Values Must Be Included In Sex Education, Parents Say

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County parents don't mind sex education being taught in area schools but they want the curriculum grounded in morals and values, according to preliminary tallying results of Seminole County School Board's sex education surveys.

All types of sex education are fine for middle schoolers and high schoolers, while teaching about abortion, birth control and premarital sex is "out" for elementary school students, preliminary results of the survey show.

On Jan. 5, the board mailed surveys to the parents of 4,300 students, roughly 10 percent of the county's enrollment. The questionnaires, which were due to the board Friday, ask for parents' opinions on what sex education topics should be taught at what grade levels. Several included fiery opinions on sex education.

Topics considered for Seminole County school curriculum consist of abortion; AIDS; birth control; child abuse; decision-making; family roles and responsibilities; growth and development; the human body's functions; interpersonal relationships; peer pressure/individual responsibility; personal hygiene; premarital sex; reproduction; sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) and teen pregnancy.

Only the first 12 yes/no responses out of 15 topic questions on about 500 of some 1,200 returned surveys were tallied Tuesday, the first day of tallying by the Seminole County Council of PTAs, said president Sandy Traeger.

"If there's 1,200 out of the 2,900 the school board sent out, I'd say that's an excellent response on a survey," Traeger said. She said final tallying results should be ready Friday.

Besides the surveys returned to the board, about 250 unsolicited surveys were submitted in the board's open invitation for community input. The county's Curriculum Advisory Committee will place heavier weight on the random sampling of parents, Traeger said, when it comes down to deciding on curriculum. She said since the committee has not seen the preliminary tallying results, it has no interpretation of the statistics.

From the first day of tallying, parents felt students in middle and high schools should be taught all sex education topics that the survey suggested, except for reproduction, STDs and teen pregnancy, for which responses have not yet been tallied. Only abortion, birth control and premarital sex were thought inappropriate for elementary students by a majority of parents.

Three Building Officials Resign

County Investigation Concludes

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

The two top administrators in the Seminole County Building Department and an inspector resigned Tuesday afternoon in the wake of a two-week investigation of mismanagement of the building department.

Joel Dean, county building official, Chuck Long, assistant building official, and Tom Williams, condemnation inspector, all resigned effective Friday. Assistant County Administrator Montye Beamer said the resignations came after she gave the results of her investigation of the department to County Administrator Ken Hooper and the building department employees met with her and Hooper.

She would not confirm that the three men were asked to resign, but said the resignations were handed in "by mutual consent."

Dean started working for the county in August, 1984 and became building official in October, 1987. His annual salary was $30,347.20. Long began working for the county in April, 1985 and became assistant building official 10 days later. He was paid $25,168 per year. Williams began working for the county in October, 1983 and was paid $20,800 per year.

The investigation began Jan. 6 after Sanford Herald reporters questioned Dean, in Beamer's presence, about falsified overtime payments in his department, as well as other improprieties brought to the attention of a Herald reporter by Art Davis, a frequent critic of county government.

Beamer said Herb Hardin, director of land management, would continue to handle the administration of the building department until a new building official is named. He has been acting head of the department since Dean was placed on administrative leave last week pending completion of Beamer's investigation.

Bill Culbertson, a commercial plans examiner in the building department, will handle the technical administration of the office until new administrators are hired. Culbertson, a former building official for South Daytona Beach, was named to handle the technical administration at Hardin's request because Hardin did not feel qualified to handle those duties, Beamer said.

Beamer said Hardin will evaluate the overall work flow in the building department and submit regular reports to Beamer and Hooper.

"As a result of the publicity, and investigation, morale is not high in the department," she said. "Some employees felt they had to go outside regular channels to raise questions about improprieties which indicates a morale problem and

School Board Members May OK Land Swap With County

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

First impressions by three Seminole County School Board members were highly favorable as they viewed property this week the county wants to swap with the school board.

On Monday, school board chairman Joseph Williams Jr. and member Nancy Warren visited the county's property at Yankee Lake, property that county officials want to trade for a board-owned plot that stands in the way of extension of Lake Mary Boulevard. School board vice chairwoman Pat Telson visited the site Tuesday.

"I think the overall land is ideal for a school site," Williams said, although he prefers not to discuss his voting inclinations before the swap consideration, due for a decision at the Jan. 27 board meeting.

Out of the board's 20-acre plot just east of U.S. Highway 17-92 in the Sunland development area, Seminole County said it requires 13 acres in connecting Lake Mary Boulevard with County Road 427 in the most feasible way. In exchange for those 13 acres, the county at a Dec. 9 school board meeting offered the board 15 acres from the county's largest land parcel, wastewater treatment property north of Yankee Lake off of State Road 46.

"At this point, I don't have any reason not to approve it," Warren said, "unless they put restrictions on it that we can't live with."

"With the development expected in that location, it would be ideal for future use," Williams said. "The site we're looking at now is a better site. There is a low portion in the site we own so that everything

Report: Producer Of Playboy Cassettes Secretly Aided Hart

MIAMI (UPI) — A Southern California video producer secretly subsidized a campaign aide to Gary Hart last year and also pumped thousands of dollars into Hart's cash-starved campaign in 1984, The Miami Herald reported today.

Federal law prohibits a candidate from accepting any money from corporations and more than $1,000 per election from any contributor. The limit also includes professional services.

The Herald said Hart was befriended in 1983 by Stuart Karl, who had amassed a fortune marketing Jane Fonda workouts and Playboy video cassettes for home VCRs.

Since then, Karl has chauffeured Hart in Lear jets and helicopters, and paid a $3,000-a-month salary to Hart aide Dennis Walto in 1986 and 1987, the Herald said.

The newspaper said Karl also covered such costs as car rentals, printing, signs, plastic bags and even souvenir flying disks used in Hart's eleventh-hour attempt to win the Democratic nomination at the 1984 Democratic Party Convention.

Both Hart and Karl declined to be interviewed Tuesday, the Herald said.

Federal Election Commission spokeswoman Sharon Snyder said a failure to report the kind of help reported in the Herald would be regarded as a "backdoor contribution," contrary to the law.

Settlement Fails, Longwood Sued For Sewer Service

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A settlement proposal, which the Longwood City Commission had been led to expect, turned into something quite different when Gary Massey, attorney for Risa Kay, spoke for his client Monday night.

There was a lack of communication not only between Massey and the city but between he and his client as well.

"I didn't mean to cause a problem," Massey told the commission. "It's partly a misunderstanding with my client."

McBourne attorney Kerry Evander, co-counsel for the city in the suit, had informed City Attorney Michael Kramer by letter that Kay would agree to dismiss her lawsuit against the city in consideration for the city's agreement to provide 5,800 gallons per day of sewer capacity for Fairmont Plaza shopping center at $4.50 per gallon and pay her $14,500 as credit for her construction of an oversized lift station required by the city to handle future developments.

After a conference with his clients, Massey told the commission that when he had written the letter to Evander on the proposed settlement he was under the mistaken impression that those were her wishes. Now, however, he said his client is willing to settle for the city giving her 5,800 GPD at no cost, with the city going ahead and finishing the lift station, which lacks pumps and a control panel, so that it can be put on line.

Mayor Dave Gunter told Massey, "I would appreciate you and our city attorney putting it in writing."

Massey said at Monday night's city commission meeting that he had been before the commission several times trying to settle the matter without litigation without success. "I requested all the documentation from the city, but didn't receive it," he said.

Massey said letters from then City Manager Dave Clacey had promised Kay sewer service at the then legal price of $2 a gallon. He said she was required

Lake Mary High School Anti-Drug Program Honored

The anti-drug program at Lake Mary High School is considered one of the best in Florida, so much so that the Department of Education will present the school with an excellence award today.

At 1 p.m., Commissioner of Education Betty Castor will give the Commissioner's Award for Excellence for Drug-Free School Recognition Programs to Lake

Mary High principal Don Reynolds and assistant principal Bill Moore. The presentation will take place at Tomoca Elementary School in Ormond Beach, a leg of an 11-stop state trek Castor is making to honor state schools.

Lake Mary High's program will be honored with the award as well as a Brevard County school and a community-based program in Volusia County.

Moore said the high school submitted an application for the state award a few months ago. Recently, the school applied for a similar national award, the results of which have not been announced.

"We feel we've really put a lot of work into it, and we feel we have about the best comprehensive drug program,"

Moore said.

In the 1985-86 school year, LMHS began researching elements of the most effective drug programs, he said, after the Local School Advisory Committee heard "horror stories" about the effects of crack cocaine and other perception-altering drugs. In 1986-87, the school began its "Lake Mary Says No" campaign to encourage students not to start drugs or to seek help if drugs were a part of their lives.

In the program, students sign contracts promising not to use drugs or alcohol. Of 2,310 students enrolled in LMHS in 1986-87, 900 were involved in the program, said the school's athletic director, Bob Wagner.

Broke Former Central Florida Discjockey, Wife Choose Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — An unemployed disc jockey and his wife — both Americans — decided to remain in the Soviet Union after a tourist visit because they did not want to live with his parents on Social Security and the Soviets "offered me a job," the man's mother said.

Theodore Branch, 43, and his wife, Cheryl, 40, Pennsylvania natives who had also lived in Florida, arrived in Moscow as tourists in December and decided to make a permanent home in the country, Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said Tuesday.

Theodore Branch's father and mother — Clarence, 78, and Lavera, 73, of Summit Township, Pa. — said the couple went on a tour of the Soviet Union late last year and decided to ask about defecting at a Soviet government agency.

The two were born and raised in Summit Township. The husband dropped out of high school, but earned his diploma at night school, the parents said.

Dick Ravenhill, program director at WLBE radio station in Leesburg, Fla., said the couple left his station in spring of 1986 after working there as a sales team for eight months. He said they previously worked at WBGD and WZST in Mount Dora, Fla., both of which are no longer in operation.

Doug Rink of Orlando, Fla., radio station WDBO said Theodore Branch worked as a part-time disc jockey at WBGD and later became station manager.

Mutineers Sentenced To Life

ORLANDO (UPI) — Two shrimp boat crewmen convicted of murderous revolt on the high seas were sentenced Tuesday to consecutive terms of life in prison in the government's first case of civilian mutiny since World War II.

William Rector, 21, and Billy Gossett Jr., 24, were found guilty last month on charges of felony murder, first-degree murder, conspiracy, mutiny and assault aboard the Tampa shrimp Leslie Rae the night of July 29.

Capt. Philip Roush, 28, was bludgeoned and thrown into the shark-infested Atlantic about 26 miles off Cape Canaveral. His body was never found.

But first mate Willie Charpentier, 21, dived overboard to escape the captain's fate and survived to alert authorities and testify against his attackers. Maria Barnes Tucker, 18, who was aboard the boat to have sex with the crew, was neither charged nor harmed in the incident.

Celebrities Plea For Killer's Life

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Jesse Jackson and actress Margot Kidder joined Amnesty International Tuesday in appealing to Gov. Bob Martinez to halt the Feb. 3 execution of Willie Jasper Darden, saying new evidence supports his claims of innocence.

The actress and representatives of the human rights organization traveled to Tallahassee to present Martinez with 2,500 petition signatures gathered across the nation seeking clemency for Darden.

Darden, 54, was convicted of the 1973 murder of James Turman during a robbery at his Lakeland furniture store. Helen Turman, the murder victim's wife, was sexually assaulted during the crime and a 16-year-old employee was shot and permanently disabled.

At the time, Darden was on furlough from prison on a rape charge.

Old Sanford Library At Fifth Street and Oak Avenue

Old Library Will Become Arts Center

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

The old Sanford Library at Fifth Street and Oak Avenue should become a first class Cultural Arts Center after the facility is restored, remodeled, and updated, according to Bill Simmons, Sanford director of engineering and planning.

That work will be completed after further grants are obtained from the state next fiscal year, Simmons told Sanford City Commissioners at a workshop Monday, 4 p.m., in the city manager's conference room at city hall.

Major construction on the facility will not be done until after the grant is obtained, he said.

The Cultural Arts Center is in the historic residential district, an area so designated by Florida Preservation Services who recently completed an historic survey of the city. The building, along with the entire district may be placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Jerry Mills, member of the Historic Preservation Board, said the building's architectural style is probably Mediterranean-Mission.

Simmons told city commissioners that the remodeling was originally estimated at $168,000. The city budgeted $100,000 toward funding the rehabilitation. About $17,000 of that amount will go toward architectural services rendered by Burke and Balles, architectural consultants hired by the city.

Sanford may be able to obtain as much as $73,000 from the state if so, Sanford "can end up with a first class facility," Simmons told the commissioners. He said Florida Secretary of State Jim Smith has approved the request for grants, but the matter will have to go to the Legislature for final approval.

The most important project right now, Simmons said, is to make the roof watertight. That needs to be done soon as possible to prevent further leaking and deterioration, but a contractor has not been hired at this point.

Simmons said the city plans to restore the building to what it may have looked like when built in 1924. However, one change will have to be made. Restrooms located at the rear of the building will have to be moved to the front, for two reasons, for handicapped access, and for greater ability to preserve the front of the building in its original style.

By moving the restrooms to an alcove inside the front of the structure, ramps for handicapped access can then be put at the rear of the building, again helping to maintain the integrity of the front.

Two fireplaces are in the building, and Simmons said the city intends to open those up, so that they can be used again. He pointed out that one of the biggest problems is a large circular arched window in the rear of the building. The rear of the building is near the property line, he explained, and the problem will be how to enhance the window feature, without covering it up. He said that possibly independent screening could be placed outside the window.

Jernigan said after the meeting that the building had been used previously as a cultural arts center. He said the Sanford-Seminole Art Association had conducted art and ceramic classes there.

Jim Jernigan, director of parks and recreation, came before commissioners on behalf of the Sanford Ballet Guild, requesting the city help fund "We, The People," a ballet/play to be performed in Sanford, March 19-20 as a bicentennial event. The request may be discussed further at the regular commission meeting next week.

We, The People is a type of bicentennial celebration that will be unique to Sanford, according to Mayor Bettye Smith. She said no other municipalities in the state are doing this type of production. "This is not a Ballet Guild happening. It's a Sanford happening," she told commissioners. We, The People is listed in this year's official Florida Calendar of Events, she noted.

Mildred Caskey, former curator at the Henry Shelton Sanford Museum, wrote the play. Smith, who will be portraying Martha Washington, said that rehearsals are already underway. The performance is scheduled for March 19-20 in the lower level of the city hall building. Part of the reason for choosing that location, is so that Lake Monroe, in the background, can represent the Potomac River, Smith explained.

Jernigan, came to the workshop, on behalf of the Ballet Guild, to request funding assistance from the city. He said that the cost of materials is estimated at $1,340. That includes plywood for a 200-square foot stage.

Smith told commissioners that other expenses are involved in the production, but those are being met by the Ballet Guild itself.

Commuter Plane Crash Kills 8, 9 Survivors Sought Help

DURANGO, Colo. (UPI) — Eight people died in the crash of a Continental Express commuter plane despite the efforts of survivors who hiked more than a mile through the snow for help and rescue workers who raced to the wreckage on skis and snowmobiles.

Continental Express Flight 2286, which carried 15 passengers and a crew of two, crashed in a rugged snow-covered area about 12 miles east of Durango during a snowstorm about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night, officials said.

Nine people survived the crash, including seven who crawled from the wreckage and hiked through three-foot-deep snow to the nearest highway to summon help. Hospital officials said eight people died in the crash of the twin-engine turbo-prop plane.

Two people, including a 3-year-old girl who was with the group of seven that hiked out, were treated at Mercy Hospital in Durango and released, a hospital spokeswoman said. One person was hospitalized in critical condition early today, one was in serious condition and the girl's mother and four others were listed in good condition, she said.

Solons Challenge Ortega

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., an opponent of aid to the Nicaraguan Contras, said today he could vote for additional aid to the rebels if the Sandinista government of Daniel Ortega reneges on recent concessions.

Dodd joined Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., another opponent of Contra aid, in challenging Ortega to make good on promises he made as Congress neared a vote on President Reagan's request for continuing aid for the guerrillas.

Ortega lifted a 6-year-old state of emergency Tuesday and ended tribunals that try Contra supporters, fulfilling a pledge he made to other Central American leaders in Costa Rica last weekend.

However, hours before Ortega signed the decree to execute the concessions, his government arrested five opposition leaders.

Reagan declared that despite Ortega's concessions, his Sandinista government would not make today's deadline to negotiate a cease-fire with the U.S.-backed rebels. Therefore, the president authorized the CIA to resume air drops of military supplies that were suspended Jan. 12 to encourage peace talks.

Doctor Fears Rheumatic Fever

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Rheumatic fever, which left many people with potentially disabling heart damage before its decline this century, may be making a comeback and threatening a new segment of the population, a researcher reported today.

Rheumatic fever is an inflammatory disorder that arises from strep throat through mechanisms that are poorly understood, and its symptoms include fever, arthritis in several joints, skin rash and an inflammation of the heart. Dr. Alan Bisno of the University of Miami School of Medicine said.

Former White House Aide Lyn Nofziger On Trial

Lobbying Was Not Illegal, Attorney Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lyn Nofziger's contacts with former colleagues in the White House were proper and not an attempt to illegally cash in on his relationship with President Reagan, the defense said Tuesday at the opening of Nofziger's influence peddling trial.

Lawyer E. Lawrence Barcella urged the jury to reject the government's narrow view of the illegal lobbying charges against Nofziger and look at the former political director "the same way you would want someone to look at you."

"The government's case is going to be looking through a telescope at the entire sky," he said in his opening argument.

The longtime Reagan confidant is the first person to be prosecuted for violating the 1978 Ethics in Government Act, which bars former high-ranking officials from lobbying their previous agencies for one year.

The government claims Nofziger profited from his White House connections months after leaving government to win illegal lobbying business for his clients and a fatter wallet for himself.

But Barcella portrayed Nofziger as a blunt and honest politician who started a consulting business in January 1982 to create a modest nestegg for his upcoming retirement.

"He wanted to make enough money so he and his wife could be comfortable," Barcella said.

But prosecutor Lovida Coleman asked the jury to consider why a man who wielded power and influence as one of President Reagan's top advisers would turn his back on such a job.

"Nofziger's life had been power and influence, but he had never cashed in on the influence for his benefit" until he left government, she told the seven-man, five-woman jury.

To bolster her point, Coleman later submitted into evidence a note Nofziger wrote to top White House officials, including Edwin Meese, then White House counselor, to advance the cause of one of his clients, a maritime union.

The note concluded, "Why not help our friends?"

Barcella denied Nofziger misused his influence in personal and written contacts he made with top Reagan administration officials such as Meese and his assistant, James Jenkins.

"The contacts Nofziger had were proper. The (lobbying) law does not drop a curtain between an official and their former agency," he said.

Coleman, however, said she would show that Nofziger made four illegal contacts with White House officials less than a year after leaving government in areas which the executive office had a "direct and substantial interest."

"The heart of this case is Nofziger used his influence in a manner that is forbidden by law," she said as she looked at the former aide, dressed in a gray suit and his trademark Mickey Mouse tie.

Nofziger kept his head bowed during Coleman's opening statement but looked straight ahead at the jury as his attorney outlined his character and his long affiliation with the president, dating back to 1966.

Before the start of opening statements, Nofziger expressed confidence he would be cleared of the illegal lobbying charges he faces for work done on behalf of Wedtech Corp., Fairchild Industries Inc. and the National Maritime Engineers Beneficial Association.

"I've got a couple of good lawyers who are going to prove what I already know: I'm innocent of any crime," Nofziger said outside U.S. District Court.

One of the most politically sensitive charges in the four-count indictment involves a letter Nofziger wrote in April 1982 to Meese that helped win a $32 million Army contract for Wedtech Corp., the now bankrupt New York City defense firm.

That charge is the first mention of any direct contact on Wedtech's behalf between Nofziger and the fellow Californian who now is attorney general and also is being investigated by independent counsel James McKay.

The trial comes on the heels of the December conviction of another Reagan confidant, Michael Deaver, who was found guilty of lying to a grand jury and Congress about his post-White House lobbying activities.

If convicted, Nofziger could receive an eight-year prison term and a $40,000 fine. Partner Mark Bragg faces one count of illegally aiding and abetting Nofziger, a charge that carries a two-year prison term and a $10,000 penalty.

Israelis Kill 3 Arab Raiders Infiltrating For Attack

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli soldiers shot and killed three Arab guerrillas early today minutes after they slipped across Israel's northern border on their way to attack settlements in the area, military officials said.

One Israeli soldier was seriously wounded in the clash, which occurred near the town of Menara, about 100 miles north of Jerusalem on the Lebanon border.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin linked the attempted infiltration to the 6-week-old wave of anti-Israeli unrest in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, which he said was fueled by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The guerrillas, wearing civilian clothes, were carrying Soviet-made Kalashnikov automatic rifles and anti-tank rockets, the officials said.

An army unit patrolling the area spotted the guerrillas minutes after they crossed the border and opened fire. In the exchange of rifle and grenade fire, the three guerrillas were shot to death, the officials said.

The wounded Israeli soldier was shot in the head. He was taken to Rambam hospital in Haifa, where a spokesman said he was in serious condition.

The United States Monday used its veto in the U.N. Security Council to block condemnation of Israel for attacks on Lebanon and encroachment into Lebanese territory.

Aquino Denies Dynasty Desire

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Corazon Aquino, denying charges she wants to form a new political dynasty, said today she did not intend to endorse the candidacies of her relatives who lost in local elections.

"I think you remember when I said in October I will discourage my relatives from running," Aquino told reporters. She said she had contended then that the matter should be left to the people.

Four Aquino relatives are facing a rout in Manila, according to incomplete returns from Monday's voting for 16,400 municipal and provincial government posts.

One of the issues raised against the administration in the campaign was that Aquino is creating a new political dynasty. Before the election she opposed legislation banning relatives of incumbent officials from seeking elective offices.

NATO Gets Missile Talks Warning

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze warned NATO against delaying talks on reducing short-range nuclear weapons, charging that the West would use the time to modernize its battlefield forces.

"This is a very dangerous trend," Shevardnadze said at a news conference Tuesday marking the end of his three-day trip to West Germany.

His comments were aimed primarily at Britain and France, which want to postpone talks on short-range nuclear weapons until negotiations on strategic nuclear weapons and conventional and chemical arms are under way. U.S. Soviet talks on reducing strategic weapons are held in Geneva, Switzerland.

Shevardnadze, without naming the two countries, chided members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that want to delay negotiations on short-range weapons, charging the West would use the time to modernize, or possibly increase, the number of its short-range missiles.

'Grim' Anniversary Observed

LONDON (UPI) — Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie broadcast personal messages today to the people of Lebanon and kidnapped hostage negotiator Terry Waite on the one-year anniversary of Waite's disappearance.

The Church of England clergy also prepared for a special prayer service to mark the "grim" anniversary.

Runcie, the head of the church, broadcast two separate radio messages over the British Broadcasting Corp. World Service, one to Waite and one to the people of Lebanon.

AIDS Awareness Week Features Lecture, Film

AIDS Awareness Week, Jan. 25 through 29, at Seminole Community College, will include lectures, a film, and discussions on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

Although the programs, sponsored by the Campus Governance Association and Student Government, are aimed at SCC students, the public is welcome.

Monday at 11 a.m., the hour-long lecture "AIDS—Facts and Issues" will be given in the Fine Arts Concert Hall by Jeff Cashatt, director of the speakers bureau of Central Florida AIDS Unified Resources, Inc. (CENTAUR).

Tuesday at 9:30 a.m., a panel discussion on "The Personal Impact of AIDS" will take place in the Fine Arts Concert Hall for an hour. Scheduled for the panel are a helper/supporter of an AIDS patient, a mother whose son died from AIDS, and someone carrying the AIDS virus or afflicted with the symptoms.

At 11 a.m. Tuesday, the hour-long film "AIDS—Changing the Rules" will be shown in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. The 1987 PBS presentation stars Ron Reagan, Beverly Johnson and Ruben Blades, and shows explicit demonstrations of AIDS prevention techniques.

Jan. 27 at 12:30 p.m. will be the lecture titled "49,000 and Counting—How Safer Sex Practices Can Possibly Prevent You From Becoming an AIDS Statistic." The 75-minute lecture will be presented in the Fine Arts Concert Hall by Sharon E. Douglas, assistant professor with the department of cardiopulmonary sciences at the University of Central Florida.

Jan. 28 at 11 a.m., will be another showing of the film "AIDS—Changing the Rules."

Jan. 28 at 11 a.m., will be another presentation of the panel discussion "The Personal Impact of AIDS."

More information about the programs is available from Gary Diller, SCC student activity adviser, at 323-1450, ext. 298.

All programs will take place in Building G on the SCC campus. —Nancy Simmons

Accreditation Approved

HCA West Lake Hospital of Longwood has announced accreditation of its private school, West Lake Academy, by the Florida Council of Independent Schools (FCIS).

Accreditation is granted when a school meets FCIS requirements and has been in existence for three years.

Both West Lake Academy and West Lake Hospital opened in 1984 in Longwood. Since then, approximately 400 students have attended. Said Tony Napolitano, director of education at the hospital. Children and adolescent patients at the hospital attend the academy on a full-time basis, he said, with slightly shortened hours during summer months.

Following discharge, patients at the academy are able to transfer back to their home schools.

Napolitano said the academy employs four full-time secondary teachers, certified in their respective fields of math, English, science and social studies. He said the academy also has a full-time elementary education teacher who is certified in learning disabilities.

By hospital policy, no more than eight students are placed in each class.

More Inmates Granted Early Prison Release

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Another 109 prison inmates are being freed today, 20 days ahead of their scheduled release dates under an emergency program created to keep state prisons within court ordered population limits.

Of those being released, 56 inmates face outstanding charges and will be detained for transfer to state or county authorities, said Department of Corrections spokesman Bob Macmaster.

It is the 26th award of administrative gain time since the program was created as a stop-gap measure in February 1987. Prison officials are authorized to shave time off the sentences of inmates earning time off for good behavior once the prison population hits 98 percent of its court ordered capacity, or 32,476 inmates.

Although only 109 qualified for early release under the award of 20 days administrative gain time today, about half the inmates in the system have been earning time off for good behavior and qualified for sentence reductions.

Prior to the award, the inmate population stood at 32,510, Macmaster said. A federal judge in Jacksonville could assume control of the prison system if the inmate population hits 32,476.

The court order is the product of a 1972 class action suit over prison conditions, including overcrowding.

U.S. Cruise Missile Tested Over Canada

COLD LAKE, Alberta (UPI) — A U.S. B-52 bomber launched an unarmed cruise missile over Canada's frozen north Tuesday to test the weapon and a $1.2 billion U.S.-Canada northern defense system, Canadian officials said.

The missile, scheduled to travel about 1,500 miles, was released from the wing of the bomber at 9:40 a.m. EST over the Beaufort Sea after the B-52 flew from Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Michigan.

"Everything went exactly as planned," said Capt. Yves Genevieux of the Canadian Forces Base at Cold Lake.

The test was expected to last up to four hours, with the missile following a southeastern route to the Primrose Lake Evaluation Range, a weapons testing range located near Cold Lake, in northern Alberta.

Although cruise missiles have already been deployed, officials said further tests were necessary to check the missile's guidance system and its ability to function over hostile terrain similar to that found in the Soviet Union and other eastern European countries.

In addition, Canada and the United States will use the new north warning system, still being constructed at a cost of $1.2 billion, to monitor the exercise.

The warning system was first used last October to monitor a cruise missile firing.

The North Warning radar system replaced the 30-year-old Distant Early Warning Line. Satellite and microwave communications systems link 11 manned long-range stations and 36 unmanned short-range radar installations scattered across the arctic.

Tuesday's test also will monitor how effectively Canadian CF-18 Hornet fighter jets and U.S. Air Force airborne warning and control systems can track an incoming cruise missile.

Major Jan Martinsen of the Canadian Forces Base at Cold Lake said the strategic importance of the arctic cannot be underestimated, especially with Soviet Bear-class bombers that occasionally approach the Canadian coastline equipped with cruise missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

"We know there is significant Soviet bomber activity in the north. They routinely fly north of the Canadian airspace. We really do gain invaluable experience with these (cruise missile) tests," Martinsen said.

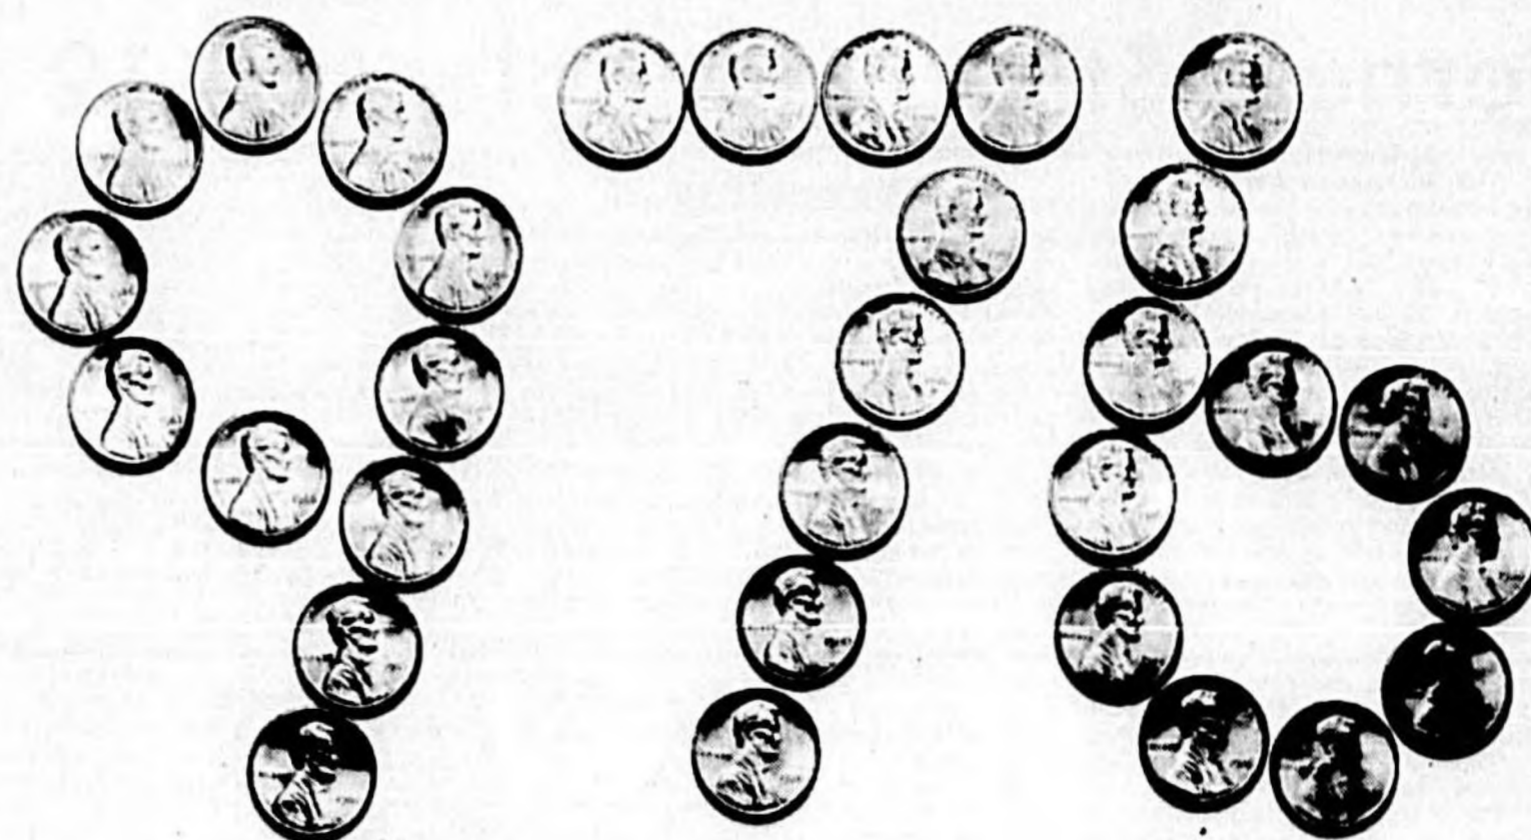

Peace activists said Monday they would demonstrate against the test even though their campaign to halt such tests has run out of steam.

Steve Shallhorn, disarmament coordinator of Greenpeace Canada, said in a telephone interview from Toronto that small demonstrations will be staged outside the Cold Lake base and in Ottawa by members of the Canadian Peace Alliance.

The 300-member alliance also plans to set up ballot boxes in about 30 cities across the country to determine support among Canadians for halting the tests.

Canada and the United States first agreed to test unarmed cruise missiles in 1983. The agreement, which provides for a captive-carry test and up to six free-flight launches, was renewed automatically last year for another five years, beginning this year.

The 20-foot-long, pilotless missile, which will travel at 500 mph at elevations between 1,000 and 15,000 feet, is equipped with a data-gathering system that records information about its performance.

Feds Warn Against Super Bowl Scams

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Department of Transportation Tuesday warned football fans considering tour packages to Super Bowl XXII to beware of airlines and agencies offering packages to San Diego that do not include tickets to the game.

The department's Office of Intergovernmental and Consumer Affairs issued consumer guidelines for those attending the Jan. 31 contest between the Washington Redskins and the Denver Broncos.

Those expecting game tickets with their package should require the tickets or a written confirmation before paying, the agency advised.
'In the past, there have been advertisements for Super Bowl travel packages that did not appear to include game tickets,' the department said in a statement. 'If a game ticket is not specifically mentioned in the advertising or listed as a tour feature, it probably is not included.'

Microwave Magic

Shrimp Creole On Rice Ready In Minutes

Seafood products can be cooked in the microwave oven in a very short period of time. Use full (100%) power and allow 3-4 minutes per pound of seafood. Standing time (3-5 minutes) will complete the cooking.

Shrimp retains an excellent flavor, has a bright color because very little water is used in the cooking process. It is important not to overcook as the product will become tough. Reheating of shrimp and oysters is not recommended because of the overcooking problem.

A favorite way to serve shrimp is in a creole sauce on rice. It makes a wonderful meal along with a green salad and good bread.

SHRIMP A LA CREOLE

1 pound raw large shrimp (peeled and cleaned)
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 cup green pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
1 (16 oz.) can stewed tomato, drained
1/2 teaspoon chili peppers
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Add butter, onion green pepper and garlic into a 2-quart casserole. Cook, uncovered, on high (100%) power until tender, 2-3 minutes. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, shrimp and spices. Cook on simmer 30% power for 8-10 minutes, or until shrimp is tender cooked. Serve over rice. Serves 5-6.

Of course, shrimp are great for appetizers or hors d'oeuvres. This easy recipe can use shrimp from the freezer.

MARINATED SHRIMP

12 oz. frozen large shrimp
1/2 cup olive oil
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon onion flakes
1/2 teaspoon salt
Garnishes

Place frozen shrimp in 1 1/2-quart casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 2 1/2-3 minutes, or until shrimp are no longer icy. Stir several times. Drain. Add remaining ingredients to shrimp. Mix well. Cover and refrigerate 4-6 hours, stirring once or twice during this time. M/W on 100% power, uncovered, 2 1/2-3 minutes, or until shrimp are opaque and tender. Stir once. Remove shrimp from cooking juices with slotted spoon. Place shrimp on a toothpick to serve. Picks can also be garnished with olives or pineapple chunks.

This is an economical shrimp recipe in that less than two pounds of shrimp can serve 6.

MICROWAVE SHRIMP CURRY

6 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 large onion, finely chopped
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
1 medium apple, finely chopped
2 teaspoon A-1 Sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup celery, finely chopped
2 cups hot water

Cook Of The Week

Native Daughter Treasures Heirloom Recipe Collection

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

"They say from the time I could walk, I stood by my mother and said, 'Let's cook,'" says Linda Terwilleger, "and I don't know how she had the patience to do all the cooking with me that she did. I was the one who always stuck right by Mother, and they say my chair was always by the stove and I was stirring. So, I've always cooked, for as long as I can remember."

"My mother and my daddy, both of them have cooked," she continues. "It never bothered them at all to have 30, 40 or 50 people. We had fish fries, we had barbecues with church groups, family friends and with our family, too. Mother did it with ease. Everybody that ever came was just like part of the family. There was always enough food for everybody, and there was always enough jobs. Mother never minded putting someone to work, whether it was shelling peas or doing the dishes, whether she was the one in charge or not." Describing her mother's cooking as "very southern," Mrs. Terwilleger says that her own cooking style is "pretty much southern, too."

Sparkling with good humor, our Cook of the Week is as enthusiastic about her cooking as she is about her teaching career, looking at each new day as an adventure while her 4-year-old students are treated to learning experiences which are the building blocks of their education. "I always wanted to be a teacher," says Mrs. Terwilleger. "That's all I ever thought I was doing to do, and that's what I do. I applied at one college for one thing and that was to teach. I teach 4-year-old migrant children, which I really love. My husband says I must do it very, very well because I've never grown up, and I hope I never have to grow up because I love seeing the world as a child, through a child's eyes." Mrs. Terwilleger, who has been teaching for 12 years, has a master's degree in early childhood education and works at Midway Elementary School in Sanford.

Born and raised in Sanford, our cook, daughter of Selma Williams and the late Mr. Ted Williams, is the middle child of five. "My husband, Jim, is also a native Sanfordite," she says, "and all four of our parents went to Seminole High School together, so that's kind of unique, I think. He and I grew up together. As long as I can remember, I can remember knowing him because he was always one of my brother's best friends. A lot of times I was with them and I remember going over to his house to play when I was about four years old, and I got to guard the fort. That was my job. They were out playing, so I'm sure that got me out of their hair!"

One of the greatest treasures of growing up in Sanford, our cook recalls, is the memory of vacations at her family's summer home near the Wekiva River. "There were only three houses out there at the time a cousin's house, our house, and another cousin's house," she says. "There were six of them in their family, five in mine and two in the other family, so there was always kids. We moved out there the day school got out and we moved back the day school began. There was electricity, but we didn't have telephones and sometimes we would write to our friends in town. We all had companions and we swam in a hole and fished and went frogging. But we always had friends come out, there was always a group of kids. It was really a neat place to grow up. It was a real treasure, when we look back now, that our parents gave us that gift." Today, says our cook, family closeness is still a very important part of her life. "One of my favorite times now," she says, "is when our families all get together in the summer and go to the beach for about a week. We have a real good time."

After graduating from high school, Mrs. Terwilleger went off to Florida Southern College in Lakeland, and her childhood friend, Jim, headed for The Citadel in Charleston, S.C. "We wrote to each other every day," she says. It was during her sophomore year that Mrs. Terwilleger took an enlightening trip to the Holy Land which she remembers vividly. "We went to 10 different nations in 21 days," she says. "I think that's what really opened my eyes. I must have had a real sheltered life because I saw the world differently. Like in Beirut, there was what I thought was a trash heap, and that's where people lived. They had dug out homes in these piles of trash. It opened my eyes and I really grew up." The more enjoyable part of her trip included visiting Egypt where she rode a camel, climbed a pyramid and cruised the Nile, she adds.

Married in 1966, the Terwillegers are looking forward to celebrating their 22nd anniversary on Feb. 19. For a period of about two and one-half years, the couple lived in Murray, Ky., while Jim Terwilleger returned to college. There, says our cook, she found a job in a hospital working with medical records. "I had no background," she laughs, "and I got a job as a typist, and I'm no typist, but I'm a dependable worker!" They enjoyed their stay, she says, "because we had never seen the winter, the snow, going sledding and the ice storms. I thought, were beautiful."

Mrs. Terwilleger is a happy person who doesn't hesitate to share her contentment and she is very proud of her young family. A son, Jimmy, and his wife, Linda Jo, have a 6-month-old boy, Eric. "He's very precious," she says, "and I enjoy him an awful lot. He's a real cute little guy. He's beginning to crawl—or leap, I'm not sure!" The Terwillegers also have a daughter, Nancy, who is a junior at Seminole High School. A straight-A student, Nancy enjoys her cheerleading activities and is president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. "She's a joy," says her mother. "I love her. I enjoy being with her friends and we have a real good relationship. We do a lot of things together."

Jim Terwilleger is also a dedicated educator and teaches limnology, the science of fresh water ecology, at Seminole High School. He is also the school's athletic trainer. Both husband and wife are devoted to their work and each other and, in order to spend as much time together as possible, they attend workshops on the ecology of

Check: Medications Don't Always Mix

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband takes Coumadin. He inadvertently took a medication containing aspirin and had to have nine units of blood. Please warn your readers to check labels for ingredients.

DEAR READER — Coumadin is an anti-coagulant; that is, a drug that prevents the blood from clotting. It is very useful in certain patients whose blood tends to coagulate too rapidly. Aspirin, too, has anti-coagulant properties, although it is far weaker than Coumadin. However, aspirin can increase the effects of Coumadin. Therefore, the two drugs do not mix well, unless given under medical supervision. Patients on Coumadin must scrupulously read labels in order to avoid taking over-the-counter remedies that contain aspirin.

DEAR DR. GOTT — For the last two years I have had blood work done and my sedimentation rate is always 75 to 110. Doctors have not found the cause. What's my next step?

DEAR READER: The sedimentation rate is a test that measures the speed with which red corpuscles sink to the bottom of a tube that is standing at room temperature. This is usually expressed as millimeters of drop per one hour. 10 to 15 being normal.

Ordinarily, red blood cells — being light and plate-shaped — tend not to fall by gravity. However, when coated with antibody protein and other substances, the cells become heavier and tend to stick together. This is called rouleau formation. Therefore, the sedimentation rate is elevated in many disease states: in particular, infection, inflammation, cancer and certain forms of arthritis.

The sedimentation rate is an old test and quite nonspecific. It really tells little more than that an active disease process is present in the body. By itself, it is not a diagnostic test. Nonetheless, it is useful in following the course of disease. For example, if a patient has a sedimentation rate of 75 and, after treatment, it falls to 10, the doctor may justifiably conclude that the disease is no longer active. Thus, the sedimentation rate can be a help in monitoring a disease.

Elevated sedimentation rates — especially ones as high as yours — almost always reflect a physical condition. This could be as mild as a normal pregnancy or as serious as an advanced arterial inflammation causing headache. If your doctors are unable to find the cause of your high sedimentation rate, I suggest that you ask for a referral to a rheumatologist. Such a specialist should be able to identify the nature of your problem.

If you have questions about MENOPAUSE, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send $1 to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Menopause.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Perhaps those of you who follow the career of Willy Nilly think that he never takes precautions in playing the hand. That is really not true. Unfortunately for Willy, too often he takes the wrong precautions. Here's how he misplayed six hands.

Willy won dummy's ace of spades and immediately cashed his A-K of hearts. He was about to play a third heart when he realized that that would cause a problem if either defender had started with four diamonds. So he played ace of diamonds and a diamond to the king. Willy's thinking was that he could handle a bad diamond split if the long opposing trump was in the same hand with the length in diamonds. Of course if diamonds split nicely, he would draw the third trump with the jack in dummy and run the diamond suit. Too bad, since East ruffed the second diamond and led a club to set the contract two tricks.

Careful Charlie knows the answer to today's problem. He would win the ace of spades, play ace of hearts, ace of diamonds and then a low heart to dummy's 10. If trumps were dividing 3-2, Charlie would then play dummy's spade king, throwing a diamond, and next ruff a low diamond in his hand with the king of hearts. Even though diamonds are 4-1, Charlie would get back to dummy with the jack of hearts to run the diamonds and just make his contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
JANUARY 21, 1988

A rise in status is in the offing for you in the year ahead, but you may have to contend with some minor obstacles. They'll amount to little if you keep your efforts focused on your goals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Over the next few days you could be rewarded more generously than usual for your achievements. This is not a period to slack off. Major changes are ahead for Aquarius in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There could be some frustrations in your involvements today, but they will be manageable. Sort them out quickly and get back on course.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A person who insists that your best interests are at heart today might recommend what's best for him/her but unwise for you. Be careful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A financial involvement today might not be as good as it looks, yet it won't be as bad as others say. You'll have to evaluate it personally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Profit is possible today if you're not wasteful. Don't prepare a sumptuous buffet and then throw away the leftover caviar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take time to stop and smell the roses today, but if you have something urgent that must be taken care of, don't leave it until the last minute.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some individuals are takers by nature, and the more you do for them, the more they want. Today, you might have to contend with a person who's cast in this mold.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An old family friend who has your ear frequently influences you more than he/she should. Weigh carefully what is discussed, then make up your own mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A financial arrangement about which you are concerned may take a turn today that could make it more profitable to you personally, provided you're imaginative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Foreign activities or expenditures today that are outside of the comfortable limits of your budget. Much can still be done within your means.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In your dealings with others today, they may treat you more considerately than you do them. Try to keep your accounts in balance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A plan you have can be improved on if you discuss it with a wise friend. This person could propose a twist that hasn't occurred to you.

Jury Resumes PTL Probe

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A former missionary who loaned $10,000 to PTL to silence Jessica Hahn about her sexual encounter with Jim Bakker testified Tuesday before a federal grand jury investigating the bankrupt ministry.

The Rev. Sam Johnson refused to answer reporters' questions as he entered the federal courthouse to testify for a second time before the 23-member panel, which has met off and on since last summer. "It looks like the snow will melt away and the sun will come out by noon and it will be a beautiful day this afternoon," Johnson told reporters. By afternoon, rain was falling in Charlotte.

Last March, Johnson was named pastor of PTL's Heritage Village Church by the Rev. Jerry Falwell, who took over the television ministry after Bakker resigned over his one-time relationship with Hahn in 1980. But as an Assemblies of God missionary in Switzerland, Johnson loaned Bakker aide Richard Dortch

$10,000 to help pay for silencing "a kook" who was threatening the ministry. He claims he knew nothing about Hahn at the time and only began suspecting where his money went after reports of up to $363,000 paid to silence her became public. Attorney Bill Osteen said Johnson would have nothing to say about his testimony before the secret grand jury session. The panel reportedly is investigating whether federal laws were violated in the way PTL did business under Bakker and apparently wants to know the source of the money Johnson lent to PTL. The loan was repaid by the ministry, along with $3,000 in interest.

Falwell took over the ministry last March when Bakker resigned after admitting to the tryst with Hahn. Bakker claims his marriage was on the rocks and Hahn was brought to his room in a Florida hotel by a former friend to seduce him. She claims he raped her. Bakker asked Falwell, who confronted him about the Hahn rumors, to take over PTL. But then he decided he wanted the ministry back and Falwell refused to return it. Joining a chorus of others accusing Bakker of homosexuality, Bakker told United Press International on Monday he has learned from his mistakes. "We've all been hurt," Bakker said. "My nature is to trust everybody and that got me hurt. I was wrong in what I did, but it's time to stop looking back and stop looking at the past. I've committed this whole thing to God." Bakker said he and wife Tammy Faye are planning to build a new Christian resort in California and start a new "Jim and Tammy Show" that will be syndicated nationwide. Falwell declined comment on that but said he wishes Bakker well. "I really don't have any comment," said Falwell. "I wish him well. Obviously there are many obstacles yet in front of him."

Uneducated Youths May Become New Underclass

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millions of youths without college educations may become America's new underclass because they lack the specialized skills needed to make decent livings in today's economy, a private commission of national leaders warned today.

"This nation may face a future divided not along lines of race or geography, but of educational attainment," said the report by the William T. Grant Foundation's Commission on Youth and America's Future. The commission, made up of industry, labor, education and health care leaders, said 20 million people between the ages of 18 and 24 are in the threatened group. It recommended that the federal government spend $50 billion over 10 years to provide expanded opportunities for young workers are limited largely to low-paying jobs without career opp-
