

Coast Guard Fires First Shot

Heroic Part Played By This Branch Of Service Expecting To Fire Last Shot

MIAMI, May 7, (Special).—A Coast Guardsman fired the first American shot in the war against Germany, and undoubtedly others will be on the scene when the last trigger is squeezed in the Pacific. Plans are made and probably within a few hours of the cessation of hostilities in Europe will begin an exodus of Coast Guardsmen from Atlantic waters to swell Navy forces already facing Japan.

Coast Guard and Coast Guard manned vessels hoisting anchor for the other side of the world will leave behind them a truly impressive record—a record that started off Greenland in September, 1941. Capture of the Norwegian ship Busko by the cutter Northland under Lieut. Comdr. Laroy McCluskey, later captured and held in a Nazi weather station, was a sotto voce forerunner of this country's entry into World War II. The action was legalized by our treaty with Greenland for the defense of this huge arctic island.

Again in 1944 the Coast Guard smashed a German weather party, captured one trawler, sank another, left a third imprisoned in ice, and sent 60 prisoners to Boston. Two stations were destroyed.

In months that followed, the C. G. cutters Spencer, Campbell, Jarvis and the invasion transports Chase, Hunter Liggett, Leonard Wood and Bayfield became well known. Coast Guard aviation chalked up an enviable record, not only with bombing operations, but for rescue and reconnaissance work.

Capture of the first Nazi U-boat crew was scored by the Icarus, Lieut. (now Lieut. Comdr.) M. D. Jester, after a hard battle at Charleston, S. C.

The Campbell's running battle with half a dozen submarines while protecting an Atlantic convoy made spectacular history. The 227-foot cutter was hunting the wolf pack in heavy seas and finally found it, 25 miles from the convoy. The battle started late one evening and ran into the following afternoon, climaxed when the Campbell ripped a 12-foot hole in her hull while ramming one of the raiders.

Dodging plodding merchant vessels in convoy and having to change course every few minutes complicated the Spencer's job when she picked up a U-boat lying dead ahead. Well placed depth charges brought the sub to

Russians Young Military Heads Bring Success

Able Red Army Leaders Meet Nazis On Even Terms, Won

By SHERRY BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Russia's military success was made possible in part by an amazing group of young, able military leaders who met the Nazis at the height of their power, absorbed the hardest blows of Hitler's legions and then beat them back step by step to the heart of their own stronghold.

Their teamwork was indicated by rapid shifts of outstanding men from front to front and from post to post. Moscow's announcement of such changes was sometimes casual in the extreme.

April 5, 1945, for example, a radio report about other matters revealed that Gen. Alexei Antonov had been chief of staff. Only a short time before, the fact that he was assistant chief had been revealed when he attended the Yalta conference.

He took the place of Marshal Alexander M. Vasilievski, son of a Volga peasant, who took over the leadership of the 2d White Russian Army, succeeding Gen. Ivan Chernyakhovsky who died of wounds.

Known as a practical soldier, Marshal Vasilievski had previously worked side by side with Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov who led the Russian assaults toward Stettin and Berlin. Marshal Zhukov is also a former chief of staff. He joined the Russian Army as a private, in 1915 and rose slowly until 1932 when he attended a school for young officers.

Later he was heard from as a hero in the fighting in Outer Mongolia. He was a bitter opponent of the Hitler-Stalin pact, was behind the drive which blasted the Germans from the vicinity of Moscow, and was said to have eliminated a mass of clerical disorder in Russian Military affairs before taking over the 1st White Russian Army for its great victory drive.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky commanded the 2d White Russian Army in the great smash that cracked the Hitler stronghold. Unlike many of his colleagues who are of proletarian birth, he comes from a good Polish family. One of the younger Soviet leaders, he made his reputation in the Moscow fighting. From there he went to Stalingrad and became a leader on several important fronts.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev did some of his most important work as commander of the 1st Ukrainian Army. He is the son of a peasant family and an apostle of Marxist communism, calling his men "comrade" and refusing to wear epaulettes in his greatcoat. He led the invasion of southern Poland. A czarist soldier in World War I, he joined the Red Army in 1919 and by 1922 was people's commissar on the general staff.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky was a corporal in World War I. His command in the 1945 victory drive was the 2d Ukrainian Army. He is credited with victories at Nikopol, Dniepropetrovsk and Stalino. A native of Odessa, he had the satisfaction of leading the forces that smashed the Nazis back from his home town.

The 3d Ukrainian Army assignment in the crucial final phases of the drive into Nazi territory went to Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin. One of the heroes of the Sevastopol fight, he led the attack on Budapest and took a prominent part in the negotiations which freed Bulgaria in the Allied column.

Typical of the changes in high command so casually announced by the Russians was the placing of battle-brother Gen. Andrei I. Feremenko in command of the 4th Ukrainian Army in April 1945. He had been commander of the 2d Baltic Army which had been inactive for a time. One of the a prominent part in the fighting around Stalingrad. Later, as commander of the Karelian Army he was responsible for the long Finnish front. He, too, is a former chief of staff. He was once reported dismissed from command (in 1939) because of "lack of success." But he was restored to power.

Gen. Ivan C. Bargramian won his spurs as a cavalry expert while a young officer in the Czarist armies. When the Soviet regime came to power, he backed the movement wholeheartedly. He is an Armenian who has won victories for the Soviet forces at Khar'kov, Kursk and Vitebsk. His command of the 1st Baltic Army placed him in the northern battles during the drives that routed the Germans from the sea frontier.

Working with Bargramian on the northern front was Gen. Ivan I. Maslennikov. He commanded the 3d Baltic Army in some of the crucial fighting, but he, too, was moved from command to command as strategy dictated. He was one of the heroes of the Caucasus campaign.

Another leader whose name is identified with northern operations is Marshal Leonid A. Govorov. As commander of the Leningrad Army, he is credited with twice breaking the Mannerheim line, in 1939 and 1944.

the surface and eliminated that menace.

Today seven Coast Guard vessels lie on the Atlantic floor—sunk, some without a trace, since the way began. They are the cutters Hamilton (first U. S. warship torpedoed), Avocet and Escanaba, the weather ships Leged and Natchez, the patrol vessel Wyloo, and the Leopard, a destroyer escort. Loss of life was heavy, but how heavy cannot be told.

Fame of the Coast Guard "Islanders" and their transports spread rapidly. At Casablanca, then Salerno, Port Lyautey, Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, Normandy and Southern France they were among the first ashore, last to leave. After the landings Coast Guard crews helped the troops to dig in, carried wounded to hospital ships, transported prisoners of war, and did 1,001 jobs for which training and experience especially fitted them.

The Chase earned its nickname "Lucky" when, under continuous enemy attack, she landed the 3th Division on the African coast without loss of a man or a landing craft. She repeated that performance on the beaches of Sicily. At Salerno the Chase made shoreline reconnaissance tours before landings were begun. Like the Leonard Wood, the Chase has always "delivered the goods" in emergencies, and to date has been able to get away almost unscathed.

Avocet witnessed another Coast Guard first—the first planes to be launched from an LST. Eight scouting planes left the deck of a Coast Guard-manned landing ship whereupon the LST went in and disembarked 37 vehicles and 300 fighting men.

At Normandy the transports really found themselves. Thousands of men and countless tons of supplies were put ashore. It was here that Coast Guardsmen, so skilled in small boat work that Allied navies had called upon them to train other personnel in landing craft techniques, met their first real test. Trapped steel and iron traps were under water everywhere, mines floated off beaches, everything the Germans had was firing, and all in one direction—seaward. Through this death-laden storm Coast Guardsmen took their share of troops ashore, and with a minimum of casualties due to water obstacles.

Even at Normandy the Coast Guard fleet did not forget one of its principal duties—rescue. A tiny fleet of stripped-down 83-footers ranged the Channel for

Truman Statement Is Seen As Easing Way For Japs To Make Offers For Peace

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—President Truman "reluctantly" signed legislation extending the Draft Act as a "compelling necessity in the continuance of military operations against Japan."

WASHINGTON — May 9. (AP) — The government showed signs of hesitancy today at plunging into its reconversion tasks, involving two main factors—manpower and metal. Paul McNutt notified the WMC labor management committee he might ask its support for the revival of manpower legislation defeated last month.

The WMC freed the aircraft industry permitting the construction of aircraft, but began backing water on relaxing controls over aluminum, copper and steel. The cutback in Army contracts is light so far, despite V-E day. However, reports were reported "in the works."

President Truman's statement on unconditional surrender for Japan is widely viewed in Congress as easing the way for Japs to end the futile war. Some legislators interpreted it as lending credence to rumored peace overtures from Tokyo.

GEA.M. May 9. (AP)—Official announcement of German capitulation reached American troops at 11 o'clock last night, but it came as an anticlimax for the army and marine infantry on Okinawa who are still bogged down in the formidable Japanese line across the island.

The position of the attacking U.S. divisions on Okinawa was improved, but their gains were limited across the entire 8000-yard line, but the fighting continued as bitter as anywhere in the Pacific and naval gunfire still has not knocked out the Japanese artillery.

The first marine division on the west coast drove to the edge of Dakeishi village, a mile from the capital city of Naha, and was expected to link up Tuesday with men of the 77th army division who are threatening a city of 60,000, ahead of the center of the line. The 77th has stormed one of the principal defense positions, a hill feature near Shiga.

Shiga Lumbered Japs

On the east coast the Seventh division, chiefly engaged in mop-up Japanese troops who broke through the line in a recent counter-attack, made slight gains, also aided by a continuous bombardment.

VE Day Observed Escaped Convict With Services At Is Re-arrested In Naval Air Station Bootleg Roundup

An impressive V-E Day service was conducted Tuesday at 12:30 P. M. in front of the Administration Building at the Sanford State Prison. The service was held in honor of the Station gathered for solemn observance of the victory. Back of the platform upon which the station orchestra sat, was the flag at half mast in honor of the late President Roosevelt. The orchestra started the program with the playing of "Anchors Aweigh."

Comdr. J. G. Slinoy, USNR, acted as the officiating officer, and the spirit of the occasion when he said:

"Today we honor the victory of our fighting forces in Europe. We all may rejoice in the thought that the job has been well done. It has been a tremendous task and everyone who has contributed his share, may rightfully join in the prayers of Thanksgiving which all should offer up on this occasion.

"No one should overlook the remaining struggle in the Pacific which will take all our resources and efforts. Even though the Number one Axis partner has been disposed of and the forces of the second member of the Axis have laid down their arms in unconditional surrender, there still remains a long, hard and costly struggle in the Pacific to destroy the third and last member of the Axis. To this end we must remember that this is not the time to relax our efforts, but to concentrate on speeding final victory so our Nation may return to a normal and peaceful way of life."

Comdr. Slinoy introduced Lieut. (jg) Roy F. Berry, Jr., USNR, fuel officer at the Station, who told of his participation in the Normandy landing on June 6, 1944. He stated that his job during the invasion was as Naval Gun-fire Liaison Officer with the American infantry and it was his duty to direct the firing from ships to the beach. He told of practice landings on the English shore, of the 24 hour postponement because of bad weather, and then of the general sea sickness when the landing was made.

Lieut. Berry paid tribute to Army-Navy co-operation that made the landing possible, and mentioned the Naval amphibious operations in crossing the Rhine. "Let us observe V-E Day solemnly," he said, "and realize that we overcome the Japs with complete victory."

Lieut. Berry's home is Houston, Texas. He was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action.

Comdr. Slinoy introduced Lieut. William J. Maasner, USNR, a flight instructor at the Station, who, he said, had performed two tours of duty in the Pacific, and had been decorated with the Navy Cross and the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal. On his second tour of duty, he was with VE-19 in which he achieved a remarkable record, and had his first V-2 airplane downed, one of which was shot down on one ship. His home is in Riverside, Ill.

Lieut. Maasner contrasted the small naval contingent of Guadalcanal, Rendova and New Georgia in the Solomon, with the later operations at Guam, with its tremendous difference in personnel.

Stores Close, Union Services Were Held At Baptist Church

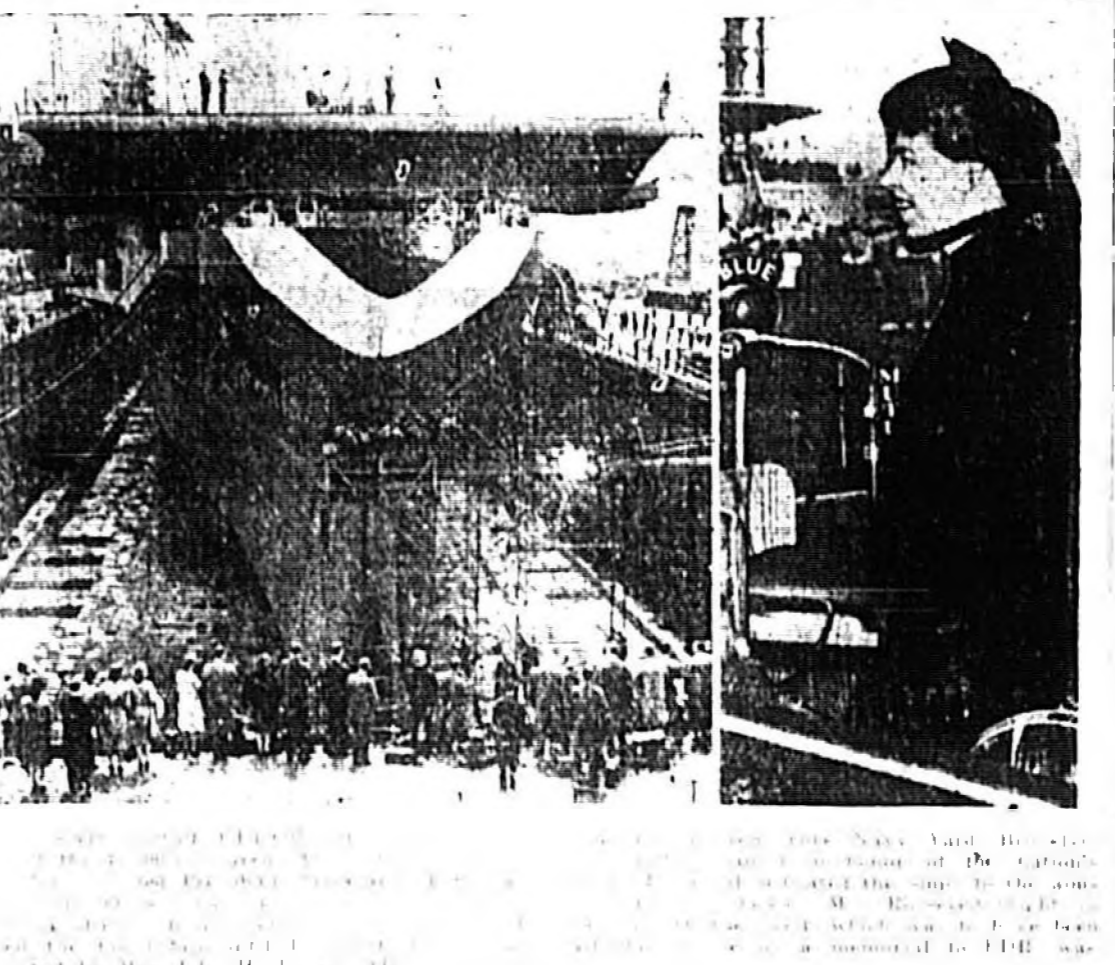

Sounding of city sirens and whistles from the Atlantic Coast Line Station, followed President Truman's announcement at 11:05 P. M. this morning of the unconditional surrender of Germany.

The announcement, coming at 11:05 P. M., was the first official news of the surrender of the German forces. The news was not attended to with the excitement of the other cities. People crowded small stores and the streets were quiet, but there was a feeling of relief and joy.

The celebration started at 8 P. M. at the Baptist Church, where a service was held. The church was crowded with people, and the service was held in a solemn and dignified manner.

The stores in the city were closed, and many people gathered in the streets to celebrate the end of the war. The atmosphere was one of quiet joy and relief.

Germans Agree Must Surrender All Aircraft Armaments, Ships, Equipment

The surrender terms were ratified in Berlin today as Marshal Stalin joined the Allies in proclaiming the war's end. The papers were signed amid the ruins of what Hitler hoped would be the world empire capital. Aircraft, armaments, equipment, vessels, everything must be accounted for and surrendered to the Allies in good condition.

In London a radio calling itself the Prague station was reported as saying the Russian army had entered the city today, and that German planes bombed the city and three other points shortly afterwards.

A French commander said three French divisions of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Armies had entered the city and had been occupied by the French. The only German soldiers still in French hands were at Dunkerque, about 10 miles from the city.

Paris was reported to have been liberated by the British, American and Polish forces. The city was reported to be in the hands of the Allies.

Florida Couples Must Give 3 Days Notice Of Wedding

Bill To Remove Obstacle To Big Oil Well Is Discussed At Sunniland, Fla.

TALLAHASSEE, May 9. (AP)—The bill requiring advance notice of Florida couples to give three days notice before they may obtain marriage licenses was cleared through the legislature by a 60-21 vote yesterday and will be signed by Gov. Caldwell for his signature.

The measure introduced in the senate by Senator Lloyd F. Boyle of Sanford and passed there early in the session will become effective immediately upon being signed by Gov. Caldwell or after having stayed five days in his office without approval or veto.

It provides that applicants for marriage licenses must file affidavits with the county judge, then wait three days before the license is issued. During the period a copy of the application will be posted at the front door of the courthouse.

Rep. Andrews of Union County, opposing the bill, said he had been asked by numerous county judges to help defeat it. "It's going to drive the marriage business to the state of Georgia and promote common law marriages," he declared.

Rep. Jenkins of Alachua County said the "primary objection" to couples crossing the state line to be married "is that the county judges get considerable fees that they do not report" for performance.

Rep. Carlton of Duval, who steered the bill to passage, said it would prevent "hasty marriages that wind up in divorce," and Remondement of Pinellas said it would stop "a lot of these drunken marriages and party marriages."

Rep. H. B. Hester said if he had been subject to such a law "I wouldn't be a married man today because my wife's father should have kept me at bay with a shotgun."

America it has been given to free the world from three monsters instead of one," said Rev. Root; "two have already fallen and we look with confidence to the conquest of Japan."

"We must not pursue a policy of hate," he added. "It is hate and cruelty that has brought Germany low. A man was crucified for his love of the world, his body placed in a tomb. His enemies killed him in hate and went down to unremembered graves but he who died for love rose and shall live forevermore." He then closed with the benediction: "Thy will which is love, be done on Earth even as it is in Heaven."

At the Sanford Naval Air Station, V-E Day was solemnly celebrated, and talks were given at an open air service by Comdr. J.G. He contrasted this with the battleships, fleets of carriers, and the hundreds of planes that came over in waves in the softening up process.

Lieut. Masoner told of replacements by fliers from the Sanford Naval Air Station, who when suddenly thrown into action, "did a marvelous job." He termed their training here as "exceptionally good," and added that the Station should be very proud of them. He voiced the hope that within a year from now, it would be announced that the Japs had crumbled and that the war was over.

The German high command Tuesday night broadcast an order to all its armed forces to stop fighting at midnight. It said that destruction of war material or scuttling of ships was forbidden. The men who still have a war to fight in the Pacific did little celebrating when they heard of Germany's unconditional surrender—they had not the time. Their chief concern was the home front, and they expressed fear that the people there "will have a tendency to let up."

Mr. Charles F. Lawson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., expressed the sentiment of many when he said, "Talk of reconstruction is disturbing to us who know it isn't over by a long shot."

On Guam, the statements by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill were broadcast by the armed services radio station and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz sent congratulations to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, declaring that "now the whole overwhelming weight of our force can be turned upon the treacherous enemy in the Pacific."

Howard Faville, civilian employee from the Public Works Department, now spoke into the microphone after being introduced by Comdr. Sliney. For a number of years Mr. Faville has been connected with the contracting and building trade in Sanford. He was employed at the Station since the Public Works Department was established, and is in direct charge of 50 percent of the Public Works employees who perform the work of Building Maintenance on the Station.

"I know that we all feel like celebrating," he said, "and are relieved to know that half of the war is over, but I would like to stress the fact that it would be necessary to be too wild in celebration while our boys are still dying in action." He then pointed out that nations in Europe "ought celebrate but that we had a war ahead. He told of the importance of civilian workers in keeping up the Station, and said here is a serious shortage of manpower. He stressed the need of buying war bonds.

bombardment from ships offshore.

The men who still have a war to fight in the Pacific did little celebrating when they heard of Germany's unconditional surrender—they had not the time. Their chief concern was the home front, and they expressed fear that the people there "will have a tendency to let up."

Mr. Charles F. Lawson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., expressed the sentiment of many when he said, "Talk of reconstruction is disturbing to us who know it isn't over by a long shot."

On Guam, the statements by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill were broadcast by the armed services radio station and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz sent congratulations to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, declaring that "now the whole overwhelming weight of our force can be turned upon the treacherous enemy in the Pacific."

The announcements were greeted with joy, but the joy appeared to be founded on the belief that more American power would be thrown into the Pacific. Everyone emphasized that "we still have a job on our hands."

Japs Lose 3000 Planes

Men: while conservative estimates were that Japan has lost some 3000 planes during the last two months and that heavy super-fort attacks on the mainland have reduced seriously the enemy's ability to replace aircraft. The estimates of first line aircraft available to the enemy ranged as low as 1000.

Japanese shipping is in dire straits; it is estimated that it has been reduced to around 2,000,000 tons, and the remaining vessels are under steady attack by army and navy planes operating as far north as Korea and as far south as the Netherlands East Indies. Submarines, too, are taking a toll.

Awarded Medal For Life Saving Attempt

CAMP BLANDING, May 9. (Special)—"I'd a lot rather have the men than the medal," says T-Sgt. Ellsworth Dalmus of the Infantry Replacement Training Center, who was awarded the Silver Star and an oak leaf cluster for his gallant attempt to save the lives of two men in his platoon during the jungle campaign of Merrill's Marauders in Burma last year. The sergeant got both men safely to the rear, but both died soon afterwards.

Sergeant Dalmus, who received the awards from Col. C. N. S. Ballou at a formation of the 23rd Training Battalion recently, risked his own life to bring a badly wounded man out of the front lines on April 6 last year.

For rescuing the second wounded man when his outfit was pinned down by heavy Jap machine gun fire two days later, Sergeant Dalmus won the cluster for his Silver Star.

In the infantry for three years Sergeant Dalmus was in Panama, Australia and India before getting into action with the Marauders in Burma. He came through the whole jungle campaign without a scratch but it was tough going. "Guess I was just lucky, for they came pretty close to me several times," he says.

Spanish ladies of the 1500's wore perfumed gloves known as "Sweetie Bazzes" when appearing in court.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GOD IS SPEAKING TO US ALL THE TIME... IDLE TALK: Speak, Lord, for thy servant hears.—1 Sam. 3:9.

Poem-Light (From Talaria) A poem may be a light... ISABEL FIBKE CONANT.

President Truman's new naval aide is Capt. James Vardaman, Jr., a native of Greenwood, Miss., and a son of former Senator Vardaman of that state.

It must have been a proud moment for Winston Churchill when he announced the surrender of Germany yesterday...

Sanford residents are particularly interested in the recent activity of the 31st Dixie Division on Mindanao...

In Washington, OPA announced that it would no longer regulate the prices of bird cages, aluminum horse shoes, ship bells, etc.

The Russians, who seemed to be a little slow in learning that the war in Europe is really over, have something to celebrate since that is all the war they have and now, for at least the moment, they are at peace with all the world.

Five hundred ninety-eight million dollars is a lot of money, boys and girls, but that is what the people of Florida have paid into the federal treasury in the last three years of war...

The experts say it will take another year to defeat Japan. It probably will if the Japs fight as they have from Guadalcanal to Iwo Jima.

We will never forget a cartoon we saw in the New York Herald Tribune the day after Adolf Hitler was elevated to the chancellery of Germany...

The war with Germany is over and horrible as it was, few of the dire predictions of Adolf Hitler have come true.

A Flagrant Breach of Faith

Much as we are loathe to criticize the Associated Press, the greatest newsgathering organization in the world, of which we have been a member for over 20 years...

Kennedy was the Associated Press correspondent who on Monday broke the news to the world of the unconditional surrender of the German nation at General Eisenhower's headquarters at Reims, France.

Some fifty-odd correspondents were assembled in the Army's public relations office in Paris last Sunday and heard Brig. Gen. Frank Allen, head public relations officer, say, "We are going on a mission to cover the signing of the peace."

All correspondents were then required to sign that pledge and Kennedy was one of those signing. He made no protest against being pledged to secrecy at the time or against having to sign the pledge.

The Associated Press itself may not be entirely responsible for what happened, but it is responsible for the way it accepts Kennedy's breach of faith.

To do otherwise, would produce repercussions which the Associated Press can ill afford to bear, particularly at this critical time.

The Associated Press is under attack by the government at this very time for supposedly trying to establish a monopoly of news. There is, in our opinion, no truth in the government's charges.

Ball Hall Enlarged

The baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., has received ten new names, voted on by sports writers just after it looked as if the election machinery were breaking down.

Now ten have been elected at one swoop, all old-timers or nearly so. Only Fred Clark, the Pittsburgh outfielder and manager, and Roger Bresnahan, the catcher who first used shinguards, were playing as late as 1910.

The patriarchs of the game made up the other five: Dan Brouthers and Ed Delahanty, unequalled hitters both; King Kelly, whose name survived in the old cry, "Slide, Kelly, slide"; Jim O'Rourke, who in his 50's was still playing second base for New Haven, Conn., with his son at third, and Hugh Duffy, who at 77 is still a coach and scout for the Boston Red Sox.

Anyone who wonders if these oldsters were so much should name anyone today who made seven consecutive hits in one game, like Robinson, or, like Duffy batted for 488 and hit four homers in one game.

Japan May Never Have Been Invaded But History Shows She Can Be Beaten

By THOMAS A. BOYNTON AP Newsfeatures Writer

Before World War II, Japan never was successfully invaded, but Japanese who boast that their country never has lost a foreign war ignore the fact that she sank a thousand ships.

The face—not that of beautiful Helen of Troy but of an ugly turban—was the steel battering ram on the bows of the world's first armored warships.

In 1937, the Japanese Shogun Hideyoshi looked at Korea as the high-road into China. That year he successfully invaded Korea. Then Yi-Sun Sin, with his ironclads, wrecked the Japanese supply lines.

Two years later, however, Hideyoshi came back in greater force, destroying the bulk of the Korean navy. Yi-Sun Sin joined forces with the Chinese fleet and again nipped off the enemy's supplies.

Mongolians supported by Chinese and Koreans, led by the Mongol Khabai Khan, made invasion attempts in 1274 and 1281. Winds and high waves engulfed the ships and the invaders were completely defeated.

The Japanese date their beginning from the accession of Emperor Jimmu Tennu in 660 B.C. They say Emperor Hirohito is his direct descendant.

Believed to have stemmed from Asiatic and South Pacific Island people, the early Japanese were split into many hostile clans as a result of conflict of religion, animism, ancestor worship, and Confucianism and Buddhism.

There were three great political changes in Japanese history—the 19th century's Meiji reformation, the samurai shogunate dictatorship which began in 1192 and the 1868 imperial restoration by Meiji.

Under Meiji's rule the samurai, Japan's military caste, was born. As feudalism took a new hold, the samurai fought first for the lords and then for now.

Out of the shogunate, in power for 685 years came the abandonment of polygamous marriages, wider trade with China, war with the Mongolians, some Japanese migration, and broader education. The lords grew wealthy and Japanese pirates plundered the Asiatic coast.

Japan May Never Have Been Invaded But History Shows She Can Be Beaten

Foreign fleets then persuaded Japan again to open her ports to traders. English and French agreements were signed in the 1850s. Russia was next. Then came Commodore Perry and General Tomshend Harris who gained trade and settlement treaties. Later came Prussia, Switzerland and Belgium; Japan became a world market.

When Emperor Meiji mounted the throne in 1867, Japan headed toward modernization. Meiji seized all reins of government from the shogunate. He moved to Tokyo, removed class distinctions, abolished feudalism and set up a modern government, but down reformed, and sent a commission abroad to study means for establishing a Japanese constitution.

Under pressure of an Anglo-Japanese accord and U.S. declarations, Russia had promised to return Manchuria to China. Instead, in 1903, she increased her armies and fortified Port Arthur.

Japan entered World War I on the allied side but her participation was limited. She occupied the Marshalls, Marianas and Carolines and held them as mandates after the war.

Japan's place as a first-rate naval power was assured by the World War. But Nippon was set on controlling Asia. She invaded Manchuria in 1931-32 and in 1933 quit the League of Nations, turning her back on the Orient.

From then on the path was clear. The "China Incident" crowning out of a night clash between Sino-Japanese forces at Marco Polo bridge July 7, 1937, set the Japanese streaming into China from annexed Manchuria.

Japan invaded France, Japan invaded French India. China was proclaimed herself a part of the Roco-Berlin-Tokyo axis. U.S. aid to China was extended as Japanese credits were frozen. "Economic strangulation" then was given as Japan's excuse for war.

In the 18th century members of royal families arranged their bodies with scented oils which were supposed cleansing in effect.

In the earliest days of the church, it was considered irreverent to appear before a member of the clergy.

Historians estimate that slaves were in the more than 3,000 years ago.

Today the finest so-called do-skin leathers are taken from the baby lamb.

In 1923, when the sarcophagus of the ancient Egyptian king Tutankhamoh was opened, several pairs of gloves were found.

Falconry was practised by the ancient Persians, Egyptians and Romans thousands of years ago.

Feast In Enjoyed By Celebrated Nine

The merry Fed baseball team of Seminole High School, winners of the district tournament held last week at Winter garden, were entertained Monday evening at the home of their principal, H. E. Morris, and spent much time in the outdoor kitchen preparing a feast in celebration.

The boys cooked their own hamburgers, and corn-on-the-cob with all the trimmings. Much fun was had in turning home-made ice cream and baking for the feast. Two large cakes were cut at the end of the evening. While the boys were cooking, the others were playing ping-pong and scrub baseball. Callahan proved his ability at fanning out the batters. When being served, the line formed according to how each boy came in their batting order. All agreed that Coach Kettles and Prof. Morris were A-1 Hamburger Chefs.

The money for this outing was donated by the whole student body of the high school.

The boys leave this afternoon for Lakeland where they will enter the State tournament and start the series off by playing St. Petersburg High School at 9:00 o'clock Thursday morning.

Those enjoying the outdoor meal were:

Herman (Foots) Brunley, Clarence McKee, Bobby Callahan, Donald Evers, Bobby Callum, David Jackson, Alvin Kilpatrick, Glenn Lingle, Harold Kastner, Theodore Brooklyn Vern Clark, Joe Wathen, Goot Singletary, Mr. C. W. Echall, coach and Mrs. C. F. Kettes, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Morris, Anne and Carl Kettles and Bobby and Ernie Morris.

ARE YOU JUDGMENT PROOF?
There are a number of reasons why the unwary or thoughtless owner is taking a bigger chance in going without an insurance policy than in paying for one.
Many uninsured people have considered themselves judgment proof. They didn't have the amount of money required to pay a big claim. They didn't own homes and they didn't think they'd have an accident anyway.
In the first place, your car is a cash asset. If it is damaged, you will lose it. If it is "judgmented" to have the car, you will lose it. And if it is damaged, you will lose it. If it is "judgmented" to have the car, you will lose it. And if it is damaged, you will lose it.
A lot of folks who have always rented homes have had to buy them, the landlord having decided to take advantage of the favorable market to sell.
So, if you have a car, or a home, or all three, you are certainly not judgment proof. Protect what you own. Buy Mutual Insurance Today. All

Real Income Of American Public Declines 2 Cents

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
 NEW YORK—(AP) Initials of the system of "noise-free" FM radio broadcasting, known as frequency modulation and so named because of its technical characteristics, is considerably concerned over the initial status. That is, just where it is to be located in the list of station assignments.

Since it got under way at the beginning of a new broadcast year five years ago, FM has been operating in the space between 42 to 50 megacycles, about seven megacycles above the standard broadcast band, and below the 60 megacycles reserved for the higher frequencies extending up to 100 megacycles.

Recently, the Federal Communications Commission, in re-allocating radio services in the higher frequencies extending up to 100 megacycles, proposed that FM take a new spot, between 76 and 80 megacycles, a spot which is now occupied by the 50 operating channels compared to the present 35.

Sharp differences developed immediately in the FM Broadcasters Association, protested on the ground that the move would be in violation of the Federal Communications Commission's policy of not moving stations which have been assigned a spot.

Proponents of the change insisted that the change in frequency would be in the interest of the public, and that better service would be rendered. Also that the move would be in the interest of the public, and that better service would be rendered.

Obviously— the boys at the front can't do it all! You can help— BUY WAR BONDS!
