CANCER CURE LURES HORDES SEEKING HELP

Victims Of Dread Disease Flock To San Francisco Hopeful Of New Treatment

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15—(AP)— Victims of cancer, the malignant disease which kills 115,000 Americans every year and for which there is no known cure, flocked to San Francisco hopeful and in increasing numbers today to receive the new treatment originated by Dr. Walter B. Cope and John D. Harmer.

The facilities of the Sutter-Park Hospital, to which Dr. Cope and Dr. Harmer have turned, were put at the disposal of the suffering and unfortunate who have been referred to as the world's largest cancer center.

Mr. Harmer, a physician of the department of health of Rollins College here and director in series of lectures to following students during the winter term.

Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins, in making the announcement, insisted that while Miss Harris will be conducting a course in 1931 her lectures will be a matter of record.

Miss Harris believes that the cure of the disease is in nature. Her patients, she asserts, by people now by alternate and mutually correlated whereof, she believes should be an important part of the education of youth, taught in classes specially adapted and designed with reference to preparing malignant people for dealing effectively rather than sympathetically with victims of the disease.

The Georgia noted a 77 per cent increase in the application of youth.

"The sophisticated youngster," he says, "knows that he is dignified by his knowledge of the malignant disease. A graduate who is really interested takes an entirely different attitude. He tends to the patient and his affliction is innocent and to be genuinely found out in the field he wants to happen."

Miss Harris began her career as a writer in 1898 when Herbert H. H. Harmer was editor of the "Independent." He accepted one of her first articles for publication. It was her good fortune to be the subscriber to Mrs. Harmer.

California Woman To Seek Governorship

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15—(AP)— Mrs. Clara Sherditch, attorney, using her buying plan, sees the Boarding room for government, she is the first woman ever to enter the state legislature. Mrs. Holt, attorney for California, announced yesterday that she would be a candidate for secretary of state in the gubernatorial election.

Coming in the mail at about the same time was the qualification of Samuel W. Geitzer, of Hudson, as a candidate for state senator for the thirty-eight electoral district to succeed J. M. Mitchell of El Dorado. The district comprises San Joaquin and Tuolumne counties.

Samuel Geitzer was speaker of the House at the last session of the legislature.

A steady influx of qualifications was expected at the office of the secretary of state now that the Democratic executive committee has fixed the qualification for the committee. A payment of 1 per cent of the first year salary of the office sought is required by the state.

Effort Made To Save Woman From Hanging

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 15—(AP)— Further attempts to save from the gallows Mrs. Eva Dugan, 16-year-old homesteader, are under way today. Mrs. Dugan is convicted of the murder of A. J. Mathis, Tucson judge, and is under sentence to hang Friday.

Ruth Hale, vice president of the American League to abolish capital punishment, announced at Tucson that her organization would take up the woman's case. Miss Hale, in private life, is the wife of Heywood Brown, writer. At Phoenix, where Mrs. Dugan is confined in the penitentiary awaiting execution, the claim that she was insane was advanced by Dr. W. Brown, former prison physician.

HONES CHANGE OF VENUE

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 15—(AP)— Judge G. D. Moore today confirmed in an order that the former "evil speck" case will be closed with Justice L. M. Leslie Highsmith, state reporter. He said he had decided to change venue here. A recent trial ended when the jury disagreed. Transfer of the case to another county was requested by the prosecution.

Reed Will Address U.S. Radio Audience

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(AP)— Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, speaking this morning at the Spanish Auditorium, was recalled from his vacation to say that persons who gather for economic or other purposes in groups should not be afraid to do so in public places.

SHARKEY MAY BE RATED HIGHER IN COMING CONFLICT

Writer Says One Has To Know Ex-Gob In Order To Get Truth

By Norman St. Denis

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13.—It may be Manly's privilege to witness one of the greatest fighting machines the modern ring has produced when Jack Sharkey steps through the ropes against Shuffeling Phil English at the Madison Square Garden Stadium here on Feb. 27.

One has only to know the man intimately to realize the truth of that bold statement, for only during the past year has Jack Sharkey actually reached the peak of his possible career. Sharkey will tell you as much himself if those who have been close to him will readily agree to the fact.

Remember the Jack Dempsey of Toledo? That colorful figure who every punch and a wealth of demands and fury beat the pugilists less willing to a veritable pulp? Those who witnessed that spectacle and the many who absorbed the details of the massacre have since decided that the ring will see many long years before another perfect fighting machine materialized for public view.

As a youthful spectator on that field day in Toledo, I always thought that never again would I be privileged to witness an other such ring warrior in action. I have changed my mind about that matter. Jack Sharkey, I believe, who will most surely be one of the safest and infallible colored boxers.

Jack Sharkey's next two or three fights in the ring, in my opinion, will not only establish him as the undisputed heavy weight champion but will place him in possible history as one of the greatest of big men.

"Jack the Gob," Sharkey demonstrated only an inkling of his present fighting power and condition when he rammed his right to Tommy Longhorn's head and left the Philadelphia helpless figure groping along the ropes as if blindfold. His meeting here with Paul Scott may produce the rest of the story of Jack's wonderful ability at the present time.

Jack Sharkey knew before fight with Longhorn that his fate in the ring was sealed. As representative of Madison Square Garden and Gus Wilson's "Pound for Pound" it was my privilege to become closely acquainted with Sharkey during his month's training period.

On the Sunday before the fight I was sitting on Gus Wilson's large veranda when Sharkey, in a desire to take himself away from the crowd which milled around the fence in hopes of cornering the Boston man for a chat, helped himself to a chair in the isolation spot.

Evangelist States God Is Manifest In Minutest Affairs

"God is manifest in the minutest affairs of men and women who trust Him and counts to the last penny in applying them well," said A. Bickey, evangelist and apostle of the power of prayer, told here yesterday. At Full Gospel Tabernacle, East Highway and Georgia Avenue, he said: "It was my privilege to become closely acquainted with Sharkey during his month's training period."

On the Sunday before the fight I was sitting on Gus Wilson's large veranda when Sharkey, in a desire to take himself away from the crowd which milled around the fence in hopes of cornering the Boston man for a chat, helped himself to a chair in the isolation spot.

He spoke to me in a quiet, confidential manner, as though he were a man who was able to pay the bill who wrote a check for 20 pounds. With the check this woman entered nine pence, saying the ten might be needed, and that it was all she had. "God met her need to the penny," said Mr. Bickey. The evangelist gave a number of similar instances, saying, "The Bible is either true or it is false. If it is true, we ought to believe God and stand on His promises. If it is not true, we ought to think of praising God, it is true, God is true."

Participating in the prayer and testimony meeting last night preceding the preaching, were many who said they had found spiritual blessing in bodily healing, or both, in the meeting. Mr. Bickey prayed for the sick in an impressive altar service. Mrs. Bickey spoke briefly, telling of her healing through the power of faith, from tuberculosis, after physicians had said there was no earthly hope. Services are held daily. Saturday excepted at 2:30 and 7:40 P. M. The campaign will close Sunday night.

2 Chicago Robbers Killed—Last Night By Vigilant Police

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Two robbers were killed last night, attempting to rob the growing interests of the present drive to clean out the criminal.

Police killed the man as he was in the act of holding up a cab driver. A translesser stood another who had entered the store with a gun in hand. It was a satisfactory ending to the police stand point of the first five days of their city wide, forty against criminals. During the day 267 persons were arrested, bringing the total for the five days to well over 3,000. Seven picked up yesterday carried weapons already are under indictment.

Charles E. Sutton, operating a motorcycle sales agency, shot and killed one man who attempted to kidnap the "taxi" bandit, an unidentified negro.

was believed to be Manford Alton of El Paso, Texas.

Police Sergeant Charles Roy held, third winner of the Chicago Tribune award for heroic police work, led the squad that killed the "taxi" bandit, an unidentified negro.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

A Harmonious Church—And all that believed were together, and had all things common; And they continued daily with one accord
in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, Praising God, and having favor with all the people.
—Acts 2:44,46,47.

Prayer:

For thy answer to the prayer that they all may be one, we bless the Lord.

So often we find the road to success is paved with the other fellow's skin.

As we understand it, the per-disease of this season is pantomeyer.

Always be polite to beggars.
They may have more money than you have.

"Thomas Edison isn't so smart," says the little girl down the street. "D-d-d he make light of electricity?"

Sanford has reorganized its chamber of commerce. Congratulations to the Celery City—Ode-Sal-Stanford is getting her on her feet again.

Tally and Gilbert were very foolish to have staged their one young fight in a Hollywood estate.
If they had taken it to Miami Beach, they would have made a million dollars out of it.

After handing the poises to California, Arthur Brisbane, traveling at this time of year, says
about the "marvelous blue sky"
of Arizona. Brisbane says something good wherever he goes.

The way some folks feel about vacations and indulgences reminds us of the farmer and his roost. When it was raining, he couldn't repair it, and when it wasn't raining he didn't need to.

Florida looks pretty good to tourists after fighting their way through a ten foot snow bank to get here. What we can't understand is why any of them ever go back.

General Frank McCoy said in Tampa the other day that he wants peace even if he has to fight for it. We have long since given up the opinion that the best way to be a fight is a right eous to the nation.

If Miami paid any attention to it, it would be a fine place to take up residence—Orlando Seminary Miami has more church goers than any other place in the world at this time. After cutting up the way they do during the week,
they have to go to church on Sunday.

Many an old Senator and agent Charles Evans Hughes
and his continuation for the first incarnation, but Hughes' friend maintained an absolute silence, concerning their check with the rot, call alone which favored their cause by fifty-two to twenty-six votes. When you know you are right, the most effective means of resisting a political attack is always silence.

The opposition to Hughes' chief justice developed largely out of his economic views with regard to capital and labor. Senators Norris and Borah particularly were of the opinion that labor
could never get a square deal before Hughes. But Hughes is straight, and Hughes is brilliant.
However prejudiced he may be on honest prejudice is better than a dishonest capitulation. As the existing head of a gigantic corporation once advised his subordinates: "Never support any candidate for political office;
you'll have to buy him afterward
anyway."

Keeping A Budget

What is the irreducible minimum upon which a self-respecting family can modestly eke out a reasonable existence? Opinions differ, of course, depending altogether upon the standard of living to which one is accustomed. A thousand dollars a year would be a comfortable income for some. For others five thousand dollars annually would scarcely be enough to supply absolute necessities.

Fortune, a new magazine published by Time, Inc., may have solved the problem of living expenses for some of us by selecting at random a Chicago man who is willing to analyze his annual budget of family expenses so that we can see just exactly what is required for what he calls a modest living. First he takes such necessities as household expenses.

He finds that he is unable to secure adequate living accommodations for less than four thousand a year. His food bill amounts to twenty-six hundred. Power, gas, and lights, three hundred. Servants, thirty-three hundred. Laundry, six hundred. Pressing and cleaning, three hundred and fifty. Upkeep, four hundred. Telephone, two hundred, and miscellaneous expenses, two hundred, making a total of $11,950.00.

Then for such other necessities as clothes, he allows fifteen hundred dollars for his wife, and a thousand for himself and their children. An item of five hundred dollars is included in the budget for doctor bills, and two hundred for the dentist. Either this is a very unhealthy family, or a very healthy one. Schools for his children, still quite young, cost him five hundred dollars, and pocket money takes up another five. His automobile costs him seven hundred and fifty dollars a year.

He includes what might be considered an unusual item called his "good will account". That is what guarantees his social position. It includes "touches from friends", three hundred dollars. Charity donations, five hundred dollars. Clubs, one thousand dollars. Dinners, three hundred and twelve dollars. Theaters, one hundred and fifty-eight dollars. And then strangely enough, an item called liquor and tobacco, five hundred dollars. To this he adds one thousand dollars for emergencies, which may include "hush money."

After he has deducted eight hundred and thirty dollars for taxes and one thousand dollars for insurance, and laid aside twenty-five hundred dollars in a savings account which is to take care of him in his old age, he finds that he must make twenty-five thousand dollars a year in order to exist. This is a large order. Probably most of us would not be so ambitious. But we dare say it is just as difficult for the Chicago man to live within his budget as it is for the rest of us to live within ours.

A Destructive Policy

Floridians are not the only ones who are waiting with bated breath the outcome of the government's deliberation regarding a further appropriation for the fruit fly campaign. California, a state which rivals Florida in the magnitude of its citrus industry, not only waits for, but also works for the appropriation. Realizing that the possible spread of the fruit fly to other states would cost this country far more than any eradication campaign, the Bakersfield Californian says:

"The importance of continued vigilance against further invasion of any part of the United States by the Mediterranean fruit fly cannot be overestimated. Nevertheless, the war waged against that pest in Florida, where losses mounting into millions of dollars were recently incurred by citrus growers, has been halted by the federal government owing to asserted lack of funds. New appropriations to carry on the work have been held up by the interjection of political factors by which charges are being made that there has been "waste of funds in eradication campaigns." Florida representatives vigorously deny such waste and insist that additional funds be provided without delay.

"No state has a greater interest in waging successful warfare against the fruit fly than California, and it is reassuring to note that its representatives at Washington are keenly alive to the danger. When the appropriation item comes before the House committee next week, Florida will have the co-operation of California, Texas and other states in presenting arguments in favor of federal assistance. In addition to that, representatives of more than 7000 members of the California Fruit Exchange have forwarded a demand that eradication efforts be kept at top speed and that a policy of indemnification be adopted for protection in event that the fruit fly should penetrate this state."

"The wonder is that our federal officials should hesitate to provide adequate funds for this purpose. It is worse than false economy to skimp when one of the nation's principal industries is threatened with destruction. Partisanship is at its worst when it seeks advantage at the sacrifice of economic well-being of millions of people."

Florida looks pretty good to tourists after fighting their way through a ten foot snow bank to get here. What we can't understand is why any of them ever go back.

General Frank McCoy said in Tampa the other day that he wants peace even if he has to fight for it. We have long since given up the opinion that the best way to be a fight is a righteous to the nation.

Witnesses of War

Voices of protest are being heard here and there again in steadily increasing number of books that are being published in different countries. America not excluded. "Is there no other way under the sun to write upon but that dismal and dreary one?" asks an English critic. The answer is, of course, that there are a host of subjects, but that the men to whom the war was the most intense experience of their lives must go on speaking of it for a long time to come. In a way, they are like those people who had passed through the French Revolution, of whom Renan tells in his souvenirs of youth. "I remember," he writes, "their ardent conviction and their boundless attachment to the events of 1789 and 1793, and their inability to talk of anything else. That dream lasting but one year, had seen so terrible that those who had passed through it could not enter life again. They remained under the influence of a fixed idea, silent and grim as if struck by some sort of paralysis. They suffered from the delusion tremors that followed a moment's inattention, lasting along later, like remains of some world of giants they may not have any truck or trade with other mortals." Our war book writers have not been spared such terrible extensive writing of their experiences.

For the peasants in Flambé, those fellows who have been driven back from the war,

bold and heavy though they may be, are no good for further work.

Something has gone out of them.

They have been too close to death, and they have asked themselves why, after all, they are in this world. And, any man who asks that question is lost.

First of the Nile

Carried amounts to a group of Egyptian nobles who wish to renew the ties which link the old to the new Egypt, are planning to revive the feast of the Nile. In ancient days the Pharaohs staged an elaborate ceremony each year, inviting the people to rejoice over the rising of the beloved waters of the most famous of rivers. The climax of the celebration came after three days of uninterrupted feasting, when a young girl of great beauty and divine magnificence was offered to the Nile gods, that is to say, she was thrown to the crocodiles. Modern Egypt will not go that far, but it is necessary to do nevertheless it is hoped that they will be able to resume the celebration something of the ancient mysticism that attracted Egyptians to the Nile of yore will be preserved.

The world still has a great number of sick people. This is recognized by those who visit the houses of physicians and of hospitals and institutions of every kind.

In spite of all that science and medical skill can do, in spite of the carelessness and thoughtlessness

of the people, mankind is still subject to and suffers from blighting disease. The body, finite and weak, continues to bear the penalties of sin. Compared, however, with the other diseases, it is a phantom

in which man has advanced

far in subsisting and healing sick men.

It is said that God makes the worth of men to praise Him. God uses disease to remind men

of their love of sin. Sin is terrible, and blights every

man, but it is not the only

cause of suffering.

It is said that God makes the worth of men to praise Him.

God uses disease to remind men

of their love of sin. Sin is

terrible, and blights every

man, but it is not the only

cause of suffering.

MERGER BRINGS TOGETHER LARGE DIXIE AGENCIES*2 Advertising Groups, Harvey, Massengale, Become 1 Company

Announcement has just been made of the completion of the merger between the Massengale and Harvey Advertising Agencies both of Atlanta.

Announcement was given by the Harvey Massengale Company.

W. R. Massengale, one of the most widely and favorably known advertising men in the South formerly Vice-President and General Manager of the agency that became Vice-President of the Harvey-Massengale Company; R. Winston Harvey continuing as President and General Manager; Francis E. Milam, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Massengale Agency was the oldest in the South. It started in 1896, they have played a major part in the building up of a number of the leading business enterprises in this part of the country.

The Harvey Advertising Agency, though younger, has won an equally strong but unequal reputation, because of its progressive policies and able handling of many prominently successful advertising campaigns. Evidence of the success is found not only in the number of accounts they now handle but in the length of time they have held them. A company having been with them continuously since their inception in January, 1922, Mr. Harvey wishes to impress upon all business executives that the same sound methods of advertising now followed by the plan which has been entirely responsible for the steady growth of the Harvey Agency will be directly adhered to in the future.

As a result of the merger the Harvey-Massengale Company is now one of the largest advertising organizations in the South. The added experience and even more extensive knowledge of southern and national business problems the coming out of the merged organization, it is believed, will enable the Harvey-Massengale Agency to offer advertising services of a high standard throughout the entire South.

The church maintains a 100% rendering room at the church where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased. Open Tuesdays and Fridays from 2 to 5 P.M.
