Judge Demands State Clean Up Toxic Waste In Sanford

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Indicating he was willing to "let the chips fall where they may," Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler today ordered the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) to dispose of 3,264 barrels of toxic wastes located on a two-acre site in Sanford, a job which could cost up to $400,000.

Following a 25-minute hearing this morning, Leffler said he would formally issue the order within the next couple of days. "This problem has been with us for 10 months," the judge said. "It has come time to do something."

What he did was give the city of Sanford, DER, and City Chemicals Inc. — owner of the hazardous wastes — 10 days to come up with a final plan for clearing the storage site on Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane.

Also, during that 10 days, City Chemicals will have to provide the court with a statement of its financial condition so a determination can be made as to the company's ability to foot the bill for the clean-up.

If it is decided that money from the state's Hazardous Waste Management Trust Fund will have to be spent to finance the effort, City Chemicals must repay the money within 86 weeks. The company has contended that it would take that long to identify the contents of the barrels, repack them into more secure containers, and remove them to a federally-approved disposal site.

The job could cost "in the neighborhood of $200,000," according to DER attorney John Baucher. City Chemicals president Arthur Greer, however, indicated the pricetag "could be double that."

Leffler's order placed DER in charge of the project, and Baucher said a schedule for analyzing and removing the contents of those 3,264 barrels should be completed within a week.

But the agency may have to do that without the aid of City Chemicals. After issuing his clean-up order, Leffler noted that "City Chemicals has had plenty of time to come up with a solution to this problem, but we're no closer now than we were several months ago, so I'm going to grant the city's request for a default." That means, according to city attorney Bill Colbert, that City Chemicals "has no further right to be heard in this case. It's up to us and DER now."

That didn't sit well with company attorney Royce Pipkins. "Now that you've got your default, why should we cooperate any more?"

Earlier in the hearing, Pipkins had said City Chemicals had hired outside experts to study the problem and come up with a solution. They were scheduled to inspect the site Monday and Tuesday and then meet with DER chemists to draw up a final disposal plan.

"Why should we do that now?" Pipkins asked angrily. "You guys are going to shut us down. We've been trying our damndest to get financing so we can clean this stuff up, but we can't now."

Pipkins said he feared Leffler's order and default judgment would prompt customers to abandon the beleaguered company, causing the firm further financial problems.

Teacher Demands Told; Meeting Set For Thursday

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Union and School Board negotiators have called one more meeting to iron out as many details as possible on a teacher contract for Seminole County's 2,000 teachers before a special master comes in to assist on Sept. 9.

A meeting of the negotiators of the Seminole School Board and the Seminole Education Association (SEA) has been set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Corridor M at Lyman High school in Longwood. The meeting is open to the press and the public.

Ernest Cowley, the school board's chief negotiator, said Ronald Boothe, the SEA's new executive secretary, requested the session to make a new proposal. No one could be reached at the SEA Sanford office today on what the new proposal is.

Union and school negotiators over the past several months have met more than 85 hours going over the current 76-page teachers' contract line-by-line and at times word-by-word.

Federal mediator Dick Deem of Tampa has been named by the SEA and the Employee Relations Department of the Seminole County School Board to help solve 14 points of contention between the two groups concerning the teachers' contract.

Deem has been mediating issues between the teachers' union in Orange county and the public school system there.

Among the points of contention, Cowley said today, are:

— Class Size. The union has proposed that kindergarten classes contain no more than 20 students; That first through third grades have no more than 23 students; That fourth and fifth grades no more than 25 students and that the teacher be paid $25 more weekly for each student in each class over the number stated. The union is also asking that middle and high school classes be limited to 28 students except band, chorus, study hall and physical education. For each student in excess of that number, the teacher would be paid $5 additional per student weekly.

In multi-grade classes in elementary school with over 15 students, the teacher would receive $100 more annually per student over the number, under the union proposal. In special education classes, the teachers are asking for $25 per week over the ideal number of students noted by the state department of education. Teachers would also receive $25 more per week for each vocational student above the number set in the design capacity of the vocational center.

The school administration is proposing it will make every effort to keep class size at the following: kindergarten through third grade, 25; fourth through fifth, 30 students; middle school and high school, 30 students per classroom.

— Beginning teachers' salaries. These teachers are currently being paid $10,600 annually. The union is requesting a new starting salary of $12,417 for a 17.14 percent increase.

Cowley said the SEA is asking for an entirely different type of pay plan for teachers. Differences in the pay plan, he noted as examples are: while a teacher with a bachelor's degree at the end of 17 years service is paid $18,338, the SEA is asking for a salary of $24,089 or a 31 percent increase. The union also wants a beginning teacher with a master's degree to be paid $13,907, rather than the $12,296 being paid currently.

— Holidays. The union originally asked for six holidays and compromised to five. The School Board is currently giving four.

— Duty-free lunch time. Teachers are given 30 minutes time off for lunch duty-free. Those teachers who must eat lunch with their students for special reasons are given the 30 minutes time off during the school day, Cowley said. He said the union wants teachers to be given 30 additional minutes off if they work five minutes during that lunch period.

— Daily hours. Cowley said the current teacher time at work daily is seven hours while students are in school five hours. The union wants the teachers during those two hours to do "tasks deemed essential by the teacher." At present teachers spend part of that time planning for classes, and the rest doing whatever the principal wants them to. The union also wants elementary school teachers to be given 60 minutes rather than 30 minutes daily for class planning. If a teacher has to fill-in for another teacher, the union wants that teacher paid at the rate of $8 per hour for planning time.

— Pay plan. The teacher union is asking for an entirely different pay plan. The school board's present pay plan is called an index. The union wants a new index whereby teachers would receive a seven percent increase in salary annually through the first 12 years. Cowley said the current method calls for teachers under continuing contract to receive annual pay raises at a higher level than annual contract teachers. The school board position, Cowley said, is that a teacher with experience in Florida should be paid at a higher rate than those coming into the system from out-of-state.

— Additional education. State law requires teachers every five years to get additional staff development credits or college credits to keep their teacher certificates. The union is requesting that teachers be paid an annual supplement of $745 for 12 additional semester hours of college.

— Faculty meetings. The SEA wants faculty meetings reduced from two monthly to one.

— Personal leaves. Presently four days' personal leave with pay from accumulated sick leave is allowed. The school system permits three days under certain stipulations — that the leave not be for pleasurable reasons; that it not be for things that can be done outside the regular school day; that it not be for business and that the teacher justify the leave. SEA is requesting that the leave be given without question, Cowley said.

— Annual leave. The school system grants a personal leave without pay for up to one year to a continuing contract teacher and the teacher's job will be held open during that period. The teacher during the leave time can pay insurance at the group rate. The item is in dispute, Cowley said, is that the school system will not permit the personal leave if a teacher is going to another job.

— Temporary leave. The school system will not give time off for union business. The teachers want such time off.

— Layoff and recall. If the student population is reduced in the district, the number of teachers will be reduced on a basis of program needs, seniority in the county, teacher qualification and teacher certification, according to the current contract. Cowley said the union would like the basis to be seniority only.

— Teacher observation. The union wants a representative there when classes are observed by the principal.

Amos Jones, executive director of Seminole Community Action Inc., last night heard the Seminole County commissioners slash his budget request by more than half and then was shocked to hear accusations of mismanagement.

County Slashes Funding For Anti-Poverty Agency

By DARLENE JENNINGS
Herald Staff Writer

After listening to nearly two hours of charges of lack of compassion for the poor and down-trodden from supporters of a local community service agency, Seminole County Commissioners voted unanimously Tuesday night to tentatively approve their $47.9 million budget for 1981-82.

Supporters of Seminole Community Action (SCA) saw their budget request slashed by more than half to $6,500.

The proposed tax rate accepted by the county will be $5.23 per $1,000 of assessed valuation if the board adopts the budget in September.

County Administrator Roger Neiswender called it "one of the leanest budgets" Seminole County has ever passed.

"This budget is not flexible and it is lean. It is reflective of the public's demand to keep their taxes down, and it does not include expanded or new programs," he said.

Tuesday's public hearing was the first of two required before final adoption of the county's budget.

Commissioner Robert Feather was not at the meeting, but Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said he will vote at the second public hearing which will be held Sept. 15, the day the budget is expected to be adopted.

Nearly 150 people crowded into the commission chambers, most of them supporters of SCA.

Amos Jones, SCA executive director, along with many others, pleaded with the board to continue to support the SCA and to grant the $17,000 the organization requested.

But the commission answered Jones' plea with a vote that slashed SCA's funding to $6,500, less than half of the request.

If SCA does not receive $17,000 in county funding, the agency could stand to lose nearly $800,000 in federal funding. Jones said if anyone had told him six months ago there was any way the county commission would turn down a chance to get $800,000 he would have said, "Man, you're crazy."

Another blow that sent SCA supporters reeling was Commissioner Sandra Glenn's comment that SCA, in her opinion, should not sponsor the Head Start program next year.

Jones said he was "dumb-founded" and completely caught off guard by any talk by the commissioners to change the sponsorship of the federally-funded pre-school program.

Glenn said she is considering a sponsorship change because of questions and doubts the Health and Human Services Department (HHS) has concerning the agency's handling of the federal funds for Head Start.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen also chastised SCA's management credibility, and answered to charges of the board's insensitivity to people who benefit from the agency's work.

"True we need compassion and consideration, however we need accountability, too," she said. "I've asked three times to see some justification (from Jones) of how the county's money is spent. We didn't get what we asked for and I haven't got it yet."

"Personally, it appears management hasn't been doing its job," she said.

Jones disputed Christensen's management assessment and insisted that "every penny" had been accounted for in the initial budget request submitted to the commissioners in July.

Several times during the SCA discussion between the commissioners and recognized speakers, moments of hostility and applause interrupted the meeting.

The total HHS budget for 1981-82 year, which includes SCA, has tentatively been set at $110,000. Other programs under the department will receive the following if the budget is approved:

- Community Coordinated Child Care Program, $27,000
  - Retired Volunteer Program $12,500
  - Legal Aid, $10,500
  - Grove Counseling Center, $12,000
- Other county department budgets were briefly overviewed. No speakers were in attendance to defend or argue with over the proposed budgets.

For Altamonte Clerk

Comp Time Pay Denied

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Altamonte Springs City Commissioners voted unanimously Tuesday night to deny payment of $1,225 to City Clerk Phyllis Jordahl for 154 hours of compensatory time accrued through July worked above and beyond a 40-hour work week.

Jordahl, an employee of the city for 8½ years, will leave the city's employ on Sept. 11 to accept a position in private industry. Jordahl will be on vacation, accrued over the past few years, from Sept. 11 until her official termination date of Dec. 2.

Commissioner Lee Constantine said he "cannot support payment of accumulated compensatory time to Jordahl as a department head because city policy does not allow it and it would open the city to all kinds of similar requests."

"I asked Jeff (City Manager Jeff Etchberger) if I would lose my compensatory time that I had accrued and he told me every time that I would not lose it," Jordahl said.

"I discussed the issue with Phyllis this morning," Etchberger said. "After we looked at the dollar for dollar amounts and examined exactly what the commission approved last night, I think you'll find, if you ask her, that Phyllis is satisfied. I think she got a fair deal."

Etchberger said some confusion could have arisen regarding Jordahl's compensatory time and the issue of administrative leave which allows department heads five days of unaccrued leave annually.

Where the confusion apparently comes in is the city recently approved giving department heads five paid days off a year, not accumulative, because many department heads work more than a 40-hour work week.

"It is policy in the city that no department head can receive compensatory time," Etchberger said. "Perhaps if Phyllis was not ceasing city service, something might be done to compensate for the time, but we cannot."

Jordahl said she has "no beef" with the city over the compensatory time issue and is "very happy" with the commission's new policy on reimbursement for educational expenses, established Tuesday night.

Commissioners expressed their regret to see Jordahl leave the city's employ.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Khadafy Threatens Attacks On U.S. Nuclear Bases

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy threatened to attack American nuclear bases and risk "nuclear catastrophe" in a ranting three-hour speech marking the 12th anniversary of his rule.

As vast crowds chanted "crush the United States of America," columns of Soviet-built tanks, amphibious troop-carriers, armored cars and Soviet and French-built missiles rumbled through Tripoli Tuesday in a show of military force.

"If the United States attacks us in the Gulf of Sidra, we will attack their rockets and nuclear bases even if that caused a nuclear catastrophe — and the Americans will be responsible for that," Khadafy said in a speech broadcast by state-run Radio Tripoli.

Declaring a "holy war" against America, Khadafy bitterly attacked the United States for downing two Libyan jet fighters which were fired on American jet fighters during naval maneuvers in the Gulf of Sidra.

Baby's Niagara Fall Murder?

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — Friends say Dunia Sayegh loved her third child so much she never put the boy down. Now she is charged with murdering 2-month-old Hesham by dropping him into the churning waters of Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Sayegh was arrested Tuesday, three days after Niagara Regional Police say the 27-year-old woman, her husband Rafik, the baby, and the Toronto couple's two other children visited the Canadian side of the falls.

Relatives and neighbors said Mrs. Sayegh and her husband had wanted a third child and were delighted when the boy was born.

But Tuesday, two detectives arrived at the Sayeghs' north Toronto home, arrested Mrs. Sayegh and took her back to Niagara Falls where she was charged with second-degree murder. She could be sentenced to life imprisonment if convicted.

A police spokesman said the arrest came after "an exhaustive investigation" that included a search for witnesses.

Lovers To Be Stoned To Death

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — An Islamic court ordered an 18-year-old woman and her 34-year-old school bus driver lover to be lashed 100 times before being stoned to death for adultery, court officials said today.

The religious court decision Monday marked the first death sentence for adultery under the new code of Islamic law decreed in February 1979 by President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq.

Court officials did not say when the sentence would be carried out nor whether the couple could appeal.

The court acted on reports by the woman's father she had eloped with the driver of her school bus. The judge said evidence the couple produced showing they were married was contradictory.

A Split With Khomeini

United Press International
Iran's parliament overwhelmingly approved a new prime minister today but a sharp split appeared within the Islamic regime between Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and more extreme religious groups demanding swift justice for their opponents.

The parliament, or Majlis, approved Interior Minister Mohammed Reza Mahdavi-Kani as prime minister by a vote of 178 to 10, with eight abstentions, endorsing the nomination presented Tuesday by the hastily assembled presidential council, the official Pars news agency said.

As interior minister and former director of the local revolutionary councils that executed opponents of the regime, the new prime minister — another ayatollah, or religious leader — was known to take a hard line against dissidents.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Texans mopping up floodwaters that killed five people braced today for more flash floods as new thunderstorms filled rivers already surging more than 20 feet over their banks. Hundreds of residents fled to higher ground. Flash-flood watches were posted for the northern half of Louisiana and central and southeastern Texas, where between 1 and 4 inches of rain was expected. Officials estimated damages had already reached into the millions of dollars. In Bucyrus, Ohio, heavy rains Tuesday flooded low-lying areas, leaving almost 6½ inches of water. Disaster teams today were assessing flood damage. Temperatures ranged from a high of 107 degrees at Bullhead City, Ariz., and a low of 26 degrees at Jackson, Wyo. Tropical Storm Emily moved over Bermuda early today, sweeping the resort island with 55 mph winds and drenching it with heavy rains. Forecasters said Emily, which developed about 100 miles southwest of the island, has the potential of becoming a hurricane but not until after leaving Bermuda.

Couple Claims County Out Of Step With State Law

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County is being sued by the owners of a Maitland retirement home for allegedly being out of step with state law on the issue of housing for the elderly.

In a lawsuit filed in Circuit Court in Sanford Monday, Thomas and Jeannie Brevig, who operate the Florida Haven Retirement Home at 1680 Maitland Ave., claim the county's zoning ordinance is not in compliance with a state statute which went into effect Oct. 1980.

The Brevigs contend that it was the intent of the legislature in passing the law that "the elderly be entitled to the benefits of living in normal residential communities and that such persons receive treatment, care, rehabilitation, or education in the least restrictive setting possible, and that future planning for housing elements in any comprehensive plan provide adequately for sites for group and foster homes... in single-family and other residential areas."

The Brevigs have applied to the county for a special zoning exception so they may continue to provide group foster care at their facility which is located in an area zoned exclusively for single-family residences.

The county has turned down the application which resulted in the Brevigs' home being denied an operating license by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. There are presently eight elderly women living in the home, ac-

Police reported that the crooks entered the building by breaking out a rear window. Once inside, they pried open the coin boxes to two pool tables and a juke box and stole the change, police said.

POTS, PANS, & SHEETS

A westside Sanford home was burglarized earlier this week and an estimated $1,000 worth of property taken.

Leroy Jackson, 48, of 2417 W. 18th St., told police that the break-in occurred sometime between noon Friday and 3 p.m. Monday when thieves forced open his rear door which had been nailed shut.

Stolen was a set of pots and pans, five sets of sheets and pillow cases, two televisions, a .22-caliber rifle, a vacuum cleaner, and a camera.

PROBE CONTINUES

Police were continuing their investigation today into the weekend burglary of a Winter Park home.

According to a Seminole County sheriff's report, Larry Anderson, 36, of 5079 Lake Howell Road, lost $930 worth of property — a drill, chainsaw, two fishing rods and reels, and a tackle box — to thieves who broke into a utility room next to his house.

Bomber Asks $1 Million For Victims' Families

DETROIT (UPI) — A letter taped to a dynamite bomb found in a mailbox and addressed to President Reagan demands $1 million each for families of slain Atlanta children and release of the man charged in two of the 28 killings.

Two bombs were found Monday by letter carriers collecting mail from downtown mailboxes just blocks apart.

The letter attached to the bomb addressed to Reagan was handwritten with a grease pencil and was "a rambling affair," a federal law officer Tuesday told the Detroit Free Press.

"At one point, (it) ordered the release of the man being held in Atlanta (Wayne Williams), because the killings actually were a conspiracy between the FBI, the CIA, and the Ku Klux Klan," he said.

The second bomb, addressed to the Detroit News, contained a copy of the letter to Reagan.

Shroud Of Turin Genuine?

CHICAGO (UPI) — A misspelling on a rare Pontius Pilate coin helped convince researchers human imprints on the Shroud of Turin, believed to be the burial cloth of Jesus Christ, are genuine and date back to the 1st century.

Magnifications of the rare coin — believed widely used around Palestine until A.D. 70, to cover the eyes of the dead — showed the same misspelling found in the shroud imprint, a Loyola University theologian said Tuesday.

The Rev. Francis L. Filas said the matching misspellings prove the shroud originated around the same time and place Christ was crucified during Pilate's reign.

Gator May Replace Turtle

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Alligator hunting season has opened statewide in Louisiana for the first time in 18 years and there are predictions that gator meat will take the place of turtle in the food industry.

Coupled with changes in federal guidelines allowing the meat to be shipped out of state, the season is expected to spark a new national awareness of alligator.

Wildlife managers estimate 450,000 gators are waiting in the marshes and swamps for hunters, who last year captured 17,000. There is dispute, however, over just how long the gator boom will last.

Harlon Pearce of Battistella's Sea Food, a leading alligator wholesaler, said the meat represents a "viable industry" that could take the place of turtle.

Reagan Vacation Over

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — With visions of new spending cuts and a balanced budget on his mind, President Reagan ended his month-long California vacation and scheduled speeches before political and labor groups.

Before leaving his suite at the Century Plaza Hotel, Reagan may receive requested recommendations from Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger on Pentagon spending cuts for fiscal 1983 and 1984, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said.

To keep his commitment of a balanced budget by 1984, Reagan has set a goal of slashing planned federal spending by an additional $75 billion, including up to $30 billion in military expenditures, Speakes said.

Pirates Seize Vessel, Kill 10

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Pirates stormed a trading vessel in the Sulu Sea, looted it and shot to death 10 passengers and crew before a firing squad on the high seas, Philippine authorities said today.

The Philippine Coast Guard said 48 passengers leaped into the sea to escape the pirates who seized the Nuria, a 135-ton motor launch, in a pre-dawn attack Monday. Authorities said 29 people were still missing.

All Souls Opening Delayed

All Souls School will not open Tuesday as planned, but will open Friday, Sept. 11. Due to a slight delay in completion of work on the school building it was necessary to further postpone the opening, principal Sister Moira said today.

Howe has been an Optimist for 18 years having been a member of the Greenwood, Ind., club before coming to Sanford. He has been a member here for 11 years and served as charter vice-president. He was president in 1974-75 and 1978-79. He was named Optimist of the Year in 1975.

On the District level he has been Regional Oratorical Contest chairman, District Yearling Club chairman, District Board meeting chairman, and was chosen Outstanding Distinguished I.I. Governor Florida District in 1973-74.

A Carrot For Fair Employment

The Reagan administration has proposed sweeping changes to cut back — but not abolish — the federal affirmative action program.

The proposal would limit the size, extent, and force of equal employment regulations for 200,000 firms holding federal contracts. The new regulations would keep anti-discrimination protection in place for 77 percent of the 30 million workers currently protected, according to labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan.

We support the easing of the "stick" of burdensome affirmative action regulations, but ask Mr. Reagan to propose a "carrot" of tax breaks or other economic incentives to induce companies to work against job discrimination.

Ronald Reagan was elected on a Republican platform that declared "war on government overregulation." Affirmative action, although not singled out in the platform, is considered by many Americans to have been guilty of overregulating private hiring procedures. By voting for Reagan, a majority of Americans showed their desire to cut back regulations such as affirmative action.

Reverse discrimination and quota systems are repugnant. Employment must be based on merit. But the Republican platform also calls for total integration of the work force (not separate but equal).

Job discrimination by race, creed, color or sex is abhorrent. An America where women and minorities are denied jobs is a country which squanders its human resources, and turns its back on its values.

How can the war on overregulation be reconciled with the goal of total integration of the work force?

We believe that the Reagan proposals are a good start, but only address half the problem. By cutting regulations, the government will allow businesses to streamline hiring procedures, and put back merit in the hiring equation. This is necessary.

But the goal of total integration must not be discarded because of the abuses of affirmative action. Rather, a positive program of inducements for bringing women and minorities into the work force should also be developed by the federal government. By giving employers tax breaks for hiring women and minorities, the government could spur voluntary improvement, and stimulate the profit motive.

America's economic recovery is dependent on the removal of government from the back of business. It is also dependent on the harnessing of the work and creativity of all Americans.

Positive inducements would add balance to the president's program. Affirmative action must not be allowed to become affirmative reaction.

Truth Is Needed

We deplore the arrest and torture of American journalist Lawrence Johnson in Colombia.

Johnson, a freelance reporter, was investigating stories for Pacific News Service and Mother Jones magazine when army officials arrested and threatened him with execution for failing to give information about leftist guerrillas. According to an editor at Pacific News Service, an independent news agency, Johnson was investigating whether or not there were genuine political grievances among dissatisfied groups in Colombia.

Colombian security police ruled that he should be expelled for being "an international liaison agent of the guerrillas."

The freedom of the press is an international right that all nations, including Colombia, must respect. The safety of the world depends, in some measure, on the safety of journalists to give the public the full story on controversial events.

We do not necessarily agree with Mr. Johnson's viewpoint, but we defend his right to investigate and report the facts.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Instead of doing that, why don't you split logs for firewood, like Ronald Reagan."

By JANE CASSELBERRY

It was with a sigh of relief we left the California coast behind and headed out over the Pacific bound for Hawaii aboard our 747 jet. We had made it this far in spite of the air controller's strike and actually ahead of schedule.

Our lunch trays were still in front of us and the aisles filled with heavy serving carts. Suddenly, our daydreams of two weeks in Alohaland were shattered. The right wing shuddered violently, followed by a loud noise as one of the big jet engines blew up!

The plane began to lose altitude and the flight attendants in their muumuus quickly began stowing the trays and carts in the galley below (one having shouted down the aisle, "Get this stuff out of here, we're going down" to another stewardess).

I had visions of a sequel to "Airport 77" "Airport 81" starring me. Husband, Len (who only goes berserk over little things) calmly reassured me. "Don't worry," he said, "we're either going to Hawaii or we're going to Heaven, but we're going together."

We were 70 miles out over the ocean when the captain's voice came over the intercom. The serious tone of his voice confirmed my worst fears. "Ladies and gentlemen," he announced, "I have bad news for you."

"As you probably realized we are having trouble with one of our engines," he continued. "We will be returning to Los Angeles and will be circling while we dump our fuel in the ocean and get clearance to land."

Not to worry, he said, if necessary we could fly with only two engines. Fire engines were lined up along the runway as we made our unscheduled stop at LA International. The touchdown was rather rough and was greeted by scattered applause from the stunned passengers.

"I gather from your half-hearted applause some of you think that was a bad landing," said a stewardess over the intercom. "Believe me, THAT was a GOOD landing!"

Crew and passengers "commandeered" another 747 just in from New York, but we could not get clearance to take off for two hours. When we finally arrived in Honolulu it was dark and it had been a long day since we boarded our plane in Miami early that morning. Our bodies realized that back home it was 2 a.m. and our minds were foggy, but we were "praising the Lord" that we had finally made it safely to our destination.

We found Hawaii is a great place for a "second (after all these years who's counting?) honeymoon" and to recover from our youngest daughter's wedding.

But you can understand why we didn't bring back any lava rock for a souvenir. After our experience on the trip over, we didn't dare incur Pete's curse for the sake of the other passengers.

Red Might Be Best

Here we're still recovering from the budget-reduction and tax-cut ordeals and now there's word out of Washington of another change in the way the government goes about its fiscal business.

The treasury is changing the color scheme of the more than half a billion checks it issues every year. The checks have been printed in black on green or gold backgrounds. The fronts will retain the traditional color scheme but the backs are being changed to orange printing on buff.

The reason is efficiency — to enhance legibility of endorsements and microfilmed records — not artistic effect. Or, obviously, symbolism, in which case there could have been only one appropriate color choice: red.

A real high

A major airline, Western, has been making a big promotional deal of its champagne flights for years.

What's new about the practice this year, according to a Wall Street Journal brief, is that despite a 5 percent decline in passenger loads following the air traffic controllers' walkout, champagne continues to be consumed aloft at about the 1980 rate.

This apparently strikes the airline as somewhat unusual, but you don't have to look too far to see a possible connection.

Small screens vs. big screens

It probably doesn't come as news at this late date that the video-game business is booming. In fact, you could be a contributor to the boom.

Millions of Americans are, to an extent that is news. We are reported to have dropped some $9 billion worth of coins into the electronic devices last year, three times as much as we spent at movie box offices.

That may not be as one-sided an entertainment imbalance as it appears, however.

The bottom line for the big screens is certain to look much better when receipts from the popcorn concessions are in.

(From the Washington Post, reporting indications the African regime supported by 20,000 Cuban troops would like to improve relations with the United States.)

Politically it would appear impossible as long as those Cubans are around. But if the Angolans want to talk purely business, it's just possible we might be able to develop something mutually profitable in bows and four-in-hands, or colorful foulards . . .

Disabled Hard Hit By Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON — This is the International Year of the Disabled. But in the United States, it's a bad year for the disabled.

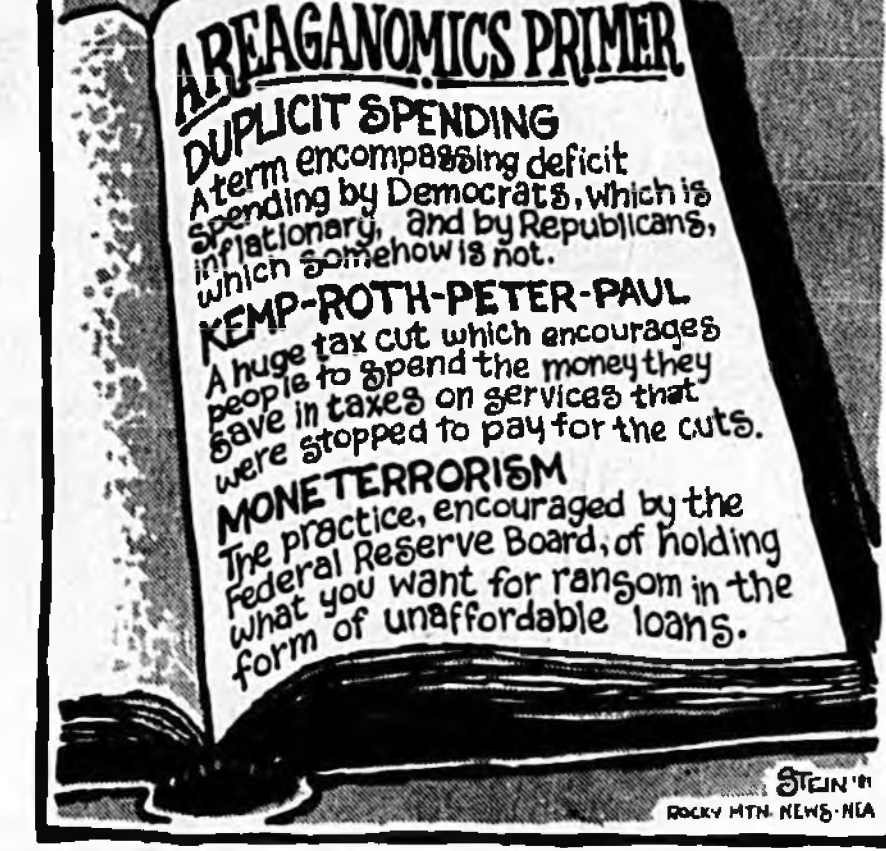

The Reagan administration is tightening up the eligibility requirements for those who seek disability payments from the government. This has created a bureaucratic nightmare for many legitimate recipients trying to collect the money that keeps them alive.

I don't quarrel with President Reagan's intentions. I have been far ahead of him in exposing the cheaters who draw disability benefits they don't deserve. I also applaud the president's efforts to curtail reckless government spending.

But Reagan's money managers have been scrutinizing the federal budget with eyes as cold as the marble around them. They should not lose sight of the human toll that their budget cuts can cost.

Tales of tragedy have reached my office from all sections of the country. Some people

JEFFREY HART

They Killed The Biltmore

Note: Linda Stevens, a reporter for The New York Post, reflects here on the disposable nature of America's past:

A few days ago I stood in the ruined interior of New York's famous Biltmore Hotel — home of "The Trusting Clock" — and remembered how much I had enjoyed watching people like Dan Rather and Tom Brokaw, broadcasting the royal wedding, flounder over the question, "Why are Americans so crazy about Britain's royal family?"

Their usual answer had something to do with fairy tales and knights in shining armor and pageantry — but that's beside the point.

There's a line from a play, whose name I've forgotten, wherein one character sums up the philosophy of modern America by saying, "The more it's disposable, the more it's beautiful."

And that's why America loves the Windsors, because of the heritage and stability they represent. This country, home of disposable plates, presidents, spouses, and morals, has been looking for a heritage for years.

And if America can't have its own, it'll settle for England's.

America these days is a country where old is ugly, where a old tradition is made to be done away with, and where a landmark structure like the Biltmore is only important in terms of the construction jobs it will provide when it is torn down and something else is built in its place.

Fine old buildings like Grand Central Terminal are saved only when Jacqueline Onassis organizes the very wealthy to save them.

There was a time, several years ago, when Washington, D.C.'s historic "Church of the Presidents" — the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church where Lincoln worshipped and Peter Marshall (subject of the film, "A Man Called Peter") preached — was to be torn down in favor of, you guessed it, a parking lot.

It still stands, but its future is always in doubt.

Very little of America's heritage has survived the 200-odd years of the country's existence. More is destroyed every day.

Children are woefully ignorant of their own history, since they see little of it around them and learn less of it in school — where American history is a subject dictated by special interest groups. Somewhere between the gratification of this ethnic group or that, the truth of what happened becomes secondary.

A fair portion of my life was spent in England, near Portsmouth, where I often saw Prince Charles on the street during his Navy days. Nearby, at Warblington, is a church that was old when Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn visited it regularly to repent their sins.

The church has been damaged and rebuilt by the conquerors who have possessed it, and any neighborhood child will show you around, point out the Saxon brickwork, the Norman and Roman sections of the building.

It's difficult to help envying those kids, and the adults they become — their sense of place in the world, their sense of where they and their forebears have been. Day to day, their history surrounds them, like a seemingly endless blanket.

American children have nothing like it. What they know of their nation they find in glass cases, where it is impossible to touch.

Knowledge of the past breeds belief in the future. Psychologists have suggested the cult that still surrounds the television show "Star Trek" is fed by the need American young people feel to believe Earth will still exist so far in the future.

And when Americans, whatever their age, turn to the television for the security they need something's gone very wrong.

The same thing can be said for American's peculiar faith in the British monarchy.

Thus it was that last month in the still-see hours people who swore they wouldn't rolled out of bed watched this year's episode of "Life with the Windsors."

As close relatives, the Americans and the British can be reassured by the same things.

Pest Control Front

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you think the Mediterranean fruit fly is a problem, wait till the Chinese lacewing gets a toehold in this country.

Green lacewigs are among a batch of Sino-insects recently brought back from China by scientists associated the U.S. Agricultural Research Service.

According to the Agriculture Department, the Chinese bugs "are natural enemies of some of the aphids and mites that attack cotton, tobacco, vegetables, citrus and other crops and trees in the United States."

The plan is to see what happens when the twain meet under experimental conditions. If field tests show the imported bugs help control domestic pests, they presumably will be introduced in volume to do their number.

In theory, fine. The entomologists mean well, I'm sure. "Fight bug with bug" is their credo. But we all know how the picture is going to end, don't we?

Just as sure as God made little green neuroteroids, the scenario will take this form:

At first, the program goes along swimmingly. Millions of Chinese insects are produced in government laboratories and then turned loose in them of cotton fields back home.

The lacewigs quickly drive off aphids and mites and other pests that damage cotton. Crops proliferate. Farmers are rolling in dough.

Now comes the pendulum's inevitable counter-swing.

Once all the bugs that eat cotton disappear, what happens to the bugs that eat bugs that eat cotton?

I mean, here is the "back 40" cotton patch teeming with millions of hungry Chinese lacewigs. Does anyone seriously believe those bugs, deprived of their natural food supply, are going to sit idly around while they waste away to mere shadows of their former selves? You can bet you last box of sweet-and-sour jujubes they aren't.

Those ravenous little creatures are going to start scouting around for alternate forms of nourishment. And you don't need a Chinese fortune cookie to tell you what the final upshot will be.

Denied their standard menu, the lacewigs will turn at-will-time to some product that has never had bug trouble before.

What they will choose for sustenance is anybody's guess. For hypothetical purposes let's borrow trouble from their name. Let's postulate that the protein found in toques blue saltifies a lacewing's craving.

Imagine Dolly Parton flouncing onto the stage of the Grand Ol' Opry with a swarm of lacewigs munching her bouffant and you can envision the devastating impact such an insect infestation would have on national morale.

The next step, of course, would be a massive lacewing eradication program. Considering the problems we had with Meffly spraying, we may wish imports from China had stopped with eggrolla.

support their claim. Rarely do patients see the same doctor regularly at a public health facility, where many claimants are examined.

"A physician will continue to see one patient only if he or she has a strange, exotic disease," Gibson explained. It's hard for a claimant to get substantiation of a disabling condition from a doctor who may have spent only a few minutes with the patient.

Ironically, red tape sometimes works in a claimant's favor. Administrative law judges who decide on claimants' appeals must prepare a seven- or eight-page opinion explaining why they have decided to deny a particular claimant's petition. But if they accept the claimant's case and approve the benefit, they need only fill out a short form.

Most of the time, however, the overwhelmed Social Security offices don't have enough manpower to check out thoroughly the two million yearly claims. And as a result, people like Helen Mary Carlton often fall through the safety net.

Even with a knowledgeable attorney, disability claimants often find it hard to obtain the medical evidence that could

PEOPLE IN BRIEF

Golf Pro's Handicaps No Disability

Greg Matthews is head professional at Pine View Golf Club in Three Rivers, Mich., even though he has a 24 handicap. He also is blind and has only one foot. Matthews, 46, who has made his living at golf since his 20s, lost his sight 10 years ago because of diabetes. "I had some awful thoughts about what I would do to support my family," says Matthews. "The way I saw it I had two choices. I could get back up off the floor and enjoy people and my business, or I could sit in the basement and hide, and drag everybody else down with me." It took nearly two years before he mustered courage to pick up his clubs again. Now he also is head of a free golf school for blind children, where the actual teaching is done by his son Tim.

Willie Recuperating

Country music singer Willie Nelson, recuperating from a collapsed lung, has canceled his concerts through September, a spokesman says. Dr. William Iaconetti said Friday Nelson's condition was good and improving but he needs to limit his activities until he is fully recovered. Nelson, 48, was expected to remain on Maui to rest for at least another week.

Quote Of The Day

QUOTE OF THE DAY: Former first lady Betty Ford never believed she was an alcoholic until she and her family became embroiled in "conflicts and disagreements, mostly in some way tied to drinking." Now she offers this advice in the current Harper's Bazaar magazine, on how to spot alcoholism: "If you start becoming overly concerned with when you're going to drink and start looking forward almost exclusively to that special time; if you begin to wonder whether your dinner hosts are going to serve liquor or not, and whether you should have a drink beforehand while you're getting dressed, just in case — then you're probably more than mildly hooked, at least psychologically."

County To Open Facility In Sanford

To Help Elderly Stay Independent

A center designed to help the elderly maintain their independence will be opened by the Aging Services Division of the Seminole County Mental Health Center Nov. 14. The adult day-treatment center will be located on first floor of the Paulucci Building, 201 W. First St., Sanford, said Sigi Hays, acting day care coordinator. The 3,000 square foot area is presently being renovated and the staff is planning to move into the new facilities on Nov. 11, she said. The center will be open five days a week for five hours a day to start. The day treatment program is designed to provide outpatient services to those 60 years old and over who qualify. The actual treatment program is designed to enhance and encourage independence and maintain patients at their current abilities and thereby prevent institutionalization. The services will be provided for those exhibiting loss of memory, and disorientation and lack of motivation. Patients must have mobility, but may be in a wheelchair, must be continent and able to function in an open setting, Ms. Hays said.

There is no income criteria for eligibility, but there is a sliding scale of charges for the services based on the patient's gross monthly income. Title 20 funds are available through the state to provide outpatient services to those who meet the criteria, she said. The new facility will include a gift shop to display items for sale made by the center's elderly clients, a space for senior citizen activities such as bingo and dancing, an exercise and relaxation module and education and training programs. There will be a kitchen for use in training for daily living activities.

Dr. John Nestor, with the county mental health center, is division director for the new facility. — JANE CASSELLBERRY

Prof Says We're 'Risk Illiterates'

LONDON (UPI) — If you knew there was as much danger staying home 16 hours a day for two years as there was enjoying 40 bottles of fine wine, which would you choose? "The truth is," Prof. T.A. Kletz said, "we are neither risk-averse nor risk-loving, but risk-illiterate. We do not know which risks are big and which are small." If the Loughborough College expert in industrial safety gets his wish, however, people will realize there is the same danger driving a car 4,000 miles, smoking 100 cigarettes or mountain climbing for two hours — and decide which is worth the risk. Riding a motorcycle 350 miles, drinking 40 bottles of wine, eating 80 pounds of peanut butter, or staying at home 16 hours a day for two years, all have the same risk, if not the same pleasure, Kletz said in a report prepared for the 150th annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Kletz says mankind is confused, demanding all risks be removed from technology at the same time we take needless risks by smoking or refusing to use seat belts.

"Another way of describing risks," he said, "is to suppose all sources of death were removed and we all lived forever, except for the one cause of death we are considering. How long would we live?"

If people could only die from accidents in the chemical industry they would live an average of 12,500 years. Smoking 40 cigarettes a day would kill everyone off in a mere 100 years but we would live 10 million years if we waited to get hit by lightning.

The comparisons "can help us spend our money and efforts wisely," he said. "It is absurd to worry about the radiation from an atomic power station when we get about 30 times as much from the bricks in our houses."

Kletz, taking a swipe at protests such as the antinuclear campaign for not seeking a ban on dangerous things like dams, coal mines and ships, said, "There is more risk involved in traveling to a protest meeting than in living near the completed refinery or chemical plant."

100-Year-Old Looks Back

By United Press International
Irene Kastler Huber looked back on 100 years of living and said, "I wouldn't want to go back to the earlier days. I want to live right now, in the present." Mrs. Huber celebrated her 100th birthday in her daughter's Chicago home Sunday, drinking "a Huber Old-Fashioned," but ruefully refusing a cigarette. She hasn't smoked since 1970 when doctors found she had lung cancer.

"I quit cold turkey but every time I see someone light up, I still want a cigarette," she said. Mrs. Huber overcame the lung cancer, and three bouts of pneumonia since she was 90. She toured Hawaii at 98 and last May took off on a solo visit to California.

"I look back over my life and think about people like Thomas Edison and men going to the moon," Mrs. Huber said. "and I know that I have lived in the most exciting time in the history of man."

Seminole To Promote Industry Through National Organization

By DARLENE JENNINGS
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners have decided to promote industrial development in Seminole County in a new way. The county will join the Mid-Florida Industrial Development Commission, a national organization which receives a fee for promoting industry in an area. Mid-Florida will replace most activities of the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA).

Under the agreement between the commissioners and Mid-Florida, the board will pay an annual fee of $85,000 for efforts to draw industry into the county. Before, SCIDA received a budget of $110,000 a year for the same purpose, according to Commissioner Sandra Glenn. The county will be saving an estimated $25,000 per year.

SCIDA, the county-operated and funded development authority, will continue to float industrial bonds and to monitor Mid-Florida's actions. SCIDA will retain a board of directors, Glenn said.

"Mid-Florida is a promotional organization that will present Seminole County to potential businesses using our schools, shopping centers and such as a consideration for national businesses," Glenn continued.

Jim Daniel, SCIDA's executive director, will join the Mid-Florida Commission's executive board as required in the agreement.

It will be a lateral move for Daniels and he will retain his $33,000 a year salary. He will begin working for Mid-Florida Oct. 1.

A county commissioner is also required to become a permanent representative to the Mid-Florida board, but no decision has been reached on who it will be.

According to Glenn, the contract with the "promotional" commission must be renewed annually, so if the county is not pleased with its decision, it can opt not to renew its contract a next year.

Fed Workers Call Pay Raise Insult

United Press International
 Federal employees have been living in austerity for years and President Reagan's plan to limit them to a 4.8 percent cost-of-living pay increase is an "insult," union officials said today.

Jim Peirce, president of the National Federation of Federal Employees, said the small raise will keep U.S. government workers' wages falling farther and farther behind those of people who do similar jobs in the private sector.

Federal workers feel "that they're sacrificing for big business, and the big returns are going out of the tax bill to the richer side of the house," added Peirce, whose union represents 136,000 federal workers in various departments and agencies.

"Federal employees view the 4.8 percent raise as an insult to them," he said.

Peirce referred to the massive tax cut proposed by Reagan and enacted by Congress last month for individuals and business.

The amount is 10 percent less than the raise recommended by a federal pay comparability agency.

Greg Kenefick, a spokesman for the 700,000-member American Federation of Government Employees, said the small increase "drives home the message that federal employees should have been getting all along — that there's no sensitivity, real concern for their outlook or welfare."

He noted federal workers have been falling behind private sector employees doing similar work for a decade.

"The facts are that for 10 years government employees have been living in austerity. No president in recent times has made any effort to make that comprehensible to the public," he said.

Kenefick said the average federal worker makes only about $15,000 a year.

Women Still Paid Less Than Men In Comparable Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Substantial discrimination in pay between women and men in comparable jobs persists in the United States, says a report prepared for the government.

While underlining the problem, the 126-page report provided little advice for ending discriminatory practices, saying the social and economic consequences involved make it "an extremely complex question."

The National Research Council, an arm of the National Academy of Sciences, conducted the three-year study at the request of the government's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. The academy is a private research group chartered in 1963 by Congress to examine questions of public importance.

Ann R. Miller, professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania and head of the study committee, said perhaps the most persuasive evidence of discrimination is that despite tremendous changes in the labor market during the past 20 years, there has been no change in the relative earning positions of men and women.

"In the early 1960s, women who worked the whole year at full-time jobs earned less than 60 percent of what men did and that is still true today," she said.

The report stressed that although some women balance family demands by choosing typically low-paying jobs that allow easy movement in and out of the labor market, the predominance of women in low-paying jobs "also results from the exclusionary practices of employers and from the systematic underpayment of jobs held mainly by women."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

McEnroe Struggles In Open,

'Rude' Crowd Bothers John

NEW YORK (UPI) — When John McEnroe plays before the home folks he wouldn't be the favorite against Atilla the Hun.

And the reception he got Tuesday when he returned to the National Tennis Center, only a few miles from his home in Douglaston, to begin defense of his Open crown was anything but flattering.

"It bothers me that people are rude in so many ways," McEnroe said, after experiencing more difficulty than expected in beating Juan Nunez of Chile, 6-7, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, in an opening-round match interrupted twice by rain. "It's sad to see how little support Americans get, but maybe it's just me."

"I like being home and playing here. I just wish people would be behind me and give me a fair chance."

Of course, McEnroe's on-court theatrics don't help his popularity ratings. He engaged in several run-ins with the umpire, Ken Slye of Alexandria, Va., receiving one time-delay warning and one conduct warning.

He also underestimated Nunez, ranked 183rd in the world. Nunez, who now lives in Rocky Mount, N.C., won the opening set tie-break, 8-6, after McEnroe had taken the first five points. The match was even midway through the third set when the 22-year-old defending champion suddenly rallied to take nine of the last 11 games.

Hana Mandlikova, the losing women's finalist in 1980 and seeded fifth this year, almost didn't make it through opening night. She survived a set point in the second set, then fought back from 0-2 in the final set to beat Mary Lou Piatek, 6-7, 7-6, 6-3.

All Folly Set For December

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali is going to try to climb the comeback mountain again.

At a news conference Tuesday, the three-time heavyweight champion announced the umpteenth comeback attempt of his career — in December against Canadian heavyweight Trevor Berbick.

All, who will be 40 in February, last fought in October, 1980 against World Boxing Council champion Larry Holmes, who battered Ali nonstop for 10 rounds until Ali's corner stopped the bout before the 11th. He blames the loss on a thyroid drug he had been taking.

"I didn't sweat a drop that night in that 104-degree heat," said Ali. "There was something terribly wrong with me that night. I couldn't jab, I couldn't punch, I couldn't move around. Right now, I could do better than that."

Rising Juniors Aid Lyman's Recovery

By JOE De SANTIS
Herald Sports Writer
Bill Scott's Lyman Greyhounds head into the '81 season with a renewed spirit that a new campaign traditionally evokes. The emphasis this year is on youth, and Lyman possesses perhaps the largest group of talented young players in the Five Star Conference.

The rising juniors have completed back-to-back undefeated freshman and junior varsity campaigns. That rising winning tradition, combined with a sprinkling of seasoned seniors should play a major role in reversing last season's 0-10 showing.

"We're kind of an unknown quantity," assesses third-year skipper Scott. "We know we have some talented players in some positions, but overall we're very young. The key will be how much our younger players can help us and the kind of leadership we get from our seniors."

Baker Brings Help From Junior Varsity

Offensive coordinator Larry Baker has moved up from junior varsity and the continuity combined with the speed and depth in the

Greyhounds

Greyhound backfield has to be labeled a big plus for Lyman fortunes. There is talent at tight end as well as experience and the potential for a well balanced attack if the Greyhound's young offensive line can jell early in the season.

Scott is looking for a ground oriented attack but has capable passing. "There's a lot of good battles going on for starting spots," says Scott.

Johnson, Axley Quarterback Fight

One of the battles Scott refers to is at quarterback.

Junior Dwayne Johnson received an early baptism of fire as a sophomore last year due to injuries and has accumulated a solid amount of game time. Johnson had flashes of brilliance a year ago mixed in with youthful mistakes. The experience he gained as a soph can only be an asset. Johnson is being pressed by fellow junior Jerry Axley.

Whichever quarterback gets the starting nod will be looking often in the direction of tight end Willie Perkins, a solid veteran in his senior campaign who provides additional depth as a backup signal caller. Junior John Poor and senior Steve Rogers are slated for backup duty at tight end.

More of Lyman's youthful talent is evident at wide receiver in the form of wide receiver Todd Marriott, a junior who doubles as linebacker. Senior Jeff Acker will provide Marriott with plenty of competition for the starting job.

Junior David Jacobs along with Carl Quisenberry and Duane Stevens are the leading candidates for the starting nod at flanker.

Presley Powers Talented Backfield

Speed and depth will be the trademark of Lyman's running corps in 1981. While senior Jim Farley appears to have the green light as starting fullback, the tailback spot is where the Greyhounds will go for their bread and butter. Scott has the luxury of four talented players in the likes of veteran Vince Presley, Willis Perry, Lonza Collier and Theo Jones.

With that quartet, Lyman should be able to stay quick and fresh throughout four quarters.

Senior center Jay Mazaleki anchors the offensive line that averages right at 170 pounds. Junior Dirk Smith is greatly improved as backup snapper. At left guard is one of the seniors Scott looks to for leadership, Dave Seligson, who saw plenty of playing time last season. At right guard will be junior Brian Crews backed up by Mike Hill and Rich McFadden while David Cadd provides additional depth.

A pair of juniors, Graham Mays and Chad Denny, will handle duties at the right tackle slot.

The early season performance of the offensive line could dictate Lyman's early season success on the ground.

"We'd like to run about 60 percent of the time and throw when we want to, not when we're forced to," says Scott.

Finesse Is Key To Hound Defense

Finesse is the key to a small, but quick Lyman defensive unit. There's solid potential at linebacker and promise in a young defensive line. Size may be a problem though, as the heaviest Greyhound lineman tips the scales at 205 pounds.

Converted fullback Gene Allen will handle duties at left defensive end with help from Tschieder and H.J. Golde. Senior Rick Fredericks has the edge over James Pilot and Davis Williams at the opposite end of the line.

Vince Presley, Lyman's electrifying junior tailback, should scamper to a lot of yards this year with his 9.9 100-yard dash speed.

Another converted offensive player, Frank Lawson, moves from offensive tackle to defensive tackle and will be backed up by Graham Mays on the left side. John McCoy, Steve Gerrity and Mike Patel will man the right tackle slot.

The Greyhounds have a pair of talented hitters inside in the form of Lonza Collier and Mike Hill as starters. Jim Farley, Gene Allen and Jeff Dunn can fill in when needed.

Senior Rhett Harwell has one outside job nailed down while Todd Andrew has the edge at the other outside position. Depth will come from David Jacobs, Todd Marriott and Andy Cordek.

Another area where the Greyhounds should benefit from some healthy competition for starting jobs.

Shane Harwell, Al Coleman, Quisenberry and Perry all rate equally as defensive backs. Scott has depth and talent that again, should help as the Greyhounds head into the middle of the season and important conference games down the stretch.

Tschieder, Jeff Mairs and quarterback Johnson have been vying for the punting job. Look for Tschieder to get the nod with his better average range.

Todd Marriott and Theo Jones will be Lyman's primary return men on kickoffs and punts.

Patriot-Hawk Clash Tonight's Highlight

Wednesday night's "Fall Football Jamboree" at Lake Brantley may start at 7:30, but the real fireworks will not begin until the fourth quarter when the host school plays Lake Howell.

Both Dave Tullis' Patriots and Mike Bisceglia's Silver Hawks are putting the finishing touches on the pre-season which will be culminated Sept. 11 when the regular season opens.

Bisceglia, who is in his first year at Lake Howell after moving from a successful Hialeah program last year, will get a taste of another Five Star Conference foe when Howell plays Apopka in quarter three.

The Blue Darters open the jamboree against Brooksville-Hernando, a 3A school. Hernando takes on Lake Brantley in the second quarter before the Apopka-Howell clash.

No tiebreakers will be used Wednesday. The jamboree is preceded by a hamburger cookout sponsored by the Lake Brantley Boosters Club. Cost for the jamboree is $2.50. Tickets are available at the gate.

Junior wide receiver Todd Marriott will be on the receiving end of the throws from quarterbacks Dwayne Johnson and Jerry Axley when Lyman opens its football season Friday, Sept. 11 at Boone.

Riggins, Metcalf Turn Around Redskins

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Writer

COACH JOE GIBBS: "I'm excited about coaching this team after 17 years as a college and pro assistant."

OFFENSE
PASSING Thelmann now ranks among the quality field generals in the NFL, a mobile passer who has acquired discipline. He should thrive under Gibbs. Promising rookie behind him is Tom Flick. On the receiving end, Art Monk made an impressive debut in '80 and is the kind of guy you can build around. FAIR

RUNNING Entire program has been turned around with return of John Riggins and acquisition of Terry Metcalf from Canada and Joe Washington through trade. GOOD
BLOCKING Trend is toward youth. Terry Hermeling's retirement stresses that. Couple of draftees from Pitt, Mark May and Russ Grimm, have chance to play immediately at tackle and guard, respectively. FAIR

DEFENSE
LINE Looks like they'll be shuffling personnel all season depending on situation. Coy Bacon, at 38, is reduced to pass rush specialist. Wilbur Young, acquired from San Diego, and big Dave Butz hold down interior spots in standard 4-3 but aren't especially active. Karl Lorch retains starting spot at end. FAIR

LINEBACKING Could be soft spot of Washington defense unless Brad Dusek returns strong from back surgery. Neal Olkewicz tries to reclaim job in middle, while Rich Milot clamors to play some place. Steadiest guy of all has been unheralded Monte Coleman. No rookie help in sight. FAIR to POOR
SECONDARY At least Gibbs

knows he has a tested bunch back here, starting with veterans Lemar Farris and Joe Lavender on corners. They provide excellent single coverage. Tony Peters and Mark Murphy are pair of competent safeties. GOOD

PROSPECTUS
The emphasis is to be on offense with Gibbs a specialist in that area. It's fairly certain the Redskins will score their share of points. But it's difficult to get a peg on their overall strength under the new regime. PREDICTION Last in NFC East, defense looks porous.

Lineup-Set Lions Look For Championship Priorities

COACH MONTE CLARK: "We felt we were an inch away last year. We missed out when our offensive line got hurt and our special teams fell down. Up to now we've been struggling for starting lineups. Now they're set and we can start looking to our other priorities. We'll be better."

OFFENSE
PASSING Some people were disappointed with Gary Danielson, but Clark feels he's one of most accurate passers around. He doesn't throw many interceptions. Finding targets in his main concern, so they've drafted Mark Nichols who's 4.4 in speed, 213 pounds, with great hands. Also Tracy Porter of LUS. Fred Scott is best of holdovers. David Hill is steady at TE. FAIR to GOOD

RUNNING Spectacular debut by Billy Sims was no quick flash. He's the real article as the running back teams have to key on; he also showed flair for catching the ball. Dexter Bussey adjusted OK to fullback and will soon be leading rusher in Lion annals. Sims is guy who delivers TD's. VERY GOOD
BLOCKING This is an anonymous offensive line but very precise in execution when healthy. Best of lot is right tackle Keith Dorney. Chris Dieterich could move in at right tackle. There's a fine rookie specimen in guard Don Greco. Fine start by Lions last season was negated when four of five starters were injured. So they need a little bit of luck, too. FAIR to GOOD

LINE Biggest change this year is return of Doug English after year sabbatical in oil business. He's the tower of strength they missed at tackle. Rookie Curtis Green is envisioned as another pass rushing whiz like Al Baker, under tutelage of Floyd Peters. Also looking for another big season from much-traveled Dave Purelory, but English is the man. GOOD

LINEBACKING Ken Fantetti, in third year, came on as the vital man in the middle. Charlie Weaver and Stan White are smart old heads, with White's signal-calling a bonus. Behind the starters, though, it gets thin and the age on the outside becomes a problem. Lacking in depth. FAIR
SECONDARY They finally feel secure at the corners, where James Hunter has matured as pass defender and Wayne Smith, a rookie find in '80, worked himself into regular job. Less stable at safety spots, though. Jimmy Allen, who picked off six passes, is clinch to be free safety again, but identity of his running mate is wide open. FAIR

SPECIAL TEAMS
KICKING Ed Murrya was brilliant in place-kicking debut as he led NFC in scoring with 116 points. Tom Skladany came to fore as punter, too, and will only get better. So will Murray. VERY GOOD
RETURNS It's mostly in the hands of Ray Williams, spare receiver, who's slippery enough on punt returns and may have to handle kickoffs, too. Clark sees jacking up of all special teams. FAIR
PROSPECTUS
Lions on paper don't scare anybody, with exception of threat of Sims carrying ball. But Clark finally got 'em untracked last year offensively; defense is solid enough. In a topsy-turvy division, they're as good as any other team. PREDICTION First in NFC Central, but not without a struggle.

Michael Walks Tight Pinstripe As Yankee Manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ask, and ye shall receive, and since he came right out and asked George Steinbrenner to fire him, Gene Michael should be receiving word any day now he's being replaced by Joe Altobelli or Clyde King as the Yankees' new manager.

When the official announcement is made, possibly even before the end of this week, it won't come as any big shock to Michael.

He has been on borrowed time since last Friday when he got a call in Chicago from Steinbrenner and was told by him, "Gene, I think I'm going to have to let you go."

Upset and angered over what he considered a series of threats, Michael urged the Yankee owner not to wait. "Fire me, now. Get it over with," he said.

Michael then told a group of reporters what he had said to Steinbrenner and right there and then he burned all his bridges behind him. But good.

As someone who was the Yankees' general manager before he became their manager last November, Michael should be aware, perhaps better than anyone else, you never take on George Steinbrenner in the newspapers.

Anyone who has ever worked for George Steinbrenner will tell you, if you have a complaint to make to him, you make it in private, in his office behind closed doors. But once you go to the newspapers with your beef, you won't be working for him much longer. That amounts to suicide.

Michael officially was put on notice of Steinbrenner's intention to fire him last Friday and the fact the Yankees won three straight immediately after that wasn't so much a full pardon as it was a temporary reprieve. George Steinbrenner isn't a man who forgets. He told Michael he had it in mind to make a change and although he sometimes takes awhile to do what he says, ultimately he invariably gets around to it.

Milton Richman

The only question about Michael's step-down is whether he'll be replaced by Altobelli, the Yankees' third base coach, or King, the club's pitching coach. Both have major league managerial experience with the San Francisco Giants, the 49-year-old Altobelli having managed them from 1977 through most of 1979, and the 56-year-old King having handled them in 1969 and part of 1970 and the Atlanta Braves for the latter part of 1974 and most of 1975.

Both are low-key managers, like Michael, not given to loud outbursts. When Steinbrenner makes his next managerial move, it will not be an impulsive one.

The memory of the Yankees' loss to the Royals in last year's playoff still is with him and he anxious for them to win this second half of the season as well as they did the first. He isn't at all convinced Michael can bring them home in front again and has decided to do something about it. Occasionally, he seems to act impulsively, but he always plans well in advance. He's a man who always takes out managerial insurance.

When Steinbrenner first saw major-league managerial potential in Michael, he sent him to the Yankees' Columbus farm club in the International League to sharpen his skills, so that Michael was ready to take over for Housser. Not coincidentally, Altobelli inherited Michael's job as Columbus manager last year, then was brought in as one of the Yankees' coaches this year so he'd be available to move up if needed.

King has been with the club on and off for several years as a general trouble shooter serving in the capacity of pitching instructor, scout and consultant. He began the present season as the Yankees' No. 1 pitching instructor in their farm system and replaced Stan Williams as the Yankees' pitching coach in June.

Hospital Gets Expansion Support

The Altamonte Springs Board of Commissioners unanimously lent their support to Florida Hospital-Altamonte's expansion project proposal following a presentation of the proposal by hospital officials.

According to Mardian Blair, hospital president, the hospital is taking steps "toward making the Altamonte Florida Hospital a full-service, tertiary care center."

The expansion calls for the addition of a radiation therapy facility to treat cancer patients not available otherwise to Seminole County residents, Blair said.

Hospital officials expressed their concern over the volume of Seminole County residents who travel to Orange County for care.

"To be able to provide a full-service care center relies on the hospital's ability to add beds," City Manager Jeff Etchberger said.

Etchberger also stated that at a meeting of the Health Systems Agency of East Central Florida (HSA-ECF) to be held today at 7 p.m. at Lyman High School, three applications for building or expanding hospital facilities in the county will be discussed.

Jim Ryan, a representative of the Hospital Corporation of America, stated his company is requesting approval from the HSA-ECF to build a 150-bed facility in Seminole County.

"If the 150 beds are granted to the Hospital Corporation of America, it could preclude action by Florida Hospital to add beds," Etchberger said.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Police Searching For Missing 11-Year-Old

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Police are searching today for an 11-year-old Fort Lauderdale girl missing since Monday night, when she was seen near a rockpit climbing into a stranger's car.

Witnesses who were swimming with Christine Anderson at the rockpit said the car was an older model with a black top and blue body and out of state license plates.

Her mother, Karen Feinberg, 35, reported her disappearance Tuesday morning after the girl had been gone all night, police Sgt. Frank Shuler said.

The missing 11-year-old is described as 4-feet-10, 80 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes. She was wearing a two-piece red, green and blue bathing suit.

Fort Lauderdale police are appealing to the public for leads. "The time lapse and time frame leaves a very hard concern for her safety," Shuler said.

Education Colleges Fail

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — A House higher education subcommittee expressed alarm at the report showing 12 of 26 education colleges failed to have at least 80 percent of their students pass last April's teacher certification exam.

A new state law requires that colleges or universities with teacher education programs have a passing rate of 80 percent or better for their graduates in order to retain their own certification after next July 1.

"I think we've highlighted a serious problem," said the subcommittee chairman, Sam Bell, D-Ormond Beach.

"What we see here are a substantial number of colleges, based on this one exam, that are not meeting the standard. The first thing we've got to know is what's been going on. We ought to know why."

Boy Shot By Father

MIAMI (UPI) — A boy remained in critical condition today with a head wound police say was inflicted when a gunshot fired in anger by his father slammed through a wall into a room where the youngster was asleep.

Roberto Martinez, 12, was shot on the right side of his head Tuesday after his father, Humberto Martinez, fired a gun through a bedroom wall into a room where the youngster was sleeping, police spokesman Jack Sullivan said.

"The father had been in a heated argument with his wife and had fired several shots at the wall," Sullivan said.

The youngster underwent three hours of surgery and may have suffered brain damage from the shooting, hospital officials said.

In another shooting of a young boy, 6-year-old Donnell Robinson of Hialeah, who was shot in the head in January by a bullet that missed its intended target, is dead.

The boy's mother was walking Donnell home from school Jan. 23, when she heard a shot and saw Donnell fall to the ground.

A 15-year-old is awaiting trial in the case.

Amusement Park OK'd

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Miami received the go-ahead Tuesday from the Cabinet to build a giant amusement park designed to bolster Dade County's sagging tourism industry.

The Cabinet agreed finally on a split vote to issue a development order for the $55 million project, but only if Miami officials comply with several stipulations, including making necessary improvements to the causeway connecting the island to the Miami mainland and to U.S. 1 and Interstate 95.

Cubans Investigated

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. Attorney Atlee Wampler III says an anti-Castro group planning a peaceful invasion of the U.S. Naval base on Guantanamo Bay is being investigated for conspiracy and fraud.

Wampler said Cubans United is being investigated for "conspiracy to enter a (restricted military area) and to interfere with a policy of the United States, fraud committed in gathering of funds (for the mission) and solicitation of funds for the venture."

Cubans United has been planning for weeks to put as many as 3,000 exiles ashore at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay to establish a "free Cuban government on Cuban soil."

Projects Jeopardized

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — About $300 million in road and bridge projects will have to be scuttled unless the state steps in to fill the void created by federal budget cutbacks, according to Transportation Secretary Jake Varn.

Varn told the House Transportation Committee Tuesday because most revenues from auto tag fees now go for roads, the state will be able to completely fund this decade all the Interstate Highway projects in the development stage except for South Florida's Alligator Alley.

But he said the federal cutbacks will hurt further Interstate extensions and other needed road and bridge projects.

Cook Of The Week: Karen Wallace

'Gourmet Cooking Is Really The Art Of Eating Well'

By LOIS SMITH
Herald Correspondent

Karen Wallace had often wondered just what was involved in becoming a gourmet cook. This year she decided to stop wondering and start investigating.

Her investigation led her to Forest City and the gourmet cooking classes of Mimi Hartman.

Mrs. Hartman has a Bachelor of Science degree in food and nutrition and is a member of the International Association of Cooking Schools.

Karen and her husband, Al, live with their two daughters, Tiffany, 10, and Allison, 7, at 203 Crystal View Drive in Sanford. Al is an insurance agent with the Boyd-Wallace Insurance Agency and Karen is a cosmetologist with the Hair-A-Rangers Beauty Salon.

"I have always enjoyed cooking," said Karen, "and the idea of being able to prepare gourmet dishes and meals intrigued me.

"Gourmet cooking is really the art of eating well. You choose the most beautiful, young, pure and best flavored foods to prepare," she said.

"Personal taste also plays an important role in gourmet cooking. What one person considers gourmet, another may not," Karen explained. "When cooking gourmet, you are dealing with a delicate blending of flavors. Your own taste preference naturally determines whether or not you will enjoy any dish."

According to Karen, the basis of gourmet cooking is a knowledge of stocks and sauces. "You use stocks and sauces as the basis for almost all recipes. I try to keep a supply of brown, chicken and fish stock on hand in the freezer," Karen said. "From the stocks you create your sauces such as Bechamel which is a white sauce derivative.

"There are certain kitchen tools I feel are necessary to gourmet cooking," said Karen. "Since gourmet meals can take as much as an entire day to prepare, I feel a food processor is a must. Also, stainless steel mixing bowls and pots and pans are essential. Other types of cookware can affect flavor."

One of her favorite meals to serve is loin of pork with dill. "This is served on a bed of steamed broccoli, cauliflower, turnips and brussels sprouts," said Karen. "I usually accompany this with a crab souffle mushroom caps appetizer, apple bread and Baked Alaska for dessert."

When asked if she would share those recipes with us, Karen laughed and said, "no."

"Most of my recipes are done to my own taste," said Karen. "They are the result of experimentation and the cooks' discretion. I will share a fish stock and poached fish recipe though," she said.

Additionally, Karen provides some of the family's favorite dishes, which aren't necessarily gourmet, she grinned.

FISH STOCK
1 1/2 pounds fish heads
1/2 large or 1 medium onion
juice of 1/2 lemon

Karen Wallace, intrigued with gourmet cooking, "attended classes to learn this art. But don't expect Karen to share the recipes she has developed to her "own taste."

1 quart water
1/4 cup dry white wine
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 sprigs parsley
3 peppercorns

Place all ingredients in stainless steel stock pot. Heat to slow bubble and cook, covered, on low 45 minutes. Skim off froth as it rises. Strain thoroughly through sieve lined with cheesecloth.

POACHED FISH

1 1/2 pounds fresh fish fillets (King Mackerel, Grouper, etc.)
8 ounces scallops
1 1/2 pints fish stock
juice of 1/2 lemon
4 green onions, chopped—
1 green pepper—
4 ounces sliced mushrooms—

garnish for fish

3 tablespoons butter—
1 recipe sauce for fish
Place fillets in large skillet without overlapping. Pour stock over fish. Place on medium-high heat and bring to gentle simmer. Poaching time varies with thickness of fillets — should flake when done. Add scallops last 2 minutes. Remove fish and scallops from pan, reserving liquid. Place in lightly buttered baking dish. Garnish tops of fillets with sauteed onions, peppers and mushrooms. Prepare sauce.

SAUCE

5 tablespoons butter
5 tablespoons WondraFlour
2 1/4 cups fish stock (reserved liquid)
one-third cup heavy cream, room temperature
salt and pepper to taste
Melt butter in pan, whisk in flour and cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Whisk in fish stock slowly. Simmer until thickened, continue cooking 1 minute. Remove from heat; pour in heavy cream slowly. Salt and pepper to taste. Pour sauce over fish and scallops mixture and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Use lemon slices to garnish.

MARINATED ROUND STEAK

1 1/2 pounds round steak, cut into thin strips
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons sherry
1 tablespoon sugar
dash of ginger
1 clove garlic
2 bell peppers
3 whole, fresh tomatoes
2 tablespoons salad oil
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Marinate round steak strips in first 5 ingredients for 15 minutes. Stir fry meat in oil 5 minutes, add vegetables and continue to fry 2 more minutes. Remove from pan. Add remaining marinade to pan and heat through. Make a roux of cornstarch and water and add to pan until juices thicken. Pour over meat and vegetable mixture. Serve with rice.

SQUASH CASSEROLE

1/2 spaghetti squash (cut in half lengthwise)
3-4 yellow squash (cut in 1/2" slices)
3-4 spring onions, green tops included (chopped)
1 recipe medium white sauce (below)
1/2 cup sour cream
heavy dash nutmeg
salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons butter
Turn spaghetti squash upside down in baking dish and bake in oven 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes or bake in microwave on high 12 to 15 minutes or until tender. Sauté yellow squash and spring onions in butter till tender. Prepare white sauce and add sour cream, nutmeg, salt and pepper. Scrape spaghetti squash from shell with a fork. Add yellow squash and onions and toss lightly — turn into casserole dish. Pour sauce over squash mixture and bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or till heated thru.

MEDIUM WHITE SAUCE

Melt 1 1/2 tablespoons butter and add 1 1/2 tablespoons Wondra

Flour — whisk together on medium high heat for 1 minute. Don't allow to brown. Whisk in 1 cup milk gently and slowly and bring sauce to simmer. Simmer 2 minutes then add other ingredients.

Cash-Hungry Bride Ignores Sentiment

DEAR ABBY: A sister I see infrequently is getting married soon. She let it be known through the family grapevine that she would prefer cash instead of a wedding gift. (Her reason is that her husband-to-be is a hotel manager; they will be living in the hotel and don't "need" anything.)

I wrote and explained that I knew her preference, but over the years I personally have derived much pleasure remembering the givers each time I used their wedding gifts. I told her that I wanted to give her something special that she would know came from me. I then offered her a couple of choices of items I had in mind to send her.

She wrote back: "About the wedding gift. Thanks just the same, but I think I'll pass."

Collins-Cleveland Wedding Ceremony

Mrs. Eloise Collins and J.S. "Red" Cleveland, both of Sanford, were married Aug. 26, at the Halifax Club, Daytona Beach.

The Honorable Robert Durden performed the double ring ceremony.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Tony Ruasi of Sanford and Winter Park.

The couple will make their home in Sanford where the bride is in the florist business and the bridegroom is director of aviation for Sanford Airport Authority.

Dear Abby

What should I do? Send her money, nothing, or what? The little cash I could send her would be lost in the bill-paying of her expensive wedding. Sign me . . .

SENTIMENTAL.

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: She said, "I'll pass." So pass her.

DEAR ABBY: I had chosen to ignore the letter written to you by the Rev. Father Andrew L. James, who classifies all priests as "Father," all ministers as "Mister," and suggests the term "Mother" for all what he calls "the new Protestant Episcopal priestesses." One of our parishioners, however, was so disturbed by this stance that he cut out the column and asked me to make a reply.

While some Protestant churches do call their ministers "Mister," the Lutheran tradition has been to use the term "Pastor." This has not been affected by the fact that in 1970 our Lutheran Church in America along with the American Lutheran Church voted in national conventions to ordain women. This action took place several years after many other Protestant bodies had voted to include women in their ministerial rolls. Father James must be living in a time warp in Athens, Ohio, not realizing what his Christian sisters and brothers have been up to.

However, instead of fighting over trivialities, Christians should be loving one another. We worship the same God, and I am firmly convinced that our God can call anyone He wants to, whether it be a man such as Father James or a woman such as I, with a husband and three children. If we spend more time doing the loving thing rather than trying to impose our own "thou shalt nots" on others, think of the impact the Church of Jesus Christ could have on a hurting world!

I forgive you, Father James, for not loving me and not accepting me as another champion of the Gospel. Let us love one another. After all, that's what this whole thing is all about.

THE REV. EDITH B. ROBERTS,
EASTON, PA.

U.S. Senate Dining Room Famous For Hearty Soup

The U.S. Senate dining room is famous for its navy bean soup.

This is a hearty soup made with Michigan navy beans, ham hocks and seasonings. A variation of the Senate bean soup includes tomatoes, potato flakes and spinach.

NAVY BEAN SOUP

- 1 pound (2 cups) Michigan dry, edible navy beans
- 6 cups water
- 1 pound ham hocks
- 2 cups water
- 1 bay leaf
- 4 peppercorns
- 3 whole cloves
- 1 cup coarsely, chopped fresh spinach
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- two-thirds cup mashed potato flakes

- 1 can (28-ounces) whole tomatoes
  - 2 cloves garlic, minced
  - 1 teaspoon basil
  - 1 teaspoon oregano
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- Place navy beans in a large soup pot with 6 cups water. Bring to a boil. Boil 2 minutes; remove from heat. Allow to stand 1 hour.

Add ham hocks, 2 cups water and bouquet garni made from bay leaf, peppercorns and cloves. Simmer over medium heat 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until beans are tender. Stir in spinach, onion, potato flakes, tomatoes, garlic, basil, oregano, salt and pepper. Continue to simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Remove ham hock and bouquet garni. Trim meat from ham hocks, dice and return to soup. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 3 1/2 quarts.

You're Invited

'Dessert Only'

A new and friendly way of having guests in without serving expensive meals is to invite them for dessert.

A spiced yogurt pound cake is perfect to serve with coffee or tea and lots of conversation. You may want to add ice cream if your budget permits.

Extending an invitation for "dessert only" is an informal way to entertain, but be sure to specify to your guests the time they are expected.

SPICED YOGURT POUND CAKE

- 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour (unsifted)
- 1 1/2 teaspoons apple pie spice
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup plain yogurt

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a medium bowl, combine flour, apple pie spice, baking soda and salt; set aside.

Spiced yogurt cake makes an attractive centerpiece for easy entertaining.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer, beat butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in flour mixture alternately with yogurt. Stir just until blended.

Pour into greased and floured 10-inch (12 cup) bundt or tube pan. Bake until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 1 hour. Cool in pan on wire rack for 10 minutes. Remove cake from pan; cool completely.

Spoon about half of the Spiced Yogurt Frosting (below) over the cake. Serve remainder over sliced cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 10-inch tube cake.

Spiced Yogurt Frosting:

In a small bowl, combine 1 cup plain yogurt, 1/2 cup firmly-packed brown sugar and 1/2 teaspoon apple pie spice. Stir until all of the sugar is dissolved.

Flapjacks To Crepes

Pancakes A Favorite Around The Clock

Morning to night. Simple to elegant. With a flip of the spatula, pancakes make exciting meals morning, noon and evening.

Traditionally an American favorite at the breakfast table, the pancake enjoys popularity in other cultures at all meals. The Mexican tortilla is probably the closest to the original pancake: a simple pounded meal and water mixture. In Russia, it is the blintze, a folded pancake filled with cheese or fruit. And leave it to the French to create the elegant pancake, call it a crepe and wrap it around delicious fillings.

The history of the pancake goes back centuries, predating leavened bread. It is thought the earliest pancakes were baked on stones outdoors.

Today, pancakes can be fried on the griddle, swirled in a crepe pan or baked in the oven. Whether they are covered with syrup, wrapped around fillings or smothered with sauce and cheese, pancakes have become an around-the-clock favorite.

HOMEMADE PANCAKE SYRUP

1 1/2 cups packed brown sugar
 3/4 cup water
 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
 Dash of salt
 1/2 teaspoon maple flavoring
 Mix brown sugar, water, margarine and salt in 1-quart saucepan. Heat to boiling over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in maple flavoring. Serve warm. 1 3/4 cups syrup.

PANCAKES

2 cups biscuit baking mix
 2 eggs
 1 cup milk

Beat all ingredients with hand beater until smooth. For each pancake, pour scant 1/4 cup batter onto hot griddle. (Grease griddle if necessary.) Cook until pancakes are dry around edges. Turn; cook other sides until golden brown. About 13 pancakes.

Thinner Pancakes: Use 1 egg and 1 1/2 cups milk.

Smile Pancakes: Reserve 1/4 cup of the batter. Stir 1 teaspoon maple-flavored syrup into reserved batter. Drizzle maple-flavored batter from teaspoon onto griddle to form eyes and mouth. ### CHICKEN ENCHILADAS

Tortillas (below)
 1 cup cut-up cooked chicken
 1/2 cup chopped ripe olives
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
 1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce
 1/2 cup water
 1 to 2 teaspoons chili powder
 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare Tortillas. Mix chicken, olives, onion and 1/2 cup cheese; reserve. Cook and stir garlic in oil over low heat until tender. Stir in tomato sauce, water and chili powder; heat through. Place 2 rounded tablespoonfuls chicken mixture in center of each tortilla. Roll up; place rolls, seam sides down, in ungreased rectangular baking dish, 12 x 7 1/2 x 2 inches. Spoon remaining chicken mixture over rolled tortillas. Pour hot tomato sauce over tortillas; sprinkle with 1/2 cup cheese. Bake until hot, 15 to 20 minutes. 4 servings.

Tortillas: Mix 1 cup Bisquick baking mix and 1/4 cup cold water in small bowl. Turn dough onto lightly floured board. Knead 1 minute. Shape dough into 8 balls. Roll each ball into 5-inch circle on board dusted with cornmeal. Cook on ungreased griddle until light brown. Turn and cook other sides until light brown. Stack tortillas, covering with damp towel to keep them soft.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Use boiling water to make tortillas.

MAPLE-TOPPED OVEN PANCAKE

1/2 cup packed brown sugar
 1/2 cup margarine or butter
 1/2 cup maple-flavored syrup
 1 1/2 cups biscuit baking mix
 2 eggs
 1 cup milk
 1/4 cup packed brown sugar

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Heat 1/2 cup brown sugar, the margarine and syrup in 1-quart saucepan over low heat until melted. Pour into ungreased rectangular pan, 13 x 9 x 2 inches. Beat remaining ingredients until smooth. Carefully pour batter over syrup mixture. Bake until top springs back when touched lightly in center, 30 to 35 minutes. Cut into about 3-inch squares; invert on serving plates 12 servings.

OVEN SKILLET PANCAKE

1 1/3 cup water
 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
 1/2 cup Biscuit baking mix
 2 eggs
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1 can (21 ounces) peach pie filling

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Generously grease 10-inch oven-proof skillet. Heat water and margarine to boiling in 1-quart saucepan. Add baking mix, all at once. Stir vigorously over low heat until mixture forms a ball, about 1 1/2 minutes; remove from heat. Beat in eggs, 1 at a time; continue beating until smooth. Spread in skillet (do not spread up side). Bake until puffed and dry in center, 20 to 25 minutes. Mix sugar and cinnamon. Immediately after baking, spread pie filling over pancake, sprinkle with sugar-cinnamon mixture. Cut into wedges. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

CREPES

1 cup Biscuit baking mix
 2 eggs
 3/4 cup milk

Lightly grease 6- or 7-inch skillet; heat until hot. Beat all ingredients with hand beater until smooth. For each crepe, pour 2 tablespoons batter into skillet; rotate skillet until batter covers bottom. Cook until golden brown. Gently loosen edge with metal spatula; turn and cook other side until golden brown. Stack crepes, placing paper towel between each. About 12 crepes.

VEGETABLE-CHEESE CREPES

Crepes (above)
 1 medium onion, sliced

1/4 cup margarine or butter
 2 cups sliced zucchini
 1 cup sliced mushrooms
 1 teaspoon salt
 3/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 1 cup chopped tomato
 3 cups shredded Cheddar or Swiss cheese (about 12 ounces)
 1/2 cup alfalfa sprouts

Prepare Crepes; keep covered to prevent them from drying out. Cook and stir onion in margarine until tender, stir in zucchini, mushrooms, salt and garlic powder. Cook uncovered over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until zucchini is tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato and 2 cups of the cheese. Spoon 1-3 cup of the vegetable mixture onto each crepe; roll up. Place in ungreased rectangular baking dish, 13 x 9 x 2 inches. Sprinkle with remaining cheese.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Bake until cheese is melted, about 20 minutes. Sprinkle with alfalfa sprouts. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Chicken Enchiladas, left, and Vegetable-Cheese Crepes are two entree ideas using a variation of popular pancakes, a favorite morning, noon or night.

Peanut Butter Is Well Worth The Investment

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD
 Peanut butter may rank second only to mom's apple pie as an all-American favorite.

This country has been suffering through a peanut shortage brought on by last year's bad weather. The price of peanut butter has jumped 80 percent in the past 12 months.

Whether or not peanut prices remain high depends largely on weather conditions in the leading peanut-producing states of Georgia, Texas and Alabama.

Still, peanuts and peanut butter remain a relatively inexpensive source of protein in comparison with steak or shrimp.

(Peanuts and other nuts belong to the meat group, which also includes beef, lamb, pork, poultry, eggs, fish and shellfish.)

Marilyn Hubert, home economist for the Peanut Advisory Board, notes that peanut butter is still well worth the investment.

She points out that 2 tablespoons of peanut butter — plenty for a sandwich — cost from 13 cents to 15 cents.

A slice of processed American cheese costs about 12.5 cents per serving. And most people would need two slices for a sandwich.

The least expensive bologna costs about 14 cents per slice. Again, one slice of bologna would make a pretty skinny sandwich.

In addition, peanut butter contains far less cholesterol than comparable amounts of cheese or bologna.

Now that you have a microwave oven you're anxious to start cooking, but you remember the salesman saying something about no metal can be used in the microwave. You also recall hearing how easy clean-ups are by using paper plates as cooking utensils.

Both statements are true. You also probably have several different kinds of cookware and utensils that can be used. Glass, glass ceramic, plastic, clay, some earthenware and china can be used in the microwave oven. Some pieces you may check to see if they are microwave safe.

Many manufacturers now label their cookware and china if it can be used in the microwave oven. That helps solve the problem.

There is also a simple test you can do yourself to determine if a favorite piece is micro-safe. Place a heat resistant glass measuring cup filled with water and the container or plate in question in the microwave oven. Set the power setting for 100 percent power for one minute. After the one minute, check the water and the empty container. The water should be hot and the questionable container should not be hot or warm, proving that the container does not absorb microwaves; therefore, it is microwave safe.

Many mixing and measuring utensils can now be used for cooking. Your 1, 2, and 4 cup measuring cups are great for microwaving sauces and puddings or pie filling. Your favorite platter for serving can be the cooking utensil. Straw, wicker, and bamboo can be used for short cooking times. Paper plates are good for reheating or quick cooking.

Aluminum foil does have a use as a shield when cooking poultry, uneven cuts of meats or when you must use a square cornered container.

Since the microwave oven cooks without generating heat itself (only the hot foods gives off heat) your kitchen remains much cooler than if you cooked with conventional methods. This gives you the option to prepare more hot foods during our hot Florida Summers.

For your next patio party or barbecue try one of these hot dips for chips, crackers or raw vegetables:

HOT APPETIZER PIE

- 1 8 oz. cream cheese

- 2 tbsp. milk
 1 2-1/2 oz. jar dried beef (cut fine)
 2 Tbsp. finely chopped green pepper
 1/2 tsp. pepper
 2 Tbsp. finely chopped onion
 1/2 cup sour cream
 1/4 cup chopped walnuts

Soften cream cheese and blend with milk. Mix other ingredients with this, except nuts. Pat into 8" M-W safe pie plate. Spread nuts on top M-W 50 percent power 2 minutes. Serve hot with crackers.

MEXICAN BEAN DIP

- 1 can (1-lb.) refried beans
 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
 1/2 cup thinly sliced green onions
 2 Tbsp. taco sauce or green chile salsa
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Dash each ground cumin and coriander
- In a 1-qt. serving dish or pottery casserole, mix together the beans, cheese, onions, salt, cumin, taco sauce and coriander. Cook, covered stirring several times, until mixture is hot and bubbly and cheese is melted. Serve with tortilla chips or corn chips. Makes about 2 1/2 cups (about 12 appetizer servings.)

Let A Little Meat Go A Long Way

Pollo, poulet, de volaille, poularde, adina, kotepoulo. Order any of these from a menu and you'll get the same thing: chicken. Combine that with arroz, riz, risotto, pilaf... rice. An unbeatable combination!

It's not really surprising that chicken is a favorite around the world. It can be baked, boiled, steamed, fried. And goes well with curry, saffron, basil, oregano, mint, chili, cinnamon. Whatever the local popular seasoning, it seems tailor-made to flavor chicken.

And these same flavors also go well with rice. What's more, rice takes already economical chicken and stretches it into even more servings, say the Rice Council home economists. While it's easy to figure serving costs for meat or poultry, rice requires a bit different approach. Here the magic number is 14 (since you get 14 half-cup servings from a pound of regular-milled white rice). Take the cost you paid for that pound of rice and divide by 14. You'll come up with a cost of about 4 cents per serving. If it is parboiled rice you're using, divide the cost by 18.

Foreign "gourmet" recipes with rice and chicken take on new meaning these days when meals need to be budget oriented and yet have a touch of glamour and eye appeal.

Dinner for the whole family (six to eight servings) can be produced from five hot dogs, as magically as a rabbit from a hat... if you know the secret. And that's where rice comes into the act.

The way to make a little meat go a long way is to combine it with inexpensive proteins (from plants rather than animals), suggests Rice Council home economists.

Here, rice and beans, which make a good protein combination all by themselves, are added to sliced hot dogs and some grated cheese.

Seasoned with pickle relish, onions and mustard (just what you'd put on a hot dog anyway), this Rice Council recipe for Frank 'N' Bake tastes so good it doesn't even seem like a low-budget dish.

Rice and beans, with a little meat plus appropriate seasonings, work like magic to stretch the dollar. And, if you don't have any meat at all, try Beans and Rice Mexicano, also developed by the Rice Council home economists. Same good nutrition, great taste... and a money-saving menu item as well.

- CHICKEN RICE LAHALA
- 1 cup diagonally sliced celery, cut 1/4 inch thick
  - 1 cup chopped onions
  - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
  - 1 can (10-1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
  - 1 can (8 ounces) pineapple chunks (drain; reserve juice), and cut in half
  - 2 1/2 cups boned cooked chicken, cut in bite-size pieces
  - 4 teaspoons lemon juice
  - 1/2 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard
  - 1 teaspoon ground ginger
  - 1 1/2 tablespoons soy sauce

Kids Learn At Home On The Range

PART 3 IN A SERIES

NOTE TO PARENTS: Now, having read the previous two articles in this "Kids At Home On The Range" series, you are excited by the prospect of sharing kitchen experiences with your own children. You know that cooking can enrich family relationships, enhance a child's creativity and self-esteem, and help boys and girls develop valuable life skills.

Home economists at the Kraft Kitchens have developed the two recipes below to share making together. They are built around inexpensive, dishes children enjoy. Two more recipes will be suggested in later articles in this series.

The recipe steps are broken down to make organizing easier. Some steps like measuring water, can be handled even by a young child. Other steps may take adult-child cooperation, and others may require the adult to complete the task alone for safety reasons. As your child gains more experience, he can do more steps himself or with adult cooperation.

SCOUT SUPPER

- Shop together for your ingredients the day before. You will need: 1 package (7 1/2 oz.) macaroni and cheese dinner, 1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes, 6 frankfurters, 1 medium onion, milk margarine, pickle relish, and prepared mustard.
- Measure 6 cups water into a large pan. Add 1 teaspoon salt.
- Heat water to boiling. Add macaroni from box. Stir rapidly, stirring occasionally, 7 to 10 minutes or to desired tenderness.
- Cut 6 frankfurters into diagonal slices. Chop 1 medium onion (makes about 1/2 cup).
- Drain water from macaroni in a colander as soon as it is done; return macaroni to pan.
- Add the following to the macaroni: 1/4 cup margarine, 1/4 cup milk, and the cheese sauce mix from the box. Mix well.
- Then add these ingredients: the 16 oz. can of tomatoes (with the liquid), the sliced frankfurters, the chopped onion, 2 more tablespoons margarine, 2 tablespoons pickle relish, and 1 tablespoon prepared mustard. Mix well.
- Cover and heat thoroughly, stirring occasionally.
- Serve as a lunch or supper main dish. Makes 6 main dish servings.

PICNIC MACARONI SALAD

- Shop together for your ingredients the day before. You will need: 1 package (7 1/2 oz.) macaroni and cheese dinner, Miracle Whip salad dressing, pickles to chop, 1 small onion, 8 slices bacon, 1 tomato, milk, and margarine.
- Cook 8 slices bacon until crisp. Drain and crumble.
- Prepare 1/2 cup chopped pickle. Chop 1 small onion (makes about 1/4 cup).
- Measure 6 cups water into a large pan. Add 1 teaspoon salt.
- Heat water to boiling. Add macaroni from box. Boil rapidly, stirring occasionally, 7 to 10 minutes or to desired tenderness.
- Meanwhile, chop 1 tomato.
- Drain water from macaroni in a colander as soon as it is done; return macaroni to pan.
- Add the following to the macaroni: 1/4 cup margarine, 1/4 cup milk, and the cheese sauce mix from the box. Mix well.
- Then add the crumbled bacon, the chopped pickle, the chopped onion, the chopped tomato, and 1/2 cup salad dressing. Press mixture into six 5-ounce custard cups. Chill.
- Just before serving, unroll salads onto plates. If you wish, you can garnish each serving with more pickle and tomato, both sliced. Or unroll salads onto lettuce leaves. Makes 6 servings.

Medfly No Problem For Consumers

This summer's supplies of fresh produce has been abundant, thanks to good growing conditions throughout most of the county, but a persistent little fly is causing a lot of concern. Although many growers are worried about the potential spread of the Mediterranean Fruit Fly, consumers have little to fear.

No significant reduction in supplies of quality fresh produce items is expected, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

However, the battle against the medfly—a very destructive pest—has raised some questions for consumers, especially with all the publicity about this prolific insect.

Q. Will I find a medfly in my fruit (or vegetable)?
A. No. Infested produce is not being shipped. All shipments must be certified free of infestation.

Q. Will there be any shortages of fresh fruits and vegetables?
A. Not likely. The affected growing areas include far less than 1 percent of the total for fresh and processed produce. This should have little effect on fresh supplies. While California's San Joaquin Valley is a major producer of fruits and vegetables, only a tiny amount of produce—much of it for processing—is involved at this time. In addition, supplies of fresh produce from other producing areas throughout the country are good or better than average.

Q. Will prices go up?
A. Historically, prices remain reasonable when supplies are adequate. So far this season, and on the basis of all known projections, supplies will be at least adequate, probably abundant.

Q. How should I handle fresh produce I buy in the supermarket?
A. Just like you always handle it. Handle it as you would produce from your own fruit trees or garden. Food items that contain harmful residues or substances cannot be shipped in interstate commerce. Malathion, the pesticide being used in the medfly eradication program, is considered to be one of the safest on the market and has been widely used for a number of years by consumers in the home and by public health officials.

Q. What is the "bottom line"? Can I buy and eat fresh fruits and vegetables with confidence?
A. Of course. Supplies and quality are good. Believe your own experienced eye as you buy. If it looks and feels good, it ought to be good. Look for the freshest of the fresh. Select produce that is of characteristic color, shape and size for the commodity. These are good guides for choosing quality produce.

Q. Then why is the medfly a problem?
A. Once infested, fruits and vegetables spoil rapidly and become unmarketable.

Everybody is understandably concerned about controlling a potentially destructive pest. Fortunately, control measures, which are known and proven, are available and are being applied.

Combine Turkey Harvest Bounty with whole grain bread and get ready for a wholesome, satisfying supper.

'New-Old' Clay Pot Cookery

Have you been curious about the "new-old" clay pot cookery method? The old principle of wrapping meat in wet clay to be cooked on the hot coals has been replaced with a new updated clay pot.

Why does the clay pot cook so successfully? Before placing any ingredients in the pot, the top and bottom are soaked in water for 10 to 15 minutes. In the oven, the pot slowly releases the moisture in the form of steam.

This results in a pot that doesn't have to be watched, cooks quickly, makes meat extremely tender, requires no added fats or oils and does a superb job of blending flavors during the cooking process.

Whether you are cooking for the harvest hands in the fields or anxious to draw the fragrance and flavors of fall into your city kitchen, this combination of turkey and vegetables in a clay pot will do the job.

From the abundance of fresh turkey parts we are seeing in the fresh meat counter of the supermarkets each day, this tasty recipe calls for turkey wings and thighs. As you have no doubt heard, turkey has not only been on the list of plentiful and best buy foods this year, but it provides the high protein, low calories and cholesterol requirements that discerning meal planners are looking for.

TURKEY HARVEST BOUNTY

- 8 medium potatoes, unpeeled, washed and halved
- 8 small boiling onions, or 2 large onions, sliced

- 6 medium carrots, cut in 2-inch pieces
- 3 stalks celery, sliced
- 1/4 pound sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 cup green peas
- 4 turkey wings & 2 turkey thighs (about 4 lbs.)
- 1 tablespoon fresh chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1 cup white wine (turkey or chicken broth may be substituted)

1 tablespoon flour (optional)

Soak clay cooker in water according to manufacturer's directions. Prepare vegetables and place in clay cooker. Arrange turkey wings and thighs on top of vegetables. Sprinkle parsley, pepper, salt and thyme over turkey parts. Add white wine. Cover and place in center of cold oven. Don't preheat. Turn oven temperature to 425 degrees F. and bake for 60 minutes. Remove lid and bake for an additional 10-15 minutes for a final browning. Accumulated liquid can be poured off and thickened with flour, if desired, before serving. Makes 6-8 servings.

If you do not have a clay pot, place turkey wings and thigh in a dutch oven with wine, spices and an additional 1 cup water. Simmer over low heat for 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Add vegetables and cook for an additional 30 minutes.

Pocket Bread

Make Ahead Food That's Fun To Serve

Friends are back after summer vacations, and fall activities are starting up. Everyone is eager to get together to catch up on the news, and you have offered to provide the place and the food. Now you need an idea for hassle-free food that will let you enjoy the time together as much as your guests.

You'll come off with flying colors if you base your menu on one great idea—like homemade pocket bread plus a variety of easy fillings that will satisfy everyone from vegetarians to the heartiest eaters.

Pocket bread is a cinch to make this speedy new way using refrigerated flaky biscuits. Follow the directions below for tender, good tasting breads that will have a pocket every time. You can bake them a day ahead and reheat just before serving, or they can be frozen.

Include one out-of-the-ordinary sandwich filling along with familiar favorites like ham, cheese and egg salad. Mediterranean Vegetables is a spicy mixture of garden-fresh zucchini, tomatoes and onions, served warm. If you chop the vegetables and measure the seasonings early in the day, it will take only five or six minutes to heat before serving.

The rest of the fillings need little, if any, preparation. They can even be arranged in serving dishes early in the day, covered with plastic wrap and refrigerated.

Quantities for fillings for 10 good-sized pocket breads allow your guests to be as creative as they like in assembling their own sandwiches.

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Grease 2 cookie sheets. Separate 2 (10-oz.) cans refrigerated flaky biscuits into 20 biscuits. On waxed paper, press out biscuit with palm of hand to form a 5-inch circle (saucer-sized).

Place 5 circles on each cookie sheet. Moisten outer edge of circles with water. Top with remaining circles.

With fork, seal edges firmly. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from cookie sheet. Let cool 5 minutes. With knife, cut along edge, about 1-3 of the way around, to form a pocket. Fill pockets as desired.

Aspic Adds Tang As A Side Dish

Sometimes we get in a rush with our menus and overlook some basic items that add a refreshing change. One such item is aspic, which may be served as a side dish or as a base for molded salads.

Make a quick aspic using gelatin, cocktail vegetable juice and seasonings. To this add chunk white chicken for a tangy main course or side dish. It's attractive enough for a buffet, too.

- #### TANGY CHICKEN IN ASPIC
- 2 packages (3 ounces each) lemon-flavored gelatin
  - 1 cup boiling water
  - 1 can (24 ounces) Cocktail vegetable juice
  - 2 tablespoons vinegar
  - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire
  - 2 cans (5 ounces each) chunk white chicken
  - 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- In a large bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in juice, vinegar and Worcestershire. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in chicken and green pepper. Pour into 5-cup mold. Chill until firm. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 5 cups, 4 servings.

Spastic Colon Can Be Trained

DEAR DR. LAMB — I saw your column about spastic colon in our paper. I have coped with a spastic colon for years and am still searching for a cure. My emotional state is stable, but it appears to have a direct influence on my bowel condition.

I tend to have constipation for three days and then when I have a movement it is loose. I am a college student with academic pressures. I think my colon trouble is a response to internal tension rather than ... having nervous shaking.

Could you send me your Health Letter on the spastic colon? I know my horrendous eating habits are the root of the problem, and a concerted effort to improve my bowel training and habit is essential in my situation.

DEAR READER — I am glad you realize that tenon can be a part of the problem. Many people who have a spastic colon do very well except during periods of stress. The colon is very sensitive to our emotions. It blushes and pales and is a better indicator than our faces of our true emotions.

You can train the colon functions to a degree. Our bodies respond to training or regular habits. That is one reason we get hungry at specific times, not because we need food just then. In the same way the rhythmic contractions of the colon can be trained. This is discussed more in The Health Letter number 18-4, Spastic Colon, Irregularly and Constipation, that I am sending in response to your request. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Many people don't realize that a spastic colon can cause loose movements, or what they call diarrhea, as well as hard, dry stools and constipation. Frequently people have both. The spasm that shuts off the colon and stops movements is just another form of overactive muscular contractions that can also cause diarrhea.

Improving your eating habits may help a lot. Coffee and colas that contain caffeine, or tea, are hard on a sensitive colon. Caffeine makes nervous tension worse.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I have been happily married for several years but we have one problem. He falls to believe that I was a virgin when he married me because I didn't bleed when we first had sex. Every time we fight he brings this up.

Is it possible to have sex for the first time without bleeding?

DEAR READER — Yes. Your husband's attitude reminds me of a tribal ritual. It was the custom in the village for the villagers to wait outside the bridal chamber until a bloody cloth was tossed from the window to prove the girl's virginity. When bleeding occurs it is because the hymen membrane tears. Sometimes this is unpleasant and a more enlightened person might wonder if this is the best way to begin one of life's more important relationships. Sex, after all, should be a pleasurable experience for the female as well as the male.

Many active girls rupture the hymen early in life without any sexual experience. Others are born with a rudimentary hymen. In view of all the interest in tampons and toxic shock syndrome, it should also be mentioned that tampons may relax the vagina and result in less difficulty at the beginning of sexual activity. And inserts always pose the opportunity to rupture the hymen.

response to game. In that case East would open a club and North would be one down at the notrump game.

As it was, South held a hundred honors in spades and since the game was rubber bridge he wanted to get that small but nice bonus. Also, his three-spade call did not shut out three notrump. If North went to three notrump, South was willing to let him play there. However, North raised to four spades.

South won the diamond lead in dummy and immediately led a trump to his queen. West let the queen bold without any fanfare, but South did not immediately lead a second diamond to dummy to repeat the trump finesse. If he had done this he would have wound up in the soup. But South simply led his ace of trumps and continued with the jack, keeping the second diamond as an entry for the club finesse.

South's reasoning was twofold. He wanted to guard against both a 5-1 diamond break and the possibility that West had ducked. Furthermore, the ace play might drop the king.

And in all it was both successful and good play.

South might have opened a shaded two notrump in which case North would raise to three and make his nice tricks after a diamond lead. Or he might have raised his partner's notrump

Walter's Enthusiasm Pervades 'Universe'

By DAVID HANDLER
An old newspaper editor never retires. He becomes a columnist. Usually, he arranges to file a couple of pieces per week "just to keep his hand in." The paper's new editor, who owes his position to the oldtimer, dutifully carries them on the opinion page next to Buchwald and Anderson.

ticked by it that you got the feeling the cup meant more to him than all those Emmys.

As a retiree's column, "Universe" is pretty good stuff. As prime time entertainment, it's a tad soft. There are no real scoops here, and if it weren't for Walter's stature most of the stories would have been cut in half.

Take the one he did on electronic simulators for pilots. It went on for more than 10 minutes. He went into the whole history of training simulators from World War II to present. "A simulator is a box with a lot of wires and computers," he explains in that homespun way of his.

Then he went out in the field. First he went to the Netherlands to a training institute for supertanker captains. Then he was off to Houston, where he got to talk to a real Air Force pilot and sit in the cockpit of an F-16 flight simulator. "I'm taking off in an F-16 bomber jet," he gushed to the camera as he manned the controls.

And then he got to sit in the NASA space shuttle simulator with John Young — and see what that was like. To account for all of this traveling and air times Walter cited the "miracle of micro-processing" and the "boom in the simulator industry," but it was obvious that he was simply getting his fun.

That's OK by me. His enthusiasm is so genuine that he can't help but impart a little of it to you, along with some information. Besides, it's such a pleasure to see Uncle Walter having so much fun after all of those years behind a desk. Let him enjoy himself. We should all be so lucky.

Can TV Unsell Drugs To Kids? NBC Plans Noble Experiment

By KENNETH R. CLARK
UPI-TV Reporter
NEW YORK (UPI) — It's well established television can sell soap by the metric ton, but can it unsell drugs in a culture in which some experts claim half the kids are steady users?
NBC intends to find out, and if the noble experiment slated for the week of Sept. 20 fails, it won't be for lack of trying on the part of Hollywood producer Robert Evans and Cathy Lee Crosby of "That Incredibly."
During that week, NBC will saturate prime-time programming with a campaign titled "Get High on Yourself" — a celebrity-studded drive to break pro-drug peer pressure by providing an alternative with more than 50 "drug-free heroes... to spread a new spirit."
It all began last year when Evans, producer of such feature classics as "Love Story," "Chinatown," "The Godfather" and "Urban Cowboy" found himself before a federal judge in New York on charges of cocaine possession. The judge put him on probation and asked, as a condition, he use his talents to "look for a breakthrough" in the battle against drug abuse by children.

Evans became obsessed with the assignment, joined forces with Miss Crosby who long has been concerned with the problem, and together they produced a one-hour special on the subject.
They took it to all three networks and CBS and ABC both agreed to schedule it, but NBC Entertainment President Brandon Tartikoff was so taken by the project he upped the ante.
He not only agreed to do the special, which will air at 8 p.m., EDT, Sept. 20, but also to lead every prime-time show — news, sports and feature — with a public service spot on the subject.
Certainly the spot NBC unveiled for affiliates and the press Wednesday night, is power-packed. Had the roof fallen in when Evans was shooting it in Los Angeles on May 4, Hollywood, the television industry and the world of professional sports all would have been crippled for life.

CATHY LEE CROSBY
 The top stars of all three arenas were there — Bob Hope, Paul Newman, Carol Burnett, John Davidson, Laila Garrett, Andy Gibb, Cheryl Ladd, Henry Winkler, Muhammad Ali, Tracy Austin, Magic Johnson, Ron Guidry, Dorothy Hamill and a score or so more.
They joined a cross section of youngsters — led by an 8-year-old blonde cherub named Jennifer Copenhaver who will be a star hereafter — in the singing of one of the most pervasive jingles in the litanies of Madison Avenue.
Written by Steve Karman, who penned "I Love New York," it throws a challenge to kids Miss Crosby said use drugs because peer pressure is so intense "they have no choice if they want to be cool."

 In the week following the special, NBC will steep its audiences in the tune which proclaims, "You can be somebody with a plan of your own... You can say no and you won't be alone... You can make yourself get higher than you ever have known... Do 'n' things your own way... Settin' up your own style... Bein' yourself."
 The special will be sponsored, but Tartikoff said NBC will spend "close to a million dollars in promotion alone."
 NBC is not committed past the week in question, but Evans said he and Miss Crosby, who have formed a "Get High on Yourself Foundation" to combat drug use, plan additional specials for Christmas, Easter and other holiday schedules.
 Citing the era when polio was the nation's most feared destroyer of youth, he said, "Polio really crippled the body, but drugs cripple the mind."
