Seminole Jobless Rate Stays At 5.8%; Area's Lowest

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County continued to have the lowest unemployment rate in the Orlando area in September, according to Sterling Tuck, an analyst with the Florida State Employment Service

Seminole County had a 5.8 percent jobless rate in September, the same rate as in August, and continued to buck the nationwide trend to higher unemployment, Tuck said.

Orange County had a 7.4 percent jobless rate in September and Osceola County showed a 7.8 percent rate.

The state unemployment rate in September was 7.5 percent and the national rate was 10.1 percent.

A staff analyst of the Congressional Joint Economic Committee predicted today that the national jobless rate will rise to 10.5 percent when the Labor Department releases its October figures next week.

Unemployement insurance figures showed that a record 4.66 million workers received benefit checks the week of Oct. 9.

Tuck said 6,000 of Seminole County's 110,000 workers were unemployed in September. And some of those should find jobs when the annual Christmas employment season begins in the next few weeks, he said.

Tuck had predicted a slight increase in unemployment in the county for September, based on previous years.

"I think one of the strong things in Seminole County is the electronics industry," he said. "You have more of that in Seminole County than in Orange County," Tuck said. "For some reason or other electronics has held up strong despite the

The economy hasn't had any serious effect on construction in Seminole County either, Tuck said. In Orange County, the economic slowdown has shown a marked reduction in residential construction.

"In Seminole County you haven't had the hold-up in construction they've had in Orange County," Tuck said. He sald the September figure was a big improvement over the September 1981 jobless rate of 8.2 percent. "But that's misleading. September (1981) was one of those periods when you get wrong information," he said.

"That's the only way you can explain it," he added. The government reported today that productivity increased in all sectors of the national economy during the third quarter, which Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said "adds reinforcement to the foundation we already have set for sustainable, long-term economic recovery."

"Now, with the prime interest rates down to 12 percent, inflation slashed to 4.5 percent and an administration willing to stay the course' of fiscal responsibility, businesses can more readily plan for long-term capital investments - investments essential to revitalizing our industrial sectors and putting people back to work," Regan said.

However, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics emphasized in its release that "the gains in productivity reflected declines in hours and employment %Joint Economic Committee spokesman Bill Maddox acknowledged the prediction of 10.5 percent unemployment was tied directly to the congressional elections.

"It was felt the Congress and the American public ought to be aware of what the October figure will be prior to the release next Friday," Maddox said. "The president is saying stay the course,' prior to the election next Tuesday."

AFT-CIO economist Rudy Oswald said the new claims figure "indicates that layoffs are continuing, that the Reagan recession is still worsening, with more double-digit unemployment on the way."

Paul Manchester, a committee economist, eased his 10.5 percent prediction on the close relationship he tracked over the past 21 months between the weekly unemployment claims filed with state employment agencies and the monthly unemployment rate announced by the federal government.

But Sandra Shaber of Chase Econometrics in Bala Cynwood, Pa., said of Manchester's 10.5 percent unemployment rate prediction, "it sounds a bit on the high side to me."

Fess Seeks Mayor Job

As the noon deadline approached for candidates to qualify to run in Lake Mary's Dec. 7 election, 13 office seekers had guaranteed spots on the ballot.

At the same time Sanford, which also has a Dec. 7 city election, has only three candidates for two city commission seats and Casselberry with three council posts and the mayor's office on the ballot has qualified only three candidates.

Sanford's qualifying period will end at noon Tuesday while the period in Casselberry will end next Friday.

Among the Lake Mary candidates are a father, son and daughter team seeking three council posts and several political newcomers. At least one and possibly two more candidates were expected to qualify by the noon deadline.

Fess, completing his first two-year term in office, is now part of a three-way race for the mayor's office held by Walter Sorenson for the past eight years. Councilman Vic Olvera resigned last week from the council seat where he had served for three years to run for mayor.

Despite Fess' decision to wait until the last minute to decide whether to run for mayor or council, four persons qualified to run for his seat before he formally made the bid for mayor.

Those qualifying include: Bill Durrenberger, who submitted his resignation from the city's planning and zoning commission Thursday, to qualify today. He was an unsuccessful council candidate last year.

Also qualifying were Colin Keogh, a third generation Lake Maryan, James D. Stern, a Seminole Community College student, and E. Russell Megonegal, resident of the Forest.

Qualifying for the remaining year in the term of Gene McDonald, who resigned to accept a job with Motorola Corp. in Huntsville, Ala., are Burt Perinchief, a past three term councilman, and Josef C. Stern, employed at the Westinghouse Corp.

Candidates for the one year remaining in Olvera's term are Barbara Ball, Charles Lytle and Susan Stern.

Another decision made by the board during Mrs. Bryant's tenure, which ended in 1974, was to develop the satellite lunch program currently used by the district. In the program, lunches are prepared at nine kitchens and transported to the remainder of the schools. But Mrs. Bryant said that decision was a mistake.

Controversial Ex-Police Officers Married

Two former police officers, who are separately suing their former employers and several Seminole County law enforcement officers have been married in Miami. Former Sanford police officer Tony Brooks and ex-

Longwood police officer Danielle Dow were married Oct. 7 by a deputy clerk at a branch office of the Dade County courthouse. According to court records, Brooks applied for a marriage license in Dade County on Sept. 16 and picked it up Sept. 27, just 10 days after his divorce in a previous marriage became final in Seminole County.

Brooks, a nine-year veteran of the Sanford police force, and the now-Mrs. Brooks, Orange County's first female deputy sheriff and former Longwood police officer resigned in March after a Seminole County drug task force on which they served as undercover agents was disbanded.

Each said that the task force was disbanded because their investigations were leading them to high-ranking officials who were involved in the county's illegal drug trade.

Both are seeking $150,000 damages each, according to their lawsuits filed against their former employers, Sanford and Seminole County and Sheriff John Polk.

Graham appointed the Florida Department of Law Enforcement to probe the allegations but their investigation was called off after they learned that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) was already probing the case at Brooks' request.

Brooks and his new wife had also claimed that police and city officials had interfered in their previous marital relationships by supplying their former spouses with confidential information during divorce proceedings.

Meanwhile, the FBI says its investigation into the allegations is continuing and that, while they cannot release any details of that probe, they anticipate that the investigation may be concluded within two to four weeks. Agents said they were not aware that the two had married, but that they found the union to be "very interesting," spokesman Perry Doran

The couple is living in Plantation Key and Brooks is employed as a deputy sheriff for the Monroe County Sheriff's Department there.

Draper Predicts Withdrawal Of All Troops From Lebanon

United Press International

Prime Minister Menachem Begin pledged Israel's agreement to an "international conference" on Palestinian autonomy, and set talks today with U.S. envoy Morris Draper to negotiate the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Lebanon.

In Beirut, an 1,800-man U.S. Marine amphibious unit was stationed offshore to land today in a scheduled rotation of the 1,200 Marines deployed as part of the trinational peace-keeping force in the Lebanese capital since Sept. 29.

Draper said in Beirut Thursday that his latest shuttle mission would succeed in bringing about the withdrawal of more than some 25,000 Syrian, 10,000 Palestinian and 70,000 Israeli soldiers from Lebanon.

In Tel Aviv, Begin said Israel has the "agreement of the United States that the Syrians and Israelis will leave simultaneously.

Thomopalos said he told the men that his roominate was still in the house, but the crooks didn't buy it, saying they had seen Thomopalos' roommate leave at about 6:45 a.m.

The robbers searched the borne, communicating with each other via whistles and snapping fingers, and stole $14 cash from Thomopalos' wallet, two early-1900 silver dollars and a 99.9-percent pure bar of silver, deputies said.

Once the thieves left the home, Thomopalos managed to free himself and called deputies from a telephone at a neighbor's

Sturm Is Choice For County Commission

County government is big business. No doubt about that. And those decision-makers who must set policy and direct the county administration on a proper course to handle anticipated growth and provide necessary services to accommodate that growth must be men and women of vision. They must also possess a keen sense of business principles, be cost-conscious leaders and strong enough to take a position for the community good, regardless of how unpopular that position may be in some quarters:

Among other current county commissioners who possess those attributes is one Bob Sturm, who next Tuesday will ask the voters to give him another four years — this will be his second four-year term — with the county commission as the District 2 commissioner. Sturm's actions over the past four years as one of Seminole County's commissioners leaves no doubt he should be reelected.

Sturm has been a strong, decisive county commissioner who has made it his business to know the county's business thoroughly, not just on the surface. He has demonstrated his diligence by preparing for county commission workshop sessions on various issues taking the necessary-time to know those issues well and discuss them intelligently.

Sturm has twice served as county commission chairman, voted in by his fellow commissioners.

And Mr. Sturm does not confine his work for the county to the courthouse. He makes it a point to attend area meetings wherever they may be when there is the slightest possibility Seminole County may benefit.

Mr. Sturm pushed for and had implemented several dollar-saving programs that have helped reduce county government spending. His interest in the county is not confined to a single area. Mr. Sturm has made it his business to broaden that interest to examine the needs of the county's elderly, the agricultural community, the industrial and commercial sector and others of equal importance. Mr. Sturm should be retained as one of our county commissioners.

For School Board

The Evening Herald's choice for the District 5 county school board seat is former school board member Jean Bryant.

Mrs. Bryant comes well-equipped for the job, having served as a school board member for eight years from 1966 to 1974.

She did a fine job then, and there's no reason to believe she'll do less this time around.

Mrs. Bryant is a strong supporter of sound education for the students, as well as of that most important element, D for discipline, as she refers to it. She favors an educational process that instills self-discipline in the student. We think that's extremely important.

Mrs. Bryant also says she recognizes there's a communications problem between the school system and the community and pledges to open the doors to improve that problem. We think that's important, too.

Mrs. Bryant also prides herself on being a housewife and points out that since she has no other career commitments, she will be able to devote most of her time to working as a school board member.

One obvious quality Mrs. Bryant possesses is the ability to be firm in her convictions. Yet, at the same time, she appears ready to listen to all sides of an argument and, if a proper argument is made contrary to her position, revise her posture.

Teachers, students and taxpayers in Seminole County will, we believe, be well-represented with Mrs. Bryant on the school board.

Cyanide in Tylenol, sulfuric acid in eyedrops, acid in mouthwash, rat poison in soft drinks.

The rash of contamination in products of all types has made manufacturers and consumers aware of how vulnerable they are to the actions of anyone who seriously wants to do them harm. Pharmacists have predicted that sales of Tylenol may not recover from the bad publicity of eight deaths in Chicago.

One immediate effect in the pharmaceutical industry is the introduction of tamper-proof containers. Now, nothing is tamper proof, but these containers are sealed so if they are opened, the seal is broken.

Over-the-counter pills and capsules should be purchased in containers that keep them individually sealed. Florida pharmonists are

But that has done little to soothe the hysteria that has accompanied each new discovery.

And that hysteria has spread.

Parents are more concerned than usual about trick-or-treating. Of course, they are always worried that their child will get a pin in a candy bar, a razor blade in an apple, or candy laced with drugs. But this year there is more to worry about

The sickies have come out of the woodwork. As a result, many communities are toning down Halloween activities. Community parties are being planned instead of the traditional trick or treating and those children who are allowed to don their masks and take to the streets are only going to visit people they know.

Some people in Sanford are even talking about doing away with the tradition. As sad as that is, perhaps it's about time.

It's interesting how one man's junk may be another man's treasure.

Another case of that was in evidence this week in a discussion between County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff and a developer over a development planned for the Goldenrod area.

Weapon Against Herpes?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Experts have confirmed that a cottonseed extract called gossypol shows activity against the virus that causes genital herpes, a sexually transmitted disease that has struck some 20 million Americans.

As a result of that test-tube research in Helsinki, Finland, scientists have started investigating gossypol in humans as a possible weapon in the war on genital herpes.

The substance also appears to knock out the bacterium that causes gonorrhea, another sexually transmitted disease, work of the Helsinki scientists shows. Gonorrhea makes tens of thousands of young women sterile each year.

Dr. Sheldon J. Segal, head of population sciences studies at the Rockefeller Foundation, said head accept enough about gossypol to fund two clinical trials. He did not say where the trials involving humans are going on.

Segal said the Foundation has put well over $1 million into gossypol studies.

Gossypol is the substance used experimentally in China as an oral mate contraceptive. Over months, it stops the production of sperm. Side effects, however, include reduced potassium levels in users.

Studies showing gossypol's killer effect on the virus that causes genital herpes and also against the microbe that causes gonorrhea were published in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, official publication of eight gynecological and obstetrical associations and societies.

How gossypol got into the genital herpes and gonorrhea picture is a saga of international cooperation on the research front.

The Ford Foundation based in New York and the United States Agency for International Development, an arm of the State Department, provided financial support to the Helsinki scientists, Drs. Tapani Luuikkainen, Karri Wichmann, and Antti Vaheri.

They used gossypol supplied by Dr. C.C. Chang, of The Population Council, New York. The Council is funded mainly by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Genital herpes virus used in the studies in Helsinki was provided by Dr. Fred Rapp of the Pennsylvania State University Medical School, Hershey, Pa.

Dr. Wayne Bardin, head of biomedical research at the Population Council, commenting on gossypol, said:

"It seems to have a killing effect on genital herpes and gonorrhea."

Dr. Linda Atkinson, population studies program officer at the Ford Foundation, said the Helsinki team investigating gossypol against the genital herpes virus and gonorrhea bug was funded by a grant her office oversees.

"We're pleased with the progress," she said. "And the developmental potential looks good."

Gossypol seems to kill gonocci, the gonorrhea bacteria, she said — and when used at about the same concentration in which it stops sperm dead.

That lead points to the intriguinging possibility, Dr. Atkinson and other scientists indicated, that gossypol might be used in a spermicide that also also protects against genital herpes and gonorrhea.

Plane Ride On Skis

MT. COOK NATIONAL PARK, South Island, New Zealand (NEA)—Have you ever landed on a glacier in a small plane equipped with skis as well as wheels? It's a bumpy ride, but the scenery is worth it.

New Zealand's South Island-the bigger of its two main islands-boasts a truly impressive mountain chain: the Southern Alps. with 18 peaks higher than 10,000 feet. But when it comes to mountains, height isn't everything. Colorado has a dozen or more in the 13,000-foot category, but most of them lack the sort of profile that edges itself indelibly on one's memory; while the Canadian Rockies, among which 9,000 feet is an imposing height, possess the advantages of more jagged crests and heavier snow capping. No one who has seen the bland, round dome of France's Mt. Blanc, and then compared it with the great fang of the Matterhorn, 1,000 feet shorter, can doubt which is the more impressive peak.

In this respect the Southern Alps are fortunate. Approached from the west, across the Tasman Sea, they seem to rise from the water's edge to a rugged line of purewhite crests stretching 250 miles from northeast to southwest. Flying in late October into the little airstrip that serves Mt. Cook National Park, one is surrounded by huge peaks heavy with the still-unmelted snows of the Southern Hemisphere's spring.

From that airstrip the five-passenger Cessnas take off (on wheels—later detracted) for the trip up the valley below Mt. Cook itself, smallest mountain of them all—know to the Maoris as Aorangi: the Cloud-Piercer. From the catchment basins around its peak the snows descend slowly, compacting into ice, until they form a glacier 18 miles long: a river of solid ice, flowing downhill at an average rate of nine inches a day.

Our plane follows the eastern edge of the valley northward, from a starting altitude of 2,000 feet to the two-mile wide "neve," or catchment basin, at 6,600 feet. Here the ice is piled 1,500 feet deep on the bedrock, and covered with the smooth snows of the winter that has just ended. The pilot banks the little plane sharply to the left, then levels off and brings it down gently, skis extended, onto the trackless snow.

This particular kind of landing was pure theory until 1955 when two brave pilots tried it for the first time—on this very glacier. Since then it has become routine in Mt. Cook

National Park, but it is bumpler and noisier than all that talk about "virgin snow" nught have led you to expect. Anyway, soon the landing is over; the pilot taxis the plane into a curve, to tamp down a track in the snow, and you step out.

Unless you are careful to step directly onto the packed snow of the ski-plane's track (which is quite a trick, emerging from a door in the plane's side), your foot will sink to about shin-height in soft, white snow. But you are beyond caring: a couple of undignified leaps and you are in the ski-tracks, which support your weight. The world is silent, and fiercely white, and the air is what we would all breathe again if there were no cars. Above us loom the great peaks, under a flawless blue sky.

There is time for pictures, and a little aimless chatter, before we clamber into the plane again. The pilot revs up the engine, turns the plane's nose into the wind, and with a terrifying roar the little craft scuttles off down the snow. Then it lifts smoothly into the air, and the snow basin falls away beneath us. Looking back, we see the plane's tiny tracks amid the expanse of white.

On the way home the pilot turns into a side valley, out of which a glacier cascades in a (seemingly) motionless icefall onto the main glacier. The plane is heading straight for a blue-black wall of solid rock (or is it ice?), but the pilot is gazing idly off to the right. Does he realize what is going to happen?

Yes, he does: The plane banks gently to the left, and we miss the wall with a couple of thousand feet to spare. These mountain distances, you decide sheepishly, are deceptive.

And so, back to the airstrip. All too soon it will be time to head home—to take a sharp final look at those congressional elections. (And vote!)

Some Races To Watch

EAST LANSING, Mich. (NEA) — Meet Bob Carr, a veritable political weathervane who has served throughout the past decade as an exceptionally reliable indicator of the direction in which the nation's electoral winds are blowing.

A 39-year-old Michigan Democrat, Carr has sought election to the House of Representatives five times in the past 10 years from a congressional district whose voters are so evenly divided between the two major parties that elections frequently are decided by only a few hundred votes.

Carr made his first bid for office in 1972, but president Richard M. Nixon won re-election in a landslide that year and many Republican candidates in marginal districts were carried into office on his coattails. Carr lost by only 457 votes.

In 1974, however, the Watergate scandal produced a Democratic landslide and Carr was elected to his first term — by a mere 647 votes out of more than 147,000 ballots cast. He was re-elected by more substantial margins in 1976 and 1978, but in 1980 President Reagan led the Republican Party to a nationwide sweep and Carr lost his seat to Rep. Jim Dunn, R-Mich., by 2,274 votes out of almost 220,000 ballots cast. The boundaries of the district have been

The boundaries of the district have been changed this year to conform with the population shifts reported in the 1980 census, but Carr and Dunn are battling each other again in a contest whose outcome is likely to reflect the nationwide pattern of political preferences on Nov. 2.

There are few rivals to Michigan's 6th Congressional District in terms of bellwether political venues, but two others are notable because they provide the setting this year for contests in which Democrats who held House seats in the late 1970s are seeking to topple Republicans who defeated them in the Reagan landslide of 1980.

In Virginia's 8th Congressional District, which includes Washington's western suburbs, Republican Stanford E. Parris and Democrat Herbert E. Harris have faced each other no fewer than three times in the past five elections.

Parris was elected in 1972 but Harris defeated him in 1974 and was re-elected in 1976 and 1978. Parris recaptured the seat in 1980 but faces a Harris challenge again this year.

Here in Michigan, the setting for the Dunn-Carr contest is a congressional district near the center of the state's Lower Peninsula stretching from the state capital of Lansing.

Government workers in Lansing are believed to be about evenly divided in their loyalty to the Republican and Democratic parties. East Lansing is the site of Michigan State University, whose politically active students and faculty members tend to favor the Democrats, but it also is the home of many Republican-leaning professionals and executives.

The unabashedly liberal Carr has sought to shape the contest as a "referendum on Reaganomics" although he insists that "I'm not going to get a free ride on the backs of the unemployed" because jobless workers disenchanted with the political process tend to vote at relatively low rates.

Crime, Fear Grow With Unemployment

WASHINGTON — The story behind the unemployment statistics — which are expected to get worse in the year ahead — is a gut story that will affect the quality of life in America.

I sent reporters to the outer edges of unemployment to talk to the people who have lost hope of finding work. The despairing talk of suicide; the desperate have turned to crime.

God-fearing, middle-class family men, believing their first duty is to provide for their families, are willing to steal to put food on the table, to meet car payments, to maintain their lifestyle. Others have been sucked into the underground drug trade.

My reporters spoke to pushers who said they are peddling drugs because there are no other jobs. One churchgoing Richmond, Va., man has already participated in a shootout with rival drug dealers.

What happens to a community with chronic high unemployment? I sent my associate Bob Sherman to two cities that appear to be polar opposites: Gary, Ind., is a typically depressed Northern industrial city. Dallas, Texas, is a Sun Belt boomtown. Yet both have spawned smoldering slums where the social order is breaking down.

Gary is an aging company town. Its economic life depends on U.S. Steel. But rising prices and foreign competition have forced massive layoffs at the corporation's Gary Works.

During the day Gary is listless and

During the day, Gary is listless and depopulated. At night, it is occupied only by the police and those on the far side of the law. Crime in Gary has reached epidemic proportions.

Trapped in an industrial society that is changing from labor-intensive to high-technology, Gary's once-solid citizens aren't yet able to understand how they wound up on the scrap heap after years of productive, reliable prosperity.

Mayor Gordon Hatcher spends 70 percent of the city's annual budget on public safety. Yet crime continues to rise, and visitors avoid the place.

My reporter stayed four days in the only hotel in downtown Gary; he was the lone guest in this 13-story mausoleum. Surrounding stores were shuttered, abandoned by their owners. He also noticed that motorists no longer heeded the most fundamental rule for an orderly society; they didn't bother to stop for traffic signals.

Life is not much different in South Dallas, just a few blocks from the skyscrapers where cowboy-booted businessmen wheel and deal. The community is a mixture of aging onestory private homes, public housing projects and rundown rental properties.

Crime is rampant; it's part of the daily scene. Drug dealers conduct their business openly on the streets.

Bill Stoner, a tough black activist in South Dallas, issued a grisly warning that was echoed by less militant leaders. Blacks in South Dallas may not have much, Stoner warned, but they intend to hang onto what they do have.

He put the situation in ominous terms:
"There are a lot of angry black Vietnam veterans out there ready to take to the streets ... They're gonna start taking some of those skills they learned in Vietnam and start applying them in the streets."

But the violence won't be confined to the inner city. Black activists and social workers alike say to the upper classes that "violence is coming to your side of town."

It is more mail than my staff can possibly handle, but I have submitted some letters to the White House and other proper authorities. #### Neither Of Stano's Alleged Victims Found ORLANDO (UPI)-Orange County deputies have found no trace of bodies confessed mass murderer Gerald Eugene Stano says he dumped near Orlando several years ago, but say they believe he is telling the truth.

Capt. John Guemple said deputies scoured the heavily wooded areas near State Road 436 and East Colonial Drive and near Orlando International Airport Wednesday and again Thursday.

Stano led deputies to the two sites Wednesday and said he had dumped the bodies of two women in those locations between 1977 and 1979. He said one was a hitchhiker and the other a woman he picked up outside a bar. Guemple said Stano said Thursday the women were killed in 1974 and 1975.

Stano, a former short order cook, motel clerk and service station attendant, has admitted killing 33 women between 1973 and 1980, most of them hitchhikers, prostitutes or women stranded by car

Helmeted Robber Foiled In Bank Holdup Attempt

By TENI YARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

A would-be bank robber's attempt to grab some quick cash from a south Seminole County bank was foiled Thursday when the bag in which the teller put the money exploded, emitting a red dye and tear gas.

Sheriff's deputies said that a person, wearing a dark blue motorcycle helmet with a reflective face shield, white gloves and a ski jacket, walked into the Flagship Bank at Hunt Club Boulevard and State Road 436, at about 10:54 a.m. Thursday, and handed a bank teller a note demanding money.

Teller Charles Tighe told deputies that he filled a clear bank security bag with money and a dve pack and handed the cash-filled bag to the thief.

As the robber left the building, the dye pack was activated and exploded, emitting red dye and tear gas, deputies said. The robber then began stomping on the bag in an unsuccessful attempt to extinguish the gas bomb. The empty-handed thief then fled on a motorcycle, deputies said.

Deputies said the FBI has taken over the investigation of the robbery attempt, adding that all of the stolen money was recovered.

Churches Recommend Saturday For Halloween Activities

By JANE CASSELBERRY

Herald Staff Writer Sanford ministers, while not encouraging trick or treat activities, feel if it is done it should be on Saturday, rather than Sunday

Some churches are planning alternative activities at their facilities for children.

Ministers were interviewed because of the move by Sanford and Oviedo's city governments to designate Saturday as the day for Halloween fun, instead of the traditional Oct. 31 (Sunday).

"I think most children will trick or treat on Saturday night," said the Rev. Leo King of First United Methodist Church in Sanford. "That would be my recommendation. A Haunted House is being sponsored on Saturday night by our church's youth. However, I don't look for many children to be out trick or treating this year because of the scare and the divided days.

"Our basic philosophy is that Halloween is a pagan holiday and we never celebrate it," said the Rev. David Evans, associate paster of First Assembly of God in Sanford. "But we are offering alternative activities, basically a time for the children to come to the church. On Saturday at 6 p.m. there will be a party for children 4 to 12 years featuring a Disney film, Herble Rides Again." On Sunday at 6 p.m. there will be a contemporary concert featuring the "Gentle Touch." We provide an alternative so they won't have to trick or go trick or treating on 'Satan's holiday', but can hear the word."

Although he has not given an official nod to his congregation and is leaving it up to the parents whether they allow their children to trick or treat, the Rev. Freddie Smith, pastor of Central Baptist Church in Sanford said, "I cannot see us participating during church time on Sunday night. It's the Lord's Day and we need to honor it and there is a lot about Halloween that is not of the Lord. If they feel they have to observe it they should go out Saturday night."

"I haven't talked about it," said the Rev. Joe Johnson, minister of Sanford Christian Church. "On the whole I've never encouraged trick or treating in any form because of the safety factor and the idea behind it of 'give me something or I'll do something bad to you.""

Lake Mary Tests Fast Wildwood Backs Tonight

Two points, a lot of times can be the difference in the outcome of a football game. But, for the Wildwood Wildcats of coach Mike Wood, two points could be the difference between an 8-2 and a 10-0 season.

The Wildcats, 4-2 after six games, have lost twice by one point margins and Wood believes his team could just as easily be 6-0 than 4-2. "We would be 6-0 right now if a couple of breaks went our way," Wood said. "We have a good chance to win our last four games and knowing we could have been 10-0 is disappointing."

The Wildcats will try for win number five tonight as they host the Lake Mary Rams. Lake Mary is 1-5 after falling prey to the Oviedo Lions, 28-0 a week ago.

Wildwood is traditionally a strong football team as last year's 10-1 record attests. What's aid about Wildwood is it. regges that year after year the team looks the same no matter how many different players it has.

"We've always had speed, I don't know where it all comes from but every year we have a lot of speed."

Lake Mary coach Roger Beathard, having seen films of the Wildcats, knows that Wildwood has great team speed. "They will be one of the fastest teams we'll face all year," Beathard said.

When team speed is mentioned you usually think of a speedy offensive back or receiver. But, the Wildcats have great quickness on defense which enables them to fill gaps against the run and run stride for stride with the best of

Winless Brantley, Seminole Collide?

By CHRIS FISTER Herald Sports Writer

Although both Seminole and Lake Brantley are laboring through 0-6 seasons tonight's "Basement Bowl" Lake Brantley is an important game to the teams. It means the difference between salvaging what is left of a miserable year and possibly finishing 0-

"Whoever loses this game will probably wind up at the bottom of the conference and the district." Seminole coach Jerry Posey said. "It will be a matter of who wants it the most."

As the season has unfolded it seems these two teams have gone in opposite directions. Seminole started off playing two top teams (Titusville Astronaut and Lake Howell) down to the wire, losing by just six points to Astronaut and three points to Lake Howell. Then the Tribe's tepee collapsed and the 'Noles gave up 146 points in the next four games, an average of 36 points per game.

Lake Brantley began the season by getting shutout in its first four games to such foes as Colonial, Apopka, Boone and Lake Howell. The Lake Howell game was somewhat of a turning point for the Patriots as they lost just 6-0, the only problem was offense. In its last two games, Lake Brantley has found some offensive spark but not enough to ignite the scoreboard with more than seven points in one game.

"We feel like we're trying to get over a hump," Posev sald. "But that humb has gotten bigger the last two weeks."

Last week the Seminoles crumbled at the hands of Lakeland Kathleen, 41-0, while Lake Brantley led until the final minutes before falling to Daytona Beach Mainland, 12-7.

"Lake Brantley has had a good defense all along and they have been doing okay offensively lately," Posey said. "We're just going to take it to them and go right at them."

When you go at the Lake Brantley defense Donnie O'Brian is there a lot of the time. O'Brian is the Patriots'

Quarterback Dennis Groseclose has completed 17 of 45 passes for 171 yards. Pats' punter Chuck Stallings is fighting it out for first place in the punting category with an average of 38 yards per punt. # Lyman, Howell In Five Star Spectacular

This story doesn't need a catchy beginning. It's simply the most important game of the year in the Five Star Conference between 2-1 Lyman and 3-1 Lake Howell.

Tonight's 8 o'clock meeting at Lake Howell will send the winner a giant step closer to a District 4A-9 and Five Star

A Lyman victory would almost ensure the first conference title for Bill Scott's team since it finishes the season with doormats Seminole and Lake Brantley sandwiched around unpredictable Spruce Creek.

Scott, however, isn't buying the soft schedule. "When is the last time you ever saw a Lake Brantley-Lyman game not go down to the wire?" the big man argues. "Seminole always plays us tough and we haven't won at Memorial hadine who he as Branch since where The "

Still, the Greyhounds haven't been as explosive or as good as they are this year, a point Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia is quick to make.

The heart of coach Paul Thomann's 4-4 defense is senior linebacker Mike Hill who leads the county with 55 tackles "I'm really impressed with him," continued Bisceglia.

Even the best of high school football experts would have been hard-pressed to envision three District 3A-8 teams shouldered above the Oviedo Lions this

After all, the Lions won the district last year and figured to be in the hunt this year. Well, they've been in the hunt all night, but the hunt has been pretty tough.

St. Cloud is 7-0 and Kissimmee-Osceola is 6-1.

Tonight at B, Ovledo takes on Eustis which is no slouch at 5-2. If you've read the third paragraph you know who the Panthers have dropped games to. St. Cloud clipped them, 32-14, and Osceola buried the Panthers, 56-0.

"They're real quick with that good. raw-boned type of athlete," said Lion coach Jack Blanton. "I don't know what happened against Kissimmee, maybe they were looking ahead to us."

Regardless, Eustis has been perfect outside of St. Cloud and Osceola, swamping five foes by a 121-37 point differential. The Panthers murdered Umatilla, 45-0, while Oviedo slipped by Umatilla, 9-0.

In a score comparison against the big two, though, the Lions come away has some weapons of his own. Fullback Quarterback Dwayne McLeod has completed 45 of 102 passes for 588 yards and seven touchdowns. He has been intercepted eight times, though, something Blanton is aware of.

His favorite receiver is Scott Williams, who doubles at tight end and wideout. Williams has 20 catches for 292 yards and 14.6 a grab along with three touchdowns. Another talented receiver. Lee Jenkins, will miss the game because of a dislocated elbow. He has 14 grabs for 158 yards.

Almost two-third of the Eustis yardage has been on the ground. Although the Panthers are fairly explosive, 20.7 points per game, they give up a few too, 17.8 a game.

"J.W. Yarborough is 100 percent for the first time in along time," said Blanton Thursday. "We're all healed up and ready to go. If we don't play well now, we don't have any excuses."

Trinity Prep Hosts Winless St. Edwards

For Vero Beach St. Edwards' football team, 1982 has not been a very good year. For its first four games, St. Edwards' offense was stagnant, not being able to move the ball on anyone. Defense was the strength of coach Bruce Wachter's squad.

Last week, against Lake Highland, the offense finally got on track, but the defense fell apart. St. Edwards' 17-10 loss to Lake Highland dropped the Vero Beach based team to 0-5 after Wachter's 1981 team went 4-6.

"We've held some pretty good teams to low scores but haven't been able to move the ball on offense." Wachter said. "Then, last week, we moved the ball and outgained them (Lake Highland) in total offense but we had a few defensive breakdowns that cost Wachter pointed out that St. Edwards must establish a potent offensive attack and tighten up on defense when it travels to Trinity Prep Saturday for a 2 p.m. matchup with the Saints. It will also be Trinity Prep's 3-4 on the season, Homecoming.

"Trinity Prep is a physical team and very tough, and being Homecoming will give them an added incentive."

Wachter said. "If we play well and avoid turnovers, we will be in the ballgame."

St. Edwards is led on offense by senior tackle John Coackley and senior fullback Kyle Stevens. Sophomore quarterback Jeff Punches is an adequate passer with his main target being junior receiver Jack Plym.

On defense, senior defensive back Scott McCracken is the leader and most experienced player.

A year ago, at St. Edwards, Trinity Prep ran into a fired up St. Edwards team and came away with a narrow 6-0 victory in overtime.

"I hope we can remember the way we played Trinity last year," Wachter said. "We don't have the depth of last year's team because of some key injuries, but we can be competitive."

Trinity Prep is coming off a 17-7 loss to Ocala St. John Lutheran last Saturday and would like to get back on the winning track.

"Trinity Prep likes to take the game to you." Wachter said. "They will run the ball right down your throat again and again if you don't contain them. They probably will depend on the run and not pass much against us."

The running game has been Trinity's bread and butter on offense while the passing attack has been lackluster. The Saints average 160 yards rushing per game and less than 50 yards passing

The Saints' defense allows a total of 186 yards of offense a game to its opponents. The defense against the run has allowed 870 yards in seven games, an average of 145 yards a game on the ground. The passing defense has allowed a total of 246 yards in seven games, an average of 41 yards per game and has come up with six interceptions.— CHRIS FISTER

The Wildcats' other setback was a 19-18 heartbreaker against Eustis in the season opener. Wildwood's other three victories are over Crystal River, 6-0, Dunnellon, 9-8, and Cadler Lake Weir. 7-0.

"I don't know much about Lake Mary other than they are young and inexperienced," Wood said. "But we can't give them anything, we have to make them earn it and we must avoid turnovers."

Lake Mary is looking to put up some points after being shutout the last two weeks. The Rams' defense held Oviedo scoreless until nine seconds remained in the half and Oviedo had a 7-0 halftime lead. But the Rams' defense hasn't received much help from the offense which hasn't had a sustained drive in each of its last two outings.

Bill Caugheil leads the Lake Mary defense and has moved into second place in the Seminole County defensive leaders with 44 solo tackles and 19 assists. Don Meyer is also having a good year on defense with 35 solos and 10 assists.

Jones, Whelchel Paste Patriots; Henley Leads Lyman; Rams Win

Seminole High's Mike Ferrell has been waiting all year for what happened Thursday night with his junior varsity football team.

Sophomores Dexter Jones and Mike Whelchel led a six-touchdown offensive explosion as the Fighting Seminoles ripped Lake Brantley, 36-7, to finish the season on a positive note.

"We all of a sudden played some football," said Ferrell about his team which finished 2-5. *Dexter Jones had a great night and Mike Whelchel was throwing real well."

Jones and Whelchel didn't waste any time getting their act going as the blondhaired quarterback found Jones out of the backfield for a 20-yard scoring toss and a 6-0 lead.

The Patriots bounced right back to take the lead when John Gowan hit Tony Wise with a 45-yard bomb and Craig Marien kicked the extra point for a 7-6

Jones, a shifty-running halfback, gave the 'Noles the lead for good when he took a pitch and swept 30 yards around the end for his second touchdown.

The first quarter ended with Seminole on top, 12-7.

Whelchel laid the biggest bomb on Brantley in the second quarter, connecting with Jones again for 55 yards and another touchdown for an 18-7 bugle.

"Dexter just lined up and went straight out of the backfield," said Ferrell about Jones' third TD.

raced 70 yards to put the 'Noles up by 24-7 at intermission.

returned an interception 15 yards for the final tally. Seminole failed on all six twopoint conversions.

"We finally got it all together," said Ferrell about the romp. "It was a good way to end the season. A lot of these guys will see some action with the varsity next Whelchel hit 10 of 15 passes for 156 yards and two touchdowns. Ferrell credited wide receivers Mike Cushing and Charles Bailey with some "unbelievable catches."

Jones, who started the season with the varsity, carried six times for 87 yards and caught two passes for 75 yards. He also returned a kickoff 72 yards before he was run down at the Brantley 15.

Linebacker Brian Debose had six tackles and five assists to lead the defense. Defensive back Deron Thompson made seven individual stops and collected three assists. In other JV action Thursday, ceach

Jim Markham's powerful Lyman Greyhounds mauled previously unbeaten Kissimmee-Osceola, 33-6, to improve to 6-0 on the season.

The 'Hounds go after an unbeaten season next Thursday at home against Lake Mary at 7:30 p.m.

Fullback Mike Henley powered for three touchdowns and 169 yards on 23 Near the end of the half, Vince carries as Lyman rolled up 495 yards in Williams picked off a Patriot pass and total offense from its wishbone attack. Anthony Merweather carried for 139 yards in 14 carries and identical twin After a scoreless third quarter, Darrel toted the ball 14 (of course) times for 84 Egemon scampered in from five yards yards. Tyler Hughes chipped in 38 yards out for one touchdown and Jerry Walsk on seven tries and gave the 'Hounds great field position all night with three punt returns for 65 yards.

After a scoreless first quarter, Hughes sliced three vards off tackles for a TD and Steve Abernethy kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

Later in the quarter, Henley muscled off tackle and then broke to the outside for a 33-yard scamper and a 13-0 lead which held up at halftime.

In the third quarter, Avery Merweather concluded a long drive with a one-yard plunge and Abernethy kicked the extra point for a 20-0 advantage.

Henley bulldozed in for the final two scores on rushes from three yards away each time to complete the rout.

The tough Lyman defense held Osceola, averaging 40 points a game prior to Thursday, without a first down in the second half. Kicker Tony Johnson boomed the ball inside the 10-yard line to keep Osceola bottled up on most of the kickoffs.

The Rams, meanwhile, moved to 4-3 on the season by pulling out a thrilling, double-overtime victory at Bishop Moore Thursday afternoon.

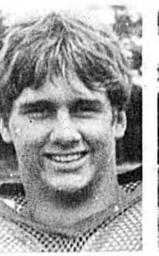

The teams were deadlocked at the end of regulation. On the Rams first possession under the ticbreaker system, Willie Jackson powered five yards off tackle for a 6-0 lead. The Hornets came back on a six-yard pass to tie the game on their possession. Jackson, nevertheless, muscled five yards again off tackle for a 12-6 lead. Tony Pruess then made a game-saving interception to seal the 12-6 win for coach Bill McDaniels' junior Rams.

scoring jaunts of 70, 69 and 20 yards.

"Robey's real big and strong," pointed out Scott whose 'Hounds are 3-3 overall, "From what we've seen on the film, he's capable of breaking away anytime. Before he's just been close to the goal line."

Look for Robey (no. 44) and Hill (no. 53) to meet a few times tonight.

Lyman offsets Robey with a stable of running backs which includes speed with Willis Perry, Theo Jones and Vince Presley along with power from Phil Germano (30yard TD run which beat Apopka), Gene Allen and David Jacobs.

"We're still looking for the right combination and it keeps everybody fresh," said Scott about his six-man revolving backfield. "If we wouldn't have started the season with injuries, we might have a set backfield. It might have been completely different. "But they all work hard and when you bring in Germano and Jacobs it destroys the other team's keys," pointed out

Bisceglia, whose Hawks are 4-2 overall, is also impressed with Lyman's passing attack.

"They have us outmanned in the defensive backfield," he said (Todd) Marriott and Perry are both good receivers and (Jerry) Axley- + n throw the ball."

Howell counters with safety Bill Lang, who Bisceglia labels as the best defensive body Eve ever coached." Lang's the saviour of the secondary for Howell. Last week against Spruce Creek, he cut down five potential touchdowns with his crisp shots to the lower body.

Look for Lang (No. 33) to shadow Marriott (No. 5) tonight.

For the Silver Hawks to come out on top, Bisceglia feels they must control the line of scrimmage which they have been able to do most of the season. Huge offensive linemen Bill Norton (6-212, 210), Dan Rae (6-1, 215) and Jim Royal (6-1, 190) have beat up on opposing linemen all year, opening the routes for Robey, Jeff Solomon and Mike Defensively, Lyman is smaller and quicker with sophomore Pete Crespo and end James Pilot on the line. Tyrone Simpson has been tough inside, too, along with linebackers Hill and Paul Ellis, last week's hero with an interception and a blocked kick.

Offensively, Lyman has not been the team it was early in he year when it rolled up 54 points in the first two games with its "Microwave Offense." Since then, however, it's produced just 63 in four games.

"Teams have double-keyed their outside receivers." explained Biscelgis. "We'll just try to stop them with out

Scott agreed

"Teams have been doing a better job of keying on our backs and receivers," he said. "I think we'll be able to run our power offense, but they probably have a better defense and offense than Apopka."

Another key will be the play of Howell quarterback Troy Quackenbush. The left-handed junior is deft at running the veer attack and has shown a decent passing arm on oc-

The Pros And Cons Of Circumcision

DEAR DR. LAMB - For years, I've heard doctors speak favorably about circumcising baby boys.

I have been told that venereal disease is considerably less prevalent among circumcised males and that the presence of a foreskin on the penis provides a favorable spot for the collection of secretions and dirt that incubate VD germs.

Recently on TV there was a program that was very strongly anti-circumcision. Is it possible that doctors have been making up stories? Is circumcision really undesirable?

DEAR READER - There is a lot of emotion involved in the question of circumcision. But don't blame the doctors. The practice is centuries old and was an ancient ritual, often with religious overtones. Even today it is still a religious rite in many ethnic groups around the world.

Circumcision has probably gotten its boost in most cultures because of the desire to promote cleanliness. But as one person put it, if a need to wash an organ was a reason to cut it off there would be a lot of people who would be earless.

There is a higher incidence of cancer of the penis in uncircumcised males. This is related to hygiene. If the male kceps clean regularly the incidence falls remarkably, as noted in Scandinavian countries. It is important for parents to clean the uncircumcised boychild properly and to teach him to clean himself properly when he is old enough to do so.

The idea that circumcissoit prevents venereal disease is without foundation. And it is not the cause of cancer of the cervix in females as has been suggested either. There are some definite advantages of an intact can rise from ischemic or foreskin in the infant male. It exercised muscles - which protects the glans (head). The may explain why your level procedure is not always free was a little high. of complications.

HDL or LDL. I had a complete physical recently and my doctor assured me I am in excellent health. One blood test, however, initials LDH, was 512 and the normal range was 100 to 225. This puzzles me. Can you explain?

I'm 55, weigh 110, have five children and run three miles every day and six miles in races.

DEAR READER - I hope I explained that HDL means the small high (H) density (D) Ilpoproteins (L) and LDL means larger low (L) density (D) lipoproteins (L). And the HDL fraction is good, while the LDL fraction is bad in terms of developing fattycholesterol deposits in the arteries.

I'm not sure where it all began, with the AAA as the Agricultural Adjustment Act or the American Automobile Association, the NRA, CCC, GNP or the DJI but initials are everywhere in the government, industry and the financial world. Why should medicine be any different?

LDH means lactic dehydrogenase, an enzyme produced by muscle. It may rise after a heart attack and it

Color Fall With A Variety Of Showy Florida Mums

The common garden chrysanthemums, popularly called "mums" belong to a large group of annual and perennial herbs in the plant family called Composite. The cold-hardy cultivated varieties are used extensively as garden and patio flowers for fall color.

The wide color range and type and size of flowers tend to increase the popularity of this fine garden subject especially noted for its excellent show of color in September and October.

Flowering of mums can be controlled by manipulating day length, but most home gardeners allow their plants to flower in the normal fall season. Controlled flower production at other seasons is best left to commercial cut flower producers.

Chrysanthemums will grow in any well-drained soil that contains an abundance of organic matter. If the soil is very sandy, a three to four inch layer of peat or other organic material should be worked into the flower bed to a six inch

DEAR ABBY: I am an innocent victim of herpes II -

the genital kind. It's an epidemic now, so my kind of misery has a lot of company, but that doesn't make me feel any better. What really infuriates me, Abby, is the way some comedians are now making herpes jokes! Can you believe it? Every time I hear a herpes joke I want to cry. Do people really think an incurable disease is funny? I am a 40-year-old divorced mother.

Please print this. It may

HURTING ENOUGH DEAR HURTING: I'll print your letter, but I doubt If It will help. From time immemorial people have been making jokes about every conceivable human misery. For every tragedy there is a joke. There are jokes about death, rape, cancer, hunger, poverty and impotency. Without thinking, people repeat lokes about fat people, ugly people, the mentally disturbed, the blind, deaf and elderly.

It's perverse to say the least, but there must be just a tad of perversity in all of us.

The late Dorothy Parker wrote this witty little poem using as her theme a tragle and painful subject - suicide:

"Razors pain you; "Rivers are damp;

On Friday she phoned to say that the dinner was off because one of the guests was sick and couldn't make it. Then she said, "I hope you don't mind, but I don't feel like cooking a big meal just for you."

Should I feel hurt? Angry? Insulted? Resentful?

PUZZLED DEAR PUZZLED: None of the above. Feel flattered that she considered you a close enough friend to have been perfectly candid with you. DEAR ABBY: My 19-year-old daughter is in love with a 20-year-old fellow I'll call Mel. Both are in college, and neither wants to marry until they graduate. They had a lovely relationship until Mel's mother told him that if he had any contact with my daughter (calling or seeing her) before he graduates - which is two years from now - he cannot live at home or get one dime from his family. Mama feels if they are really in love, they can wait two years. In other words, she has absolutely forbidden any contact between them! Mel has told my daughter that he loves her, but he can't afford to give up the comforts of a nice home or his parents' financial support until he

Newspapers all over Florida endorse Bob Graham because Bob Graham is working for all of Florida.

FLORIDA TIMES UNION/ JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL

"Graham has earned re-election with solid," high-quality performance in his first term. He deserves high marks for his efforts against crime, against environmental degradation, for education and for an industrial climate that nourishes the jobs Floridians need to survive.

With the experience and knowledge he has gained, his second four years should be even more productive than his first term. These won't be easy years, and experience and competence in guiding Florida's government will be especially necessary. Graham and Mixson provide both that competence and that experience."

ORLANDO SENTINEL

"Mr. Graham has shown both vision and pragmatism in his willingness to plan for the inevitable: a Florida in the forefront of America. He has not been afraid to discuss, or even propose, new taxes and increases in old ones when the painful reality, was that intelligent planning costs money."

TAMPA TRIBUNE

"He has produced strong environmental, crime, education and tax policies, and seen them implemented to benefit the social and economic growth of the State."

"His commitment to meet the needs of this growing state, particularly in education, services to the elderly, property tax restructuring and crime control, is found in his finest hour."

THE MIAMI HERALD

"... Governor Graham has tried to keep his campaign promises, including support for the death penalty and property-tax relief for homeowners. He also has maintained his longstanding commitment to state funding for public schools, a priority that continues to need attention."

"The Herald recommends the re-election of Gov. Bob Graham and Lt. Gov. Wayne Mixson."

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

"In any comparison of the candidates' knowledge of and commitment to public education in Florida, U.S. Rep. Skip Bafalis cannot even stand in Gov. Bob Graham's shadow. There is no contest on that issue.

Graham ranks education as the most important responsibility of Government and, by any measure, his qualifications to determine sound policy and advocate public support for education are superior."

PALM BEACH POST

"Florida Gov. Bob Graham has provided four years of knowledgeable, farsighted and effective leadership. He deserves re-election."

"... Graham formed a strong working relationship with House leaders and attained legislation to protect the states wetlands and water recharge areas, provide community care for the elderly, increase the state share of public school funding from 59 to 67 percent and to reform the state tax system."

THE PENSACOLA NEWS-JOURNAL

"Graham, seeking his second term has been a good governor...

"He has slowed down hiring by state agencies... his efforts to fight crime have paid off. He met two or three crises shortly after taking office with a firmness and dispatch not often seen elsewhere."

NAPLES DAILY NEWS

Graham locused public attention early on Florida's refugee problems and continued to apply pressure on the federal government to provide assistance to the state for what essentially was a federal problem. That effort resulted in millions of dollars of federal aid to ease the burden on Florida taxpayers..."

FT. LAUDERDALE NEWS/ SUN SENTINEL

"Florida Governor Bob Graham easily has earned re-election ... ?

"Graham has worked successfully with the Legislature to improve education, reduce the crime rate, boost the state's economy and attract new business, hold down unemployment, protect the environment and reduce 'inequities of assessment in property taxes."

The Ft. Myers News-Press really knows Bob Graham's opponent because he lives in Ft. Myers. They endorse Bob Graham.

Bob Graham has earned second term as governor

Gov. Bob Graham has been good for the state and good for Southwest Florida. We urge his re-election.

His first term accomplishments are many. Regardless of political philosophy, Floridians have no good reason to change administrations. Florida has been blessed by two outstanding administrations in a row - 12 years of progressive, corruption-free chief executives. We can run our winning streak to 16 years by re-electing Bob Graham.

Graham is a superb administrator. He gets things done by delegation and firm direction.

And when necessary, as an administrator he can be a "squeaky wheel" in Washington. He effecfively used the media to concentrate public attention on Florida's refugee problems when he went to Washington to argue for more federal help...

Graham has been an outstanding protector of the environment, so much so that the Florida Audubon Society has given him its "Conservationist of the Year." award.

He has carried out a promise to reduce the state payroll to less than I percent of the popultion. When he entered office there were 108 fulltime employees for every 10,000 Floridians. Now there are only 98 for every 10,000.

Graham promised 50,000 new industrial jobs before he was elected. In just three years, 102,000 new jobs were created. Whereas the state used to lead national unemployment trends, now Florida's unemployment record runs consistently below the national level...

Stroll Into Halloween's Haunting Past

To most folks, Halloween means little more than scary costumes, free goodies and maybe a nasty prank or two. But let us pause on this somber occasion to reflect on the roots of the heliday.

Where better to start than with what has become a symbol of Halloween — the pumpkin? According to Irish legend, that member of the squash family with the toothy grin is a gift from the Devil himself.

Despite Pope Gregory III's designation of October 31 as All Hallows Eve, moving the festival of All Hallows or All Saints Day to Nov. 1, in the eighth century did not remove pagan trappings associated with the ancient Druidic celebration of New Year's Day on Nov. 1.

Celtic tribes of the British Isles gathered on hilitops to light a sacred fire to rejuvenate their weakening sun god, always fearing the sun might die during winter as their crops did if the magical rites were not performed to perfection.

The Druidic Lord of the Dead Samhain meted out judgments on this day to souls who had died during the previous year. The Celts believed souls had to wait inside the bodies of animals until Samhain came to earth during the New Year's holiday to determine if they would be freed to ascend to heaven or be doomed to continue their existence in animal form. Sacrifices were made to pay for the sins of the dead, hoping to gain them favor with Samhain — and a place in heaven. Robert J. Myers states in his book "Celebrations — The Complete Book of American Holidays" that horses were still being sacrificed to the sun god during the feast of Samhain in 400 A.D.

Ghosts wandered among the homes of the living while awaiting judgment, so the ancient Celts laid out a place for them at the family table and prepared a feast. Afterwards, family members donned costumes representing the souls of the departed and led them away from the village in a procession to the outskirts of the town.

Today's custom of wearing costumes while asking neighbors for food can be traced back to this pagan New Year feast.

Halloween was not widely celebrated in America until after the potato famine in Ireland in the 1840's, Myers tells us. Descendants of the Celts settled in Ireland, the Irish brought their celebration with them across the Atlantic. They introduced a rich lore of ghosts, fairies, and legends, such as that of Irish Jack.

A miserly drunkard, Irish Jack nevertheless was cunning enough to trap the Devil by inviting him to pick a ripe apple from a tree. Quickly cutting a cross into the bark beneath the demon, Jack prevented his descent.

Jack allowed the Devil to climb down on one condition: he must swear to never lay claim to Jack's soul. The Devil agreed.

When Jack died, heaven turned him away, saying he See HALLOWEEN, Page 8

Be prepared this Halloween for nasty creatures like Igor, the mad scientist's faithful assistant, who may knock on your door and demand, "Trick or Treat!"

> Come to think of it, this may be a new low, too. Whatta show!

And whatta guy! Houston (Lee Horsley) is a millionaire Texas wheelerdealer relocated to Los Angeles. For fun, he is a private eye. He has a ranch and his own skyscraper. He commutes in his own helicopter. His penthouse office bursts with pushbutton gadgets and pushbutton cuties. He has several dozen fancy sports cars, a sexy mechanic and an even sexier sidekick, C.J. Parsons (Pamela Hensley), who graduated from Harvard Law School but will happily fetch Houston's coffee.

How come? Partly because Houston has wavy hair and a moustache. Partly because he walks around with his shirt off a lot. But mostly because he wears very tight jeans.

How do we know this? Because the camera is permanently parked south of the Equator, that's how. And it ain't his belt we're supposed to be watching.

Misconceptions about this show abound. The first is that Horsley looks and acts

He's a Hollywood stiff made "Magnum" star. The tan looks as if it comes out of a jar of skin bronzer. As for the moustache, well, you can't help but look closely at every girl he kisses just to see if she has picked up some new, unwanted facial hair.

Selleck may not be Lord Olivier, but he has a nice, genuine presence as well as a modest, self-deprecating humor about his looks. And the Magnum character doesn't force himself on women. He is a romantic, not a stud.

Horsley cannot act. He does his best to imitate the eye-rolling, exasperated good ol' boy perfected by James Garner, but he fails. And Houston is a chestthumping strutter. He even sleeps with one of his clients, gorgous, bitchy, billionaire's daughter he detests.

That's a violation of the sacred private eye's oath: Don't mess around with a client. Which leads me to the second misconception about "Matt Houston"-that it is just like "Magnum P.I." Wrong.

Magnum is a lone, good guy private eye in the grand tradition. He believes in loyalty, justice, impossible causes and true love. He doesn't care for money. He

Sports Aplenty In North America

In North America, perhaps more than anywhere else, sports entertainment holds a prominent place in our lives; where sports is concerned, people here have a horn-ofplenty. So wide is the spectrum that very few people are able to generalize by saying, "I don't like sports." The variety is almost endless.

At prese-time, the main focus of attention was on the city of St. Louis, Mo., where the World Serick was getting under way.

The NHL and AHL had begun their seasons. College football was in full swing, and the Canadian Football League, having suddenly gained more exposure in the United States, was well past the halfway mark of its

Stunt Woman Marrow: An 'A' For Falling Down

BY ANN FERRAR

In the dapstick cornedy So Fine" (playin) on The my beaching the fitting harges through a cafetictaand knocks down two numer cerrying trays. The sisterhit the floor like Kewpadolls, flailing amidst the clatter of utensils

Stud woman Hyla Mariow withstood this hit-and-run accident for nine takes Getting knocked down is not considered a major feat, but it's a risky situation a lead actress would not be placed

Says 27-year-old Ms. Marrow: "Even in minor stunts you have to be ready to adjust to any 'if' factors. A person can break a wrist falling the wrong way."

It is this type of work that she is most often called on to do. Ms. Marrow, who stands 5 feet 4 inches and weighs 100 pounds, may fall down stairs, take a punch in the face or be chased by a car all in a day's work. For a roughhouse film like "So Fine," she may perform several such "utility stunts" in various guises and scenes.

Sometimes she doubles for an actress without actually doing anything. During an opera parody in "So Fine" Ms. Marrow appeared for Mariangela Melato. All she did was lie on a bed while a man swung over her on a rope. Not too difficult, but if something went wrong she could have been injured.

Star Encounters

Stars interviewing stars that's what's new on the "Today" show.

Called "Close Encounters," the new segment asks celebrities whom they would like to interview and then gets the two of them together. Gloria Steinem chose George Burns; Margot Kidder will talk to author John Irving; and Robert Hayes will interview singer

Bonnie Raitt. Those segments are already taped and will begin airing on NBC's "Today" show Friday, Nov. 5. Future segments include Anne Murray interviewing hockey star Wayne Gretsky; Eileen Brennan and Ruth Gordon; and Arthur Ashe and William F. Buckley Jr.

Passion and politics are the subjects of "The Charterhouse of Parma," a sixpart series that began last week over PBS and continues through the end of November. (Local times may vary; check listings).

Based on Stendhal's famous novel about 19thcentury Italy, the series began its story in 1796, when Napoleon Bonaparte led his army into Milan. The story centers on the turbulent years that follow, was too tightfisted and lacked compassion. So Jack went to hell. But the Devil told him he could not stay there, either, since he had made the Devil swear an oath relinquishing all claim to his soul. The Devil told Jack to go back where he came from.

Dejectedly, Jack trudged through the darkness back up from hell. Jack sat down to eat a turnip, when the Devil threw him a coal from the fires of hell to help light his way. Legend says Jack put the smoldering coal inside the turnip, and he has been wondering the earth with his jacko'-lantern since. Children in Ireland hollowed out potatoes, rutabagas, and turnips in his honor before the custom of carving pumpkins became part of the lore.

So much for the history lesson. Now on to a list of what's going on this holiday season.

- Haunted house, Friday through Sunday, open at 7 p.m. nightly, State Road 436 at Park Place, Altamonte Springs, sponsored by the Altamonte-South Seminole Jaycees.

There is a somber note to the holiday, however. It's called safety.

The Florida Highway Patrol has asked parents and drivers to be especially alert for small children in the streets on Halloween night.

Some tips from a patrol for a safe Halloween:

- Trick-or-treat before dark.

- Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see and be seen.

- If you must go out at night, make certain that your costume is light colored.

-- Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen easily.

Use reflective tape on your costume.

- A face mask will keep you from seeing well. Take off your mask before you cross a street. In fact, why not use makeup instead of a mask?

To those who expect little ghosts and goblins to stop by their houses looking for treats:

- If you want to give candy, try to give some that comes in a sealed package and that would easily be recognized as reasonably tamper-proof.

- In lieu of candy, you might consider dropping a shiny nickel or a handful of pennies in the youngsters trick or treat bag.

- Accompany your children if possible

- Only allow your children to trick or treat in familiar neighborhoods, preferably at the houses of people you

- Permit your children to keep only candy that is in its original wrappers and discard any loose or opened material.

- If you suspect your children have received tainted candies, notify the proper authorities at once.

Central Florida Regional Hospital, 1401 W. Seminole Blvd., Sanford, and Orlando General Hospital, 7727 Lake Underhill Dr., Orlando, will X-ray candy for safety conscious ghosts and goblins.

CFR will provide the service from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday. The Orlando facility will X-ray goodies from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday. The service is free.

Persons concerned about possibly contaminated treats can call the poison information center at 897-1940.

Beauty, Wrinkles In 'Born Beautiful'

By PETER MEADE

Choosing Erin Gray for the lead in the NBC's "Born Beautiful," a TV movie about modeling airing Nov. 1, is a tidy bit of typecasting - during her former career as a model Miss Gray's beautiful face was featured on the cover of most major fashion magazines.

"But I wasn't born beautiful," says Miss Gray. "My mother says I was an unless she develops a new ordinary child." Ordinary turned to extraordinary because at 14 she won a 12-year career.

In "Born Beautiful" Miss Gray portrays Betsy Forrest, a 28-year-old model realizing she's past the zenith of her career. In that world, says Miss Gray, you're only as good as your last magazine cover and wrinkles are equated with cancer when you make your living as a highly scrutinized pretty face.

Miss Gray experienced many of Betsy's feelings. "After years of looking at your face in the mirror, you begin to believe you are nothing but those looks. When wrinkles start you wonder, 'Who am 1? Do I have anything to offer other than my beauty?"

Betsy decides to use all the knowledge she has gained from being in front of the camera and apply it behind the camera to help her protege achieve the kind of fame she once enjoyed. With the help of Doug Trainer (Ed Marinaro), a photographer, Betsy's new career as a fashion pholographer comes into focus and the younger girl's face soon appears on fashion magazine covers.

"I loved modeling," says Miss Singer, a former cover girl. "It was great experience. I needed to make extra money while I was at
