"Citizen of the Week" Herbert Cherry, real estate broker and general building contractor. He lives with his lovely wife, Mrs. Mattie Cherry. She is employed as an instructor in the Seminole County school system. He has always used these words to young people, "if you want conveniences and other good things in life you have to make them for yourselves. Most of all, there is no easy way. Hard work and faith in God is the only answer to any problem or the secret of success if you can name it that."

The H. L. Refoe Jr. Scholarship Fund will sponsor a benefit dance Thanksgiving night, 10 p. m. til 2 a. m. at Club DeLuxe on Southwest Road, so for your evening's entertainment, let's help this education program.

Cherry received his education in Seminole County where he graduated from Crooms High School and attended Tyler Barber College, Tyler Texas, where he received his degree in barbering. He also studied a course in insurance at the University of Florida extension school.

Bacardi Sales Down

NEW YORK — Sales and earnings for Bacardi Corporation for nine months of 1972 were lower than those of the comparable nine month period in 1971 because figures for the last year were unduly inflated by inventory stockpiling in anticipation of the East and Gulf coast strike that occurred in the Fall of 1971.

Old beer houses and wine taverns make Prague an hospitable city, and the traveler who prefers to bend his elbow rather than his knees will find it a paradise. The beer palaces are almost as famed as the castles, churches and monuments of the city.

Left-handers — an often misunderstood minority group comprising an estimated 20 million Americans — may finally be getting their say after years of neglect, reports the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company, Minneapolis. Left-handers have been discriminated against for years in our social customs and in the design of a wide variety of tools, instruments and utensils we use everyday. They represent a seller's market waiting to be tapped by enterprising businessmen. A whole host of products are made with little thought as to how a left-hander can use them — from something as trivial as right-opening chewing gum wrappers to something as potentially dangerous as a power saw.

Inflation. It's a word that drives the stock market up and down. It discourages buying an iron steak for a weekend barbecue, or allows one to put an extra TV set in the kid's room. Our national preoccupation with the purchasing power of the dollar is natural. Nobody wants to see his savings eaten away, and nobody wants to work harder and harder for money which each day buys him less and less.

HERE'S HOW

Wall, ceiling insulation good for soundproofing

By GENE GARY
Copley News Service

Q. We are going to build a ranch style house and we would like to know what type of insulation to use to help soundproof the house from unwanted outside noise? — Mary Rose D., Santa Cruz.

A. Insulation is a two-way street, keeping heat in and cold out and, in the summer, cold in and the heat out. Any good insulation also has qualities of reducing sound transmission, although there are other measures one can take to provide noise absorption. Most commonly used insulating products are rock wool or fiber glass, either made into batting or blankets or poured into place. And there are also some new materials, applied as loose fill insulation — modules which can be poured into place. And there are some new foam, spray-on types of insulations which boast soundproofing qualities. It is easy to insulate walls as well as the ceiling while a house is under construction. The normal ceiling insulation is a four-inch fill of rock wool or fiber glass, but for air conditioning or electric heat, a six-inch thickness of insulation is strongly recommended, which would further reduce noise transmission. But there are supplementary methods to provide better sound control. One is air space. Many apartment buildings use a separate, double-wall system to reduce noise transmission between apartments. Heavy draperies, overstuffed furniture and wall-to-wall carpeting absorb considerable sound. Another sound deterrent is acoustical material on ceilings and sometimes on the walls.

After some neglect I had the house painted — three times in 10 years. I did not know the paint would peel because of the oil on the wood and each job was as bad as the previous one. This spring, following advice, I had it sandblasted and then painted. The wood has a rough finish which doesn't bother me, but in some places the paint has soaked in and the wood shows through. Examine the frames closely and fill any openings and spaces with a caulking compound, using a caulking gun. See also that your ground slopes away from your foundation. Check with your paint dealer for the proper type of water sealer to use on your house.

fluid and can be applied over the present paint, if it is still in good condition. The brown spots will be first to be covered with a matching paint. However, your problem could also come from the window areas, especially if the windows are not tightly caulked which would permit moisture to work into the wall space, then out through the siding. Examine the frames closely and fill any openings and spaces with a caulking compound, using a caulking gun. See also that your ground slopes away from your foundation. EDUCATION NOTEBOOK
Tax credit bill has costly rider

By KENNETH J. RABBEIN
Copley News Service

A $2.3 billion-a-year "Public Education Trust Fund" is tucked away in the House of Representatives' bill authorizing income tax credits for private school parents.

Both sections of the Public and Private Education Assistance Act of 1972 (H.R. 3614) represent major changes in federal aid to education. Together they would cost more than $3 billion a year and $15 billion over the next five years.

If enacted, the bill would bring an increase in private school tuition; federal encroachment into private schools; increased federal control over state and local school operations and probably a reduction of federal expenditures for other education programs.

Private schools would have to comply with federal civil rights and equal employment opportunity laws, a provision certain to pale the prospect of federal greenbacks for many academies North and South.

Both the trust fund and tax credit provisions face constitutional problems. Hearings still are under way before the House Ways and Means Committee chaired by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., co-sponsor of the act with Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y.

The legislation is not in final form and final action is unlikely this session. The trust fund is designed to help states equalize educational opportunities in the wake of court rulings that current reliance on local property taxes to finance schools makes educational quality and opportunity a function of wealth in violation of constitutional guarantees of equal protection under the law.

Neither administration officials nor congressional aides have been able to decipher the bill's hastily drawn trust fund

Space Center To Survive After Apollo 17 Launch

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Wirephoto Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Contrary to some beliefs, this space center is not going to roll over dead after Apollo 17 is launched here Dec. 6 on the final moon-landing tour in the series.

After Skylab, Debus says, there will be a lull in manned space activity, with only a joint U.S. Russian flight scheduled between 1974 and 1978. But during that time preparations will be underway for the revolutionary space shuttle, and during the decade of the 80s manned ships might be embarking from the Cape at the rate of one a week.

By another reduction of some one to two thousand, that number will be determined by what we will need to get busy on the shuttle."

When the shuttle becomes operational in 1979 or 1980, he expects the work force to level at between 10,000 and 15,000.

'Use Of Linguistics' Conference At FTU

FTU — Dr. Robert Kersten, Director of the College of Engineering at Florida Technological University, announced that FTU has been chosen by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to offer a 11-week intensive training program in Environmental Instrumentation and Control (EIC) during the Winter Quarter, 1973.

The program is a part of the second phase RETRO (Regional Environmental Training Organization) FTU, Florida Institute of Technology, and Brevard Community College for the purpose of retaining former aerospace engineers and scientists for new career opportunities.

The EIC training program will be administered by FTU's Department of Mechanical, Engineering and Aerospace Sciences at FTU. The program will involve courses in Environmental Instrumentation and Measurement Techniques, Environmental Controls, and Computer Simulation.

Dr. Ronald D. Evans, Chairman of the Department of Mechanical, Engineering and Aerospace Sciences at FTU, said that recent legislation on air, water and noise pollution has created a need for persons with training provided by this short course.

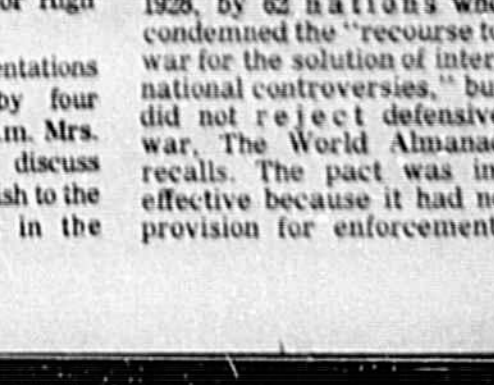

The FTU program will start on Jan. 2, and continue through March 15. The Florida State Employment Service will refer and counsel applicants for training, administer payment of training allowances and provide job placement assistance to trainees on completion of the course.

Dr. C. C. Rickett, now with FTU, and formerly Chairman of English at Orlando Junior College, "English for the Student Who Just Can't Do English." Dr. Lynn Sawyer, FTU, "Linguistics in the Traditional Curriculum," and Dr. Les Wood, of FTU's College of Education, on "Linguistics, Semantics and Human Growth."

The results of each of the planned forums will be published by FTU and distributed to English teachers in Central Florida, according to Dr. Grove.

Participants in the conference will be Dr. Bettie Fetscher of FTU whose subject will be, "Black English in Context," and Mrs. Barbara Roth, a teacher at Boone High School, who will speak on "Theory and Reality: Linguistics in the Junior High School Classroom."

Simultaneous presentations will be conducted by four others, starting at 11 a.m. Mrs. Sheila Acevedo will discuss "Communicating English to the Non-Native Speaker in the

Mackle Brothers Help Celebrate Ten Years'

By FANNETTE EDWARDS
"HAPPY BIRTHDAY DELTONA, HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU" ... This is the tune that greeted Frank Mackle and all the executives present of the Mackle Bros.

It was the observance of the anniversary of the 10th year, to the day, of the founding of Deltona, by the Mackle Bros. of Florida. On Nov. 18, 1962, they purchased the land from F. M. Ford of Deland and began construction on a city with roads and lakes and eight Model Homes to show to prospective buyers.

Today, 10 years later, this dream has become a reality with over 6,000 people and three areas of homes, well built roads and lakes with sky blue waters, beautiful landscaping covering 15,000 acres.

Frank Mackle, when called upon for a message, presented Deltona with a check for $10,000 for the construction of a Youth Center in Deltona.

Festivities began with a Pet Parade at 9 a.m. Saturday morning and prizes were awarded for the cutest, prettiest, most unusual, pet, etc.

The winners of the Marco Island trips, were: Robert Klinker of 1754 Philadelphia Cr., Nick Kabraves of 2286 E. Dana Drive and Mrs. Helen Bonamy of Saxon Blvd.

What most folks were anxiously awaiting, was the naming of the five lucky winners of the "three-minute shopping spree" at Winn-Dixie to be carried out after the store closed at 5 p.m. They were Mrs. Gertrude Wilson of 1075 Saxon Blvd., Mrs. Josephine LaSasso of 2281 Flamingo Ave., Mr. Ben Race of 1316 Fountainhead Drive, and Mrs. Violet Spencer of 1475 Argo Cr.

played and sang several pieces, mostly of yesteryear to the delight of the audience of 1,000 that gathered in the Plaza in Deltona, to hear them.

Old-fashioned men's straw hats were distributed to all who attended with red, white and blue bands and a sign that read, "Happy Birthday, Deltona's 10th," adorning them. It rained, for a while, but that did not dampen their spirits.

The so-called gentler sex, just dug right in and piled their cars first with meats, then with spirits, that is, wine, spirits and then a few cans, even 79 cent shelled walnuts.

What a generous amount to be given by the Mackle Bros. Deltona Corporation and the Winn-Dixie Store. And what a lot of food and hearty thanks families will have.

Sunday, marked the second day of Deltona's Celebration. The festivities, began at 2:30 p.m. and were called "An Old-Fashioned Sunday in the Park."

The "VIPs" were invited to attend a buffet, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Here were many dignitaries who would take part in the afternoon festivities in the Plaza: Parade Marshal, Col. Dale E. Miller, 27 years in the U.S. Air Force.

photographers. The store manager blew the whistle and away they went. A stop-clock was set in motion, so that the bell would ring, precisely three minutes later.

A parade of 40 floats and marching Band Units paraded before the public and the Voluntary Fire Department took part and brought up the rear. First came the Sanford Naval Academy, who just passed the parade had taken part in "The History of Our Flag, Pageant."

Names were drawn from a large drum for awards that were donated by the merchants of Deltona. Forty some gifts were awarded. Then, three names of residents of Deltona were drawn and these were awarded weekend trips with their families to Marco Island, another Mackle Bros. site.
