

Korean War Makes U. S. Businessmen Take Second Look

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Businessmen took a second look today at the Korean war and wondered:

1. Whether commodities would hold over the long-run, the price mark-ups accompanying the war scare.

2. Whether a fresh spurt in U. S. government spending is in store—desires for foreign aid for stockpiling—with the inflationary boost for business which such spending carries with it.

3. And whether such a step-up in spending will also mean an offsetting boost in taxes.

The accent in the business world is still on the "if" in the situation. If the war jumps beyond the borders of Korea, few business plans would be on a firm basis. If the war simmers down, many businessmen feel that its effects would be a mild stimulant in some lines, with the main impetus for the American economy still the high rate of American national income and consumer spending.

Trying to look beyond the gyrations of the next few days in the futures markets, foreign buyers sought to appraise the long-term trend in commodity prices.

War nerves sent rubber and tin soaring price-wise when the Red moved south in Korea. Pepper also took an upward jump. These three commodities come largely from southeast Asia, directly in the path of any hot war.

But observers note offsetting conditions. The United States has a stockpile of secret proportions of both rubber and tin. In the last year the government developed a sizable synthetic rubber industry here, and brought much tin from Bolivia.

Businessmen, both here and in Europe, apparently rushed Monday to order rubber and tin against any possible shortage due to the war scare. But a shooting war wouldn't threaten as complete a strangulation of these essentials, as the Japs achieved last time.

Grains and meats also advanced to the war scare market. But hanging over traders' heads are

Inside WASHINGTON

MARCH OF EVENTS

See Franco-Russ Polover | Kremlin Dodges Publicity Over Release of Prisoners

WASHINGTON—Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco may be the arch-foe of Soviet Russia but diplomatic sources in Washington have it that he's doing business with the Kremlin, anyway. Although Spain has no formal relations with Moscow, Russian and Spanish envoys to Egypt are now dickering in Cairo for the release of 500 soldiers of the Spanish Blue Division, taken prisoner while fighting with the Germans on Russian soil.

The Spanish unit, under German command, never fought against the Western Allies in World War II, but it was a token of Franco's appreciation for Hitler's aid in the Spanish Civil war.

According to Washington sources and the clandestine Spanish Republican radio, Russia has agreed to the repatriation of the Spaniards provided Madrid gives no publicity to the deal.

However, Russia won't gain much in the East-West propaganda war. The men have been in Red concentration camps for more than five years—for no apparent reason.

Gen. Francisco Franco

● CZECH REVOLT—Confidential reports seeping from Czechoslovakia reveal that the Communist-ruled nation is seething under Soviet rule and Russia has its hands full trying to keep the Czechs under control.

Two reports, relayed to exile leaders in London, disclose that the Communist authorities used strong-arm police methods to keep down demonstrations by freedom-loving Czechs and that Russian forces are active on the Czech border.

One report says the Red police arrested 3,518 persons in 11 towns where May Day celebrations were to be held. Those arrested were suspected of planning "interference" with the celebrations.

● LINE'S CROSSED—Political lines have twisted in an unusual way over the issue of admitting Hawaii as a state. The Democrats are pushing the admission, though they admit that if Hawaii becomes a state it is likely to send two Republicans to bolster GOP forces in the Senate.

Despite the fact that his party stands to benefit through the added Senate representation, Senator Hugh Butler (R, Nebraska), is leading the fight against admission.

● TAX PROSPECTS—If a tax bill is passed by Congress this year, it will be one written by the Senate finance committee according to specifications agreed upon by President Truman.

Chances are better than even that this will happen. Otherwise, the Truman administration must admit that Democratic majorities in the House and Senate have been unable to legislate on taxes.

Many observers see the tax picture changing up along these lines: The Senate finance committee will write and Congress will pass a bill cutting excise taxes around 200 million dollars a year and containing loophole-closing and other provisions estimated to yield about that much new revenue.

The excise tax cuts will be limited to "business depressants" that is, taxes on commodities, fares, jewelry, baggage, transportation, telegraph and long-distance telephone messages, perhaps a few others.

● FORRESTAL DIARY—Parts of that fabulous, top-secret diary of late Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal probably will be kept locked up by President Truman for a long time to come, despite its purported disclosure of the 200 million dollar scandal.

The importance of the diary is not in its content, but in the fact that it was written in a place where it was not supposed to be written. Mrs. Forrestal sent the diary to Mr. Truman shortly after President Truman's death and the President put it under lock and key.

The diary, it is reported, contains information about the 200 million dollar scandal and other matters of interest.

For that reason, look for Mr. Truman to order the diary locked up, although he permitted the Justice department to reveal excerpts relating to the American economy.

Large government holdings of surplus grain. And while the wheat crop will be smaller than last year, more than two-thirds of whom are string instrumentalists—violinists, cellists, viola and bass players.

To fill in brass, woodwind and percussion sections is a simple matter—a few auditions and the seats is filled.

● Example of Shortage
But Max Aronoff, founder of the New School of Music and himself one of the foremost violin players, cited the predicament of the director in a city which supports a major symphony orchestra.

The director wanted one violinist, the kind of violinist in the area from whom to choose. But not a single man could be found whom the director felt qualified to fill the post.

Conductor Daniel Mitropoulos sighed after a similar experience: "I had to take the less worse of all of them who didn't even know how to play their instruments."

Aronoff said part of the trouble begins with the aspiring musician. If he chooses a string instrument and sets out with eyes on the concert stage as a goal, only a handful make the grade.

But more often, Aronoff says, the student actually used to play in a symphony orchestra in his youth. He would only to be his these were important qualities.

● Autos
The auto buying spree could be traced to the cold war which made people uncertain as to how long care might be available. A war scare could send the demand for autos even higher.

Whether consumers will sit it out for awhile, waiting to see what is in store, or whether they will increase the buying of autos they fear might become scarce, may have a lot to do with business trends in the weeks ahead.

300 Japanese Students In U. S. Give Their Views Of Campus Life

NEW YORK, (AP)—Some 300 Japanese students in the United States were asked what they thought of American campus life. Fine, they said. They like the universities, they like the teachers, they like the buildings and the social freedom between professor and student. Only one thing bothers them: sex.

One Japanese student complained that a "strong fragrance of sex" filled the campus.

"Too much kissing and hugging in public," said another. "Their (American students) main conversation is only love affairs."

Sex is very clear in this country, still another protested.

Others were upset by "petting" and "studying whose courships are not pleasant in fact."

However, a small all-male minority of the Japanese students were enough impressed to be willing to give American sex standards a cautious try. Asked how they would like to live together with girls and select their wives by themselves.

The poll was taken at 163 different American schools and universities in 37 states by the Japan International Christian University Foundation, Inc. This is a group devoted to raising funds for a new university here.

They were particularly impressed with our professors. One girl recalled her teachers at home "who stand up straightly in front of us with severe faces."

In comparison, she said, American professors are kind, good and even polite to students. But, several noticed, American students are not always polite to American professors. For example:

"Sometimes much free behavior in class-rooms, for instance chewing gum being noisy and making fun of the teachers."

"Many students smoke and even read newspapers during lectures."

The Japanese also were im-

U. S. Rejects

out Russia has announced she will regard as illegal all actions taken while Nationalist China is represented. The U. S. and other delegations have sharply challenged the Russian view. They maintain that all U. N. organs are competent to act both with Nationalist China present and with Russia absent.

As for the Security Council, the U. N. charter provides that on all major issues there must be seven affirmative votes for approval with all the five big veto powers concurring.

It has been the accepted practice, however, not to consider abstentions as vetoes. The charter does not say specifically that all members or even all of the five must be present.

They said that if this were required, any member could paralyze the council by merely staying away.

Lie was asked whether he considered Sunday's Korean cease-fire resolution valid. He said this was a matter for the council itself to decide but added that he would not have called on the council to act if he had not believed it competent (without Russia).

Meanwhile, Lie and his top aides are sounding out the 49 United Nations on how far they will go in trying to stop the Korean conflict through aid to the Seoul Republic.

This was disclosed officially last night before Russia informed Lie that it considers sanction action by the Security Council illegal.

Meanwhile, from New Delhi word was received that India would go along with the United Nations Security Council's call on member nations to help invaded South Korea.

India was one of two security council members which refused to participate in the 7 to 1 vote Tuesday by which the aid resolution was passed.

Charlie Tedesco Will Face Leesburg Packers Tonight

Last Night's Contest With Leesburg Is Washed Out After Many Downpours

The Giant-Leesburg contest was wet-blanketed last night after several downpours succeeded in drenching the playing field. The locals, however, will take on Packers tonight at Municipal Ball Park.

Sanford will be out to snap a two-game losing streak administered them by the Palatka A's.

Manager Ed Levy announced that Charlie Tedesco will probably draw the hurling assignment.

The last time out against the Packers the locals gained a 10-1 decision behind the 5 hit hurling of Clyde Stevens.

Get Of Runners To Go In Feature Race

DAYTONA BEACH, June 29—(Special)—An octet of seasoned runners in the celebrity pack met in the feature mile race at the Volusia County dog track tonight and the oval is certain to smoke when the box doors fly open.

Rocket Roller, owned by Mrs. O. Z. Ferrell, already has chalked up two feature wins, while Steve Bogle, Montine and Kemsman also have acquired two wins each, though not in the stiff ninth race competition.

Karlbeck, holder of the beach course record here, goes to the post tonight and the big brindle may be in a mood to step on the accelerator.

Handicapped, stand-outed Trim Trick, winner of the West Yager Derby will bear watching.

She recently won a feature in 31.4 seconds. Sly Hunter, seven times in the money in nine starts, and K. Salmon's promising two-year-old, Mom's Flash, complete the race.

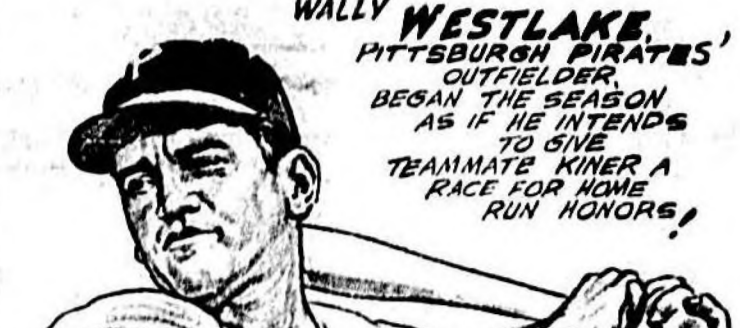

Signed coupons are pointing in hearing the names of residents of various states, anxious to blanket with flowers the winning greyhound in the All-States hand-off to be run Saturday night.

This is a novel feature in which each runner bears the name of a state and the winner will be honored by a resident of that state. The handicap will be run on Saturday's ninth race. Coupons can be obtained at the track.

Blalock race track's picture-book clubhouse drive is lined with 84 of the tallest matched royal palms which could be found in the Everglades.

Bennie Aldridge, Oklahoma A. & M. halfback recently signed by the New York football Yanks, is married to the daughter of the lettermen's club at the school.

During the past winter when he was in Boston exhibiting his fly casting ability for $10,000 a week for two daily appearances of 10 minutes each, he was the most gracious person in the world. There wasn't enough room in the old exhibition hall at Mechanics Building to house the thousands who paid $1.20 for the opportunity of watching Ted whip a fly into the improvised pool.

Jim Blair Bangs Wimbledon Champs 400-Yard Blasts Buckling Down In Golf Tourney 3rd Round Matches

OMAHA, June 29—(AP) The lieutenant governor of Missouri has a son who can hit a golf ball as they say in their native "country mile."

Actually, young Jim Blair III, doesn't hit them that far. He has been a bit short of 400 yards on a couple of his tee blasts in the Trans-Mississippi golf tourney.

Jim, who'll be 19 July 11, isn't bagging when he says: "I can hit the ball farther, but I don't say I can stay accurate." Accurate he is, too. And those booming words are complemented by a steady iron game that has carried him into the third round of the Trans-Mississippi tournament along with 31 other contenders.

Blair, 6 feet seven and 215 pounds, had a torrid afternoon in the third round out of which would come 16 players for the afternoon's fourth round. Jim's foe was Herb Durham of Dallas, Tex., a quarter finalist in the western amateur this year.

Durham was two under par in eliminating Stewart Carroll, a 16-year-old from Dallas, 5 and 4, and Blair was one under par in stopping Don Dexter of Lincoln, Neb., 5 and 4 in second round matches.

Young Jim astonished a tee gallery with a "poke" of 376 yards yesterday. What those about have seen was his 300-yarder on the 450 11th hole which he birdied with a 3.

Blair may last no longer than the third round in the Trans-Mississippi but definitely he's a "comer." He hasn't actually arrived.

He was seeded No. 11 in this tournament. Eight other ranked players also were in the title chase.

The others include John Kraft of Denver, seeded No. 1, and Rodney Hicks of Des Moines, the No. 3 man.

Four seeded players were topped yesterday, Gene Zuppman of Goodland, Kan., (No. 2); Dick Knight of Omaha (No. 5); H. J. Carey of Hutchinson, Kan. (No. 9) and Bill Lewis of Kansas City (No. 12).

Cincinnati Coach Gus Mancuso holds the record for most chances accepted by a catcher in one World Series—16 in 1950 for the New York Giants.

Jimmy Bloodworth, now with the Phila, played in 92 games as second, 83 at first and eight at third for Cincinnati last season.

If Flycasting Were National Sport Ted Would Be U. S. Hero

BOSTON, (AP) — If only flycasting were the national sport instead of baseball, there would be an entirely different "Ted Williams" story.

For Williams, the flycaster, loves his audience and is loved in return.

But in baseball the picture is different, and thereby comes the friction and misunderstanding that have plagued Williams, the great flycaster and mighty Boston Red Sox slugger.

Fishing shows Williams to be what his closest friends say he is—the sweetest, nicest guy in the world.

During the past winter when he was in Boston exhibiting his fly casting ability for $10,000 a week for two daily appearances of 10 minutes each, he was the most gracious person in the world. There wasn't enough room in the old exhibition hall at Mechanics Building to house the thousands who paid $1.20 for the opportunity of watching Ted whip a fly into the improvised pool.

Men, women and children applauded and went into fits of the sweetest, nicest guy in the world.

When Ted would acknowledge the terrific applause by waving his hand high over his head. He would beam in his best smile toward the thousands and patiently sign thousands of autographs. At this event he was the showman Babe Ruth used to be off the field.

He, however, doesn't acknowledge such applause at the baseball park. Once he belts a homer into the stands, he drops his head bashfully and runs into the dugout circling the bases. He won't even hit his hat after he hits a homer.

Eddie Collins, baseball immortal, now vice-president of the Red Sox, once said rather mournfully: "If Ted would tip his cap just once, they'd make him mayor of Boston in five minutes."

63-Year-Old Man New Senior Golf Champion Of U. S.

RYE, N. Y., June 29—(AP) A Jacksonville real estate executive, who comes pretty close to showing his age, is the new senior golf champion of the United States.

Alfred C. Ulmer, 63, a grandfatherly seven-time, completed the 36-hole two-day tournament, played over two courses, yesterday with a 69-77—146, good enough to give him the crown by four strokes.

His flashy first 18 holes were played at Blind Brook and yesterday at Apawank. His score soared because he well-laid greens there were "too tricky to handle."

The contestants switched courses the second day and the big majority of the 325 entered stuck it out despite the heat and, in some cases, their age.

Finishing second was defeated champion Joe Wells of Pea, N. H., with 75-76—151, a 64 years of age.

Ellis Knowles of the Apawank Club, who had held the title for 11 times, was third with 77-74—151.

Ulmer went on over two times yesterday, his utter hate the offender each time. But he also clicked for three birdies in his round of 40-37-77.

A five-time winner of the Florida State amateur title, Ulmer played in the British Amateur in 1926. He acquired some of his golf savvy playing with Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour.

At the end of the two-day event Ulmer smiled, "It speaks well for me."

Jax Tars Playing Winning Baseball Under Alexander

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Dale Alexander is managing Jacksonville the Tar-Play baseball like 24 and a half games aren't separating them from first place Macon in South Atlantic League standing.

Ordinarily an eighth place club which trails by two dozen games can be overlooked and excused for faults and downhearted play. But not the Tars of Big Alex.

The old Detroit Tiger who led the American League in batting in 1932, took over Friday. The Tars were even having trouble sticking together but since his arrival they have won five and lost two.

Last night the victory was by those same figures, 5-2, over Charleston. Tom Horton gave Charleston only four hits and F. Allegar hit a two-run homer in the fourth.

Macon won its fourth in a row to continue its policy of doing most of its winning in stretches.

The Paches whipped Columbus 4-3 after losing down a ninth inning rally which produced two runs. Catcher Jerry Palmer homered in the top of the ninth to Macon's winning run.

When Columbus loses the Cardinals usually follow the defeat with another. Last night the Cardinal again lost their second in a row to Greenville 7-7. The Spinner came from arrears twice to clinch the game in the sixth inning with two runs.

Dick Czaplowski got four single in four times at bat for the Red Birds and Spinner Manager Oscar Grimes was kicked out of the game for arguing too much, to long and too loud.

Meridian's L. Burke Gives Up Three Hits

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The opposition may have been the Amiston Rams—but Meridian's Larry Burke looked like a big league star the same.

Burke had his curves, sinkers, sliders and fast ball on the corners last night as he pitched the Millers to a 6-1 victory over the bookies Rams. He gave only three hits and in the fourth inning he letted in all of Meridian's runs with a homer.

The victory was No. 9 for Burke and would have been a shutout except for a wild pitch and two walks, Bernie Gottesman was the loser.

Big Rudy Yorke won his 10th game of the year for Jackson with a close but valuable victory over Montgomery 3-2. The win lifted the Senators to within one game of the third place Rebels. Yorke needed 110 innings to whip Montgomery and he gave only eight hits the whole way. He fanned seven. Paul Pennel Jackson first baseman, hit his 10th homer with the bases vacant in the fifth.

I, 1877, when a base on balls was scored at base hit, J. P. O'Neil of the St. Louis team had a batting average of .492.

Penn State will resume freshman football next fall for the first time since it was dropped in 1941.

Ed Delephanty, who played for Philadelphia in the National League and Washington in the American, led both leagues in batting—the National in 1889 and the American in 1902.

Until they obtained Frank Quinn from the Boston Red Sox, in mid-May, Washington was the only major league team lacking a bonus player this season.

Vel Ott played in 150 or more games for the New York Giants during 10 seasons between 1929 and 1942.

Mickey Harris, Eddie Yost and Sam Mele of the Washington Senators are products of the Queens county sandlots in New York City.

Pressure Charts and Death Rates Compared By AMA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A chart which shows how your blood pressure automatically classifies you into one of various large groups with startlingly different death rates was shown today to the American Medical Association...

heart muscle, which produces the pulse beat. The diastolic is the pressure in the arteries between heartbeats.

For a young person a sample of normal pressure might be 120 systolic and 85 diastolic. This is called 120 over 85 or 120/85. If you are a male between 30 and 39 years old, your systolic between 118 and 137 and your diastolic below 90, you are in a group which dies at about the same rate as the general run of people.

Whether man or woman, and regardless of age, if your blood pressure is low by medical standards you are in a group in which death strikes less often than average.
