046 pounds.

Easy to See Resemblance

"Ki-tu-hou" is said to be monkey language for "retreat" which may be true, though, as a matter of fact, the words, in sharp staccato, sound remarkably like a dog, decorated with the order of the can and voicing discomfiture as the scene of action recedes rapidly into the distance.

SPECIAL NOTICE

TO AUTO OWNERS

You can get double the mileage out of your tires at a comparative small cost, if you will have them retreaded as soon as the tread is worn to the fabric, or as soon as the fabric begins to show. The brick roads grind off the tread before the walls of the tire are damaged and a new tread will make the tire practically as good as new. Have all cuts and punctures in tires repaired as soon as possible, thereby preventing moisture entering tire and decaying the fabric, thus saving Blow-Out and serious damage to tire and tube later on. We have special facilities for repairing tires and tubes. Send your work to us or phone. All work guaranteed and tires and tubes insured against loss from fire while on hand.

"Son, Buckeyes Was Good Citrus Trees Since You Was a Li'l Boy"

For more than the third of a century Buckeye trees have been improving in quality yearly. Extensive experiments, almost daily field inspections—part of our ceaseless search for betterment—have produced the sturdy, generous-bearing citrus stock that has made our trees the standard throughout citrus Florida.

Time is not for sale. Nature progresses leisurely. The accumulated robust health and fruitfulness of 36 years cannot be Aladdin's-lamp'd into new-sprung stock. Says a Buckeye customer: "The several hundred trees of three-year-old stock that I purchased from you three years ago are the finest trees for their age I ever saw. They are now carrying a box or more to the tree."

You would naturally expect to pay more for Gillett-grown Buckeye trees, but you may be astonished at how small the difference is—how utterly insignificant when compared with the stronger, better-developed trees that Buckeye stock invariably produces.

As a present or prospective grove owner, you should know the whole story of Buckeye trees. Send for our free catalog today.

Book Circle Meets

The following novel little tale of who is a clever production from the versatile pen of Mrs. Henry Wight that will be much enjoyed and appreciated by her friends in general and the club women of Sanford in particular.

Guests of the Circle were Mrs. R. J. Holly; Mrs. Puleston, Mrs. B. F. Whitner, Sr., Mrs. Hawkins of Washington, D. C., Mrs. S. E. Barrett and Mrs. H. B. Connelly.

The other day I tried to dye some Dingee old clothes belonging to my husband, thinking that if I were successful I could make him look like a Newman without buying others from the Taylor.

"A-Hoye there!" I shouted, running down the steps, just as he whipped up his ox. I gave Chase down the alley, past Barnes, back doors and Garages, and at the end of the Lane, I am sure I could have caught him, had I not been intercepted by a certain young matron of this town, who stood. Holden her parasol over her head, and making frantic attempts to tell me something.

I Tolar impatiently, "Don't Bothamly! I am in a hurry! Let me pass!" As she paid not a bit of attention, and continued to Bower head and make signs of distress, I shoved her to one side, and went on calling to her Brotherson who was waiting for her.

On I flew after that extraordinary ox, and I had almost overtaken him when, what do I see, but Mrs. Dickenson hopping off a motorcycle directly in the middle of my path.

"Mother says you are a very Black Householder," says he, "for she has looked and while it may be on its at'ing, it certainly is not on the hook where you are supposed to keep it."

I would have taken all sorts of bets that it was there, but though I was mad as the Dickens, I knew it was more folly to Foster a fuss with a boy, so being so much his Elder, I ended the matter by handing him a Nickel to admit him to the movies, and promising to have a new Key made at once.

Of course, since I had failed to overtake the Carter, I could not fresh Fish for dinner, and we had to make out with Polk and Herring. I had some Fox grapes that I had found on a vine climbing in a Holly tree, from these I made a nice sauce, and for dessert I made a set of small cups of orange Rines, filling them with a Berry gelatine made from fruit. I had gathered from the Field out on the Hill. Some of them had a good deal of Dutton, but I washed them carefully and they were delightful.

Now, friends, I Neal to Hand you this tale of whoa, "Ta poor one I know, and I rue it, But if it makes fun, my duty is Dunn, And I do hope you'll be able to en-Jewett.

Shower for Bride-Elect

Unusually novel and attractive was the miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Saidee Williams on Tuesday afternoon by the Daughters of Wesley at the home of Miss Bessie Zachary. The beautiful home which is so suitably adapted for large social functions was charmingly adorned with ferns and goldenrods dining hall and den. Guests were received by Mrs. J. D. Roberts, class teacher; Mrs. T. D. Hayes, president of the class and Miss Bessie Zachary, the hostess.

While Mrs. Calude Herndon played the Wedding March the journey began. At the beginning of the road was the sign "Tis a long, long way to matrimony" and just beyond was another with the inscription "Abandon hope all ye who enter here."

The first turn in the road was marked by a sign bearing the words "22 Days Journey Ahead." A few miles further ahead the traveler was confronted with this, "Don't Give Up The Ship." Merry peals of laughter greeted the reading of the signs, by the guest in whose honor the road was built, but the journey was not yet ended for another bend in the road revealed the good advice "Go Slow and Don't Stumble," while at the last milestone appeared a sign, "You Can't Turn Back Now" and then the journey ended, for behind the chair, the sign post pointed to "Your journey is done, the goal is won and may your next road be paved with fun."

A delicious salad course was served at the refreshment hour. In the late afternoon there was a regular New York subway rush to catch the departing matrimonial special, which included in its passengers even a charming widow who vainly protested that she didn't want to go, but friends dragged her along any way.

It was one of the most unique and attractive pre-nuptial entertainments given in Sanford.

Morning Party for Brides Mrs. William Charles Hill was the guest of honor at a very charming sewing party on Wednesday morning, given by Mrs. S. Puleston. A delightful informality prevailed, many of the guests assisting the young bride in the preparation of household linen for the new home. Invited to meet Mrs. Hill were Mrs.

Newman, Mrs. A. E. Hill, Mrs. B. W. Herndon, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, Mrs. Eugene Roumillat, Mrs. Archib Detts, Mrs. Hal Wight, Mrs. Henry Wight, Mrs. W. L. Morgan, Mrs. W. L. Watson, Mrs. Geo. Bishop and Misses Saidee Williams, Ruth Mettinger, Margaret Wight, Gretchen and Olga Schultz and Charlotte Hand.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Biggers announce the birth of a daughter Tuesday, November 7. The little lady weighs eleven pounds.

The Make-Up Man

The second number of the Lyceum Course will be presented at the Baptist Temple next Wednesday, Nov. 15th, when Roy Bendall, make-up man and entertainer will appear. Mr. Bendall is a unique personality and an artist in his profession. His program sparkles with humor and yet is filled with choicest literary thought and expression.

St. Agnes Guild

The regular meeting of St. Agnes Guild on Monday afternoon with Miss Charlotte Hand was in the nature of a social affair in honor of Miss Saidee Williams, a member of the Guild who will be married this month. After enjoying a social hour with needlework the young people were invited into the dining room where a dainty luncheon salad course was served at the table which was prettily decorated in honor of the occasion.

Woodburn-Brown

The many friends of Miss May Belle Woodburn will be cordially interested in her marriage to Mr. William Brown which took place Tuesday evening, Nov. 7th, at the Presbyterian Manse, Rev. E. D. Brownlee officiating. Miss Esther Woodburn and Miss Versa Woodcock witnessed the ceremony.

The bride wore for the wedding a modish coat suit of leather colored wool poplin with blouse of white crepe de chine. A white hat, white shoes and gloves completed the pretty costume.

Mrs. Brown is the eldest daughter of Mrs. A. T. Woodburn. She is a charming young girl, possessing a sweet disposition that has endeared her to a large circle of friends.

The groom is an employee of the Atlantic Coast Line.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Sanford and are at home at 306 Elm avenue.

Birthday Party

Miss Frances Leavitt entertained with a charming birthday party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Leavitt on Monday evening.

Green and old rose formed a lovely color scheme which combined with quantities of garden flower gave an unusual charm to the attractive rooms. The porch was lovely with pink and green lanterns, ferns and potted plants, one corner of which was screened and transformed into a tastefully arranged cozy corner with greenery, lanterns and rustic seats. Here delicious fruit punch was served throughout the evening by Mrs. Leavitt.

In the hall and parlor, white star jessamine vine in full flower and cut flowers were prettily arranged. In the dining room where refreshments were served by Mrs. Nellie Leavitt Terwilliger and Mrs. O. P. Herndon, the decorations were especially pretty. A tall, long handled basket centered the table filled with lovely roses and ferns. From the ceiling, over the table drooped garlands of bright flowers enlivened with vines, and windows and doors were trimmed with the same lovely combination. The big white birthday cake rested upon the table. Partners for refreshments were secured by matching flowers, roses, daisies, chrysanthemums and other varieties. Music and games marked the passing of the happy hours. Mrs. Terwilliger rendered several charming vocal selections, accompanied on the piano by Dr. Oliver J. Miller, Mrs. J. N.
