Fred Hartley had declared that he would get tough if necessary with strong arm stuff by some labor unions. He made the comment while discussing an anonymous telephone threat to Rep. Carroll Kearns of Pennsylvania. Kearns, a Republican member of the committee, had received the call demanding that he change his ideas about labor.

He continued, "In view of all the difficulties and sluggings and shootings we've been having, anything might happen. I'm not going to start wearing a bullet proof vest or anything but if anybody is going to get tough, I'm prepared to get tough myself if necessary."

Hartley already has asked the Justice Department to investigate the threat to Rep. Kearns. He also has called for an FBI inquiry into the slaying of George McNear, Jr., president of the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad.

Bright climax to lunch or dinner is healthful Indian apple pudding. Use coarsely ground corn meal, milk, molasses, apples, ginger for flavoring, and salt for seasoning. Serve this baked dessert hot or cold with cream or vanilla ice cream.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Mystery of the Rocking Chair

Ma Hoskins has a favorite rocking chair that's worn and shabby, with a noisy creak. Pa Hoskins has listened to that squeak for thirty years... and he decided to do something about it. So he bought a new rocker, and hid the other in the barn.

Ma allowed as how grateful she was... but when Pa missed her one afternoon, he heard a familiar sound that led him to the barn. There was Ma rocking happily in her old chair - squeak... squeak.

No need to tell you how Pa felt.

Quick as a wink he hid the new rocker and then brought Ma's old chair back to the house. Now when he hears that squeak, he looks at the mellow glass of beer he's drinking and says to himself: "She's just as entitled to her small pleasures as I am."

From where I sit, that's one of the reasons the Hoskinses are the happiest, oldest-married, peace-fullest folks in our town.

Senator Lists Questions On Aid To Greece

Vandenberg Says Officials Must Make Reply Before Congress Gives Okay

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—Senator Arthur Vandenberg today compiled a list of questions which he said government officials will be asked to answer before Congress passes officially on American aid to Greece and Turkey. Vandenberg drew up the list today during a conference of Republican senators.

The Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee is said to have been met with a barrage of questions about the foreign aid and domestic effects of President Truman's proposal to extend financial and indirect military help to Greece and Turkey. Vandenberg drew up a list of questions to present to government leaders and he declared that answers would be needed before Congress passes on Mr. Truman's proposal. Republican Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska later stated that the questions covered every conceivable phase of the effect of the President's move on American and international affairs.

Not one of the lower chamber members voiced opposition, in a partial sampling of sentiment, although several recommended caution.

Alabama, Georgia and Florida representatives said they will give strong support to President Truman's program of assistance to Greece and Turkey.

Rep. Smithers of Florida said he approved of the President's (Continued on Page Eight)

Motion Picture Academy Awards Are Announced

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 14—Movieland's "best" of 1946 were officially named last night by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences and top film honors go to Fredric March for his performance in "The Best Years of Our Lives"—and to Olivia De Havilland for her acting in "To Each His Own."

The handless war veteran, Harold Russell, was awarded two Oscars, one of the best supporting actor of 1946 for his part in "The Best Years of Our Lives," and a special Oscar. The veteran flawlessly accepted and put his Oscar under his arms with the hooks he must use for hands. He announced that "Best Years" was not only his first, but also his last movie role. "After tonight," Russell said, "any movie I could make would be anti-climactic."

Russell currently is on a leave of absence from Boston University where he is studying advertising, the chosen post-war field of the post-war chain grocery manager.

The other major acting award, that of best supporting actress of last year, went to Anne Baxter for her role in "The Razor's Edge."

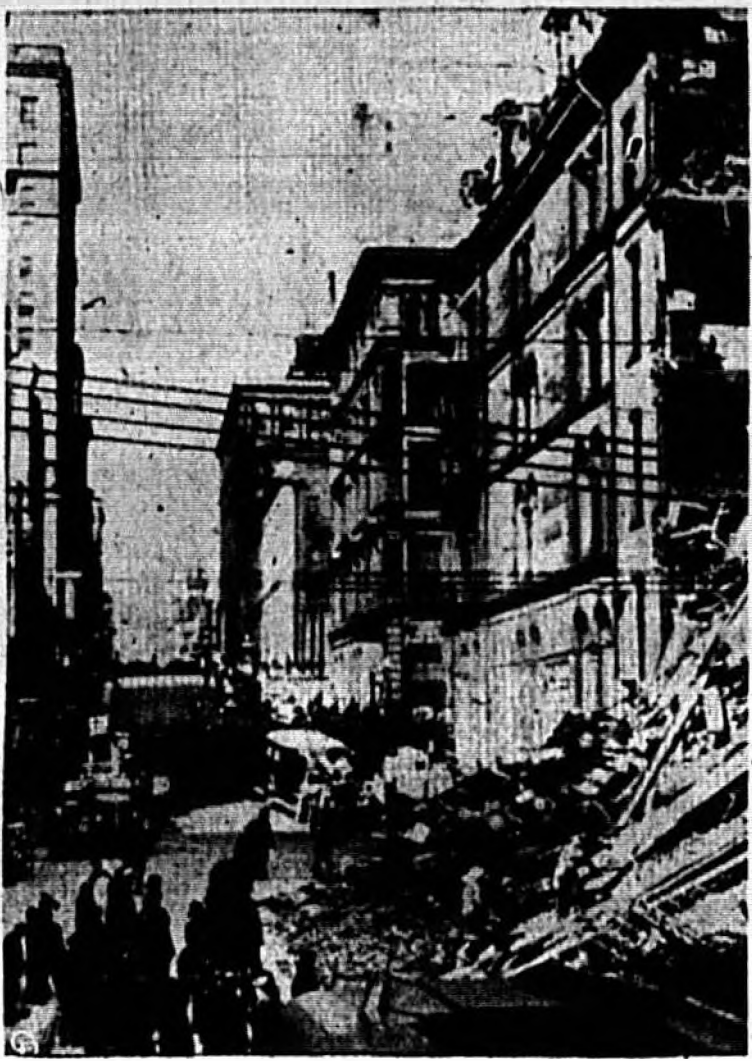

Committee Finds Tax Valuations Too Low

TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 14—The Citizens Tax Committee today said Florida's assessed property valuations are below the national average.

In its report, the committee said that property valuations have increased 30 percent since 1941, but at the same time Florida's population has increased 50 percent and property values have increased accordingly.

The committee added that it is not being properly administered throughout the state. The chief factor in the variation of valuation levels, the committee said, is the need of state services in assessing the valuations. Other factors are lack of sufficient facilities and personnel by tax assessors and the advantages a county can obtain by keeping its valuations low.

House Committee Withholds Secret Of Red's Identity

"Comrade Juniper" Is Purported To Be Prominent Person

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—The House Labor Committee today ordered an investigation to determine whether perjury has been committed at its hearings.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—The House Labor Committee is keeping secret the identity of a mysterious "Comrade Juniper" who has been described by ex-Communist Louis Budenz as a national figure in the news.

Budenz, a former Communist Party national committee member, now is a professor of economics at Fordham University in New York.

In his testimony before the Labor Committee yesterday, Budenz said that Comrade Juniper frequently attends high Communist Party strategy councils. The witness said that public disclosure of his name would have national political significance. Budenz further described the mysterious figure "as a man prominent in labor and outside labor."

Prep School Blaze Claims 2nd Victim

CAZROVIA, New York, Mar. 14—The death toll in the Central Junior College fire stands at two today. The latest victim is 19-year-old Mrs. Fannie O'Leary, one of the three women who tried to jump to safety from the blazing third story window of the campus dormitory.

Two other elderly women made similar attempts to escape. One of them was killed and the other injured. All three were dormitory employees.

Still missing more than 24 hours after the blaze is 17-year-old Phyllis Watson, of Rochester, N. Y., a freshman student at the prep school. Firemen so far have been unable to search the smoking ruins for the missing girl.

Seattle Strike Ties Up 10,000 Commuters

SEATTLE, Wash., Mar. 14—More than 10,000 daily commuters were without transportation as the result of a walkout this morning of Puget Sound ferryboat engineers in Seattle. Eleven-hour efforts by federal conciliators failed to break the deadlock between the CIO Marine Engineers and the Puget Sound Navigation Company.

The strike had an 82 percent traveling to Puget Sound points. The union has not made its demands public. The company has offered a 30 percent wage boost, which it has termed "final."

Decision On Portal Pay Is Appealed

Mt. Clemens Employees Take Case To Cincinnati Circuit Court Of Appeals

DETROIT, Mar. 14—Employees of the Mt. Clemens Pottery Company today appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati from the historic decision denying them portal-to-portal pay. The decision was written by a federal court judge in one of the nation's most widely-publicized labor cases.

The ruling of Judge Frank Picard turning down their claim dealt a severe blow to American Labor's $6,000,000,000 worth of portal claims against industry.

The Mount Clemens workers' latest legal move is the first step in any appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

At the time Judge Picard ruled against the Mount-Clemens workers he said that he hoped his decision would eventually be reviewed by the high court in a final test.

The Supreme Court has had one historic crack at the Mount Clemens Suit after Judge Picard had ruled that workers were entitled to pay for productive work performed in time for which they did not receive wages. The Supreme Court upheld that ruling and told Judge Picard to determine the amount of back wages due.

Under the de minimus concept of law, Judge Picard subsequently ruled that portal time in the Mount Clemens plant was too trifling to warrant reimbursing the workers. However, he emphasized that he was not ruling out all portal suits, and that in any case he felt the workers should not be awarded damages dating back before last June. That was when the Supreme Court made its original ruling injecting the portal issue into a case that began as a simple claim for overtime.

Reds Are Opposed To Salvation Army Work In Germany

BERLIN, Mar. 14—The Russians don't want the Salvation Army doing any work in Germany, it was disclosed today. According to an American source, Soviet officials contend that the Salvation Army is a quasi-military organization because its members wear uniforms and have military titles.

The Russians also are understood to have taken a quotation from a Soviet encyclopedia to back up their argument against the Salvation Army doing relief work in Germany. According to the Russian encyclopedia, the Salvation Army is "a danger to proletarian revolution."

The Salvation Army has been permitted to operate in the American occupation zone. But the Western powers are trying to figure out whether it should operate throughout the country as a religious body or "a public welfare corporation."

Truck Accident Ends With Chicken Dinner

Certain colored citizens of Seminole County are reported to have enjoyed dinners of chicken and fried chicken, yesterday as the result of a freak automobile accident yesterday morning on Road 44 about three miles out of town where a whole truck load of chickens overturned.

According to the Sheriff's office, Charles H. Simpson, en route to Miami from Georgia with a load of live poultry had a slight collision with another vehicle with the result that his truck overturned and he lost about 80 chickens, some killed and some that ran away. The accident occurred at about 10:45 and the chicken dinners followed.

Truman Is Enjoying Key West Vacation

KEY WEST, Mar. 14—Fishing, swimming and just plain loafing in the sun, that is the routine President Truman is following rigidly today on the island. His physician, Mr. Truman is in the Key West sanitarium here for a four-day vacation ordered by his doctor who said the Chief Executive needs the brief rest to recuperate the peak of his vitality.

Mr. Truman is being kept advised to reaction at home and abroad in his foreign policy pronouncements. He plans to be back at his White House desk on Monday.

2 Witnesses Approve Tax Cut Plans

Former Treasury Officials Tell House Committee Relief Vital For Business

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—Two former Treasury Department officials today called upon the House Ways and Means Committee to go ahead with plans for a 20 percent cut in the income tax.

The witnesses were Robert McGill, a lawyer and Columbia University professor, and John W. Hanes, both of New York. Both served as undersecretaries of the Treasury under the late President Roosevelt.

They told the committee today that tax relief is necessary to keep incentive for business ventures alive.

Chairman Harold Knutson said he has the votes for committee approval of his tax cut. The reduction would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

Knutson has said that President Truman's call for $400,000,000 to aid Greece and Turkey will not change plans for the tax reduction.

Democrats on the committee appear to be standing squarely with the President's position. That position was stated before the committee yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. The secretary said that any Treasury surplus this year should be used for a payment on the public debt which stands at $260,000,000,000. But the Republicans have 15 members on the Ways and Means Committee and the Democrats have 10.

Whether President Truman will veto the tax reduction bill is a matter for conjecture.

State Employment Service Reports 390 Applications

Jobs are being sought through the Florida State Employment Service office in Sanford by 390 applicants of whom 296 are veterans and 43 are women. Mrs. Moseley, manager of the office, said today.

Employers were urged to list their job openings with the Employment Service for the dual purpose of filling their own needs and helping to maintain the economy of the community.

Job applicants include 19 professional and managerial, 42 clerical and sales, 30 service, 53 skilled, 119 semi-skilled, 40 unskilled and 40 other positions. The most significant number of applicants by individual occupation are found in the office clerks, sales persons, (veteran) cooks, welders and truck drivers.

Current job openings totaling 29 at the local employment office show a heavy demand for salesmen, bookkeeper, waiters, stenographers, printers, typist, etc. Mrs. Moseley said.

Unemployment compensation payments amounting to $181,500 were made in Seminole County to 14 persons, including four men and ten women during the week ending Mar. 1. These recipients were classified, 3 clerical and sales, 4 skilled and 7 semi-skilled.

Statewide unemployment compensation payments during the week were $87,157, and were made to 5,760 persons.

These figures do not include allowances paid to unemployed veterans from federal funds which are tabulated monthly on a statewide basis. At the last count 20,500 veterans drew a total of $1,307,442 during February.

Payments to non-veterans throughout the state for the week reflected an increase over the previous week when $84,220.50 was paid.

STRIKES OUTLAWED

ALBANY, N. Y., Mar. 14—The state legislature today passed a bill outlawing strikes by any employee of the state or any of its political subdivisions. The penalty for such a strike would be automatic dismissal for those participating in it. The Republican-backed measure now goes before Governor Thomas Dewey.

Free Society Is Stressed By Marshall

True Democracy Outlined In Talk On Formation Of German Government

MOSCOW, Mar. 14—Secretary of State Marshall made a comment today in the Big Four foreign ministers meeting that sounded like an echo of the declarations which President Truman has made against totalitarianism in Greece.

Marshall actually was speaking on the need for bringing democracy to Germany, but his comment, coming so close to the President's pronouncements on Monday, heavily stressed the stand the United States is taking for other parts of the world.

Marshall bluntly told the conference that America does not consider a society democratic if men are not free without fear. There is no democracy, he asserted, if men who respect the rights of their fellow men are not free to express their own beliefs without being afraid that they may be snatched away from their home and family.

"To us," Marshall declared, "a society is not free if law abiding citizens live in fear of being denied the right to work or of being deprived of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Marshall informed the council that the United States is holding only about 15,000 German war prisoners, mostly in Italy, while 15,000 more are being discharged (Continued on Page Eight)

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY
TEST YOURSELF, DO YOU LOVE OR HATE THOSE WHO TRY TO HELP YOU? Remove not a scower lest he hate thee; rebuke a wise man and he will love thee.—Prov. 26

We see where the price of bread is joining the parade of rising prices, one to three cents a pound. That is what is known as inflation. Remember when we used to say, "We must raise prices. If we cannot do it one way, we will do it another, but raise them we must." Well, how do you like it, boys?

Senator Claude Pepper suggests that the problem of preventing the spread of Communism in Greece and Turkey should be turned over to the United Nations, forgetting apparently that Russia is also a member of the United Nations and has the veto power. That is, the United Nations could do absolutely nothing for Greece or Turkey which Russia disapproved. Furthermore, no nation in the United Nations could do a thing in the world for Greece or Turkey anyway, except the United States, for they all need help themselves, except the United States.

In commenting on President Truman's speech, the Tampa Tribune recalls, "Let us not forget that if there is one single thing that provoked the two world wars, it is that nobody knew where America stood." How true that is! If America had made it abundantly clear before the Austrian, the Czechoslovakian, the Polish invasions, that if war broke out the United States would be fighting on the side of the attacked, Hitler could have been stopped in the very beginning, and the German people themselves would probably have overthrown him. Instead, we passed the "Neutrality Act", and later gave "all out aid to Britain SHORT OF WAR."

The value of Sanford's zoo is sometimes more appreciated by strangers to our city than by those of us who live here. H. C. Graves of Orlando writes the Orlando Sentinel about a visiting friend of his from the North to whom he showed the sights of Central Florida, only to find him more impressed by Sanford's zoo than by anything else he saw. And so, wonders H. C. Graves, why can't Orlando collect and support a zoo like Sanford's and give the winter visitors something they can really enjoy? Well, now, Orlando has some advantages; and it can't very well have them all. But meanwhile, let us improve and further develop our own zoo to keep ahead of Orlando civic leaders if they do undertake to establish a zoo.

Secretary of Labor Schwelb, who has long been one of Labor's best friends in the United States, says there should be a law against Communists holding office, not only in Labor unions but also in Congress or other government posts. One of the first things a Communist learns, as everyone should know by now, is to deny that he is a Communist. That makes it rather difficult to know who could be barred. However, anyone who persistently follows the Communist party line, knocks the capitalist system, praises government ownership of private business, apologizes for Russian aggression, or advocates the overthrow of the government of the United States by violence and non-violence, should really be recognized as a Communist.

With juvenile delinquency on the increase in most parts of the country, the city of Milwaukee can point with pride to the fact that last year 1,119 fewer juvenile arrests were made than in the previous year. Statistics gathered by the F.B.I. show Milwaukee to be the only major city with such a decrease to its credit.

This fine record is accredited to an idea conceived and carried out by Lieut. Michael S. Wolke of the police department. This officer directs the Youth Aid Center, with headquarters in the safety building, which houses clubrooms for youths, as do the central police headquarters and six district stations. The Police Athletic League sponsors baseball, basketball, wrestling and boxing teams, with policemen as trainers and coaches. Police officers who were formerly professional ball-players give their personal supervision to the baseball teams. As a result, gangs of boys who found adventure in criminal activities find an outlet for their energies in healthful recreation, and the whole city is benefitted.

The boys of Milwaukee have found that the police, instead of being their enemies, are their big brothers. The police officers have found that tough gangs of boys, when broken down into individuals, are usually normal boys whose instinct for adventure coupled with bad environment have led them into crime.

Similar baseball leagues for youngsters, and doing equally good work, are sponsored in Sanford by the Lions and Rotary Clubs.

Just Average

George Washington would be surprised and pleased. The sentiments he expressed in his farewell address against a third term for presidents of the United States are likely to become law. With the House already approving such a bill, the Senate seems equally interested.

The issue assumes new importance, as this country seems about to move into the world empire role vacated by England. If this country is to assume this kind of world leadership, Congress is determined it shall do it without developing an American emperor. Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, one of the leaders backing the limitation idea said: "Too-long occupancy of the presidential office and too-long continuance of the same party in office makes for dictatorship. Power corrupts even when in the hands of angels."

The First President would be surprised to find his ideas being helped to fulfillment by the waning power of his old formidable enemy, Great Britain.

Words To Live By

"Look out how you use proud words. When you let proud words go, it is not easy to call them back. They wear long boots, hard boots. Look out how you use proud words."
 — Carl Sandburg

There is in these words a primary lesson for individuals and classes and nations alike. All too often, we say the cruel and destructive things — because it is so much easier to be clever than to be kind. But in the long run, proud and angry words are the ones which cause trouble in our homes, our communities and among nations.

Proud words are arrogant, intolerant and savagely ignorant of the great fundamental truths — simplicity, humility and ordinary human decency. They are indeed roughhewn, and it is not easy to call them back. — Ingrid Bergman.

Marshall Hopes Moscow Gen. Eisenhower Pays Tax May Windup in Six Weeks On $500 Check He Denied

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Do not look for a prolonged meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Moscow. Secretary of State George C. Marshall plans that it will last no more than six weeks, and then only if there seems to be some chance of getting together on fundamental principles—something that outsiders doubt.

Despite the seeming softening of Russia on some subjects, such as United States demands for a security trusteeship over the Pacific islands won by American blood, it is doubted that there will be any great concessions from Moscow.

This seems to be particularly the case on the questions of Germany's future boundaries with Poland and on Germany's future.

Marshall probably will make some concessions but will not yield on fundamental principles. It is now hoped that within six weeks the Big Four at least will agree on these and then the deputies will go to work drafting the final peace treaty.

How long this will take is purely a matter of guesswork.

Thereafter, it is planned to hold a new meeting with the outside powers having a further hearing. This may take months and only afterward will the Big Four meet again, probably in Paris, London or Washington.

Only then, it is believed, will the major powers begin to discuss the Japanese treaty, which most observers believe should have been put ahead of the German treaty since Japan has a going government—Germany none.

THE INCOME TAX LAW is the great lever. It respects neither the big nor the little—not even the big brass. All this Gen. Dwight Eisenhower recently found out.

The Army chief of staff went up to Lafayette college in Pennsylvania to make a speech and get a degree. After receiving his laurels and delivering his message, the president of the college told the five-star general that Lafayette had a little custom. He said: "We always give a $500 check as an honorarium to our speaker. Here is your check, general."

"The," in his usual bashful manner, explained that he couldn't accept it. He said he came to the college as head of the Army, was speaking for the Army, was a servant of the people and could not accept such gifts.

"But it is our custom—our regulation," the bewildered college press insisted. The general was just as insistent. It appeared an impasse had come about. Then "The" had an idea. He asked: "Don't you have college funds, for this or that, where the money could be used to good purpose?" The answer was yes, Lafayette did. Whereupon Eisenhower endorsed the check and turned it over to the fund.

"Come the day when the income tax had to be made out. For some reason, the general used the "short long" form. In so doing he paid a tax to Uncle Sam on the $500 he held in his possession just long enough to sign his name."

THERE IS A COMPACT-AND-LIPSTICK BRIGADE among Capitol Hill lobbyists. Forty-one women are among the 496 registered lobbyists.

The highest paid, the record shows, is Margaret Taylor of the National Co-Operative Milk Producers association. She gets $7,000. The average salary of the female lobbyist is $3,500.

Made lobbyists do better salary-wise. One gets $28,000, and few are under $5,000.

The lobbyists represent varied interests. A man and a woman promote the interests of the International Apple association. Thirty work for the Townsend pension plan. One man gets $4,000 for looking after interests of the Elkhart Indians of Oregon. Other represent, almost literally, "hatchers and leeches and candlestick makers."

TOUGH SLEDDING FROM NOW ON!

Very truly yours,
Claude Pepper

Dear Friends: We are faced in Congress with the making in the next few days of a very grave decision. It relates to the application of the Greek government for a loan of two hundred and fifty million dollars. The President has already had one full dress conference with the bipartisan leadership in the Congress and, as this is written, another such conference, is sitting with an enlarged membership. By the time you read this, the President will have addressed a message to Congress and maybe to the country on the subject. The President's cancelling his expected trip to the Caribbean and the general atmosphere in which the whole matter has been considered indicate that it is regarded on all sides as involving a momentous decision on the part of our government as to an aspect of our foreign policy.

This matter came to a head when the British advised us rather abruptly that they were drawing their forces out of Greece, consisting of upwards of ten thousand troops on March 31 and were unable to extend to Greece any further financial aid. That has been regarded as amounting virtually for an announcement by the British that they are pulling out of Greece, bag and baggage, and leaving it up to us to determine whether we shall go in to take their place or whether, as many would have us believe, including the British, we will stay out and let the Russians come in.

There has been in progress for a long time a struggle between the British and the Russians in the Greek-Turkish Near East area. As a matter of fact, this struggle has continued for centuries. The Russians have been trying to get access to the Dardanelles, which is the outlet to the Mediterranean from the Black Sea upon which the Russian homeland lies. This has often been called the Battle for the Dardanelles.

The Russians won the Dardanelles and Constantinople as well from the Turks in a war about the middle of the last century. But the British and the French navies went into the Black Sea, sank the Russian fleet, and refused to allow the Russians to claim the fruits of their victory. The British and the French promised the Russians the Dardanelles for going in on their side in World War I. The Russians went into the war, lost two and a half million killed and two and a half million wounded before they got out with their revolution in 1917, but Lenin's government was not at that time seeking territory and never asked for the Dardanelles. No doubt he wouldn't have gotten it if he had.

It is well known that Mr. Winston Churchill, as Prime Minister, tried to direct the invasion of the continent of Europe during World War II through the Balkans, so allied armies would occupy that area, at the war's end, and to keep the Russians from getting into that territory.

The British have claimed that Greece was their particular sphere of influence, first, because they wanted to keep a foothold in the Balkans, and, second, because Greece lay right along side the Dardanelles and was a point of very great strategic value in aid of the British policy to keep them out of the eastern Mediterranean. It has now become known that for some time the British have been giving financial support to the Turks to maintain a large army against any Russian threat to the Dardanelles.

So far, the British have not indicated whether they would continue to give this financial aid to the Turks or whether they would have to draw out of that area also. Whether, in such event, they would also leave the defense of Turkey up to us, through financial aid to the Turks to enable them to maintain a large army, and whether the Turks, in case the British do withdraw their assistance, will appeal to us as the Greeks have done, we do not yet know.

I feel that what is going on today among the major powers outside the United Nations is weakening the United Nations, just as the same kind of thing in the early years of the League of Nations weakened the League. We have, in the United Nations, a stabilization fund which can help to stabilize the Greek currency, so much needed now. We have in the United Nations a bank for reconstruction and the Greek need for reconstruction of her torn country is imperative. We have in the United Nations a social and economic council which can determine the needs of Greece, or any other country, and recommend what should be done and call upon member states to help do it.

And in the United Nations, we have the Security Council, the purpose of which is to prevent aggression and to preserve the integrity and the independence of all nations and especially the small nations. It seems to me therefore that, if the real reason we are going in Greece is to keep somebody else out, that function should primarily be undertaken through the United Nations Organization, we doing our full part to carry out United Nations policy.

Freedom Of The Press

The Daily Worker, New York, which is Communist by almost any definition, ran out of newspaper last week and faced suspension. It has a circulation of 22,000. The New York Times lent the Daily Worker sixteen tons of newspaper and the paper reached the faithful, instead of The New York Times news, it received the ink of the Daily Worker's non-objective report, it is not of record. But the point is that The Times did save the Daily Worker from suspension. We hope the news trickles through to Moscow.

In Washington just now an investigation of newspaper allocation and distribution is under way. Considerable heat is being engendered. The aims of the champions of the underdog, meaning the little fellow, seem to be to show (1) that newspaper manufacture is a Canadian monopoly and that too many large newspapers have interests in Canadian mills, and (2) that the big newspapers are gobbling up newspaper and the little publisher is being squeezed out of existence.

The simple truth is that there is not enough newspaper to fill all demand. Circulation has been going up as readers want to know about events which touch their daily lives. Daily newspapers reached a circulation of over 50,000,000 copies last year.

Throughout the war newspaper allocations were managed by the War Production Board. An advisory committee of newspaper publishers was set up. Every newspaper received a certain percentage of its tonnage total used in 1941. Extra allowances were made for special situations in cities with war-swollen populations. By and large we believe that the distribution of newspaper was a model of fairness and efficiency throughout the war.

Controls were removed last year. But the major newspapers were limited to their contract tonnage. Some papers which had bought their newspaper through dealers and agents, and not by contract from the mills, have been in a state of suspension. The newspapers with somewhere near normal supply, however, voluntarily offered to lend newspaper in any individual emergency. In the spirit of that offer, The New York Times made newspaper available to the Daily Worker. In a sense it was a real gesture in behalf of the freedom of the press.

We do not believe that there has been a similar action on the part of any other industry. We have not heard of steel or other raw materials being shared in this fashion.

Many newspapers are going to come in for some accusations in the Washington hearings for the crime of being big. If there has been any hint of monopolistic practices, the public interest requires that these facts be brought out. But we are quite sure that the newspaper publishing industry cannot successfully be charged with monopoly or suppression of opinions or pressure upon the title fellow.

VANDENBERG NOT RUNNING

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan declared once again today that he is not a candidate for the office of president, but he did not rule out the possibility entirely. Vandenberg expressed his views on this matter in a letter to a national magazine. A letter which the publication said was unpublished.

DEPORTATION PROTESTED

LONDON, Mar. 14—Poland protested today a British decision to deport 200 former members of the Polish corps to Germany. The soldiers had fought under Gen. General Wladyslaw Anders, an enemy of the present regime in Warsaw. They were part of a group which fought under Anders in Italy and they were brought to Britain from Italy.

Dear Sally:

We are right in the middle of Dead Week. That's the week right before exams when all the students are dead first from making out exams, and even life in the dormitories is dead since everyone (?) is studying. However, there's a silver lining to those seven days. They are followed by Spring holidays, seven days just back full of life. Then exams come first! Exams are just like women. This statement is quite right. They ask you foolish questions and keep you up all night. Everyone on campus is looking forward to Madeline's Eye Clinic's visit and to the talk about radium, and from the length of the lines standing before the advance ticket tables, almost every student wants to know something about radium. One girl is going so she can find out enough about radium to figure out how to paint the dial of her clock with it so that when she wakes up at dawn, she can tell how much longer she can sleep. Hear that! Bob Callahan has gone to the University of Georgia to get some radium. Some of the Sanford students up there are Hugh Wibelhel, W. L. Hiers, Bill Fleming and Joe Baker. The club held its annual spring concert on the campus Friday night and the ensemble sang in Gainesville Saturday, Miss Meriwether, Dot Crumley, Daphne Connolly and Sylvia Meach participated in the program. Sylvia, one of the ensemble members, spent a little while in Sanford after the Saturday presentation. Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Crumley and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Meriwether came up to visit Dot and Lois and also to hear them sing. Jean Whigham, who has been interning in Jacksonville most of the quarter, will graduate from the Ivy-covered walls of FSC this month. Jean, a Tri-Delt, is a social work major. I've decided it's just about time for me to buckle down on something just a little bit so long as I start studying. So until next quarter it's so long, but of course I'll see you during the holidays.

Hollywood

By GENE HANNAKER

HOLLYWOOD — After nearly eight years' preparation and production, MGM presents "The Yearling," a magnificent color film of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' Pulitzer prize-winning novel.

This picture is a pioneer family's struggle against the hostile Florida wilderness, and of a boy's love for his pet deer, is certain to be a strong contender for Academy honors. It stars Gregory Peck as the rawboned settler, Jane Bryan as his girl, embittered wife, and "Honey" Claude Jarman, Jr., a screen newcomer, as Jody, their son.

The story is full of powerful scenes—a fight between a bear and hunting dogs, exciting film back as the rawboned settler, Jane Bryan, and his girl, embittered wife, and "Honey" Claude Jarman, Jr., a screen newcomer, as Jody, their son.

The most remarkable thing about "The Yearling" is the acting of Jarman, chosen for the role out of 19,861 boys who, the studio asserts, were photographed, interviewed or investigated in eight southern states.

Director Clarence Brown and associate, noting as building inspectors with the permission of school authorities, saw Claude in a fifth grade room of the Eakin Grammar School, Nashville, Tenn., on St. Valentine's Day, 1945.

Claude Jarman, Sr., gave up his job as accountant for the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad to come to Hollywood and serve as the boy's guardian, required by state law. Young Claude holds his own as an actor in the company of the talented Peck and Miss Bryan.

Location sequences were shot amid the Jack pine of north central Florida, chiefly the Ocala National Forest.

More than 6,000 trees were cut to build log houses in Florida. One cabin, and its rail fence were taken apart, shipped and rebuilt on a studio sound stage. Nearly 40 tons of moss were transported by refrigerated car.

FRUIT-NUT TEAM

Peanut butter and dried peaches are both on the country's plentiful food list just now. Here are two foods that make an attractive and substantial meal in use. On the nutrition score, peanut butter offers high quality protein, B vitamins and energy value. Dried peaches add iron and vitamin A value along with other minerals and vitamins.

In the following recipes, home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggest some ways to combine the two.

Sandwich
To make filling for four or five sandwiches, combine 1/2 cup peanut butter with 6 tablespoons of unsweetened, stewed dried peaches, and 1 tablespoon of cooked dressing.

Peanut-Peach Bread
Ingredients: 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons single-acting baking powder or 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/3 cup sugar, 1/4 cup peanut butter, 1 egg, 1 1/4 cups milk, 2/3 cup chopped dried peaches.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, soda and sugar together, then cut in peanut butter. Beat egg and milk together. Soak peaches in this liquid, then stir into the first mixture. Pour into a lightly greased loaf pan, size about 8 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches. Bake in a moderate oven about 50 minutes or until well browned.

Hearty Salad
Blend cottage cheese or cream cheese with peanut butter. Serve with well-drained stewed dried peaches on a bed of greens or chopped raw cabbage. Add dressing, if desired.

fees' dowdy daughter (Katharine Hepburn in MGM's "Undercurrents"). Presently she begins to wonder whether he murdered his brother (Robert Mitchell). This is a first-rate screen comeback for Taylor, wartime Navy flying instructor, and Miss Hepburn's acting is likewise up to its usual high standard.

Two Young Stars Stand Out In Plays

By WILLIAM MARTIN
AP Newfeatures Writer

Broadway's two standouts among young actresses of 1946 are not hampered by devotion to serious, romantic roles. Unlike their predecessors of the past they are strictly on the giddy side.

They are Betty Garrett, robust hit of "Call Me Mister," and Judy Holliday, sensational "dumb Dora" of "Born Yesterday."

Blue-eyed Betty Garrett, married to Larry Parks (who is making a hit in "The Jolson Story") has an energetic style clearly influenced by Ethel Merman, whom she understudied while playing a small part in "Something for the Boys."

But New York-born Judy Holliday has a personality of an obvious derivation. It first became evident when she had a small part—that of a soft-hearted dumb blonde in "Kiss Them for Me." Her characterization of a wistful, well-meaning pick-up girl made her the most talked-of actress in town. Long after the play about soldiers on leave went to the warehouse, they were still talking about Judy.

For the part of the tough kept in "Born Yesterday," she is enlarged upon this early portrait, thereby giving that little comedy special conviction. Success has been thrilling to the curly-headed Miss Holliday, who got her stage start with Orson Wells' Mercury Theater as switchboard operator.

Younger than Judy or Betty is Patricia Neal, a statuesque blonde who distracted first nighters at "Another Part of the Forest." Miss Neal's spirited acting is not lost upon playgoers in spite of the low visibility in this murky Lillian Hellman melodrama.

Among actresses who are happily charging spotlights, previously made for themselves are Penelope Ward who came from England for "Lady Windemere's Fan"; Brenda Forbes, witty comedienne of "Three to Make Ready"; red-haired Jean Parker, who advanced from rather dismal night club singing in Greenwich Village to make a personal hit in the foolish concoction about a dizzy model, "Loco."

The growing list of girls who have played Sally in "Voice of the Turtle" includes Beatrice Pearson, a liping brown-head whose manner suggests Margaret Sullivan, whom she followed in the part.

Among veteran actresses, who made news last year were Lynne Fontanne, Katharine Cornell and the two dogged and thorough stars of the American Repertory Theater, Margaret Webster and Eva Green.

NOTICE
Revival services in the First Baptist Church are to begin on Sunday and last through Mar. 21. The services will start at 8:00 P. M. Dr. John Maguire of Jacksonville will conduct the services and Martin Streicher will lead the singing. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Teen Talk

AP Newfeatures
DEAR JUDY

Are you on your best school manners? Can I hear you moan? The kids at North Side High School, Fort Wayne, Indiana, are going to be a courteous crew or else. A courtesy week sponsored by the student council will wage war on students who: (1) rush and push at drinking fountains; (2) run through halls; (3) are discourteous in class; (4) exhibit loud affection within school grounds; (5) have messy lockers; (6) make exits dangerous by pushing through doors.

Maybe some of the autograph hunters in New York should take a few tips from these courtesy cues. They ought to hang their heads in shame for giving teenagers a bad reputation. Many movie stars refuse to have anything to do with them, and some of those who do, as one did recently, wind up in the hospital. These kids act more like head hunters than autograph hunters. Imagine a boy seeking an autograph tackling a movie star by her ankles and knocking her unconscious? The nice New York kids who outnumber these savages a thousand to one should gang up on 'em and ostracize 'em from decent groups.

Saw Dick Farney, who is known as the "Big Crosby of Brazil." He has just arrived here and is going to sing on the Melton Berle show. He should be top-note if he can sing as well as he looks. He has brown eyes, brown hair, is about 5 feet 7 and weighs more than Sinatra! He is also going to do some recordings for Majestic so we hear.

Martin Karplus, 16, of West Newton, Mass., won Grand Prize for Boys in the Westinghouse Talent Search for his plan to use radar to discover the orientation ability of birds. Martin is puzzled about how migratory birds fly hundreds of miles to a nesting place. They enjoyed the previous year. Martin, who received a $2,000 scholarship prize, says he believes a small radar set, used at night and in fog, will detect birds in flight and show whether they depend upon sight for guiding them in flight or upon some other sense.

Vera Demerec, the winner of the grand prize for girls, specialized in genetics, the study of heredity. At 16, she already has had experience as a full-time biological laboratory assistant to a Columbia University geneticist.

Toledo To Play Chattanooga Here Sunday Afternoon

Teams Round Into Condition As Second Week Of Practice Gets Started

Baseball fever is already running at a high temperature in Sanford as the Toledo Mud Hens met the St. Louis Browns at the local park today and engage the Chattanooga Lookouts at the Municipal Park Sunday afternoon. The game is scheduled to get under way promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The Toledo Mud Hens and the San Antonio Missions practice sessions are being stepped up daily, and players are being given every opportunity to show their abilities.

Yesterday's sessions were devoted to lengthy batting drills. Rube Narango and Mort Cooper of the Missions parked two balls each over

Florida Baseball Schedule Announced

GAINESVILLE, March 14—The University of Florida Gators baseball nine will open a 34 game schedule here Saturday afternoon with a Green Cove Springs Navy nine. Coach Raymond Bear Wolf, head of the Department of Inter-Collegiate Athletics, announced today.

Included on the 34 game schedule are a series of four tentative games with Florida Southern, and Banana River NAS, Eight Southeastern Conference games with the University of Georgia and Auburn, constitute the only conference play on the schedule, while state schools include Rollins, Newton, Miami, and Southern, the

Bill Dudley Named Football League's Most Valuable Man

NEW YORK, Mar. 14—Bill Dudley has been named the National Football League's most valuable player for 1946.

The selection was somewhat ironic, for Dudley has announced that he is retiring from pro football because he considered his 170-pound frame too small for major league competition.

Dudley led the National League in ground-gaining last season. He also led the league in pass interception and was the best performer in the league in returning punts.

He played better than 50 minutes of every game last season. In the final game of the season, against Philadelphia, he was carried off the field after a severe leg ripped the ligaments of his knee.

Following Dudley in the balloting for most valuable player honors were Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles, Ted Fritsch of Green Bay, Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears, Jim Benton of Los Angeles, Paul Christman of the Chicago Cards, Frank Filchock of New York, and Sammy Baugh of Washington.

Howard Martin To Go To Charlotte

ORLANDO, Mar. 14—Howard Martin, a righthanded pitcher who won 22 games and lost seven for Orlando in the Class D Florida State League last season, has been farmed out to the Charlotte, N. C. entry in the Class B Tri-State League by the Washington Senators.

President Clark Griffith, who made the announcement from the Senators Spring training headquarters here today, said Scott Cary, a lefthander who chalked up the same record as did Martin with Orlando last year would remain with Washington for the time being.

DALLAS—Make way for the greatest football the Southwest Conference ever has turned out.

That is the studied opinion of veteran coaches as the seven schools move into spring training.

There will be close to 200 lettermen in the seven camps, all except 25 of them from 1946. The letter will be numerous winners of other years back from the service to finish out their eligibility.

Last fall the conference produced some fine football but the coaches said then that great football was a year away. Returned servicemen have adjusted themselves through a season of play, week war-time material has been weeded out and every team will be bulging with veterans who won their spurs before the war. Freshman crop also are very good.

Matty Bell, Southern Methodist University coach, predicts the conference, which in 1938 and 1939 produced national championship teams, will be the strongest in history.

John Barnhill, coach of defending champion Arkansas, expects all teams to be stronger and so does Coach Homer Norton of Texas A. & M.

Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian declares: "The conference as a whole will be the strongest ever in 1947. This is not to say that the championship team will be the best team ever developed. I am talking about over-all average strength. Reasons for this are very few experienced men were lost last season; the many veterans returning have added experience; there will be some outstanding returnees, notably Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's triple-threat, and coaches will have all their 1947 players in spring practice."

Last season for example, TCU used a number of men who came in as freshmen in the fall who would have been through spring training.

In 1947 these summer and fall freshmen will not be eligible for the varsity since the conference is returning to its freshman rule.

Most experienced material will be at Baylor where 34 lettermen will greet Bob Woodruff, the new head coach who came to the Golden Bears from the University of Texas.

Frank Kimbrough, resigned and now mentor at West State College, Southern Methodist will have 33 lettermen, Arkansas 31, Texas A. & M. 27, Texas 26, Rice 26 and Texas Christian 25. However, Rice will probably go to the post favored to win the title which it shared with Arkansas last season. Rice lost a few of the players that carried it to a title and victory in the Orange Bowl last Jan. 1.

Return of Walker, the prize freshman of 1945, to SMU builds that school into top contender class. Many critics rate Walker a greater all-around football player than Bobby Layne of Texas, the nation's leading punter last fall.

How goes it with the coach when his team loses a game?

Some of the fellows who have been on the hot seat were checked at the recent meeting of the National Football Rules Committee at Camp Mystic.

The calm, apparently imperturbable Bible doesn't seem like a fellow who would let a gridiron licking get him down. But take it from H. C. (Bully) Gilstrap, Texas line coach, it always was a tough night for the veteran of 34 years of coaching when his team lost.

"Josie and I," says Gilstrap, speaking of his wife, "would go over to Bibb's house and try to cheer him up. It was really hard to do."

Mrs. Bible says the telephone calls, telegrams and letters that flood in when the team lost a game certainly didn't help matters, either.

Mrs. Lou Little told what she and her husband, the coach of Columbia, do after a defeat. "We just sit and stare glumly," she says. "We don't want to answer the telephone or the doorbell. Finally some of our friends who know how we feel about it just will come on in. They talk about everything except football. That eventually does the trick. We go out with the friends and try to have a little fun."

Bill Alexander, athletic director at Georgia Tech who coached for many years, admits that he worried some but his philosophy always was: "You will get best ball you play long enough."

Amos Alonzo Stagg, 84-year old patriarch of coaches, says he never let defeat get him down. "Of course I don't like to lose but I always tell myself the game of football was for the benefit of the boys and if I have trained them to the best of my ability there should be no regret no matter how the game might go. Sure, the alumni sometimes gets after me but I don't let it worry me; I always say, 'Well, I'll just get another coaching job if I don't stay here.'"

Probably the greatest worry over football defeats was Pete Cawthon, who coached college teams in Texas for many years and now is tutoring the professionals. Pete was known to disappear for days after the team took a whipping.

SPORTS ODDITY

By Associated Press

They say the pen is mightier than the sword. Babe Ruth once found out the pen is almost mightier than the baseball bat.

During a Spring training session in the South one year, the Yankees were bowled over by minor league opposition in monotonous fashion. Newsmen were bored and asked the Babe to do something about speeding up the games. So he did.

Ruth would start signing autographs along the sidelines along about the seventh inning of each game. The fans would pour out of the stands to get the Babe's coveted signature. Then the games could be called without undue criticism.

California Gives Go Sign For Bout

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 14—The California Athletic Commission has given the green light to plans for an NBA lightweight title fight between Champion Ike Williams and John Thomas. The bout is scheduled for May 28th at Gilmore Stadium.

The commission also put its okay on Rocky Graziano as a participant in a California bout. Accordingly, promoter Cal Eaton says he is trying to line up Graziano for a fight in April or May.

HEALTH OFFICER URGES CANCER CONTROL PLAN

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 14.—The fact that 43,000 people died in Florida last year because of cancer has caused the state health officer to urge a comprehensive control plan.

Dr. J. Quinn-Smith, Florida State Health Officer, pointed out that these deaths represented 23 per cent of the total deaths from all causes in the state—a percentage entirely too high for a preventable disease.

During the same period there was a total of 2,002 deaths from cancer in the entire state, representing a terrific toll of lives from a disease that can be controlled when found in time.

The tremendous number of lives being taken each year has prompted every State in the nation to organize cancer control programs. Dr. Smith said that we have tried appearance and isolationism, now we have got to take a fourth right stand.

Peterson and Rogers of Florida agreed with Smith. They both said that we have to travel along the road pointed out by the President or lose our world leadership.

Meanwhile, a move developed to combine Senate and House committee hearings on President Truman's program.

The idea was suggested by Rep. John Lodge of Connecticut today as the House Foreign Affairs Committee met to hear a discussion of the program by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, Secretary of War Patterson, and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

In Moscow, the first Russian reaction to President Truman's foreign policy address came today in the form of a front-page editorial in the Russian government newspaper Izvestia. The editorial attacked Mr. Truman's plan for solving Greece and Turkey as what it termed "interference" in the affairs of other nations. Izvestia went on to declare that the United States was behaving in a manner that should not have been expected of a member of the United Nations.

In London, Winston Churchill endorsed President Truman's foreign policy statement. The wartime prime minister told a Conservative Party meeting that no step that had been taken lately had done more to increase the chances for the maintenance of world peace.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

CONGRESS KEPT BUSY ON POLICY TO STOP REDS

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Practically every development in Congress yesterday was connected in some way or other with the Administration's new policy to flag down communist expansion.

The main event, of course, was the closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee with the Army, the Navy, and the State department. War Secretary Patterson and one of his generals was there. So was Navy Secretary Patterson and one of the top admirals. And with them was Dean Acheson, who is in charge of the State Department while Secretary Marshall is in Moscow.

According to Republican Senator Arthur Vandenberg, who is carrying the ball for Mr. Truman's plan to help the Greeks and the Turks, the problems were discussed generally. From an informant at the UN who may not be identified otherwise, it was learned that the United States plans to equip a Greek army so that the Greeks can really fight if they have to. He insisted, however, that the plans do not call for sending American soldiers to Greece.

Over in Frankfurt, General Joseph T. McNarney, who quits Saturday as American commander in Germany, said that if it should come to the point that G.I.'s are sent to Greece, Washington had better not look to the American army in Germany for men. We can't furnish any, said McNarney; we're down to the bone in Germany now.

Senator Vandenberg took the same position as did President Truman that Congress must act because the UN still isn't set to handle such a situation as has arisen in the Mediterranean. The reason for that, he said, is that the Americans and Russians simply have been unable to agree on a UN military force. In the meantime, insisted Vandenberg, Congress must support the President in combating "communist aggression."

But, continued the Michigan Republican, how that should be done is up to Congress. For that reason, Vandenberg said he wants the whole thing brought into the open. He wants public hearings, with every question about the potentialities of American intervention in the Mediterranean answered fully. The House probably will be the first to act on pertinent legislation, but the Senate is ready for action, and in that, there may be a story of great political significance.

Although Vandenberg is committed to helping the Greeks and the Turks, the other chief Republican leader in the Senate, Robert Taft, of Ohio, is not. Yesterday, the Senate Republican policy committee which is headed by Taft held a special meeting. When it was over, Taft announced that the group decided that the Senate should meet every day, and also one night a week, in order to speed action on the proposed $400,000,000 loan before the end of the month. So far this year, the Senate has been dawdling along with three sessions a week.

These Women

The return of the hourglass figure, in a modified modern version, is the big fashion news of 1947, as predicted by the three American designers designated tops in fashion for 1948.

The nipped-in waist and the accentuated hip and bustline outline the 1947 silhouette, say this year's winners of the American Fashion Critics' Award—Clare Potter, Oscar Klein and Vincent Monte-Sano.

"The silhouettes will be more generous—not skimpy," says Mr. Klein. "The small waistline will be more generally accepted in mass production styles."

Vincent Monte-Sano, famous for sophisticated suits and coats, predicted no sensational change with the lifting of wartime fabric restrictions, but said:

"While softer shoulders and longer skirts are on the way in, there will be no abrupt changes. Skirts will be from 24 inch and a half to two inches longer, the silhouettes will be less severe."

Clare Potter, noted for her casual, wearable, typically American styles, says:

"American clothes will be more daring, more romantic, more colorful in 1947. There is no danger of a return to ankle-length skirts for daytime wear—we prize our freedom too much for that, and American women would never accept commonplace clothing again."

FEELING FINE AGAIN, MRS. NIXON LAUDS RETONGA

"To Me It Is Worth Its Weight In Gold," Declares Happy Panama City Resident. Had Almost Lost Hope Of Relief.

"I tried so many medicines I felt like a walking drug store and finally could hardly keep going, but, thanks to Retonga, I now have regained twenty pounds and feel better than in years," gratefully declares Mrs. Leola Nixon, well-known resident of Route 1, Panama City, Fla.

"Even when I drank a glass of water and ate a few soda crackers this soon came back up tasting like hot, bitter liquids. Sometimes I felt like I was burning up inside. Gas pressure was so powerful up against my chest that often it seemed like I would choke. I felt so high-strung I would almost jump out of my skin at the least little thing. Having headaches were frequent and I had to take strong laxatives every other night. I was too restless to sleep much and my weight and strength dropped, so low I almost gave up."

"Retonga gave me wonderful relief from all this distress. My appetite came back and I have regained my lost weight, Restlessness, and even poor stimulation are relieved. I feel finer than in a long, long time. To me Retonga is worth its weight in gold."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal quantities of Vitamin B-1 and is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency and constipation. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Touchton's Drug Co.

sumers would be given to the other big powers tonight.

As the ministers met, the impression was growing that United States and Russian competition for world leadership was boiling down to power diplomacy in which China, Turkey, or Greece might become the points of conflict. Authoritative sources said that prospects were growing dim for Big Three talks on China, despite Russian insistence.

The belief was bolstered by a development in Nanking, where the Chinese Foreign Office said that the Chinese government had refused to accept the proposal for such a discussion of China's affairs.

Draft Decision

personally it would be far simpler to have retained the skeleton of the Selective Service organization, but the Commander-in-Chief did not see fit to do it, so I am in no position to say otherwise.

Draft Director Lewis Hershey informed the committee that he believed the Selective Service machinery would be badly needed for any "remobilization." Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia then interjected:

"The President did not agree with you on that danger because he would have recommended a continuance of Selective Service."

Hershey replied: "I think that is obvious."

On further questioning, the Selective Service Chief stated that "two or three times" he had recommended to President Truman that Selective Service be continued during 1947.

It is noted, however, that the Mediterranean situation had not built up to the crisis stage when Mr. Truman recommended that there be no extension of the draft "at this time." The President explained in his message to Congress that he wanted it understood that the Army and Navy would ask for new legislation if voluntary enlistments did not keep 1,641,000 men under arms.

Because of the current world situation, the armed services committee now has urged a delay of at least three months in the transfer of draft records from local boards to state capitals.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—Having hopped about Broadway and the hinterlands in a variety of roles, part little Patricia Kirkland now is established as one of Broadway's brighter young stars and is basking in a deservedly quite amiable light of acting recognition in the general role of Ruth Gardner's hit comedy, "Years Ago."

This is considerable encouragement to Pat's mom and dad, two respected notables in their own respective fields.

Pat's mother is Nancy Carroll, the Lana Turner of her day, still a reigning beauty in Manhattan and Hollywood's elite society and recipient of probably the world's record number of persons who meet her, gaze slightly and say, "Don't you think you're the mother of this big girl!"

Jack Kirkland, ex-newspaperman, playwright (Tobacco Road) and Broadway and Hollywood writer, is Pat's father. Mom and Dad now are divorced, quite amiably as it turns out. They see each other frequently, attend their youngster's first nights together wherever they may be, on Broadway or elsewhere.

The daughter of this well-known couple because of her parents' inability to get along as man and wife. She acts quite normally, sees them both, sometimes together at parties, and acts as can any young lady be heading out of her teens who is the star of a Broadway show and the daughter of such celebrated personalities.

"Years Ago," Pat plays an eager young theatrical fledgling intent on a stage career. The contrast of the naive youngster of the play and the crisply ambitious young professional actress in real life is an interesting theatrical case history.

"I didn't make any plans to go into the theatre," Pat explained the other afternoon at lunch. "It just happened. Someone offered me a job in a show when I was seventeen and I took it. Now I'm glad of it. I really can't do anything else. I like the people I meet and the things I do and expect I'll be an actress the rest of my days."

Pat was brought up in California, as far removed from Show-Biz Alley as it is possible to get, physically to reach without stepping into the Pacific Ocean. She attended private schools, took general courses and gave little thought to a stage future. She took singing lessons for a time, but gave them up because she decided she simply couldn't sing.

But when she once became an actress, she tossed away all her former exuberance for other careers. She has an ambition constantly to land good parts. But she says she has no burning ambition to play Ophelia or Nina in the Seneca or any of the moody cultural roles similar youngsters usually sign for. She's had little to worry about financially in her life, but she had a good share of disappointment, having weathered a few flops. But she says her current part isn't difficult to do, because the author has written it so knowledgeably from an actor's standpoint.

Of course, Miss Gardner is a great actress herself and knows what an actor needs in a part. Maybe everyone who writes for the theatre should first act.

She immersed at the end of the luncheon and a bar to separate the dust from the air.

that "Juniper" balked at communist agitation of labor strikes just before the war, but only because of the fear that workers might hesitate to respond to strike calls out of patriotism.

At the same closed session of the labor committee, a demand was considered for perjury action against two officials of the CIO United Auto Workers union at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company in Milwaukee. The demand was made by Representative John Kennedy, a Massachusetts Democrat.

Kennedy asked the committee to seek perjury indictments against President Robert Buse and Honorary President Harold Christoffel of UAW Local 248. The Auto Workers local engaged in a long strike against Allis-Chalmers.

Budenz told the committee that Buse and Christoffel were Communists. Previously both union officials had testified that they never had been members of the party.

The committee has not made its decision on the demand for perjury action against the two labor leaders.

around her were clouds of dust. Throwing down his screwdriver and pliers the lad exclaimed: "Here Mom, for Heaven's sake give me that broom."

"As he swept and sweated he had opportunity to think. Certain kinds of work he liked, but not this. It seemed such a useless form of drudgery. Some of the dust he roused settled on the furniture, on the draperies, pictures and other decorations. A good part of it sank back into the carpet.

He reflected on all the modern improvements such as sewing machines and labor saving by electricity, laid the broom aside and said to his mother, "What would you give for a machine that could do your sweeping for you by throwing a switch?"

"Son," replied the lady, "I don't know what I wouldn't give. The man who did that would have the gratitude of all women to pay nothing of their money."

"In such fashion began the birth of a great idea. But many years were to elapse before that perceptive dream could be realized," wrote Thomas as he told of the young inventor's difficulties in school in concentrating on Oscar's Gull-ivan. He later served a thorough apprenticeship in an electrical good machine firm in Cleveland and later served enough to start a shop of his own. The first vacuum cleaner, a hand-powered affair, appeared in 1906 and was of the tank type.

Court Acts To Avoid New Coal Walkout

Mandate Will Be Issued Eleven Days Prior To Deadline Set By UMW Chief

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—The Supreme Court today ordered that its mandate in the John L. Lewis soft coal case be issued 11 days ahead of schedule. The Supreme Court order therefore will go into effect on Mar. 20 eleven days ahead of the deadline which John L. Lewis set when he told the soft coal miners to go back to work in December. The government had asked the court to act immediately to enforce its decision against Lewis and the miners.

Lewis must withdraw his notice to the mine workers in which he told them their contract with the government would end on Mar. 31, which would have been tantamount to a strike. Lewis told them their contract has expired.

If normal procedure had been followed, the court's decision would not have gone into effect until after the Mar. 31 deadline set by Lewis. This would have opened the door to another strike. Today's action, however, reduces the likelihood of a Spring walkout.

Also, the Supreme Court in effect upheld the right of the Civil Service Commission to fire a government employee on grounds that he is a Communist sympathizer. The Court refused to review protests by Milton Friedman, who was fired from a job with the War Relocation Commission, by order of the Civil Service Commission.

4-H Club Poultry Contest Won By Florence McGill

Florence McGill of Geneva received the blue ribbon and 100 baby chicks as first prize in the 1946 poultry and egg contest jointly sponsored for 4-H girls by the Sears-Roebuck Company and the Home Demonstration Agency of which Mrs. Ouida Wilson is agent.

The awards for the best eggs produced were made Friday evening at the 4-H Club banquet, with O. P. Herndon, county clerk, announcing the winners. Other winners in the egg contest were Isabelle LaFils and Vallen Prevatt both of Geneva, and one Geneva boy, Aubrey Moran, who was not present.

Mr. Herndon, in announcing the awards, caused a lot of merriment among the youngsters by insisting that the roosters don't get all the praise that they should.

Twelve girls have each received 100 baby chicks, and are entered in the 1947 poultry raising contest, it was announced. These are: Shirley Grant of Longwood, Agnes Bennett and Johanna Mae Jones of Sanford; Lois Muse and Minnie Metts of Lake Monroe, also the following girls from Geneva: Ana Driggs, Jane McGill, Helen Bennett, Charles Gailin, Addie Prevatt, Isabelle LaFils and Betty Phillips.

Brief talks on poultry raising were made by W. C. Gregory, Sears-Roebuck public relations official of Atlanta, Ga.; K. E. Gramling, assistant manager of the Sears Store in Orlando; Mrs. T. A. Butler, manager of local Sears Store; Mrs. Gladys Kendall, Volusia County Home Demonstration agent; Mrs. Ouida Wilson; and Peter Greco, Deland poultryman who provided the chicks. A number of mothers of the contest entrants were introduced.

R. Lewis Shipp Governor's Aide, Succumbs Friday

Funeral Held Today For Former Staff Member Of Herald

Robert Lewis (Shippy) Shipp, 40, former sports editor of The Herald in 1922, 1923 and 1924, and who served as assistant secretary to two Florida governors, died Friday evening in Memorial Hospital, Tallahassee. A kidney ailment caused his death.

Funeral services for Mr. Shipp were conducted this morning at 10:00 o'clock at Blessed Sacrament Church, Tallahassee, by Father Borg. Burial took place at 3:00 o'clock at Fort Walton, the childhood home of his wife, the former Miss Nora Staff. Active pallbearers were Ralph Davis, Kent Hall, Wilbur Marshall, Charles Rosenberg, James Wadsworth and Henry Wrenn.

Mr. Shipp first went to Tallahassee in 1942 as assistant secretary to Governor Spessard L. Holland and occupied the same position with Governor Millard Caldwell, a close friend for many years. Immediately before going to Tallahassee, Mr. Shipp had engaged in the automobile business at Crestview. Before that he was on the news staff of the Pensacola Journal and prior to that on The Sanford Herald. He was born in Sanford, attended local schools and graduated from Seminole High School.

Injured Victim Of Brawl Lands In Jail

Whether or not Fred Pugh, colored victim of an early Saturday morning brawl at the Zanzibar Inn outside the City limits near Ocala, has fractured skull has not yet been revealed by hospital authorities, but one thing is certain; he is now in the County Jail after occupying at about 7:00 A. M. on the same morning, from Pernauld-Laughton Memorial Hospital, where he had been taken for observation. He was picked up by Sheriff Percy Mayo.

Two other negroes, Leroy Lester, who was treated for cuts and Emma Pugh, negro, are in the County Jail as the result of the brawl. Three negroes were recently reported to police by R. Morris, 1408 West Thirtieth Street, reported that his store had been entered Friday night by a crew of men who were sprayed and broken glass and $18 in cash and some cigarettes were stolen. The Stinsons store at 122 Sanford Avenue was reported to have been entered Friday night through an unlocked back door and $38 stolen. The Texas Oil Company reported that 20 oil drums had been stolen from its plant at Palmetto and McCracker Avenue.

A county council Home Demonstration Club meeting will be held Thursday morning at 11:00 o'clock at Lake Monroe. At 1:00 P. M. a covered dish dinner will be served.

100,000 CIO Men Plan To Strike In Rubber Factories

Wage Dispute Brings Strike Threat To "Big Four" Sunday

CLEVELAND, Mar. 17.—President L. S. Buckmaster of the CIO United Rubber Workers said today that about 100,000 union members will strike in plants of the "Big Four" rubber companies next Sunday at midnight unless their demands are granted for a wage increase. The "Big Four" are Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and U. S. Rubber.

Nearly half the employees involved in the wage dispute are employed in Akron, Ohio. The rest work in other parts of the nation. Since last Fall, the union has demanded a 26-cent-an-hour wage boost. The average hourly rate in the Akron area is $1.34.

However, Buckmaster expressed hope that a settlement still could be reached. He asked union members in the "Big Four" plants to wait until Sunday night before leaving their job. Buckmaster also asked unionists employed in other companies to stay on their jobs.

Jew Sentenced To Death In Palestine

JERUSALEM, Mar. 17.—A Jerusalem military court today sentenced a 21-year-old Jew to death for carrying a hand grenade. The convicted man is Moshe Barasini. The court action followed the lifting of martial law for Jews, kept in their homes for the past two weeks while the British conducted an all-out search for members of the extremist underground.

Approximately 25,000 of Jerusalem's Jews welcomed the end of military restriction in a virtual holiday spirit. Martial law had cut off nearly 250,000 Jews from the rest of Palestine.

In addition of the Mea Shearim Jewish district in Jerusalem, martial law had been clamped on 40 square miles of the Holy Land's coastal area.

Britain Is Battered By Hurricane Winds

LONDON, Mar. 17.—The strong winds which swept the British Isles during the night left a toll of 13 persons dead and property damage of millions of dollars. The slight winds tapered to a velocity of 98 miles an hour at times, uprooting trees and wrecking houses.

The Air Ministry forecast milder weather today for flooded and snow-bound Britain. But the ministry predicted considerable rain and gales tomorrow or later. Mounting snow drifts will paralyze transportation in northern England and Scotland.

LEGION ELECTION
Election of officers for the coming year will take place tonight at the meeting of Campbell-Loring Post 28 of the American Legion at the Legion Hut. It was announced by Joe E. Field, adjutant. There will be a dinner at 7:00 o'clock preceding the meeting.

Early End To Occupation Of Japan Is Urged

Mild Control Of Japan By United Nations Is Asked, By General MacArthur

TOKYO, Mar. 17.—General MacArthur today recommended an early end to the military occupation of Japan.

He said negotiations for a formal Japanese peace treaty should begin as soon as possible, within a matter of months, at the longest, and asserted that Japan then should be controlled and guided by the United Nations. He said that if the United Nations cannot provide the mild control needed for Japan, the UN cannot meet any challenge.

MacArthur broke the news to correspondents at his first on-the-record news conference since early in the war. The newsmen were surprised that the General would talk for publication. Many had neglected to bring pencil and paper.

MacArthur declared the Japanese would consider United Nations control protective rather than repressive. And in this connection, he said he was against maintaining military formations in Japan, of any sort, after a peace treaty. Bayonet control, he observed, would be a muckety.

In addition to giving the UN a chance, MacArthur favored giving Japan a chance economically that can not be settled by occupation authorities. Trade must be in the hands of private traders. The allied commander in Tokyo observed: Japan today understands as thoroughly as any nation that war does not pay. Her spiritual revolution probably was the greatest the world has ever known.

Outlook For Home Building In 1947 Is Reported As Poor

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—Housing Expediter Frank Creedon went before the House Banking Committee today with a gloomy outlook for the prospects for home building this year.

Creedon was called before the committee in connection with a bill that would abolish his agency. It is the measure introduced by Chairman Jesse Wolcott of the banking committee to repeal the 1946 Patman-Emergency Housing Act. That action would free the building industry of all federal controls.

As Creedon's staff assembled the data that paints a dark picture of the housing situation. The report said that continued scarcities of materials will prevent the start of more than 825,000 permanent homes this year. Earlier, White House and building industry estimates had been that the number of new homes begun in 1947 would reach the million mark.

The housing agency report also said that if the federal program is dropped only about 750,000 new dwellings can be started. That figure includes emergency shelters, trailers and apartments created by remodeling existing homes.

The report urges that the government's financial aid should be kept in full operation; that federal curbs on non-residential building should continue—at least through September; and the government should continue to direct scarce materials into dwelling construction.

REMODELED
Stafford's Siding Station has completed the remodeling of the front of its building at Second Street and Sanford Avenue, and has been repainted inside and out. New pumps and gasoline tanks have been installed, also a new hydraulic lift. D. B. (Buzwa) Stafford is a dealer in Amoco gasoline, oil and other products.

Livestock Show Spurs Interest In Growing Industry

Report Reveals Exhibit At Quincy Is Outstanding Event

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 17.—(Special) Quincy's livestock show this last week spotlighted the present importance and the steady growth of the industry in that section of the State where staple farming has centered the interest of the agricultural population throughout Florida's history, said William L. Wilson, Director of State Markets, today.

"For many years the Quincy section has produced a substantial volume of cattle and hogs, and our State Livestock Market has made a very good record, since its opening, six years ago. The show just staged, with its fine exhibits of white faced cattle, was a really outstanding event for the Market. It should do a lot to stir interest in the production of better cattle, and more cattle in an area which is admirably situated and adapted to successful livestock operations."

"The Quincy show, in addition to furnishing a good picture of the current development of the cattle industry, served also to emphasize the urgent need for the livestock exhibition building which has been planned for that point," Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo, who has taken an active part in promoting the livestock industry in the State, included Quincy in his primary list of points where show places are to be built as rapidly as funds and materials are available. Auto Workers Union Strives To Iron Out Discord

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Mar. 17.—The International executive board of the CIO Auto Workers Union, meeting in Louisville in a ten-day session, held a so-called harmony meeting last night in an effort to smooth out differences that have caused discord within the union. The preliminary meeting was attended by union President Walter Reuther, Secretary Treasurer George Adles and seven other high-ranking union officials.

After the two-hour meeting, the conferees issued a brief statement saying they had received and expected to hold another meeting in the work.

The Allis-Chalmers strike situation will be one of the subjects discussed at the regular quarterly meeting of the executive board.

Incidentally, disagreement over handling of the Allis-Chalmers strike was one of the causes of friction among union leaders. Union Vice President R. J. Thomas accused President Reuther with meddling when Reuther attempted to settle the walkout.

Reds In Hungary Get 2nd Protest Note

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Mar. 17.—Another American note of protest was handed to Russian authorities in Hungary today. For the second time in 12 days, the United States is objecting to what it calls Communist-led minorities attempting to seize power by extra-constitutional tactics.

Those are the words of the note signed by Brig. General George Weems, the American representative on the Allied Control Council for Hungary. The message was addressed to his Russian opposite number, Lieut. General V. R. Sviridov.

The protest declared that Communist methods are threatening what the note terms the continuance of democracy in Hungary. It renewed American demands for an inquiry into the situation on the grounds that it is not in keeping with the Yalta agreement on liberated countries.

Head Of Tourist Club Expresses Thanks At Meet

Speaker At Rotary Relays Gratitude Of Winter Visitors

Thanks to the people of Sanford, to E. M. Armitage, director of tourist activities, and to the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce was today expressed in behalf of the winter visitors here by E. A. Esterly, of East Sparta, Ohio, president of the Sanford Tourist Club, in a talk to luncheon of the luncheon meeting of the Tourist Club. He was introduced by Herb E. Bolls, who pointed out that this year Sanford had enjoyed its best tourist season.

"I can assure you that the tourists have enjoyed their winter here and many will return next year," Mr. Esterly declared. "On behalf of the tourists I wish to thank the Chamber of Commerce for the $50 donated to the Tourist Club," he added.

"We are grateful," he said, "for the way you citizens have received us with open arms. Mr. Armitage is a great man for the job. He greets everyone with a smile, is a diplomat and treats everyone alike. You have a fine little city here. I have been to 47 other cities of your state and when we were passing through here I said to Mrs. Esterly, 'You have a town in which I would not mind staying.'"

Mr. Esterly went on to praise the pride in clean streets that Sanford takes, the good churches, and the courteous police. He told of his own observation of a young officer directing a visiting lady motorist how to park within the line and how to operate the parking meter. He praised Sanford schools as excellent, and said he had once served on a board of education.

"You have a few knowers," he asserted, "but every town has them, so don't get discouraged. If you are not satisfied with Sanford, go out into the world—you will be glad to come back." He then recommended, among Sanford needs, a downtown rest room, and a swimming pool. Rotary President G. A. Spera commended Mr. Esterly for his talk and expressed the hope that he would return next year.

Molotov Calls For German Payments To Soviets Over 20 Year Period

MOSCOW, Mar. 17.—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov today called for a 20 year reparation payment plan from Germany. Under the plan demand by Molotov at the Foreign Ministers Conference, Germany would pay the Soviet Union ten billion dollars.

Molotov also asked the removal from Germany of capital goods, such as factories, for reparations. And he called for a division of German assets held abroad, as well as reparations from current production.

Molotov proposed further that central agencies be created in Germany to administer the reparations program. He asked for a four-power control of the Ruhr and immediate cancellation of the economic merger of the British and American occupation zones in Germany.

Meanwhile, Italy clamored for a seat at the Moscow peace table when Italian Foreign Minister Carlo Strozzi asked the foreign ministers to permit Italy to take part in discussions on the German peace treaty.

Strozzi said that Italy was entitled to participate in the talks because of the contribution she made in blood and men in fighting men in fighting the Nazis.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin is understood to have sent Molotov a letter in which Bevin, like Secretary of State Marshall, rejected the Russian requests for a special discussion by the Big Three on China.

The Moscow Radio accused the American and British ministers of making a number of proposals which are not in keeping with the Potsdam Agreement.

Plan To Increase Tax Exemption To $700 Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—A new plan for cutting personal income taxes was proposed in Congress today by a Democratic front-runner for the White House. It would increase the income tax exemption from the present $500 to $700 for each taxpayer and each of his dependent children.

Sponsor of the plan is Rep. Alton Ford, and it is his belief that it would remove 5,000,000 Americans from the lower income bracket from the income tax rolls. Ford said his plan would give more tax relief to low income groups than the flat 20 per cent cut now being pressed by Republican Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota.

The $700 exemption, said Ford, would trim $95 from the taxes of the married man with two children and an income of $2,500. But, he said, the Knutson plan would save the man in that category only $18.

At the other end of the scale, the $100,000-a-year man would save $661 under the Ford plan and $12,660 under Knutson's measure, declared the Democrat from Rhode Island. Ford continued: "If tax relief is to be afforded at this time, I believe it should go where relief is most needed, that is, in the low income groups."

Bill Rapped By Head Of Security Agency

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—The head of the Federal Security Agency, William Miller, appeared before the House Expenditures Committee today and criticized some aspects of a bill which would turn his agency into a full fledged department.

Miller emphasized that he favors establishment of a department of health, education and security with cabinet rank. But he attacked terms of the bill which would make it mandatory that the Under Secretary of Health be a licensed medical doctor and that the Under Secretary of Education and of Security be experienced and trained in their respective fields.

Miller urged the committee to steer away from statutory prescriptions which would hamper and limit the President in selecting the best possible persons for posts requiring policy decisions.
