Sidewalk Art Festival Set For Weekend

Artists and craftsmen from all over the state, as well as local amateurs and professionals, have expressed interest in the upcoming Sidewalk Art Festival to be sponsored by the Merchants' Association at Seminole Plaza, Casselberry, Friday and Saturday.

Dean Every, festival chairman, has received confirmation for 55 entries thus far and requests for entry blanks are coming in at the rate of 10 to 12 each day — from as far away as Jacksonville and Miami.

There will be three categories in the judging which will take place Saturday beginning at 1 p.m. They include paintings in water colors, paintings in oil or acrylic, and other media such as sculpture, ceramics, and metal work.

First place winners will receive cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded to first, second, third, and honorable mention, in each division. Artists will display their work in the plaza mall, 1-8 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday; and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Sunday.

The art festivals have evolved so much interest from both participants and spectators that Seminole Plaza Merchants plan to hold them periodically throughout the year.

Amateur or professional artists interested in exhibiting are invited to contact Every.

No 'Give' Seen In Strike Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists today accused the five airlines shut down by a strike of overestimating by at least $25 million the cost to them of a settlement proposed by the union.

Joseph W. Ramsey, IAM vice president and chief negotiator for the union, said there was no indication of any "give" in the management's stand at the moment.

Raymond, on returning to the negotiating rooms today, said that the union statistics indicated that the airline estimate of $14 million was at least $5 million too high.

Paving To Start By July 26

Contract has been executed with St. Johns Properties, Inc., calling for work to commence on the paving of streets in Seminole County by July 26 and completed in 100 working days, it was announced at a meeting of the county commission this morning.

The contract was executed by commission chairman J. O. H. Alexander Monday with a bid of $1,000,000 for the development of the industry.

Latest statistics of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce show income for production employment (exclusive of government employment) in the county total $65 million per year giving a purchasing power in excess of $100 million, which is an increase of 30-40 per cent in the last five years.

Contrary to our funding of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce went into the second round Monday and ended in a TKO for the chamber.

Commissioner Joe Baker moved to pay the quarterly appropriation of $225, but the motion died for lack of a second after a long silence, followed by a lengthy discussion.

The report handed to commissioners showed an unpaid balance of $824 in obligations which A. B. Peterson Jr. said had been paid out of members pockets in anticipation of receipt of the quarterly appropriation.

Legal Tift May Evolve

By Harry Lewis
The City of Casselberry Monday night launched a move to change the site of the county court house in an action which could lead to a legal battle to move the county seat from Sanford.

At the recommendation of the Casselberry Planning Board, the city council voted to adopt a resolution urging the county commission choose a new site for the court house.

Julian Stenstrom, planning board secretary, pointed out it may not be possible under the county charter to locate the courthouse outside the corporate limits of the county seat.

"We are not trying to get the county seat moved to Casselberry," Stenstrom said, "but to the center of the county." The city commission concurred with him on this fact.

Hot Wave Leads To Blackouts

By The Associated Press
Hot weather continued today across broad areas in the eastern two-thirds of the nation with no indication of immediate relief.

Temperatures shot into the 100s again Monday from the Great Plains to the southern and central Mississippi Valley as the prolonged heat wave extended more than three weeks in some areas.

Two massive power outages in St. Louis where the heavy struck areas in Nebraska and demand for air conditioning caused interruption of electric power. The mercury soared to a sizzling 106 at St. Louis, the second-highest mark in the city's history.

The Union Electric Company declared an emergency in St. Louis and cut off power to broad areas of the city and its suburbs for up to two hours. Power failures in Nebraska were attributed to a relay failure at South Dakota's big Fort Randall Dam and a burned-out main transformer at a Nebraska power station.

Several areas in Atlanta, Ga. and vicinity were blacked out for a short time Monday when the demand for electricity ran ahead of supply, the Georgia Power Company said.

Heavy thunderstorms broke out in the Northern Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley in the wake of the record-breaking heat in the nation's midsection.

The Weather Bureau said a tornado dipped down east of Pierre, S. D., causing minor damage. The mercury climbed to 110 at Huron, S. D. Monday.

Winds of 50 to 60 m.p.h. swept areas northwest of Minneapolis and St. Paul late Monday night while wind gusts to 60 m.p.h. were clocked at St. Cloud, Minn., and 50 at Huron, S. D. The storms moved into northern Wisconsin during the early morning.

Constitution Revisions Under Attack By Burns

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Gov. Haydon Burns, declaring he wants to keep the power in the Cabinet, said Monday he will oppose several areas of a proposed new constitution for Florida.

Burns told a news conference that he would tell the constitutional revision commission of his concern with several proposals in the recently issued rough draft which he said tended to weaken the Cabinet system.

He also contended it was time for a cabinet committee, which is investigating purchasing, to wind up its probe and make its report and said he had expected Burns would support Democratic gubernatorial nominee Robert King McLean.

Burns discussed the topics during an hour-long news conference after he returned to the Capitol following a visit to California for the shrine convention.

Town Welcomes New Chief

POLICE CHIEF AND MRS. LAWRENCE PHILLIPS North Orlando

By Marilyn Peterson
North Orlando welcomed its new Police Chief last week, Lawrence Phillips, his wife Jo, and Jo's mother, Mrs. Tom, moved into their new home at 65 S. Fairfax Ave. the previous weekend.

Phillips is a native of Ohio but claims Georgia as his home state, having lived there the greater part of his life. About 10 years ago he came to Florida on vacation, and like many others, liked it so well he decided to stay.

A well-experienced law enforcement officer, Phillips served in the Military Police in both the Army and the Navy, during which time he traveled extensively from Japan to Turkey. He has served on the Winter Park and Ocala Police Departments, attended the Orlando Police Academy, studied Criminal Investigation under the 22nd C.I.D., Traffic Accident Investigation and fingerprinting.

Chief Phillips states he hopes these skills will not be put to use in North Orlando, but in any event, he is well prepared and can be reached at any time at 223-1886, or at his home.

Approximately one-fourth of the world's iron reserves lie in the state of Minas Gerais, Brazil, according to estimates.

Postponement Granted In B & E Trial

Trial of Leon E. Pove, 50, of Sanford, charged with breaking and entering after a police lookout snatched him and a companion as they allegedly broke into the Liggett Rexall Drug Store in Pinecrest Shopping Center, was continued in circuit court Monday until the November term.

Pove's companion, Robert Oakley Hayes, about 35, of St. Petersburg (also known as William Spencer Hays and Robert Brandon) was not in court. His trial had previously been set for the fall term of court. The two men will be tried together.

Hayes has been free on bond, but Pove, who has been confined in Seminole County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bond, had his bond reduced to $1,500.

In other cases Monday, Judge Roger F. Dykes ordered presentence investigations for Ronald David Yarger, 17, of Fort Lauderdale, who pleaded guilty to theft of a motorcycle; Anthony Weight, 17, who pleaded guilty to entering a supermarket; and Isaac Montgomery, who pleaded guilty to three charges of unauthorized use of motor vehicles.

On April 29, Montgomery, without permission, borrowed three separate vehicles, wrecking two of them, before being arrested.

Trial of Milton Strickland, charged with assault with intent to kill, and Theodore Dellafield, charged with breaking and entering, were also delayed to the fall term. Continuation was due to incapacity of attorney Gordon Fredericks, who recently suffered a broken hip.

Broader Urban Development Committee Set

Request by Lee Moore, chairman of the Downtown Development Commission, for an appointment of a suggested list of members to the Urban Redevelopment Committee was approved by city commissioners Monday.

In addition to the list presented by Moore, which contained 25 names, the members of the city zoning and planning commission suggested that the names of the other five members of the Urban Redevelopment Commission be added to the list.

Purpose of the committee, as outlined by Moore, is to update and bring to date zoning and planning plans and broad new plans for urban redevelopment of the area, through use of federal money.

Presently the Zoning and Planning Board is working on drawing up a contract with the Urban Redevelopment Commission of America. The corporation is to search out and formulate plans for urban redevelopment. The members of the committee will advise on the work of the Z and P, but would serve to broaden the scope of the committee's talents.

"This is the biggest undertaking any citizens group ever attempted in this community," Moore said.

Commissioners approved the enlarged committee and asked Moore to have his group meet with the City Zoning and Planning Board on July 21 and report to the commission on results and progress.

Moore's committee includes Howard McNulty, William Hemphill, George Touhy, Douglas Stenzhorn, Frank Finch and James McKeen. Robert Karna, Arthur Harris, Philip Logan, Dr. J. C. Ringling, Henry McAlister, Walter Gleason, Glenn McCall, James Horsing, A. B. Peterson Jr., John Daniels and Moore. Other members of the Zoning and Planning Board are Dr. Brooke Smith, A. L. Lee, Donald Bishop and Mason Wharton. William Bush was a member of the board, but has resigned. No replacement has yet been named.

U. S. Planes Elude Viet Missiles, MIGs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. fighters tangled with two MIGs and eluded a barrage of missiles over North Viet Nam during bombing raids on missile, radar and fuel sites, the U.S. command reported today.

In a day of furious air activity Monday, one missile site was destroyed and two oil installations and a radar site bombed, a spokesman said.

Carrier planes pounced on some 200 barges and junks and pilots reported destroying or damaging of them.

The U.S. command announced the loss of an F105 Thunderbolt to Communist groundfire Monday. The pilot bailed out but he could not be rescued because of heavy anti-aircraft fire and he is listed as missing, a spokesman said.

U.S. headquarters also announced that a Navy F8 Crusader went down 40 miles northeast of Hanoi today and that a pilot was rescued. It was not known whether the plane crashed because of mechanical failure or was shot down, a spokesman said.

A military spokesman said 286 U.S. planes had been lost to enemy action over North Viet Nam through last Thursday, less than 100 were reported. Disclosing U.S. helicopter losses for the first time, the American command said 179 had been the victims of enemy fire, including three in North Viet Nam. The letter presumably Writing in the weekly Paris Match, Messmer said that also in 1970 France will have a nuclear submarine armed with Polaris-type missiles and nuclear warheads.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 13, and everyone who meets her tells us how lucky we are to have such a sweet, well-mannered, intelligent child. The truth is, she's delicate, cruel, and a real troublemaker. She's even kept a pet for fear she'll retaliate to death. (She's already done away with a kitten and a full-grown parakeet.) She can't be trusted and is such a clever little liar she works us.

Outside the home she puts on a goody-goody act that could fool anybody. Her ambition is to be an actress, and she would make a good one. How can we straighten her out? She's not dumb. In fact, she's too smart for her own good. She's a real chatterbox. She could turn on the charm and have him eating out of her hand in no time.

DEAR ABBY: A woman I see quite often but do not know very well came right out and asked me if I had ever read the book "The Benchwarmer" by Benj. Altmeyer. I never have and that is what I told her, but I could tell by the way she looked at me that she didn't quite believe me. Later I looked at the book and it indeed is a very good one. I am a friend of mine the same question about me. What would you make of such a person?

South played three no-trump and East was held to three. When his opponents cashed a heart, two spades and a club, the other table was even. Then when South opened a diamond and North played diamonds every time he got in the lead.

At another table East made the conservative bid of one no-trump after West's heart bid. He played it there making three. The other table raised hearts. Both Wests made three odd but one was in game and his North-South opponents were rewarded with top scores.

Note that all South players who chose to respond came out with good scores. This doesn't happen all the time. Sometimes the pass works out as the winning decision.

Incidentally, there were also coats, skirts, vests, hats, gloves and shoes — which is a very amusing manner and accompanied by a modern ballet.

You must have color in your life and your wardrobe this season! Hats are small for evening affairs and some are as big as baskets of fruit, or so it seems, but they are beautifully designed to make a woman look pretty. And that, ladies, is just what you need to look pretty should be the goal of every woman — but lately the idea is to look "odd." To look "odd" means to look like the goal of the youth group but, unfortunately, it has been translated the mature group as well. Its heritage, so whether it's hats, dresses or shoes, strive to look pretty in the true sense of the word. It's far more flattering and becoming. Tomorrow: Work Effort To Reduce?

Important news in the world of fashion was the recent pageant presented by Sarah Coventry to honor the introduction of the new and exciting Lord and Lady Coventry line of classic jewelry designs. The pageant was complete with a herald trumpeting the arrival of the Lord and Lady, exquisite colors and a fashion showing that literally wowed the present which is being wowed after standing so many affairs to gather news items for the readers. All the jewelry designs are beautifully done, ranging from settings of semi-precious stones to Austrian crystals. Except for "The Doctor and The Soul"
The harmfulness of sexual abstinence has been preached to youth. Such doctrines have done much injury by neutralizing sexual energy. The implication is that the ungratified sex instinct itself — rather than the repression of the instinct — must necessarily lead to neurosis.

The most primitive attitude toward the partner is the sexual attitude. The bodily approach happens to be sexually arousing and this arousal sets off the sex drive in the sexually disposed partner.

Standing one step higher in the ranking of attitudes toward the partner is the emotional attitude of infatuation in which the infatuated person says something like "I love you" because of the peculiar (but not unique) character traits of the partner.

If we think of the partner's physical being as his or her outermost layer, it can be said that the erotically disposed person penetrates deeper than the person who is only sexually disposed. But this attitude does not necessarily lead to neurosis.

Benefits For Veterans -- 6

Qualify For Job Priorities

By Ray Crowley
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The federal government offers five services to veterans looking for work:

- Job counseling.
- Job training.
- Precedence in job referrals.
- Unemployment benefits.
- Vocational rehabilitation.

There is a part-time or full-time local veterans' employment representative in almost 2,000 local State Employment Service offices in the 50 states. These men are expected to give special help to veterans. There should be such an adviser in the State Employment Service office in or near your city or county.

At these local employment service offices, you as veterans are given priority for referral to appropriate training programs and job openings. First consideration is given to the disabled.

All wartime and peace time veterans are eligible for these services, regardless of the length of active duty.

Unemployed veterans with 90 days of active duty or a service-incurred injury or disability are entitled to employment payments.

The size of these payments and the length of time they'll be made varies from state to state. The maximum weekly amount ranges from $30 to $85; in some states additional amounts are paid for dependents.

The maximum period for which these benefits are payable ranges from 12 to 36 weeks. You must file your application for unemployment compensation within a time limit which also varies from state to state.

Applicants should register for work at the nearest local state employment office and ask for benefits at the claims office of the State Employment Security Agency.

You must be prepared to show your Separation Form DD-214, Social Security card and a record of employment, if any, both before and after military service.

Veterans who are underemployed or unemployed and cannot reasonably be expected to secure appropriate full-time employment without training are given priority at State Employment Service offices for vocational training programs.

You can get this training in schools or on-the-job. Training allowances may be paid to eligible trainees who are unemployed and who have had two years of painful employment, including military service.

The regular training allowance is generally equivalent to the weekly rate of unemployment compensation in your state, plus subsistence and travel expense, where necessary.

Under some circumstances, this amount may be increased as much as $10 a week, plus an additional amount for dependents.

Trainees may work in outside business up to 20 hours a week without deduction in the training allowance.

A veteran with a service-connected disability may be entitled to up to four years of more vocational rehabilitation. The veteran must be prepared to show this rehabilitation is needed to overcome his handicap.

Before a disabled veteran begins training, he will be given vocational counseling to help him select a suitable occupation and rehabilitation plan.

The amount of training will vary according to the degree of disability. Eligibility will vary according to the period the veteran served. Benefits have largely expired for World War I veterans, except the seriously disabled.

Eligible veterans may enroll in schools or colleges, train on the job, take institutional on-farm training or enter combination school-job training programs.

While in training and for two months after rehabilitation, eligible disabled veterans may receive subsistence allowance in addition to their disability compensation. The subsistence allowance for a veteran enrolled in vocational rehabilitation training is $110 full time without dependents, $150 with one dependent, and $175 with two or more dependents.

While pursuing on-the-job or institutional on-farm training, the monthly subsistence rate is $95 without dependents, $125 with one dependent and $150 with two or more dependents.

Beware Of Tetanus, Warns Health Dept.

These spores are found in city dirt, garden soil, country barnyards, even on our bodies and clothing. Too many people are unaware of the danger.

Sumner is here, the kids are out of school, the campers will be taking to the woods, the gardeners will be pruning, the swimmers will be footing it down to the beach, and the anglers will be testing their lures. In all these outdoor settings, tetanus spores lurk in every type of dust and dirt.

"The Wise-immunized" is now a familiar slogan, but it is a useful one to renew each spring and summer to warn townpeople that tetanus is a killer. Over 60 per cent of the victims die, but their deaths could have been averted if they had been immunized with tetanus toxoid before infection, Dr. Frank Leone, director of the Seminole County Health Department, said today.

These spores are found in city dirt, garden soil, country barnyards, even on our bodies and clothing. Too many people are unaware of the danger.

"Tetanus toxoid has been called the perfect immunization, yet about 11.5 million children under five have not been immunized. Children are not the only segment of our community who need the shelter of tetanus immunization. Almost one-half of all cases occur in persons over fifty, yet the adult population is so extremely nonchalant about tetanus that over three-fourths is probably lacking immunization."

Medicare In Doctors' Hands

For better or worse, Medicare is officially in operation. The hope, of course, is that it will be for the better, that it will improve the health of the nation's elderly and grant them a new freedom—or at least a measure of freedom—from the specter of disabling injury or illness that could wipe out their life's savings and make them a burden on their children.

It is more than a hope, it is the belief of millions of Americans, who express their wishes through their representatives in Congress.

Medicare will inevitably cause some strains and dislocations within the nation's medical facilities, which are not geared for any great upsurge of demands upon them.

These strains, if they develop, will require time, money and effort to overcome. But they will also serve to reveal weaknesses and deficiencies in our medical resources that ought to be remedied even if there were no Medicare.

The real, long-term success of the program rests in the hands of America's 300,000 doctors. They did not want it for the most part; they fought it, but now they have it and they only can make it work.

Let them heed the words of Dr. Charles L. Hudson, new president of the American Medical Association:

"We are not stepping off the brink into a bottomless pit of professional destruction and despair," he said in his inaugural address before the AMA's policy-making House of Delegates, meeting in Chicago.

For many physicians, that bottomless pit holds the fear that Medicare is but the first long step on a short road to the nemesis called "socialized medicine."

If this is so, and if it is something that should not be allowed to happen, then let them be reminded that the most effective lobby for socialized medicine, as it was for Medicare, is a hidebound medical community that says, "No, no, a thousand times no," rather than, "Well, we have a better idea."

Rather than waste their "collective professional energy to belabor the past," said Dr. Hudson, doctors must become "receptive to new ideas and become the leaders in experimentation in the mechanisms of medical practice."

For the simple truth is that if doctors do not lead, they will be led.

Native Uprising

The Wallons and Flemings were at it again in Belgium the other day. Rivalry, often degenerating into rioting, between the two linguistic groups is a perennial source of discord in the little country.

It is also, apparently, a source of ironic satisfaction to the Congolese, former subjects of Belgium, that government newspaper in Kinshasa (formerly Leopoldville), viewing the situation with as much alarm as it can muster, has suggested that Belgium should be divided into two parts, one for the point of anarchy and civil war was hardly in a position to tell the Congo how to run itself.

According to Kinshasa radio, the Congolese government has informed its ambassador in Brussels that it is concerned over "the fate of Congolese living in Belgium in the wake of the tribal conflicts and acts of banditry, of which the country is the scene."

Turnabout may be a little exaggeration.

Common Man's Billboards

NEW YORK (AP)—Millions of people take vacation trips this time of year in order to have something to write about on postcards.

Postcards are the billboards of the common man on his travels, and lack of ingenuity falters when we have to put down our "Drove 50 miles today. Hope to make 600 tomorrow."

"With you here—instead of me. This motel charges 48 per day, and even more on days when they put water in the swimming pool."

"Having wonderful time. Hope you are changing the gravel in the car's box regularly."

Writing postcards is undoubtedly our most widespread form of pop art. It is as American as the hot dog, the pizza pie and chop suey.

But for a people inventive enough to come up with the skyscraper, the airplane and bubble gum, it is amazing how our lack of ingenuity falters when we have to put down our "Drove 50 miles today. Hope to make 600 tomorrow."

"I'm Calling-You!"

Helen Fuller Says:

LBJ Bets For Victory

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has now firmly placed his bet on military victory in Vietnam.

His deciding that way does not make it necessarily so. There are many well-informed patriots who believe that no outside solution of the conflict between south and north Vietnam is possible — that only the two parties concerned can work out a way of living together.

The President is betting his political chips the other way. Johnson wagered that he could, by following his general advice, point to a war being won by the elections.

The bombings of oil depots this week were but the beginning of the new strategy of all-out war which the US military has adopted. The effect of his move on Europe — our allies and the uncertain countries in and near the Iron Curtain bloc — will take time to assess. That, of course, will influence the stance of the Soviet Union, which has assumed in any broader Asian war in which we may become involved.

The President's action in widening the Vietnamese war is more logical when viewed from his background. As a Texan, born on what was still the Frontier, he thinks like a lady who hid her children under the floor to escape raiding Indians. As a politician, he reads the desire of most Americans today to escape raising Indians. As an Asian continent, he wants desperately to get out of it and to constructive things.

The President's latest strategy in Vietnam is understandable, from his own personal view. But that does not guarantee its worth.

Political Notebook

The other day a group of young army reserve lieutenants, they were selected, topflight reserve officers. They were also occupying men in their civilian work.

These young men were debating whether to continue in the reserves when their six-year obligatory term was up.

They didn't ask about reserves. They were asked to continue in the reserves posts they were considering. They didn't ask about promotions. They knew they would be slow.

These young men basically asked only two questions:

Question 1—Would they be given the tough, demanding difficult jobs in the reserves that would challenge them and prepare them for a possible wartime assignment?

If they wouldn't be given such jobs, then they weren't interested.

Question 2—With the reserve program so unsettled and confused with all this talk of merging with the National Guard, was there going to be any program that they could count on or would whatever they joined blow up in their faces before it even got going?

They couldn't find out the answer to this from anyone, they said.

"I've been sitting around now for more than a year in the reserves while people were trying to make up their minds and haven't been called on to do anything," said one of the young men. "What assurance can anyone give me that if I sat on, it won't be the same? 'What's the future in the reserves? From where I sit don't see much,' he said. "They talk of training. But I'm not being trained."

These young officers and some 25,000 other reserve officers have summer training. Numbers of these young officers and men are highly trained specialists, either through Army or civilian training and experience — in electronics, finance, intelligence, data processing, or any one of hundreds of essential skills.

These are skills that certainly would be in short supply in any war — whether it is a worldwide conflict or a local counter-insurgency.

Such highly skilled and highly motivated officers and men and the leadership they represent can't be quickly trained in the numbers needed. Some have developed their skills after years of intensive study and practice. Their knowledge and experience won't be drilled into men in six-week quickie courses.

Some dedicated officials and officers have been attempting to make changes in the reserve program which would hold these essential young officers and noncommissioned officers in the reserves.

But the constant hullabaloo over Defense Secretary McNamara's defense-with-the-National Guard proposals — which are neither alive nor dead — and the uncertainty that these proposals create — won't let the reserve program settle down.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Bill's teacher at the state industrial school is fair and humane. But a lot of middle-headed Americans are mixing maddening sentimentalism with their treatment of delinquents and juvenile delinquents. Everybody has made a mistake once but when he repeats such behavior, he is stupid or irresponsible.

"Until you've tried to rear a son of your own, you don't even know the meaning of frustration."

"If you had attended church, you would have been wised up long ago."

"For the Bible says if you send your child to school, you are making a mistake once but when he repeats such behavior, he is stupid or irresponsible."

CASE 7-68: Bill Z. aged 16, was the juvenile delinquent who was sent to the State Industrial School for robbing a gas station.

After he and his pal of the robbery had been there three months, his pal was sent home for a 30-day trial visit.

Bill was furious because he was still kept at the school. So he wrote a letter to the newspaper editor expressing his disgust with his imprisonment sentence.

And he asked Prof. Rollie to type the letter for him. It said:

"Dear Editor: We prefer a definite sentence so we will know exactly how long we shall be imprisoned here. This uncertainty gives a boy frustration. And leaves us at the mercy of the staff."

The letter rambled on with more of Bill's angry comments.

So Prof. Rollie wrote what he deemed a possible reply. He sent it to the general public, as follows:

"From your letter, Bill, you give the idea that you have been abused and your rights violated."

"But whose rights did you violate first when you broke into the gas station?"

"Yes, Bill had received $6,000 via insurance for college but he refused to go on to school because 'it was hard work.'"

He had squandered most of the $6,000 and was thus robbing and getting drunk "just for some excitement," as he expressed it.

"I send for my 'Vocational Guidance Booklet,' enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and learn how to play the game of life according to the rules."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

'Cool' 95 In Sanford

Summer's longest heat wave continues to grip most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today, but Sanford continues to bask under "cool" temperatures in the 90s. Temperatures have soared to 100-plus for five straight days in parts of the nation's mid-section and in the South, and the Weather Bureau said the oppressive heat and humidity was expected to continue for several days.

In Sanford Tuesday the mercury climbed to a warm 95 degrees, but this is not necessarily unseasonable mark. During July of the past three years, temperatures here have averaged in or near 90, with several days of mid-90 degrees recorded. The low reading recorded Tuesday was 73 degrees.

The five-day forecast for peninsula Florida for a period beginning at 7 a.m. Thursday indicates temperatures will continue a little above seasonal normals over the northern half of the state. Normal high ranges from 88 to 92, with normal low 72 to 76. Over the southern half of the state temperatures will average near normal high of 97 to 101 and normal low of 73 to 79.

In St. Louis, where the mercury climbed to 108 Tuesday and has been 100-plus for four days, 20 deaths were attributed to the hot weather, most of them elderly persons. Six other heat-related deaths were reported in nearby St. Clair County, Ill. More than 100 persons at the All-Star baseball game in St. Louis were treated for heat-caused illnesses.

The Union Electric Co. in St. Louis said it planned to continue rationing electric power to 600,000 customers in an attempt to avert a blackout. The company cut off power Tuesday to 350,000 customers on a rotating basis up to two hours. Other cities also have reported power shortages this week, including four in Nebraska.

Has anybody seen a black and brown bound with Dale City tags and a broken chain? Al Beckerman, of Bradford Avenue is the unhappy owner of the missing dog, who answers to the name of "Lightning."

This week's Time magazine has a lead article about the bombings of the oil depots at Haiphong and contains a quote by Cdr. Charles R. Smith, skipper of RV414, now deployed to the South China Sea.

Sports fans watching a televised baseball game being played at Candlestick Park in San Francisco could see the USS Enterprise in the background. Sanford-based RV414 just returned home aboard the big "E." Skipper Lt. Cdr. Robert Lovelace.

Only city employee who was not slated for a raise under the new municipal salary scale was City Manager Pete Knowles. Commissioners took care of that Monday, when Commissioner Vince Roberts proposed a nice raise for Pete, with unanimous approval of the rest of the commission.

Regular school board meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. Thursday. Only about six weeks remain before the opening of the fall school term, August 29. This will also signal the opening of Seminole County's first institution of higher learning, Seminole Junior College.

Actually, Seminole Junior College is not the first college in Seminole County. Hollins College was originally located here, more than half a century ago.

Looks like Seminole County is going to be turned into another Volusia County, with a courthouse site fight pending. The feud there has been going on for years and hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in a fruitless battle to move the courthouses to DeLand, the "center of population" at Daytona Beach.

Rev. Jim Barnett, one of Sanford's most beloved former ministers, will be speaking to members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club Wednesday. We know all Jim's many friends here will look forward to seeing him again. A good man.

Port Authority Asks Increase Road Budget Is Higher

During hearings Tuesday afternoon by the county commission, budgets submitted by the road department, county sanitation, port authority and county agent and home economics department were reviewed.

The Port Authority requested an increase of $22,500 and road materials $200,000. Operational costs for the six traffic signals in the county are listed as $3,000 for electrical service and maintenance. The original budget as submitted by J. C. Laveland, road superintendent, totaled $653,188 but an error of $7,000 was found to bring the new total to $650,188, an increase of $37,348 over last year.
