New British Taxes

An idea of what Americans may expect in the form of increased taxation to provide the wherewithal for expanding armaments can be gained from the British announcement of new taxes to finance the war. Never before in England has there been such an overwhelming levy against the income of its people, and this action alone is convincing evidence that there is not the slightest possibility of any settlement with Germany other than that which will follow a life and death struggle to the end.

Hitler had hoped, so it is said, that the burden of taxation would undermine the British people, that they would rise against their government and demand an acceptance of peace with the Nazis. He could not have made any greater mistake in his estimation of the English will to carry its burden and to resist enslavement; for all reports reveal that the British public is taking its taxation medicine with perfect calm, and with only the criticism that the rates are not high enough.

But to us it is inconceivable that the rates can be maintained without seriously disrupting the economy of the country. A Briton making $100,000 a year must pay $90,000 of it to the government, besides all the consumer taxes. With the difference of what he makes and what he gives to the government, he being a man of means, he has a net of $10,000.

He could close his houses which means servants out of work; he could stop operating his cars, which would work a hardship on the gasoline stations and the tire shops; he could cancel his insurance, which would put the insurance companies in a bad way. More than likely he owns some lands on which he would have to pay property taxes, and these too he might not pay. He might try to sell his houses, his lands, his cars, but who in a country of almost confiscatory taxes could afford to buy them?

The Briton who has an income of $50,000 a year, henceforth, will pay almost half of it to the government, and the tax on a man earning $12,000 a year will be $4,952. The balance left to the people in these categories seems ample enough to struggle along on, but here again there are consumer taxes to pay, the same old problem of meeting fixed obligations contracted for before the war, paying interest and insurance, and servants. It is more than likely that those in the higher brackets will end up at the end of the month with hardly enough money to buy their food.

A married man with two children and an earned income of $1600 a year will have to pay $63.35 besides consumer taxes. It is very doubtful if the man earning $100,000 a year will have as much, actually, to live on as the man in the $1600 group. Curiously enough, the schedule of taxation, as revealed to Parliament, makes it better to have an income of $50,000 than an income of $100,000. The man earning the smaller amount would have a net of $25,548 while the man earning the large amount would have a net of $10,000.

This Land And Flag

What is the love of country for which our flag stands? Maybe it begins with the love of the land itself. It is the fog rolling in with the tide at Eastport, or through the Golden Gate and among the towers of San Francisco. It is the sun coming up behind the White Mountains, over the Green, throwing a shining glory on Lake Champlain and above the Adirondacks. It is the storied Mississippi rolling swift and muddy past St. Louis, rolling past Cairo, pouring down past the levees of New Orleans. It is the lazy meadow in the Pines of Carolina. It is a sea of wheat rippling in western Kansas, it is the San Francisco peaks far north across the glowing nakedness of Arizona, it is the Grand Canyon and a little stream coming down out of a New England ridge, in which are trout.

It is men at work. It is the storm-tossed fisherman coming into Gloucester and Provincetown and Astoria. It is the farmer gliding his great machine in the dust of harvest, the dairyman going to the barn before sunrise, the lineman mending the broken wire, the mixer drilling for the blast. It is the servants of fire in the murky splendor of Pittsburgh, between the Allegheny and the Monongahela, the trucks rumbling through the night, the locomotive engineer bringing the train in on time, the pilot in the clouds, the riveter ranging along the beam a hundred feet in air. It is the clerk in the office, the housewife doing the dishes and sending the children off to school. It is the teacher, doctor and parson tending and helping, body and soul, for small reward.

It is small things remembered, the little corners of the land, the houses, the people that each one loves. We love our country because there was a little tree on a hill, and grass thereon, and a sweet valley below; because the lurdy-gurdy man came along on a sunny morning in a city street; because a beach or a farm or a lane or a house that might not seem much to others was once, for each of us, made magic. It is voices that are remembered only no longer heard. It is parents, friends, the lazy chat of street and store and office, and the ease of mind that makes life tranquil. It is summer and winter, rain and sun and storm. These are flesh of our flesh, bone of our bone, blood of our blood, a lasting part of what we are, each of us and all of us together.

It is stories told. It is the Phlegian dying in their first dreadful winter. It is the Minute Man standing his ground at Concord Bridge, and dying there. It is the army in rags, sick, freezing, starving at Valley Forge. It is the wagons and the men on foot going westward over Cumberland Gap, floating down the great rivers, rolling over the great plains. It is the settler hacking fireweed at the primeval forest on his new, his own lands. It is Thoreau at Walden Pond, Lincoln at Cooper Union, and Lee riding home from Appomattox. It is corruption and disgrace, answered always by men who would not let the flag lie in the dust, who have stood up in every generation to fight for the old ideals and the old rights, at risk of ruin or of life itself.

It is a great multitude of people on pilgrimage, common and ordinary people, charged with the great human fallacy, yet filled with such a hope as never reached the Jewish nations and the hearts of any nation on earth before. The time of land in which a man can stand straight, without fear, without shame.

The land and the people and the time—the land is the heart of the nation, the people are the body, and the time is the spirit.

Watches Are Summer Complaint Victims

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—
Does your watch have summer complaint? Does it stop often or give a tortured whir, and then fall up?

Henry B. Fried of the Horological Society of New York, Inc., an organization of watchmakers, knows about that.

He blames the whole difficulty
on the main spring. It may bend because of sudden changes in temperature.

"Also," he says, "electrical storms seem to exert a phenomenal influence on the subgen-eral parts in high-grade carbon steels."

He suggests tips for healthier
watches:
Don't wear your watch at the beach.

If it should get wet, soak it in benzoin or light lubricating oil.

Don't try to regulate it yourself.

Jeter Gives Up Only Five Hits But Loses Dual To Mizal By 2-0 Score

Seminole Lose Golden Opportunity As Wayton Spears Marion's Liner With The Bases Loaded

Overcoming a 12 run lead, Winter Park went on to defeat Florida Power and Light Co. of Sanford, 18-17, in a wild and woolly diamondball game last night at Commercial Street Park.

After 12 innings of play, Winter Park had plastered Du Swanston for 18 base hits while the Powermen were getting 12 off Lanier Shadix's stumps.

The Powermen out home with five runs in the second on four hits and a walk and added six more in the third on five walks and a one hit by Stumper. Another run came in the fourth on two hits.

Trailing 12-0 going into the fifth, Winter Park launched a six run rally on four hits and two errors and got another tally in the seventh, but the Powermen pounded out three hits in the seventh that were good for as many runs to continue in the lead by a 16-7 margin.

Winter Park mopped Swanson for five base hits and coupled with a walk and two errors gained seven runs to come within two of tying the score.

The Parkers led up the game in their last time at bat, getting two runs on one hit and two errors.

Neither team could make headway in the ninth or tenth innings as both the fielders and pitchers settled down to some tight ball playing. Three hits in the 12th gave Winter Park a two run advantage and the best the home team could do was to get one of the run back.

The lineup: Winter Park: H. Cook, 1b; L. Swafford, c; L. T. Truitt, 2b; Lanier Shadix, p; E. Gauding, 3b; L. Swafford and S. Swafford, rf; Oliver Parrish, lf; Hutchins and Elliot, cf; Helger, cf and Charley Shadix, lf.

Florida Power of Sanford: Touhst, 2b; Stumper, cf; Moses, 3b; Miles, 1b; Weaver, cf; Ferguson, lf; Nelson, cf; Evans, lf; Gerdy and Herbert, rf and Swanson, p.

Winter Park Beats Florida Power In 12 Innings, 18-17

NOTES FROM THE PRESS BOX

—by—
BILL BINGHAM

Elmer Beck, Detroit Tiger scout, was in the stands Monday night as Sanford akorbed a trouncing from Orlando. Beck, who covers all the baseball territory along the eastern seaboard from Florida to Delaware is making his second swing through this area. In the course of a conversation with the following miscellaneous information:

Beck believes that Sid Hudson, last year's rookie sensation who jumped from Sanford directly to Washington, will stick in the major leagues. Beck explained that he thought some of Sid's early season "hibes" came about because he was throwing toward batters in the Florida State league had been biling at, but that experienced major league hitters refused to go after. When Sid panned the ball down the groove they batted him all over the park. Hudson has allowed more home runs than any pitcher in either major league.

According to Beck, Washington can't hope to get anywhere with the pitchers they now have. He said the team had no pitcher who could go in and "stop" a rally as they need to have in Fred Marberry and Jack Russell and as the Yankees have in Fireman Murphy. Off pitchers like Krausman Hayes, Connors, and others, the opposing team runs no matter who is pitching or who comes in as relief.

If Beck Nowson, who has won 13 games for the club, and is now out of action with a broken thumb, can get back into the line-up for the stretch drive, Beck believes the Detroit team has a good chance as the next aggregation to cap the American league hunting. The Tigers still fear the Yankees more than the Indians, which may come as a surprise to some fans. The Boston Red Sox are always dangerous but their hurling staff is weak and, like Washington, they have no "stop" pitcher.

Beck believes that the Florida State league is slower than it was last year and says the same is true of a majority of the leagues he has covered in his initial trip around the circuit. He says the daily league is about the same, as is the Georgia-Florida loop. He regards Chuck Klein, the Daytona Beach shortstop as a likely looking fellow, but is not worrying much about him because he belongs to the Cardinal chain gang.

Reds Beat Brooklyn In Double-Header As Players Tangle

Toones Wins 20th As DeLand Defeats Orlando, 4 To 2

BROOKLYN, July 24.—(AP)—The brash Brooklyn Dodgers got into another brawl and out of the National league pennant picture in one long, turbulent scene yesterday, dropping a double-header to the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3 in 11 innings, and 9 to 2 in nine.

Cincinnati's conquest in front of a noisy, capacity crowd of 40,000 at Ebbets field increased the margin separating the two clubs to seven full games.

The first fracas was as wild and furious as any adventure story climaxed by a fight between Lonnie Frey of the Reds and Pete Coscarart of the Dodgers on the eighth inning.

The Reds were trailing 3 to 2 at the time, and had Bill Werber on third and Frey on first.

Very little selling is done by major league clubs with Class D players. The reason, of course, is that one player that might develop into major league material will more than make up for the sale of a dozen players at the average Class D price range.

Like the best that is said to have laid on a bunch of golf balls and produced three eagles, Wilev and Goff, Mistovich, Ivey, Moore and Crupp.

Bruce White's sharp single to right field to score two runners in the tenth inning broke up a brilliant mound duel here between Ralph Whitlow and Larry Baldwin as the Lee-hurg Anglers tripped the Ocala Yearlings, 4 to 2.

The result of a single, a sacrifice and an error. Then Frank McCormick grounded to PeeWee Coscarart as Frey came sliding into second high and hard to forestall a double play.

As soon as Coscarart got his throw away he and Frey dived at each other and the players of both teams rushed into the melee. Pitcher Whitlow Wyatt of the Dodgers, who still is bothered by a knee injury he received in a collision with Frey last summer, got in several good jolts with his glove as Frey lay prostrate on the ground.

Pitcher Gene Thompson of the Reds was spiked on his right ankle and two stitches were necessary to close the gash. Coscarart also was spiked on the left knee in the scuffle, but not seriously.

When order was restored, Coscarart and Frey were out of the game by direction. Thompson was out with his injury and the score was tied, Werber having tallied on the critical play.

It took until the eleventh to get another run across, but the Reds finally made it on a scorching double down the left field foul line by Ernie Lombardi, a sacrifice, and a single into left center by Mike McCormick. Lee Gamble did the running for Lombardi.
