Stay Warm This Winter, But Do It Safely—Here's How

By TENI YARBOROUGH
 Herald Staff Writer

Cool nights and chilly days are reasons enough to fire up a few logs in the fireplace, plug in the heater or turn on the electric blankets. And the safety of yourself, your family and all your worldly possessions are reason enough to make sure each of those heating devices are working properly.

Seven people died in Seminole County during the past four years because of carelessness in heating their homes when Jack Frost struck the usually-warm Central Florida area, according to county fire officials.

A year ago, a Sanford woman died in her home because she placed a portable heater too close to her bed, catching the linens on fire, firefighters said.

About two weeks ago, a Sanford man narrowly escaped death after his electric blanket short circuited, sparking a fire which destroyed his bed, firefighters added.

"It all boils down to the fact that people just don't think when it comes to heating their homes," said County Fire Marshal Joe McCluan. "We don't use heat down here very often but when we do, we neglect to read the instructions carefully, we burn the wrong materials and we just aren't careful."

"Old kerosene heaters give us the biggest headaches because people set them anywhere and they often get knocked over, spill fuel on the floor and burst into flames," said Sanford fire Lt. Ron Neel. "Before you know it, it's out of control. Oh, the new ones have safety valves so they won't spill, but people also tend to place the heaters too close to combustible items such as drapes, bed clothing and even carpeting and you still have fires."

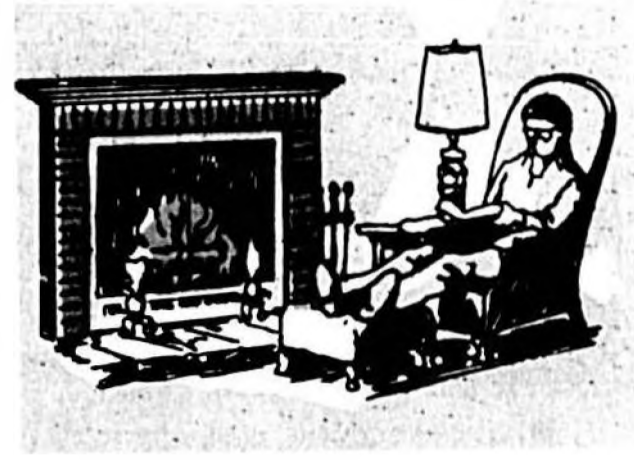

"Those seven deaths I mentioned earlier that occurred in the county during the last four years were all started by kerosene heaters," McCluan said. "And they started for one of four reasons: the heater was improperly fueled, or kicked over in an exit way leading from a dwelling, the wrong fuel was used or the heater was placed too close to combustibles."

"We also have problems when people don't keep their fireplaces and chimneys cleaned out or when they forget to open the damper and smoke fills the room," McCluan said. "There's also a problem with sparks popping from fireplaces onto carpeting or wood floors because the fireplace doesn't have a protective grating to keep the sparks in."

"Sometimes people cause fires because they use their ovens to heat their homes," he said. "Ovens were meant for cooking not for heating a home over a long period of time. They just don't work that way."

McCluan says the greatest number of heating-related fires

Embattled Dispatcher Quits Job

A 32-year-old Sanford woman, charged with two counts of obtaining federal aid and food stamps by fraud, has resigned her position as a dispatcher with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. Colleen Foster, of 61 Kent Court quit as of 5 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Foster, who was employed by the sheriff's department March 16, 1981, was arrested at 4:05 p.m. Thursday on two counts of obtaining benefits from public assistance programs by fraud. She has been released from jail under the pretrial release program, officials said.

The state has charged that Mrs. Foster failed to disclose required information needed in determining her qualification for federal aid and food stamps and that she received money to which she was not legally entitled between Nov. 1, 1980 and Nov. 26, 1982.

The state further charges that Mrs. Foster failed to notify the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) that she was employed by the Seminole County School Board from Oct. 15, 1980 through June 30, 1981 and that she was employed by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department since March 16, 1981.

According to Larry Travis, senior investigator of the Auditor General's office in Orlando, Mrs. Foster failed to disclose her employment with either county agency during three interviews with HRS on July 31, 1980; Jan. 9, 1981, and July 13, 1981. Travis also said that Mrs. Foster received or attempted to receive $2,853 in aid from February 1981 until February 1982 and that she obtained $2,443 worth of food stamps from November 1980 through February 1982, for a total of $5,296 in state funds to which she was not legally entitled.

Investigator Leroy J. Rodgers, of the Auditor General's office in Orlando, said Mrs. Foster acknowledged her employment with the school board and sheriff's department during an Aug. 23, 1982 interview, adding that she did not report her employment to the HRS earlier because she needed money to pay her daughter's hospital bills for open-heart surgery, court records show.

Mrs. Foster, the divorced mother of four children, worked as a bus aide for the school board making a daily wage of $33.75, school board officials said.

Mrs. Foster received an annual salary of $10,656 while employed as a radio dispatcher for the sheriff's department.

Open ditches (right) are the only source of drainage in the predominantly black Midway community east of Sanford and several other areas of Seminole County. Unpaved roads (above) present another problem in Midway. Without proper drainage the roads become impassable in the rainy season. Residents want action to correct the problems, but county officials say they don't have the millions of dollars necessary to fund the projects.

There's No Money To Fix Run-Down Roads And Sewers

By MICHEAL BEHA
 Herald Staff Writer

The solution to drainage, sewage and road problems which have inhibited growth and development in some sections of Seminole County is one word — money.

That is the opinion of Seminole County officials who have to grapple with a shrinking supply of federal and state dollars to spend on large scale public works projects.

But for residents of Midway and Lockhart near Sanford and Winwood Park near Altamonte Springs, the explanation that no money is available is hard to swallow.

They live in areas that have many unpaved roads, little, if any, sewage collection and poor drainage. The areas also have an abundance of substandard housing.

The Rev. Emory Blake, who has served as a spokesman for Midway residents, said sewers are the biggest need for Midway.

"In order for our area to be made better, we need sewers," he said. "If we get sewers we can get housing."

"We realize we have a lot of problems. The roads are so bad that the postal service will not deliver mail to some houses," he said. "If we had the manpower and machines, we would do it ourselves. But we don't."

County Planning Director Woody Price agreed that sewers are the top need in Midway. "We need sewers to be installed before we can pave the streets. We need streets to let the drainage system work."

But the big problem in getting a sewage system for Midway is that no existing sewage treatment plant in Seminole County has the capacity to handle the area's sewage.

Price said the costs of a sewage collection system in Midway would exceed $10 million. Beyond that, Sanford's treatment plant, the closest to Midway, has been ordered not to increase capacity until it can find another waterway

Sorenson Seeking 5th Term In Lake Mary Mayor's Post

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary Mayor Walter A. Sorenson has double trouble.

Two men are challenging the four-term incumbent.

The challengers are Victor Olvera, who served three years on the City Council before resigning to seek the mayor's office, and Dick Fess, who is completing his first term on the council.

Sorenson, 40, is a native of Corry, Pa. He and his wife, Verma, and son, Christopher, 12, have been city residents for 10 years.

Olvera, 48, is a native of Detroit, Mich., and has lived in the city for four years. He has a son, Toby, 7, who attends Lake Mary Elementary School.

Fess, 37, his wife, Linda, daughter, Lisa, 10, and son, Brad, 3, live at 142 W. Wagon Wheel Way. A resident of Lake Mary for five years, Fess is a native of Indiana.

All three candidates have served in the Army.

Sorenson, who lives at 250 Broadmoor, is a real estate associate with an Orlando firm. He attended Penn State University.

Olvera of 257 S. Fourth St. attended the University of Michigan. He is a supervisor of plastics at Wintel in Longwood.

Fess is a vice president of ComBank-Seminole County. He has a bachelor of science degree from Indiana University.

Sorenson once was defeated in an attempt for a council seat before winning election to the mayor's office in 1974. He's been re-elected three times since.

He previously served on the city's board of adjustment for one year. Sorenson currently represents Lake Mary on the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County and the Tri-County League of Cities. He is a member of the Lake Mary, Greater Sanford and Florida chambers of commerce and is president of the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department. Sorenson is serving on the Lake Mary Boulevard Citizens Advisory Committee.

Olvera was first elected unopposed to a two-year term on the council in 1979. He ran for re-election in 1981 and won a second term, defeating his opponent by a two-to-one margin.

Fess served one year on the city's board of adjustment. He ran once for the council unsuccessfully, winning a two-year term in 1980. He is serving on the State Road 436 and Lake Mary Boulevard Citizens Advisory Committee and is past president of the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce.

He was 1981 and 1982 president of the Lake Mary Community Improvement Association, 1981 campaign chairman and 1982 president of the United Way of Seminole County; 1981 and 1982 president of the Altamonte Mall Merchants Association; 1982 vice president of finances for the Central Florida Leukemia Society; vice president of membership of the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and a member of the advisory board of ComBank-Seminole County.

Sorenson said he would like to serve another term to see that Lake Mary's citizens are not "lost in the bureaucratic shuffle."

Sorenson said major priorities for the city include a comprehensive road and drainage improvement program, revamping and replacing inadequate lines in the city's original water system and continued control of new development within the city with emphasis on safeguarding property rights while preserving and protecting the

Cruising Along The St. Johns River

The Bay Queen of Sanford, the 114-foot, 99-ton cruise ship anchored in Monroe Harbour is being fine tuned for a VIP cruise next weekend and thrice daily cruises for the public, beginning Dec. 1. The Bay Queen arrived in Sanford last weekend after a 26-day, 3,900-mile voyage from Charlevoix, Mich. where it operates daily cruises on the Great Lakes during the Memorial Day through Labor Day season.

The flat-bottomed boat was designed and built as a dinner cruise ship at the Blount Ship Yards in Rhode Island in 1978. Bill Doelle of Traverse City, Mich. is the captain. He became a sailor on the Ford ships on the Great Lakes in 1941. The ship is manned by a 15-member crew.

Bill Sternberg, co-owner with Capt. Doelle of Freedom Cruises Inc., said he chose to bring the ship to Sanford for the winter season — December through April — at the suggestion of his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Sternberg of Orlando.

The ship has a dining capacity of 250 and a passenger capacity of 450.

Reservations are now being accepted for the regular cruises to begin Dec. 1. Cruises will be offered three times daily — 11 a.m., 5 p.m. and 11 p.m., Monday through Sunday.

IN BRIEF

Gunman Frees Girlfriend

Hostage; Shoots Himself

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—A Buffalo man with a long criminal record told police he "didn't want to go back to jail" then shot and killed himself early today after releasing his girlfriend he had held hostage for six hours.

Police Capt. John O'Keefe said David Zielinski, 35, walked down the front steps of the home of his girlfriend's sister-in-law holding a shotgun, which he placed under his chin and then pulled the trigger.

Detectives said Zielinski, who had been arrested at least 14 times and had reportedly served time at Attica Prison, held his girlfriend, Irene Luce, 28, hostage. She was released unharmed about 11:30 p.m. Friday.

The siege began about 7 p.m. Friday when Zielinski entered the home of Ms. Luce's sister-in-law, held a double-barreled shotgun to her throat and demanded she let him into his girlfriend's apartment, officials said.

Palimony Suit Dropped

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The palimony suit against Billie Jean King by her former lesbian lover, who claimed the tennis star promised to support her for life, has been thrown out of court.

Superior Court Judge Sara Radin ruled Friday the suit had been decided when Marilyn Barnett lost her attempt to remain in a beach house owned by King and her husband, Larry, and she no longer had a case.

Miss Barnett, 34, claimed in her suit filed in April 1981, Mrs. King had promised to give her the beach house and lifetime support in return for her services as secretary, cook and confidante.

Pepper Changes Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., the leading spokesman for the elderly and poor on Capitol Hill, will take the chairmanship of the influential House Rules Committee.

Pepper, 82, now chairman of the House Aging Committee, will replace Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., who retired this year.

A spokesman for Pepper said Friday, the congressman, now No. 2 on the Rules panel and chairman of the Aging Committee, decided to switch chairmanships because he felt he could do more for Social Security, Medicare and other programs for the elderly and poor on a panel that has tremendous power over what legislation may reach the floor and under what conditions.

Lake Mary Will, Or Will Not Get More Money?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Lake Mary may or may not receive the $68,355 it has budgeted for the 1983 fiscal year as revenues from the state in sales tax receipts.

It has received conflicting signals from the state on the issue, City Manager Phil Kulbes reported to the Lake Mary City Council Thursday night.

But since the council during budget time was somewhat leery about state estimates it included $20,000 additional money in the budget's contingency fund just in case a shortfall developed.

Kulbes reported he was notified in writing by the state that forecasts show an expected 9.1 percent shortfall statewide in sales tax receipts — down from the $370.9 million previously expected to $337 million now anticipated.

Kulbes said, however, the same letter said

Lake Mary will not be receiving the $68,355 budgeted, but rather $70,050, some $1,700 more than expected.

The manager said he called Tallahassee and both figures were confirmed.

"I can't figure out how the state's math works," Kulbes said.

At budget time during the summer, Kulbes told the council the city had to include the $68,000-plus in its budget as anticipated revenues from the sales tax as ordered by the state. The city had no leeway in this specific item, he said.

The council, however, agreed that rather than have a shortfall that could cause the city real trouble, it would follow state instructions and at the same time create a cushion in the contingency fund of $20,000 just in case the worst came to pass.

Thursday night, council members shook their heads in astonishment at the latest report.

High-Speed Chase Lands 2 Men In Jail

Two Sanford men were in the Seminole County jail today following a high-speed chase which began in Sanford and ended near the county's Five Points complex on U.S. Highway 17-92.

Seminole County narcotics officers arrested Randolph Williams, 21, of 240 Oxford Road, Fern Park, and James A. Hill, 20, 109 Azalea Lane, Sanford, at about 9:30 p.m. Friday. Williams was charged with reckless driving and Hill was charged with disorderly intoxication and resisting arrest. Bond was set at $500 for each.

According to the officers' report, they attempted to pass the car driven by Williams on South Sanford Avenue near 16th Street. When their unmarked police car was abreast of Williams' vehicle, Williams allegedly tried to run them off the road.

When Williams stopped at a traffic signal at 25th Street, the officers pulled alongside and told Williams he should learn how to drive. Williams shouted an obscenity and turned west on 25th St., the report said.

The officers pursued Williams along 25th Street, then onto Magnolia Avenue and subsequently to Airport Boulevard where one officer held his badge out the window as identification and ordered Williams to pull over, the report said.

At that point, Williams accelerated to more than 80 miles per hour on County Road 427 and then passed a car on a double line before turning onto Tucker Road the report said. Williams then drove onto Brown and Baywood roads before turning the lights off on his car. Police said he drove a short distance to Sunland Road before turning his lights back on. From Sunland, he went to S.R. 427 and then to County Home Road before turning north on U.S. 17-92 where a marked car stopped him.

After being stopped, Hill allegedly refused to leave the vehicle. The officers said they had to forcibly remove him and transport him to the jail.

INMATE SOUGHT

Seminole County sheriff's deputies are continuing their search for a jail inmate who wandered away from a county work detail at Five Points between 3:30 and 11:10 p.m. Wednesday.

Deputies said Marshall Eugene Berry, 23, of Daytona Beach, who is serving a 360-day sentence for failure to appear for sentencing in a burglary charge, walked away from the work detail and may be headed for Daytona Beach.

According to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski, Berry, a trusty, is serving the jail term along with a 15-year probation sentence and was scheduled to be released Sept. 11, 1983.

County Commissioners To Decide Monday

Sewage Treatment Plant Expansion Eyed

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Proposed alterations to the Iron Bridge Regional Sewage Treatment Plant, which would expand the facility's capacity by 4 million gallons per day, will be examined by Seminole County commissioners Monday.

Environmental Services Manager Ken Hooper said Orlando officials want to make the changes at the plant, installing new tanks and pipes, to increase the capacity to 28 million gallons from the present 24 million gallons.

The Orlando officials will explain their plans to commissioners at the Monday work session, Hooper said.

The increase in capacity would give Seminole County an additional 1 million gallons of capacity and could prove a boon to development in the Oviedo area. Development in Seminole County is tied to the availability of sewage service. Without available service, developers must construct septic tanks or other alternative systems.

The expansion also would give Seminole, Orange and Orlando officials longer to develop plans for future sewage facilities. An addition of 20 million gallons has been proposed for the plant near Oviedo but Orlando and Orange officials have been considering alternative projects. Many people now believe the expansion will never be built.

"We've spent a lot of money on that plant," Barbara Christensen, the Seminole Commission's representative to the county sewage transmission authority said. "On a practical basis, we're going to have to look at the proposal."

Mrs. Christensen said she supports making the alterations if they are relatively inexpensive. "We would be remiss if we didn't if it can be done at a low cost."

But she said the 4-million-gallon increase is not the answer to Seminole County's sewage problems.

"Sewer limitations will always be a problem," she said. Sandra Glenn said the alterations would give county officials time to explore other alternatives.

"It appears to be a solution to increasing capacity without buying additional land for sewage purposes and without more water flowing into the Little Econlochatchee River," she said.

And because the county has designated the Oviedo area to use the plant, she said it would increase development in the southwest portion of the county.

Robert G. "Bud" Feather is steadily opposed to the plan. Feather's opposition carries over from his stance against construction of the plant itself. "It's asinine for taxpayers to pay such high prices for sewage treatment and then pour the water out into the ocean," Feather said.

The plant pipes the water into the ocean rather than returning it.

"It depletes the underground reservoir," he said. "We're going to have more sinkholes."

Feather's biggest complaint is the price of treatment at the plant. Construction and treatment costs are about $4 per gallon of sewage.

The county recently raised water and sewage rates and also increased connection fees. Sewer connection fees are now $1,400.

Feather has supported the use of septic tanks, where they can be used as a way of meeting the need for increased sewage capacity.

"It just seems stupid to me when an average person can put in a septic tank for $750 and pay another $50 every couple of years (to clean it out)," he said. "We charge twice that and then charge an exorbitant monthly fee."

Brazil's Voters Going To The Polls

This year's news from Latin America has not been good: tragic war in the Falkland Islands, turmoil in Central America, economic crisis in Mexico.

But something qualifiedly good is happening in the biggest country in this troubled region — Brazil is holding its first free, nation-wide election in 18 years of military rule. Don't stand up and cheer. The returns aren't in yet, and the winners will not have more than symbolic power: This election is no simple victory of democracy over dictatorship. The colonels, who overthrew the floundering government of leftist President Joao Goulart in 1964, have become civilian presidents and are still in power.

But in villages and cities across Brazil, a nation nearly as big as America's lower 48 states but with about half the population, people are lining up at the polls to cast their ballots for mayors, governors and members of the national Congress. This last office is crucial, because congressmen will form part of the electoral college which will elect Brazil's next president in 1985.

Not all the candidates are pro-military. Far from it. The front runner for governor of prestigious Rio de Janeiro state is Leonel Brizola. He is a brother-in-law of deposed President Goulart and a former firebrand who, as the military seized power, called for a civilian uprising in the south of Brazil. Brizola was stripped of his political rights in 1964, exiled for 15 years and received amnesty in 1979 from President Joao Baptista Figueiredo, whose plan for "abertura," or political opening, led to today's elections.

Brizola has matured, softening his critical comments about the military and America and, according to The New York Times, campaigning on a practical platform that stresses economic management: free transportation for students, a 24-hour bureau to receive complaints about public services and integrating Rio's favela slums into the city's utility system. But his populist appeal has not diminished and he proposes a real alternative to the military.

That President Figueiredo has allowed candidates like Brizola to run for office is a sign of at least three things: hope that Brazil can become democratic without going communist; confidence that ultimate power still lies with the military-industrial complex; and fear that Brazil's worsening economic situation can become politically explosive if the people aren't given more of a voice in government.

Brazil carries the second largest foreign debt in the world, after Mexico. But unlike Mexico, Brazil has no massive reserves of oil. Brazil exports traditional crops such as coffee and sugar, but it has moved into exports of manufactured goods: military hardware and automobiles. The world recession has hit Brazil hard. Tight currency controls have not successfully halted the plunge of the cruzeiro, and government economic programs have, if anything, widened the gulf between rich and poor.

But Brazil is fortunate in its equidistance from America and Europe and its proximity to the markets of Spanish-speaking Latin America and developing Africa. Its history has made Brazilians both more cosmopolitan and more independent than other South Americans. In its heart lies the Amazon, rich in minerals but nearly impossible to farm — a frontier that has yet to be developed. And the coast is studded with some of the oldest and most beautiful cities in the hemisphere. Sao Paulo is a megalopolis that rivals Mexico City, New York and Tokyo in its commercial and industrial might, but has little of those cities' charm.

The consensus of economists is that if Brazil became self-sufficient in petroleum, it would soon leave Mexico and other Third World nations behind. But Brazil has not, despite heroic efforts, found enough oil. It has, however, another untapped resource that is being sublimated on the nation's great pastimes: carnival and soccer. That is the incredible energy and creativity of the Brazilian people.

Democracy can tap that resource more than any other system.

BERRY'S WORLD

"SO — you're the one who's responsible for high food prices!"

By DORIS DIETRICH

A regular reader (let's call her Kate) phoned regarding a "shutup" column I wrote several weeks ago.

Kate said, "I wish you would write something on 'leave me alone.'"

Explaining her dilemma of being "only a homemaker" which Kate says she loves, women have put her down in her chosen work.

"I majored in special ed," Kate says, "and now I have a retarded child of my own that I care for. If more women would take care of their own children, I wouldn't have to assume that responsibility while they are running wild after school. Furthermore, if women who don't actually have to work would mind their own business at home, the unemployment rate wouldn't be so high," she added.

"I just wish women would leave me alone and let me mind my own business which is my husband, my children, my home and our church."

So please leave Kate alone—period.

Virginia (Ginger) Herndon summed it up in a Herald Letter to the Editor last week. I have always admired Ginger and her "telling it like it is." She is a world traveler and has lived in many countries while her husband, Richard was attached to the U.S. Embassy.

Virginia asks what difference does it make that a woman or man teaches school, drives a bus, cooks, designs, sews, or whatever? Performance is the key. Just leave people alone.

This week, a Spanish-speaking man called to complain that a Spanish recipe appearing in The Herald was incorrectly spelled. In his critique of the media in general, he claims communications is lacking in this country and in this area in particular. He suggested that more publications should be printed in Spanish.

I tried to keep my cool, but I was really hot under the collar at this. He pointed out that we are a bilingual nation and should have many languages taught in the schools.

"Look," I interrupted, "This is an English-speaking nation and our citizens should learn English and some of our customs. If I go to Spain to live, I can assure you, nobody's going to change the language to accommodate me."

The caller mentioned "it never hurts to learn about other cultures." I agreed, but practicing them may be way out. I informed him people can keep with their own traditions in their homes. Even locales in this country have different tradition, different lifestyles, different customs and even different foods.

"But there's room for everyone and all cultures," I said.

What I really wanted to say was: "Shut up. leave me alone, and go home to where you came from if you don't like it in America."

And Who's Better Off Now?

Tip O'Neill believes that all politics is local politics. The House speaker—President Reagan's favorite target among Democrats—believes that national contests for the House and Senate are ultimately decided not by votes cast on treaties with the Soviet Union or by great debates in Washington's marble halls, but by the local perception of who the candidates are and their personal relationships with the voters.

The superior candidate, O'Neill believes, can be defeated by a lackluster performer who shows up for all the right parades.

But most political observers would agree that self-interest does play a major role in private political decision making.

It obviously did on Nov. 2.

The individual voter asks himself whether the candidate has affected him positively or not, and casts a vote accordingly.

That's why Republicans weren't quite as worried by sky-rocketing unemployment figures as they should have been. The jobless don't vote, and the working population is glad for not having yet had to stand in an unemployment line.

But some voters did assess their personal positions over the 20 months since Ronald Reagan became president and the Republicans took over actual control of the Senate and de facto control of the House.

It had been two years since candidate Reagan last asked voters to make such an assessment, then as to how they had fared under his Democratic predecessor. When they made it again, the Republicans were in serious trouble.

For many Americans, the answer to whether or not they are better off is a definite yes.

Those who earn more than $100,000 a year are going to bring home an extra $2,000 from the tax cuts.

Industrial polluters who spill poisonous wastes in a river or a lake have nothing but smooth sailing ahead. The Environmental Protection Agency has seriously slashed its enforcement forces. Only 60 EPA cases were referred for enforcement in 1981 against a customary average of 200 cases in past years.

A manufacturer whose products are dangerous to the public can rest easy. The Consumer Products Safety Commission has dropped investigations into products linked to 60,000 injuries and 500 deaths each year.

Anyone who owns a factory that's dangerous to its workers is better off. Occupational Safety and Health Administration inspections are down 17 percent in 1982.

And if you've got a predilection toward racial prejudice, you've got to shout yes—it's easier today to practice bigotry than it was before Ronald Reagan became the president of the United States.

But those Americans who number among the two-thirds of all families harmed by the Reagan budget cuts, and those who've slipped through the safety net, and those who've seen their shift laid off or their plant closed, can't possibly say that the years since 1980 have been any improvement over the years that went before.

The central question of the 1982 elections was how these Americans would respond on Nov. 2.

They voted their interests, and it's the Democrats who are better off today.

Western Tourists Hassled In Russia

WASHINGTON—Americans who plan to travel to the Soviet Union should expect to be hassled by Soviet authorities, especially if they have any ideas of contacting Russian dissidents. The good old days when Western tourists were welcomed are apparently gone.

Paranoid as ever, the Kremlin is apparently afraid that even the most well-meaning tourist may not be content to visit museums, czarist palaces, the Bolshoi Ballet and other innocent, state-approved attractions, but will want to talk with the tiny number of dissenters with courage enough to meet foreigners.

Apparently it's not only Americans who are suspect in the KGB's eyes. Government sources told my reporter Andrea Siegel that the secret police have stepped up surveillance of Canadians and West Germans as well.

The harassment takes the form of tailing the supposedly dangerous tourists, monitoring their telephone conversations, photographing them on the street, hauling them in for questioning and subjecting them

This Guy's A Feminist

I ask you:

How many men do you know who pay dues to NOW and subscribe to Ms. magazine?

How many of your male friends call themselves feminist and red feminist authors, including Betty Friedan, Susan Brownmiller and Mary Scott-Welch?

Do you know any men who write fiery letters soliciting money for the National Women's Political Caucus? Or who man a phone bank several nights in a row to hustle votes for pro-women candidates?

When is the last time you heard a man raise such questions as: "Isn't it funny how some legislators opposed to battered spouse centers favor capital punishment and nuclear arms and call themselves pro-life? Isn't it funny how they call their opponents pro-abortion, as if these people had abortions for the fun of it?"

Know any men like that? Well, I do. He's doing all this — and more. He's Eddy Collins, 21-year-old mechanical engineering student at the University of Oklahoma.

Earlier this year, he marched, shoulder-to-shoulder, among 10,000 women to urge passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. And, he has picketed and participated in prayer vigils on the steps of the state capitol.

I think Collins is pretty rare and pretty neat.

"Shucks," he says, "I haven't done anything that other men haven't."

Maybe so, but while I've known men supportive of the women's movement, Collins is the first male activist I've gotten to know.

We became acquainted when he wrote to complain that I was being sexist and anti-male in one of my columns. Our correspondence has continued sporadically since.

He's an active member of the Norman, Okla., chapter of the National Women's Political Caucus. Often, he's the only man at meetings. He's always the only male when the caucus steering committee gets together. He helps poll candidates for their views on women's issues and monitors legislator's voting records on bills assisting women.

He is currently lending moral support to a woman mapmaker who has filed an age discrimination suit against the University of Oklahoma.

Sometimes he wonders what he's doing so deeply involved in the women's movement.

He has self-doubts and questions: "Am I a token, a phenomenon or an average activist?"

His college roommate thinks he's crazy. His colleagues at the caucus, he fears, think of him as "one of the girls."

His girlfriend, a pre-pharmacy major and member of NOW, assures him he's wonderfully masculine.

His mother, busy rearing five younger brothers, ages 18 to 1, has no time to be an activist. She encourages him, but does not try to influence him, he says.

Collins says there was no bolt of lightning that convinced him of the feminist cause, but there was one significant event. He went to a political forum one night and witnessed a group of highly agitated women working over one of the candidates.

"They were shouting at the guy, but what they said made sense. I felt a great sympathy for them. Afterwards, I went over and talked to them . . . and that was the beginning."

His awakening goes far beyond not calling women "chicks," and not belittling or patronizing female engineering students in his classes. ("Many of them are smarter," he says.)

He thinks men as well as women have been repressed and limited by so-called sexual roles and sexual stereotypes.

In one of his letters to me, he wrote: "I want both sexes to feel liberated, to be completely HUMAN beings, experiencing all the joy, pain, grief, love, hate and ecstasy which both sexes are capable of."

His favorite quote, he says, is from Jane Addams, pioneer settlement house founder and first president of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

She said: "I am not one of those who believe . . . that women are better than men. We have not wrecked railroads, nor corrupted legislatures, nor done many things that men have done; but then, we must remember that we have not had the chance."

Addams' satire aside, I think Eddy Collins is one of a new wave of young men who would like to give women the chance to do things right.

The Politics Of Space

The very phrase, The Politics of Space, is bound to offend many to whom the contraction of American power is a prime political goal. "Come Home America!" George McGovern implored in 1972, and deep retreat emotions continue to stir in America today.

But listen. The Moscow reporters of the Associated Press bring us news of a huge new Soviet space project, nothing less than a permanent space colony, Cosmograd, with serious military capabilities. The AP reporters have been talking, "on background," as we say here, with people in the Soviet space program.

The new missile, called "G"—no doubt for Giant—is scheduled to lift off sometime in 1985. It will stand 300 feet tall, and put into orbit the cylindrical core of Cosmograd. The "G" missile dwarfs anything on the drawing boards for the United States.

The cylindrical core, at the outset, will house some 12 Soviet scientists. When multiple components are added, the space island will accommodate a rotating population of scientists, engineers and military astronauts.

Among its non-military uses will be the production of special substances in a germ-free environment. Cosmograd will be a space platform for further probes of the solar system.

But it will also have important military functions.

United States analysts are concerned that Cosmograd will have the laser capability of nullifying our nuclear deterrent, by knocking out our ICBMs as they leave the launching pad.

It will also be a potential source of strikes against our "eyes" satellites, which monitor minutely what is going on in terms of missiles and bombs in the Soviet Union.

Cosmograd may not, in the event, in fact possess these capabilities. We do not know that the Soviets have solved the problem of the "deteriorating orbit" that resulted in the final destruction of our own Skylab.

So far as we know, Soviet space technology is inferior to our own. According to NASA's Robert Jastrow, the Soviets have attempted two moon landings, but missed the moon's orbit, sending a couple of Cosmonauts into eternal space.

But the meaning of all this seems clear to me. At the very moment when pessimistic movements are growing stronger in the West, and demanding strategic cut-backs, the Soviets are seeking ways to advance, gain an advantage, and . . . win.

The new "G" giant rocket and its Cosmograd product are not "conservative" or "stabilizing" phenomena. They are potential "breakthrough" phenomena.

One never really knows about the potential military practicability of these things, but there remains in the mind the sardonic crack of Soviet Ambassador Andrei Vishinsky, who, upon coming to the United Nations, began by saying that he had never been outside the Soviet Union. Then, he paused for an exception. He said that he had once visited Latvia, and turned in for the night. But, he said, when I woke up I was in the Soviet Union.

I myself do not think that I would like to go to sleep in America and wake up in Poland. And a wary eye on Soviet capabilities is the only way to guard against that.

refused permission to emigrate—were physically assaulted in September. One suffered a black eye and the other had his face stepped on by anonymous assailants outside an apartment building they were about to enter.

Police who were summoned to the scene showed far more interest in the identity of the dissidents than in their assailants. The delegation, headed by former Foreign Minister Flora MacDonald, eventually left Russia under the unofficial protection of some American Marines from the U.S. Embassy.

The KGB thugs are unimpressed with a visitor's V.I.P. status. The wife of Rep. John Porter, R-Ill., was strip-searched on her way out of the country. She reported that two Russian women kicked her legs while they "searched my body cavities." Another woman in the group, an aide to Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., was also subjected to a blatantly unsanitary intimate examination.

OUR READERS WRITE

Business People U.S. Foundation

There are over 10 million men and women in America out of work. Many of these people are losing their homes, their lights have been cut off and the car payments are overdue. The only way they can feed their children is with food stamps.

I wonder what they think about the individual that has a regular job and wants to strike for more money.

I was listening to some jerk on television tonight, blowing off steam about the low paid teachers in Florida. I am sure he was connected with the teachers union and he had some ladies with him complaining about the cheap Florida schools.

The cheapest paid teacher in Florida makes close to a thousand dollars a month. That is not as much as the governor makes, but it is a lot better than being out of work and living on food stamps.

Every power-seeking politician in America feels sorry for the underpaid city, county, state and federal employee, who is underpaid with all the fringe benefits known to man and a fat pension waiting for them. But have you ever heard a politician say, "I am sorry for the small fry businessman that has just gone broke?" He has no fringe benefits, no pay raises, no pensions and very few that care.

To listen to our governor and school superintendents you would think the world was coming to an end because our 10 billion dollar state budget is going to fall short by three or four million dollars.

The state budget shouldn't have been over seven billion in the first place. Have you noticed that the higher the state budget goes, the more broke they get?

There are hundreds of thousands of small businessmen in the state of Florida. These small businessmen and women are the foundation of our nation. Month after month their profits are dropping. Can they strike for higher profits? Do they have some union boss to tell the state legislature and governor to give them a larger profit so they can save their business? If they strike, the nation will go under.

The Constitution of the United States says that our country will be run by duly elected officials. That means to unionize our tax paid individuals would be unconstitutional. That would mean that union bosses would be setting our tax base, rather than duly elected officials.

If you don't like what the taxpayer is paying you, resign and work for private enterprise.

Divorce Inhibits Pals

Growing Older
U.S. Rep. Claude Pepper

Q. I was divorced last year after 32 years of marriage. I can't tell you how insensitive people can be. Friends my ex-husband and I shared for all these years have stopped calling me or inviting me to dinner or to join them for any social activities. Don't they realize I'm the same person I was?

A. I have heard from many people — men and women — how difficult the adjustment to single life can be after a long marriage, whether it ends in divorce, or the death of a beloved spouse, as in my own experience.

The struggle is sometimes made worse the problems others have in coping with your new status. Many of those old friends probably feel sorry about your circumstances and don't know how to express their feelings to you. Others are a bit more shortsighted and tend to look at people as "couples" instead of as individuals. In either case, it may be more comfortable for you to initiate the reunion with your friends by inviting them to your home or simply calling them on the phone. If they have the chance to see that you are adjusting well to a different lifestyle, their own discomfort will probably be lessened.

There are enough strains in coping with divorce and loneliness that one ought not be faced with alienation from friends as well. Offer them a gracious and open attitude. If that doesn't help to renew the relationship, focus on new friends and the new elements of your life.

I'm sure your true friends will recognize that you are indeed the person whom they have cared for over many years. And as for those whose dinner parties require "matched sets," your individuality may be a bit too challenging. Let them go. Their maturity will come later.

Q. My husband agreed last year to retire early from his company, even though he was only 60 and would have liked to continue working. The company gave him what looked like a nice cash settlement, as an incentive to take his pension and leave. But now we're finding it's hard to live on that, and Joe is having trouble finding another job.

A. This is a serious and growing problem. Many older workers who thought they were getting a valuable "golden handshake" on the way out are finding that the early-retirement package is gross, not gold. They're too young to get any Social Security benefits to supplement their pensions, and they frequently can't find other jobs — in part because the openings have been filled by younger workers laid off earlier. So, people offered early retirement should think hard about what lies ahead, and not let themselves be pressured into doing what may not be best for them.

It's also vitally important for the government to do more to expand the older worker's options: Improve pension portability, increase job-retraining opportunities, and stimulate more opportunity for part-time work. We're working to see that this is done.

Q. I am about 15 pounds overweight, and at 62, that's no good. But like everybody else, I hate diets. What do you think about those new pills that let you eat whatever you want and still lose weight? As I understand it, they block the digestion of starches so that they don't turn into calories.

A. I am a die-hard skeptic when it comes to any diet pills or regimens that promise easy answers to complex health questions. The "starch-blockers" you're talking about sound like every dieter's dream, but be wary. They have never been tested for negative side-effects and long-term health implications. In fact, a Chicago court has recently ordered a halt to the manufacture and distribution of the "starch blockers" on the basis that they are a drug, not food item, as contended by the manufacturer. The Court held that as a drug, they should be subjected to Food and Drug Administration testing procedures before they are approved for human consumption in this country.

I think your decision to lose excess weight is a good one, but I highly recommend you let your physician prescribe a balanced and healthful diet and exercise program to achieve your goal.

Q. My mother had a harrowing experience last week. She was victimized by a man who came right to her home and said he was a plainclothes policeman. She let him in, and he convinced her that she had somehow broken the law. Before it was over, she had given him $750 in cash. The real problem is, I can't get her to talk to the real police about it.

A. Your mother is probably embarrassed about being "taken" and blames herself for letting it happen. What she needs to know is that the kind of "con game" to which she fell victim is not uncommon. Almost any of us, unprepared, could be victimized in exactly the same way.

There has been a rash of police impersonations here in Washington, for example. One point that law enforcement officials stress is that older people may be more vulnerable to such impostors than others. The reasons are: first, because of their trusting and respectful attitude toward the police, which has resulted in their reluctance to ask for proof of identity; and second, their susceptibility to the trumped-up charges which such impostors use to terrorize them into turning over their money.

Older people are sometimes less trusting of themselves and believe they may have unwittingly passed the counterfeit bill or crossed over the law in some other way as the impostor suggests. A con man is one who plays with the mind and looks for just that kind of susceptibility to achieve his criminal goals.

The police have made some suggestions to help people prevent this kind of crime. First and foremost, if an individual comes to the door and claims he is a policeman, demand identification. Require him to display the identification folder and badge of your town's officers. This will not be an insult to a real policeman. It is the police themselves who are asking citizens to take such precautions.

Secondly, be aware that the police, except in hot pursuit of criminals, must have a warrant before they can enter your home to search or confiscate money. If a person claims to be a policeman with authority to search your house, ask for his identification and warrant. And call the police. Ask an officer in uniform to come and identify this plainclothes officer.

And lastly, encourage your mother again to go to the officials. Her experience may help others to avoid the same victimization.

Lyman Sports Fan Disappointed

I would like to address this letter to Sam Cook's boss. I think you should keep a closer account of the way Mr. Cook presents his opinion of this county's high school football teams and the schools they represent. I make this suggestion as Mr. Cook shows no self-restraint in his articles that repeatedly try to belittle the principal (Nov. 7, 1982) and the coaches (Nov. 8, 1982) of Lyman High School.

Mr. Cook's attacks on Lyman High School personnel should be stopped. If these attacks are based on a personal vendetta as it seems to be, they should not appear in a featured column in the newspaper. It would be more appropriate for Mr. Cook to express his opinions on the Editorial pages, as this is the section reserved for personal opinions and someone would be able to edit Mr. Cook's special talent for word distortion.

I would like to applaud Lyman High School's students, faculty and administrators for the fine school Spirit and values they exhibit especially under such adverse pressure. Keep up the good work 'Hounds.

Reader Balks At Sports Articles

I am writing this letter because of the article of Monday, Nov. 8, 1982, by Sam Cook. I do not want to start or add to any name calling and accusations among our schools, and I do think your allowing of Mr. Cook to take his personal vendetta of one school, out in your paper is distasteful. This article is one of spite, as the only school said to do anything wrong is one in which Mr. Cook was once a part of.

I feel the strong competition among our schools is good, but I also feel that the newspaper that serves the whole area should be for the people of the whole area, and not for one man's vengeance.

This is not the first time Mr. Cook has used this paper in this way, but I hope it will be the last.

I respectfully request that my name not be printed.

General Funds For SS Opposed

The Maitland South Seminole Chamber of Commerce recently sent the following letter to President Ronald Reagan:

Now that the 1982 elections are over, there are rumblings on how to best solve the Social Security shortfall. We are strongly opposed to using the general revenue to eliminate the shortfall.

Ways must be found to preserve the integrity of Social Security as a self-paying entity without general revenue support. Social Security entitlement must pay its own way and stand on its own. To do otherwise is a cop-out.

Emergency CB Channel Explained

Being new to the world of CB, while I am no expert (I have been in it since 1975 and my husband since 1968), I will attempt to help explain things to you.

The original idea of Emergency Channel 9 was a good one although it hasn't worked well for a while. It could be that someone heard you, but perhaps you had your squelch turned too tight, or your RF gain backed off too far. If that was the case, you might not have heard them come back to you. A lot of people do this to cut out the skip and ground noise that is so bad these days.

We never use either of these because sometimes we can hear someone come in with the noise level.

There have been a lot of good groups organized on Channel 9, but because of bickering, etc., they have disbanded. There are still some that monitor but they are few and far between. We never joined a group because we did not want to be tied down to certain hours every day. Also, we have found from experience, that we have better results on other channels — namely, Channel 19. We do what we can with our base station and mobiles to assist people — be it for emergencies or directions.

God bless the truckers and any other motorists who help the stranded. My best friend had a blowout on I-4 one day and before she could even get her mule in her hand a trucker pulled up, changed her tire, and didn't want anything for his services.

Don't give up — hang in there! We have found some of our greatest and best friends thru the CB.

Americans Paying Price For Supporting Of Israel

By MAX MORRIS
(Guest Editorial)

It is time for plain talk and straight thought about America's relationship with Israel. Just as Israel's elected government must put its perceived national interests first, so should our own administration give priority to America's national interests. It is evident that these two sets of interests do not necessarily coincide.

History shows examples of previous divergences. One occurred exactly 15 years ago last week. In June, 1967, Israeli jet fighters and torpedo boats deliberately attacked a U.S. Navy ship. Thirty-four U.S. sailors were killed and 171 were wounded aboard USS Liberty.

Our president then, the late Lyndon Johnson, did not order retaliation. In fact, he and his secretary of defense, Robert S. McNamara, called back the 8th Fleet jets that were sent to protect Liberty within minutes after its uncoded radio call for help was received.

I know, I was on the bridge of the USS Saratoga when the radio call for help came, when Captain Joe Tully, bless him, ordered the protective jet launch and when the White House ordered us to recall the jets.

The Israelis continued their attack on American sailors for almost an hour more. We were forbidden to help and could only listen to Liberty's calls for air cover, thanks to President Johnson and McNamara, who was appointed the next year to head the World Bank.

Israel was following its national interests that day. It did not want U.S. authorities to know what was happening in its preemptive Sinai attack. There is clear evidence Israelis knew that Liberty was a U.S. Navy ship. The attack was deliberate and there was no mistake. They lied when they later claimed otherwise. Just as Prime Minister Begin lied about going only 25 miles into Lebanon last week.

President Johnson was never pressed to say why he felt it was in the U.S. national interest not to protect American sailors. Perhaps he just wanted to lose no U.S. ethnic support for the Democratic Party by shooting down Israeli jets. But it was his decision and he made it.

Those of us involved will never forget what he and his aides did that day. At worst, it was close to treason. At the least, it was a gross misconception of America's true national interest.

President Reagan could fall into similar error in regard to present Israeli actions. The cost to U.S. citizens would be high, literally and figuratively.

The international political costs of tacitly supporting Israel's attacks are manifest. We are becoming isolated not just from moderate Middle East states but from Western allies, too. This cost will climb.

Other costs are less obvious but may prove even more expensive. On the economic side, U.S. taxpayers again will have to pay a major portion of Israel's defense expenditures, including those for the attacks that have killed thousands of Lebanese civilians.

A year or so ago, a local rabbi, in response to a column, wrote that Israel had never asked Americans for any "personal sacrifice." That year the aid, forgiven loans and other assistance that Israel extracted from American taxpayers was over $2 billion. This year it will reach $3 billion.

A quick calculation shows this amounts to a subsidy of about $3,500 U.S. tax dollars for every family unit in Israel. Poorer U.S. families whose benefits have been cut might consider these billions going to a developed, semi-socialist state a "personal sacrifice."

An even more deadly hidden cost is the gratuitous exposure of our latest military technology to the Russians. Editorials speak glowingly of the successes of the F-15 and F-16 jets, plus other advanced systems that our administrations have given to Israel. Each jet, for example, is equipped with sophisticated electronic countermeasures and guidance radar. The latest air-to-air missiles are being fired.

Russian "security-group" men in Syria are monitoring every attack, every signal, every radar-jamming action. Moscow's military masters are learning what we would use if they attack the West. They can alter weapons and develop countersystems. U.S. pilots eventually will "pay" for this unneeded use of our newest systems, perhaps with their lives. No "personal sacrifice?"

Syrian MIGs and SA-6 missiles, on the other hand, are obsolescent and poorly operated. We gain nothing new in knowledge of Russian systems from the Israeli successes.

A final hidden cost can still be avoided. Israel and its U.S. support bloc want to gull us into placing U.S. troops along the borders with Lebanon and Syria as a "peacekeeping" or buffer force. Major U.S. media that are pro-Israel quietly are pushing this as a quid pro quo for "persuading" Prime Minister Begin to withdraw his attacking army. Again, no "personal sacrifice?"

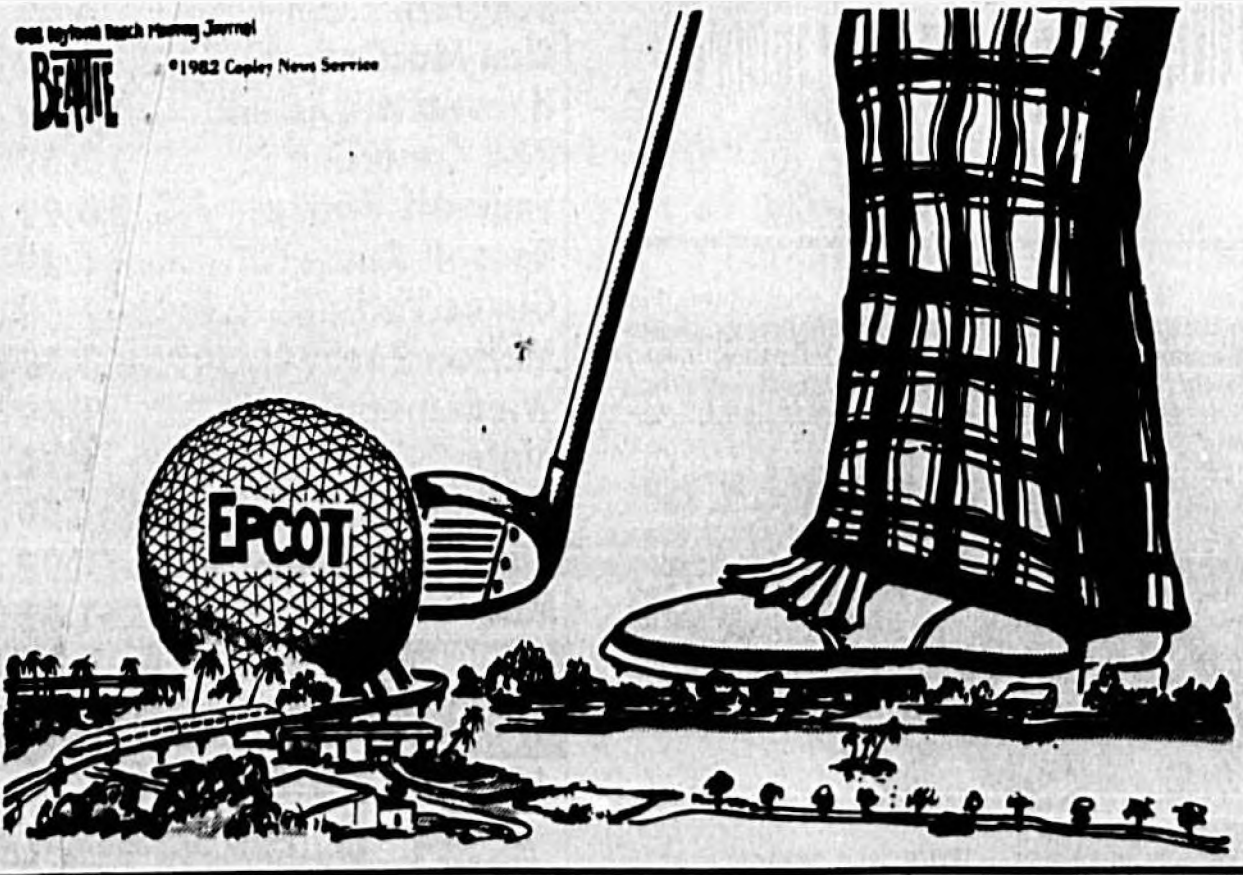

Americans already are along the Egypt-Israel border as a "tripwire" force. Israeli military officers have told me that this was their strategic dream for decades. Contrary to news stories, they could hardly wait to give back the Sinai once America agreed to guard their own border for them. Again, is this no "personal sacrifice?"

If they trick us into doing the same thing in the north, it will leave them free to concentrate on their remaining border and attack Jordan if they wish, no doubt claiming retaliation for "provocation and attacks."

It is totally unacceptable for U.S. troops to be ordered to such duty. We need to tell our senators this today and demand a clear response. If we delay, the pro-Israel lobby and its media friends will pressure Congress and the president to send a U.S. force to "insure peace."

As state, Prime Minister Begin (now in Washington) can follow what he perceives as Israel's national interest. He is the leader of that state.

We, in turn, should do the same. We have laws about use of U.S.-supplied weapons. We have rules about use of U.S. soldiers. We have reason to cut foreign aid. What our president and Congress need to do is think straight and put U.S. interests first for a change.

Germs May Cause Arthritis

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Arthritis, a disease afflicting nearly half of Americans over age 60, may be caused by germs called mycoplasmas, a University of Florida scientist says.

"Research suggests, but has not proved, a relationship between certain forms of human arthritis and the mycoplasmas," Leonard Hayflick, an expert on the aging process, said Thursday. But a link between the germs and arthritis may not be apparent, because mycoplasmas may not attack a victim until 20 years after entering the body.

"People could be exposed to mycoplasmas when they are young, then develop arthritis late in life," he said.

Experiments have shown that mycoplasmas — the world's smallest creatures — cause arthritis in sheep, goats, rabbits, elephants, mice, rats, chickens, turkeys and gorillas, said Hayflick, who becomes president of the Gerontological Society of America this week.

Investigations by Hayflick proved 20 years ago that mycoplasmas cause walking pneumonia in humans. It was the first proof the microbes cause the ailment.

Hayflick now is involved in a three-year project to determine whether the minuscule organisms can give arthritis to humans.

Arthritis is widely viewed as an auto-immune disease — one in which the body treats some of its own cells as invaders.

Hayflick, who came from Stanford University to direct the University of Florida's Center for Gerontological Studies, said mycoplasmas could cause arthritis in "a sneaky way that would look like the body is producing an immune response to some of its own cells."

"After changing the chemistry of normal cells, the provocateur could disappear, but still the body's immune system would respond as if there were an infection," he said.

Hayflick's experiments will attempt to determine whether mycoplasmas change the cell chemistry in human bone joints, prompting the body's immune system to "recognize" them as foreign cells.

Link The Classroom And Workplace

Working To Stay Out Front In The High Technology Race

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

Keeping engineers up-to-date is one way of making sure America's bridges don't fall down simultaneously, telephones don't all go dead at once, satellites won't zig when they should zag and widgets won't stop doing — well, whatever widgets do to keep things working.

But keeping engineers up with rapid developments in this high tech world — lasers, computers, microprocessors, transistors — turns out to be a problem that authorities claim almost defies solution.

That's why a brain trust of educators and executives has been studying how America can keep cobwebs from draping the high tech workforce — including engineers and computer scientists.

The way to do that, says a brand new landmark report from four Massachusetts Institute of Technology professors, is this: —Team up high tech industries with schools where high tech education is dispensed.

—Then, link up workplace and classroom, using some of the high tech products such as state-of-the-art computers and video systems.

Presto: the latest in college courses on major developments can be beamed to offices of engineers and computer scientists. Result: the high tech workers are up-to-date!

The report, "Lifetime Cooperative Education," was delivered at a symposium marking the 100th anniversary of the MIT Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science in Cambridge, Mass., over the weekend.

Authors include Profs. Robert M. Fano, Louis D. Smullin, James D. Bruce and William M. Siebert.

Fano, head of the department, said the proposal is just that — at this point. To get it off the drawing board, the MIT professors suggest that a council be formed and charged with devising a modus operandi for the plan.

They recommend that the council be composed of chief executive officers of high tech companies and heads of engineering schools, plus leaders of professional groups — engineering societies, for example.

The MIT professors said "lifetime" learning must come on line for electrical engineers and computer scientists, especially if the United States is to maintain its technological health and its ability to compete in the world marketplace.

Without it, they warned, many engineers and computer scientists will be left far behind as new inventions pop up in multiples.

"Every four or five years there are developments that make a great difference," Fano said.

"Transistors, computers, microprocessors, the laser are in that category."

"Every four or five years, as a result, life is different in silicon and computer valley."

"Unless an electrical engineer or computer scientist keeps up, by the time he or she is 40, he or she is not so hot — maybe just second best."

Smullin said second best is no way to survive.

"The need is for 'first best,'" he said.

How swift is the flow of new information? Fano said it is so fast that by the time an electrical engineering student graduates, he or she already is somewhat out of date with the latest developments — compared with students behind them, learning the newest as a matter of revised basic courses.

The MIT professors said the off-campus instruction needed for the lifelong learning programs could be carried out by making use of tutored video instruction — TVI — pioneered by Stanford University in California.

State Cracks Down On Boaters To Protect Migrating Manatees

United Press International

As manatees start their annual migration to warm Florida waters from points as far away as North Carolina and Louisiana, state officials have stepped up enforcement of boating laws designed to protect the ocean-going mammals.

At the same time, wildlife experts are trying to figure out if the number of manatees is going down or increasing.

In an effort to reduce the number of manatees injured by boat propellers, Florida Marine Patrol officers have started intensively enforcing boating regulations in 18 areas where manatees congregate. The heightened enforcement effort is scheduled to last until March 31.

Signs warning boaters to slow down — some purchased with money raised by singer Jimmy Buffet in "save the manatee" concerts — have been posted in the affected areas.

Marine Patrol officials undertaken a public education campaign on manatees, also known as "sea cows," and Gov. Bob Graham declared November "Manatee Awareness Month."

Of about 1,000 manatees in Florida, 111 have died so far this year, three less than the 1981 total of 114, wildlife officials report.

Collisions with boats and barges caused 17 deaths, while three manatees died trapped by flood control gates. At least 39 are believed to have been killed by the mysterious red tide, and the cause of most other deaths is undetermined.

The sole Florida locale where the manatee population is known to be on the upswing is the Crystal River on the central Gulf coast, said David Peterson of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Wildlife advocates have proposed a manatee sanctuary there.

In the Fort Myers-Sanibel Island area, the number of manatees is known to be decreasing, Peterson said. The 39 deaths attributed to red tide occurred there in February and March.

"So many people are involved with the manatee protection program," Peterson said. "Yet there is so much we don't know. We can't even say whether the population is decreasing or increasing."

Spirit Week Continues At LMHS

"Homestaying" at Lake Mary High School did not end with last night's football game. The three days of this week will be a continuation of last week's "Spirit Week."

Each day of this week will be devoted to one of the three classes at LMHS. Monday will be Freshman Day, and all freshmen are supposed to wear as much green as possible, along with being granted special privileges. Tuesday is Sophomore Day and their color is blue, and Wednesday is Junior Day and their color is red.

During these three extra spirit days, there is expected to be a lot of class rivalry. To top off an exhilarating week, Lake Mary's homestay dance will be held at the school on Wednesday night at 7 p.m., and will last until midnight.

The 1982-83 Homestay court was recently selected at LMHS. The junior court for king and queen consists of: Paige Jones, Kyle Frakes, Lisa Boltzauer, Jeff Hopkins, Michelle Loudermilk, Will LaValle, Liz McKee and Scott Eusepi.

The members of the sophomore court are: Margaret Davis, Charlie Lucarelli, Mary Kathryn Bragg, Scott Sperrazza, Bridget Coeb and Billy Caughell.

The candidates for freshman prince and princess are:

National Honor Society Inducts 8 New Members

National Honor Society's induction ceremony was held Tuesday to tap eight new members. These students are ones whose grade point averages were not quite high enough at the end of last year for them to be admitted to the club.

However, in the first nine weeks of this school year, they were able to pull their average up enough to meet the N.H.S. standard. These students are Ladona Merrifield, Debra Franklin, Scott Meck, Melissa Moore, Carol Tardif, Kristi Hamilton, Susana Huaman, and Kaylyn Witherow.

The present officers of the club are Toai Doan, president; Aubrey Kendall, vice president; Georgene Hall, secretary; Christine Kozlowski, treasurer; Penny Morris, chaplain; and Lori Cox, social chairman. The senior members are Robert

New Smyrna Beach Buries Lake Mary In Season Final, 39-0

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

One of the Lake Mary High School marching band's best numbers is "We got the beat." Friday night in the Rams' "Homestay" it was more like "We got beat."

Beat, pummelled, hammered, pounded and a lot more adjectives serve to describe Lake Mary's 39-0 loss to the powerful New Smyrna Beach Barracudas.

"Frustration," that's how Lake Mary coach Roger Beathard summed up the loss. "New Smyrna Beach is an excellent team, they've beat some good teams and lost to Palatka (the state's top ranked 3A team) by only one point."

A youthful squad, key injuries and a tough schedule helped Lake Mary to finish with a 1-9 record in its first season of varsity football. New Smyrna Beach finished at 6-4.

"It doesn't get any easier for us," Beathard said discussing the Rams' step up to 4A competition next season. "We're just going to have to work hard in the off season and hope we're ready when the time comes."

The time came early for the 'Cudas, who scored their first touchdown at 8:11 in the first quarter as quarterback Jimmy Lewis darted 31 yards into the end zone. Barry McMullen's kick made it 7-0 and it stayed that way as the first quarter ended.

Lake Mary's best play of the first quarter was a 20-yard pass from Greg Shatto to Jeff Reynolds on a faked punt. The Rams scoring drive ended at the New Smyrna Beach 35 when a Scott Sperrazzo pass was tipped and intercepted by New Smyrna Beach's Brad Humphrey.

On its first possession of the second quarter, New Smyrna Beach mounted a scoring threat as they drove to the Rams' 25-yard line. The drive stopped there though as Donald Grayson intercepted a pass to give Lake Mary the ball.

The Barracudas came right back after regaining the ball and marched 51 yards for their second TD. Elvis Williams hurdled a Lake Mary player and went eight yards for the score. A two-point conversion pass from Lewis to Kenny Simmons gave New Smyrna Beach a 15-0 lead.

After receiving the ensuing kickoff, Lake Mary drove into Barracuda territory then, on a first down play, Sperrazzo passed to Reynolds who was hit hard and forced to cough up the ball.

New Smyrna's Mark Boucher grabbed the loose ball and rambled all the way to the Lake Mary 21 before Reynolds pulled him down from behind to save the TD.

Three plays after the fumble, Kelvin Davis scored from four yards out. The extra point was missed and the 'Cudas held a 21-0 lead as the first half ended.

Lake Mary took the second half kickoff and ran six plays before having to punt.

On its first possession of the second half, New Smyrna Beach scored on its third play as Lewis scampered 57 yards for his second TD of the night. The kick was missed again but the 'Cudas led, 27-0.

New Smyrna Beach scored two more times, once on a 30 yard run by Davis and again on a 75 yard pass play from Lewis to Humphrey.

Lewis was the game's leading rusher with 116 yards on just five carries. New Smyrna Beach had 407 total yards compared to 96 for the Rams.

"Inexperience and injuries really hurt us this season," Beathard said. "That and the schedule plus we couldn't do anything consistently."

Lake Mary will be in the Five Star Conference next season as Apopka is expected to drop out of the conference and play in the Metro conference.

Lyman Captures Five Star, 6-0

By IRENT SMARTT
Herald Sports Writer

Rivalries are never easy games, no matter what the stakes or previous records of the two squads.

Friday night at Lake Brantley Stadium held this fact true again as heavily-favored and now Five-Star and District 4A-9 champion, Lyman (7-3), outlasted Lake Brantley's Patriots, (2-8), 6-0 in their annual backyard scuffle.

The Greyhounds open the first round of the state playoffs next week at Satellite Beach.

"There never has been and there never will be an easy Lyman-Lake Brantley game," projected a relieved Lyman coach Bill Scott.

Prep Football

On this lackluster, defense-dominated brawl, a Lyman fourth quarter 90-yard drive punctuated by an 18-yard Jerry Axley to Theo Jones screen pass would be the only mark on the scoreboard all night.

The first half was played entirely between the 20's. No real threats upon the scoreless tie was made.

It wasn't until the third stanza that a serious charge was mounted. Brantley marched the pigskin from its own 20 to the Lyman 1 on 12 straight running plays. The big blow came on a 42 yard burst by sophomore Steve Emmons and a late hit call on the aggressive 'Hound defense.

This series placed the ball on the Lyman 7. Senior tailback Andy Rariden rammed the ball to the Lyman 1 on three carries.

A fourth and goal coach Dave Tullis, once again sent Rariden up the middle, but he was stopped in his own tracks.

After lateraling back to QB Dennis Groseclose, who rambled in, the referee informed all that the play had been blown dead on Rariden's charge, inches short.

"Tonight we had two different teams," exclaimed Scott. "Our offense didn't have it but our defense came to play."

After the Lyman defensive uprising, the 'Hounds' offense made its only appearance of the night. Lyman, taking over at its 10 after a punt, scrambled its way on tosses to various targets. On the drive Axley completed 6 of 8 attempts, most of the screen or dump variety.

With first and 10 at the Lake Brantley 18, Axley scrambled left, spotted Jones with several blockers in front of him and whipped a screen pass to the elusive senior.

Jones, following his blockers superbly, broke one tackle and stumbled into the end zone with 4:14 remaining for what would be the game's only score. The kick for the PAT failed, but the 'Hounds had all they needed for the school's first football championship.

No real threats were made by the inspired Patriots as Scott and his 'Hounds escaped with the title. "Ya, we'd like to have won it, 50-0, but when you play a rivalry you take what you can get," said Big Bill. "The last two weeks we've had an easy road. We were bound to have a let down."

Field general Axley gave credit to the Patriots, "They had the toughest 'D' (defense) we've faced all year. We never knew what they were going to do."

Later, Axley summed the whole night in one sentence. "We just didn't come ready to play."

Raiders Top Edison, Play Miami For Title

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Luis Phelps, Keith Whitney and Rudy Kuiper combined for 59 points Friday to lead the Seminole Community College Raiders past Edison Junior College, 79-68, in the first round of the SCC Raider Tournament at SCC.

The Raiders' victory made Bill Payne's first coaching venture a successful one and moved SCC into Saturday's championship game against powerful Miami Dade South, an 87-77 winner over Palm Beach in Friday's first game.

"They'll be real tough," said Payne about Miami, which finished second in the nation last year and returns five players from a team which won 33 in a row. "They just come down and jam it in the middle."

Tipoff Saturday is 8:30 p.m. The consolation game is between Palm Beach and Edison. It starts at 6:30 p.m.

SCC, meanwhile, fell behind early Friday, but rallied on some clutch inside shooting of Phelps and Kuiper. Whitney, who didn't shoot well during the preseason, responded with some outside bombs to keep Edison at bay.

Phelps, a 6-6 sophomore who went to Springstead, hit 8 of 14 field goals and 5 of 8 free throws to lead all scorers with 21 points. Kuiper, 6-10 center from Arnhem, Holland, connected on 8 of 16 buckets and 3 of 6 charity tosses for 19. Whitney popped for 19 too, including the first three-point (beyond 21 feet) in SCC's history. The rule was instituted in Division II this year along with the 30-second clock.

For the game, the Raiders hit 29 of 60 fielders for 48 percent. Edison was 30 of 83 for just 36 percent. SCC was consistent, hitting 15 of 29 in the opening 20 minutes and 14 of 31 in the last half.

Edison, 0-2, jumped on top early behind the shooting of James Ashley, who beat the Raiders outside on short jumpers.

The Raiders, however, regrouped behind the scoring of Phelps, Whitney

Whitney turned in several steals and banged home some of his patented left-handed jumpers to key the surge. Kuiper and Phelps hurt Edison inside with the help of some good feeds from sophomore Ricky Sutton and Whitney.

SCC built the lead into three points at halftime, 35-32. During the first few minutes of the game, though, the Raiders lost point guard Jimmy Payton on a rebound play under the basket.

"I'm really worried about Jimmy,"

Leon (Wright) came off the bench and did a heck of a job."

— Bill Payne

said Payne. "We're going to take him to the hospital Saturday morning. There's pain on both sides of his knees. It might be ligament damage."

In the second half, the Raiders spurred to a nine-point advantage and kept it there despite some long-range gunnery by Edison.

"They must have tried six straight three-point plays," said Payne. "We had the inside blocked out within two or three feet of the basket, but the rebound kept bouncing long."

The three-point efforts didn't pay off for Edison, however, as it hit just 3 of 12 tries and couldn't get any closer than seven points.

Payne pointed to a nifty relief job turned in by sophomore Leon Wright for the reason the Raiders held together down the stretch.

"Leon came off the bench and did a heck of a job," said Payne about his diminutive (5-8) guard. "He came in for a seven or eight minute span and made several key steals and led our fast-break."

Ashley led Edison with 16 points while Jerry Woodka tossed in 11.

In the night's first game, Miami knocked Palm Beach, 4-1, from the unbeaten ranks with a well-muscled inside attack from 6-9 Bernard Innocent, 6-8 Hector Rodriguez and 6-5 forward Nelson Fernandez. Kenneth Walker snipped away outside for 17 points.

"They just clog the middle," said Payne about Miami which held just a 43-42 halftime lead but blew open the game in the closing 20 minutes. "We're going to have to get on the boards to beat them."

SCC's Luis Phelps drops in two of his game-high 21 points in the Raiders' victory over Edison Friday night at SCC. The Raiders play powerful Miami Dade South Saturday night for the championship. Tipoff is 8:30 p.m.

Yarborough's 3 TDs Trip Cocoa Beach

J. W. Yarborough scored three touchdowns Friday night to lead the Oviedo Lions to their sixth straight victory, a 21-13 triumph over the Cocoa Beach Minutemen in Oviedo's Homecoming.

The victory raised the Lions' record to 7-3 after getting off to a slow 1-3 start. Cocoa Beach finished the season at 6-4.

Cocoa Beach got off to an early 6-0 lead as quarterback Mike Allen connected up with Scott Megregian for 56 yards and a touchdown.

Oviedo erased Cocoa Beach's lead as in the second quarter Yarborough rambled 37 yards for his first touchdown of the night. Rob Moody's extra point put the Lions up 7-6 and it stayed that way as the first half ended.

Prep Football

Yarborough picked up where he left off in the second half as he put the Lions ahead to stay on a 21-yard touchdown run early in the third quarter. Moody's point put Oviedo ahead, 14-6.

Cocoa Beach was halted by the rugged Oviedo defense for most of the second half. Kevin Yentz led the Lions on defense with eight solo tackles and four assists. David Butterfield chipped in with six solos and three assists while Tommy Johnson added two solos and two assists.

Oviedo took a 21-6 lead, still in the third quarter, as Yarborough ran 15 yards for his third TD. Yarborough ended up with 98 yards rushing on nine carries (73 of those on the touchdown runs) giving him a total of 84 yards for the season.

Cocoa Beach scored one more time on a 21-yard pass from Allen to Megregian. Allen ended up with 133 yards passing.

Oviedo will now go up against Seminole County for Lake Howell in the post-season Rotary Bowl. — CHRIS FISTER

J.W. Yarborough romped for three touchdowns Friday night as the Oviedo Lions won their sixth straight game, a 21-13 conquest of Cocoa Beach. The Lions tangle with Lake Howell, a 34-30 winner Friday. In the Rotary Bowl Saturday at Lyman High School.

Lake Howell's Rally Stuns Boone

Prep Football

The Lake Howell Silver Hawks and the Boone Braves staged a high-powered offensive show Friday night at Boone High School in Orlando with Lake Howell coming through in the final minute of the play for a 34-30 victory.

Lake Howell had 486 yards of total offense (634 yards counting kickoff and punt returns) compared to 345 total yards for the Braves.

"It was definitely an offensive ballgame," Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia said. "Boone was ahead 16-7 at halftime but we came back and scored all but one time that we had the ball in the second half."

Boone scored three of its four touchdowns on the night through the air, on passes of 23, 25 and 47 yards.

"We knew we had to score a lot of points to beat Boone," Bisceglia said. "They usually put up a lot of points and they hurt us tonight on the gimmick plays (option passes)."

The victory gives the Silver Hawks a 6-4 record and they will play Oviedo (7-3) in the Rotary Bowl. Boone finished at 3-7.

Lake Howell, trailing 16-7 at the half, opened up in the second half with 14 points in the third quarter. The first score came on a two-yard run by quarterback Troy Quackenbush and the second was on a one yard run by Jay Robey. Robert Kerr kicked both extra points and, after the third quarter, Lake Howell trailed 22-21.

Lake Howell carried its momentum into the fourth quarter as Robey rambled 10 yards for his second touchdown. The conversion failed but the Silver Hawks took a 26-22 lead.

The stingy Braves regained the lead in the fourth quarter on an 11-yard run and a two-point conversion run.

With time running out in the game, Lake Howell mounted its final scoring drive. With 43 seconds left in the contest, Quackenbush found Jeff Solomon in the open for a 15-yard TD pass and the clinching score. Kerr's point made it 34-30.

"This is the second winningest season in the history of Lake Howell," Bisceglia said of the Hawks' 6-4 record. "And it's good to know that most of our players will be returning next year."

Robey was the game's leading rusher with 197 yards on 22 carries. Robey ended the season with 1,011 yards rushing, the first Lake Howell ball carrier to ever gain over 1,000 yards in a season. — CHRIS FISTER

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Crooms Cagers Open Season At Brantley Frosh Tourney

A round-robin pre-season basketball jamboree will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 22 through Thursday, Nov. 24 at Lake Brantley High School for freshman teams.

Lake Brantley, Lake Mary, Crooms, Oviedo, Bishop Moore and St. Cloud will compete in the jamboree and the pairings are as follows:

Tuesday, 4:30 p.m., Oviedo vs. St. Cloud, 6:15, Lake Mary vs. Crooms, 8:00, Lake Brantley vs. Bishop Moore.

Wednesday, 4:30, St. Cloud vs. Bishop Moore, 6:15, Crooms vs. Oviedo, 8:00, Lake Brantley vs. Lake Mary.

Thursday, 4:30, Bishop Moore vs. Oviedo, 6:15, St. Cloud vs. Lake Mary and 8:00, Lake Brantley vs. Crooms.

The team or teams with the best record will receive the first place trophy and there will also be a second place trophy.

The Crooms Panthers, under coach John McNamara, are a quick team but size has McNamara a little worried. "We have a small team, there will be no six footers in the starting lineup," McNamara said. "We will rely on quickness and have a lot of good ball handlers and good ball movement."

Seven players are fighting for starting positions including Robert Hill, Daryl Williams, Alvin Jones, Mike Wright, Dexter Franklin, Garnell Cooper and Melvin Brinson. The remainder of the Panthers squad includes Ed Cotton, Alan Mitchell, Tony Harris, Theron Liggins, Dennis Lawrence, Marc Klein, James Jones and Tony Wilson.

"We won't know much until the first few games but this may be the smallest team ever at Crooms," McNamara said.

Rose Wins Flagship Seniors

Sanford's Pauline Rose took the Flagship Senior Handicap Tournament this past week at the Mayfair Country Club. Miriam Andrews was second in the Flagship Bank sponsored tourney.

In the weekly point tournament, Grace Sayles and Mary Anderson shared honors for the flight one division with six points. Zella Eissele and Margaret Botts tied for second with seven.

In flight two, Pauline Rose and Irene Harris logged top place with four each. Diddie Weber was second with five and Jane McKibbin was third with seven.

Mary Ann Buhmann's seven was an easy winner in flight three. Alice Potter was second with 11 and Lawanda Sandon was third with 21.

In the fourth flight, Vern Smith won with nine. Pinky Miducky had a 10 as did Connie Fowler. Carolyn Nelson, Ann Moore and Hallie Skura had 13s.

IBCA Plans December Tipoff

The initial organizational meeting of the newly formed "Inter-County Basketball Association" (ICBA), was held this past week at the Altamonte Civic Center.

Indicating interest in playing with the ICBA this coming season were the Winter Park Recreation Department, Altamonte Rec. — both Eastmont and Westmont branches, the South Seminole Hurricanes, the Tusawilla Warriors, the Jackson Heights Bobcats, St. Mary-Magdalene of Manland, Eastonville, the All-American Rebels, Manland and possibly three other Church teams.

The league season will begin after the Christmas holidays with the majority of games on weekends. Gyms that will be used include Lake Howell High School, Oviedo HS, Winter Park Jr. High, Rollins College and possibly one or two Church gyms. In addition to this the ICBA teams will play numerous prelims to college games at Rollins, Seaboard and Seminole Community College.

A December kickoff will feature a jamboree at Lake Howell the second or third Saturday of the month and a Christmas Tournament open to all league teams plus any other groups that wish to play.

The divisions that are planned are: Varsity Boys, Varsity Girls (both 8th grade maximum); JV boys, JV girls (both 7th grade maximum), Peewee boys, Peewee girls (both 6th grade maximum), and Peanuts (mixed 5th grade maximum).

Teams will play between 9-12 league games depending on final numbers in each division. The post-season playoffs will begin the end of February and wind up before the various local youth baseball leagues begin league play.

For those teams, organizations or groups that wish further information about the ICBA, or wish to enter a team, contact Mickey Norton at 831-6786. Also, any teams that wish to participate in the ICBA's Christmas Invitational Tourney, also contact the same number.

Unbeaten 'Sting' Eyes Tournaments

Soccer

Coach Larry Betsinger's F. C. United 460 (under 14 age division) "Sting", sponsored by Scan Design, has completed another undefeated season. In the past five seasons the "Sting" has lost only one league game.

As 12 year olds, the nucleus of this team captured the prestigious Florida Cup for the state championship. Last year, at 13, they came in third in state cup competition. Over the past five seasons, they have compiled an impressive record, counting tournaments, of 127 wins, only 14 losses and 5 ties.

This season F. C. United 460 captured their division title in the Central Florida Youth Soccer League by winning all eight of their games, scoring 65 goals in the process and giving up only two.

The "Sting" is comprised of Scott Betsinger, Shaler Bowers, Bryan Droze, Chris Graham, James Guggenheim, Todd Hamilton, Gordon King, Peter Kinsley, Peter Knudsen, Scott Kowalski, David Mackey, Sean Mackey, Michael Moody, Jeff Phillips, Jerry Phillips, and Jeff Shirkey.

Future plans for the "Sting" include playing in the F. C. United Thanksgiving Invitational Tournament, the Sun Bowl International in Tampa at Christmas and Florida Cup play in the Spring.

The F. C. United 060 Hornets, under 10 age division, who last year won the Florida Cup State Championship in the under 9 division, is continuing its winning ways this season. The Hornets have defeated all seven of its league opponents and have secured the division title.

F. C. United 060 racked up 48 goals (an average of almost seven per game), the defense, with the help of goalie Marcus Dewberry, did not allow a single goal.

The other Hornets are: Matt Bird, Barry Coleman, Eric Garcia, Steven Hoffman, Jeff Karson, Paul Klaus, Sergio Lopez, Scott Massey, Carl Mitchell, Corey McCormick, Steven Soistman and Ryan Thomas. The team has accepted an invitation to the F. C. Thanksgiving Tournament and is looking forward to a strong spring season under coach Steve McCormick and assistant coach Reid Thomas.

Two other F. C. United Soccer teams had undefeated seasons this Fall. They are Coach Paul Frangoulis' under 16, 661 Lowenbrau made up of Steve Ames, Jeff Amon, Isaac Bobbe, Paul Bontempo, Mike Case, Mark Chapman, Mike Hendrix, John Mahoney, Brian O'Casek, William Penberthy, James Phillips, John Phillips, Eric Reesman, Kevin Ryter, Michael Serino, Robert Sundmaker and Keith Young; and Coach Bill Kroll's under 11, 160 Tornados with Mark Bines, Sean Cagan, Jeff Cohen, Marc Cohen, Sammy Florio, Brian Greenspoon, Lee Knudsen, Tommy Kroll, Ronald McKechnie, Jon Mendelsohn, Corky Orr, Riad Saidi and Donovan Tucker.

Two F. C. United teams lost only one game. Coach Ron Brooks' under 12, 270 "Jr. Sting" had an almost perfect season, winning seven of eight games to take the league title in their division. The "Jr. Sting" is made up of Alex Ballaudo, Brent Barkett, Travis Betsinger, Jonathon Brooks, Eric Chase, Kevin Fowler, Troy Hamilton, Ron E. Jenkins, Greg Kowalski, Michael Murray, James Nobile, Chuck Reinighaus and Danny Fournier. Coaching duties are shared with assistant coach Hugo Ballaudo.

Right Play, Wrong Result For Jets

Pro Hockey

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (UPI) — Winnipeg goaltender Doug Sotaert made the right play, but got the wrong result.

"If the shot from the point would have been on the net I would have made the save," Sotaert said about the goal that lifted the Washington Capitals to a 3-2 tie Friday night against the Jets, in the only NHL game scheduled.

"I was out challenging the shooter but the puck went wide," he added. "I went after it, but one of their guys beat me to it."

Dennis Maruk, who picked up two assists in the game, dug the puck out of the corner and Mike Gartner notched the equalizer midway through the third period.

"This gave us the confidence we needed," Gartner said after extending Washington's unbeaten string to six games. "The first period and a half was just terrible, but we finished it off well and that should carry us into the next game."

"I'm not really disappointed, because I thought it was a hard-fought hockey game," Jets' Coach Tom Watt said. "Our power play is beginning to be a concern though. We used to be the best in the league."

Teagle, Rockets Tear Up Indians, 109-98

Pro Basketball

United Press International

Thanks to Terry Teagle's rookie heroics, Houston Coach Del Harris finally got something to laugh about.

After two-time MVP Moses Malone was traded and Robert Reid retired, Harris came up empty in the club's first 10 times out. But Friday night, Teagle scorched Indiana for 30 points to spark a 109-98 triumph at Market Square Arena.

Harris watched in gleeful disbelief when the Rockets ran up a 20-point lead with 4:38 remaining.

Supplementing the 14-for-22 shooting and 6-assist performance by Teagle, 37-year-old Elvin Hayes added 24 points and a game-high 12 rebounds. Billy Knight led the Pacers with 21 points, but Indiana was plagued by 25 turnovers in falling to 5-6.

"The key to the success of this team is how much our older players are willing to play like younger players," said a relieved Harris. "We have five players over 30 years old."

"We knew it'd be a difficult start with the new people, free-agent situation, et cetera, but we didn't know it would be this tough."

Elsewhere, Seattle beat Cleveland, 101-94, Philadelphia whipped Milwaukee, 121-108, Boston beat San Antonio, 119-111, Detroit edged Golden State, 106-102, Chicago defeated Utah, 127-111, Los Angeles trounced Washington, 122-92, and Portland topped New Jersey, 118-108.

SuperSonics 181, Cavaliers 94

At Seattle, Jack Sikma and David Thompson scored 17 points apiece to pace six Seattle players in double figures as the unbeaten SuperSonics earned their 12th straight game.

78ers 121, Bucks 109

At the Spectrum, rookie forward Russ Schoene scored a career-high 25 points and Moses Malone added 17 points and 16 rebounds to pace Philadelphia to its 10th win in 11 games.

Celtics 119, Spurs 111

Robert Parish scored a season-high 33 points and grabbed 15 rebounds and Charles Bradley sparked a fourth-quarter surge at Boston Garden as the Celtics whipped the Spurs for the eighth straight time.

Pistons 106, Warriors 102

Kelly Tripucka scored 26 points, Isiah Thomas added 22 and the duo combined for Detroit's last 11 points to help the Pistons snap a two-game losing streak with a home victory.

Bulls 127, Jo' 111

At Chicago, Reggie Theus scored 25 of his career-high 42 points in the opening half to help the Bulls to a 65-60 advantage and Chicago held on despite a 35-point performance by Utah's Adrian Dantley.

Lakers 122, Bullets 92

At Inglewood, Calif., Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 23 points in just three periods and his replacement, Bob McAdoo, added 20 as the Lakers dealt the Bullets their fifth straight loss.

Trail Blazers 119, Nets 108

Calvin Natt matched his season high of 27 points and five other Portland players scored in double figures to produce the home victory.

Strange Season

Seminoles Try To Salvage Gridiron Year With Pass

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

You know it's a strange football season when Seminole High School tries to win a game by throwing the ball instead of running it.

Yet, Thursday night at Daytona Beach's Memorial Stadium, the Seminoles died for the 10th and last time this year by that unknown thing in these whereabouts — the forward pass.

For Seminole to go 0-10 in football is beyond comprehension. Especially after winning the Five Star and district championships last year. The Noles were the first team ever to go undefeated in the Five Star. This year they were the first team to go winless in the school's history, according to Principal Wayne Epps' best recollections.

Still, 0-10? It seems impossible. Next to Lyman, Seminole usually has the best talent in Seminole County with Oviedo a strong third. This year seemed no different, although that talent was a lot younger.

But they weren't any younger than Lake Brantley and the Patriots won two games, including a 15-14 victory over the Tribe. Brantley also beat Lake Mary, which wouldn't play Seminole, according to Epps.

One of the most perplexed is coach Jerry Posey. Posey felt this year's team, despite losing 20 starters, would win three or four games and maybe surprise a few others.

Never in Posey's wildest dreams did he ever conceive himself going without a victory. But as the season wore on it became apparent the 'Noles only chance would be against Lake Brantley and the season finale — Spruce Creek.

Spruce Creek pretty much dominated the Seminoles until the fourth quarter. The score was just 21-7 at the time but the Hawks had rushed twice as many times and had messed up two scoring chances.

Suddenly, Rendell Manley broke away for a 90-yard TD run with just over five minutes left in the game and Seminole had a chance.

Spruce Creek, however, had controlled the line of scrimmage all night and getting the ball back might be a problem. With a little over three minutes to go, though, the unlikely Hawk of all — tailback Billy Elmore — coughed up the football and Brian Debose recovered on the Hawk 32. Elmore rushed for 205 yards in his previous 29 carries.

Seminole's usual supply of talented backs — Manley, Ron Burke and Jo Jo McCloud — moved the ball down the field until a McCloud 5-yarder gave the Tribe a second and five at the Spruce Creek 10. McCloud, however, couldn't get out of bounds and the clock continued to tick.

tumbling from a 1:09 to 42 seconds when quarterback Mike Futrell brought the Seminoles to the line of scrimmage.

Futrell took the snap, faked a handoff to a running back and dropped back to pass. He had plenty of time. The fake was good and the linebackers froze.

McCloud delayed and then drifted into the middle of the end zone. He was open, wide open. He waved his hand to get Futrell's attention. He waved again. Futrell spotted him and let fly. Hawk linebacker Kenry Kovach moved up quickly in front of McCloud and snatched the ball...and Seminole's last chance for a victory.

McCloud immediately went to his knees and put his head to the ground. It was an emotional moment for the sophomore back. To be open and not found is the nightmare of any receiver. The scene had agony of defeat written all over it. Herald Photographer Tom Vincent wasn't there to capture it, but it's something that I'll never forget.

There was immediate speculation as to why Seminole threw the ball. Futrell completed only one pass prior to the fatal throw and had already been intercepted.

And the running game was moving the ball without too much trouble. Time was not on the Seminoles' side, however, and Posey felt the Hawks were stacking too many people in the line for any running play to work.

"They put an extra man on the line," pointed out Posey. "Our belly series had been real wide open. But the last two times we hit it, it gained just three yards each time."

Posey didn't feel a run by either Burke or Manley would get the necessary 10 yards. Two runs would be cutting it awful close since just 42 seconds remained when Futrell took his last snap, he reasoned.

But what about the one-remaining time out? It was there, ready to be used if necessary. "The clock was running down and we thought the play-action pass would get it (the touchdown)," said Posey. "Mike (Futrell) just waited too long to throw the ball."

Futrell is in his first year of varsity football and as he will be the first to admit, it's a learning experience. The pressure was intense at this point of the game because the whole season, or what could be salvaged of it, rested on one play.

Futrell was probably looking to the sideline. That would be the safest way to go. If he didn't complete the pass, there would be less likelihood of an interception. Plus, an incompletion would still put the Seminoles in good shape for another attempt.

Still, was it wrong to call the play when the running game was moving the ball? Probably not. The fact that McCloud was open should be justification enough that it was the correct call. If Futrell throws the ball a split second earlier it would have been a touchdown. And, if Paul Griffin kicks the extra point, the Seminoles have some pretty good momentum going into overtime.

Posey said no one goes with the two-point conversion any more because your percentages are better to play the overtime.

Of course the question still remains, could the Seminoles have scored by feeding the ball to Manley twice and taking their chances?

Maybe. But it should be remembered that Futrell is a junior. It's important for a coach to show confidence in his quarterback. Especially if the young man is going to be around next year.

Posey showed that confidence Thursday night. It didn't pay off this time, but it may in the future.

A healthy Rendell Manley might have made a difference in Seminole's winless season. The flashy senior running back missed five games with a broken bone in his ankle but still rushed for 581 yards and averaged over 10 yards per carry.

LSU, Florida State Battle For The Bowls Saturday

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — It will be the nation's second-best offense taking on the number two defense in the country Saturday night as 7th-ranked Florida State visits 13th-ranked Louisiana State in a battle for the bowls.

The winner of the contest is expected to gain a berth in the Orange Bowl, while the loser should receive a bid to the Gator Bowl.

For LSU, the game is a chance to redeem itself after last week's 27-24 loss at Mississippi State, the Tigers' only defeat of the season.

The Seminoles have declared it a "sod game." If it wins, FSU will bring home a clump of turf and plant it in a sod graveyard near its practice field with a tombstone marking the date and score.

The importance of the game has placed extra emphasis on normally mundane facts such as the starting time. LSU officials refused to move the game up from 7:30 p.m. to 11:30 a.m., which would have assured national television exposure.

The teams would have been given $1.1 million if LSU had agreed to the switch, a move also favored by bowl officials not eager to wait until late at night to give out bids. While the Tigers would have shared their $550,000 with other Southeastern Conference teams, the Seminoles would have kept their entire share since they are independent.

College Football

"You cannot expect to win a national championship and never be on television," said an infuriated FSU Coach Bobby Bowden, who said he would play at 4 a.m. if television officials so desired.

Bowden claimed LSU was undercutting its own recruiting by refusing to switch the game time.

"When you recruit a kid, what are you going to tell him — 'Son, come to LSU and you'll never be on television, but we'll fill the place up every Saturday night?'"

LSU Athletic Director Bob Brodhead said fans — who remember that the Tigers switched to a day game in 1979 and were beaten 24-18 by Florida State — opposed the time switch.

"I'm not prostituting anything for that amount of money," Brodhead said.

Florida State, which practiced this week to the strains of piped-in crowd music as a way of preparing for Tiger Stadium, brings in an explosive offense.

The Seminoles have averaged 486 yards a game, with 262 yards passing and 221 rushing per contest.

Sophomore tailback Greg Allen leads the FSU attack and the nation with 29 touchdowns, and is expected to be ready despite a sprained knee. Senior tailback

Ricky Williams has 706 yards rushing, including three touchdowns.

Junior quarterback Kelly Lowery, who has accumulated 1427 yards and 10 touchdowns passing while completing 53 percent of his tosses, splits time with senior thrower Blair Williams.

The Tiger offense features freshman running backs Dalton Hilliard and Garry James, who have combined for 1,122 yards and 12 touchdowns, while quarterback Alan Risher needs one touchdown pass to break Bert Jones' records for season (14) and career (28) scoring aeriels.

Dolphins Bypass Road Games, Taper Down Training Practice

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins, limbering up for their meeting with the Buffalo Bills Sunday, have bypassed some of their most difficult road games due to the NFL player's strike.

The Dolphins were back on the field for a third day of workouts, preparing for their weekend battle with only one practice-related injury so far. Rookie wide receiver Vince Heflin pulled a hamstring muscle during a Thursday workout.

"We're starting to taper down in our preparations for Sunday's game," head coach Don Shula said. "There are a few players a little overweight, but everyone appears to be in pretty good shape."

Shula, however, said the Dolphins will have a tough assignment in facing Buffalo quarterback Joe Ferguson.

"Their quarterback has really matured in the last two years and they've got the best speed at the receiver position that I've ever seen. Five of their six receivers run a 4.5 or better," he said.

All things considered, though, the Dolphins could count themselves lucky to have missed some of their toughest games of the season during the 57-day player's strike.

First they sidestepped a Sept. 26 game in Green Bay, against a Packer team that was 2-0 with 64 points racked up against the Rams and the Giants.

Then they missed a trip to play a Cincinnati Bengal team as good as the team that made it to the Super Bowl last year.

Finally, they by-passed a long distance flight and a tough fight against the 2-0 Raiders in Los Angeles, a Raider team that had wipped defending champs San Francisco and the Atlanta Falcons.

While all of that may have been to their advantage, the players focused on their ioust with the Bills, and praised the warm weather that has graced their three days of practice.

"I don't know about the the schedule," said linebacker A.J. Duhe, "but the weather has to help enormously. I heard (Buffalo Coach Chuck) Knox say a couple of weeks ago that his guys would have a hard time breaking a sweat."

"Here, we've had the good heat, we still have it," he said. "The first practice, we felt like we were just like back into it."

Defensive end Ken Poole is in a hospital recovering from a disc operation and rookie tight end Dan Johnson suffered a cut on his hand that required 26 stitches to close.

Winner Has Lock On Playoff?

United Press International With the NFL schedule cut by 44 percent, the winner of Sunday's Miami-Buffalo clash in Rich Stadium will own a virtual lock on a playoff berth three games into the season, barring a total collapse.

With only nine weeks planned for the regular season instead of the standard 16-game schedule, a 3-0 record would put the Bills or Dolphins in prime position for a postseason spot, with eight of the 13 teams from each conference qualifying for the playoffs.

The Buffalo-Miami game is the only matchup of the weekend involving a pair of unbeaten teams and the Bills got a pleasant surprise Friday when their offensive catalyst returned to camp.

"I expect to play on Sunday," said All-Pro running back Joe Cribbs.

environment.

"I enjoy serving the people of Lake Mary in the mayor's office," Sorenson said. "I feel I am doing a good job and wish to continue."

Olvera said, "It's time for a change." Among changes he is contemplating are administrative in nature to give city residents easier access to city officials who can help them solve problems.

Olvera feels that Lake Mary Boulevard, controlling growth and zoning changes will be the major problems facing the city in 1983.

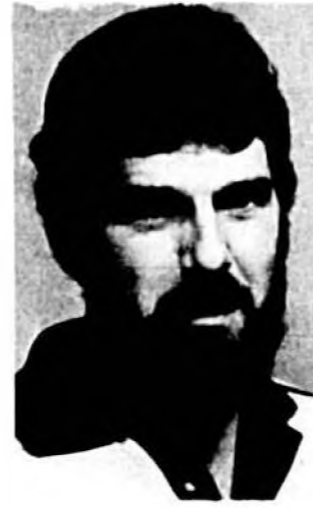

He said he is running for office to create stronger and more positive administration policies. Olvera said he will take a strong stand on issues. "I will not take a middle of the road approach to solve the city's problems," Olvera said. He added that personnel changes must be made for the betterment of the city.

Fess said a proper drainage and paving study must be conducted and implemented. He said a drainage plan should be implemented immediately with a paving plan implemented as residents are ready to help the city pay for the improvements.

The major problems that Fess sees in Lake Mary's future years are properly managing anticipated growth and protecting the environment and natural resources while developing necessary services to complement the city.

He said he is running for mayor to be involved in the planning and implementing of the city's development.

"I believe my business experience in budgetary and fiscal policy making will be of benefit in managing city matters," Fess said.

Incumbent Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson (above) is being challenged for his fifth consecutive two-year term by City Councilman Dick Fess (above right) and former councilman Vic Olvera. The municipal election is Dec. 7.

Fed Eases Credit; Economy Stagnant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the economy at a standstill, the Federal Reserve Board focused on the recession and decided to lower the discount rate, the special interest rate for bank borrowing.

The long-awaited Fed action came late Friday after the stock markets closed. The Fed's discount rate was lowered half a percentage point to 9 percent, reinforcing an easing in the cost of credit for everyone.

It was the sixth time the discount rate was lowered since midsummer. But this time the Fed's action assumed center stage as a symbol to investors and economists of a basic adjustment in underlying monetary policy, not just in technical management of bank reserves.

The stock markets had been bouncing up in anticipation of the move for weeks and occasionally slipping somewhat in disappointment when a week would go by without any change.

Stock prices on Wall Street, wrapping up a volatile week Friday, plunged even though interest rates fell prior to the Fed's action.

"The bond market failed to respond to a sharp drop in the federal funds rate banks charge one another and that scared the stock market," Newton Zinder, E.F. Hutton vice president, observed.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 10.65 points to 1,021.25 in a seesaw session.

The Fed went beyond its usual one-line statement about adjustments necessary because of the general level of interest rates, to say the action was taken amid "indications of continued sluggishness in business activity and relatively strong demands for liquidity."

...Repair Jobs Require Money That's Just Not Available

besides the St. Johns River to receive effluent, Price said.

County Drainage Engineer Paul Magnant said Midway's drainage problems alone will cost almost $5 million to solve.

"It's flat table land," he said. "It's good celery land but not good for homes."

Magnant said 76.35 acres in Midway need to be acquired for drainage. That property, plus the installation of lines and other work is estimated to cost $4,886,800.

Drainage in Lockhart is the least expensive of the county's five trouble spots. For Lockhart, more than $1.1 million is needed.

In the Lockhart-Smith drainage basin further west of Sanford, more than $5 million is needed.

But the most expensive drainage problem is in Rolling Hills near Longwood. In Rolling Hills, a subdivision of relatively expensive homes, paving and drainage will cost more than $11.6 million, Magnant said.

And while the residents said the county is doing nothing to solve their problems, Magnant disagreed.

He explained the county allocated funds to study what needs to be done and how much it will cost to accomplish those goals.

The next step is to appropriate funds to achieve the goals spelled out in the studies.

But that is the stumbling block. Seminole County commissioners have set a policy of not using countywide tax money to pay for capital improvement programs in any area.

That limits the funds available to federal and state grants or special taxing districts, like those set up to provide street lighting for many areas of the county.

Federal funds have all but dried up since President Reagan took office. This year, the county has applied for a $500,000 Community Development Block Grant. If the proposal is accepted, Winwood will receive drainage, street and sewage improvements.

But that grant won't begin to cover the $1,879,786 that Magnant said is needed for proper drainage in Winwood.

Municipal service taxing districts are impractical in areas like Winwood, Lockhart and Midway, Magnant said.

"With the homestead exemption, most of those people don't pay any property taxes," he said. "They can set up the district but it wouldn't generate much income."

Magnant said the county is working to solve the drainage problems in those troubled areas.

"We are doing what we can do and that's land acquisition," Magnant said.

In Midway one basin has been acquired and negotiations are underway for acquiring another. In the Lockhart-Smith area, one has been acquired and in Rolling Hills several have been purchased.

Magnant said the county is acquiring the basins slowly, as funding permits. The longer the process takes, the less implementable the drainage measures become.

"The real worry is that if the acquisition is delayed the land may be developed," he said. "If that happens, I don't know what we'll do."

are sparked in lower income homes "because these are the people who just can't afford central heating or the best heating methods. However, they can use caution when using other methods and that's what we want to get across to them."

To prevent heat-related fires this winter:
— Keep fireplaces and chimneys clean, open the damper and use protective grating to keep embers in the fireplace. Read the instructions concerning the burning of artificial logs, and make sure the chimney is properly insulated in the attic to prevent a fire from starting there.

— Read instructions on space heaters concerning fuel or voltage to be used. Don't place heaters in doorways, walkways or near combustible items, and make sure they are properly vented to the outside. — Use the kitchen stove for cooking only and never for heating the home. (McCluan said that a recent report from Maryland states that victims of sickle cell anemia should not use space heaters because of limited ventilation which could cause additional medical complications. Use only UL (Underwriter's Laboratory) approved heaters. Make sure the heater is equipped with a protective grill on the heating element, an emergency shut-off, and never cook on a space heater. If an extension cord must be used, use a heavy-duty cord.

Don't pile blankets and clothing atop electric blankets. The blanket wiring could short circuit and start a fire.

— Install a smoke detector, or several smoke detectors, in the home to alert family members of danger should a fire break out.

"Believe it or not, but we don't have as many fires started in the home by kids as we do by their parents," McCluan said. "And those fires are purely through carelessness and failure to follow a few simple, but necessary, rules."

Neel and McCluan said that although their departments will not repair malfunctioning heaters or fireplaces, city and county firefighters will inspect heating units and try to determine the cause of any possible problem.

"More than likely, we'll refer them to a gas or electric company or private heating company to fix the device or even tell them what the problem is exactly," Neel said. "But if they are concerned that their heater or fireplace could be a potential fire hazard, we'll be glad to check it out."

IN BRIEF

This Week, FP&L Goes After $281 Million Rate Increase

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Florida Power and Light Co. sought a record $476 million rate hike from the Public Service Commission last fall and got half of it. FP&L goes after the rest this week, plus $62 million for good measure.

The PSC will decide probably late Tuesday whether to approve some or all of a $281 million rate hike which the Miami-based utility claims is necessary to keep it on a sound financial footing.

Any rate increase would be FP&L's second in just over a year. The company won approval of a $257 million hike in September of 1981.

The PSC staff said a week ago that FP&L should get only $130 million of the $281 million rate hike it is seeking.

But Friday, staff members changed their minds, saying they now believe a $194.2 million increase is justified.

Trooper Gives Up Fight

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—An official fired during the scandal-prompted shake-up of Florida's highway safety department will abandon a fight to keep his job, and instead will be allowed to resign.

Florida Highway Patrol Major A.P. Floyd reached an agreement with the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles whereby he will resign as FHP major in charge of south Florida field operations. The pact also stipulates that Floyd's lawyer will stop trying to embarrass former highway safety director Jim York and that Floyd will drop an appeal to the Career Service Commission.

Floyd, a 29-year patrol veteran, was fired in September by York, then acting director of the department. Floyd was charged with failing to report a traffic accident in a patrol car he was driving and scheduling FHP business to bring him to Miami and Orlando for personal business.

IN BRIEF

No Major Change Expected

In Chinese Foreign Policy

PEKING (UPI) — Diplomats said the reshuffling of China's foreign and defense ministers signaled no change in Peking's effort to improve relations with the Soviet Union.

Foreign Minister Huang Hua, steward of Chinese foreign policy since the end of the Cultural Revolution in 1976, was replaced Friday, one day after returning from a trip to Moscow for the funeral of Soviet ruler Leonid Brezhnev. He was succeeded by First Deputy Foreign Minister Wu Xueqian, 60, a Communist Party veteran and Asian affairs expert.

Defense Minister Geng Biao, whose removal had been awaited since he lost important party jobs last month, was retired in favor of Gen. Zhang Aiping, 72. Zhang is credited with recently bringing about the successful testing of China's first submarine-launched ballistic missile.

Habib Begins New Talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — U.S. envoy Philip Habib returned to Beirut for new talks with President Amin Gemayel beginning today on the removal of all foreign forces from Lebanon.

Habib's arrival Friday came as Lebanese authorities arrested 12 Moslem and Christian men from south Lebanon suspected of involvement in the September massacre of hundreds of Palestinians in two Beirut refugee camps, a government source said.

Habib, who negotiated the evacuation of Palestinian guerrillas from the Lebanese capital in September, arrived on the first leg of a shuttle mission on the withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon and the future of the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. President Reagan has proposed establishing a federal entity linking the Palestinians on the West bank with Jordan.

King: Florida's Growth Has Gone About As Far As It Can

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Florida must "draw the line" on land development before urban sprawl ruins the natural beauty that keeps the state's tourism industry alive, a wildlife expert warns.

"Either we say Florida has developed as much as it can, or we say you can only develop in places where the resources will support the people," Florida State Museum Director Wayne King Jr. said Friday. "Otherwise, we're destroying many of the things that are attractive to people that make them want to come down here."

"Like large predators worldwide, the Florida panther, black bear and the eagle may be the first victims of urban sprawl because they must have a fairly large habitat area to support their prey species," said King, deputy chairman of the Species Survival Commission of the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources.

"We tell people now you can't put a factory in a residential area, and there's no reason we couldn't extend that principle statewide," he said.

To control the urban expansion, King called for tax incentives and statewide zoning regulations to allow Florida to grow without ruining the state's natural beauty.

"At a time when we're trying to reduce government spending, we ought not to allow development where we don't have the resources to support the people it will bring. With Florida growing at a rate of 7,000 new residents a week, letting south Florida continue to grow while it is running out of water is asking for trouble," he said.

Some south Florida residents already are proposing to divert water from the Suwannee River and possibly Silver Springs through pipelines and aqueducts, King said.

"It makes more sense to encourage people to develop in the northern part of the state where the water exists than to use that energy pumping millions and millions of gallons of water to south Florida," King said.

King, who was given Holland's Royal Order of the Golden Ark this year for his wildlife preservation work, said "it's time for Floridians to draw the line."

Wagons Ho! Modern, 'Compatible' Adventurers

Twelve couples belong to the Happy Campers.

B.R. and Fay Carroll get ready to roll.

By LORI DREW
Special To The Herald

Gathering what belongings they could manage in their covered wagons, the American families of more than a century ago joined the adventurous and headed west in caravans, searching for a new life.

Gathering the necessities plus some luxuries of their lives, Sanford's modern-day adventurers head for Central Florida's campgrounds in a caravan, searching for a weekend of relaxation and fun.

The going is a little slow, according to the wagon master. "We slow down if someone catches a light." The lights are red traffic lights over the pavement the nine vehicles roll. "You just don't travel that fast with nine motor homes! And we like to go together as much as possible," continued "B.R." Carroll. "We're just that kind of a group."

Twelve couples now belong to the family of "Happy Campers"—the name chosen after the first camping trip in March 1978 by the four married men and women who "really started the whole thing by accident," according to Carroll, one of the charter members.

"We just started talking about taking a trip one day," he explained. "Fay (his wife) and I camped in a van, another couple rented a camper, we took a mattress, fan and icebox and stayed the weekend at High Banks in DeBary."

Some changes have taken place since that first two days "roughing it." The group has grown and the wagon master and his wife chuckled at the thought of their "rough nights in the wild." On the contrary, steaks are the norm for Saturday night, and the tents on wheels are equipped with many a modern convenience, including electricity, water and the so-appreciated sewage.

The reason is simple. This friendly group is not looking to live in their forefathers' fashion. They're lookin' for "just a happy, good time."

As wagon master, Carroll coordinates the Happy Campers' weekends by making reservations when necessary and then typing a brief "newsletter" to be postman-delivered to each member.

"Ruth, bring your favorite pot of vegetables, Mary, six baking potatoes and Lucy, one of your favorite desserts." Although it may sound like an invitation to the Royal Order of the Moose pot luck dinner, it's actually an excerpt from one of Carroll's many copies of the Happy Campers' newsletter.

However, he just may have incorporated that Moose experience into the making of the merry travelers. After all, 11 of the men who belong to the campers have also made their niche in the local Moose membership.

Yet, in addition to that common interest in the community organization, these camping couples, age 62 and below, find that they are most "compatible." Carroll stresses, "We all get along so good. They (his friends and co-campers) are not people who want to run other people's business. We all cooperate."

Nearly all the men have also served in the U.S. Armed Services at one time or another; yet, their current livelihoods vary from mailman to helicopter mechanic, with furniture store owner, salesman and pipe fitter in between.

And with these various careers comes a common problem—taking respective vacations at the same time of the year. Consequently, the Happy Campers limit their trips to the weekends, striving for one each month.

"We started off kind of slow," remembers Carroll and his wife. During the first three years, from 1978 until 1980, camping came up approximately four or five times each year. "Then in 1981, things really picked up," said the wagon master, and Mrs. Carroll continued, "There have been so many trips I can't even remember (how many)."

Now, the group is working on getting together for horsehoes, shuffleboard, volleyball, cards, crocheting and fishing at least once a month, excluding November and December. They say no to November, but they're going anyway. The day after Thanksgiving is their next set departure date—this time to Crystal Isle, Crystal River for oyster catching.

It will be the group's first weekend at those grounds, although the Happy Campers have been known to repeat several trips. "Our favorite place is Sugar Mill Ruins in

The Carrolls relax at campsite with their friends. Carroll is the Happy Campers' wagon master, a position he says he 'loves.'

Career After 40

Beautician's Flair For Hair Began At Age 7

By LINDA HOLT
Special To The Herald

Ruth Winifred Hutchins, a fourth generation Seminole Countian, remembers her mother visiting Madame Harriet's Beauty Salon in downtown Sanford around 1924 and returning with one of the first permanents seen in town. She also remembers the price of $1 per curl and how really lovely her mother looked.

A couple of years later, her mother and sister sported the latest short bobbed haircut after having long hair since little Winnie's first memory. Impressed with curls and hairdos, 7-year-old Winnie use her 10 cents lunch money to buy a curling iron that needed to be heated in the kerosene lamp. She wanted curls of her own.

Growing up, all the females in the family came to Winnie for help in curling or combing their hair and she enjoyed assisting them.

She was artistic, delighting in art instruction at school, and she gained special attention in the class for her drawings and water colors. Being creative, she thought being a beautician might be glamorous work, but her mother encouraged all four sisters in the family to work especially hard in school and prepare for college. Her mother felt nursing or teaching would be a respectable field for ladies.

Winnie's great-grandfather, Michael Wallace Somerville, had migrated to Oviedo in Seminole County in 1870. He had been a college professor of Greek in Virginia and taught school in Oviedo for many years. Winnie's mother was influenced by the grandfather who lived with her family, and as a result, she valued higher education.

In 1937, during the middle of the Depression, Winnie, 17, graduated from Seminole High School as an honor student. College was out of the question due to the hard economic times.

Four months after graduation, Winnie Hutchins married a former classmate, John Cullum, and expected never to work outside the home.

Busy as a wife and mother to three children, Winnie didn't think about a career for many years. The days and years passed quickly, and at age 38, she felt a need to seek employment to help with the family finances.

John told her of a job opening on the newspaper where he worked. The newspaper needed a linotype operator and allowed John to teach her the craft. She worked for two years on the night shift while John was home with the children. Linotype was becoming obsolete, and Winnie decided to quit her job.

One day she says she took a ride to Orlando intending to inquire about enrolling at the Orlando Junior College. Nearing the college, she passed Woody's Hairstyling Institute and stopped in. She relaxed when she observed other women of her age as students. She was welcomed by the woman in charge and decided to give it a try. "I paid my money right then before I could change my mind!" says Winnie. During her training, she attended her high school class' 25th reunion. She was 42. Winnie believed then as now, "If you are afraid to try, you will have already lost the battle."

Even though her mother didn't approve of her working and told her that her husband would expect it from then on, she went to work in a beauty shop making a guaranteed $25 per week and 55 percent commission. Most weeks she brought home $31 since she did a lot of shampooing, manicures, cleaning-up the shop, etc.

As time continued, she built a clientele and felt proud of her accomplishments. She had new prestige in her family group as she was contributing to the family income again. Her first major purchase was a set of family room furniture that is still in use today. Her husband and children were proud of her, too, even though daughter Linda admits, "The house wasn't as spotless and I didn't like that."

After more than 20 years of working, Winnie is semi-retired, spending more time with her husband of 45 years. She plans to ease out of her career gradually.

Winnie has an interest in antiques because of the personal history behind them. "I like the idea that someone previously owned a piece of furniture and cared enough to save it." She forms attachments to old things such as the piano all of her children played and can't bear to part with them.

Five years ago while shopping for a special gift for a baby granddaughter, she bought a Madame Alexander doll. She liked the doll so much along with subsequent ones she bought that she soon had a collection of Madame Alexander dolls.

Among her collection are dolls of different lands, a set of first-lady dolls, storybook dolls, fairy tale dolls, and many others. She has promised the dolls to her granddaughters and her own daughter someday.

When asked if she's happy with the occupation she chose, Winnie replies, "I might have gone on down the road to the junior college and a 4-year degree to something less physically grueling. Young beauty students don't realize the amount of energy it takes to survive in the beauty business, but, yes, I like the choice I made."

Winnie Cullum's family members are happy with the choice she made, too. They still depend on her talent for hairstyling and wait for periodic visits home for her special touch.

Fall Frolics Ushers In Fun Holiday Season

In a setting depicting the bounty of autumn created by Richard Scott, the Board of Directors of Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole presented its First Annual Fall Frolics on Nov. 13, at the Sanford Civic Center.

It was a perfect evening for a fall gathering when there was food, fun and festivity for the large crowd.

Passenger, a five-piece combo, brought party revelers to their feet dancing to a medley of popular music.

A highlight of the fun-filled evening was a twist contest. Dancers presented unique versions of the dance craze that swept the nation during the 1950s.

Door prizes and a buffet of light snacks were added attractions.

During the festivities, Dora Lee Russell, a past president of the BGS board for seven years, was honored on her birthday. Also honored was Dr. Frank Clontz, Chief of Staff at Central Florida Regional Hospital. The band played "Happy Birthday," the couple blew out the candles and everybody was invited to share the cake.

Fall Frolics chairman Joe Monserrat said he was pleased with the large turnout and the support of the board and community.

Boss Wontenay said he and his wife Lori really "had a good time. It was such a nice crowd and we are looking forward to next year."

'Heaven's Very Special Child' Can Be A Burden Or Blessing

DEAR ABBY: For almost four years I have been a surrogate mother to five mentally retarded children, ages from 12 to 19, so I can relate to "Los Angeles Mother" who described the daily horrors and heartaches of raising a 30-year-old retarded son at home.

"My" kids are also severely retarded, so I know how draining it can be.

True, I can go home after putting in my 40-hour week, and I don't have to deal with them on my time off, but I often take one of my kids home on weekends, as well as holidays such as Christmas, Thanksgiving and Easter.

There are rewards, however. I have taught them how to eat, dress and bathe themselves. And they all have good manners. I am very strict, but I never abuse them. Their table manners are better than mine. They keep one hand in their laps, wipe their mouths when necessary and use sign language to say please and thank you. They could sit at the president's dinner table and make me proud!

When I walk down the street with them and strangers attempt to shield their "normal" children from mine, I could cry. Mental retardation is not contagious.

I'm not an administrator, I'm just a woman who cares. I earn less than someone who has worked in a supermarket for the same length of time, so I'm definitely not in it for the money. I truly love these kids.

As soon as I can afford it, I am going to adopt a lovable little girl I'm caring for. It won't be a problem. She was abandoned and has no family.

My heart aches for "Los Angeles Mother," who confessed that the thought of "mercy killing" had crossed her mind. She could have had worse problems. Her son could have been a

New Smyrna (beach)," said Carroll. But they have also visited Indian Mound, the Orange Blossom Jamboree, held near Lakeland, and others in the Central Florida area.

But the campers are looking to expand their horizons. "We have big plans for the future," says the wagon master who is not planning to give up his "loved" position. He has collected literature on Ocean Grove, St. Augustine, and Sebastian Inlet, searching out new adventures for the trekkers.

It is not that these camping friends do not enjoy each others' company more than once each month. It is just that when they move their motor homes together for two days under the open skies, they talk, tell jokes and have a good time without worrying about the time or how loudly they laugh. These couples from Sanford and surrounding areas take friendship and make it mighty neighborly because. "We love it!"

John H. Graham Jr. has been appointed manager of Southeast Bank's newest Seminole County location — the Casselton Banking Center which opened Nov. 15 at 1099 Semoran Blvd. in Casselberry — according to an announcement by Michael W. Sheffey, senior vice president of Southeast Bank.

Southeast's newest Central Florida banking location features Southeast Bank's Quick & Easy 24-hour banking service and is staffed by four full-time banking professionals.

"With the opening of our Casselton Banking Center, Southeast now has 10 banking centers in the Orange-Seminole County area to meet the banking needs of consumers and businesses in the area," said Sheffey.

Farmers Can Lead U.S.

Today's farmer is an ideal candidate to lead the nation's small and rural communities through many of the same problems that have plagued America's cities, an agribusiness executive believes.

G. Dee Smith, executive vice president of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, believes Farmers are well-equipped to "mobilize and wisely use our resources for rural America to grow in a planned and productive way."

"Today's economic and political climate demands that we as private citizens do more in our communities to make them the kinds of places where we want to spend our lives," Smith said.

"The future well-being of rural America is being severely challenged by changing population patterns, social changes and our tight economic times. No area of our country, perhaps, is in greater need of a commitment to effectively meet those challenges."

"The lifeblood of these communities continues to be agriculture," he said. "Agriculture isn't only a job or an industry. Agriculture is the foundation of many small and rural communities that cover virtually all regions of the United States."

"Today's farmer is more educated than the average American. A full 45 percent attend college, compared with only 30 percent of the general population," he said, "and as a group, farmers hold a strong voting record."

Prepaid Legal Fees Grow

Pre-Paid Legal Services, Inc., of Florida has expanded its services into Seminole County.

Kay Carson is the new sales representative in Seminole County for Pre-Paid Legal Services, according to Anne Cunningham, regional manager.

Ms. Carson said the popularity of the service is increasing as legal costs spiral and as more and more people find a need for legal advice.

The nationwide firm offers almost unlimited legal services for $7.50 a month. The firm is able to afford to pay lawyers their fees while only charging customers the set policy rate because of volume business, Ms. Carson explained.

She reported several recent inquiries from businesses and labor groups in the county who recognize the value of the service.

Policy holders have the freedom to pick their own attorney whose customary fee is paid in full by Pre-Paid. And Pre-Paid's legal service coverage extends to all members of the family.

Ms. Carson said the service is designed for the average person who increasingly is realizing a need or legal services to assist with divorce, will preparation, civil action, real estate selling or buying, consumer problems with retailers and manufacturers, traffic court cases and tax matters.

For Latins Too

Depressed Business To Continue Into '83

U.S. businesses engaged in Latin American activities are being adversely affected by a very difficult international economic environment which could last through the first half of 1983, according to J. Antonio Villamil, vice president and international economist for Southeast Bank.

Villamil says that adverse world economic conditions, mostly beyond the control of the region's policymakers, are the leading cause of Latin America's serious economic situation.

In a current issue of Latin American Briefing, a quarterly publication of Southeast Bank, Villamil explains the "economic difficulties in a number of major Latin American nations, as well as in most of the small Caribbean and Central American countries, are likely to continue next year — at least through the first half of 1983. Latin America's economic performance is significantly dependent on the behavior of industrial economies, particularly the United States," according to Villamil.

The U.S. economy, with high, real, inflation-adjusted interest rates, has remained stagnant since the end of 1979. This, together with stagnation in other major industrial countries, "has caused a noticeable contraction in the economic growth rate of the region, a reduction in export earnings, and a sharp increase in interest payments to service external obligations," says Villamil.

Although the Southeast economist sees as unlikely a marked improvement in international economic conditions through the first half of 1983, "U.S. corporations should not discount the possibility that industrial countries' economic performance could be better than expected during the second half of next year — especially given significant progress in lowering world inflationary pressures and growing sentiment towards the need to reflate world economic activity."

Latin American countries well-positioned to take advantage of improved conditions in the international economy include Brazil, Colombia, and Chile, says Villamil. Mexico and Argentina, he notes, "will still be laboring under a difficult external payments position, strong inflationary pressures, and increased political uncertainties."

Growth in U.S. exports to the Region is expected to remain sluggish in 1983 with some sharp reductions predicted for Argentina, Ecuador, Mexico and Peru.

Villamil also sees the exchange rates of most Latin American countries continuing to face downward pressure through the first half of 1983.

Pies

Eye-Appealing, Palate-Pleasing Desserts

Pie is probably the most American of desserts. Generations of good bakers have vied with each other to create pies which are a feast for the eyes, and delicious to eat.

When, as here, fillings feature those favorite flavors, chocolate and peanut butter, pies are indeed wonderful food. These recipes also offer convenience in the form of cocoa and peanut butter chips — and delectable crumb crusts, already prepared. Preformed, ready-to-use crumb crusts are found in a variety of flavors and sizes. Their versatility and convenience allow you to exercise all of your cooking creativity and they'll stay fresh in your pantry, too.

Each of these three ingredients is found on your grocer's shelves, near the rest of your baking needs. They combine deliciously in a variety of easy-to-put-together pies that rank among the best so, whether or not you win a ribbon, you're sure to win praises from the people who really count.

Take, for example, this super simple Fudgy Coconut-Nut Pie, an ideal hurry-up dessert to help you cope with unexpected company. Just combine ingredients in a single bowl, pour into a pre-formed crumb crust and bake. Since cocoa is a very highly concentrated kind of chocolate, taste will be extra luscious, color extra rich and deep. That crispy graham cracker pie crust provides complementary flavor — it comes ready to fill and pop in the oven.

CHOCOLATE-PEANUT BUTTER CHIP TARTS

- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1/4 cup cocoa
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup peanut butter chips
- 3 egg whites
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 packages ready-crust graham cracker tart crusts (12 crusts)

Blend butter or margarine, cocoa and 1/4 cup sugar until smooth in small bowl; set aside. Combine gelatine and 1/2 cup sugar in medium saucepan; blend in egg yolks and milk. Let stand 1 minute. Cook, stirring constantly, over low heat until gelatine is dissolved and mixture lightly coats a spoon. Do not boil. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Immediately pour 1 cup hot mixture into cocoa mixture; whisk until smooth. Add peanut butter chips to remaining mixture; in saucepan; whisk until smooth. Chill until mixtures mound slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites with 1 tablespoon sugar until stiff. Fold 1/2 beaten whites into chocolate; remaining whites into peanut butter mixture. Chill 15 minutes. Fill the 12 tart crusts 1/2 full with chocolate; top with peanut butter mixture. Or reverse procedure, placing peanut butter chip mixture on the bottom, chocolate layer on top. Chill completely — about 2 hours. Garnish with whipped cream and additional peanut butter chips, if desired.

FESTIVE FROZEN PEANUT BUTTER PECAN PIE

- 1 cup broken pecans
  - 1 1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine
  - 2 cups (12-ounce package) peanut butter chips
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
  - 2-3rd cup confectioners' sugar
  - 1 envelope whipped topping mix (to yield 2 cup topping)
  - ready-crust graham cracker pie crust
- Place pecans and butter or margarine in an 8- or 9-inch pan; toast in a 325 degree oven for about 7 minutes, stirring occasionally, until butter or margarine is melted and nuts are coated. Set aside to cool. Meanwhile, place peanut butter chips and 1/2 cup milk in top of double boiler. Stir constantly over hot, not boiling, water until chips are melted and blended with milk; cool 10 minutes. Beat cream cheese and confectioners' sugar until fluffy; blend in peanut butter mixture. Prepare whipped topping mix according to package directions; fold in peanut butter mixture and 1/2 cup of the toasted pecans. Pour into crust; sprinkle with remaining pecans. Freeze overnight. 6 to 8 servings.

FUDGY COCONUT-NUT PIE

- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1-3rd cup cocoa
  - 3 eggs, slightly beaten
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1/4 cup flaked coconut
  - 1/2 cup coarsely chopped nuts
  - ready-crust graham cracker pie crust
- Combine melted butter or margarine, sugar and cocoa until smooth. Add eggs and vanilla; blend well. Stir in coconut and nuts. Pour into crust. Place on baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until filling is set. Cool. Garnish with sweetened whipped cream and toasted coconut or chopped nuts, if desired.

MARBLED CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
  - 2 packages (3 ounces) cream cheese softened
  - 1-3rd cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1-3rd cup cocoa
  - 1-3 cup sugar
  - ready-crust graham cracker pie crust
- Sprinkle gelatine over 1/2 cup milk in blender container; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Heat remaining milk to boiling; immediately add to blender. Process at low speed until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 2 minutes. Add cream cheese, 1-3rd cup sugar and vanilla; process at high speed until smooth. Pour 1 1/4 cups mixture into large bowl. Add cocoa and 1-3rd cup sugar to mixture remaining in blender container; process at low speed until blended. Carefully spoon chocolate over mixture in bowl; swirl gently with spatula. Pour into crust; chill until set — about 3 hours. Decorate with chocolate curls, if desired.

EASY CREAMY PEANUT BUTTER PIE DELUXE

- 1 cup peanut butter chips
  - 2-3rd cup sweetened condensed milk
  - One 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
  - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
  - 1/2 cup heavy cream
  - ready-crust graham cracker pie crust
  - Whipped Cream Topping (ingredients and recipe below)
  - Peanut butter chips for garnish
- Place peanut butter chips and condensed milk in a small, heavy saucepan. Stir constantly over low heat until chips are melted and mixture is blended; remove from heat. Beat cream cheese and lemon juice in small mixer bowl until fluffy. Add warm peanut butter mixture; beat on medium speed 1 minute. Pour into crust. Chill overnight. Spread Whipped Cream Topping over filling and garnish with peanut butter chips just before serving. 8 servings.
- Whipped Cream Topping: Combine 1/2 cup heavy cream, 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla in small mixer bowl; whip until stiff.

COCOA-PEANUT BUTTER CHIP BROWNIE PIE

- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1/2 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1-3rd cup cocoa
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup peanut butter chips
- Ready-Crust butter-flavored pie crust
- Vanilla ice cream
- Peanut Butter Sauce (ingredients and recipe below)

Lightly beat eggs and vanilla in small mixer bowl; blend in sugar and melted butter or margarine. Combine flour, cocoa and salt; add to egg mixture. Stir in peanut butter chips. Pour into crust. Place on baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes; cool. Serve wedges with scoops of vanilla ice cream and Peanut Butter Sauce. 8 servings.

Peanut Butter Sauce: Combine 1 1/4 cups peanut butter chips, 1-3rd cup evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup and 1 tablespoon butter in small, heavy saucepan. Stir constantly over low heat until chips and butter are melted and thoroughly combined with remaining ingredients. Remove from heat; add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Serve warm. (For thinner sauce, add small amount of evaporated milk.) 1 cup sauce. Sauce may be reheated in top of double boiler over hot water, or in the microwave.

Tart and pies are favorite American desserts.

Bible Inspires Oil Search In Holy Land

By PEARLSHEFFY GEFEN
Special to the Herald

Tel Aviv — A Christian oil man from Texas is drilling a well in Israel, based on readings in the Bible and backed up by belief, technology and hard cash.

The story began during World War II, when fighter pilot Andrew C. Sorelle Jr., was strafing a German truck convoy in Normandy. His American Air Force Thunderbolt was hit by a German 88-mm. shell and went out of control.

The plane continued to do the impossible, and Andy Sorelle arrived intact back at his base. "After I turned off the ignition switch, I sat quietly in a supernatural hush. In that silence, God became real to me."

That experience changed Sorelle from a non-religious hell-raiser into a believer. Now 61, he spent years "wondering why God saved my life, when I saw so many good guys get killed. I felt I had a destiny, that God saved me for a purpose. I think I now know what it is."

In 1968, Sorelle and his wife visited Israel as part of a 13-nation tour. "Before that, I had never thought about Israel, but I became hooked, and I wanted to do something for the country. The only thing I knew, being a petroleum engineer and in the oil business, was that Israel needs oil and maybe I could help."

Several years later, he came to Israel to do an oil exploration job. "We surveyed most of the country, and found a few weak prospects, but nothing we wanted to drill. Then they asked us to go down to the Sinai. We stayed there a few weeks, mapped five very promising sites and asked for a license."

But that was in November 1977, and a week later, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat made his historic trip to Jerusalem. "They began the peace negotiations and asked us to wait. We waited for two years, and then they gave the Sinai back to Egypt, with the oil fields and the promising sites."

"There's a scripture in the Bible where God says, 'They that bless Israel, I will bless.' Well, we'd tried our best. But that seemed like the end of our venture in Israel."

It wasn't. Two years later, a college friend of Sorelle's came to him with a map of the twelve tribes of Israel. "There's a passage in the Old Testament, Deuteronomy 33:24," noted Sorelle, "where Moses, talking about the blessings of the twelve tribes, said Asher would dip his foot in oil. Well, on that map, the leg of Asher started in Lebanon, the heel of the foot was drawn in Haifa, and the toe in Caesarea."

"I suddenly realized that the only area we had not surveyed in Israel was between Haifa and Caesarea, along the coastline. So back we came to Israel."

Sorelle brought with him new equipment which his company, Energy Exploration, Inc., of Houston, Texas, had developed. Use of this equipment, followed by seismicographic and geological readings, confirmed Sorelle's belief that the Caesarea-Haifa stretch was "one of the most interesting geological prospects ever to be mapped in Israel."

He points out that he is drilling not far from Megiddo, the prophesied site of the battle of Armageddon. "The Bible says that Israel will be attacked by — and rapidly defeat — the Russians, who will be coming after 'spoils', which means something of great value. They wouldn't come for cucumbers and tomatoes. So there's got to be something big here, and that's oil. An oil discovery in Israel would certainly make us enemies mad."

"Everyone knows what Golda Meir said, that when Moses crossed the Red Sea, he turned the wrong way. Well, I don't believe he did. It simply wasn't God's time for Israel."

The Rev. Milton E. White, pastor of Mt. Olive Congregational Church, Tallahassee, Ala., founder and executive secretary of the Alabama Association of Congregational Christian Churches, will speak this Sunday at the Congregational Christian Church at 2401 S. Park Ave., Sanford, in commemoration of the church's Pilgrim heritage.

The Present Moment — God's Gift

Bad times — and these are bad times — wouldn't seem so terrible if we knew things were going to get better soon.

But in the present recession nobody will tell us that with any assurance. Not every economist is as pessimistic as the one who said recently, "Some unemployed people in their 50s may never work again." But even those who can muster some optimism about the future are hedging their bets on when we can expect a recovery.

If, however, we can for the moment keep from thinking of the uncertain — even bleak — future, we may be able to find something in the present for which to be thankful.

In her book, "Gift from the Sea," written shortly after the end of World War II, Anne Morrow Lindbergh says, "Since the war, Europe has been forced into a new appreciation of the present."

"The good past is so far away and the future so perilous that the present has a chance to expand into a glorious eternity. "Europeans are enjoying the present moment even if it means merely a walk in the country on Sunday or sipping a cup of black coffee at a sidewalk cafe."

The present moment is God's greatest gift to us. If we miss the wonder and enjoyment of it, a certain luminous quality will be absent from our lives, something that abundance, success or achievement of our goals cannot bring.

Happiness comes from an appreciation and a savoring of moments in our life which we can later recall with pleasure.

Here is poet Kenneth Rexroth re-living such a moment in his past:

I enter the ring of firelight, bringing you
A string of trout for our dinner.
As we eat by the whispering lake,
I say, "Many years from now we will Remember this night and talk of it."
Many years have gone by since then, and Many years again. I remember
That night as though it was last night.

Seminole Heights Baptist pastor, Dr. J.T. Cosmato (center) and co-directors of the building fund drive Vic Richburg (left) and Ned Julian Jr., have a lot to smile about.

Saints And Sinners

George Plagenz

We are most truly thankful when we have such moments in our lives to remember, moments which come to life "as though it was last night" that we experienced them.

Most of us have had more than our share of the good things which have been passed around in this world. We are thankful for them but yet we have to admit they have not brought us the happiness we seek.

This is often because we live such problem-oriented, future-oriented lives. Our preoccupation with our troubles and our fretful concern over the future — what we will be doing an hour or a week or a month from now — keeps us from enjoying the present moment and from "the recollection in tranquility" of the magic moments in our past.

Still it is true that trouble and worry lose their hold on us and on our attention in the measure that we experience the miracle of the present moment or can recall from our yesterdays those moments that have the quality of a "golden eternity" about them.

I think of those who have loved me,
Of all the mountains I have climbed
Of all the seas I have swum in.
The evil of the world sinks,
My own sin and trouble fall away
Like Christian's burden . . .

True thanksgiving includes gratitude for a moment at the breakfast table with a pot of coffee, corn muffins and marmalade or "a walk in the country on Sunday" as much as for good fortune, good health and a bountiful table on Thanksgiving Day.

Fund Drive A Success

Seminole Heights Baptist Church, Sanford, will celebrate the victory of its "One in the Spirit" drive to obtain gifts and commitments to build a new facility. The church presently holds services at Lake Mary High School and Covenant Presbyterian Church.

Presiding were Ned Julian Jr., assisted by co-director of the drive, Vic Richburg. Thirty-eight families pledged an average of $4,000 each. $203,932 through Tuesday night plus a sizable gift worth $500. The service will be characterized by prayers of thanksgiving and dedication.

Mormons Organize New Stake

DeLand has become the seat of a new stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons).

The new stake will include all of Flagler, Lake, Sumter and Volusia counties and part of Seminole County.

Marvin Knowles, a produce company owner, was selected to be president of the DeLand Stake by Elder Bruce R. McConkie, a visiting general authority from the church's headquarters in Salt Lake City. McConkie is a member of the church's Quorum of Twelve Apostles which governs the 5.3 million member church under the direction of the president of the church, a position currently held by Spencer W. Kimball.

Knowles' counselors will be Ranier Munns and Bruce Gordon, both Central Florida attorneys.

A stake in the Mormon church is a geographic division, like a diocese, in which several individual congregations operate. The DeLand Stake will have congregations, called wards, in Bunnell, Daytona Beach, New Smyrna Beach, Leesburg, DeLand and two in Sanford.

Announcement of the formation of the DeLand Stake came Nov. 14 during a conference session of the Orlando Stake on Sunday. More than 2,000 people participated in the semi-annual conference at the Orlando Stake Center at 45 E. Par St., Orlando.

To form the new group the Orlando Stake will lose the Sanford, DeLand and Leesburg congregations. The Jacksonville South Stake will lose the Bunnell Ward and the Cocoa Stake will lose the Daytona Beach and New Smyrna congregations.

The Cocoa Stake was formed in 1977 after a similar redistricting of the Orlando Stake.

ORGANIST HONORED

Mrs. Doris Milam, (center) organist at the First Baptist Church of Sanford, was recently honored at the church on her birthday. She was recognized for her many years of faithful service as church organist. The Rev. Paul E. Murphy Jr. (left) and David Haines, minister of music, presented Mrs. Milam with a dozen red roses during the morning worship service on Nov. 7.

Memory Garden Request Delayed

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission tabled the request of Holy Cross Episcopal Church Thursday night for a conditional use to permit locating a "memory garden" on its 30-by-30 foot lot adjacent to the church on Park Avenue.

The board tabled the matter until City Attorney William Colbert can give a legal opinion on whether the "memory garden" can legally be placed on the small lot.

The church had asked the conditional use for the interment of ashes at the site which is to be landscaped and surrounded by a wall with a freestanding cross.

In other business, the board turned down a request from Robert and Remedios Rutledge to rezone 1317 Elm Ave. from residential to commercial. The couple did not tell the board how they planned to develop the property.

The site plan for a monument company to be located at 2208 W. 25th St. submitted by Glenn McCall was approved but with a stipulation. The stipulation was that McCall get approval from the Sanford City Commission for his parking plan on the property. — DONNA ESTES

All Aboard!

TAMPA (UPI) — State transportation officials are betting $900,000 that the latest Amtrak passenger train, the Silver Palm, will attract enough tourists and residents for its Miami-Tampa route to make it a financial success.

The new rail route, which with numerous stops will cross the state in five hours, is the experimental stepchild of the Florida Department of Transportation.

Since the new route is not one of Amtrak's established runs, the nationally subsidized rail service would not launch the route unless Florida financed 45 percent of the first two year's operating deficits.

The $900,000 approved by the legislature earlier this year is expected to pay the state's share through June.

"One thing we are trying to prove is that international tourists, especially Europeans, are accustomed to taking trains and they will be attracted to such a service," said David Blodgett, manager of the DOT's rail program development.

The train will depart daily from Miami at 8 a.m., and begin its return trip from Tampa at 4:30 p.m. In between there will be stops at Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale, Deerfield Beach, Delray Beach, West Palm Beach, Sebring, Winter Haven and Lakeland.

"We feel from the marketing studies that we and the state of Florida have done, there is enough interest to make this go," said Amtrak spokeswoman Diane Elliott. "But it is an experiment and now we will see."

The train will be equipped with the latest Amtrak cars, and will travel at speeds of up to 79 mph. But because of the frequent stops, it will still take as long as an automobile to cross the 255 miles between Tampa and Miami.

Amtrak will charge $38.50 for a one-way ticket, and $53 for the roundtrip fare. While some airlines offer a special $27 one-way Miami-Tampa fare, the standard one-way ticket costs $43.
