

REPORT ON DAWES PLAN

 However, opposition is still displayed among British bankers on the principal ground that the French should give definite engagements to leave the Ruhr and not go back as an isolated act, before British investors are asked to put their money into an investment that action against Germany would destroy.

Turn Down Proposal
 The "big seven" compelled to deal with no more delay on how to deal with the Germans, turned down a proposal to perpetuate the present subcommittees and add German delegates to each. It was decided instead to set up a general council of 14 conference delegates representing the United States, Germany and the 10 allies, with seven experts, one to each principal nation. These 21 persons will include only three Germans: Chancellor Marx, who will be always in attendance, and either Foreign Minister Stresemann or Finance Minister Luther, depending on the subject under discussion; and but one German expert at a given time.

Premier MacDonald at the primary session today, will hand Chancellor Marx a protocol containing the allied decisions reached by three subcommittees of the new conference and already published. The Germans will press the evacuation of the Ruhr as an essential preliminary to inaugurating the Dawes plan, and are ready, it is understood, with voluminous memoranda objecting to most of the decisions already reached. They will be in a hopeless minority in the conference as arranged.

 area and go ahead with the money available which will be sufficient to complete it to the city limits. The city engineer stated that he will have the plans for this area ready within 30 days with estimates for the cost of the work.

On account of much additional property acquired by the city since bonds were voted for the paving program now going on, it was decided to include in the bond election $50,000 for street purposes and $50,000 for a refunding fund. An additional $16,000 was included for the purchase of lands for a munslyzing Loeb when court adjourned.

Crowe Attempts Jury Trial
 Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, who had contended from the first against admissibility of expert testimony in mitigation of punishment, made only one effort today to have the hearing thrown into a trial by jury on an insanity plea. The move was checkmated by the defense and Dr. Healy's assertion that "insanity" was a legal term and had not been considered in his examination and report on the "mental disability" of the youths.

Dr. Healy's testimony, as was that of Dr. White, was chiefly contrasting of the emotional intellectual lives of Leopold and Loeb, with the indicated purpose of ward mitigation of punishment because retarded emotional development overshadowed their powerful intellects, and making them incapable of resisting impulses toward the crimes as built up in their childish phantasies.

Strange Pathological Relation
 "It was very clear from a study of the boys separated that each had peculiarities in his mental life, that each arrived at peculiarities by a different route, and each supplemented the other's already abnormal needs in a most unique way," testified Dr. Healy. "Their compact, their quarrels and their deeds all went to show a most strange and pathological relation." Leopold is of high instability and shows evidence of pathology of glands of internal secretion, Dr. Healy declared.

Are Arraigned in Municipal Court

 A total of 21 cases were arraigned before Judge J. G. Sharon in the local municipal court Monday morning. Eight of the defendants were fined or given jail sentences, bonds in four cases were returned, six cases were continued and three were dismissed. Fines, costs and returned bonds amounted to $379.

The cases as arraigned were: Freddie Williams, disorderly conduct, $5 and costs or 10 days in jail; Richard Allen, selling intoxicating liquor, $200 and costs or 90 days in jail.

My judgment is that there seems to be some steady impairment of Leopold's judgment concerning himself, particularly his relationship to life, continued the specialist. "His day dreaming, or phantasies are very important, not because we are not all subject to them, but because in his early life, day dreaming was so abnormal and has been carried along so abnormally. He had established a pathological personality when he met Loeb."

"As to Loeb, Dr. Healy remarked that his ready acceptance of jail life, jail clothing and discipline of incarceration was indicative of his 'living out his phantasy life.' In which he had builded himself up as the world's greatest criminal and behind 'jail bars,' the object of morbid curiosity.

Exceptionally Brilliant
 Intellectual attainments of the youths, Dr. Healy referred to as exceptional, particularly those of Leopold. He read into the record various lengthy tests, given Leopold and Loeb, Leopold most invariably achieved perfect marks while in Loeb's case his marks in some instances were graded as failures.

The boys for the most part were solemn today, smiling and whispering to each other only when the witness would make some pointed criticism of them or praise their intellectual attainments.

However, in an interview in the jail, Leopold said he would prefer death on the gallows to having to sit and hear alienists analyze his character.

"What a messy thing like hanging," he demanded. "What's death for that matter? Don't you like to go to sleep? That's all that is."

Dr. Healy will resume on the witness stand today with an indicated thirty minute's move of direct testimony. Mr. Crowe said his cross-examination probably would require an hour.

Shows Total of 34 Convictions in July

 The report shows a 90-day bond on said for $195.76, or the amount due to county at the time of the report.

Reports for the various other months of this year show alternate high and low months in the number of cases handled and the total of fines and costs. In April, fines and costs amounted to $3,079.93, while for May they dropped to $708.25. For June they advanced to $2,131.88 and in July dropped back to $1,741.15.

Back reports show that May was one of the dullest months this year for the sheriff and his deputies, with April the busiest. In both June and July, however, there were more convictions than in April. Total fines and costs for March, April, May, June and July were $9,571.08.

J. Tilden Jacobs asked the board to have the ditch and bridge in front of the school house at Lake Monroe repaired. A motion was passed authorizing the chairman of the board, John Melish, to act. Mr. Tilden also addressed the body in reference to the road in front of his place on Mill Lake in Chulucka. John Melish and E. D. G. M. Jacobs appeared during the session and asked about the fanching in of the Chulucka-Curryville road by D. P. Self, and asked that the board have the same opened.

Dr. J. T. Denton came before the body to tender his resignation as county physician and thanked its members for the co-operation given him during his term of service.

Gentleman—Citizen

What are you doing at the age of twenty-one? Are you playing poker until you can beat four aces with a pair of jacks? Do you devote so much time to billiards that you can mark up as many in one run as Willie Hopp? Do you, with an utter disregard for the pedestrian on the street or the little sick girl next door, dash up to your "sweetie's" home in your high powered car, arouse the neighborhood with a blare on the klaxon that sounds like the prelude to a thunderstorm, bawl out to her like a bull calf not yet weaned to "make it snappy," and then with a terrific grinding of half stripped gears tear off to some party which is sure to make you late for work or school in the morning?

If you do, you have the wrong outlook upon life. You have an exaggerated idea of your own importance. What do you care if you lose at poker?—the "old man" will make it good. What do you care if you dust the parson's coat with your fender as you round the corner? What do you care if you rouse the little sick girl out of her first sleep in thirty-six hours? Isn't it your car and haven't you a perfect right to drive it as you see fit? What do you care if all your racket annoys some people? Only old fogies have nerves, anyway.

If this is your outlook upon life, you have overlooked some very important factors. At twenty-one a man should have very nearly reached that stage of development when he can be called a gentleman. He should long since have ceased coming to dinner with nails dirty or hair uncombed, and chewing with his mouth open. He should now even thoughtlessly tip his hat upon all occasions to women, even older women with whom he is not so anxious to make a hit. He should realize that the essence of gentility is consideration for the feelings of others.

But there are other things of importance in the attainment of the age of twenty-one. No truer statement was ever made than "Good billiards is the mark of a gentleman, but too good billiards indicates a misspent youth." Never let it be said of you that you have a "misspent youth." As the French say, "Nothing to excess," we say, "Know something about everything; know everything about something." Too much time learning to drive bespeaks too little time learning to work. At the age of twenty-one levity should recede and the various phases of life should be looked upon with greater seriousness.

At that age the youth has not only himself to think of for the first time, but all his fellow countrymen as well. His parents are not only looking to him to show his strength of self-preservation, but his country is looking to him to show decision and judgment in the exercise of his voting and law making power. The responsibility of a citizen has become his and he should be prepared for it. He should be prepared to use his voice to count its utmost in settling important questions of civic and world affairs, which may perhaps be the most important questions of a lifetime.

So what are you doing at the age of twenty-one? Have you properly prepared yourself for the exercise of your duties? Are you ready to become a man and a citizen?

Let Mister Squirrel Have a Chance

Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, earnestly urges the planting of nut-bearing trees. In all sections of the United States his literature on the subject will be read, and enthusiastic individuals and organizations will straightway plant hundreds of hickory and walnuts and pecan and coconut trees, according to the locality in which the enthusiasts find themselves.

And after the nut-bearing trees are planted to the number of many hundreds, and the planters are rejoicing over the service they have rendered their country, some one of the disciples of Mr. Pack will take his mind off the conservation problem for awhile and have a week's hunting in the Maine woods, or in the Oregon forests, or in the wilds of Georgia. On this hunting trip he will kill dozens of gray squirrels for tasty game pot-pie. And in the destruction of those squirrels he will destroy as many hundred potential nut-bearing trees as he and his and all his enthusiastic confederates planted for the good of their fellowmen!

The gray squirrel is the greatest planter of nut-bearing trees in the world. In storing up nuts for the winter he buries hundreds more than he ever digs up. These nuts germinate and make the seedling trees of the forests. A company of gray squirrels can cover barren hillside with trees. They bury the nuts deep and cover them well. The roots get a firm hold and the trees grow strongly and surely. And then some day the American Tree Association alarmed at the rapid lessening of the number of nut-bearing trees urges folks to gather nuts from those trees and plant them for the protection of the world!

Very likely Mr. Pack points out the value of the gray squirrel as an aid in the conservation work, but unless the American Tree Association is laboring as industriously for legislative protection of squirrels and birds as it is for the arousing of public interest in the planting of nut-bearing trees, it is missing a big opportunity for service.

The Association might get out a letter to whom it may concern, asking for a ten-year absolute protection of the lives of gray squirrels, and protection of the trees they plant so far as that would be possible.

Curious what ignorance we show regarding our little helpers of the animal kingdom. We need more Natural History taught in the schools and more consistency in our so-called conservation work.

"And who shall receive one such little child in My name?"—McClure.

THE KIWANIS Club of Duquith keeps a list of the 260 orphans in the city's three asylums, the full name and date of each birthday. Every orphan, on the birthday, receives a letter, affectionately worded, expressing confidence in the child's future.

WITH THE CHEERFUL birth-day letter a little present is sent. It costs, perhaps, only ten or twenty cents. But it is a birthday present, and there is a letter calling the lonely child by its first name, a regular letter, brought with the grown-up mail, with a stamp, and everything.

The orphan's sad heart knows that somewhere in the outside world there is a remembrance. Gabriel may write that down in letters bigger than those used to describe the new union depot.

LIEUT.-COL. Beauchamp Williams, speaking in the British House of Commons on the Palestine budget, says, "Present day Jews are not descended from the Biblical children of Israel, but from the Chacra, a Mongolian people that had a powerful state of their own in Southern Russia, and became converted to Judaism in the ninth century."

WHERE THE HONORABLE and gallant member got his information isn't known. He surely says his anthropological studies have convinced him on the soundness of his theory.

Marauding Mongolians left more or less of their blood everywhere in Europe. Anybody might have a trace of it. Colonel Williams' discovery would amaze Rothchild and Maimonides, to say nothing of Benny Leonard.

IT PAYS TO DEVELOP a perfect thing, from cows to radio. Mrs. M. McMombly, of New Jersey, owns a Guernsey named Langwater Fairy, No. 79978. She looks like any other cow, but gives three times as much milk, four and a half times as much butter fat as the average cow. Her amazing record just announced is 3,605 pounds of butter fat in one year. In that kind of property there is no speculation, no manipulating, just plain, simple production of wealth through intelligent attention to breeding.

THEY DO THINGS romantically in Japan. The Samurai spirit has not died out.

The Daito Electric Company of Tokio, planning to float a loan in America, was visited by representatives of three Japanese clans. (No connection with OUR one and only Klan.)

The three Japanese clans are called "The Iron Hearted Brethren," "The Black Dragons" and "The Death Penalty Club." You can't beat those names for romance.

The Daito company was warned not to borrow or accept a dollar from the accursed Yankees. That will wear off presently, and meanwhile, we can use the money elsewhere.

THE MURDER of the American vice consul, Imbrie, by Persian fanatics, is due to religious quarrels, between the Mohammedans and Bahaites. The Mohammedans, fighting men of India and Persia, despite the Bahaites, who are men of peace.

When one Bahait drank from a well and then turned blind the Mohammedans decided it must be a sacred well.

They killed the American because he prepared to take photographs of that well.

Having been knocked senseless, his jaw broken with kicks and stones, the mob followed him into the hospital operating room, attacked and killed him there.

THESE SUPERSTITIOUS, murderous gentlemen are the crowd that would have been included in Uncle Sam's "mandate" had this country been foolish enough to swallow the League of Nations.

You see, providential wisdom all through Asia. Filled with religious hatreds and superstitions, the natives fight and kill each other while England, more enlightened, rules three hundred millions of them with ease and comfort. A Mohammedan hates a Hindu much more bitterly than he hates an Englishman. Therefore he usually kills a Hindu.

WICKED BREED runners, rushing through the night with tons of criminal gear and ahead swift "plot" touring cars to run into, knock over and confess honest abolition agents along the road. The bear escapes in the darkness.

Prohibition doesn't intend to stop the bear trucks with their bomb. The real man to change old habits.

In all evil there is some good. Bootlegging is ruining the stock industry in Chicago and some other cities. The king of the anti-abolition in Chicago turned bootlegger, recently bought a little home for $160,000.

The king of the anti-abolition in time as safe and a thousand times as profitable as sticking up bootleggers, to rob them.

The more ambitious stick-up gang for quick returns, become hi-jackers and stick up the bootleggers on their rounds, taking the money and what's left of the goods.

FOUR MAIN CAMPAIGN ISSUES

FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

Senator Walsh, who, on Aug. 11, will formally notify Hon. John W. Davis of his nomination, by the Democratic party for the presidential office, is reported from Washington as intending, in his notification address, to present four main issues—honesty in government, taxation, the tariff, and a constructive foreign policy.

These are vital issues to bring into the campaign of this year, Senator Walsh will do well to put them forward, and ahead of any other and lesser issues, thus early in the contest that hopeful and aggressive Democracy will wage during the coming three months.

The very fact that these issues entered prominently into the platform that was adopted by the Democratic national convention in New York is a simple justification for Senator Walsh to make them the basis of his notification speech. They are matters in which the voters, Republicans as well as Democrats, and, also, those of other political beliefs, are deeply and seriously interested. They affect the general welfare. Hence it is perfectly in order that they should be discussed throughout the campaign, so that the voters may know definitely what the Democratic party intends to do, if and when called back to assume charge and direction of the government.

In there any question with reference to what the Democratic party proposes to do in the matter of honesty in government? If there is re-read the declaration in the Democratic platform, platform, as adopted by the New York convention, as follows:

"We pledge the Democratic party to drive from public places all who make barter of our national honor, its resources or the administration of its laws; to punish those guilty of these offenses. To put honest men in office; to conserve the public money; to reverence and respect the rights of all under the constitution."

This is so plain that "he who runs may read" and understand fully where the Democratic party stands on that issue. With reference to taxation and tariff the Democratic platform is equally clear and explicit. It may be well to refresh memories by recalling the following ringing declarations therefrom:

"We denounce the Republican tariff laws which are written in great part in aid of monopolies and thus prevent those reasonable exchange of commodities which enable foreign countries to buy our surplus agricultural and manufactured products with resultant benefit to the toilers and producers of America. Trade interchange, on the basis of reciprocal advantages to the countries participating is a time-honored doctrine of Democratic faith. We declare our party's position to be in favor of a tax on commodities entering the customs houses that will promote effective competition, protect against monopoly and at the same time produce a fair revenue to support the government.

"The greatest contributing factor in the increase and unbalancing of prices is unscientific taxation. After having increased taxation and the cost of living by two billion dollars, under the Fordney-McCumber tariff, all that the Republican party could suggest in the way of relief was a cut of three hundred million dollars in direct taxes and that was to be given principally to those with the largest incomes. Although there was no evidence of a lack of capital for investment to meet the present requirement of all legitimate industrial enterprises, and although the farmers and general consumers were bearing the brunt of tariff favors already granted to special interests, the administration was unable to devise any plan except one to grant further aid to the few. Fortunately this plan of the administration failed and under Democratic leadership, aided by progressive Republicans, a more equitable one was adopted, which reduces direct taxes by about four hundred and fifty million dollars."

On the matter of the Democratic party's foreign policy, Senator Walsh again has the backing of the platform. "A constructive foreign policy" is what he intends to urge, as reported. Democracy's views in this important matter are set forth in various places in the party platform of this year, and in the records of Democratic activities of the past. There can be no disagreement with the proposition to adopt a "constructive" policy in the handling of foreign affairs, and Mr. Davis is exceptionally fitted, by practical personal experience, to inaugurate such a policy immediately upon taking up the duties of the presidential office.

If the Democratic campaign of this year dealt only with the four main issues as outlined by Senator Walsh there is quite sufficient material with which to go before the country for a convincing and a winning campaign of education and persuasion. But there will be discussion of other issues as well, and it is likely that when election day is at hand the voters will be fully informed. But the main issues need to be kept constantly before the voters, because they are vitally interested.

even though the right of the people to have unusual penalties and punishments inflicted on them is equally secured in the constitution. However, all will come out well in the end. The people need to be amused, if not educated, and the campaign corps of each and every candidate must be allowed to earn an honest dollar during presidential years if never after.

No country in the world takes its elections as seriously as does the United States. The campaign preceding every election from that of the mayor of the smallest town to the presidency of the United States is a real and vital thing in the life of the American voter. Each man comes to his part and have his say in the saving of the country, and that each man after, no matter the result, feels and is confident that he did his part and is not indeed absolutely alone save the country is one of the most certain and profitable things for

But it is a presidential campaign and what's the use of talking about it now?

A HEAVY DOSE OF SPELLBINDING

MIAMI TRIBUNE

The country is due to receive a heavy dose of political spellbinding beginning about the first of August and lasting until the night before the general election in November.

The Democratic, the Republican, and the LaFollette campaign leaders are all preparing to make content covering speaking tours; they are all arranging to radio-essence of words, and their best publicists are even now writing, mimeographing and getting ready to send through the mails tons of literature, speeches, and what not in favor of their respective party masters, and against the other fellow and everything else.

It will cost millions to do all this, and it is safe to say that the country knows how it is going to get a dose of political spellbinding that will not turn the electoral vote results in a single state in the Union.

But it is a presidential campaign and what's the use of talking about it now?

LABOR'S VOTE

JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL

There is much in the labor endorsement of Senator LaFollette and Senator Wheeler to encourage the independent movement, but when it is analyzed there is not so much significance to be attached to it.

Labor has demonstrated that its vote can not be divided by the wholesale. The leaders have themselves emphasized from time to time that their aims are not so much political as they are industrial. They even now fight any endorsing any party, choosing rather to give support to candidates Labor has defeated a number of candidates it set out to discipline and on the other hand many of those whom it marked for slaughter have come through the attacks safely.

It was to be expected that LaFollette and Wheeler would pull heavily from labor. The endorsement by federation council does not so much direct as it follows. Labor leaders expect thousands of their followers to vote the independent ticket. They will do that not through being told but through their own volition.

It will be recalled that President Coopers numerous occasions endorsed the Democratic platform and the Democratic national ticket.

 "Beautiful green pastures in Wisconsin with white clover with cattle grazing in them, was another pretty sight. Prosperity is beginning to show as it never has since the war. The crop of tourists for Florida will be greater this winter than it ever was before.

 EARL, ROEBOR of 7 and vital statistics at Hopkins say our population will be 197,000,000 in the year that will be our maximum and will come a decline.
 All due respect to the learned or any child could make a guess.
 William Allen Pusey, re-told the American Medical Association that population would be 176,000,000. And "with that of population, the pressure of death date, particularly mortality, will overtake the rate."
 IS ANOTHER poor guess. Intensive cultivation, as it is understood, the state of Texas could feed the earth's entire population and that is at least six hundred millions.
 There will be a thousand million beings in this country, in 77 happier, richer, better off by way, than any population we lived.

124 YEARS, SINCE 1800, population has risen from five to 112,000,000. What is the guess what will happen next 120 years? It would be impossible to guess how people this country could have harvesting machinery invented. Impossible before that of the tractor.
 It will happen when science has won from the air, and waterfalls supply power.

OF FOOD won't limit. Men's brains will be provided for their stomach. Higher race will gradually have fewer children. Elephants will be young than mice. A will be reached eventually. Some other things, that breeding cities will be up by the flying machine, us to live on mountain tops where is fresh air. These things are not to be used.

FLORIDA STATE LEAGUE CLOSES SEASON TODAY

Decision to Cut Short Season Was Reached at Meeting of League Directors Held at Tampa Tuesday—Believe That Such Action Will Be to Interest of the League

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 5.—Decision to close the 1924 season of the Florida State League on Aug. 6 in place of on Aug. 23, was reached here Tuesday at a meeting of the board of directors of the league. Financial difficulties experienced in practically every city of the circuit and the fact that Daytona and Tampa had recently given up franchises in the league were given as the reasons for the move.

The motion to so act was presented by a representative of the Bradenton club, and was seconded by the St. Petersburg director.

President Al Lang, of St. Petersburg, laid three propositions before the meeting, the directors rejecting the project of either financing the two clubs now in the league or continuing the circuit as a four club affair, agreeing that by closing the league's season at once revival of the circuit in 1925 would be easier.

League's Finances Good. Financial conditions of the league as an organization were reported as good by Mr. Lang.

It was reported just before the meeting here came to a close that a session of the league's directors be called in January of next year at which time definite action as to the maintenance of the circuit in 1925 will be taken.

Players of the Daytona and Tampa teams will be filled by the league for their services during the time they were on the league; the directors of the Florida State League ruled.

The clubs will close their season Wednesday afternoon with Orlando playing a double header at Lakeland; Tampa appearing in St. Petersburg and Bradenton playing at Clearwater.

Past Season Series. Following a consultation between Presidents Sivilter and Henley, of the St. Petersburg and Lakeland clubs, respectively, it was unofficially announced that a past season series will likely be staged between the Saints and the Highlanders.

The teams if such a series is played will appear in free lanes and not under the league supervision.

A physical clash between President Al Lang, of the league, and President Claire Henley, of the Lakeland club, was averted, it is said, by intervention of Secretary J. B. Asher, during a heated argument which led to an exchange of heated words over matters regarding business transacted during the season between them involved.

The league declined to retain the Tampa franchise, but voted to pay salaries of the players from the time the franchise was surrendered until the suspension of the schedule tonight. Tampa must pay the players from July 15 to Aug. 1. Secretary Close of the local club intimated that attempts would be made to raise the money by popular subscription.

President Lang informed the directors that he would continue as chief executive under the existing conditions for the present, but he desired them to have a new president ready to take the chair at the next meeting.

There is no opposition in the court races.

He is opposed on the Democratic ticket by Judge John R. Neal, of Knoxville, former law professor at the University of Tennessee.

Five candidates for the governorship on the Republican ticket were qualified with Joe Brown, of Chattanooga, chairman of the State Republican committee. They are: P. H. Thach, of Hamilton county; T. F. Beck of Moore county; formerly commissioner of agriculture; former Governor A. A. Taylor, Carter county; Walter White, of Rhea county; and W. N. Beasley, of Shelby county.

A heated campaign has been under way for weeks for the seat in the United States Senate now held by Senator John K. Shields, of Knoxville. Senator Shields, a Democrat, is being opposed by the Democratic side, being one of three Democrats seeking the honor. The other candidates qualified are Judge Nathan L. Bachman, of Chattanooga and Gen. L. Barton Lindsay, of Knoxville. Judge Barton Lindsay is a leading Republican in the senatorial race.
