Nelson charges rival

ASSEE — Congressman Bill Nelson charged his rival in the Democratic race for governor, Lawton Chiles, with omitting a $1.25-million, tax-free loan Chiles helped get for his son, Lawton "Bud" Chiles III, in 1984 to build the Governor's Inn in Tallahassee.

Cocaine mom arrested

SANFORD — Sanford police investigator James McAuliffe reports the arrest Thursday afternoon of a Sanford woman charged with delivering cocaine to her unborn baby through her umbilical cord. The charge is delivery of a controlled substance to a minor.

Stephanie Lydia McClain, 28, of 1403 W. 13th Place, Sanford, gave birth in Sanford on May 6 to a baby girl who at birth tested positive for cocaine, along with the mother, McAuliffe reported.

McClain entered a cocaine addiction treatment program in Apopka June 18, but dropped out June 25, saying she didn't have a problem, McAuliffe said. Since McClain didn't continue her treatment, charges were filed against her in Seminole County where pioneering measures of arrest and offers of treatment to avoid prosecution are being made to addicted mothers who give birth to cocaine babies.

Today is Friday the 13th

PHILADELPHIA — For people who say they are not superstitious, breaking a mirror separates the fearful from the fearless.

Or so says Arthur Klein, a second generation member of the Friday-the-13th Club.

"It's really where the test comes," Klein said Thursday. "When it comes time to take that hammer and break that mirror, that separates people who can deal with superstition from the people who can't."

The Friday-the-13th Club, which has 13 permanent members, only meets on a Friday the 13th, which occurs twice in 1990, in April and July. The members get together to break mirrors, walk under ladders and toss salt over their shoulders.

The club was started in 1936 by Klein's father, Phillip Klein, and meetings always start promptly at 12:13 p.m. and end at 1:13 p.m., or 13:13 military time.

SANFORD — Traffic between 18th and 13th streets on French Avenue, U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, may be slightly different than usual until probably 3 p.m. tomorrow afternoon.

Rather than cars, trucks, vans and motorcycles, it will be soap box derby race cars, as the second annual Sanford Soap Box Derby gets underway.

For spectators, bleachers will be set up on both sides of the street between 15th and 18th streets.

A total of 22 entrants have signed up and had their vehicles approved for participation this year. 8 racers are in the Masters class, 14 are entered in the Kit Car division.

The schedule of events is as follows:

5:30 a.m., French Avenue will be blocked off for north-south traffic, between 18th and 13 streets, to

SANFORD — The grassy shoulders of county roadways will deteriorate during the next year because of cutbacks made by Seminole County commissioners Thursday, increasing county liability, the county public works director said.

"(The condition) will drop off some," said Larry Sellers, director of the Seminole County Public Works Department. "And accidents because of poorly-maintained shoulders are among the largest liabilities a county faces."

Thursday, commissioners slashed $588,181 from the proposed $212.5 million 1990-1991 budget to hire six people, four trucks and other equipment needed to establish a second shoulder maintenance crew to repair and maintain the edges of roadways.

But commissioners balked, facing a possible

Dedication set for Lake Mary City Hall

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — With their discussion of the 1991 budget being piped into the hallways and the walkways outside, Lake Mary city commissioners last night met for the first time in the new city hall chambers.

The 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd. facility will be dedicated tomorrow at 10 a.m. Dedication ceremonies will be followed by an open house and public tours.

Several new features distinguish the chambers from the former chambers at 158 N. Country Club Road, which was built in the 1920s.

The new chambers are equipped with a public address system that broadcasts the meeting throughout the building's lobby and halls and its exterior walkways and patio area. The system will allow overflow crowds to hear meetings outside the 100-seat auditorium. In the former 75-seat chambers, people forced out of the building by standing-room-only crowds occasionally would strain to hear the meetings from open windows or doors.

The auditorium also features a computer-driven projector to provide improved displays of land surveys, statistical reports, zoning plans, maps and other materials. The equipment replaces an overhead projector used at the former chambers.

The new auditorium offers theater-style seating for 100 people,

Longwood may get new city hall in near future

LONGWOOD — It may not happen next month or even the month following, but Historic Longwood may be seeing the start of construction for a new city hall in the not-too-distant future, a project that has been called for by residents and city officials for a number of years.

It would be difficult to find many people in Longwood who don't recognize the need for a new City Hall and Community Building. Both have long since ceased to be utilitarian, and maintenance costs are naturally climbing as age takes over. The City Hall is actually two separate buildings, a main office and an annex. Both are overcrowded, and while city workers are able to and room for some additional chairs.

The auditorium will also be used by the planning and zoning commission and other city boards.

Fess to resign as mayor to pursue Sturm's seat

By J. MARK BARFIELD

LAKE MARY — Dick Fess announced Thursday he will resign July 19 after nearly six years as Lake Mary mayor to pursue his campaign for Seminole County commission.

"I've decided this is the best way because I have a campaign to win and it's not fair to the city to put my campaign, first while serving as mayor," Fess said in a press release.

"It's one of the toughest decisions I've had to make in a long time. I care deeply for the constituents in Lake Mary, but I've got to put 110 percent over the next six weeks in my county commission race."

Fess could not be reached Thursday or this morning.

Fess's campaign manager, Ken W. Wright, said Fess had planned "all along" to resign during the last city commission meeting before qualifying ends.

"We had discussions early on that he couldn't effectively serve the residents and run a campaign too," Wright said. "It really wasn't an event we thought would be newsworthy until he made the an-

Museum may receive grant from tourist tax proceeds

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — The Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum may receive a $150,000 grant from county tourist development tax proceeds this year — a shot in the arm for the museum's expansion plans.

Although the Tourist Development Council rejected a $400,000 request for the project as too large, Seminole County commissioners were receptive Thursday to granting the reduced amount to begin the eventual tripling of the museum space on First Street.

If commissioners do pay for the museum, the county tourist grant program will expand to about $721,000. Other grants approved for the 1990-1991 county budget include $150,000 for establishment of a beach on Holiday Isle, $11,000 for St. Lucia Festival promotion and $12,000 for promotion of the Golden Age Games.

The Central Florida Zoological Park will continue to receive a quarter of the tourist tax collection, projected to be $160,549 next year.

Sanford commissioners have already pledged $100,000 for the expansion and about $25,000 has been raised from private donations towards the $1.2 million expansion by the Sanford Historical Society.

CIA building controversy finalized with purchase

LAKE MARY — With the stroke of a pen, Lake Mary City Commissioners yesterday finalized the purchase of the Civic Improvement Association Building, 260 North Country Club Road, and brought to a conclusion most of the controversy surrounding the acquisition.

Whether or not Lake Mary should purchase the building, which sits on city property, was a subject of controversy at a number of previous city commission meetings.

Because the CIA building was originally built through donations of Lake Mary citizens, many residents felt they would be paying for it a second time through their tax dollars. Also questioned was whether or not

Judge disqualifies self from Finno trial

FORT LAUDERDALE — Broward County Circuit Judge Daniel Futch Jr. has deferred a ruling on a request he disqualify himself from the racketeering trial of Ralph and Tony Finno because he accepted an earring from a prosecutor in the case.

Bruce Zimet, a defense attorney for Tony Finno, asked the judge to excuse himself because Futch accepted a gag gift of an earring from Assistant Statewide Prosecutor Doug Molloy.

The Finno brothers were scheduled to begin trial Monday, but Futch granted a postponement.

Anti-Castro activist urges Bosch release

MIAMI — Friends of jailed anti-Castro activist Orlando Bosch are urging the Justice Department to modify its conditions for Bosch's release from prison.

"What you are proposing not only wounds the dignity of Dr. Bosch," they wrote in a petition presented Thursday, "it hurts the sensibilities of those of us who came to this land in search of understanding our national drama."

Bosch, 63, has refused to accept the government's condition that he record the names of visitors and other contacts if he is released from prison and placed under house arrest. He has said such a practice would make him appear to be an informant.

Bosch's lawyers are trying to get the Justice Department to drop the visitor's log requirement.

USF research grant jumps 33 percent

TAMPA — Research grant funding at the University of South Florida College of Medicine has jumped 33 percent this year to $18.9 million, officials said.

The grants awarded to medical researchers during the fiscal year ended June 30 represent a $4.7 million increase over the previous year, said school spokesman Michael Hoad. Most of the grants come from federal and state governments, pharmaceutical companies and private foundations, he said.

The USF system received about $55 million in grants last year.

In 1989, medical school grants climbed by 24 percent, and year before that, grants to the state medical school rose by more than 80 percent, Hoad said.

Police arrest Columbian man, seize cash

TALLAHASSEE — Police have seized $380,000 during the arrest of a Colombian man charged with trying to buy cocaine from a federal undercover agent.

Jorge Alberto Rodriguez was charged with buying 220 pounds of cocaine from a Customs agent. His arrest resulted from a three-month investigation that police said shows that north Florida is becoming a more popular area for drug traffickers.

More arrests were expected in the case. Police did not reveal details of the arrest and seizure, noting that the case is still under investigation.

Rains provide relief for Okfenokee fire

OKEFENOKEE SWAMP, Ga. — Much-needed rain dampened wildfires in the Okfenokee Swamp in south Georgia overnight, but firefighters said Friday much more is needed to put out the blazes that have scorched the wilderness area for nearly a week.

Some 3,900 acres of the wildlife refuge and park have been blackened since lightning touched off fires there last Saturday, and officials are fearful the blaze could move beyond the boundaries of the refuge to burn valuable timberland and private homes in south Georgia and north Florida.

Officials said thunderstorms that swept the area Thursday helped firefighters hold the fire at bay but were not enough to extinguish the blaze.

The water level in the 400,000-acre refuge is at its lowest level in 40 years.

Broward homeless population increases

FORT LAUDERDALE — The number of homeless in Broward County has increased by almost one-third in the past year, with nearly 5,000 adults and children sleeping in abandoned buildings, cars and vacant lots, a report says.

The biggest increase was among the so-called new homeless — working poor, struggling young families and victims of catastrophe — said the report released Thursday by the Homeless Coalition of Broward County.

"It's a little frightening," said Thera Petro, a social worker who helps the homeless. "You're talking about people who probably were self-sufficient and have found themselves in a position that doesn't allow them to be self-sufficient anymore. If you were out of work two months, would you be able to maintain your family, paying rent, paying utilities?"

Advocates for the homeless could not say exactly what caused the increase but cited rising unemployment rates as one reason.

Nelson hammers at Chiles' finance

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Congressman Bill Nelson took another swing at his rival in the Democratic race for governor Thursday, accusing Lawton Chiles of failing to report another taxpayer-subsidized loan.

"Lawton Chiles got into this race after I did, saying he wanted open and clean government," Nelson said, adding that Chiles ought to live up to his words by disclosing all his finances.

Nelson charged on Monday that Chiles omitted a $1.25-million, tax-free loan Chiles helped get for his son, Lawton "Bud" Chiles III, in 1984 to build the Governor's Inn in Tallahassee.

He said Thursday that Chiles also signed off on a $1.5-million loan in 1983, bringing to $2.75 million the total amount of federal loans Chiles helped secure for his son while he served in the U.S. Senate.

Both loans were from the Industrial Development Revenue Bond and would not have been approved without Chiles' signature, Chiles and his son have said.

In another loan-related issue, the Tampa Tribune reported Thursday that Bud Chiles has failed to pay back a $1-million loan to a bank whose chairman is a friend with Lawton Chiles. Nelson had no comment on that situation.

Nelson refused to say Thursday that his opponent omitted the loans on purpose from his financial disclosure records or that he used his influence as a U.S. senator to help out his son.

But Nelson said that the financial disclosure raises questions about Chiles' commitment to open government.

"I'm saying a pattern is being developed here of non-disclosure," Nelson said. "The public has a right to know. It smacks of something that ought to be disclosed."

Senate rules require the disclosure of all financial liabilities, but when Chiles signed the papers for the loans, issued in 1983 and 1984, he did not report them, Nelson said. Chiles said it was an oversight.

Officials ease daytime watering ban

United Press International

WEST PALM BEACH — Homeowners in 16 south Florida counties will be allowed to water lawns and wash cars more frequently under a modified daytime water-use plan approved Thursday by regional water managers.

The South Florida Water Management District voted to allow homeowners who have been under the strict Phase I regulations to sprinkle lawns in the morning and evening, limiting the watering ban to between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily, district spokeswoman Ann Overton said.

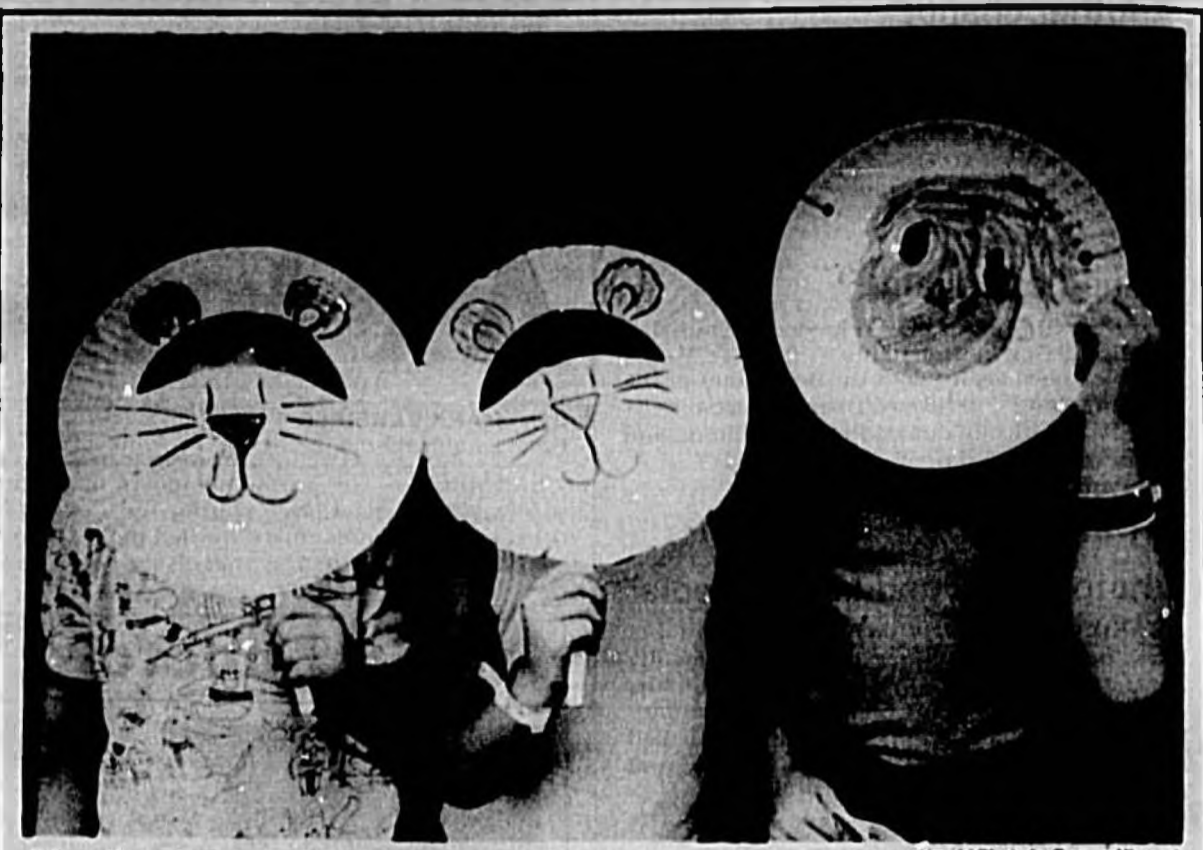

Under Phase I regulations, watering and car washing was limited to three times a week between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m.

The new rules, which will go into effect on Monday, also allow car washing and hand watering with hoses that have self-cancelling nozzles at anytime. The use of low-volume irrigation systems also is not restricted, Overton said.

"We wanted specifically to get out of the 4 a.m. to 8 a.m. watering schedule and start people on the road to thinking of watering only when they need to and especially not during peak daytime hours," she said.

The new water-use restrictions affect Lee County, northern Collier County, the lakeshore rim towns of Lake Okechobee, and the urban areas from Palm Beach Gardens to Key West.

Because of continuing low groundwater levels in Jupiter and Tequesta, that northeast Palm Beach County area will remain indefinitely under the regular Phase I restrictions.

Blacks, Jews plan to counter Klan rally

United Press International

PALM BEACH — Black and Jewish groups in Palm Beach County announced plans to hold a counter-protest during the Ku Klux Klan march along the exclusive Worth Avenue shopping district July 28.

"I think that it's important that all communities come together, black and white, Jewish and Gentile, to make a statement that the days of racism and Klan are on the way out," said the Rev. Thomas Masters, pastor of the New Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church in Riviera Beach. He organized an anti-Klan protest at the county government center last year.

The black and Jewish groups said Wednesday they originally were planning separate counter demonstrations.

West Palm Beach physician Gayle Kesselman and her husband Lynn, a financial and legal consultant, were drumming up support in the Jewish community when they learned of Master's organizing efforts.

"So we decided to combine efforts," Kesselman said.

The counter-rally follows a July 2 decision by U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger to strike down a Palm Beach city ordinance restricting parades and demonstrations.

Roettger ordered the city to issue a permit allowing as many as 450 Klan members to stage a march.

Water district levies fine against farmer

Attorneys for both sides are expected to meet this week to hammer out a consent order.

Cops bust students' cops-and-robbers plot during beach shootout film session

United Press International

FORT WALTON BEACH — Nine college students making an amateur cops-and-robbers film got a scary dose of reality when armed officers came to their makeshift set and told them to drop their weapons, authorities said Thursday.

"We approached the subjects from a concealed area and did what we normally do: basically (we) ordered the subjects to drop their weapons, then secured the area," said Lt. Brad Williams of the Florida Marine Patrol.

It turns out the weapons were replicas, and the suspects budding filmmakers.

Williams said the students were "armed" with all-metal replicas that have plugged barrels and no firing mechanisms. But only a close examination can distinguish them from the real thing, he said.

"These are not toys," said Williams, who noted such replicas are purchased through magazines or specialty stores.

Williams said the patrol received a report Wednesday of several people loading automatic weapons onto a boat on a dock. His first thought was that it was a customs violation.

Two FMP officers went to the scene at 10 a.m. CDT, followed by city police. They ordered the students to drop their weapons and lie spread-eagled on the ground, then they frisked them.

"I was shaking in my boots. It was wild," said Kenny Harris, 19, a student at Florida State University. He recalled at least one officer telling the boys not to make any false moves.

Man charged in sex case

CASSELBERRY — City police here report charging Ronald Eugene Duke, 20, 773 Sand Piper Lane, Casselberry, with committing a lewd and lascivious act on a child.

He was arrested at the police station Thursday and is held without bond. A 14-year-old girl reported to police that she was with Duke and other people at a Casselberry house Wednesday night when he allegedly had sex with her against her will.

Burglary suspect caught running

SANFORD — A witness told Sanford police he caught a man who was running from a burglarized car behind 2503 Elm Ave., Sanford, at about 10:40 p.m. Thursday.

That led to a charge of burglary to a vehicle against Jason Troy Friddle, 21, 2545 Park Drive #57, Sanford. The witness was holding Friddle on the ground when police arrived on the scene, an arrest report said.

Ex-boyfriend accused in burglary

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Carolyn E. Duke reported to Altamonte Springs police she had seen her ex-boyfriend force entry to her truck at 515 Heaton St., at about 6:20 p.m. Thursday.

Police arrived to charge Charles Randolph Mawby, 41, of Orlando, with burglary at 6:32 p.m. Thursday.

New worker's comp law spurs more suits

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — State insurance officials are insisting they can calm the storm of protest over the new workers' compensation law, but that hasn't stemmed the rising tide of lawsuits seeking relief from its provisions.

Four small contractors in Marion County and two others in Clay filed suit Wednesday in their respective counties, hoping to win a favorable ruling halting enforcement of the law.

The suits are virtually identical to one filed last week by two Putnam County contractors who managed to persuade a court to block enforcement of the new rules in their county. A Hillsborough County contractor is also seeking relief from the rule.

Meanwhile, state Department of Insurance officials said they expect to issue an emergency rule by early next week that would provide some relief to small contractors who have protested changes in the workers' compensation law.

Under the emergency rule, sole proprietors and partners who had a "minimum premium policy" to cover their workers and personal disability and health insurance for themselves could continue to obtain construction permits.

The measure would be in effect for 90 days and would give officials time to develop a long-term solution. It would also help the Legislature avoid a special session to deal with the situation.

Commission makes few changes in budget

AMY WILSON Herald Intern

LAKE MARY — Last amid thunder and lightning, the city commission and staff members met for its first review of the proposed $9.9 million budget for 1991.

No major decisions or changes in the proposal were made last night, although City Manager John Litton pointed out four items not included in the budget as potential candidates for funding. These areas included the future of Rinehart Road, the Lake Mary Boulevard beautification project, money for additional land acquisition, and a new fire truck.

"It's pretty much status quo," Litton said. "The budget as it was proposed is still in tact. They didn't ax anything or take anything out, but that doesn't mean they won't."

No increases in taxes were included in the proposed budget, and unless further budget sessions produce drastic changes, it appears as though the millage rate of 3.8991 will be allowed to remain unchanged for next year, as it has for the past three years. At present, a mill in the City of Lake Mary is projected to represent $355,986 for 1991, as compared to $291,820 in 1990.

The tentative millage rate will be decided at next week's regular City Commission meeting on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Budget Director Robert Lockridge presented the budget using a new computerized projection screen, which allowed highlighting of areas that were being discussed.

Lockridge, who prepared the budget along with City Manager John Litton, said he used two rules when drawing up the document.

"We should end the year with a positive fund balance, and nowhere should we fund recurring needs with non-recurring funds," he said.

Last night Lockridge and Litton reviewed the sources and uses of all budgeted funds, general funds and revenues for the 1991 fiscal year.

The proposed budget showed an increase in the city's incoming funds: a total drawing pool of $4,535,322 for 1991, up from 1990's $4,304,486, and 1989's $4,095,142.

Major sources of this income include ad valorem taxes, court fines, taxes on electric power and telephone utilities, sales taxes and interest earnings. The budget proposal submitted to the commission projects General Fund revenues will increase by 4.5 percent during fiscal year 1991.

Commissioner George Duryea questioned this balance, saying it was too high and suggesting that the money could be more effectively used if it was budgeted for use in other more specific areas.

City, chamber sponsor health fair

By MICK PFEIFAU Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Over 30 separate displays and information booths were kept busy Thursday at the Sanford Civic Center as the City of Sanford, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and Central Florida Regional Hospital joined together in sponsoring a one-day Health and Safety Fair yesterday.

A large turnout of visitors received free blood sugar checks, cancer tests, lung screening and eye tests. At times, visitors were even standing in line to receive free cholesterol and blood pressure checks. Pamphlets and information were also handed out on everything from preventing substance abuse to identifying poisonous snakes.

On hand for the children were P.C. the Talking Police Car, Smokey the Bear and McGruff the "Take a Bite out of Crime" dog. One demonstration popular with all age groups was sponsored by Florida Power and Light, showing the many risks around the average home and neighborhood that could lead to possible electrical shocks. The theme of the event was

"Start Today Anew, with a Safer and Healthier You," and according to chamber Executive Director David Farr, "You could actually walk in there and find out enough information to change your entire life." Farr said he was extremely pleased over the large turnout, but said, "Where else could you find, under one roof, total health care and personal needs care information and assistance, all free of charge?"

Theaters in Lake Mary open tonight

By MICK PFEIFAU Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — The new Litchfield Theatres of Central Florida will open as planned tonight at 6 p.m. Located on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Weldon Boulevard, the new complex boasts 10 screens and will begin operation with the latest hit motion pictures available.

William Korenbrot, Central Florida division manager for Litchfield Theatres, Ltd., said final touches were still being put on the building just hours away from opening the doors. "We're looking to the heavens on this," Korenbrot said, "but I'm sure we'll be open and everything will come out right."

The theater complex, which lies totally within the city limits of Lake Mary, had applied for a variance on the sign code to allow the name of the theatre to be placed across the top of the building, and a marquee for the side of the structure, large enough to display the titles of each of the 10 motion pictures to be shown. The Lake Mary City Commission, however, found the request to be beyond the sign code limitations and allowed only 100 square feet of sign to be utilized, the same amount allowed for even the smallest shop in Victoria Square where the 10-theater complex is located.

"All we have right now," Korenbrot said, "is the sign that says Litchfield Theatres, but we are definitely in business."

The theater is located at 3850 N. U.S. Highway 17-92.

NASA set for critical test to pinpoint Atlantis leak

By WILLIAM HARWOOD UPI science writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Engineers readied the shuttle Atlantis for a key fueling test Friday to pinpoint a hydrogen leak and to find out if it involves seals like those suspected in a leak that grounded the shuttle Columbia.

"Everybody's betting we're going to find something," said Conrad Nagel, the engineer in charge of Atlantis's ground processing. "Hopefully, it won't be too bad and it'll be a seal that we can go change out and waltz away from this. That would be great."

Columbia's launch on a 10-day astronomy mission was called off just six hours before its planned May 30 liftoff when sensors detected high concentrations of hydrogen gas leaking into the ship's engine room.

Space agency managers then decided to proceed with a mid-July launch of Atlantis on a military flight, but a similar leak was detected during a fueling test two weeks ago that forced NASA to ground the shuttle fleet.

Long arm of the law didn't reach Marcos

Among the most avid observers of the trial and acquittal of Imelda Marcos must surely have been the defense team charged with representing former Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega. Noriega's attorneys must be heartened by the Marcos jury's strong reservations about trying a foreigner in a U.S. court. They are reservations worth considering.

The jurisdictional issue wasn't the only reason jurors acquitted the former Philippine first lady on charges that she raided her nation's treasury of some $220 million and invested the money in art, antiques and Manhattan real estate. The prosecution's case was weak. Jurors said they weren't persuaded that Imelda Marcos was aware of any wrongdoing.

Jurors also suggested that their verdict might have been different if her late husband, ousted Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos, had been on trial (Both Marcoses were indicted in 1988, but Ferdinand Marcos died last fall.)

Prosecutors claimed that the involvement of U.S. banks and real estate gave the U.S. court system jurisdiction in the case. That seemed to be stretching the long arm of U.S. law to unreasonable lengths since the Marcoses were accused of stealing money from the Philippines, not from the United States.

Imeldo Marcos flamboyant defense attorney, Gerry Spence, compared his client to Nancy Reagan. "Suppose Mrs. Reagan were abducted from her home in California and taken to the Philippines and charged in the Philippines with crimes she allegedly committed in the United States. How do you think Mrs. Reagan would feel?"

Far from committing crimes against the United States, the Marcoses' investments had been inspired by loyalty to America, Spence claimed. The jurors may not have bought his argument that the Marcoses were simply trying to protect the Filipino treasury from a possible communist takeover — on the advice of the CIA and former Vice President George Bush — but they were obviously troubled by the political overtones of the case.

"It was on the wrong side of the ocean," one juror told reporters.

And so it was. That may turn out to be small consolation for Manuel Noriega, since he's accused of committing drug crimes that hurt the United States, not his own country. Nevertheless, the Marcos verdict should serve as a warning to Noriega's prosecutors. They had better be absolutely sure that the people of the United States, not the people of Panama, were the victims of Noriega's alleged crimes.

Bigger rigs keep on truckin' on I-5

OLYMPIA, Wash. — Nowhere in the nation are there more double-trailer trucks — massive rigs 65 to 70 feet long — than on Interstate 5, the West Coast's new "Main Street" stretching from north of Seattle to south of San Diego.

Although a 1982 federal law opened certain roads in every state to double-trailer trucks, the names of the most often used combinations — Western Doubles and Rocky Mountain Doubles — identify their region of preference.

A Western Double is a tractor hauling two trailers of the same size. Each is typically 28 feet long but some are up to 35 feet long. A Rocky Mountain Double includes a tractor followed by a long trailer, usually 40 feet long, and another shorter trailer.

For years, those rigs have terrified motorists throughout the West as the trucks veered across mountain passes, swayed around curves and lurched through urban traffic. Now, the trucking industry is poised to launch a campaign for government approval of even heavier, wider and longer trucks.

When Congress begins fashioning new highway legislation late this year or early next year, the industry will be pressing for federal approval of:

The Turnpike Double, a 110-foot-long, nine-axle, 34-wheel behemoth that consists of a tractor pulling a pair of full-length trailers, each 48 feet long. Current law allows only the tractor and one such trailer.

The Triple Tractor,

an expanded version (about 100 feet long) of the Western Double in which a tractor pulls three trailers, each 28 feet long. Current law allows only the tractor and two such trailers.

Such mega-trucks, their proponents claim, will increase productivity and reduce costs because shippers can use fewer cabs and drivers to haul more goods. Moreover, the industry argues that replacing the trucks now in use with fewer but larger vehicles will reduce operating consumption, air pollution and highway congestion.

But railroad shipment of freight consumes even less energy, produces less pollution and occupies no valuable highway space. Moreover, there is evidence that larger multi-unit trucks pose unacceptably high safety risks on the nation's roads.

A relatively recent study conducted in the state of Washington found that double-trailer trucks are especially prone to accidents. That study's conclusion:

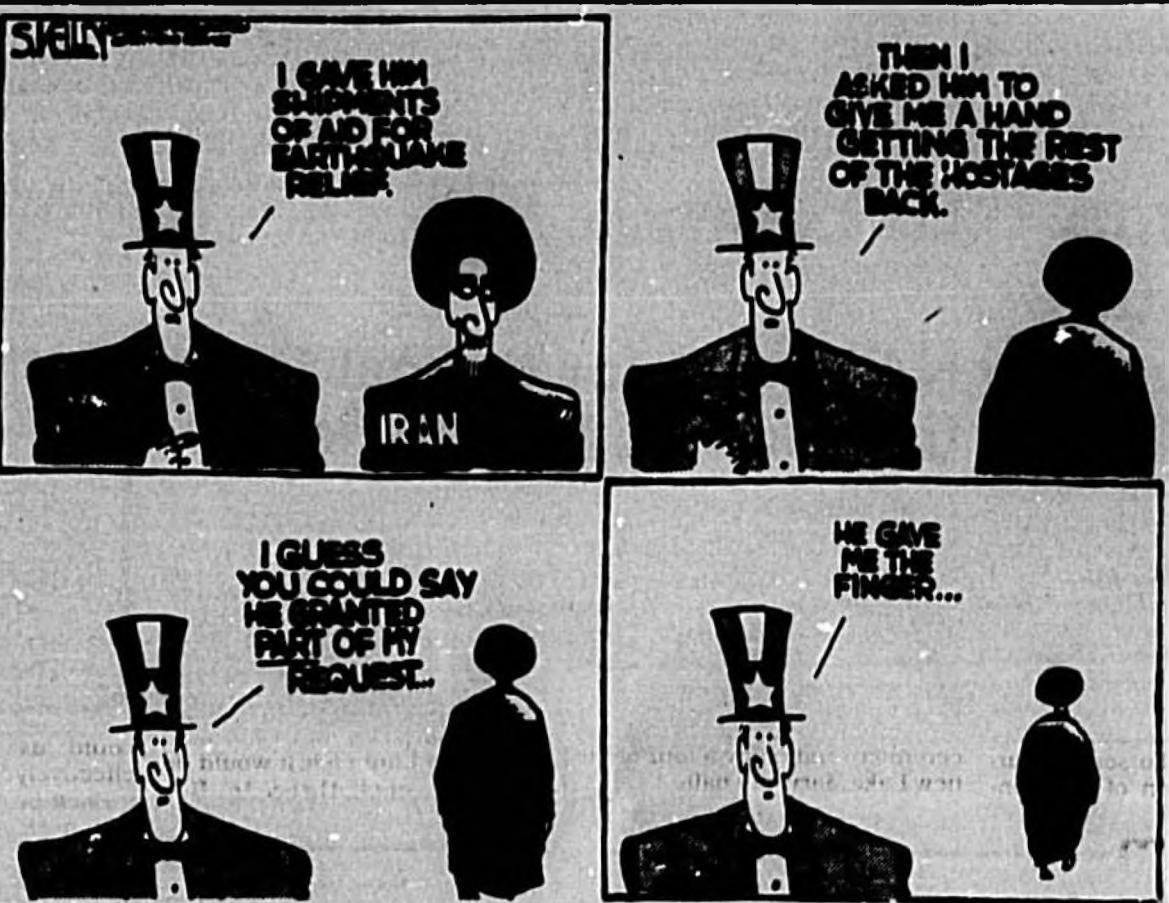

"When the crash involvement of doubles was compared to that of (single) tractor-trailers operating under similar conditions, doubles were involved in crashes two to three times more often.

"If the use of doubles becomes more widespread throughout the interstate highway system and connecting roads, an inevitable result will be increased numbers of truck crashes."

That study, conducted by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, did not even consider the potential danger posed by the bigger doubles or huge triples being proposed.

For years, those rigs have terrified motorists throughout the West.

Hong Kong needs U.S., Britain

LONDON — Sir Percy Craddock has a problem. Or perhaps not. An old saying, conveying cold comfort, is: If you have no choice, you have no problems. Craddock's problem is Hong Kong, concerning which Britain has few choices.

In 1997, the sun that you thought had already thoroughly set on the British empire will set yet further when China takes control of Hong Kong. Militarily, Hong Kong is indefensible. With that in mind, and with appeasing China in fashion (as it generally is), Britain signed an agreement with Beijing in 1984. It contained one hard fact: Chinese control in 1997 — and much mushy language about preserving Hong Kong's political and economic arrangements. But the hope for "one nation, two systems" looks silly since Tiananmen Square.

There, China's frightened gerontocracy reacted with extreme violence against the communists' ultimate nightmare: Marxism's dream coalition of workers and students came into existence, but was directed against communism. Beijing made a cold, clear-eyed choice, for retention of power, and against what threatened retention — modernity.

Modernity means the rationality of an open society that respects markets. It means capitalism, which exists in Hong Kong in especially concentrated form. Capitalism rests on confidence, which is to say on social sand. The 1984 agreement offers no firmer protection than China's 1971 agreement with Tibet gave to that subsequently butchered country.

Hong Kong is nervous and it makes China nervous. Craddock sits, figuratively speaking, in the middle. He sits in No. 10 Downing Street, close to Prime Minister Thatcher in an office which, with the addition of a few luxuries, could be called Spartan. It has no trappings of power. But, then, regarding Hong Kong, Britain has precious little power. However, it has more than it has used.

Since last summer's violent lurch by China away from liberalization, some people have said the lurch should be grounds for declaring the 1984 agreement null and void. Craddock says that might be cathartic, but would be barren strategy. China will, of course, do what it wants with Hong Kong after 1997. So the trick — "the Indian rope trick of diplomacy," Craddock calls it — is to encourage China to want to keep Hong Kong as it is: a huge economic asset to China.

Hong Kong must be valued by China for the sanctity of its capitalist freedom, but should not frighten China by spreading the infection of freedom. A neat trick, that. Hong Kong is woven into the fabric of life in South China. But 40 percent of Hong Kongers are refugees from communism, which means they are informed and passionate anti-communists.

The government of Margaret Thatcher — the iron lady of anti-communism, the tribune of capitalist "values" — is offering the right to live in Britain to 50,000 Hong Kong households. That is a derisory number, considering Hong Kong's population of 5.7 million ethnic Chinese. The attempted trick is: Keeping the exit door open for a few will encourage everyone to stay calm and stay put.

An argument waged here fiercely by an honorable few is this: Considerations of honor and prudence converge. The right to live in Britain should be granted to the more than three million Hong Kongers holding British passports. Providing a potential exit for multitudes is the way to prevent panic and thereby preserve Hong Kong as a vibrant society that China will want to respect. And if China will not respect it, honor requires Britain to protect the people who live on the land Britain cannot defend as it did the islands of the 2,000 Falklanders. Britain's responsibility is particularly deep because Hong Kong is the one colony that never asked for, and cannot hope for, independence.

Unfortunately, immigration is an issue without romantic resonance in Britain, which has no tradition as a melting pot and is increasingly uncomfortable as a social mosaic. In recent general elections, the Conservative Party has stood against large-scale immigration. The Labor Party, that tireless denouncer of racism, practices it by offering no leadership on behalf of non-white immigrants.

Britain would be invigorated by a large infusion of energetic Hong Kongers who vivify the values — industriousness, thrift, family, education — that Thatcher preaches. Hong Kongers could become the most talented refugees since the Jews who fled Europe in the 1930s. Canada, Australia and the United States benefited from 200,000 Hong Kong refugees in the 1980s.

Britain's exporter of impeccably Anglo-Saxon soccer louts, does not want to be leavened by Asian talent. The United States should know better. It should load a trans-Pacific cargo plane with U.S. passports.

The United States currently takes 5,000 immigrants from Hong Kong per year.

But the hope for 'one nation, two systems' looks silly since Tiananmen Square.

Helms' campaign is losing backing

WASHINGTON — North Carolina's conservative stalwart, Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, is behind the curve in two popularity contests as he seeks re-election this fall. He's not only trailing former Charlotte, N.C., Mayor Harvey Gantt by four points in a recent poll; Helms also has major money woes.

Helms took plenty of heat from the news media for a mudball letter to raise funds, tying Gantt's support to "homosexuals, the so-called 'arts' lobby, the ACLU and the union bosses." What is telling is that Helms says in the letter he's all but run out of money.

What has not been detailed is the surprising extent to which North Carolinians and national money men of both parties have been quietly pledging and sending money to the Gantt camp. Gantt, who is black, has been getting expected support from well-to-do blacks. But many white executives of major firms, fed up, among other things, with Helms' hindering trade with the changing communist world, also are chipping in. National Democratic sources tell us that even some tobacco executives — influential in the state — are ponying up big bucks for Helms, but they're hedging their bets by making lesser contributions to Gantt. Some other wealthy contributors are wearying of Helms' gaffes and bellicose rhetoric on a variety of topics. They're helping Gantt, as are traditionally Democratic labor unions, which began calling in pledges the day Gantt won his party primary.

Meanwhile, Democrats are delighted at the quandary Bush is in over campaigning for Helms. The arch-conservative has often obstructed Bush's policies, is despised by White House moderates and reportedly is not liked by Bush himself.

On the other hand, say Democrats, Bush shows a chameleon facility to don whatever color meets the need of the moment. That includes helping the GOP in the Senate.

"This is the most important race in '90," said one Democrat, a major fund-raising player for 20 years. "A clean choice between an intelligent black and a Southern throwback. Two months ago Harvey was an underdog. Not any longer."

Mandela lifts Barry's image during U.S. tour

Just when Washington Mayor Marlon Barry's image is at ebb, last month's vaunted visit by South African nationalist Nelson Mandela appears to have propped up his morale.

Mandela's appearance came amid Barry's trial on drug and perjury charges. Mandela, leader of the African National Congress, recently left a South African prison after 27 years. He symbolizes the plight of blacks oppressed for centuries.

To some of his supporters, Barry also represents a black victim of white oppression. There are those who believe that simply because of Barry's color, he was targeted for the drug-sting operation that led to his arrest.

During a Mandela rally at which several prominent American blacks appeared, none got more rousing applause from the audience than did Barry. The crowd cheered wildly when he was introduced. Even the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who had angered Barry supporters by considering a run for Barry's post, received only a polite welcome by comparison.

Barry has decided against a re-election bid, but that doesn't mean his popularity has waned. In the eyes of some Washington residents, Barry — as much as Mandela — is a hero under siege.

What is telling is that Helms says in the letter he's all but run out of money.

Roads

$5.5 million unfunded road construction expense, and directed county road officials to make do with the one crew.

"We have an aggressive re-surfacing program," Sellers said after the decision. "When we come along a put two inches of asphalt over the existing surface and we don't have a crew ready to bring those shoulders up, you're going to have a two-inch drop-off."

Sellers said about half the time of the existing shoulder crew is spent in picking up litter along roadways in response to citizen complaints to commissioners.

"You can't exactly say no to a commissioner, but what happens the grader and all the other equipment gets shut down until the crew returns from picking the stuff up," Sellers said.

Sellers did have support from one commissioner for the proposal.

"I'm real concerned about that," commissioner Pat Warren said. "It just takes one time to hit a hole on the side of the road to flip over."

But the remaining commissioners were concerned about a potential increase to the transportation tax paid by everyone in the county. County officials don't recommend increasing last year's tax rate of about 57 cents per $1,000 of taxable property, a rate that would allow for the establishment of the additional shoulder crew and about $885,000 in other personnel and equipment sought by public works officials.

But the 57-cent tax rate did not account for nearly $5.5 million needed to match road impact fees paid by developers. Commissioners have "borrowed" against impact fee matching dollars during the last year to perform small road projects. Because litigation by Sanford and other cities had stalled the impact fee road construction program until early this year, matching dollars weren't needed earlier.

But since the lawsuit was resolved and the courts gave the county the green light to collect and spend the impact fees, county dollars will be needed for each road project.

To collect the $5.5 million, commissioners would be forced to raise the transportation tax from 57 cents to about $1.24 per $1,000, about a 115 percent increase.

Although commissioners didn't decide how to pay for the impact fee bill, they cut all but one of the road division requests and directed department officials to see if a road litter crew can be established by hiring one supervisor to oversee jail inmates and a truck to transport them. The litter crew would free the shoulder crew to concentrate on road work.

Roads superintendent Jim Wilson said he would determine a cost for the proposal. Wilson said having a shoulder crew available full-time would allow shoulders of major county roads, including Lake Mary Boulevard and Red Bug Lake Road, to be maintained in better condition, but smaller roads, including Beardall Avenue, would receive little attention.

"With two crews, we'd be able to keep up with the whole (roadway) system pretty well," Wilson said.

Angry passenger sues Pan Am

United Press International

MIAMI — A British computer executive has sued Pan American World Airways, claiming he was detained for a phony bomb threat after the airline botched his family's plans to fly home.

Alan Neilson, a 32-year-old salesman, claims in the suit filed Thursday his pregnant wife, Heidi, and their two children, Sabrina, 3, and Andrew, 2, were stranded at Miami International Airport last March with just $30 when Neilson was taken to jail.

The suit alleges a Pan Am agent had given away the Neilsons' seats but their baggage remained on Pan Am Flight 98 bound for London. As departure time neared, the agent, identified as L. Seabourne, refused to let the Neilsons on the plane, or the baggage off.

"How can you let this happen?" an angry Neilson demanded. "What if there was a bomb in the luggage? It is against international regulations to allow luggage to take off on board a plane without its passengers."

Pan Am, whose Flight 103 was blown up over Scotland by a terrorist bomb in 1988, immediately called federal agents, who decided it wasn't a real bomb threat, according to the suit filed in Dade County Circuit Court.

Pan Am then called Metro-Dade County police, who arrested Neilson.

His wife was told by Pan Am employees that the Neilsons would never fly the airline again and would be sued for the cost of delaying the flight.

Heidi Neilson was told she could collect the family luggage the next day "if it had not been blown up by airport security," the suit says.

Pan Am spokeswoman Pamela Hanlon said Thursday the airline may indeed sue for the cost of the delayed flight.

"We had to remove all of the luggage in light of (Neilson's) comment about having a bomb," Hanlon said. "All of the passengers had to disembark."

Hanlon declined comment on Neilson's suit.

The family wants punitive damages, claiming that Heidi Neilson, who was three months pregnant when the altercation occurred, suffered a miscarriage "as a direct result of this incident."

In April, state prosecutors dropped charges against her husband, said Peter Heller, the family's lawyer. "We want to teach Pan Am a lesson," he said.

maintain them adequately, the time has come for a change.

The City Hall and Community Building serve as key focal points for the redevelopment of the downtown Historic District, and serve as a primary meeting place for many community groups and organizations. The city complex is the polestar for drawing people into the downtown area.

The Community Building, across Wilma Avenue from the City Hall, is also in poor but still usable condition. Rental fees for the use of the building were recently imposed due to increasing maintenance costs, and while the old structure has been the center of cultural endeavors for many years, it needs to be replaced.

In the 1990-91 Fiscal Year budget, Longwood has shown the projected cost for both facilities as a yearly debt service of $271,000.

City Clerk Donald Terry reported that a consultant has been hired by the city, to develop a building concept for the two structures that will be in keeping with the historical appearance of that area. The new city hall would be one building, with possibly 18,000 square feet of space, constructed in the same general area. There is even a possibility the building could be two or three stories in height.

Wilma Avenue, between West Church and West Warren would be closed to traffic and converted to a walkway area.

If one looks at the budget work being prepared, the concepts that are being developed, the apparent support of the people and the city government, and the definite needs that have already been established, even though groundbreaking is far from ready, the beautification and revitalization of the historical area of downtown Longwood and the construction of a new city hall and community building complex could be described as being "underway".

YEEHAW JUNCTION — A man collapsed and died Friday morning while an Osceola County deputy wrote him a citation for an illegal registration tag, the sheriff's office said.

The victim, David Duncan, 50, of Auburndale, had just changed a flat tire on his Cadillac, said Allison Stroud, a sheriff's office spokeswoman. It appeared he died of natural causes, she said. Duncan died about 8 a.m. alongside Florida 80, about 5 miles west of Yeehaw Junction, despite efforts by Deputy Gregory Vance and paramedics to revive him, Stroud said.

Stroud said Vance stopped to ask if he could help Duncan change a flat tire.

"The man said no, he was doing fine, and the deputy noticed that the tag on the vehicle was expired and also after running a check realized the tag did not actually belong on that vehicle," Stroud said. "And so he went back to the gentleman and told him that he would write him a citation. ... The deputy went back to his vehicle and was writing the citation. The man finished changing the tire, put the equipment back in the vehicle and collapsed."

The ticket was for putting a tag on the wrong vehicle, a misdemeanor offense that carries a penalty of $25 to $30, Stroud said.

She said the tag was supposed to have been on Duncan's wife's car.

Attorney general orders toll gate removal

United Press International

MELBOURNE VILLAGE — Attorney General Bob Butterworth has ordered Melbourne Village, whose residents are tired of people taking a short cut through their tiny town, to take down a remote-control gate.

More than 300 of the town's 1,000 residents signed a petition asking the city to put up the gate.

It is designed to keep people from skirting through Melbourne Village, which is 1-mile square, to avoid traffic on U.S. 192 and Wickham Road.

The gate was erected on Sheridan Road last month but is not yet working.

Butterworth on Thursday said the gate was illegal and should be dismantled.

But Mayor George Woodmansee said he was not sure whether the town commission would authorize its removal.

"Our attorney advises us it is not illegal," Woodmansee said. "We'll have to have our attorney respond."

DEATHS

CHRISTABEL VIOLA BARTHOLD

Christabel Viola Barthold, 75, 511 Valley Stream Drive, Geneva, died Wednesday at Regents Park Nursing Home, Winter Park. Born July 19, 1914, in San Francisco, she moved to Geneva from Santa Rosa, Calif., in 1987. She was a homemaker.

Kids' problems preventable

By STEPHANIE M. NICHOLS
United Press International

SEATTLE — About 12 percent of the nation's children entering school are learning impaired because of "fully preventable causes" such as low birth weight, prenatal exposure to alcohol, drug and tobacco, lead poisoning and child abuse, a report said.

More than 400,000 American children — some suffering from multiple problems — beginning school in any given year suffer learning impairments that are largely preventable, according to the study released Thursday during the 1990 Education Commission of the States National Forum and Annual Meeting being held in Seattle.

The study identified the major factors impeding children's ability to learn as low birth weight, alcohol, drug and tobacco use during pregnancy, lead poisoning, child abuse and neglect, and malnutrition.

"We discovered something that, to be very frank, shocked us," said ECS president Frank Newman. "We have known about these problems for some time, but we had never put the data together before or made an issue of it. These are things that are perfectly preventable about which we are doing largely nothing about."

The ECS, which commissioned the study, is a non-profit group formed in 1965 to help governors, state legislators and educators develop policies to improve education.

"The causes identified in the study simply account for those having the largest impact on child learning," said Lucile Newman of Brown University Medical School's Department of Community Health, who was co-project director of the study. "Preventable Causes of Learning Impairment."

Tobacco, liquor cause oral cancers

By KEN SUGAN
United Press International

ATLANTA — Tobacco and alcohol, especially when consumed together, are the major causes of mouth and throat cancers that kill nearly 10,000 Americans a year, federal health officials said.

Heavy drinking and tobacco use are responsible for an estimated 75 percent of the yearly oral and pharyngeal cancer deaths, said Linda Crossett, author of a U.S. Centers for Disease Control report on the subject, which was released Thursday.

"They seem to have a synergistic effect," Crossett said about the two substances. "A substantial reduction in either risk factor could dramatically reduce the death rate."

Her article, appearing in the federal health agency's Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, said 9,700 people died in 1987 from the two kinds of cancers, which together are the fifth most deadly form of the disease behind cancers of the pancreas, lung and ovaries and leukemia.

Another risk factor for oral-pharyngeal cancers is age. Among the 30,000 people who contract the cancers annually, 95 percent are over 40, she said.

Though the incidence of smoking and alcohol consumption in the nation appears to have declined through the 1970s and 1980s among white adult men, tobacco use among teenagers, women and blacks has increased.

Sullivan issues proposed nutrition labeling rules

By JANET BASS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Proposed rules to give consumers more detailed nutrition information on food packages will be published next week for public comment, but they leave open the thorny issue of federal pre-emption of state laws, Health Secretary Louis Sullivan said.

"American consumers should have full access to information that will help them make informed choices about the food they eat. The consumer should be able to read and understand food labels, based on reliable and vital information," Sullivan told reporters Thursday.

Under one of the proposed Food and Drug Administration regulations, nutrition labels would be required on most packaged food products as well as most fresh produce and seafood.

For the first time, the label would list the amount of saturated fat, calories from fat, cholesterol and fiber.

Convicted killer executed

United Press International

ATMORE, AL. — Condemned killer Wallace Norrell Thomas was put to death in a Friday the 13th execution after the Supreme Court refused to stay his sentence over concerns about Alabama's problem-prone electric chair.

Thomas, sentenced to death for the 1976 slaying of Birmingham-Southern College student Quenette Shehane, was taken into the death chamber at Holman Prison shortly before midnight, strapped into the electric chair and pronounced dead at 12:19 a.m. CDT, prison officials said.

The Supreme Court refused late Thursday to stay the execution, with anti-death penalty Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall dissenting.

In seeking a stay, Thomas's lawyer, Bryan Stevenson, argued that Alabama's electric chair, built by an inmate 60 years ago at the prison, constitutes cruel and unusual punishment because it is obsolete and improperly operated.

A similar argument was used in Florida last month to indefinitely postpone the execution of condemned "black widow" killer Judi Buenoano.

School unions begin negotiations

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Negotiations began this week between the Seminole County school board and the four employee unions which represent the district employees. The four unions represent the teachers, the bus drivers, the clerical employees and the non-instructional personnel.

Non-instructional personnel include maintenance and food service employees.

According to Ernest Cowley, the district's chief negotiator, the talks will continue "as long as it takes" throughout the summer.

Seminole Education Association director Nancy Wheeler said she hopes the process can be resolved quickly.

All items on the teachers' contract are up for renewal this year. So far, the negotiations have produced little. Both sides have agreed to retain 11 items, including rules governing managerial rights and responsibilities, summer in-service, political activity, teacher support services, professional specialists and summer employment variations.

"Everything else is up for discussion," Wheeler said.

Cowley said the district did not expect to begin working on the salary portion of the contract for a few weeks.

Next Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at Greenwood Lakes Middle School, 601 Lake Park Drive, Lake Mary, representatives of the unions will meet to Jail employees casting ballots on unionization

By SUSAN LOREN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Through the end of this month some Seminole County jail workers will be voting by mail to a state committee in Tallahassee to determine if the jail will become a union shop, Jail Administrator Duane Rutledge said Thursday.

The workers in late June voted to hold the current election to determine if they will be represented by the Police Benevolent Association, Rutledge said. For the jail to unionize, 51 percent of the jail guards, licensed practical nurses, sergeants and counselors would have to approve the move in secret ballots, Rutledge said.

The jail is a branch of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, but by law sheriff's deputies cannot join a union, Rutledge said. Casselberry police are unionized.

The sheriff's staff are civil service workers and a civil service board currently oversees employment and punishment matters for the whole department.

More motorists dying in efforts to beat trains

United Press International

HEATHROW — An increasing number of motorists are losing their lives trying to race across railroad crossings in front of trains, largely because drivers ignore flashing warnings, an auto club reported Thursday.

Of the 790 people killed nationwide last year in grade crossing accidents, 30 died in Florida, Randy Bly, a spokesman for the AAA Auto Club South, said.

The Federal Railroad Administration says the 790 people killed at train-car intersections represented a 15 percent increase over 1988 when 689 motorists were killed.

In Florida, 10 percent of the fatalities recorded in 1989 occurred in Hillsborough County. So far this year, four people have been killed at train crossings in the Tampa Bay area. Three of those occurred in Hillsborough County and one in Pinellas County, Bly said.

"If motorists would simply look, listen and heed these advance warning devices there would be virtually no accidents at railroad/highway grade crossings," he said.

"Such crossings require an extra measure of alertness even under ideal conditions. Distractions such as excessive radio volume and other passenger activity should be reduced," he said.

Federal statistics show that motorists ignore flashing red lights or gates that warn of an approaching train in 50 percent of the vehicle-train accidents recorded each year.

Two-thirds of such collisions occur during the day, usually while the train is traveling less than 35 mph. A person is three times more likely to die in a train-vehicle accident than with another automobile, according to figures gathered by the Federal Railroad Administration.

"When you're looking at the weight ratio between the average train and car, it is about 4,000 to 1. That's equivalent to your car running over a soda can," Bly said.

In some east Florida cities, officials have prohibited train engineers from blowing their horns at railroad crossings between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., increasing the likelihood of an accident, he said.

Parallel parking nixed from state driver's tests

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — State officials said they will eliminate the parallel parking maneuver from the road test portion of the driver's license exam because there is no longer much need for it.

The awkward parking technique will be dropped from the road test Sept. 1, said Jim Cox, director of Florida's Driver License Division.

Parallel parking has been used so examiners can see how well drivers can maneuver their vehicles and use mirrors and turn signals. Cox said the state can test those same skills by asking people to park in a straight-in space, such as are found in most parking lots.

"I've learned as much about the driver with the straight-in parking without the hassle," Cox said. Such parking maneuvers already have been required at 20 offices as part of a six-month trial.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Perez no-hits Yankees

NEW YORK — Melido Perez tossed the seventh no-hitter this season and became the first to hurl one in an abbreviated game since his brother in 1988 Thursday night, leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-0 victory over the New York Yankees in a game called by rain after 6 1/3 innings.

With brother Pascual watching from the Yankee dugout, Perez, 8-7, retired 10 straight before rains forced the umpires to halt the game.

The Perez' became the second brothers to throw no-hitters in major league history, joining Ken and Bob Forsch.

Elsewhere in the AL on Thursday, Texas hammered Detroit 11-1; Cleveland edged Seattle 5-4; Oakland bested Milwaukee 5-3; and Toronto blanked California 5-0. Kansas City at Boston and Minnesota at Baltimore were rained out.

Collins, Sims may return to Pats

FOXBORO, Mass. — Two former Patriots who fell from grace after drug scandals may have a shot at returning to New England.

Former Patriots running back Tony Collins says he has now been cleared to rejoin the National Football League and is interested in playing for New England again.

Collins made the overture Wednesday, just 24 hours after NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue ended his suspension he received for failing a drug test in 1988.

General Manager Patrick Sullivan could not be reached for comment on whether the team would be willing to take him back.

However, Sullivan did say the team was keeping an open mind on the possibility of bringing back Kenneth Sims. New England waived the defensive end last month, saying he was overweight and out of shape. The action came 16 days after Sims was arrested in Austin, Texas, and charged with possession of cocaine.

TOUR de FRANCE

Chiappucci takes over lead

VILLARD DE LANS, France — Italian Claudio Chiappucci emerged as the overall leader in the Tour de France Thursday following a 21-mile mountain time trial that ended three days racing in the Alps.

Chiappucci came back from a disappointing performance Wednesday to overtake Frenchman Ronan Pensee in the battle for the yellow jersey.

Pensee struggled through the climbs, and dropped into second place overall, losing two minutes, 45 seconds to the Italian.

With his victory in Thursday's stage, Holland's Erik Breukink moved into third place overall ahead of two-time winner Greg LeMond, who placed fifth in the stage and dropped to fourth place overall.

BASKETBALL

Celtics, Shaw back in court

BOSTON — Lawyers for the Boston Celtics and Brian Shaw were back in court as the guard appealed a court order to sever his contract with Italy's Il Messaggero and return to the NBA team.

But Wednesday's court appearance may have been an exercise in futility, as Italian basketball officials have now been notified that Shaw is not eligible to play for them.

FIBA, the body that governs international basketball, told the Italian Basketball Federation in a July 5 letter that Shaw cannot play for any FIBA team, including Il Messaggero. The Boston Globe reported Thursday.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mets, Reds split doubleheader

CINCINNATI — Danny Jackson and Randy Myers combined to pitch a six-hitter Thursday night, helping the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets and a split of their double-header.

The Mets won the opener 10-3 with home runs by Darryl Strawberry, Howard Johnson, Daryl Boston and Kevin Elster.

Jackson, 4-2, struck out six and walked two in 7 2/3 innings, blanking the Mets on just two hits until Mark Carreon hit a two-run homer in the sixth. Myers struck out two in 1 2/3 innings of hitless relief for his league-leading 18th save.

In other NL action on Thursday night, Montreal blanked Atlanta 3-0; Los Angeles turned back Chicago 6-3; Pittsburgh topped San Diego 4-3 in 15 innings; San Francisco beat St. Louis 4-2; and Houston knocked off Philadelphia 7-4.

Rain creates confusion in All-Star tournaments

From staff reports

Rain once again played havoc on Thursday night with the youth baseball All-Star tournaments currently underway in the Central Florida.

At the Five Points Complex, both the first games of the Mustang (9-10) State and Bronco (11-12) District tournaments were halted by rain during the fourth inning and will be resumed today.

In the Mustang State Tournament, Seminole Central holds a 4-2 lead over West Seminole Maroon after four complete innings of play. Thursday's 8 p.m. game between Miami and North Tampa was washed out completely.

According to Bob MacFarland, Mustang Commissioner for the Seminole Pony Baseball League, both of Thursday night's and Friday night's two scheduled games will be attempted to be played today.

Action started at 10 a.m. this morning with the Miami-North Tampa contest. Then, at 5 p.m., Seminole Central and West Seminole Maroon will take the field to complete their game, the contest picking up with West Seminole Maroon coming to bat in the top of the fifth inning.

That puts the two local teams in something of a bind, because whoever loses will have to turn around and play the loser of the Miami-North Tampa game at 6 p.m. The two winners won't play until 8 p.m. or some time shortly thereafter, weather permitting.

Because the Broncos are only at the District level and the four teams involved are all Seminole County clubs, there is not the push to keep the tournament strictly on schedule.

At last report, Thursday's first game between Seminole American and West Seminole Gold — stopped in the top of the fourth inning with the Americans holding a 5-3 lead — will pick up again tonight at 6 p.m. Then, at 8 p.m., last night's scheduled nightcap between Seminole National and West Seminole Maroon will be played.

Admission to the Five Points

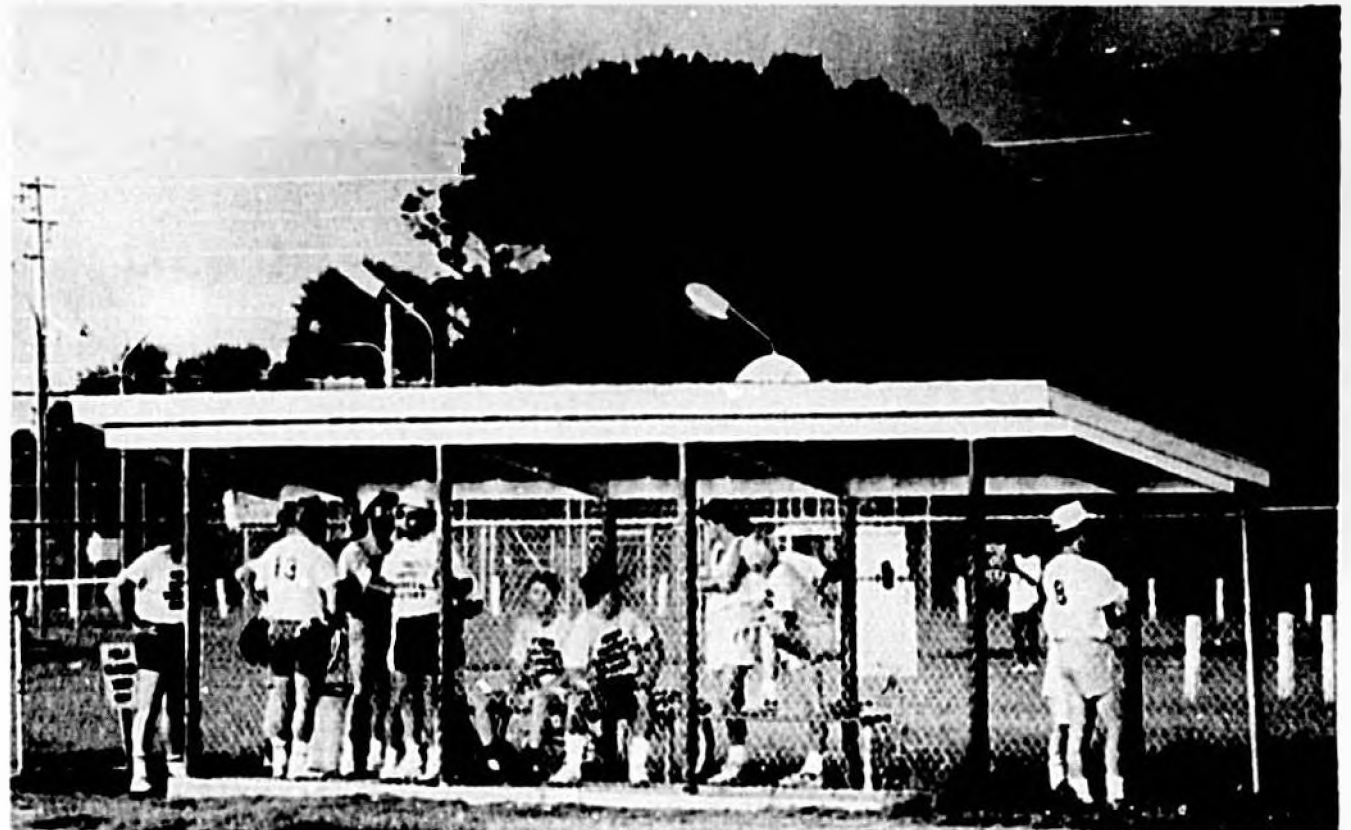

Complex, located on State Road 419 southwest of U.S. 17-92, for either tournament is $1 for adults and 50 cents for fans 15 and under.

Thursday was also supposed to be a busy in the District 14 Little League All-Star Tournaments.

In Area 3 of the Little League (11-12) Tournament, the Altamonte Springs Nationals were to play in a losers' bracket game at Casselberry. Should the Altamonte Nationals win that game, whenever it's played, they would advance to meet Oviedo in the losers' bracket final.

The Altamonte Springs Americans were scheduled to play in a possible championship game in the Junior (13) Area 2 Tournament at Eastmonte Park. A win in that game — or in the next one, should that become necessary — will vault the Americans into the District 14

First Baptist was faced with the possibility of losing its first game of the Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League season when the rains fell and forced the postponement of the game with Dunbar's ahead 4-1.

Rec softball doubleheader washed away

From staff reports

SANFORD — For the second time this season, the Sanford Recreation Department Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park has been plagued by rain.

The game between First Baptist Church and Dunbar's was called in the top of the second and the scheduled game between the McClanahan A's and Rhino Systems was cancelled.

First Baptist and the A's are both undefeated with 2-0 records followed by Dunbar's (1-2) and Rhino Systems (0-3).

The schedule for next week has First Baptist and the A's meeting at 6:30 p.m. and Rhino Systems and Dunbar's playing at 7:30 p.m. Also scheduled for next week is the game between the A's and First Baptist that was rained out earlier this season. That game will be played at 8:30 p.m.

Before the rains came last night, Dunbar's had a leg up on handling First Baptist its first loss of the season.

Dunbar's scored four runs in the bottom of the first inning to take a 4-1 lead. Billy Ahearn and Dave

After taking a 4-1 lead on Thursday, Frank Bellucci and Mike Gray of Dunbar's were forced to pack the bats up when rain stopped the game.

Johnson out to disprove myth that 17 is 'over the hill'

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS — In a sport where a driver's license is usually a sign of impending retirement, Brandy Johnson wants to prove there is no age limit in women's gymnastics.

Johnson, the United States' most highly regarded women's gymnast, is competing in the Olympic Festival this week because a "mistake" on the balance beam cost her a spot on the team going to the Goodwill Games.

It is also a chance for her to show that 17 is not over the hill.

"I don't put an age limit on it," she said Thursday.

Others have. Bela Karolyi, her former coach, has been quoted as saying that Johnson will likely be too old for next year's World Championships and more so for the 1992 Olympics. Johnson said she has heard that same tale from other people.

"They told me I was in the wrong age bracket for Seoul, too," said Johnson, who placed the highest among American women at that Olympics

"The press, and some coaches when I was younger, when I told them I wanted to be in the '88 Olympics they said, 'no you're too young, 92 will be your Olympics.' Now they're saying I'm too old, so I want to prove them wrong again."

Ironically, what may have helped her the most in that area could be an eight-day spell in April altogether away from gymnastics, a rare break on her talent level.

Johnson said, "Physically I was feeling fine, everything was going real okay for me. Mentally I didn't know if I wanted to be there or not. I was kind of burned out and needed a break."

I took the break and got a little bit bored and realized that I missed it and so went back on my birthday (April 30). I wanted to just get away from it. I just needed a break from it."

Kevin Brown, Johnson's coach, said after 11 nonstop years in gymnastics, he wasn't surprised when his prize pupil told him she was taking some time off.

"What I saw as Brandy's coach was that she needed a chance to get away for a short time," said Brown. "I think it was for a total of eight days she was out of the gym. Then she came back and said I can't do it. I've got to get back."

"I think this is something she really needed at this time of her career. It was probably the most healthy thing she could have done."

Johnson said, "I knew that I hadn't reached my potential and I was looking forward to doing a lot more."

Johnson said she feels the mental part of the sport will be tougher for her to overcome than the physical side.

"Because you go into the gym every day training, and physically you can do it, but mentally you don't want to do it," she said.

That is also probably why so many women gymnasts have their competitive careers end before they're out of their teens.

Actually it helps me to prove them wrong in the end," Johnson said of the "too old" talk.

That's what I want to do. I think that would be the most satisfying part of it.

But I love to compete. All the days in the gym working out, the best time for me is when I compete and have a successful competition and you're out on the floor and hear the audience gives you a ovation.

Buddy Lake down to the nitty gritty

By DEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

SANFORD — It's nitty-gritty time in the Buddy Lake Summer Baseball League at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

With three weeks left in the regular season, three teams are still in the running for the two spots available for the post season tournament.

The East Coast All Stars, made up of players from Oak Hill, New Smyrna Beach and South Daytona, are atop the heap with an 8-4 mark, but Adeock Roofing (Seminole High) and Wes Rinker's Florida Baseball Schools Academy are at their heels with 9-5 and 8-4 records, respectively.

Also in the league are the Sanford Reds and the Patriots (Lake Brantley High junior varsity), but they are out of the running for the playoffs with 7-9 and 2-11 records.

The two teams which end the regular season with the best records will meet the weekend of August 3-5 in a best two out of three playoff to determine the 1990 Buddy Lake League Champion. The championship and runner-up trophies will be awarded after the playoffs.

The schedule for this weekend has Adeock Roofing playing the Patriots today at 6 p.m.

On Saturday, the East Coast All Stars have an important doubleheader as they take on Adeock Roofing at 9 a.m. and the F.B.S. Academy at 11:45 a.m. Two wins or two losses by East Coast would go a long way toward deciding the league. The other game on Saturday has the Sanford Reds playing the Patriots at 2:30 p.m.

This season has been a season of streaks. First the Sanford Reds, behind Robert Smith, Tom Robare, Nick Brady and Lloyd Wall, won five games in a row to take a two-game lead before injuries set in. Then the All Stars, behind Stan Evans, Jim Merrick and Johnny Wright, won five in a row to take the advantage; but now, they, too, are fighting a mini-slump.

The hot team now is Adeock Roofing, which has won five of their last six games, and four in a row. Anthony Roberts, the Eckstein brothers, David and Ricky, and Jeremy Chumak have been the big guns for Adeock.

The most consistent team has been the F.B.S. Academy. The team has not had a long winning streak

Sunshine State Games open tonight in Miami

United Press International

MIAMI - Florida's 11th annual Sunshine State Games, a festival for as many as 15,000 amateur athletes in 34 sports, begins Friday night with the lighting of an Olympic-type torch at the Orange Bowl stadium.

Although the event runs through July 22, most of the events are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Most of the state's top Olympic athletes are either competing in the Olympic Festival in Minnesota or getting ready for the Goodwill Games in Seattle later this year.

The games grew from 3,233 participants in its first year to an anticipated 14,000 to 15,000 this year.

Athletes qualified in 22 events at 10 competitions throughout the state. The other 12 events were open to anyone. In all, there are 27 individual sports, seven team sports and three events for the physically disabled.

The highlight is expected to be the opening ceremonies Friday. The games' torch was carried by several runners from Gainesville to Miami and will be given to the final runner who will run up an Olympic ladder to light the permanent flame. The ladder is the same one used during the 1984 Olympic Opening Ceremonies.

The runners reached the Dade-Broward County line Thursday and the runners will run through Miami Friday afternoon.

The opening ceremonies are being produced by the Orange Bowl Committee.

Play was suspended twice Thursday because of thunderstorms. The first, in mid-afternoon, lasted 65 minutes. The second, at 7:40 p.m. EDT, ended play for the day and forced 27 golfers in the 158-

Manipulated photos used to create works of art, jewelry

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Marty Whipple, a Matland artist, has been exhibiting her work nationally for the past ten years. Recently she won first place in photography at the Festival of The Masters at Lake Buena Vista, Orlando.

Her new showing in the Fine Arts Gallery at Seminole Community College, entitled "Photography and Mixed Media" consists of over 30 different photos and photographs incorporated into jewelry.

The artist believes the pictures to be statements of motion combined with manipulated photography. Manipulation occurs when the photographer adds or subtracts from the subject matter in conjunction or independent of the photo process.

Manipulating photos in conjunction with the photo process is a technique that has been used in dark rooms for decades. When the first creative photographer tried dodging to fade an unimportant image in a picture by blocking a portion of light emitting through a negative onto the positive paper during the enlarging and printing process, that was manipulation. Dodging is just one way of manipulating a photo. It can be done with the developing chemicals, lighting or with the newer system of computer graphics and also intentional double exposure.

Manipulating independently of the photo process is a process of addition. A simple addition would be pencil strokes to emphasize an object in a photo. A more elaborate addition would be a hidden object lightly painted in after the photo is printed, then the photo may be reproduced to show the added object as part of the photo. This type of picture is appreciated in long-term viewing as the hidden object isn't seen immediately.

There is a third process whereby subject matter is pre-arranged to simulate a real situation. Scale model photography is a manipulation that has been used in the movie industry since the industry itself was an infant. Typically, ships at sea in a raging storm are easily controlled and evidently are less costly to produce by using a scaled down model.

Marty Whipple's showing is an intriguing blend of art and photography. Exciting discoveries are present in every picture. You will become a modern day discoverer, like Columbus, when you discover a hidden object in one of her pictures. View the collection with an open mind and study each picture carefully to fully appreciate this artist's fine creative ability.

The showing may be viewed in the Fine Arts Gallery on the campus of Seminole Community College on Mondays and Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from noon until 5 p.m. The showing will continue through July 18. For additional information, call 323-1450, extension 438.

Preacher can't be judged by his cover letter

DEAR ABBY: Sometime ago, you ran a wonderful article about a group of church people who were looking for a new pastor, but couldn't decide on which one to choose. Then they came across an application from a man who admitted having been in jail, never having stayed in one place for longer than three years, and causing a lot of trouble wherever he had been. I can't remember the rest of it, but it had a very good message. Will you please run it again?

JESSIE JOHNSON, THORNFIELD, MO.

DEAR JESSIE: I recall the letter well. It was submitted by the Rev. C.W. Kirkpatrick, Union Church of Christ, Ludlow, Mo.

I gave permission to hundreds of people who wanted to include it in their church bulletins. And here's the letter:

DEAR ABBY: One of the toughest tasks a church faces is choosing a good minister. A member of an official board undergoing this painful process finally lost patience. He'd watched the Pastoral Relations Committee reject applicant after applicant for some fault, alleged or otherwise. It was time for a bit of soul-searching on the part of the committee. So he stood up and read a letter purporting to be from another applicant.

"Gentlemen: Understanding your pulpit is vacant, I should like to apply for the position. I have many qualifications. I've been a preacher with much success and also have had some success as a writer. Some say I'm a good organizer. I've been a leader most places I've been.

ADVICE

crazy? Who signed the application? Who had such colossal nerve?

The board member eyed them all keenly before he answered. "It's signed, 'the Apostle Paul.'"

DEAR ABBY: Our only daughter is being married soon. We have been planning this wedding for nearly a year. It will be a traditional wedding in our church, and a lot of time and money has gone into it to make it an exceptionally lovely occasion. In the basement of the church is a large room for such celebrations, and we are having it professionally decorated with flowers, balloons and ribbons.

The problem: The groom's niece is going to be celebrating her 10th birthday on the day of the wedding, and they (the groom's family) want to know if it would be all right to bring a birthday cake to the wedding and celebrate "Jennifer's" 10th birthday at the same time — since all the flowers and decorations will be there anyway! It was suggested, too, that the band play "Happy Birthday," and all the wedding guests could sing "Happy Birthday to Jennifer."

Abby, I am not in favor of combining my daughter's wedding celebration with Jennifer's 10th birthday. It just doesn't seem fair for them to expect it. Is there a nice but firm way to say "no" to this nervy suggestion?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. You could politely say that birthdays come every year, but a wedding is a once-in-a-lifetime celebration.

NEW BEGINNINGS

An eerie curtain of grey fog lingers ghostlike at the base of the mountains and hovers over the hushed valley below. Yet, the early morning sky is tinted with heather hues of delicate pink and lavender, as if airbrushed by an unseen artist.

The scene is almost hypnotizing, but suddenly the trance is broken as a brilliant color display takes shape behind the slate blue mountains.

Neon shades of bright pink, then fuschia, followed by yellow gold and finally fiery red and orange wake up the sleepy sky. The sun slowly rises with its mesmerizing colors.

God has given us a new day, heralded by all of the drama and excitement of the sunrise, setting the stage for a new beginning. He gives us this gift each day of our lives. We can depend on the sunrise.

We can depend on God. Worship Him this week and thank Him for new beginnings.

A welcome for Onesimus

Love and forgiveness are not in the streets

By REV. CHARLES PITRUFF

In a brief letter to a very dear brother in Christ, the Apostle Paul sets forth a principle of hospitality that each Christian and church should constantly observe.

We find this recorded in the book of Philemon. Paul was in a Roman jail expecting at any time to face execution for his faith in Jesus Christ. God had blessed the Apostle's ministry, even under negative conditions, with the conversion of those with whom he had contact. One was a runaway slave, Onesimus, from the household of Philemon, a Colossian whom Paul had led to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. Onesimus had demonstrated his conversion by ministering to the needs of the Apostle in the spirit of his new master, Jesus. He had been transformed from one who stole and hurt to one that lived up to the meaning of his name. "Profitable." Paul spent time with him and taught him the way of Christ and expected that he would continue to minister to others in the same way.

Paul would have enjoyed continuing in this relationship, but Onesimus was still a fugitive. It was necessary for him to return and make things right concerning the past.

Paul wrote this letter to Philemon, exhorting him to take Onesimus back, not as a slave, but rather as a brother. There was the question of restitution and the Apostle said to charge it to his account.

We ask, how does this affect the church today? There are multitudes of Onesimuses coming to our churches looking for love and forgiveness. They come in from the streets. They leave our penal institutions looking for someone to accept them and to help them integrate back into society. They are looking for people that love Jesus and show that love.

We struggle to know the answer to our crime problems. They are not in Godless programs where men are left to struggle to lift themselves from the mire. They are in the Gospel which our churches espouse.

We, in the church are the Philemons of this present age. Paul said to accept them as brothers and to forgive the things which they have done. We need to reach out in love.

Some time ago, a woman was brought into our jail. She had been a drug addict for many years and had attended several drug programs but had never been set free. In the most difficult circumstances, in jail and facing many charges, she turned her life over to God and He delivered her from the addiction. Six months later, after much Biblical counseling, she was taken into a church family's home and given the love and understanding that she needed.

Today, she is a productive citizen, working and paying back those things that she owed. Thank God for a Philemon! Let us reach out and apply the Onesimus principle. Let us welcome with open arms those that are in need and without the church will never succeed.

Rev. Charles B. Pitruff is a chaplain for the Good News Jail and Prison Ministries of the Seminole County Correctional Facility, Sanford.

Missionaries dedicate their lives to Christ

By CYNTHIA BULLARD

Who are the young men wearing white shirts, ties, and dark slacks, riding bicycles along the highway? They are Mormon missionaries.

Elder Hullinger, 20, of Springville, Utah, was a cadet at the Air Force Academy, in Colorado Springs, Colo. He resigned his position to serve a 2-year mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is from a family of six children, his father, a stockbroker, and his mother, a housewife, support his endeavors. "So far it has been the greatest experience of my life," he said after serving 10 months on his mission.

Serving in the Sanford area with Elder Hullinger, is 6'7" Elder Miller, 19, from American Fork, Utah. He attended Dixie College for two semesters on a basketball scholarship and has been on his mission for two weeks. He feels strongly that he is doing the right thing. "Through my mission, I feel that

I am learning more about the world, and my testimony is growing stronger," he said.

When Elder Hullinger and Elder Miller decided to go on the mission, they were sent to the Missionary Training Center, in Provo, Utah, and spent three weeks learning to communicate the scriptures to others.

The missionaries lives are changed from the day the mission begins. Leaving families, friends, schools, jobs and everyday routines behind, they assume different responsibilities and goals. During the mission, they follow strict rules and cannot be distracted by surroundings, therefore, they live without radios and televisions. The missionaries work 15 hours a day, six days a week, taking off Mondays for preparation day. This is the time set aside for activities such as writing letters, doing laundry, exercising and shopping.

At the end of their 24 months, each intends to return to school and pick up where he left off. Elder Hullinger says, "I plan to use everything I learn on mission in my future life."

These missionaries have strong faith to work as hard as they do. They believe the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was restored in 1830 through Joseph Smith under the direction of the Lord.

Cynthia Bullard, of Orange City, wrote this story as part of a course requirement for Anne Lynch, an English teacher at Seminole Community College.

Doctor wonders what to do with unsolicited gifts

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

I am sitting here at my desk wondering what to do with my latest supply of gifts from a drug company. My take for today is: one plastic gizmo that combines a letter opener with a ruler and a magnifying lens; a retractible ball point pen; a large ball point pen with a felt hi-liter on the other end; a push-spray cleaner for eye glasses; individually wrapped, strawberry-flavored tongue depressors; and a pocket flashlight.

Each gift is embossed with the name of a drug and the manufacturer's logo. There are also some pretty cute messages of the double-meaning kind. For example, the plastic magnifying glass says, "Take a close look ..." at the drug; the eyeglasses squirts says, "One little squirt is all it takes ..." for a vaccine.

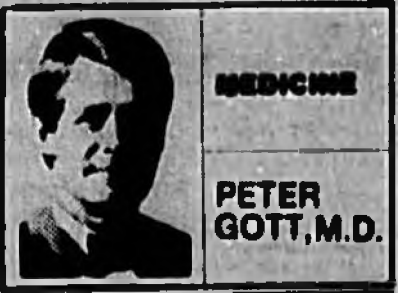

I did nothing to receive these gifts - except to have an M.D. after my name. Nevertheless, company representatives (called "detail" men and women) regularly break down my doors merely to spend a few moments with me.

The hitch, of course, is the pitch: Each rep wishes to push the ON button and deliver a memorized, earnest, pseudo-scientific appeal for me to prescribe the company's latest product, samples of which are mine for the asking - and, sometimes, even when I don't ask. Furthermore, doctor, as an expression of our appreciation, please accept this pen.

The detail men and women haul around large briefcases containing slick promotional literature and a remarkable array of knick-knacks, which are restocked from a vast hoard stored in the back seats and trunks of their cars. I think they have allotments, similar to traffic cops who are expected to hand out a certain number of speeding tickets per week.

Each representative has a "territory" containing a set number of practitioners who must be visited at regular intervals. The regional office provides an inexhaustible trove of gawgaws of which the reps want to divest themselves as soon as possible. It's not considered good form for the salespeople to return home at night without empty briefcases and auto trunks. Also, they want to get rid of the stuff because it's a pain to carry around all day.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Too bad that East-West could make three hearts, and here they were defending against two spades. But what they could do in hearts went by the wayside. The responsibility of East was to defend two spades so that his side got a plus score if possible. And West at least got off to a good start with the lead of the king of diamonds. When a second diamond was led, East won the ace and gave West a ruff. Later East made tricks with his black aces, but that was still eight tricks - two spades made by South. Did something go wrong? East had a chance to beat the contract. He should play for South to hold three or four clubs. After winning the ace of diamonds, East should not be in a rush to give West his ruff. Instead East should now shoot back ace and a club. Upon winning the ace of spades, he will then give West a ruff, and West will return the favor, letting East take the setting trick by ruffing a club. Even though West had a minimum raise, he should probably have competed with a three-heart bid. His strong trump support made it highly unlikely that the opponents would double and inflict a nasty penalty, and the general strength of his hand suggested that North-South would make a plus score at twospades.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
 July 14, 1990

Try to get more involved in the year ahead in the types of interests you truly find pleasurable and attract people who think as you do. Fun and friendships could result.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Ambitious objectives could be denied you at this time if you have poor relationships with associates. Try to get them pulling for you instead of against you. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be careful at work today that you don't get into an arrangement that would put greater responsibilities on you while it lightens the load of co-workers. You might inherit the job permanently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Rather than just muse about a new endeavor you're hoping to launch, do something positive about it today. Get it started, even if a couple of pieces are missing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually you're tactful when working with others, but today these enviable attributes might be absent from your personality. You'll discover the hard way, "You don't get many bees with vinegar."

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you go around with a chip on your shoulder today, there's a good chance someone bigger and moodier than you may decide to knock it off. Don't learn the hard way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A good motto to keep in mind today is, "Don't invest without investigating." Deals that look good to you at first glance may not look so hot when they are put under the microscope.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An alliance of convenience you form at this time might turn out to be anything but that which you desire. Be extremely selective in your partnership arrangements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In order to advance your personal ambitions at this time, it might be necessary for you to make some sacrifices. Be sure your objective is worthy of its cost.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today if you are in the position to choose your social involvements, try to pick events that do not include any individuals with whom you've had recent disagreements.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Domestic frustrations can be minimized today if you first finish household projects you already have under way before taking on new ones. Try to be methodical.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If your progress in your chosen field of endeavor has been slowed up owing to a lack of knowledge, you'd better start doing something about it now before things get worse.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There is a possibility you might run across something today that has profitable potential. However, before bringing others into the act, check everything out first.
