Jane Carpenter of Deltona examines Valentine chocolates on display a Touchton's Drug Store in Sanford.

What Are You Doing For Valentines Day?

Herald Staff Writer

Attention lovers! Valentine's Day is almost upon us. As is customary on Feb. 14, Cupid will run amok, flinging his amorous arrows hither and yon. So what are you going to do about it? At this late date, what can you do about it? Lucky you. The Evening Herald took a young woman railed. "The person who had one hour alone without the children last weekend and that was in the laun-

"You're asking me?" a disenchanted poll earlier this week.

Obviously time to move on to more "If I were entertaining a woman on Valentine's Day," the fellow mused dreamily, "I would buy a bottle of Dom Perignon and a pound of Beluga caviar and we'd dip our fingers in the caviar and sip the champagne by an open fire. "I'd also have the house full of balloons or The voice trailed off and the fantasy gallant's momentary vision for take off: You could buy, for $68, a bottle of Dom Perignon at a local wine store. Should you want to go a bit farther, you could reserve a nice little bottle of bordeaux - 31, of Sanford will wed Saturday. Rothschild, vintage 1937, for $475 - '37 was an outstanding year.

Wine and cheese stores carry Beluga caviar, but romance might falter as you pried the tops off four 4-ounce jars - $149 each - to make a pound. Total price: $596. Should you not want, or more likely, be unable to afford, the top-of-the-line Russian Beluga, you could always opt for the proletariat's version - $33 per 2-ounce iar, $264 for the pound.

Whichever you choose, you best hurry. These little goodies aren't exactly stacked up like cans of Vienna sausages at the corner grocery. Quantities are extremely

You can buy a gross of balloons - that's 144 - from a party store for $5.49. Now. that is your ordinary latex, single-color gross. If you prefer a special color theme - red, pink and white balloons printed with hearts or such seasonally romantic messages as "I Love You" or "Be My Valentine" - that will run you 79 cents for 10, $11.06 for the gross (minus four).

If you want your orbs floated with helium, check out the toy stores. But it will cost you 50 cents per balloon -$70 for the gas.

Valentine's Day is a time when the purchasing is done largely by men who, as everyone knows, have tunnel vision when it comes to these things. With few exceptions, they are unfamiliar with flowers and know only one or two things - red roses or red roses.

For most women, however, the romantic thing is that her man went out and did something for her. What it is is a little less important than the act itself. If a man is truly romantic, he can get away with one daisy.

pressive amount of daisies, say 200, would run you $75 at a Sanford flower shop. They may also have some red roses left, so a few final words on that subject: $37.50 per dozen. Can't put together a dozen? Consider this: on Valentine's Day, or any special occasion for that matter, one red rose can be more powerfully romantic than a dozen. If you want to make a big show, give her 12. If you want to tell her you love her and might be ready to ask her to marry you, give her one. Anything in between tells her you're short of money. Should hearts mean more to you than flowers, jewelers sell gems that could make any ticker leap from a pitter-pat to a pound: heart-shaped diamond rings and pendants, $75 to $3,950: If you want to be more subtle and less theme-oriented, try a round brilliant cut diamond set in a 14-carat gold ring seen locally tagged at Perhaps romance is music to your mind. Strolling violins? You can't get them. Had you thought of it two or three weeks ago. you could have gotten your own personal string section from the American Federation of Musicians, Local 389. But alas, something like that takes time and now it's too late. Would a strolling accordian suffice? Jim Bubaloni of Orlando will do it for you for a mere $100. For that he'll give you so much Cole Porter, Frank Sinatra, George Gershwin, or Johnny Mathis that you and your sweetheart will be moving in time together long before the gig is over.

With a little advance planning, the ultimate romantic - like Ida Moriarty could celebrate Valentine's Day by getting

Ida, 22, and Thomas Norwood Tindall For a bunch of reasons, Valentine's Day has always been the one day she wanted to

"I'm a sentimental fool," the bride onfessed. "A romantic at heart, I guess." One reason: "I don't think you could ever forget an anniversary. There will be a few red roses sprinkled through the bridal bouquet. And the wedding cake will be white with red sugar

Of course, you don't have to get married o observe Valentine's Day, Nor must you skip next month's mortgage payment and car note to buy Dom Perignon and Russian caviar. Make it simple. Carve your names in a heart on a tree out in the yard. Write 'I Love You" in lipstick on the bathroom mirror. Write each other poetry, however silly. Share bubbly (inexpensive domestic) in the tub. Go to a drive-in and neck like you used to. Smile Laugh.

Retail Sales Up Despite Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers are surprising financial experts by significantly increasing retail purchases despite interest rates and uncertainty about President Reagan' still-secret economic plan.

A Commerce Department report released Wednesday showed retail sales for goods ranging from cars to garden supplies rose to $84 billion in January, a 2 percent increase over December. It marked the eighth straight monthly increase. But what startled the experts was the size of the lump, considering recent talk of economic gloom and doom. Just last week. Reagan said the country was in "the worst economic mess" since the Great Depression and was threatened by an "economic calamity of tremendous

Next week, Reagan unveils specifics of his plan to remedy an economy that — despite higher retail sales — remains in

The Commerce report showed sales of automobiles and related items rose 4.1 percent in January. Excluding these purchases, retail sales increased 1.56 percent. "This definitely was stronger than expected," said Dave Ernst, vice president of Evans Economics, Inc., an investment counseling firm. He said a poll by his firm found most experts anticipated an increase in January, but only about half of what the Commerce Department found. However, Jeff Edelman, an analyst who follows retail trade to go shopping.

The city of Longwood has asked the state for a grant to supply it with a van for transporting senior citizens to major shopping centers three days a week. Fuel, maintenance and a driver would be supplied by the city

City Administrator David Chacey proposed the plan saying he had received requests for such a service from older residents who could no longer drive themselves. He suggested the van could tour the city twice a day picking up those who had called and taking them to major shopping centers in the community, then picking up the passengers around noon and repeat the procedure in the afternoon.

Since it is necessary to state on the grant application that the service to be funded would not be a duplication of an available service, commissioners questioned whether Longwood's van might be duplicating a service already provided by the Federation of Senior Citizens of Seminole County. The Federation of Senior Citizens operates two vans in South Seminole and two in north Seminole for anyone 60 or older, including those on wheelchairs and walkers. The vans pick up seniors who call Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for transportation to doctors, hospitals, congregate meal sites and Those using the Federation vans must call one week ahead for transportation to doctors' offices and hospitals and for other requests one day preceding the trip.

After checking with the city's grant consultant, Bill Rowland of International Systems, Chacey petitioned the state for the grant, but noted on the application that a similar service was available in Seminole County, but not exactly the same.

8th BEST Longwood city commissioners also voted to authorize preparation of a new city map for $1,900, half paid for by the water department and half from the general fund. The old map, which was described as "almost illegible" was prepared

Gunman Robs Denny's

By BRITT SMITH Herald Staff Writer

The Denny's restaurant on State Road 434 and Douglas Ave. near Longwood was robbed of an undetermined amount of money early today by a lone gunman.

According to a Seminole County sheriff's report, the man entered the restaurant shortly before midnight with a woman and ordered breakfast. After finishing the meal and waiting for a crowd to clear, the man approached a waitress, pulled back his jacket to expose a chrome-plated pistol and Club on W. First St. in Sanford, it has deep sentimental meaning. That's why they're offering a reward for the return of a brass bell stolen from the club two weeks ago.

The bell was heisted from a Japanese shrine in front of the club and has not been found despite club members' efforts to track it by checking area flea markets, junk dealers, smelters, and metals dealers. The brass bell, which measured a foot high and 15 inches across at its widest point, was valued at $300. The bell came to the club by a very circuitous route. In 1942, it started out on a ship called the U.S.S. APC 11. From there it went to the chapel at the Naval Air Station in Orlando as a memorial to the base librarian's husband who was killed in Italy during World War II. When the base closed in 1968, the bell was stored for 10 years before the librarian donated it to Post 147 of the Fleet Reserve Association.

While the amount of the reward has not been set, the club has over 1,000 members so it should be generous.

NATIONAL REPORT: The season's worst weather attack battered the East Coast with howling winds, rain and snow for the second day today, aided by bitter cold that covered the Midwest with a sheath of ice. High-wind warnings were posted from southern New England into New Jersey and Pennsylvania, while gale warnings were issued from New Jersey to Florida and Mississippi. A freeze warning was posted over north-central Florida and San Antonio, Texas. The storm, which left more than a foot of snow from Colorado to Michigan, moved into the Northeast Wednesday and spread rain and snow down the Eastern Seaboard. Arctic air, combined with fierce winds, dropped wind-chill factors down to a lifethreatening to turn the rain and snow into treacherous layers.

Synthetic Insulin May Offer Diabetics Relief

DETROIT (UPI) - Six U.S. medical centers plan to inject hundreds of diabetics with lab-produced insulin in the first nationwide test of a synthetic touted as a "quantum leap" in the treatment of 2 million of the nation's diabetics.

The synthetic insulin, manufactured through genetic engineering, is similar to the hormone produced by the human pancreas to regulate blood sugar. Doctors contend the lab insulin could offer a cheap and abundant substitute for the animal insulin now in use and eliminate harmful allergic reactions.

Eli Lilly & Co., which developed the "biosynthetic" insulin, today announced plans to test the substance nationwide along with the medical centers in Detroit; Trenton, N.J.; Wichita, Kan.; Philadelphia; Minneapolis and Seattle.

At least 200 volunteer patients are expected to participate at six centers and additional sites may be added in Canada, Lilly officials said.

Police spokeswoman Marion Lee said 15-year-old Lorenzo Henderson was reported missing by his family Wednesday. He was last seen leaving his school in southwest Atlanta at 3 p.m., carrying a trumpet case. Dr. Larry Howard, director of the state crime laboratory for the past 11 years, said he believes only one killer is involved in the children's case because. "There is such a dearth of information."

Dwyer Is Back At Home

AMHERST, N.Y. (UPI) - Free-lance writer Cynthia Dwyer, imprisoned in Iran for nine months, then expelled as a spy, was back at home with her family today, unwinding from her ordeal and vowing never to set foot again in Iran.

"I'm so happy to be back," Mrs. Dwyer, trembling and watery-eyed, told reporters late Wednesday as she stood in her suburban Buffalo home for the first time since last April, when she set out to cover the Iranian Revolution as a free-lance journalist. Her husband, John, held her as she spoke, stroking her shoulder reassuringly. La contrast to the joyous homecoming of the 52 host ages, there was little fanfare for the return of 49year -old mother of three.

Gaming Panel Gives Sinatra Green Light

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - With personal recommendations from President Reagan and entertainer Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra won the unanimous but conditional approval of state investigators to re-enter the Nevada gambling

The state Gaming Control Board approved the singer's application to become entertainment and public relations consultant at Caesars Palace Casino-Hotel Wednesday after a six-hour hearing, featuring a star-studded cast of witnesses, who dismissed long-alleged reports Sinatra had improper dealings with the underworld.

"If Mr. Sinatra is a member of the Mafia, I am the godfather," said Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess. "I am completely satisfied Frank Sinatra is not a member of organized crime, the syndicate or the Mafia." Actors Kirk Douglas and Gregory Peck also testified on behalf of the 65-year-old entertainer, whose application listed President Reagan and Bob Hope as references.

The three-member board recommended the Nevada Gaming Commission approve Sinatra's request for the license.

But the board, the commissioner's investigative arm, recommended a six-month going to have a group of choirboys." trial period. The commission, however, which accept the condition and has previously eliminated such trial periods in some cases. Sinatra, who sat unsmiling with his wife, Barbara, and bodyguard, Jilly Rizzo, steadfastly denied during two-hours of testimony he had any improper association with mobsters.

He called "ridiculous" reports his career had been aided by organized crime, and said he was not sure whether he had ever performed at nightclubs owned by mobsters. "I could never prove that to you, sir," dered in 1975, to the Lake Tahoe resort.

A Message To Moscow

The Reagan administration has chosen, quite deliberately, to begin its tenure with some very blunt talk about the Russians.

In his first press conference as President, Ronald Reagan was asked his view of the long-range intentions of the Soviet Union. The President could hardly have been more direct: Well, so far, detente has been a one-way street the Soviet Union has used to pursue its own aims I know of no leader of the Soviet Union since the revolution, including the present leadership, that has not more than once repeated...that their goal must be the promotion of world revolution."

Nor did Mr. Reagan stop there. Characterizing the Soviets' pursuit of their objective, he added, ...they have openly and publicly declared that the only morality they recognize is what will further their cause, meaning they reserve unto themselves the right to commit any crime, to lie, to cheat, in order to attain that...

Only the day before, Secretary of State Alexander Haig had used the occasion of his first press conference in office to accuse the Soviet leadership of involvement in "conscious policy, in programs if you will, which foster, support, and expand this (terrorist) activity...throughout the world today."

As observations of demonstrable fact, the Reagan-Haig remarks are beyond dispute.

Marxism-Leninism, the official, secular religion of the Soviet state, requires its adherents-which surely include each and every member of the ruling Soviet politburo-to promote the international proletarian revolution at every opportunity.

As for the means to this end, the writings of Lenin especially are permeated with contempt for bourgeois morality," a contempt manifestly shared by every Soviet leader since.

And what of terrorism? The Soviets, believing as they do in their historical duty to abet the destruction of non-communist governments and societies, had been funding, arming, training, and encouraging selected terrorist organizations for

At present, the Palestine Liberation Organization is but the most notable of the terrorist groups receiving open or clandestine assistance from the Soviet Union or from such Moscow clients as East Germany. Czechoslovakia, and Cuba.

Granted, then, that President Reagan and Secretary Haig spoke the truth. But do such statements from an American president and his secretary of state serve such a constructive purpose?

We think so. The Reagan administration has sent a message to Moscow in vivid, unmistakable terms: The government of the United States entertains no illusions whatsoever about the nature of its chief

Putting the Soviet leaders on notice of this fact diminishes the prospects for the kind of miscalculation that prompted Leonid Brezhnev's predecessor, for example, to precipitate the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

The Russians, fond of testing the mettle of each new American president, now have less reason to risk a truly reckless opening probe against Mr.

Tough talk alone will not, of course, be sufficient to restrain the Soviets during the next four vears. The Reagan administration must begin quickly to restore American military strength and to revitalize badly frayed alliances.

In the meantime, however, the President and his chief foreign policy spokesman have rendered the world a slightly less dangerous place by giving Brezhnev and company a whiff of verbal grapeshot.

Seminole County Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts

In the Central Florida Council, of which Seminole County is a part, 85 boys achieved this honor during the past year. Nationwide, only about 2.5 percent of all Boy Scouts earn the Eagle Award, which has been presented to 900,000 Scouts since 1911.

To earn the award a Scout must fulfill requirements in areas of leadership, service and outdoor skills. Mastery of these requirements enables the boy to advance through the different award levels-Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class, Star, Life and Eagle. To qualify for Eagle, a Scout must earn 21 merit badges of which cover such areas as first aid, safety and personal management. The others may be chosen from the remaining 119 merits ranging from scoutcraft skills to areas of personal interest. So here's a same to all those Scouts whe with survey shows that cigarette smoking among high school seniors appears to be declining and marijuana smoking may have peaked, but cocaine use has doubled since 1975.

The study by the University of Michigan's Institute of Social Research found that alcohol use rose only modestly during the late 1970s among seniors at a nationally representative sample of 115 public and 15 private high schools.

While the kinds and amounts of such substances used shift from year to year, the fiveyear survey showed that the kinds of young people most likely to use them remain the

"Above average drug use occurs among those less successful in adapting to the educational environment, as indicated by truancy and low grades, those who spend many evenings out for recreation and those with heavy time commitments to a job and-or (have) relatively high incomes," said the report published in the latest issue of the American Journal of Public Health. "Drug use is below average among seniors with strong religious commitments and conservative political views." More girls smoked cigarettes than boys, but males averaged more alcohol and marijuana use than females. There was little difference among sexes in other drug use. Blacks reported lower drug use than whites, but the report said this might be because blacks had a higher school dropout rate than whites and black seniors may have had less trust in researchers asking them to report drug use.

The most dramatic shift in drug popularity, the survey found, involved cocaine with its use among high school seniors increasing from 5.6 percent in the class of 1975 to 12 percent in the class of 1979. However, the study found that most of those who reported using cocaine did so only a few times a year. Cigarette use among high school seniors appears to have reached a peak in the classes of 1976 and 1977 and is now trending downward, the report said. Girls surpassed boys in 1978 among those who smoked at least a half

In 1979, about 17 percent of the senior females reported smoking that much daily compared to about 15 percent of males while those reporting any use ranged from about 32 percent for males to about 37 percent for

Daily marijuana use averaged about 7 percent for females in 1979 and about 13 percent for males. Those reporting any use of marijuana ranged from about 32 percent for females to 42 percent for males.

After a dramatic rise in the 1960s and early 1970s, the report said the trend continued to 1978 but started leveling off in 1979. "It remains to be seen whether these rates will now begin to decline along with cigarette smoking rates," the report said. Daily use of alcohol ranged from about 4 percent for females to about 9 percent for males. Those reporting any alcohol use jumped from about 68 percent for females to 77 percent for males.

Playing Politics With IGs

WASHINGTON (NEA) - In a move that defies rational explanation. President the mission of the inspectors general is Reagan has shattered the morale and disrupted the work of the elite corps of government officials dedicated to achieving one of his high-priority goals.

Reagan's wholesale removal of all 15 indepartments and agencies presumably was intended to be one of those symbolic acts that

Indeed, the unexpected firing of the IGs on Reagan's first full day in office was accompanied by an aphorism offered by his waste and corruption.

But the indiscriminate dismissals suggest that the president chose to ignore the pedigree and disposition of those in the IG kennel when he took office. There were a few French poodles and dachshunds in the pack, but there also were a number of German shepherds and Doberman pinschers.

"There were some real lightweights, and the White House knew who they were," says one knowledgeable source. In several cases, hose IGs were widely viewed as political appointees neither motivated nor qualified to aggressively pursue investigations of government fraud and abuse. But Reagan also dumped some highly regarded professionals, including Charles L. Dempsey at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, J. Kenneth Mansfield at the Energy Department, Thomas F. McBride at the Agriculture Department and Allan L.

Reynolds at the Veterans Administration. There also is some question about the standard Reagan has established for the job. "Being vicious and savage won't get the job done," says one insider. "Analytical ability, intelligence and persistence are far more

What Reagan didn't tell his audiences. however, was that HEW itself had volun> teered the figure as part of its no-nonsense campaign against waste and that the department was committed to a full-scale effort to rectify the situation. If the president had chosen to retain or remove the IGs on a case-by-case basis, their offices would be functioning normally today. Instead, he has left all of their staffs leaderless and damaged the continuity of their work. The 1978 law that created most of the IG positions specifies that they must be appointed "solely on the basis of integrity and demonstrated ability and without regard to political affiliation." But Reagan has gone a long way toward politicizing the offices, offering every future president a precedent for an unwarranted post-inaugural housecleaning.

The Reagan administration's admission that it may have acted impulsively and unwisely came in late January, when the senior Republican on the House Government Operations Committee, Rep. Frank Horton of New York, visited the White House.

He has worked diligently to lessen economic differences and to heighten political cooperation, reiterating at every opportunity to both Japanese and American listeners his conviction that the United States must look to Asia for its future and that Japan is THE indispensable American ally.

Mansfield's performance has done more than flatter the Japanese. It has reassured them as to the dependability and durability of the special relationship as they take an increasingly assertive international role, a role that, considering their modest military establishment and the proximity of the Soviet Union, has its disadvantages.

There is no more effective diplomatic gesture's only effect.

JACK ANDERSON Negotiators Ignored Expert's Advice

WASHINGTON-To help get the hostages back from Iran, the Carter administration called upon Herb Cohen, an internationally respected lawyer, whose specialty is negotiating. He submitted his conclusions in writing to Reagan's campaign manager, William Casey, on Oct. 25 - 10 days before the election. "Khomeini and his mullahs know that they are selling to an anxious buyer," advised Cohen. "As a result, they will select the option of dealing with Carter, the Satan known, rather than Reagan, the Satan unknown." Cohen added prophetically: "There is a negotiating truism that most concession behavior and all ettlements will occur at the deadline."

Reagan issued statements calculated to exploit the Iranian apprehension about him. Seniors Set Valentine's Festivities

Sanford Senior Citizens Club, announced at the Tuesday meeting that a homemade Valentine contest will be held on Feb. 17. A covered dish meal and Valentine party are being planned.

Prizes will be awarded in several categories. Members are asked to participate by bringing a Valentine for competition. The program will be presented by the Bram Towers SweetHearts with Grayce Delp as chairman. Over 100 members attended the Tuesday bag luncheon and business meeting.

Herman Wallstrom, membership chairman, reported 245 paid members for 1981 and announced a new membership roster would be printed soon. Door prizes were won by Alice Riley, Fannie Lou Boss and Rosa Johnson. Lucia Weaver, Federation Director, announced she would have a representative at the March 3 meeting to explain the function of the federation as it helps and serves Senior Club members.

Doris Rogers, tour chairman, reminded members of the Stuart boat trip around Jupiter Island and the farm tour at Belle Glade on Feb. 19 and 20. The club members can also go to the Passion Play at Lake Wales in March, and the Holiday on Ice Show in April. This show there will feature the Lake Placid Special on the Winter Olympics.

Petitions were circulated for the nomination of Bobbi Hardy, former president, to the Silver Haired Legislature to be held in Tallahassee in mid-summer. This mock session held by Seniors is an annual affair at which Seniors have an opportunity to present their views on legislation to be taken to the State Legislature.

Mrs. Hardy was appointed to the post in 1980 and now is seeking nomination for a two year term. She asked members to make known their requests.

The aim of the Scholastic Art Awards program is to encourage and recognize talent in art among high school students. Now in its 54th year, the program that started as a painting and drawing competition has grown to encompass categories in graphic and textile design, pottery, jewelry and three-dimensional design (crafts) in addition to oils, water colors, photography and drawing in various mediums. Under the sponsorship of Robinson's of Florida, the Scholastic Art Awards program is advised by a regional board: Mrs. Karl Hubbard and Mrs. James Whitehead, chairpersons; Dr. Jane Rivell, Supervisor of Fine Arts, Orange County; Mr. John Blair, Coordinator of Fine Arts. Seminole County; Mr. Walter Watkins, Director of Instruction, Osceola County, Ms. June Henckley, Secondary Programs Brevard County, and Suzanne Davis, Special Events Coordinator, Robinson's.

The regional exhibition at Robinson's, Altamonte Mall will be open for viewing during store hours: 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekdays and 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Real-Life Drama Has Plot Unequalled On The Stage

DEAR ABBY: What could be more Shakespearean or more like Ibsen than this real-life drama?

My father, a very handsome and physical man, has had the same mistress all his married life. His wife (my mother) was aware of it, and in her later years she has become morbid and melancholy, until now she is completely senile. She knows nothing. Father is very attentive to her. He has his mistress come to his home every day to take care of Mother. This mistress, who was the object of Mother's most passionate hatred in years gone by, is now the object of poor Mother's deepest gratitude and affection. Meanwhile my father and this Salome are having a geriatric ball without the slightest guilt. Mother looks but does not see; she listens but does not hear. Tell me, Abby, is something rotten in Denmark?

DEAR WONDERING: If your parents live in Denmark, the

DEAR ABBY: I hope this letter makes your column because a lot of people need to get this message. My daughter was married recently, and while I was standing in the receiving between squeezes, with an obviously stopped-up nose, said in a croaking voice, "I've been in bed all week with the flu, but nothing could keep me away from this wedding, so I got out of a sick bed to be here."

Abby, the poor dear really thought she had done us a favor by coming. She would have done us a bigger favor by staying home! And would you believe this well-meaning but inconsiderate woman actually kissed the bride?

TYPHOID MARY'S COUSIN DEAR COUSIN: Yours is a timely letter. Thanks for the

Hoping to keep the dream from becoming a nightmare, the Mid-Florida Homebuilders Association (MFHA) today announced a 60-day price freeze on all new homes, those currently on the market as well as those under construction. In addition, during the next two months the association plans to hold seminars in the Seminole, Orange, and Osceola counties area to help potential homebuyers get the most for their housing dollar. The freeze, which will run Feb. 14-April 5, will not cover every new house in tri-county area, but only those of The MFHA is composed of 980 local firms including builders

MFHA President Michael Ashington-Pickett said the freeze is strictly voluntary, "but I've yet to hear of anyone who isn't going along."

So, despite possible market fluctuations, "prices in this area for the next 60 days will be locked," Ashington-Pickett said. "It will be a good time to buy a house."

But a lot of people haven't been buying which is why the MFHA came up with the freeze idea. "There's a terrific number of potential homebuyers who, because of prices and interest rates and what inflation is doing to their incomes, were holding back," Ashington-Pickett said,

"and I don't blame them." "But, unfortunately, things aren't going to get much better. If you don't stake your claim now, you may never be in a position to do so." he said. "That's sort of what we mean by our campaign motto: 'You're losing more than time.' "
