Series Of 4 Burglaries Strike Altamonte

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department is investigating a series of four similar burglaries in Altamonte Springs early Wednesday morning.

Red Bug Gets Room

The Seminole County School Board voted unanimously Wednesday to send an extra portable classroom to Red Bug Elementary School to alleviate overcrowding but denied any portables to Woodlands Elementary.

Parents of children attending Woodlands complained to the board that there are a number of portables being used for less vital purposes than theirs. The parents said overcrowding will force classes into Woodlands auditorium.

Board member Roland V. Williams' original motion was to send one portable to Woodlands and two to Red Bug, but it failed by a 3 to 1 vote with one board member absent.

"One portable at Woodlands would be an insult," board member Allan F. Keith said.

Hospital Sale Hearings Set

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

In less than two weeks, on Jan. 13, the Seminole County Commission will hold public hearings to discuss the possible sale or lease of Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Representatives from the three groups will be interviewed by county commissioners Jan. 10. Meanwhile, Gov. Bob Graham has appointed two men to replace two hospital trustees who resigned in November.

If the county commission chooses to accept either of the three proposals the hospital board of trustees will be abolished.

only valuables, leaving the pants and purses behind.

In two cases, the burglar woke his victims, but got away before they could stop him, say deputies, who listed the following crimes.

At 2:40 a.m., the burglar struck at 121 Orieta Dr., breaking glass on the carport door of the home of Jerome Tesar.

He made at least two trips into the house, deputies said, removing pants and a purse. He awoke an unidentified woman in the house, but deputies report he was able to walk out before she could react.

Five minutes later, Sallie McPherson and Walter Hauser, two retired residents of 187 Plumosa Dr., were awakened by a man shining a flashlight in their faces.

Again, the thief was able to leave through the carport door, carrying an unknown amount of cash in Hauser's wallet.

Between 1:30 a.m. and 5 a.m., a thief took about $15 in cash from the home of Arthur Coons, 120 Hollyhook Dr. Entering through the garage walk door, the thief took pants and a purse.

Some time between 2 a.m. and 8 a.m., Louise Ristkowski, of 124 Hollyhook Dr., was a victim of the thief, who took her purse and $12 after entering through the carport door.

Deputies reported they were able to find some evidence at the crime scenes and have a partial description of the thief.

HOUSEFIRE IN ALTAMONTE SPRINGS
A fire, reportedly started by a heater, did about $2,000 worth of damage to the home of Annie Lowery, at 207 Campello Ave., Altamonte Springs, Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputies reported the fire started at about 11:00 a.m. and caused no injuries.

SCHOOL VANDALIZED
Five classrooms and the main office of the Woodlands Elementary School were ransacked over the holiday vacation, report Seminole deputies.

Persons who broke into the building between Dec. 30 and Wednesday did minor damage to the building, but took nothing, the deputies say. The most severe damage was caused by the discharging of one fire extinguisher on a classroom floor.

Afghanistan Invasion Irks President

Carter To Request Postponement Of SALT Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Still miffed at the Soviets for their armed intrusion into Afghanistan, President Carter will seek an indefinite postponement of the Senate's consideration of the new SALT treaty, administration sources say.

"The decision to ask for the postponement was Carter's strongest response to date to the Soviet intervention. Other retaliatory measures were to be announced later."

One White House aide said the administration's overall response to Moscow would affect U.S. Soviet relations for a decade.

Carter met with his top military and diplomatic advisers Wednesday to set a course of action. His first official move was to recall U.S. Ambassador Thomas J. Watson from Moscow.

"Before this is over they (the Soviets) are going to realize they made a serious mistake," one aide said.

Officials said Carter's feeling "is as strong as ever" for the need for nuclear arms controls and he firmly believes the pact is in the interest of national security.

But Carter feels "the Russians by their own actions have created a situation which makes it impossible to bring it (SALT) before the Senate now," an official said.

It also was learned the United States will seek condemnation of the Soviet Union in the U.N. Security Council.

"There is no consideration of a military response at this point," said a White House official, who refused to be identified. But he said the president and U.S. allies believe the Soviet Union "must expect serious consequences for their actions."

Diplomatic consultations were under way with several nations for a collective condemnation of the Soviet action in the United Nations.

The aide said Carter's series of actions would become clear in a day or so. The president is "making decisions that could affect relations with the Soviets over a decade," he said.

The official indicated the president has turned to history books to study the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 and the U.S. reaction to it.

There were indications Carter would lift the embargo on shipment of military equipment to Pakistan, a neighbor of Afghanistan, that could be caught up in the Soviet sweep.

There was speculation the United States might halt grain sales to Russia and pull out of this year's Olympics in Moscow, but some officials said these steps were not being considered at this time.

Officials, who are familiar with some of the other options under consideration, said they included—

—Cutting back or halting several bilateral transportation agreements with the Soviets, including a maritime agreement already in force allowing Soviet ships to load and unload directly at ports such as Baltimore and San Francisco.

—Reducing the level of diplomatic exchanges with the Soviet Union, including cultural exchanges.

—Citing the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan as a major violation of the Helsinki Agreement of 1975, and making it a major issue at the forthcoming Madrid conference, which will review the Helsinki human rights accord.

Solid Saudi Arabia Key To Oil Stability

Saudi Arabia is an oasis of relative calm in the political turmoil that grips the oil-rich states on the Persian Gulf.

Saudi Arabia has been a friend to the United States and the Western world throughout the escalating oil war, holding out consistently for restraints in pricing and for responsibility in maintaining production schedules.

And Saudi Arabia is an impartial friend in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, pumping one-third of the total OPEC output and controlling the decisions in five other countries that produce another one-third.

So it is reasonable to believe that covetous eyes have been directed to Saudi Arabia by ideological foes of the United States.

As indicated by the disorder in Iran, much of the unrest on the gulf is immune to outside pressures, tied as it is to ancient rivalries and jealousies and compounded by religious squabbles.

It follows that the first priority of U.S. policy must be to maintain — through political or military decisions — the present government of Saudi Arabia.

It is ironic that the Soviet Union, with which the United States is trying desperately to seek accord on strategic arms limitations, may pose the greatest threat to U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf.

Soviet troops are deployed in neighboring Afghanistan and Moscow has an agreement to construct airbases there. Some observers believe the Russians are behind a bid to stir up dissatisfaction among Moslem factions in Saudi Arabia and create a "revolutionary" government such as that which now controls Iran.

The United States, unhappily, is nearly shut out from establishing its own military bases in the region.

But the American naval presence in the Indian Ocean and Arabian Sea is a sobering reminder of U.S. military capabilities. It could be the only persuasive force between a stable Saudi Arabia and a Saudi Arabia gone the way of Iran.

The presence must be maintained and strengthened.

VISTA Founding

A brief ceremony at the White House recently celebrated the 15th year of operation of the VISTA program — a sort of domestic Peace Corps, which now serves some 2,000 American communities with its 3,400 volunteers.

VISTA stands for Volunteers in Service to America. These volunteers do their job on meager pay, serving from one to five years at salaries averaging $317 a month.

At first most of the VISTA workers were white, middleclass college graduates, many of them retired but experts at their former tasks. But over the years more and more of the volunteers are poor people recruited from the areas in which they are needed.

President Carter told the workers who called on him at the ceremony that he has pledged to continue the program and next year hopes to have 5,000 VISTA workers — the highest level of all time.

VISTA was started in 1964 by President Lyndon Johnson as part of his War on Poverty and then fell on hard times during the administrations of Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

Recently Congress voted to continue the program for two years. Thus the future is secure for a time for VISTA workers to aid Americans in their endeavors, whether it be aiding farmers with produce, obtaining services for patients in nursing homes or advising tenants on their rights.

A Crime To Keep Quiet...

By ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) — "For great wrongdoing," proclaimed the Greek historian Herodotus, "there are great punishments from the gods." But now that more mortals are in charge of the criminal justice system, no such equities exist.

Nowhere has the disparity between crime and punishment been greater than in the field of "white collar" or corporate crime, a shameful situation documented in a landmark report recently published by the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The LEAA's detailed study, directed by University of Wisconsin sociology professor Marshall B. Clinard, marks the first time that any federal department or agency has examined the especially sensitive area of corporate criminality.

The study of "Illegal Corporate Behavior," involving a detailed analysis of the legal record of the country's 883 largest publicly owned corporations in the mid-1970s, shows that during one brief two-year period more than 40 percent of the corporations were accused of violating a federal law.

The allegations included serious crimes such as fraudulent securities practices, income tax fraud, financial manipulations, advertising misrepresentation, anticompetitive practices, air and water pollution, food and drug law violations and the payment of illegal kickbacks, rebates and bribes.

"Corporate crime costs run into the billions of dollars," the report notes, although precise figures are difficult to obtain. Estimates range from a Senate subcommittee's $90 billion to the Justice Department's approximation of $10 billion to $20 billion.

Regardless of which figure is used, however, the contrast between corporate crime and "street crime" is both striking and disturbing.

The losses incurred by the victims of the more conventional classes of crime are relatively minuscule — approximately $400 in an armed burglary, $800 in an armed robbery and $150 in a larceny case — but those convicted of such crimes are routinely sentenced to prison terms of five to 10 years or longer.

Yet white collar criminals convicted of defrauding, stealing or looting millions of dollars seldom face such harsh penalties. "Few members of corporate management ever go to prison, even if convicted," says the LEAA report.

Among those incarcerated, the longest prison terms were six-month sentences imposed on two executives. Three others were sentenced to 40, 48 and 90 days in prison. The average sentence for the remaining 11 executives was exactly nine days.

What's Arafat's Role In Takeover?

WASHINGTON — One of the murkier mysteries of the Tehran situation is the involvement of the Palestine Liberation Organization and its crafty leader Yasser Arafat in the embassy takeover and the negotiations for the hostages' release.

The plot-to-takeover the embassy is so enigmatic, in fact, that our own intelligence agencies disagree sharply in their assessments of the actions. Some of my sources believe Arafat himself tried to mediate the crisis, as he claimed; others are convinced the PLO leader's halfhearted mediation effort was a sham.

The one thing both schools of thought agree on is that Arafat saw the hostage situation as a golden opportunity to gain favorable publicity for the PLO in the United States. Whether his mediation attempt was sincere, or whether it was simply a cover for a more sinister mission — something that resulted in Soviet support in the event of U.S. military action — the PLO would still look like a friend in need to the United States.

There is an even more Byzantine possibility, my sources tell me: Arafat may have had a hand in the planning and execution of the embassy takeover from the start. Intelligence experts note that in the past — for example the seizure of the Egyptian Embassy in Turkey last July — the PLO assumed a prominent role in a situation it had little interest in.

Social Security's Insecurity

By DON GRAFF
Dollars by the billions is what Social Security is accustomed to dealing with, not mere pennies.

But one aspect of the system very much resembles a particular type of penny — a bad one. And that is the financing problem which has turned up repeatedly in recent years and is about to do so again.

This January, millions of U.S. wage-earners will detect the first sign. The bite taken out of their paychecks for Social Security payments will increase $147.5 a month.

On an annual basis, that's an increase of only 0.74 percent, and all things considered, minimal. Primarily to be considered by most of us, of course, are the much more dramatic inflationary leaps of food, housing and the other essentials of living. The 1980 Social Security boost may scarcely be noticed.

But the following year's certainly will be. That is scheduled to be $22.38 per month, raising the maximum annual payment for wage-earners in 1981 to $1,575.05, compared with $1,557.57 of all of 1980 and $1,463.77 for the year just ended.

That is neither peanuts nor pennies, and is going to make a difference in millions of budgets.

The increases are mandated by legislation enacted in 1977 and intended to meet the system's then pinch — output in benefits increasing at a faster rate than income from employers and employer payroll taxes.

There was an outcry at the time, but since the sharpest bites were still a few years off, opposition simmered down. It is certain to flare up again, and almost certainly with greater intensity.

It would be one thing if the increases, painful as they promise to be, had resolved the financing problem. They have not. Expenditures again threaten to outpace revenues.

The reasons are several. Basic is the declining birthrate, as a consequence of which the retired population is growing at a faster rate than the work force. There are ever fewer wage-earners to make the payroll contributions that support each retiree, an imbalance compounded by lengthening life expectancy. At present, each benefit-receiver is supported by an average 3.3 wage-earners. By the year 2030, a ratio of one to two is projected.

Inducing benefits to compensate for inflation has also caused payroll payments to balloon, as have virtually out-of-control costs of the system's medical and medical programs.

There's not much that can be done about the birth rate and aging population, but something can be done about the other problem areas. There is the possibility of cutting the medical programs out of the system entirely, to be financed out of general tax revenues.

Inflation Spurs Unionism

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — An upsurge in union membership is distinct turnaround from the trend of the last few years — it being forecast by some labor experts.

Richard U. Miller, a business professor specializing in labor relations at the main campus of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, said the unions conceivably could double their membership in the 1980s as a result of such a trend.

He thinks continuing inflation will provide the biggest impetus to reurgent unionism because it will make times harder for workers, increase their feeling of insecurity and make them determined to wring more money and greater security from employers.

Audrey Freedman, labor relations specialist for the Conference Board, an independent business research group, also predicts a resurgence of union membership. She thinks the biggest gain will be in commerce and finance.

She would not be surprised to see a large new financial workers union established that would organize workers in financially-oriented businesses that are not now unionized and perhaps take over some workers from existing unions with their consent.

The Conference Board recently sponsored a seminar of seven industrial labor experts who came to the conclusion that 1980 is going to be a tough year for workers in the United States because of continuing inflation of 10 to 12 percent, a rise in unemployment and "zero economic growth in the economy."

The seven panelists did not predict any dramatic growth of unionization in 1980, but Frank P. Doyle, vice president for labor relations for General Electric, forecast "increased disparity and willingness to accept strife by the unions" if the decline in real wages continues. "People just won't stand for this," Doyle said.

Miller said it appears to him that conditions in the first years of the '80s will resemble those of the 1930s depression, which resulted in the greatest surge of unionization in the nation's history.

He said other factors favored a change from the downturn in union membership of the late '70s. "Most of that decline was attributed to a shift from blue to white collar workers, geographical labor shifts and a decline of some of the more traditional unionized trades," he said. But he said most of these trends may have run their course.

Miller said he also feels the changes in union leadership, with the retirement of old labor bosses such as George Meany, could lead to a genuine revitalization.

Both Miller and the Conference Board's Miss Freedman said they regarded the tidal wave of women entering the labor market as favorable rather than unfavorable to union growth. Both disagreed with one recent economic report that claimed women by and large are not much interested in unionization because they still look on themselves as temporary workers.

Chicago Schools May Close If Bankruptcy Hits System

CHICAGO (UPI) — Post-vacation classroom blues may be short-lived for a half million public school pupils returning from Christmas break because the nearly bankrupt school system will likely close by the weekend.

An indefinite closure appeared imminent today despite a flurry of meetings and court hearings aimed at keeping the nation's third largest school system open.

Members of the Chicago Teachers Union voted 19,154 to 2,336 late Wednesday to ask the Board of Education to close the schools if teachers are not paid by Friday. Teachers were hit with their first payless payday Dec. 21 — four days before Christmas.

Cleveland Teachers To Vote

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Teachers Union leaders urged their 4,000 striking members to vote today to accept the school board's latest contract offer and end an 11-week strike that has shut down Ohio's largest school system.

The tentative contract would give teachers a 24 percent pay increase during the next 10 months. Teachers were set to vote on the proposal today at each of the district's 148 schools.

If they accept the offer, teachers and administrative staff would report for work Friday and classes would resume Monday.

Cornell Gets Longwood Hotel

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Once considered as a Longwood city hall site, the Longwood Village Hotel, built in 1883, has been donated to Cornell University (Ithaca, N.Y.) by the owner, Marian E. St. Laurent of Tenafly, N.J.

According to Philip Tatch, a Longwood attorney who handled the transaction, Mrs. St. Laurent gave the property to Cornell in honor of her late husband, Georges, as a fitting tribute to the university which had meant so much to him.

The St. Laurents were alumni of the university's school for Hotel Management. St. Laurent had maintained an active relationship with the school until he died three years ago, Tatch said.

Husband Enraged At Deaths

LEESBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The estranged husband of a young woman charged with drowning their three daughters on New Year's Day says he is afraid of what he might do if he saw her.

"The woman that killed my children like that doesn't deserve to live," said Jerry Evers, who learned his daughters' deaths when sheriff's deputies tracked him down at friends' home Wednesday morning.

Evers, 26, his wife, Dianne, 23, have been separated about two months. He said he tried repeatedly to convince doctors at a mental health facility she visited as an outpatient to commit her.

He said she threatened to kill their daughters, Mandy, 2, and Carrie and Sherry, 4 — their only twins, before he moved out. The Evers have been married six years.

"She said the children would be better off in heaven than the misery they lived in," said Evers bitterly. He said his wife complained that he was a poor provider. Until last week, he worked as a truckdriver for a dairy, but his boss agreed Evers needed time off to solve his personal problems.

He said members of the State County Sheriff's Department at Tavares, the central Florida town where Mrs. Evers was jailed without conviction on three counts of first-degree murder, advised against paying her a visit.

"(They said) it would be best for me not to see her. It's a good thing, too, because I probably would do something..." Evers said, his voice breaking. "The woman that killed my children like that doesn't deserve to live."

Poster Child Shot In Face

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Jeanette Alvarado, symbol of hope to hundreds of thousands of handicapped people as the 1980 National Easter Seal Poster Child, is hospitalized today recovering from a gunshot wound to the face and waiting for a call from television's Suzanne Somers.

Police said the 8-year-old, a paraplegic with a congenital spinal cord disorder, suffered a flesh wound to the side of the face while watching a New Year's fireworks display from the trunk of an automobile.

The girl is in satisfactory condition at Bexar County Hospital, her bed surrounded by flowers, including some sent by Ms. Somers, star of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and Easter Seal national chairman.

A hospital spokesman said Ms. Somers planned to call the girl today.

"Also hit by the gunfire was the child's aunt, Alice Alvarado, 31, at whose home the shooting occurred. Ms. Alvarado was hospitalized with neck injuries and released Wednesday.

Police Lt. Robert Katz termed the shooting "a cruel and senseless act" and said questioning of area residents had provided no clues.

"We are baffled as to the true motive," Katz said.

Jeanette, described by her mother as "very bright" and "the poster child" last November.

Escapee Claims Taiwan Violates Human Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was 6 a.m. when the pounding began.

"Open up, open up," the men shouted as they banged on the door of the small apartment building in the southern Taiwanese city of Kaohsiung.

American Linda Arrigo Shih shook her head and nudged her Taiwanese husband Ming-teh awake. They dressed hurriedly, sped by the sound of men smashing through the door below and climbing the stairs toward their apartment.

The Shih's slipped out the back door of the building — Ming-teh jumping off a second-floor porch to escape into the darkness and Linda pounding on a neighbor's door for help.

"Seven heavies in leather jackets then came out the back door," Mrs. Shih said. "I asked them who they were, but they just grabbed me and told me to shut up. Of course, I knew they were the secret police."

That's the way the 31-year-old San Diego woman described how her 38-year-old husband escaped from Taiwan on Dec. 13 and went underground to fight against the Nationalist Chinese rulers of the island.

Mrs. Shih, who was arrested the next day and deported, arrived in Washington Tuesday on an American tour aimed at gaining support for the Nationalist opposition.

She accused the Nationalist Chinese, who followed the late Chiang Kai-shek from the Chinese mainland to Taiwan in 1949, of violating the human rights of the native Taiwanese who make up a majority of the island's 16 million people.

"I intend to do everything in my power to cause the collapse of the (Nationalist) regime on Taiwan," she said on arrival at National Airport. "It is a completely immoral and evil regime."

The Nationalist Chinese have accused the opposition of being pro-communist subversives, but the London-based human rights group Amnesty International has repeatedly complained of rights abuses on the island.

"Violations of human rights have been the prevailing practice in Taiwan," Amnesty International said in an 11-page report in 1976.

Mrs. Shih said most members of the opposition movement want Taiwan to be independent of both the Nationalist Chinese who rule the island and the People's Republic communists who run the mainland.

The Shih's, who were married last year while she was doing research in Taiwan for a doctorate in sociology from Stanford University, helped organize a Dec. 10 human rights rally in Kaohsiung.

She said the protest touched off street fighting when police backed by anti-riot trucks fired tear gas into the crowd. She said the nationalists used the disturbances as a pretext to round up about 500 opposition leaders.

Mrs. Shih expressed confidence that her husband, who she said has spent 15 years in prison on charges of trying to overthrow the nationalists, can manage to stay free.

"He has a lot of friends," she said. "He has friends all over the island. For them, he's a symbol of the fight for freedom in Taiwan."

Sherry Lansing Tops Fox Studio

By KENNETH R. CLARK
United Press International

WOMAN LANDS TOP STUDIO JOB: Sherry Lansing, the production executive responsible for "The China Syndrome" and "Kramer vs. Kramer," has taken over as president of Twentieth Century-Fox Productions. Vice Chairman Alan Hirschfeld, who announced her appointment today, said she would be responsible for the development and production of the studio's feature film division worldwide. Miss Lansing, he said, is "the ideal executive" because "she combines with her creative and artistic capabilities a finely honed sense of the marketplace for movies and a strong business acumen."

NO MORE LIES: It's all over for the Burlington, Wis., "Lara's Club" — and that's the truth. Oda C. Finest — the club's only resident since it was founded in 1922 — is 82 now and he's tired of tall tales. Says he, "During the club's existence, I have answered the mail, done the paper work, kept the records and gone into my own pocket to pay the bills when the club was empty. I think I am entitled to a rest." The club did get around to picking 1979's champion liar. He's C.O. Laurie of Kirkland, Mo., who captured the crown with this one: "It certainly has been cold here this winter. About a week ago, I saw a politician standing on a corner with his hands in his own pockets."

ATTENTION GETTERS: Ever desperately need to get a telephone call through to a top executive only to find his secretary running impenetrable interference? Aerial Douglas offers some guaranteed lines of entry in the February issue of Playboy magazine. For instance, when the watching in the front office asks the nature of your business with her boss, tell her, "We're on our way to his home. Does he want us to dump the 50 yards of cement in his front or back yard?" Or — "His wife is here and she's XYZ and I need his OK on her check for $45,000." And if all else fails — "My daughter says he's the father of her baby." Mr. Big may not be happy to take your call — but take it no doubt will.

BRING ON THE CLOWNS: Irvin and Kenneth Feld have been taking their show on the road for years — but they've never taken it to Australia or Japan. That's an oversight the producers of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus are about to correct. On Saturday, they'll open the Monte Carlo Circus Spectacular version of "The Greatest Show on Earth" for a 17-week run throughout Australia, and when that's done, they'll haul the big top to Tokyo for 18 weeks more. Never in the circus' 110-year history has it ever played Down Under or in the Far East.

QUOTE OF THE DAY: Frank Nathan, spokesman for Broadway's new production of "Oklahoma!", is announcing the cast's plan to sing "Sound of Music" at Monday's performance in honor of Richard Rodgers, who died Sunday in New York. "We're singing it particularly with the line, 'With songs they have sung for 1,000 years,' in mind — 'his songs will be sung for another 1,000 years.'"

GILMESTER: Jack C. Lemstra, a Washington, D.C., lawyer and reporter, will be given the 1979 John Peter Zenger Freedom of the Press Award on Jan. 11. Dr. Derek will be in New York later this month with husband John Derek to celebrate her new novel at Maxwell's Plum. "With songs they have sung for 1,000 years," in mind — "his songs will be sung for another 1,000 years."

'Skag' Mayhem Conquers New Series

By JOAN BANAUER
UPI Television Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The opening episode of NBC's new series, "Skag," is three hours long — which is too much of a potentially good thing.

The show starts at 8:31 p.m. Eastern time, starring Carl Madsen as Pete Skaggs, a Pittsburgh steel mill foreman married to Piper Laurie. He has four children, two of each kind.

The script comes from the pen of Oscar and Emmy-winning Abby Mann and it certainly is a cut above television's usual look into family life which either looks like an animated Norman Rockwell poster or degenerates into soap opera squander.

The trouble is not even Mann can handle an assignment in which he is both trying to tell a story and at the same time setting up the introduction for a continuing series.

Structural mishaps result.

As "Skag" opens, the audience meets the Skaggs family. There's Pete, proud of his Barbian ethnic heritage, a strong family chief who with the best will in the world tends to alternately ignore and dominate his children.

His wife is loving and goes along.

The eldest of the Skaggs children is David, product of Skaggs's first and disastrous first marriage, who works in the steel mill and also works hard for his father's love. It remains elusive.

Crimson Tide Tops Both Polls

NEW YORK (UPI) — This year no controversy was possible, no phone calls necessary.

Alabama played so well in defeating Arkansas, 24-3, in the Sugar Bowl the United Press International Board of Coaches wasted no time in voting the Crimson Tide the No. 1 college football team in the nation.

"Thanks for delivering such good news," Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant said Wednesday when informed of the results of the vote. "It's a great feeling."

Last year, Alabama fans flooded the UPI headquarters in New York with calls protesting the coaches' decision to give the national championship to Southern California.

"I tried not to let it bother me," said Bryant, who needs 19 more victories to surpass Amos Alonzo Stagg as the winningest college coach ever. "I knew there was nothing I could do about it anyway."

"We're extremely proud of these guys. I said in the middle of the season this could be the best team I ever coached before the year was out. But we had so many injuries the guys had to work awfully hard to win this thing."

USC was UPI's top-rated team until it blew a big lead and was tied by Stanford in mid-season. Trojan Coach John Robinson was on a recruiting trip and unavailable for comment on the final vote.

The remainder of the Top 10 consists of No. 3 Oklahoma, moving up two notches off the impressive Orange Bowl victory; No. 4 Ohio State, slipping from No. 3 with the Rose Bowl loss; No. 5 Houston, jumping from No. 8 with a 17-0 victory over Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl; No. 6 Pittsburgh up from No. 10 with a 16-10 win over Arizona in the Fiesta Bowl; No. 7 Nebraska, which moved up a spot despite a loss to the Cotton Bowl; No. 8 Florida State, down from No. 4; No. 9 Arkansas, down from No. 7 with the Sugar Bowl defeat; and No. 10 Purdue, with a 27-22 victory over Tennessee in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Four members of the 42-member coaches board — Darryl Rogers of Michigan State, Warren Powers of the Missouri, Frank Kush of Arizona State and Ken Hatfield of Air Force — did not vote.

Lake Brantley High School head football coach and Athletic Director Jim Raley announced late Wednesday afternoon that he will be leaving the Altamonte Springs school effective immediately to accept a college coaching position in North Carolina.

Raley, who compiled one of the best win-loss records as a Seminole County coach over the past four seasons has accepted the offensive line coaching job at Gardner Webb College in Bowling Springs, North Carolina.

"I've been thinking about a college coaching job for a long time," Raley explained about his decision. "I'm 35 years old and might not get a chance for a college level job in the future — the opportunity just came up and

Quebec Meets Brevard In Raider Classic Title Game

There's something to be said for apiece and persistence. Both the Indian River Pioneers and Quebec Provincial displayed a great deal of it Wednesday night in the opening round of the Raider Classic at Seminole Community College. While the Pioneers came up a little short, Quebec waited until the final three minutes against S.C.C. to take its first lead and hung on for a nail biting 65-63 win.

In the 7:00 p.m. opener, defending MVP state champion Brevard vaulted out to a 31-8 margin at 8:25 in the first half. The Titans surged was sparked by Tyrone Brown's 10 first half points and eight from teammate Isaiah Singletary.

The Titans maintained their lead throughout the first half and took a 51-34 bulge into the intermission.

Indian River, behind the tactical shooting of Deland, High product Amp Bush and backcourt mate George Ramsey pulled the Pioneers within 64-58 at 10:20 left but could get no closer and Brevard went on to post the 74-66 final that puts the Titans in the 6:00 p.m. title game tonight against Quebec Provincial.

The Canadian visitors, playing a rugged, international brand of basketball, trailed the S.C.C. Raiders by 11 points for most of the ball game but refused to let S.C.C. blow the game open. Behind a well balanced scoring attack level was much like the one made in deciding to move from 3A Ocala Forest to 4A Lake Brantley.

"When I look over the Big Blue our goal was to be state champs. We didn't quite make it there but we put Lake Brantley on the right path to a solid football program."

"What I felt we did accomplish," he added, "was instilling dedication, loyalty and pride to Patriot football."

Lake Brantley principal Darwin Boothe said that no immediate successor to the head coaching job or athletic director position has been made.

"We'll sit down and discuss the job with some of our own people before we talk to anyone from outside the school," Boothe said Wednesday.

"We have some people that have put a lot of time into the program and contributed a

Busch Clash Purse Set At $180,000 For 1980

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Where can a dozen men earn $180,000 between them for working slightly longer than 15 minutes?

Short of getting their own money (and assuming the related risks), or perhaps getting extremely lucky at Las Vegas, there is probably only one other place.

That would be the Busch Clash of '80 on February 20th at Daytona International Speedway.

The purse for the 1980 Busch Clash will be $180,000, with the winner getting $50,000 and each of the twelve drivers assured of at least $10,000.

Buddy Baker won the 1979 Busch by averaging 194.384 to edge Darrell Waltrip. The NASCAR Official Record Book for 1980 lists that race as the fastest stock car race ever run. It took less than 16

Tribe Stretches Streak To 13

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Correspondent

"We're happy aren't we?" Sanford Coach Bill Payne beamed his undefeated Fighting Seminoles in a morgue-like locker room after they once again escaped the unfriendly confines of the Lyman High School Gymnasium.

After a less than enthusiastic response, Payne was nonetheless still satisfied with the 60-49 victory over the host Greyhounds.

"We won," said Payne while propping himself up on two chairs. "As long as we keep playing sorry and winning I'll be happy."

Despite the final 11 point differential, Sanford led only 42-38 entering the final quarter. It was a first half that saw an aggressive Greyhound defense hold the Tribe's leading scorer without a point.

"I've had some personal problems," soft-spoken Bruce McCray said about his lackluster first half. "I just couldn't get my mind on the game."

Two players who could keep their minds on the game, quick guard Keith Whitney and the enforcer, Reggie Butler, however, kept the Tribe enroute to its 13th win without a loss.

After sharpshooter Neal Gillis put Lyman up 10-9 late in the first quarter, the 6-6 Butler straggled inside for an offensive rebound and was fouled.

The tall senior converted both charity tosses and then for 37 seconds left in the quarter connected on a rebound shot for a 13-8 edge.

"They're a second shot team," Greyhound Coach Tom Lawrence said of the Seminoles. "They shoot it and go and get it."

In the second quarter it was the left-handed Whitney. The super quick senior started with two free throws and then followed with a dazzling reverse layup for a 17-10 bulge.

After Gillis connected from the baseline and "Doc" Nelson threw in one of his 26 foot bombs, the Hounds were within 17-14. Whitney, though, scorched one from 22 feet and when sixth man Shun Thomas and guard Glenn Stambaugh who also had a miserable shooting night converted five free throws, Sanford had its biggest lead 23-14.

Despite the deficit, Lyman refused to fold. Senior Glenn Bailey connected on a jumpshot inside the lane and added a free throw. Nelson then threw in another one from 25 feet to pull Lyman within 28-24 at intermission.

Free throws played a big part in the first half as 22 fouls were whistled, 11 on each team. One of the victims was slick 6-4 Seminole David Thomas, who played very little due to three infractions.

"I guess I was playing too aggressive," admitted Thomas. "The referees weren't letting us do too much."

Sanford built its halftime edge by hitting on 14 of 18 from the line, while the Hounds converted 8 of 11. Lyman, though, missed the front end of three and one's.

After struggling through the third quarter, Sanford finally got some breathing room in the fourth thanks to David Thomas and a four corners offense.

"We had to do something. Nothing else had worked," Payne said about his ineffective offense. "We thought it might open up the middle a little."

With David Thomas scoring five points and McCray two, the Tribe bottled to a 47-36 advantage. The Greyhounds could muster only three points in five minutes as Sanford spurted ahead 54-39 to put the game out of reach.

"We're not near as good as people think we are," anguished Payne about his ninth-ranked Seminoles. "We might be the worst 13-0 team in the state."

The Tribe, nevertheless, has been good enough to shake off Lyman twice. Sanford stands 4-0 in the Five Star Conference.

"I'm pleased. We played as good against them as we could," said Lawrence, whose team dropped to 6-4. "We've lost six games and three have been to two (Sanford and Maitland) of the top teams in the state."

The Fighting Seminoles converted 24 of 32 free throws for the evening against 13 of 23 for Lyman Shun Thomas hit 6 of 6 and Bailey hit 8 of 9.

The evening also proved productive for Sanford's continually improving girls' team and the Tribe's junior varsity squad of Alex Holcomb.

"The spectators and the press were the key tonight," an overjoyed Cheryl Klein said about another come-from-behind victory for her girls.

Fighting Seminole guard Keith Whitney breaks away from Lyman for a third quarter layup. The swift-footed senior teamed up with Reggie Butler to lead the Seminoles.

Klein's squad dropped behind in the third quarter, but once again rallied in the fourth for a 48-44 victory over the Lady Greyhounds.

"We just hustled more in the last quarter," was how the brightest sophomore of the night Tony Hardy assessed victory. Hardy tossed in 15 points to pace Sanford, while Johnnie Bennett had nine and Robin Higgins eight.

For Lyman, talented senior Maria Smith hit 10 points and forward Kim Page contributed 10.

Completing the Sanford dominance for the night was the junior varsity, who came away with an equally close 60-56 win. Willie James had a game high 22 points. Len Sutton added 18 and Lawrence Butler nabbed 12.

Guard Alexia Cleveland headed the Hounds with 14 markers. Kevin Zastrow threw in 12 and 6-2 center Gary Taylor chipped in with 11.

Joy Ream, R.A. Banville Repeat Vows

MRS. R.A. BANVILLE

Joy Lee Ream and Raymond A. Banville were married Dec. 8, 1979 at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Sanford, Rev. Ralph Luman performed the double ring ceremony.
The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Buchanan, 211 Bradshaw Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Armond Banville of Boston, Mass.
Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride chose for her vows an ivory gown fashioned with a V-neckline, long fitted sleeves and a shirred midriff. She carried a Bible of her daughter, Renee Phillips, which was arranged with pink rosebuds, baby's breath and cascades of pink ribbon.
The bride's mother was the matron of honor. She wore a wine satin dress with a wine velvet jacket. Her flowers were pink and wine mums and baby's breath.
The bride's father served as best man.
Michelle Ream, 2-year-old granddaughter of the bride, wore the flower girl. She wore a long wine colored velvet gown overlaid with a white pinafore.
Mrs. Rita Johnson was the organist and Mrs. Debbie Hawkins was soloist.
Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Villa Nova, Winter Park.
The couple departed for a wedding trip to Disney World, Cypress Gardens and Daytona Beach.
The newweds are making their home in Clifton Park, N.Y. The bride is employed as a receptionist in Albany and the bridegroom travels with Peabody Inc.

Debutantes Go International

Three young women of Sanford were among 50 debutante candidates selected by the Bridgette Club of Orlando. The women made debuts into society at the Debutante Cotillion Dec. 28 at the Sheraton Twin Towers, Orlando.
As the year drew to a close and in keeping with the International Year of the Child, the theme for the event was "Debs Go International."
According to a Bridgette Club spokesman, the qualifications for debutante candidates are the following: single, no pregnancies, no criminal record and 12th grade or freshman college students.
The Sanford debutantes are: Gerylalyn Elaine Jones, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Amos Jones; Toni Michelle Singleton, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Johnnie Singleton; and Audrey Juanita Stallworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lennuel Stallworth.

Jayceettes Donate Food Certificate

Cheryl Green, 1215 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, was the winner of a $50 gift certificate at Public, Sanford, sponsored by the Sanford-Seminole Jayceettes. Pete Denniston, Public manager, drew the winning ticket.

President Jackie Royal and Director Rosemary Bates were on hand to present the certificate to Mrs. Green.

Current projects are to raise enough money to help donate books for the local library and our local gymnastics team.

Other projects have included a Thanksgiving food box for a needy family, a food booth at the 4th of July celebration at Lake Monroe, a Bowl-a-thon for Cystic Fibrosis and contributions to other area organizations of time and labor.

Anyone wishing to become a member of the Jayceettes may contact Rosemary Bates, 322-1611, or Jackie Royal, 323-8559.

Myriam Chadwick Becomes Bride Of Otto Garrett

Myriam Yvette Chadwick and Otto F. Garrett were married in a 6 p.m. ceremony at Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Rev. Leroy Soper performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel B. Chadwick, 2405 Stevens Ave., Sanford, and the late Mr. James C. Chadwick. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Garrett, 3600 Jewetta Lane, Sanford.

Escorting the bride to the altar were her nephews, Corey Powell and Robert Powell.

The bride chose for her vows a waltz length champagne crepe de chine wrap-styled gown. Hand embroidered pastel flowers enhanced the neckline and front of the gown. She wore baby's breath in her hair and carried pastel flowers of white chrysanthemums, yellow daisies, pink roses and aqua tipped carnations showered with baby's breath and English ivy.

Bridal attendants were Martha Chadwick of Sanford, and Marilee McGibbon of Winter Springs. Each wore a teal blue waltz length crepe gown lined at the waist. Each carried a single white rose interspersed with fern, baby's breath and white satin ribbon.

Alan Holley served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Ray Hardy of Lake Mary, and Jerry Schwalm of Deltona.

Michele McGibbon, niece of the bride from Winter Springs, was the flower girl.

Following the reception at the Highlands Clubhouse, Winter Springs, the couple departed for a wedding trip to St. Augustine, North Carolina and Georgia.

They are making their home in Lake Mary. The bride teaches fifth grade at Davenport Elementary School. The bridegroom is a designer with International Laser Systems, Orlando.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Could you please tell me what to expect the rest of my life?

DEAR DR. LAMB - Could you please tell me what to expect the rest of my life? Will I ever recover to live a normal life? Five months ago I found out I have osteoporosis and five weeks later in birth discs collapse and was in the hospital 12 days for complete bedrest. I'm on nine calcium tablets a day plus vitamin D pills twice a week and I am feeling better but still need crutches to go out walking. The doctor wants me to walk a lot. I use a wraparound girdle to help support me. I'm 61 years old and female and have all my organs. I had my menopause at age 50. Do you think I should have estrogens at this late date?

DEAR READER - For the benefit of others, osteoporosis means porous bones.

DEAR READER - For the benefit of others, osteoporosis means porous bones. The bones lose their calcium and substance, which makes them brittle or break easily. It's one of the main causes for broken bones in older people such as a broken hip with a minor fall. It often affects the vertebrae and they may break or collapse as may have occurred in your case. It's responsible for the buffalo hump that you see in many women past the menopause. It affects small women particularly.

It is true that women who are on calcium deficient diets are five times as likely to develop this problem as women who have plenty of calcium in their diet.

It is true that women who are on calcium deficient diets are five times as likely to develop this problem as women who have plenty of calcium in their diet. That's the reason that I always try to get women to consume a quart of milk, preferably fortified skim milk, after the menopause. That amount of calcium will help protect them from the problem that you now have.

Joan Is Crucial Factor In Kennedy's Campaign

By TOM TIEDE Special to the Herald BOSTON (NEA) - The last time a candidate's spouse played a significant role in a presidential campaign was in 1972 when Ed Muskie was the Democratic front-runner here, and a New Hampshire newspaper printed unkind things about his wife.

Friends believe Joan Kennedy, gripped with personal woes, is strong enough to handle the rigors of her husband's presidential bid. Other observers have their fingers crossed.

Well-placed Boston Democrats say Mrs. Kennedy, a 43-year-old recovered alcoholic, is a loose cannon in her husband's battle plans. "If Joan campaigns, people will say she's being forced. If she doesn't campaign, they'll say she's being kept out of sight. God, think of the speculation if she's stumbling getting off a plane. I believe it's going to be a long ordeal."

For Mrs. Kennedy, the ordeal may actually have begun 21 years ago. That's when the one-time television model, and daughter of an advertising executive, married into the Kennedy family. She's never hid the fact that she's been uncomfortable with other members of the overachieving dynasty.

Nor has she kept secret her anxieties regarding the series of tragedies that have stalked her married life. Friends say she still has difficulty coping with the assassinations of her brothers-in-law, Jack and Robert. She's harbored unshakeable fears that somebody may one day shoot down her husband.

She says the travails were the early cause of her drinking problem. Her friends, however, suggest that her husband may be to blame. Kennedy has been a two-fisted drinker himself (he once got potted on a flight from Alaska, and staggered up and down the aisle shouting "Eskimo Power!").

But Joan's liquor was not a debilitating matter until after Chappaquiddick. One of Kennedy's Boston operatives says she was shattered by that

She Nearly Fainted Away Over Ex In Woman's Role

DEAR ABBY: At 16 I married a 21-year-old man I thought I loved. We had a son year later, but the marriage didn't work out, so we were divorced when the boy was 6. I was married to a wealthy man who adopted my son.

Meanwhile, my ex dropped it of sight for three years. I was out of the blue, he called saying he had something very important to tell me, and would I meet him somewhere - alone.

When I met him, I nearly died. I was shocked. He was a woman. He had a son living as a woman for 10 years and was scheduled to be a sex change operation in a month. He said his name "Anita" now, and he's in low business. Abby, I don't believe my eyes.

Kirchhoff Letter 'Guarantees' Local Hospital Control

By DIANE PETRYK
 Herald Staff Writer

Any firm selected to purchase or lease Seminole Memorial Hospital "must guarantee local control" of the hospital, said Seminole County Commission Chairman Bill Kirchhoff in a letter to the Seminole County Resources for Human Needs Committee. The letter is in response to the committee's expressed concern over local control.

Christopher L. Holden, president of the committee, told county commissioners in December his group was concerned that one of the frontrunners with respect to the disposition of Seminole Memorial Hospital, Hospital Corporation of America (HCA), would run the hospital from their headquarters in Nashville, Tenn.

The commission has narrowed the field for the possible sale or lease of the hospital to three firms: HCA, a for-profit group; Florida Hospital-Orlando, a Seventh Day Adventist not-for-profit group; and the current hospital board of trustees, which proposes to become a private not-for-profit organization.

Kirchhoff replied to Holden that under HCA's proposal the hospital would be run by an administrator appointed by HCA and a board of trustees appointed by the Board of County Commissioners. This hospital board of trustees, Kirchhoff said, would be solely composed of local residents and would nominate its own successors in subsequent years.

The HCA proposal clearly points out HCA's commitment to the full autonomy of individual local institutions, he wrote.

"There's no way on earth they (HCA) will agree to that," said Mardian Blair, regional vice president of Florida Hospital, the competing firm.

When told today that Kirchhoff's letter says

Florida Hospital is the firm that "does not clearly guarantee local control," Blair said if the county sells the hospital, they can't control what they don't own.

"If HCA says they're going to allow local people to determine policies, that's not what they're doing elsewhere. I can tell you that for a fact," Blair said.

Kirchhoff's letter said although local residents will be on the hospital's board of directors if it is sold to Florida Hospital, the majority of the board would also be members of the Florida Hospital board of directors and from the Adventist Health systems organization.

 An early morning balloon flight seems in danger of coming to an abrupt and dangerous conclusion by being tangled in power lines running along Bunnell Road in south Seminole County, but the balloonists, taking advantage of the calm morning air, safely cleared the menace and drifted quietly westward.

Iranian Militants: Give Us Laingen

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Muslim militants holding 50 Americans hostage called on Iran's Foreign Ministry today to hand over U.S. chief of mission Bruce Laingen, now held in protective custody at the Foreign Ministry building.

The students also said one of the hostages, Air Force Lt. Col. David Roeder, 40, of White Fish Bay, Wis., will be tried on a charge of bombing the Vietnamese people during the Vietnam War and invited Vietnam to attend the proceedings.

The hard-line declaration was issued hours after U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim left Tehran for Zurich after an unsuccessful, four-day diplomatic mission to try to secure the release of the hostages.

The communiqué virtually ordered the Foreign Ministry to give Laingen up to the militants but made no mention of two other Americans held in protective custody at the Foreign Ministry.

"It is essential that you advise Bruce Laingen, charge d'affaires of the American house of spies in Tehran, to present himself at the den of espionage to give explanations regarding spying documents found at the den of espionage," the communiqué said.

The 41-year-old diplomat decided in the very early hours of the day to head home and left aboard a U.N. private jet at 8.20 a.m. (11:50 p.m. EST Thursday) for Zurich, where he will transfer for a flight to New York, a U.N. spokesman said.

Waldheim halted his diplomatic mission less than 12 hours after the ruling revolutionary council passed the word that Khomeini, Iran's de facto chief of state, rejected Waldheim's request for a meeting.

Although the secretary-general described his four-day mission as "useful," the key to its success was a session with Khomeini, probably the only man in the country who can free the 50 American hostages who today began their third month in captivity at the U.S. Embassy.

U.N. spokesman Samir Sanbar, asked whether Waldheim might make another trip to Tehran, said, "If there is any need for him to come back, the door is open."

There seemed little doubt Waldheim would return immediately if Khomeini would see him. That seemed unlikely in the near future.

In an official announcement, the spokesman said that during the night, the secretary-general was informed of an urgent request for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council to consider the situation in Afghanistan for which his presence at headquarters is required.

"In the light of this development, he decided to return to New York this morning."

Waldheim was accompanied on the drive to Mehrabad Airport by Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, his host since the secretary-general's arrival.

Drowning Leaves Questions U.S. To Announce Anti-Soviet Moves

Drowning Leaves Questions
 An Altamonte Springs woman found dead in her bathtub Thursday definitely drowned, but Seminole County Medical Examiner G. V. Garay cannot say why.

Sophia Miller, 19, was found dead at her home, at 319 Hayman St. in Altamonte Springs, by a friend, George Oates of Oviedo, at 7:30 p.m. She died between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Thursday, Garay said.

Garay reportedly found Ms. Miller submerged in the tub, wearing a nightgown and pajamas.

"Reducing the size of the bathtub was very unusual," said Garay. "Samples have already been sent to the Sanford state crime lab for a variety of tests, but results will not be available for a week," Garay said. Until then he will be conducting an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death.

Ms. Miller's two young children are being cared for by their grandparents, said Sheriff John Polk, who declined to disclose any further information on the children or their guardians.

U.S. To Announce Anti-Soviet Moves
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials said today the administration will announce a series of measures cutting back on diplomatic and economic relations with the Soviet Union as retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

The officials said the list of options was discussed at a breakfast this morning attended by President Carter and his top foreign policy advisers. They said U.S. Ambassador to Moscow Thomas Watson, who was recalled as the first reaction to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, took part in the talks.

The officials said the exact measures being considered will be announced in midday, but they listed several likely measures among the options which were discussed:

—Reducing the size of the Soviet embassy in Washington, which would mean ordering some technical and diplomatic personnel out of the country.

—Cutting back on transportation agreements, including Aeroflot's landing rights in the United States, and the agreement which permits Soviet freighters to load and unload at ports such as Baltimore.

—The officials said the Agriculture Department is analyzing the effects on the Soviet Union of an embargo on U.S. grains. The officials said Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland met with White House officials today, but that a grain embargo was not expected to be part of the package.

However, longshoremen have discussed setting up their own embargo on loading of grain for the Soviet Union, which would have the effect of cutting off shipments.

The State Department's official diplomatic guide lists 143 Soviet diplomats accredited to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, including 17 military officers.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin has been in Moscow since early December and the embassy is now headed by the charge d'affaires, Vladimir M. Vasev.

Aeroflot, the Soviet state airline, has three weekly flights between the Soviet Union and the United States — two between Moscow and New York and one between Moscow and Washington.

President Carter asked the Senate to delay consideration of the SALT II treaty. Britain exchanged angry statements with Moscow. The U.N. Security Council was asked to consider the situation. And NATO leaders met to discuss military implications of the Soviet invasion.

China has begun arming and training an Afghan guerrilla force to combat Soviet invasion troops battling defiant Afghan government forces, diplomats said today.

Reports from Afghanistan said Soviet troops were battling the Afghan troops in a provincial capital and waging anti-guerrilla sweeps throughout the country.

The United News of India news agency reported Western diplomats returning from Kabul said today the Chinese are backing the Shie-Jie-Jie guerrillas who have stepped up their insurgency in tribal areas.

Lake Mary Can Block Nudity: Lawyer

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Stopping a nude dancing establishment from locating in Lake Mary will be a simple matter, City Attorney Gary Massey advised the city council Thursday night. All the council need do is say, "no."

Massey said the city's criminal code makes provision for dance halls in the city, but requires a special permit from the city council before they can operate.

The code, he said, does not state a standard for either approval or disapproval of the permit request.

At the same time, Massey said, a special exception would have to be approved by the city's board of adjustment before a bar could be operated in C-4 zoning.

Bars are not allowed at all in C-1 and C-2 zoning unless it is done in conjunction with a restaurant or grocery store and again only after being granted a special exception, Massey said.

In neighborhood-commercial zoning bars are forbidden.

The only zoning where bars are allowed without special city council permission is CX zoning and there is no CX-zoned property in the city, Massey said.

The attorney told the council a special exception is not a right but a privilege and the council would be on firm ground denying such requests without stating a reason why. Massey said he is researching to see what regulations other cities might have which could be adopted by Lake Mary to discourage location of the nude dancing establishments.

City Clerk Connie Major told the council two weeks ago that since such other Seminole County cities and Sheriff John Polk publicly stated concern about nude dancing, she had received several inquiries about whether it is permitted in Lake Mary.

Local concern was accelerated by the recent crackdown on bars with nude dancing in Orange County, particularly on Orange Blossom Trail. Polk has expressed fears the establishments will move into Seminole County where there are few laws regulating such businesses.

Massey said that at a city attorney's conference it appeared Tampa and St. Petersburg have the most experience with successfully banning nude dancing.

He said another way of handling the problem, which has been successful, is through occupational license requirements.

Massey said it isn't necessary for the city to call a moratorium while new ways are researched to ban nude dancing. The city's current laws are sufficient at this time, he said.

Protest Dismantles Construction Plans

Protests from nearby property owners led to a denial by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday night to a plan to build four smaller homes in the Oak Avenue area between 26th Place and 28th Street.

George Laurendine asked for a special conditional-use permit to allow construction of four single family homes in Franklin Terrace with 1,000 square feet each of living area.

The zoning requirement for that area is currently 1,400 square feet, but the law permits an exception to be considered after a public hearing is held.

All property owners within 300 feet of the proposed houses were notified of the request, to give them an opportunity to protest.

The commission also turned down the site plan for the proposed "Sanford Tabernacle of Prayer" which has been planned for construction at 800 W. 13th St.

The denial was based on failure of the plan to meet requirements of the site plan ordinance, according to Al Payne, zoning director. Among site plan requirements are adequate drainage, provisions for water and sewer service and proper placement of driveways.

The site plan submitted for a lumber storage building for Gregory Lumber Co., located at the northeast corner of the intersection of 6th Street and Holly Avenue was dropped from the agenda when a representative for the firm failed to appear.

The board agreed to review at a Jan. 10 workshop the city's subdivision regulations to determine if requirements are too restrictive. The board will also consider amending the zoning ordinance to permit fast food service for off-premise consumption in certain districts.

The workshop was requested by John Alexander. — DONNA ESTES

Lion Kills Author Of 'Born Free'

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Joy Adamson, who captured the hearts of millions with her book "Born Free" about how she raised a motherless lion cub, was attacked and killed by a lion, police said today.

Police in the northeastern town of Isiolo said Mrs. Adamson, 69, was attacked Thursday night while taking an evening stroll at her game park called Shaba, 30 miles from the Samburu game reserve.

An employee found her lying face down, with severe wounds to her hands, arms and head. She was dead by the time police arrived at the remote game park, which is 30 miles from the nearest telephone.
