Depressed? Seek Goals, Involvement

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—What is your opinion about birth control and depression? My daughter is 25 years old and has been taking the pill for five years. Also for five years she has suffered from cycles of depression which have become worse during the past six months. She has been suicidal in her depressive moods. Is depression a side effect of the pill?

DEAR READER—Probably not. It's certainly true that hormones can affect one's mood and many women experience this with the different stages of the menstrual cycle. That's directly related to the amount of estrogen and progesterone that's formed at different stages of the cycle.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Do you think obesity is caused by a disease—something to do with sex?

DEAR READER—No. If by sex you mean the sex act, there is no relationship to obesity. One enterprising physician a few years ago suggested that sexual activity could be helpful in preventing obesity and popularized this philosophy with the statement, "Reach for your mate instead of the plate."

Allen Howls Toward Cayman Islands

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI)—Mighty Hurricane Allen with 136 mph winds assailed Haiti and the northeast coast of Jamaica today, then took dead aim at the Cayman Islands, leaving behind 25 km dead and millions of dollars in damage in a furious march across the Caribbean.

Hurricane forecasters warned that even though Allen's winds dropped from a high so far of 170 mph the storm could gain strength and if it continues on course "will go through the Yucatan channel and into the Gulf."

"Allen is not a dying storm," Miami hurricane forecaster Gil Clark said. "He has just lost strength because of his passage through the land masses. There is still the possibility the hurricane will become extremely severe again."

Allen's assault on the Caribbean this week has left at least 25 people dead and caused millions of dollars in damage to Barbados, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Haiti and Jamaica.

In Jamaica rising water covered roads along the bay at the capital of Kingston and the explosion of transformers on power poles led to the howling winds. One death was reported when a man was electrocuted by a fallen electrical wire.

Teen Heads Network

GERMANTOWN, Tenn. (UPI)—A teen-age ham radio operator heading the Hurricane Watch Network monitored the progress of the devastating storm early today and relayed the information back to people whose regular lines of communication were wiped out.

"We've helped a lot of people," said Randy Padaver, a 19-year-old journalism student at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville who's at home with his parents for the summer.

"There was a ship off of Jamaica that was right in the worst part of the hurricane," Padaver said. "We got all kinds of information to them so they would know what to expect."

At 9 a.m. today, the center of the storm was near latitude 19.0 north, longitude 78.1 west, moving toward the west-northwest at 20 mph.

Local Shelters Announced

With the first hurricane of the season in the Caribbean, the Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross announced today it has put its volunteer emergency workers on a standby alert and announced primary shelters for Seminole County should a hurricane strike this area.

The shelters will only be open to the public when deemed necessary and announcements will be made at that time through radio, television and papers.

Primary shelters will be located at Lyman High School, 1141 S. East Lake Ave., Longwood; Seminole High School, Georgia Avenue, Sanford; Oviedo High School, 601 King St., Oviedo; Geneva Elementary School, Geneva; and Bear Lake Elementary School, Gleeves Avenue, Forest City.

The Red Cross officials remind those who plan to enter these shelters during a storm they should bring their own bedding, pillows, coats (if available), special diet, baby food, formula, disposable diapers, special medicine and prescriptions for medicine.

Grand Cayman Island and 115 miles east-southeast of Cayman Brac.

Air Force reconnaissance reports indicated the central pressure was 966 millibars, or 28.23 inches of mercury.

Auto-Train Gets Furniture, But Financial Woes Remain

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Auto-Train officials in Sanford had their furniture back Tuesday, about 30 minutes after it was seized by court order to satisfy a $20,000 personal injury judgment against the company, according to Auto-Train spokesman.

Although the $20,000 was paid almost immediately, the incident was only one of several recently that brought attention to the financial difficulties of Auto-Train.

Friday, Auto-Train employees protested they were having difficulty getting their paychecks cashed locally. Because checks from June 15 and July 1 bounced, local banks instituted a policy of holding payments until the checks clear, usually about 10 days.

And in June, the company was forced to halt trading in its stock while arrangements were made to settle a lawsuit brought because it was behind in lease payments on locomotives. Stock trading has since been resumed, but the dispute has not been finally settled.

Then, they win the club and immediately lead a spade to their ace. At trick three a trump is led to dummy, but comes a low spade. East follows with one of his honors and now we separate the men from the boys.

A boy plays the other top spade. West ruffs and leads a trump. Our boy can still ruff one made in dummy, but he can't ruff two and loses the slam and his temper.

INFLATION IN SANFORD

You won't need nickels this big or a whole jar of them to buy something during "Nickel Days" Aug. 15 and 16 in downtown Sanford. Richard Barnett, head of the Sanford Business Association holds the jar which will be the key to prizes for the lucky person who guesses how many five-cent pieces are inside. Sanford Chamber of Commerce Goodwill Ambassador Martha Yancy holds giant copies of the money which will buy a bus ride and specials at Sanford stores a week from Friday and Saturday.

Escalating costs.

But despite recovery, Auto-Train profits were unable to make up for the $4.4 million loss of 1979 and $2.5 million in 1978.

"We made a profit of $639,000 in the first quarter of 1980," Goldstein said, "but the company is still in a tight cash position. Current operating procedures are going both to cover arrears and current operating expenditures."

"Thus the company has had difficulty paying its vendors in a timely fashion."

Goldstein further explained that the company's tight cash position coupled with "unilateral changes in banking procedures without advance notice" resulted in the returned paychecks June 15 and July 1.

Problems on those dates contributed to the problem employees are now experiencing in getting their checks cashed.

At least three banks in Sanford have refused to immediately cash Auto-Train payroll checks.

But Goldstein said banks are being contacted by the company in an effort to make suitable arrangements for employees.

"For 1980 Auto-Train has made its payroll and all checks have been made good to date," he said.

Although the cash flow situation is tight, Goldstein said the company is paying its bills first. These include payroll, fuel bills and payments due to the operators of the railroads.

But, he emphasized, Auto-Train is committed to bring all creditors current.

This will be done through several "broad based" financing plans designed to bring in new dollars, he said.

Porter To Go To Court To Block Foe's Candidacy

Seminole-Brevard Public Defender David M. Porter says he will file suit with the Florida Supreme Court in the next two days to seek a court order against his Republican opponent's running for office.

Democrat Porter said James F. Russo Jr., a Cocoa Beach attorney whose official qualification papers have been accepted by the state elections office, is not a legal candidate for the public defender post. With no primary opposition the two men are scheduled to run in the November general election.

Porter said Russo does not meet the requirement that a candidate must have been a member of the Florida Bar for the preceding five years prior to taking office.

When the new public defender's term begins on Jan. 6, 1981, Russo will be 34 hours and one minute short of having a full five years' membership in the Florida Bar.

Russo claims the state constitution, backed up by state supreme court cases he has read, states he has 30 days from the date the term begins to take the oath. "The office will be vacant for 24 hours and one minute," he said.

Both Porter and Russo are predicting quick victories in the court.

Longwood Woman Guilty Of 'Pyramid'

A Longwood woman pleaded guilty this morning in Seminole Circuit Court to conducting an illegal pyramid game in her home on July 31.

Robinson said the arrest of Biller and co-defendant Chris Phelps following a party held at Biller's home last month have stopped pyramid operations in Seminole County.

Biller said Biller's operation never had many members paying $1,000 in return for a promise of a large return from future club members. Biller herself told the court she never received any money for her participation in the club. If she falls a pyrograph line on that matter, she may lose her negotiated plea, Robinson said.

President May Free Delegates If He Wins Crucial Floor Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter's campaign manager refused today to rule out the possibility that Carter may release his delegates at the Democratic Convention in a fight over the so-called faithful delegate rule.

"Anything's possible, I don't rule out anything," said Robert Strauss, who will coordinate the Carter-Mondale nomination effort in New York next week.

He made the statement in reply to reports that Carter may release his candidates to vote as they wish if he wins a major battle with Sen. Edward Kennedy Monday night over requiring delegates to vote for whom they were ordered to vote in Democratic primaries.

"It will rule in one — and only one — position," said Strauss. "We're going to have to vote on the convention floor, up or down, and we're going to maintain the integrity of a committed delegation, said Strauss."

He was interviewed on the NBC-TV "Today" program.

"In Washington sources say Strauss said he had already been contacted by Carter's campaign manager, who indicated there may have been payments to Billy Carter, a department source told United Press International.

About 40 doctors on the Seminole Memorial Hospital staff agreed Tuesday night to formulate a statement of support for the plans of Hospital Corporation of America to build a new hospital, regional hospital in Sanford, a spokesman for the doctors said.

The statement will be drawn up by a committee, and circulated among doctors for their signatures. It will then be published in a newspaper, the spokesman said.

Missionary Family In Sanford After Near-Tragedy On Trip

By JANE CASELBERG
Herald Staff Writer

When the three children of New Tribes missionaries Douglas and Vicki Lauffer awakened in the back seat of the family station wagon in Birmingham, Ala., on July 13, they had no idea they were the subject of a massive search by law enforcement officers.

Kenneth, 7, Sharon, 5 and Brent, 19 months, were unaware prayers were going out in their behalf in many parts of the country as their stunned parents helplessly awaited news of their whereabouts.

Now visiting at international headquarters of New Tribes Mission in Sanford, the Lauffers told their ordeal.

Kenneth had not been overly concerned. Earlier, he had seen a man in a car and go into a house down the block and assumed it was his father. But being a resourceful "MK" (missionary kid), as time passed and his parents did not return, he took charge. He calmed his little sister when she wanted her mother and gave his baby brother a bottle when he became hungry and even attempted to change his diaper.

The children played outside the car as it became too hot inside, blissfully unaware that hours earlier at 4:30 a.m. they had been abducted by a car thief as they slept.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauffer, missionaries to Senegal in West Africa, home on medical leave, and the children had been traveling at night because of the daytime heat. They were driving to Sanford from Rochester, Pa., where they had been assigned to the New Tribes "Boot camp."

The Lauffers finally arrived at their destination here Friday afternoon nearly three weeks later.

Lauffer, together with several veteran missionaries, participated Tuesday night in a symposium at the mission headquarters on First Street in Sanford. The symposium was open to the public and the missionaries shared their experiences on the field and answered questions.

In an interview the Lauffers told of the harrowing experience. Lauffer, who had contacted malaria while serving in Senegal, was feeling sick as he drove along Route 78 looking for the entrance ramp to the interstate highway.

He said he stopped at a motel to inquire about room rates leaving the car parked outside in the well-lighted entranceway. He left the motor running because he was experiencing battery trouble. Then Mrs. Lauffer went in the lobby of the motel to see what was happening.

"It was longer than 60 seconds that we weren't watching the car and when we looked out, the car and the children had disappeared," he said.

"I cried out 'O Lord, help us' and prayed about the best way to report it to get a quick response," he said. "While the room clerk was calling police, reporting a stolen car, I went out to the pay phone and dialed 91 to report three separate kidnappings. They were there in a matter of minutes."

"I was going out of my mind, but New Tribes headquarters got a hold of a Birmingham minister who came out to pray with me," said Lauffer. His church, Shades Mountain Independence Church, helps sponsor one of the staff members in Sanford, he added.

"It didn't seem real or that it could be happening to us," Mrs. Lauffer recalls, "but I knew the Lord was in control. Despite everything, they were trying to do — the police, helicopters, all your bulletins in several states and announcements on television — none of it helped. It took the Lord to work out a beautiful ending to the story."

"In the end, it wasn't the police, but a private citizen who was God's instrument in finding the children," Lauffer said. "The whole state was alerted and the message was being passed by CBS, and taxi drivers and the excitement was working up to a crescendo when word came that children were found safe and sound. God solved it so beautifully with the children unharmed and nobody in shock except the parents."

Not many miles from the Sheraton Motel, where the Lauffers had been given a room without charge after the abduction, a Black minister, Rev. Melvin Sims was getting ready for church. He discovered the hungry children in the car parked in front of his house and invited them in for sandwiches, while he notified the police that the children had been "abandoned."

"Everywhere we've gone people tell us they really prayed for us, even in Florida. It's exciting."

Dangers on the mission field are nothing compared to those on the streets and highways in this country, Lauffer said. He recalls an earlier incident in Pennsylvania after he and his wife were married when police and fleeing felons were shooting at each other.

"They came running down the sidewalk and I had to throw my wife in the gutter and protect her with my own body," he said.

The problem in third world countries no one can escape is disease, he said.

He discovered the hungry children in the car parked in front of his house and invited them in for sandwiches, while he notified the police that the children had been "abandoned."

By 10 a.m., 5 1/2 hours after they were taken away by the car thief who authorities surmise was unaware they were asleep in the backseat, the children were in the police station and were reunited with their parents.

Ironically, it was only then that the children became frightened. "As we walked in they began to cry. They knew something was up when they saw all the police and reporters," Lauffer said.

Sharon didn't know exactly what had happened, Lauffer said, but in the afternoon she was going around telling people, "my mommy and daddy were kidnapped."

In spite of the fact the suspect's fingerprints were lifted from the Lauffer stationwagon, and an anonymous phone call confirmed the fact that the house pointed out by young Kenneth was the residence of habitual car thieves, at last report there has been no arrest in the case.

Lauffer said it was a week later when the police took her and her son to the neighborhood where the car was found to point out the house which the boy had seen the man enter.

Make this the Summer of 78°

Turn your thermostat to 78° instead of 73° and save up to 40% on air conditioning. You can save on your electric bills, and save our country oil, without really giving up on comfort. And summer, when electricity bills are the highest, is your opportunity to save the most. (Each degree below 78° will increase air conditioning costs about 8% per degree.) Here are some other easy ways:

- Adjust your water heater and save some money. Any handyman or woman can save electricity here by turning your hot water thermostat down to 120° or 140° if you have a dishwasher. Please make sure the electricity is off before making any adjustments.
- Invest in a thermometer and save again. We recommend a temperature of no more than 40° in your refrigerator for keeping food cool and electricity cost down. A thermometer is all you need. You'll get a true reading in fifteen minutes.
- Insulation will save you a lot more than it costs. Insulation can cut electric bills. The Watt-Wise Living Program® recommends R-19 insulation in ceilings. Properly installed it could save up to 30% on cooling costs if the house is fully air conditioned. But in case your home isn't insulated yet, we'd like to help you know all the facts. Free literature with information about insulation and many other ways to conserve electricity is available at your FPL office. And if you're building a new home, find out about FPL's Watt-Wise Living Program for the maximum in energy-saving features. This summer, more than ever, we'd like you to remember: The power to save electricity is in your hands.

ACLU Overcomes Latest Foe—Outraged Members

By DAVID SMOTHERS
UPI Senior Editor
CHICAGO (UPI)—The American Civil Liberties Union, which is accustomed to battling dragons and beating them, has overcome its latest antagonist — its own membership.

The people of Skokie — Jews and Christians alike — said they could not abide the sight of a swastika on their streets. Groups throughout the country made plans to go to Skokie and block the Nazis, with their bodies if necessary.

Members of the ACLU, which has been in the forefront of the fight for civil rights for more than 60 years, turned upon the organization because it defended Nazis in the face of outrage among liberals and Jews.

Veteran Asks Club For Waivers

Csonka, Dolphins Part Ways Over Contract

MIAMI (UPI) — Fullback Larry Csonka has come to a bitter parting with the Miami Dolphins...

The Miami news media and have been the subject of several newspaper opinion columns.

Both Shula and Robbie blamed the newspapers for causing the impasse.

The contract squabbles have been reported liberally in leading bill carrier in 1979, running for 327 yards and 13 touchdowns.

"Csonka came to me early this morning (Tuesday)," Shula said.

"If he is claimed by a club and he doesn't want to report to that club, as a veteran player, he can opt for free agency and then be free to contact any club," Shula explained.

Robbin charged that Csonka's holdout followed "the same pattern" as in 1979 and 1980.

"We didn't ask Csonka to come back and play for $100,000 last year in competition with the New York Giants or anybody," Csonka came back and offered to play for $100,000.

"He was a free agent when he came here, he had not made a qualifying offer," Robbin said.

From The Sidelines By JOE DELANTIS Herald Sports Editor

Johnson and Kevin Hill added singles. In going the distance in his two-hit effort, Johnson whiffed eight Tienville batters and walked five.

"We'll go with everything including the kitchen sink tonight against Tienville," said Metz.

"This is a proud bunch of kids," Metz beams. "We came up here to win it and we just have to go out and get them one at a time. The kids have one thing in mind, another shot at Belmont."

A foursome of Seminole High weightlifters made a pretty heavy impression over the weekend at the Florida Sunshine Games in Gainesville.

The prep weightlifting meet, wrapped around the annual high school all-star basketball and football games, saw no less than three first place showings from the contingent of Fighting Seminoles.

Abraham Baker capped first place in the 16-17 year old age group at 132 pounds. Versatile Coe Brown at 144 earned the second place medal in the 16-17 year old group; Harry Unsworth grabbed a first place showing in the 18-19 year old heavyweight division while Isaac Williams took first in the 16-17 year old super heavyweight class.

Coch Bill McDaniels' lifters were no doubt some of the top performers at the Gainesville meet that hosted age group lifters from around the state.

Florida Anglers Protest Kingfish Plans

The Florida League of Anglers has registered its vigorous protest to the Florida management plan proposed by the Gulf and South Atlantic Councils with the Secretary of Commerce and President Carter.

"If we win against Tienville and manage to beat Belmont in the first game, we'll use every pitcher we have in the second game," Metz informed.

"We had them on the ropes with a 1-0 lead and let them slip away on mental mistakes and our kids know it. I think they're confident they can play with Belmont."

Defending champion David Graham, who won in a playoff from Ben Chubbard at Oakland Hills in Birmingham, Mich., last year, is listed as a better than 1-1, while Cochrane is at 4-1 with Raymond Floyd.

County Doubles Champions Crowned At Red Bug

The Seminole County doubles champions were played this past weekend. Sites for the tournament were Red Bug Park and San Lando Park.

In the men's division the No. 1 seeded team of Bucky Copeland and Craig Perry lived up to their billing by defeating Orlando's Ben Hernandez and Chris Meyer.

In the women's division, it was really an upset throughout the entire tournament. Wendy Park's Linda and Laura Mueller walked through the tournament with ease.

The Muellers lost a total of only three games during the entire tournament. In the final they defeated Carolyn Sanders and Jennie Hagan by the score of 6-4, 6-3.

Microwave Helps To Ease Rotation Of Frozen Food

Those gardeners who grew enough to freeze and to have for fresh cooking can make room for their fall freezing by using previously frozen vegetables. The easy, quick way to "revive" your supply of freezer food is to use a microwave oven for thawing and cooking.

The same practice is an opportunity for the non-gardeners who take advantage of the many farmers' markets in Florida at peak production time. Now is the time to make room for the fall crops that will begin coming in September.

Microwave cooking is an opportunity for the non-gardeners who take advantage of the many farmers' markets in Florida at peak production time. Now is the time to make room for the fall crops that will begin coming in September.

Quickly emerging out of the initial "staid-and-serve" methods of cooking, home economists are developing recipes that are primarily food-processor-oriented as well as putting back in the old-fashioned home cooking tastes or flavors. Mixtures of compatible vegetables experienced in test kitchens offer new energy-saving preparation methods and something, simply, good to eat for any meal.

Meats and vegetables cooked properly will be attractive, tasty and nutritious dishes. When cooking irregular shaped foods, meats and vegetables you will need to know that they cook unevenly. Solve that by putting the thicker parts toward the outside of the dish with the thinner or more tender parts toward the inside. More even cooking of "vegetables and meat stew" can be assured by stirring frequently while cooking. Always stir from the outside in to insure evenly cooked food. This method works for both outside sauce inward to replace the cooler sauce in the center. Meats and casseroles should be rotated at least once during cooking time.

Tom Nelsel's 'Cook Of The Week' column will resume next week.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my daughter asked me a question she's asked often: "Where's my daddy?" That's not easy to answer. I feel like saying, "He's probably in jail. Or dead from an overdose."

DEAR NORTH BEND: My daughter is 2 1/2 years old, and she's seen her father a total of five times — three of which were in support of her mother.

DEAR NORTHERN BEND: You say, "Daddy is sick, and with God's help, I hope he gets well enough to be a good daddy to you." Period.

Sis Blurted Out Terrible Secret About Dead Father

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister, who lives 1500 miles away, blurted out in a telephone conversation that after I had left home (some 20 years ago) her father had raped her. My sister was 14 years old at the time. She was a virgin when she was raped. She was a virgin when she was raped. She was a virgin when she was raped.

DEAR MISERABLE: Assuming that what your sister told you is true, the only possible good achieved by telling you was the relief she felt in getting it off her chest. She surely must have known that it would destroy all your loving memories of your father, as does the possibility that she may still be suffering from abuse.

Kids Learn To Take Over In Kitchen

A few years ago, the only time a child spent in the kitchen was during a sneak attack on the cookie jar. Today, those kids are more likely to be the ones baking the cookies in the first place.

Kids in the kitchen is not a passing trend. Home economics teachers report that more than one-third of all teenagers are helping with weekly grocery shopping and food preparation. Home economics classes have never been more popular, and are no longer exclusive terrain of young women. National enrollment figures show that young men now comprise nearly 30 percent of high school cooking classes.

These young people say they know that they'll probably be tending for themselves in the kitchen someday and are getting ready early.

Practical experience in the kitchen at home is important for youngsters as well as teens, educators say. Younger children learn to appreciate a wide variety of foods when they have a hand in food preparation. And cooking gives them opportunities to put to use what otherwise would be abstract concepts such as volume, weight and fractions they are learning in school.

Almost any age child can help measure and combine ingredients. Older children (7 and up) should be able to cut and chop ingredients with close adult supervision. Junior high school aged (12 and up) can begin to do everything themselves. Making dinner can be a family affair. Begin with familiar favorites such as macaroni and cheese dinner. It makes a perfect base for lots of recipes. These three recipes from Kraft Kitchens are quick to fix, perfect for the beginning cook.

Scout Supper is another crowd pleaser the kids can help prepare with your supervision. This range top main dish combines sliced frankfurters, tomatoes, onion and pickle relish with creamy macaroni and cheese dinner.

To further your children's interest in cooking, suggest they start their own recipe files or notebook. Newspaper clippings are a good source for new ideas. Use index cards for the file or a three ring notebook. Recipes can be clipped and pasted as a permanent record of their progress in the culinary world.

A useful addition to any recipe collection is "Shortcuts to Pasta Favorites," a new booklet of easy-to-make main dishes from the Kraft Kitchens. The pasta shortcuts emphasize creative ways to make nearly foolproof entrees in a hurry that won't break the food budget. It includes great tasting and economical recipes from soups and salads to casseroles and pasta pies.

Baked Fish Is Simple, Fast Dish

If you hesitate to prepare fish, begin with a baked dish. It's a simple way to cook fish and more foolproof for a beginner than some other methods. Use your kitchen timer to remind you to check the fish for doneness; overcooking is one of the pitfalls every cook encounters.

Halibut steaks with a rich mushroom sauce provide a lower-calorie entree with high protein value. Serve with rice or a fresh green vegetable, steamed.

This is a good after-work meal since it's quick to prepare and takes little watching.

BAKED FISH WITH MUSHROOMS
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms or 1 can (4 to 8 ounces sliced mushrooms)
1/4 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
2-3 tablespoons chopped onion
2-3 tablespoons diced green pepper
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 1/2 pounds halibut steaks

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms (makes about 2 1/2 cups) or drain canned mushrooms.

Place mushrooms in medium saucepan along with tomato sauce, onion, green pepper, lemon juice, salt, sugar and black pepper. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 2 minutes.

Spoon half of mushroom mixture into lightly greased 13-by-4-by-2-inch baking pan. Top with fish. Cover with remaining mushroom mixture. Bake, uncovered, until fish flakes easily when tested with fork, about 30 minutes.

Average fish on heated platter. Spoon mushroom sauce over fish. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 portions of approximately 300 calories per portion.

Enjoy Oysters The Year Round

Many seafood fanciers rate oysters as the number one ocean treasure. And well they should! Oysters offer delicious, delicate flavor. They are an excellent source of high quality protein, minerals and vitamins. They are also easily digestible whether eaten raw, steamed, fried, baked, broiled or in stew.

Yet, strangely, this centuries-old favorite is surrounded by misconception. The most common fiction is the so-called "V" rule. This rule says that oysters should not be eaten in the months which do not contain the letter "V," but it has no basis in fact.

As a matter of fact, oysters are available year round. Using the time-tested harvesting methods of their forerunners, Virginia watermen long for oysters season after season to produce the largest supply of fresh shucked oysters in the nation.

Oysters are, however, highly perishable. But because of modern processing, transportation and storage practices, you can enjoy oysters whatever the time of the year.

Oysters are sold live in the shell, fresh shucked, frozen and canned. When sold in the shell, they must be alive when purchased with shells tightly closed. Fresh shucked oysters should be refrigerated or surrounded by ice. If properly handled, they will remain fresh for a week to 10 days. Frozen oysters should not be thawed until ready to use and they should never be refrozen. Also, be sure to use the liquid content along with the oyster meat for maximum flavor.

Budget Meals Like Magic Using Original Stretcher

Come on now... stop thinking that budget meals are blah. At least they don't have to be.

You can cut down on the cost of foods served and still have meals that are proper in nutrition, look attractive, and are a delight to your family.

A magician's trick? Well, maybe. But the only card-up-the-sleeve needed to accomplish this feat is the original super budget stretcher, rice.

Because it costs only about three cents per half-cup serving, rice can be combined with less expensive proteins like beans or chicken for super economy meals. Or you may use rice to extend meats like ground beef and pork into more servings. Even if you want to serve expensive meats and seafood, rice can be there to help keep the overall cost of the meal down.

Liver Disorders Often Disguised

DEAR DR. LAMB - The doctor says that my husband has some liver damage. Is this cirrhosis of the liver? He took some blood tests that evidently showed the damage. My husband feels OK and it is not for the blood tests you wouldn't know there was anything wrong. The doctor left him on a regular diet but told him to be sure to get plenty of protein and to go light on the salt. He suggested that he take vitamins every day. He also told him not to drink any alcohol, not even one beer. Does that mean the liver damage was caused by alcohol? I'm confused about that because Bud has never been a heavy drinker. He drinks an occasional cocktail but mostly a can of beer in the evening or several on the weekends. If he had a good diet regularly won't that keep you from damaging the liver with alcohol? Just what is the outlook for him? Will he develop symptoms from his liver damage and if so, what? DEAR READER - Evidently your husband is one of those people who have blood test results that are normal liver function even though he has no symptoms. Liver disease can be insidious and may cause only mild fatigue. Of course, there are many other things that cause fatigue as well. Those blood tests are very sensitive and often don't show there is extensive damage. If your doctor had suspected more serious disease, he would probably have asked for other tests including tests indicative of abnormal liver function. He may repeat the tests and if they stay mildly abnormal or return to normal, he may decide to do nothing else about it. If your husband does develop more serious liver disease, he may have digestive complaints, par-

If the lemons is not thick enough, reduce a little butter and again it over the lemons and dust with a little pepper. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Turn Kitchen Into A Pizzeria

Place quick or old fashioned oats in your blender or food processor, blend and you have ground oat flour. Wholegrain oats contain seven B vitamins, vitamin E and they also supply zinc minerals.

This pizza supplies something from each of the basic four food groups, making it a nutritious meal or a healthy snack. It's also a good way to use leftover vegetables you have in the refrigerator. Serve Create-A-Wholegrain Pizza with a crisp salad and fruit for dessert. Turn your kitchen into a pizzeria — the fun is just beginning!

CREATE-A-WHOLEGRAIN PIZZA

Crust:
 two-thirds cup milk
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
 1/2 cup Ground Oat Flour
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1 teaspoon salt

Topping:
 1/2 cup prepared pizza sauce
 1/4 cup (3 oz.) shredded Mozzarella cheese
 Frankfurter or pepperoni slices, if desired
 Slice olive or mushroom slices, if desired
 Chopped green pepper, if desired
 Crispy cooked bacon slices, crumbled, if desired

For Crust:
 1. PREHEAT oven to 425 degrees F.
 2. GREASE large cookie sheet; sprinkle lightly with corn meal, if desired.
 3. ADD milk and oil to combined all-purpose flour, oat flour, baking powder and salt in medium-sized bowl; stir with large spoon until mixture forms a ball.

Would you know what to do if you were bitten by a rattlesnake? You might need to know, since Florida is one of the three leading states for snake bites. And Central Florida has more snakes than coastal areas because many snakes are found near lakes, rivers and streams. In Sunday's Herald, Sanford Surgeon H. Garrett Dodson explains how to handle rattlesnake and other poisonous snake bites and how to avoid being bitten in the first place.

Williams Defends Proposal

Layer Disputes Teacher Plan

Seminole County School Board Member Roland Williams suggested at the board's regular meeting Wednesday the school district hire two new teachers to give art and music instruction at four or five of the county's smaller elementary schools.

The larger elementaries, he said, provide such specialized instruction.

The new teachers would cost the board about $38,000.

Superintendent of Schools William P. Layer advised earlier that such additions would affect the amount of dollars spent per child at those schools and would throw off "comparability" among schools.

He said comparability, of the same number of dollars spent per child in each school, is required to get federal funds because the government requires that all schools be treated equally, which precludes supplementing some over others.

But Williams said the comparability funding formula is too complex for Layer to say hiring the two teachers would throw comparability off.

The board tabled discussion of the claim made by Sanford architect Eoghan Kelley that the school district owes him an additional $50,000 for his work in the design of Rock Lake Middle School. School Board Attorney Ned Julian Jr. reported that he had not yet finished reviewing the documents in which Kelley states his claim.

In other action Wednesday, the board waived for the parents of six students its policy requiring requests for school transfers to be made before July 1 preceding the school year for which the transfer is to take effect.

The parents all said they had not heard of the July 1 deadline and the board indicated that the deadline should be waived if it is not published in each school's student handbook.

The board agreed to discuss the July 1 policy at its next meeting.

The board also approved job descriptions for three new positions, two to be totally funded by a federal grant.

The positions are for:

- A psychologist to provide diagnosis and therapy for selected students and consultative services to parents, counselors and teachers.
- A fleet safety and route manager to be responsible for routing and scheduling of buses for exceptional students.
- A psychologist for the emotionally handicapped to provide psychological and support services to teachers and parents.

A fourth position description for a person to write applications for exceptional student education federal grants, was not approved pending rewriting of the description of duties. —DIANE PETRYK

County Gives New Housing Deal To Feds

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

In a rush to meet an already extended federal deadline, Seminole County Housing Authority Executive Director Tom Wilson left for Jacksonville this morning to hand-deliver to federal officials the county commission's newly amended "cooperation agreement," which he said he hopes will satisfy requirements for obtaining $4 million in federal funds for a housing project in the county.

The deadline for federally approved cooperation agreement between the housing authority and the county is Friday.

But U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development officials warned earlier that they didn't like the idea of tampering with their standard agreement. And even if Seminole County's changes should prove acceptable, there may not be enough time to get the necessary approvals, said HUD official Graham Thomas.

Hanging in the balance is the 74-unit housing development planned to be built somewhere in Seminole County. It would provide low-rent dwellings for economically qualified renters in the form of 24 small-family units and 54 large-family units.

But before doing out funds for such projects, federal officials want the local government to agree to cooperate with the housing authority in such matters as police and fire protection, road maintenance and sewer and water service.

The county has no objection to promising to provide police and fire protection for the development, but balked at promising special services not provided for private developers. A federal agreement required such special services and the county chose to delete them from the cooperation agreement.

Although a draft of the Seminole version of HUD's 40-year-old agreement was mailed to Thomas July 24, according to the county attorney's office, the county commission decided Tuesday to further amend it before signing the official copy.

The amendment cuts out more federal demands for county services to be provided to the proposed tax-exempt housing project.

The commissioners voted to replace promises that the county would provide road and sidewalk improvements for all streets bounding the project and water mains and storm and sanitary sewer mains leading to the project with the following statement:

"In respect to the construction of roads, sidewalks, drainage facilities, the providing of water and sewer facilities and other required public improvements, the county shall treat the local (housing) authority in the same manner as developers of privately owned sites are treated."

On July 22 HUD's Housing Division Director Donald Odenthal stated HUD would not accept the amended agreement. But HUD's Area Deputy Manager Jo Ann Stanton said July 25 that HUD would review the county's version as they review all cooperation agreements.

Nevertheless, Thomas maintained there will not be sufficient time for bond attorneys, who will finance the housing project, to study the amended document.

Although earlier deadlines for allocating the housing funds were extended, Thomas said housing project funds earmarked to be for the Central Florida area must be assigned before September by requirement of the Office of Management and Budget in Washington.

"We just don't have time to fool around with it," said Thomas. "There may be some places where the agreement could be improved, but we use it all across the country and haven't had any problem with it."

"There are a lot of things in the agreement that are somewhat obsolete," he added. "But a crusade against it now will not get this project through."

Plane Holding 200 Crashes

NOUAKCHOTT, Mauritania (UPI) — A Romanian Taron Airlines jet with 200 Romanian fishermen aboard crashed in the Atlantic Ocean today off the coast of Mauritania, it was reported today.

Radio Mauritania said 160 passengers were missing and 40 have been rescued. Rescue boats were searching the waters for other survivors.

The Soviet-built Tupolev crashed at 5 a.m. (11 p.m. EDT Wednesday) near the Mauritanian port of Nouadhibou.

The flight, which left Bucharest, was carrying Romanian fishermen who were to replace a fishing crew in a Mauritanian port where Romania has fishing rights.

"The cause of the crash is unknown," a director at Mauritania Radio said. "The investigators are looking into the reasons as to why it fell into the sea. They are looking for bodies."

Allen Regains Power As Cubans Head For Shelter

MERIDA, Mexico (UPI) — Hurricane Allen, the mightiest western Caribbean storm on record, bore down on western Cuba and Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula today with pulverizing 170 mph winds, sending tens of thousands of people scurrying for shelter.

Allen's winds increased by 20 mph — from 150 to 170 mph — during the morning as it headed for the Gulf of Mexico and away from the Caribbean islands, where it left at least 51 dead, thousands homeless and damage in the millions of dollars. In addition to the death toll in the Caribbean, at least one person was killed and 13 were missing in the crash of a helicopter that had been removing oil moving about 15 mph on a course varying between west and west-northwest.

"The strengthening and minor winds could result in the center passing over either the extreme western tip of Cuba or the northeast tip of the Yucatan Peninsula," the National Hurricane Center in Miami said. "This should bring extreme winds to the western tip of Cuba within the next hour or two and the northeast Yucatan Peninsula by late morning."

Forecast Alvin Samet said Allen's winds easily could reach 200 mph.

"It's a category five hurricane (strongest possible rating) at the present time it is one of the strongest hurricanes we've ever had..." When the pressure drops, that means the hurricane is intensifying, and the pressure is dropping. We will see stronger winds with a drop like this."

"It's hard to say just how fast the winds will get," Samet said. "It is certainly true the gusts could reach 200 miles an hour. There is no doubt they'll get that high. But when any storm has the intensity of Allen... a few more miles an hour pushing it up to 200 miles an hour is not going to make that much difference."

"People inside the gulf, in the Mississippi and Texas, Louisiana areas should not begin serious preparation yet. I don't think anything should be done until the storm passes into the gulf because it still has to cross a land mass... which is going to slow it down. But by all means stay alert... Allen is dangerous," Samet said.

The popular Mexican resort island of Cozumel, Cancun and Isla Mujeres were fully exposed to the storm that devastated St. Lucia in the Windward Islands and battered the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Jamaica and the tiny Cayman Islands.

On Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, government authorities activated disaster emergency plans, and PEMEX, the state-owned oil monopoly, evacuated 1,961 employees from oil rigs and stations in the Gulf.

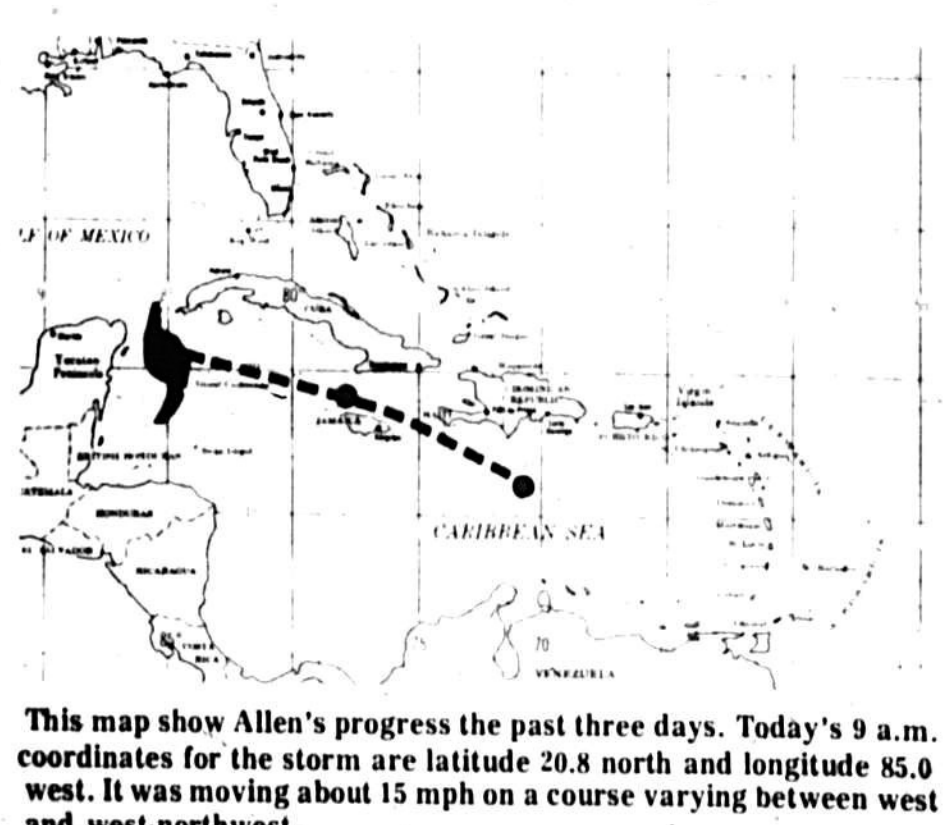

Some 1,500 tourists, most of them Americans and Europeans, were evacuated from the posh Isla Mujeres resort island off the Yucatan Peninsula, local port authorities said. The tourists were taken to Puerto Juarez on the Yucatan's eastern coast.

Tax Amendment Needed 3,500 More Signatures

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The constitutional amendment on the Oct. 7 primary election ballot calling for an increase in homestead exemptions loomed larger today with the failure suffered by county property appraisers throughout the state Wednesday to have their proposed constitutional amendment placed on the November general election ballot.

The October referendum, called for under legislation passed during the 1980 session, calls for an increase in homestead exemptions from $4,000 to $15,000 this year; $20,000 in 1981 and $25,000 in 1982.

The appraisers began collecting signatures for the proposed amendment after Gov. Bob Graham announced he would enforce the constitutional requirement of 100 percent property evaluations for tax purposes.

The October referendum, called for under legislation passed during the 1980 session, calls for an increase in homestead exemptions from $4,000 to $15,000 this year; $20,000 in 1981 and $25,000 in 1982.

Locally, Seminole County Property Appraiser Terry Goembel's office is reappraising all properties within the county. Goembel has estimated the average increase in assessments will be 40 percent.

Lake County Property Appraiser Ed Havill, who led a committee called "Citizens Proposition for Tax Relief," whose membership was composed of 64 of the state's 67 property appraisers, said today he may file suit asking for re-evaluation of some 60,000 signatures rejected by various elections supervisors throughout Florida.

Havill said the possibility exists that a recheck of the rejected signatures may turn up the additional 3,500 needed. He said the committee's legal action will be paid for out of a $35,000 fund raised through private donations so far.
