Tax breaks on historic homes?

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Limited ad valorem tax exemptions for improvements to historic properties may be in the offing. The Sanford City Commission will consider the matter during a workshop Monday afternoon.

At a May 4th meeting, the Historic Preservation Board (HPB) endorsed the concept. Now, it is being officially presented to the city for discussion.

According to information supplied by the city's Associate Planner Andrew Van Gnaale, Florida statutes provide that cities may adopt an ordinance to grant ad valorem tax exemptions for improvements made to historic properties.

He explained that the city may authorize, by ordinance, an exemption of up to 100 percent of the assessed value of all improvements. The exemptions would only apply to city taxes, and could remain in effect for up to 10 years, regardless of any change in ownership.

In order to give approval for exemptions, the Historic Preservation Board would have to be certified by the Department of State as a Certified Local Government Program. This would allow the HPB to recommend that the city commission grant or deny exemption applications.

In order to qualify, owners of homes in Sanford's historic district must enter into an agreement for the term during which the exemption would be granted. Violation of the agreement, if approved, would result in the property owner having to repay any exemption

Grads cross stage to adulthood

LAKE MARY — They'll be rockin' in the Orlando Arena again tonight.

While the Orlando Magic take a day to regroup and prepare for Game Two of the NBA Championships against the Houston Rockets, Lake Mary High School's Class of 1995 will cross the stage to adulthood as graduates.

Following Lake Brantley High's 3 o'clock graduation at the O-rena this afternoon, Lake Mary's commencement ceremony will tip off at 8 p.m.

This morning, LMHS students were already scurrying from hairdressers to stores to boutiques to make the last minute preparations for what may be the most important event so far in their lives.

Principal Raymond Gaines was also making preparations to bid farewell to his second graduating class as principal of the school. He said the parting would be a sad one for him.

"It's going to be difficult to see this group go," he said. "They are an exceptional group of kids. They are really special."

Gaines said the class of 1995 had accomplished a great deal in their four years at the school. Overall, he was very pleased to have had the opportunity to meet and work with the group.

"There was a great deal of accomplishment out of this class," Gaines said. "We had a Presidential

Teacher loses adviser status over yearbook, newspaper incidents

Staff and Wire Reports

CASSELBERRY — The Lake Howell High School yearbook had a photo feature on body piercing, and the student newspaper attempted to cover a sensitive faculty meeting.

The two circumstances cost teacher Jane Spedel her job as an adviser to the newspaper and the annual publication. She will continue to teach English, but Principal Don Smith said Ms. Spedel used poor judgment as faculty adviser.

The yearbook's photo layout described how a student "got his penis pierced at Leather Tiger, a body-piercing shop."

Smith called this inappropriate.

He said he received about 15 complaints from parents.

The principal also was upset that a reporter for the newspaper "in flight" showed up at a faculty meeting he arranged to discuss a teacher accused of having an affair with a student. It was a closed meeting on a delicate subject, Smith said.

"I asked the student to leave. I didn't think it was an appropriate meeting for a student to be in," he said.

Ms. Spedel defended her role as adviser, saying she allows students to exercise their own judgment

County, city chat about roads, drainage

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The long-discussed Rangeline Road construction is still eligible for $800,000 in county funds earmarked for transportation projects if Longwood officials give the go ahead to design plans approved by the previous commission.

During a joint meeting this week between Longwood and Seminole County, commissioners discussed topics ranging from annexation to roads and drainage projects. Longwood commissioners have expressed concerns that the design approved last year would leave the city scrambling to find funds to pay for the rest of the $1 million-plus estimated cost. Some city residents along the road which connects E.E. Williamson/Longwood Hills Road to State Road 434 have voiced strong opposition to any change, especially widening, which would increase the amount of traffic on what they claim is a residential street.

County officials explained the transportation money must be used for a capital improvement project not simply for drainage or repaving the existing road, which would be considered maintenance projects.

County engineer Jerry McCollum told city commissioners

Feds probe spending at Tampa General

TAMPA — Federal investigators are sifting through Tampa General Hospital documents in the wake of allegations top officials secretly met with a health-care giant interested in buying the 1,000-bed regional center.

Hundreds of documents resulting from decisions made by former chief executive officer David Bussone have been subpoenaed by federal investigators preparing for an anticipated grand jury hearing later this month.

The grand jury is expected to look into whether Bussone, chief financial officer Claudia Griffiths or others tried to facilitate the sale of TGH to Columbia-HCA Healthcare Corp. "There's unmistakable circumstantial evidence the hospital was being prepared for sale," said Fred Kari, who took over as administrator for Bussone. Bussone is now a Columbia administrator in Fort Lauderdale.

He said he stands by his earlier comments that all financial decisions were made with input and approval from the hospital board.

Decisions made under Bussone's tenure range from buying an insurance policy to protect him, Griffiths and board members from federal suits to spending $1.5 million to move the hospital's mammoth computer system from its custom-designed site to a leased space in Ybor City, the St. Petersburg Times reported.

There was speculation Tampa General could lose $11 million for the year, putting it in technical default of an outstanding $150 million loan.

As the financial crisis deepened, board members learned state Sen. John Grant, R-Carrollwood, was sponsoring legislation that would have enabled sale of the public hospital to a for-profit company such as Columbia, the Times said in Wednesday editions.

Plane crash kills all 6 aboard

GAINESVILLE — A single-engine plane was on final approach to the airport here when air traffic controllers lost contact and the aircraft slammed into thick woods, killing all six aboard.

The Piper Cherokee went down early Wednesday in fog in the dark about six miles east of the airport in North Florida. It took nearly 12 hours to find the wreckage in the dense pine woods. Only the tail of the plane remained intact, making it appear the aircraft went straight down.

"There was no sign of fire," said Linda White, a spokeswoman for the Alachua County Sheriff's Department. "That may be an indication they were low on fuel. But the weather may have been a contributing factor."

The group was headed to Gainesville to visit a relative who was having minor surgery at Shands Hospital when the crash occurred. The pilot, Loveda McNair, 55, had requested that the runway lights be brightened and acknowledged that she could see them, said White.

The last contact with the plane was at 12:09 a.m., the Gainesville control tower said.

The plane departed Covington, Ga., Tuesday evening and stopped in Adel, Ga., the FAA said.

Killed along with McNair, of Loganville, Ga., were 4-year-old twin girls, Ashley and Nicole Powell, and their grandparents, Buddy, 51, and Elizabeth Powell, 48, all of Astor.

Also killed was C.J. Powell, 67, of Adel, Ga., a former member of the Georgia House of Representatives. Sgt. Joe Stein of the Gainesville Police Department said. The pilot was Powell's sister.

Attorneys argue Wuornos' appeal

TALLAHASSEE — Serial killer Aileen Wuornos, sentenced to death in each of six slayings, didn't understand what rights she was giving up when she pleaded guilty to one of the killings, her attorney has told the Supreme Court.

Wuornos, 39, a prostitute who worked highways across central and northern Florida, told investigators she killed seven men in 1989 and 1990. She said she acted in self defense after the men raped or beat her.

Assistant Leon County public defender David Davis admitted in oral arguments Wednesday before the state Supreme Court that Wuornos was told she gave up her right to a trial by pleading guilty to killing Walter Antonio with four shots in the back.

But in the transcript of her conversation with a judge when she entered the plea, Davis told the justices, "She's hoping new evidence is brought out."

"She has in her mind that at some other proceeding down the road she'll be able to vindicate herself," he said. "Miss Wuornos doesn't understand that now is the time to do this."

Assistant Attorney General Margene Roper of Daytona Beach said Wuornos was told when she entered the guilty plea she was giving up several rights: to a jury trial, to remain silent, to confront witnesses and to compel witnesses to testify.

Auto fee refunds

Plaintiffs want interest on impact refunds

By SALL BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Motorists who paid the $295 for an unconstitutional motor vehicle impact fee should get their money back with interest when refunds are made, attorneys told the state Supreme Court.

"The plaintiffs were successful," attorney Christopher Kay of Orlando argued Wednesday, referring to a September 1994 Supreme Court ruling that struck down the fee.

But they've been stymied since then, Kay said. "Since that judgment, our clients don't have their money and no interest has accrued to them."

Attorneys for those due the refunds say they should receive 12 percent interest while they wait to be repaid. At that rate the interest for one year would be about $35.

But the state isn't responsible for delaying the payments to the estimated 650,000 motorists, argued Assistant Attorney General Eric Taylor.

The state budget approved by lawmakers gives Gov. Lawton Chiles the authority to transfer $188 million from the state's working capital fund to make the refunds. If Chiles lets it become law, the budget takes effect July 1.

"We have the money available within 30 days. We have the names and addresses. But we have been stayed from issuing it," Taylor said. "We are under a stay preventing it from being paid until the issue of attorneys' fees is resolved."

In April, Circuit Court Judge Lance Kirkwood in Orlando denied the plaintiffs' request to order the state to pay interest. The question of fees for the plaintiffs' attorneys still is pending before Kirkwood.

The Supreme Court heard attorneys' oral arguments on the question of interest but didn't issue a ruling on the question.

Lawmakers imposed the $295 motor vehicle impact fee to register out-of-state vehicles in 1990 rather than raise taxes to help deal with a major budget shortfall.

But the court's decision applied only to auto owners who paid the fee after July 1, 1991, when a revised law took effect.

The state estimated it collected $187 million since July 1991, and $216 million since July 1990.

Immigration plan gets mixed reaction

By BARBARA JORDAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — A proposal that Congress reduce legal U.S. immigration while giving priority entry to more than a million spouses and children of legal permanent residents is drawing mixed reviews.

Interest groups ranging from immigrant-rights advocates to pro-business conservatives described as anti-family, anti-business and racist the recommendations by the bipartisan U.S. Commission on Immigration Reform.

But President Clinton called the proposal "a road map for Congress to consider."

In a statement, Clinton said: "Consistent with my own views, the commission's recommendations are pro-family, pro-work, pro-naturalization."

Rep. Lamar Smith, R-Texas, chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on immigration reform, said the commission plan "makes our job easier."

"The interest groups should be reminded that, for the last 20 years, 75 percent of the American people have consistently wanted to reduce immigration," Smith said in an interview. He plans to introduce his own massive immigration reform bill next Thursday.

The commission's recommendations, formally submitted to Congress on Wednesday, would clear 150,000 spouses and children of legal permanent residents now awaiting visas each year over eight years.

To make room for them, the commission would eliminate visa eligibility for the brothers, sisters and adult children of citizens. That would change a 30-year-old policy that has given immigration priority to job-seekers and foreigners who hope to reunite with family members.

The nine-member commission, which was created by Congress and chaired by former Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Texas, would reduce to 550,000 from 675,000 the number of visas available to citizens' family members, job-seekers and refugees.

Rep. Dick Armey, R-Texas, the House majority leader, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., ranking Democrat on the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on immigration, both said they opposed the reductions.

"A principled debate would expose the impulse to limit legal immigration as a misguided attempt to make legal immigrants the scapegoats for America's problems," Armey said in a statement.

The Senate subcommittee was expected to approve legislation today beefing up border patrols and tightening the enforcement of laws against hiring illegal aliens.

Jordan said the commission's plan was the only way to reunite the nuclear families of legal residents, and Smith added that it will end "chain migration" by the extended families of immigrants. But Asian Americans objected to the commission's definition of nuclear families.

"In effect you're restoring the discriminatory impact of what was removed in the '60s' when reforms replaced national origins with family ties as the basis for immigration priority," said Margaret Fung, executive director of the Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

Also under the commission plan, only college-educated foreign workers whose prospective employers can prove they can't find a suitable American worker would be admitted. The employers would be required to pay an unspecified "substantial" fee.

Stuart Anderson, policy director for the Alexia de Tocqueville Institution, a conservative Washington think tank, said the employer fee amounts to an anti-business tax.

"To tax companies for seeking out the best-skilled workers takes away one of the great advantages of America, which is that people all over the world want to... devote their skills in this great free market," Anderson said.

Asked about the proposed fees, Smith intimated his own opposition.

"I'm looking for ways not to fault the commission's report today," he said. He said his own bill "may not incorporate every word of the commission plan, but we are all going in the same direction."

Violent offenders: Tougher sentences

By PAUL CHILDS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — A new law named after a murdered Metro-Dade detective will make Florida a better place by ensuring repeat and violent offenders stay in prison longer, Gov. Lawton Chiles said.

Chiles signed the measure, dubbed the Officer Evelyn Gort Career Criminal Act, at Metro-Dade headquarters Wednesday surrounded by Gort's family, South Florida lawmakers and key drafters of the measure.

"Evelyn will not be forgotten," Chiles said before the signing. "The Evelyn Gort act forces violent, repeat offenders to pay the price for their crimes. ... This bill ensures that the worst of the worst career criminals — those who commit the most heinous crimes — stay behind bars and off the streets."

Under the measure, repeat and violent criminals would serve at least 85 percent of their prison terms.

Gort, 34, was off duty when she was shot to death by an ex-convict during a street robbery in 1988. Law enforcement officials began work on the bill 58 hours later.

"Whoever said that the wheels of justice turn slowly? Certainly not in this case," said Myra Faust, Gort's sister, in applause.

The law, which won bipartisan support in the Legislature, takes effect Oct. 1.

Drafted largely by law enforcement officials, the law:

- imposes a minimum 10-year prison term on violent criminals convicted of a fourth felony in less than 10 years,
- requires a mandatory 18-year sentence for using a firearm in the commission of a crime,
- bars early release except for medical reasons,
- limits prisoners' rights of appeal.

"Nothing less is appropriate," declared Senate sponsor Ron Silver, D-North Miami Beach. "The measure came from the grassroots. And who better knows what the problems are than the grassroots police officers?"

Officials estimate the legislation will cost $83 million by the year 2000 to make room for more criminals in Florida's prisons by adding 2,981 beds. The costs amount to $15 million a year, hitting nearly $400 million by 2015.

When Gort and her boyfriend went to a friend's house, a gunman tried to rob them of $5 and car keys Oct. 30, 1988. Gort fired her service revolver once, and the robber shot her twice, paralyzing her heart.

Writer Leroy Mitchell, 55, was convicted of manslaughter Jan. 31. Instead of receiving the standard 17- to 27-year term, he received a life term as a habitual offender.

Career criminals at a glance

The Officer Evelyn Gort Career Criminal Act defines a career criminal as someone:

- previously convicted of two or more crimes in Florida
- who hasn't received a pardon
- who hasn't had a conviction set aside
- whose current felony or one of two previous ones didn't involve the purchase or possession of a controlled substance
- who is scheduled to be sentenced for a felony committed on or after Oct. 1, 1990, and within five years of the previous felony conviction.

The act defines a violent career criminal as someone:

- convicted of a felony or attempted or conspiracy to commit felony
- convicted of arson, sexual battery, robbery, kidnapping, aggravated child abuse, aggravated assault, murder, manslaughter, throwing a destructive service or bomb, armed burglary, aggravated battery, unarmed robbery or burglary, stalking, lewd and lascivious acts
- who committed the last crime on or after Oct. 1, 1990, and within five years of the last felony conviction.

Double arrest

Tuesday, the Sanford Police Special Investigative unit (SIU), reportedly surprised Darrell Edward Ross, 33, when they went to his home at 18 Castle Brewer Court, in search of another suspect. Officers said Ross answered the door holding a drug item in his hand. As a result, police arrested him on a charge of possession of a controlled substance.

Police had gone to the residence to search for Elijah Williams, 28, of 78 Lake Monroe Terrace, who was suspected of hiding at Ross' residence.

Officers said Williams had forced his way into a residence in the 100 block of Aberdeen Circle, and threatened a former girlfriend with a handgun. The woman reportedly managed to escape and call for police. Williams subsequently was said to have fled from the area.

He was later spotted in his vehicle, and chased to Seventh Street and Olive Avenue, where officers said he drove into a wooded area then fled on foot into Lake Monroe Terrace.

After he was eventually located in Castle Brewer Court, he was arrested on charges of battery domestic violence, false imprisonment, careless driving, fleeing and attempting to elude an officer, use of a firearm in the commission of a felony, and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

I-4 accident

A single vehicle accident was reported Wednesday at approximately 9 a.m., on westbound Interstate-4, just west of Lake Mary Boulevard. According to the Florida Highway Patrol, a 1994 Ford van, driven by Daniel R. Richardson, 34, of 408 Sunlake Circle, Lake Mary, was forced to veer to the right, off the roadway, when traffic slowed suddenly. The FHP said his van left the roadway overturning three times, and ejecting the driver. Richardson was listed in serious condition as the result of his injuries. Charges are pending.

Sheriff reports

Several juveniles were reportedly seen throwing dirt balls at the New Bethel AME Church on Main Street in Midway Monday. Deputies said they located the juveniles and discussed the situation with their parents.

A 58-year-old Delray man called deputies from a gas station near C-18 and SR-44 Tuesday, telling them he had been shot at in that area, by two persons attempting to take his vehicle. When deputies arrived, they reported finding two bullet holes in the man's left arm.

The deputy who had responded, was, at the time of the call, investigating a report of four shots heard being fired in Industrial Park. When he investigated the incident at C-18 and SR-44, he said a clerk reportedly was outside at the time of the reported incident (approximately 2:30 a.m.) and did not hear any shots being fired as the victim had claimed.

The man was subsequently taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital for treatment of his wounds.

Police reports

Police received four separate reports of vehicles being scratched in Groveview Apartments Tuesday. A witness reportedly gave police a description of the person causing the damage. All four of the vehicles were parked in the 1000 block of Groveview Way.

A red and maroon 1981 Ford, license number QJZ-092 was reportedly stolen Tuesday from a grocery store parking lot in the 1100 block of W. 13th Street.

A woman's purse with $350 in cash and several hundred dollars worth of personal papers was reportedly stolen Tuesday from the Goodwill store at 300 E. Third Street.

Police investigated a report Tuesday of five shots being fired shortly before midnight, in the 1300 block of Dixie Way. Police said a truck in the area had been hit by three of the bullets.

A white sports car, stolen in Winter Park, was located by police Tuesday parked behind a vacant house at 1550 Olive Avenue.

A washing machine and telephone with a total value of $150 were reportedly stolen Tuesday from a residence in the 1100 block of Cypress Avenue.

An 11-horsepower washer, on a push cart, valued at $1,000, was reportedly stolen Tuesday from the camper of a truck parked in the 300 block of North Lake Drive.

Christopher Reeve has some movement

By The Associated Press

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — Christopher Reeve is sitting in a chair, eating solid food and showing some body movement for the first time since his paralyzing injury in a riding accident 12 days ago, his doctor said.

The "Superman" star remained in serious condition today at the University of Virginia Medical Center, but his health is improving, hospital spokeswoman Katherine Jackson said.

"He is an ideal patient because he is eager to improve," neurologist John Jane said Wednesday.

"There is new movement in Mr. Reeve's right shoulder muscle," Jane said. A statement from the hospital said his doctors are pleased with his progress.

Before surgery Monday to fuse together two fractured vertebrae at the base of his skull, Reeve had to lie flat, putting him at high risk for pneumonia and life-threatening complications. The surgery immobilized Reeve's neck to prevent further spinal cord injury and allow his upper body to be elevated, reducing the risk of such problems, Jane said.

Reeve, 42, sat in a chair Wednesday and was fed manually, rather than through a feeding tube. He remains unable to breathe without a respirator.

Anti-terrorism legislation

WASHINGTON — After weeks of sniping, President Clinton and Republicans now are claiming victory in the Senate's passage of major new anti-terrorism legislation and pressing the House to follow suit quickly.

The measure, inspired by the April 19 Oklahoma City bombing, passed Wednesday by a 91-8 vote. The $2 billion package includes provisions sought by Clinton to enlarge federal law enforcement agencies and the government's wiretapping authority and allow use of the military in emergencies involving chemical or biological weapons.

In addition, the bill would stringently limit appeals by death-row inmates, a change long pushed by Republicans. At the White House, Clinton hailed the Senate's bipartisan vote — 52 Republicans and 39 Democrats supported the bill — and expressed the hope that the legislation would forestall another attack like the one that killed 168 people at the federal building in downtown Oklahoma City.

Quick deal seems likely

WASHINGTON — A quick deal between President Clinton and congressional Republicans seems likely over a vetoed spending-cuts bill that the GOP says provides "real savings" and the White House says amounts to "old politics."

In the first veto of his 27-month-old administration, Clinton rejected the measure Wednesday. He said the $16.4 billion it would cut from already approved spending for this year would slash education, environmental and housing programs too deeply while sparing "pet congressional projects."

"That is old politics," Clinton said. "It is wrong." Republicans conceded they didn't have the two-thirds majority needed to override the veto and wouldn't even try. They accused the president of abandoning deficit reduction just as lawmakers begin the far more daunting task of balancing the budget — and predicted it would hurt him with the voters next year.

Mistakes in autopsies

LOS ANGELES — Now that the initial revulsion at the sight of autopsy photos has apparently worn off, O.J. Simpson jurors are pondering other startling evidence: the multitude of mistakes made during the examination of the bodies.

In a major pre-emptive strike, prosecutor Brian Keiberg has essentially assumed the role of defense attorney, eliciting from the county coroner every error made in the autopsies of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman.

Dr. Lakshmanan Sathyavaglawaran said Wednesday that Deputy Medical Examiner Irwin Golden, a veteran forensic doctor and no stranger to high-profile cases, made more than 30 mistakes — everything from incorrectly measuring wounds to mislabeling a bottle of bile as urine to saying a wound was on the wrong finger.

Still, Lakshmanan insisted that when it came to what Keiberg called the "big ticket questions" — time and cause of death — the mistakes were insignificant.

Pilot rescued

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — With NATO warplanes overhead, a team of Marines flew into northwestern Bosnia before dawn today and rescued an American F-16 pilot shot down by rebel Serbs six days ago.

Capt. Scott F. O'Grady was found alive and well near where his plane went down Friday southeast of Bihac, Defense Secretary William Perry said in Brussels, Belgium. Perry was there to meet NATO foreign ministers and discuss plans to send a force to protect peacekeepers in Bosnia.

Rescuers received a single Morse code transmission from O'Grady late Tuesday afternoon, said Ken Bacon, a spokesman for Perry.

After a positive identification, Adm. Leighton Smith, the NATO commander for southern Europe, ordered a Marine team and CH-53 and Cobra helicopters into the air from the USS Kearsarge in the Adriatic. They were escorted by F-16s and electronic warfare planes.

FDA red tape hurting patients?

By LAURAN HERRIGAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Restrictive U.S. regulations mean that medical device companies are selling their products overseas for as long as three years before they are available to American patients, the industry charged today.

A survey by the Health Industry Manufacturers Association concluded that Food and Drug Administration red tape is the main drag on the U.S. medical device field, and the group urged Congress to help.

"The study is absolute proof that the FDA is having a devastating impact," said association President Alan Magastine.

The charges come just as Congress reviews the first legislative proposal to revamp the FDA, which is responsible for protecting Americans from unsafe and ineffective medicines and devices.

And it comes even as the FDA offers evidence that it is improving — providing documents that show the average medical device submitted today has a 50 percent chance of getting an FDA decision in 90 days, down from 134 just last year.

Federal law requiring strict FDA regulation of medical devices was enacted after studies in the 1970s documented 10,000 injuries and more than 500 deaths directly related to faulty heart valves and other devices, said agency spokesman Jim O'Hara.

"The need for vigilance ... is not a thing of the past," said O'Hara, noting that six device makers alone were responsible for 300 recalls in recent years. "But public health does also mean timely review and approval of devices, and this agency has committed itself to improving its performance."

About 41 percent of the $93 billion medical device market is in the United States, said the report released today by The Wilkerson Group, a consulting firm hired by the manufacturers group. But the U.S. market share has dropped 20 percentage points since 1980, and is growing just about 10 percent a year — half as fast as the device industry abroad, Wilkerson concluded.

Much of the U.S. slowdown is unavoidable, as companies find effective treatments for diseases that negate the need for furious competition, Wilkerson director Stephen Shapiro said.

But to discover FDA's impact, Wilkerson surveyed 1,800 chief executives of device companies. Only 526 responded, although Wilkerson said that is enough to give a valid picture of industry concerns.

About 61 percent of the companies said they are selling or planning to sell new medical devices overseas before they're sold here, citing the time it takes to do FDA-mandated tests of the product and await the agency's evaluation. Sixty-six percent expect Americans to wait between one and three years for therapies Europeans will get first.

Fifty-eight percent of companies said they were moving entire manufacturing plants to Europe, again blaming FDA. However, device companies also have said they need European plants simply to facilitate selling abroad.

The report cited 100 examples of medical devices that are sold abroad but for which companies either haven't applied in the United States or whose applications are still pending at FDA. A few have caught doctors' interest, such as a heart laser, still experimental here, that may be an alternative to bypass surgery and an eye laser, nearing FDA approval, to correct nearsightedness.

But the vast majority offer only "incremental" improvements over treatments already offered to Americans, said FDA device chief Dr. Susan Alpert.

The FDA wasn't the only agency blamed for device woes. Seventy-one companies said U.S. hospitals had suspended clinical trials of their devices because Medicare does not pay for experimental treatments. That means companies either must test medical devices only in younger people or test them overseas. Fifty-nine percent chose the latter.

The device industry wants Congress to revamp the FDA. Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., introduced the first legislation to do so on Tuesday. The bill would allow outside agencies to help the FDA evaluate whether certain drugs and devices work, and would reduce the amount of proof the agency requires of new medicines.

A new use for Prozac: Relieving severe premenstrual syndrome

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — The anti-depressant Prozac greatly eases the irritability, tension and other ill effects of extreme premenstrual syndrome that afflict about 1 in 25 women, researchers say.

A large study in today's New England Journal of Medicine confirms several smaller reports showing Prozac may help at least half of the women who take it for severe PMS. Many doctors already routinely prescribe it for extreme cases.

"Prozac has revolutionized the treatment of this disorder," said Dr. Teri Pearlstein, who has used it on more than 100 women at Butler Hospital in Providence, R.I.

Dr. Samuel Wood of Palomar-Pomerado Health System in San Diego estimated he has prescribed Prozac for 400 to 500 women with PMS, and said the latest work should convince those who still have doubts. "This is a treatment that can literally change people's lives," Wood said.

The study, directed by Dr. Meir Steiner of St. Joseph's Hospital in Hamilton, Ontario, was conducted on 408 women at seven Canadian clinics. By far the largest study conducted on Prozac for PMS, it was paid for by Eli Lilly & Co., the maker of the drug.

The women were randomly assigned to take either Prozac or dummy pills. Half of those getting Prozac reported at least a 50 percent reduction in their PMS symptoms. Fewer than one quarter of those in the comparison group felt this much improvement.

An estimated 16 million people worldwide — 11 million in the United States — have taken Prozac since its introduction in 1988, largely for depression and obsessive-compulsive behavior. Use is still growing despite fears, now largely debunked, that the mind medicine causes violent and suicidal urges.

Even though depression can be a symptom of PMS, doctors believe Prozac works in premenstrual cases largely by regulating the brain's use of the chemical serotonin.

Many women feel out of sorts for a day or two around the time of their period. Steiner and others cautioned that Prozac should be reserved for the estimated 4 percent who are truly disabled by severe symptoms that last for several days.

"If patients walk into the office and say they have read about this, doctors should not take out their pads and start writing (prescriptions)," Steiner said.

Instead, he recommended doctors ask women to keep careful diaries of their symptoms for two menstrual cycles. If the symptoms go away completely between periods, doctors should then discuss whether they are severe enough to warrant using a prescription drug.

For those who need it, doctors usually recommend taking Prozac all the time. However, some are experimenting with giving it only during the last two weeks of the menstrual cycle.

Severe PMS often lasts one to two weeks of every monthly cycle. Women complain of being easily angered, as well as anxiety, sadness, crying and a variety of physical symptoms, including bloating, weight gain and breast tenderness.

Doctors say the most common side effect of Prozac is sexual problems, particularly loss of sex drive and difficulty reaching orgasm. Other effects may include nervousness, difficulty sleeping and fatigue. For some women, these are so unpleasant that they have to stop taking the medicine.

Two other treatments are also being used for severe PMS — the anti-anxiety drug Xanax, which can relieve irritability, and Lupron, which stops menstrual cycles entirely. Some women may be helped by lifestyle changes, such as relaxation techniques and exercise.

Jacksonville opened the scoring in the first on a Gary Cooper two-out home run. Ivan Cruz hit a two-run home run in the eighth for a 3-0 lead.

A news conference is set for this afternoon at the team's headquarters in Fort Lauderdale.

Jaguars sign four, waive four

JACKSONVILLE — The Jacksonville Jaguars signed four players to new contracts Wednesday — linebacker Keith Goganious, cornerback Al Jackson, running back Le'Sahi Mason and center Mark Tucker.

Terms were not announced. All four joined the Jaguars on Feb. 15 in the expansion draft.

The Jaguars now have signed all 90 players on the current roster. Because of the 90 player limit, the Jaguars had to waive four players — wide receivers Brett Bech and Matt Hall, and linebackers Ben Meinert and Andy Mason.

HOUSTON — Greg Colbrunn hit a three-run homer in the first inning and John Burkett ended a four-game losing streak with six strong innings, leading Florida to a 5-3 victory Wednesday and the Marlins' first series win over the Astros.

Burkett (4-5), who hadn't won a game since beating Montreal on May 5, allowed seven hits, struck out four and walked one. He left after giving up two hits in the seventh.

Southern Cal holds off Miami

OMAHA, Neb. — Southern California pitcher Ben Tucker blew a five-run lead, but the Trojans held on to beat Miami 7-5 on Wednesday and force an elimination game against the Hurricanes with a berth in the College World Series championship at stake.

Mantle undergoes transplant

DALLAS — Mickey Mantle, whose drinking exploits were nearly as heralded as his baseball heroics, was undergoing a liver transplant this morning after a donor was located in less than two days.

Surgery on the 63-year-old Hall of Famer began about 4 a.m., and the operation was expected to last between four and six hours, said Jennifer Jones, a spokeswoman at Baylor University Medical Center.

"He was already prepped (for surgery) so I don't think it took them very long to start after the liver arrived," she said.

Mantle's liver was rendered useless by a small malignant tumor, 40 years of heavy drinking and a long-dormant hepatitis C infection, doctors said.

Mantle was hospitalized on May 28 complaining of stomach pains. Doctors notified the Southwest Organ Bank Inc. on Tuesday that he needed a new liver within weeks to survive.

A donor was found Wednesday. The typical wait in this country for a liver transplant is 150 days.

Rabun goes nine innings in Post 53 Lightning victory

From Staff Reports

DELTONA — Jimmy Rabun tossed a nine-inning complete game Wednesday afternoon, pitching the Sanford Post 53 Sportsman Lightning to a 7-6 American Legion Class B Baseball victory over Deltona Post 223 at Deltona High School.

Class B is for players with high school eligibility remaining.

Only three of the runs Post 223 managed against Rabun were earned. He gave up eight hits while striking out seven and walking three.

"Jimmy pitched well in the first two innings," said Sanford coach Mike Powers. "The third, fourth, and fifth innings, he was so-so. He lost it a little bit right there."

"But in the sixth through the ninth innings, Jimmy pitched some of the best baseball I've seen from him. He threw hard and had a lot of confidence. He showed a lot of guts and poise in Rabun (1-1) threw 118 pitches over the nine innings.

Tied 3-3 through seven innings, the Lightning struck for four runs in the top of the ninth inning.

Brad Jenkins led off with double and Ralph Dietsman followed with a bunt single. After Dietsman stole second, Terrell Jackson doubled to score Jenkins and Dietsman.

Jackson advanced to third on a pass ball while Phillip Eubanks drew a walk. An out later, Mike Meadows singled in Jackson and Eubanks, who had stolen second.

Post 223 took advantage of a couple of Post 53 errors to score three runs in the bottom of the ninth, but Rabun was able to pitch out of the jam.

Jackson and Meadows led the Post 53 attack as they each collected a double, two singles, and two RBIs. Jenkins doubled, singled, and scored a run. Chris Louvaros hit a double and scored a run.

Dan Kemp had a single and two RBIs. Ned Raines Jr. and Dietsman each hit a single and scored a run. Alan Gehr and Brian Zaladonis both had a single. David Sweeney scored a run.

The Post 53 Lightning will host Eustis in a 6 p.m. game Friday at Seminole High School.

Meanwhile, the Post 53 Cyclones are scheduled to play a doubleheader at Lake Mary at Friday night (6 p.m.), a doubleheader Saturday morning (10 a.m.) at Seminole High School against Atlantic, and a doubleheader Sunday afternoon (2 p.m.) at Oviedo.

Rogers finds way through pile-up to victory lane

By PAUL MARABELLA
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Orlando's David Rogers "threaded the needle" through a three-car pile-up and held on to win the 25-lap Late Model feature event last Saturday, June 3, at New Smyrna Speedway.

"I saw the accident and I thought I was a goner," said Rogers, the 1994 NASCAR Winston Racing Series Late Model champion. "Then my spotter got on the radio and said, 'Look out, someone blew an engine.'"

"My spotter and I have been together so long, we think alike. I made a move and luck was on my side. I got through it without a scratch. We've had some real back luck lately. Maybe the monkey is off our back and our luck is starting to change."

On lap three, race leader Bruce Lawrence blew an engine going into turn three. Lawrence, who got into his own oil, smacked the outside wall with such impact that he got airborne and was thrown into the wall a second time.

Also collected in the mishap were Charlie Ragan Jr. and Jerry Gillard.

None of the drivers were injured, but the three cars suffered extensive damage.

Rogers, who drives the TM Ranch/Florida Orange Juice Pontiac Firebird, took the checkers in front of John Kennedy, Mike Kubanek, Rick Johns, and Jerry Glenn.

For 15 laps, Brad May held off a charging Rusty Eberole to win the Limited Late Model headliner. May exploited his advantage of starting on the pole and led every circuit in securing his third win of the season.

Chasing May and Eberole to victory lane were Bobby Sears, Tony Newsome, and Trevor Draa.

With 10 laps to the checkers, Barbara Pierce made a high groove move coming out of turn four to get by early race leader Chuck Voia and take control of the Sportsman feature event.

Once on the point, Pierce (the current NASCAR Sportsman points leader) handily pulled away from the rest of the 14-car field to notch her 10th win of the year.

Voia finished second in front of Ron Lucy, Bob Filliger, and Larry Osteen.

Anderson, Magic try to shake off Game 1 heartbreak

By FRED COBBALL
AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO — Orlando's Nick Anderson didn't offer, nor did his teammates demand, an apology for missing the biggest free throw of his career.

"I have no reason to hang my head," the sixth-year guard said Wednesday night after missing from the foul line four times in the last 10.5 seconds of regulation to give the Houston Rockets a chance to rally for a 150-118 overtime victory in Game 1 of the NBA Finals.

If he had only made one of the shots to give Orlando a four-point lead, then the Magic almost certainly would have wound up celebrating a 1-0 lead in the series instead of talking about having the character necessary to overcome the disappointment.

"I've been in that situation several times and I've come through. Tonight it just didn't happen for me. I was thinking, 'Why now?'" said Anderson, who had an otherwise superb game with 22 points, 11 rebounds, five assists and three steals.

"I think I thought about it, more than anything, when I missed the first two," he added, referring to the pair he shot with 10.5 seconds remaining. "I thought, 'What's going on?' I haven't missed four free throws in a row in who knows when. So I think it was more mental than anything."

Anderson got a temporary reprieve when he rebounded his second miss in front of the free-throw line and was fouled by Houston's Clyde Drexler with 7.9 seconds left.

Two more chances didn't help. The Rockets rebounded this time and Kenny Smith's 3-pointer with 1.6 seconds left sent the game into overtime tied 110-110.

Hakeem Olajuwon tipped in Drexler's miss with less than half a second left in the extra period to give the Rockets their sixth consecutive victory on the road in the playoffs.

"If he makes those, I think we win the game."

But it certainly wasn't Nick's fault we lost," Orlando coach Brian Hill said. "We just made too many mistakes, especially late in the game, and it caught up to us."

"We have to give him a vote of confidence," forward Donald Royal said. "We never should have let him get into that situation. We should have never let the game come down to free throws."

Game 2 is Friday night at Orlando Arena and, once again, the Magic's resilience will be tested. Anderson, a 78 percent foul shooter during the playoffs before Wednesday, said he won't dwell on what might have been.

And, he's confident his teammates, despite being in the Finals for the first time, won't either. So are the Rockets.

"This puts a lot of pressure on them to win Game 2, but this Orlando team has a lot of talent," Olajuwon said. "They are warriors. They will fight back. There's a lot of basketball to be

"It's a heartbreaker, but I guess that's where my experience comes in to play," said Grant, who helped the Chicago Rockets trim the Magic to 1-1 at the half and continued to chip away at the lead in the third quarter.

"We let one get away - that's plain and simple," Anderson said. "But the morale of this team is still up. We've just got to come back and play good basketball Friday night."

The Magic has played well when backed into a corner, but this is the first time in this postseason that they have fallen behind in a series.

Houston's experience is one of the reasons many pick the Rockets to repeat as champions. Horace Grant is the only player on Orlando's roster that has been in the Finals before.

Pilot Club visits school Second-graders presented flags, bookmarks

By HEATHER GIBSON
Herald Correspondent

Some of the members of the Pilot Club of Sanford recently visited Myrtlewood Elementary School to present bookmarks and flags to each student in the second grade. Myrtlewood has five second grades with a total of 127 second-grade students. The club wishes to thank students with knowledge of the flag, what it stands for, what to do, etc., and to present a flag for patriotism.

The second grades have just completed a study of the United States. Eric Asgaard, member of one of the classes, has been a member of Myrtlewood for 14 years. Miss Fulkerson, principal of the class, said "Student of the Week."

This is the fourth year the Pilot Club has made its presentation to highlight historical day. They choose a different school each year. This is just one of the many projects the club is doing throughout the year. They go to the Good Samaritan home each month to visit residents who celebrated a birthday that month. They also have appeared the naturalization program for the past three years; 350 people were made new citizens this year. The club has presented awards to Sanford and Lakeview Middle Schools for academic improvement and have many more projects accomplished.

Jerry has Elvis' recipe fan requested

DEAR JERRY: I have been trying to contact the "spirit of Elvis" to get the correct recipe for this "peanut butter and banana sandwich," but I haven't been able to reach him yet. I even wrote to Greenland and waited, but never got an answer. Can you contact Elvis for me and get the recipe? I feel such a connection with him through this sandwich for some reason — it's as if he were trying to tell me something. Please help me if you can.

ELVIS FANATO
DEAR JERRY: I have been trying to contact the "spirit of Elvis" to get the correct recipe for this "peanut butter and banana sandwich," but I haven't been able to reach him yet. I even wrote to Greenland and waited, but never got an answer. Can you contact Elvis for me and get the recipe? DEAR MR. STEWART: Can you tell me whatever happened to Patty Hearst since she got out of prison? Someone told me they saw her in a...
ALANETTE'S GRAND
DEAR ALANETTE: Someone told me you correctly as she appeared in a film with Johnny Depp and the former fat Ricki Lake, called "Cry Baby." It was a '50s musical spoof of sorts and Patty Hearst played a school traffic guard helping children who just got off a school bus that was driven by David Nelson. By the way, Patty Hearst married her bodyguard, a former Secret Service agent. It's the movie that Johnny Depp would like to forget!

DEAR MR. STEWART: Will I ever be famous? Will I become an actor that I want to be and have money to burn? Will women find me exciting and throw themselves at my feet? How many homes will I have? How many children do you see in my future and how many times will I be married? I heard that you're pretty good and can predict the future. Can you predict my future: what else do you see for me and to there anything that I should watch out for?

DEAR KEN: And all I wanted for Christmas was my two front teeth. Whoo! First of all, I have a feeling that your name is not Ken. I think that you took that name from Barbie's boyfriend

Missing phone pages irk reader

DEAR ARBY: I'm 28 years old. I've been reading your column since I was in middle school, and until now, I never felt the need to write to you.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I can't tell you how many times I've tried to look up a number or address to discover that the page which has the information I need is missing. The other day, I was sitting in a restaurant when I saw a lady (if one could justifiably call her that) rip out a whole page from the telephone book and put it in her pocket! I felt like going up to her and giving her "what for," but I held my tongue.

PLANNING A WEDDING
DEAR PLANNING: To make any reference to gifts on the wedding invitations would be most improper. However, your idea of informing the guests that your daughter is registered at a store in Mexico is a practical solution, considering the tariffs if gifts are carried or mailed into the country.

DEAR REQUESTER: You are not alone. I'm sure many who read this will identify with that frustrating experience. Who knows, because you took the time to write to me — and I thought your letter worthy of publication — many more telephone books may remain intact.

DEAR ARBY: Your column on how to spot a potential abuser knocked me for a loop. I am a woman, and as I read the 15 warning signs, I saw myself. I was horrified that this could be me!

DEAR ARBY: Our daughter is getting married in her hometown in Pennsylvania. She and her fiancé (who is a Mexican citizen) are working in Mexico and will live there following their wedding.

DEAR ARBY: I asked my husband if I was controlling, isolating him from his friends or verbally abusive, and when he said "Yes," I started to cry. He hugged me; then I asked him to read your column.

Cholesterol: To treat or not treat

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 74-year-old female and my cholesterol level is 300. I also have a high triglyceride level and a high LDL. My doctor has indicated several times he doesn't advise medication since this would be a long-range cure and wouldn't help me unless I want to live to be 100. What are your thoughts on this?

DEAR READER: You raise an interesting problem: whether to treat high blood-fat levels in the elderly.

Until fairly recently, medical opinion favored treating all patients with elevated cholesterol (above 200 milligrams per deciliter) and triglycerides (above 150 mg/dL). Initially, dietary modifications were urged, to be followed by medication (Mevacor and others), if necessary.

However, studies reported in the last few months have indicated that high fat-levels, especially cholesterol, in persons over 70 probably can be ignored. At the very least, such levels can be addressed by reducing dietary fat, without the need for medication, which is expensive and may cause side effects, such as liver inflammation.

Obviously, each example must be judged on a case-by-case basis, but the general recommendations are clear: The elderly are not statistically as prone to heart attacks from excessive cholesterol as are younger patients.

I think that your physician's comments, although off-hand, border on the cavalier. We all want to live longer. He doesn't have to be snippy about your wish for extended good health. Nonetheless, he's probably correct. In your case, the risks of treatment may well outweigh the benefits. As a result -- and as a compromise -- I suggest the following:

Limit your intake of saturated fat, in the form of eggs, whole milk, butter, cheese, mayonnaise, iced cream, bacon, sausage, and luncheon meats. Take one portion of Metamucil daily. (This product may lower the cholesterol level by several points.) Exercise regularly. Moderate alcohol consumption. Then have your blood fats measured in a couple of months. I'd be surprised if you don't see a reduction in the levels of blood fat.

VIRGO

We say that one crosses ruffs back and forth. But in a bridge column, perhaps we should call it "up and down," since the North hand is printed above the South hand. Whatever the semantics of the situation, while crossruffing, as we saw yesterday, it is usually advantageous to avoid an overruff. Today's deal highlights a variation on this theme.

Some aggressive bidding pushed South into four hearts. Two spades was a game-try. North, with four trumps, a singleton and good controls (the ace and kings of the bridge realm), was happy to accept the try, jumping to four hearts.

After West had led the club queen, South saw that the deal was ideally set up for a crossruff. Yet he had to be careful to avoid an overruff. South won with dummy's club ace, cashed dummy's diamond ace, ruffed a diamond in hand, cashed the spade ace, ruffed a spade in the dummy, ruffed a diamond in hand and ruffed a spade in the dummy.

Declarer had taken the first seven tricks. Dummy, on lead, was left with the K-10 of hearts, the J-4 of diamonds and two clubs. South had the A-J of hearts, the spade jack and three clubs.

South made no mistake. He ruffed the diamond four with his heart ace, ruffed the spade jack with dummy's heart king and ruffed the diamond jack with his heart jack. Even if West overruffed, dummy's heart 10 was declarer's 10th trick.

By ruffing high twice, South avoided any risk of an overruff followed by a trump return.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

By Bernice Bode Coel

New and greater desires for material gratification could fire up your ambitions in the year ahead. Motivation would help you acquire what the world has to offer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you get involved in some sort of friendly competition today, keep everything light and fun. Do not permit yourself or others to take the involvement too seriously. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and $ASE to Astro-Graph c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) If you don't operate on a strict schedule today, you might find that the duties you should have finished earlier overlap with later ones.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Your instincts will direct you to the right things in matters concerning your security today. Try to use the same discretion in social and commercial situations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) You usually try to be a giving and considerate person, but today you might step out of character and display some stinginess toward companions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Let situations that presently function smoothly run their courses today. If you step in and try to orchestrate changes, you might jam up the machinery.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Guard against the inclination to misread the intentions of associates. They could say and mean one thing, and you could interpret it entirely differently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Pride may cause you to look for scapegoats today if things don't go just as you hope. You mustn't try to make others look bad to make yourself look good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) You will know your proper course of action today, yet you might still operate against your better judgment. Try not to trip over your own shoelaces.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Reciprocate in a like manner today if friends go out of their way to help you. A failure to do so will leave a bad, lasting impression.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today it would be better to say no up front than to make an agreement you can't keep. The former plan will win admirers, the latter will lose them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will get more accomplished today if you do what needs doing on your own instead of waiting for someone else to issue directives and serve as an overseer.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will have an innate ability to organize and delegate today, but you must contribute as well. Instead of telling others what to do, try setting an example.
