

Mao's Rule Questioned But His Tomb Draws Throngs

PEKING (UPI) — The teenage girl in her Mao-style blue uniform held the hand of her grandmother, dressed in the traditional side-buttoned gray tunic worn by Chinese women for centuries.

The old lady's feet were tiny and crumpled from her youth when women bound their feet to please men.

Together the two women, from the old and the new China, joined hundreds of Chinese who walked hushed and solemn to view the body of Mao Tse-tung.

Mao, the revolutionary leader of present-day China, died in 1976. One month later came the end of the violent rule of the now disgraced "Gang of Four" — Mao's wife and three other militants.

One recent morning the 100 buses that brought workers from Peking and nearby cities. Each green invitation bore these instructions:

1. Arrive at the time fixed on the ticket and line up to wait. Give your ticket to the attendant.
2. Button up your clothes. Do not laugh or talk. No smoking. No eating. Do not carry into the memorial hall ammunition, firearms, cameras, tape recorders or handbags.
3. When you enter the hall, take off your hat. Walk slowly. Do not stop. If you want to arrange this beforehand.

The visitors shuffled up the vast staircase of the square building with its 44 massive granite pillars.

In the first room people were guided left or right on a red carpet past a 10-foot-high white marble statue of a seated Mao, his legs crossed informally. A painting of the mountains of China covers the wall behind him. The marble floor is so varnished it looks like water. The room is lined with small pine trees, symbols of longevity in China.

In the wood-paneled next room lies Mao himself in a black marble, glass-covered coffin set in a bed of flowers.

"The Great Helmsman" is dressed in the standard gray "Mao" suit. A red Chinese communist flag covers his body from the chest down. His balding head, the face rather rosy, rests stiffly on a red pillow. Four soldiers stood at the head of the coffin.

The atmosphere, as in Lenin's mausoleum on Moscow's Red Square, suggests a hall of devotion.

The visitors silently looked at Mao's body without stopping.

In the final room, on a white marble wall, one of Mao's poems is written in his graceful Chinese calligraphy.

In part it says, "So many deeds cry out to be done — and always urgently. The world rolls on, time presses, ten thousand years are too long. Seize the day, seize the hour."

The entire trip through the tomb lasted 57 seconds.

Out the rear door of the mausoleum streamed the "visitors of the masses," as the ticket-taker described them.

A man who had fought with Mao's revolutionaries in 1949 said, "The chairman rescued China from the depths of misery."

A 24-year-old steel mill worker who was bused to the square with 20 others from his plant said, "I was very excited. It was Chairman Mao who formed new China."

In the valley of the Ming Tombs near the Great Wall lie the bodies of the 15th and 16th century rulers of China. Their monuments are more graceful and lavish. But the bodies are hidden deep underground and not displayed to the public.

Skylab plunged from orbit and fell harmlessly into the Indian Ocean south of Australia at about 12:27 today, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials reported.

NASA officials said the mammoth 77-ton space station began breaking apart shortly after noon. The main body of the craft sent its final transmission to monitors in Australia at 12:04 Eastern Standard Time.

The demise of Skylab ends months of speculation as to where the vehicle would land.

However, while the latest reports at about 1 p.m. were that Skylab had fallen harmlessly into the Indian Ocean, there were some preliminary reports of sighting what may have been "lighter" pieces of the space station falling at several points in Australia.

What was being theorized at that time, was that while Skylab's heavier pieces broke off and plunged into the ocean, smaller pieces traveling at a slower speed may have taken longer to come down and may have fallen in Australia.

The exact time of Skylab's splashdown was not known. However, trackers in Australia predicted the time on the basis of calculations made before contact was lost during the craft's final orbit.

The impact location was put at 42 degrees 87 minutes south and 105 degrees 57 minutes east, according to trackers.

Because of the uncertainty over where debris would land, many state and local civil defense command centers across the nation were manned during the final hours of Skylab's flight.

It appeared earlier in the day the most likely impact zone might include parts of southern Canada and Maine.

But a final maneuver that sent Skylab tumbling in its last hours in space apparently added minutes to its life, extending the midpoint of the estimated debris zone into the South Indian Ocean.

The Federal Aviation Administration regional air traffic control center in Nashua, N.H., closed a 150-mile wide airspace path centered on a line from Kennebunk, Maine, to Berlin, N.H., "from the ground up" to minimize the possibility of debris colliding with a plane.

When it appeared earlier in the day that Skylab's wreckage might crash closer to North America, Skylab coordination chief Richard Smith said he was satisfied with what had happened.

"Right now," he said at 8 a.m. EDT, "all indicators are that it is going to move a little farther downstream into the big water area."

"I think the chances of a land mass being endangered are being reduced. We still know there's uncertainty around it. I can't say land masses are not endangered. But it appears that land concern would be going down."

An earlier prediction was that the 77-ton Skylab would drop in the Pacific Ocean at 11:18 a.m. EDT — give or take 2½ hours.

That course could have placed debris seriously close to North America if the prediction was off by even a few minutes.

So engineers ordered Skylab into a wobbling, rolling tumble designed to prolong its life by about 30 minutes and keep hundreds of bits and pieces of space junk from U.S. and Canadian cities.

Frances Lewine, a spokesman for the Department of Transportation, said the Coast Guard sent radio messages to vessels in U.S. coastal waters and overseas about twice an hour, asking them to report any sightings to the nearest Coast Guard Station.

It was an inauspicious end to an 174-million mile voyage that proved men could live in space for months at a time.

Skylab was launched in May 1973 and, when its third and last three-man crew abandoned it in February 1974, the 118-foot orbiting laboratory had returned a wealth of scientific information about the sun and Earth's resources as well as priceless medical data.

Water, Sewer Rates Boosted For 3,000 Seminole Customers

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

"We have to face realities. Especially like a rate increase — nobody likes a rate increase — a staunch conservative Republican," Seminole County Commissioner Bob Sturm said Tuesday night.

BOB STURM facing reality...

Nevertheless, Sturm voted with the majority of commissioners to raise water and sewer rates of about 3,000 consumers in the Lynnwood, Country Club, Indian Hills and Consumer Utilities areas of the county.

The new rates mean an average consumer using 12,500 gallons of water a month will see his bill rise from $20.97 to $23.65.

Consumers receive a combined bill for water and sewer services. The bill is calculated on the amount of water used. The sewage fee is based on a percentage of the water bill.

Under the current rate structure a customer pays a minimum fee for 5,000 gallons of water per month. The customer then pays 60 cents for every 1,000 gallons above the minimum, up to 15,000 gallons.

The minimum fee is $4.58. Sewer rates are then calculated at 120 percent of the water bill. Thus, at 12,500 gallons per month, the user would pay $4.58 (minimum) plus $4.58 (120 percent of the water bill) plus $11.43 (120 percent of the water bill).

Under the new rate structure, the minimum for 5,000 gallons remains at $4.58 and the rate per 1,000 gallons up to 15,000 sewer rate calculation at 15,000 gallons rather than the existing 20,000 gallon per month maximum.

Bob French, chairman of the commission, voted in opposition to the new rate schedule. He said he prefers leaving the maximum sewer rate calculation at the 20,000 gallon level.

The new fees become effective Aug. 1, which means consumers first will notice the price hike when they receive their bills in September.

The fee hikes are expected to generate about $100,000 in additional revenues, which will be used to cover escalating costs of operation and to help pay a balloon payment on the bond issue floated to acquire the system, according to commissioners.

At a June 13 public hearing, more than 75 residents appeared at the courthouse to protest the proposed rate. There were only about 20 residents present Tuesday night.

One of the protesting residents asked Jeff Etchberger, director of the office of Management, Analysis and Evaluation, why the rate hike of about 14 percent exceeded President Carter's recommendation of seven percent wage and price guidance.

Etchberger said the rate increase is the first in three years.

"Hopefully, we're dealing with a long-term hike as opposed to a single year, so annualized over several years the rate would be below seven percent," Etchberger said.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said she hoped the rate increase would not be a closed matter and that a review of the rates could be made each budget year.

In addition to the fee hikes, commissioners voted to increase the connection charges for water and sewer taps. The water connection fee increases from $300 to $425 for single family and multi-family dwellings and from $250 to $375 for motels and hotels.

Sewerage connection fees will rise from $400 to $525 for single family and multi-family dwellings and from $350 to $375 for motels and hotels.

The decrease comes as a result of the commission's decision to set the maximum

Will this Baptist Church be Longwood's next city hall?

Longwood Decision: Buy Church Or Inn?

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Will Longwood's future city hall be equipped with a bar or an altar? That is the question.

"And it comes with a liquor license!" exclaimed Commissioner Joe Leibensperger when he learned Longwood's 1883 Village Inn was available as a possible new city hall site.

Having outgrown its city hall building, built in 1963, the city of Longwood is eyeing other possible sites — including the facilities now occupied by First Baptist Church of Longwood, and the hotel.

The old inn, designated a historic landmark in 1973, may have special financial advantages for the city, according to Joseph Roach of Real Estate One, Maitland, exclusive agent for the property owned by Marian St. Laurent.

Roach said Tuesday that the city could recoup up to 50 percent of the purchase price of $330,000 and renovation cost in the form of a restoration federal grant. The price includes all equipment and furnishings, with the exception of an antique buffet.

The center of the Longwood Historical District, the three-story hotel, because of its historical registry, can't be changed on the exterior, but can be remodeled on the inside to suit the buyer's needs.

The first floor contains a restaurant, disco, bar and lounge. The second floor has been remodeled into 16 offices.

"This is the most logical place for the city hall, in the center of the historical district, and the hotel could easily be adapted for the use," he said.

Another prospective buyer would do away with the disco, replacing it with a Southern plantation cuisine served

See LONGWOOD, Page 2A

It was the first racing date canceled this season. The track had to postpone two dates last season because of weather and malfunctioning equipment because of electrical disturbances.

Elsewhere in the county, lightning was being blamed for starting a fire in a home east of Casselberry, according to Seminole County deputies.

The utility companies also have placed the sheriff's department on its priority list should an outage occur, Spolski said.

"Even on a power outage, our new telephone system at 310 has a built-in capability of sustaining itself for five hours," Spolski said. "We could still accept and make calls."

'Trickery' Charged In County Teacher Salary Talks

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

The school management team is accusing the teachers' negotiating team with using "trickery tactics" to get a 15 percent hike in starting salaries approved.

Both teams met at the bargaining table Tuesday afternoon to discuss salaries and completely different accounts of what exactly happened.

Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association (SEA), said both teams reached an agreement of a 15 percent increase in beginning salaries of Seminole County teachers.

The beginning salary for teachers with a bachelor's degree is $9,100. SEA is saying that salary will be increased to $10,465.

But Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school management team, said his team had approved the language of a particular article not the teachers' salary proposal.

"We would never approve anything like that (salary hike)," Cowley said. "The taxpayers could never afford it."

"The negotiators for the teachers are using trickery. They are trying to get the public to think we offered this and now we are trying to back down on it."

Cowley said the school management team never presented a counter-proposal to the teachers' union's salary request. He declined to say how much the management team was willing to offer concerning starting salaries.

But Grooms charges Cowley and his team "goofed" and he can prove the salary and expenses agreement was reached by the teams.

"I am going on the written word that he passed across the table," Grooms said.

Cowley said no future bargaining sessions were scheduled to be held between the two teams. But he may take some action on behalf of his own team.

"We possibly could petition that union for bargaining in bad faith for refusing to receive our (salary) proposal," Cowley said. "I think the tape (of the session) will back me up."

Despite the teachers' union's contention both teams eventually will have to return to the bargaining table to open negotiations on salaries.

Cowley said. Two other tents, the school calendar for the 1979-80 school year and the health and medical insurance coverage, both previously tabled, also will need to be taken up by the negotiating teams, he said.

Talks Termed 'Important:' Sadat To Visit Israel

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will visit Israel next month at the invitation of Prime Minister Menachem Begin, the two leaders said today.

They told reporters they disagreed on the question of Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip but agreed on opposing any move to dismember Lebanon.

"I agree with the Prime Minister that our talks today and yesterday were among the most important we have had," Sadat said. "Very important indeed," Begin added.

The Israeli leader said "we agreed peace between Egypt and Israel is forever."

Troops Could Be The Rebels

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — President Anastasio Somoza admitted for the first time he doesn't know how long his national guard can hold up against Sandinista reinforcements and warned his troops may turn to guerrilla warfare.

"If they the Sandinistas keep coming across from Costa Rica, there's no force that can stop them," the Nicaraguan president said. "I don't know how long the guard can hold out."

He also said if he is forced to leave the country without safeguards for his national guard and Liberal Party, government troops will "fight on."

Explosion Damages Pipeline

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — An explosion that may have been set by saboteurs today blew up an oil pipeline supplying crude oil to the world's largest refinery in Abadan — the second such blast within a week.

State radio reported the explosion occurred near the ethnic Arab village of Darkhwan, exactly halfway between Abadan and Ahvaz, at 2:30 a.m.

On Saturday, explosions cut off the refinery's supply lines from the Ahghajari fields, cutting the refinery's least this by 80 percent, according to the state-run Bars news agency. Those pipelines still have not been repaired.

Voyager 2 Delivers Bonus

As Voyager 2 swung around toward Saturn from behind the dark side of Jupiter Tuesday, re-establishing radio contact with Earth, it snapped pictures looking back at the huge planet, probing its dark side and finishing a 100-photo sequence on the volcanoes of the moon Io.

Soviets Criticize Chinese

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today accused China of trying to upset proposed talks aimed at improving relations between the two communist giants by imposing preliminary conditions before they begin.

The Communist Party daily Pravda charged in an editorial today that Peking is trying to drag "artificial" complications into their "talks about talks" and demanding substantial changes in the Soviet attitude and the official Tass news agency reported.

"But it is common knowledge that the tactic of 'preliminary conditions' is used as a rule when there is an intention to derail the talks from the outset or to protract them to infinity."

Carter Rules Out Tax Cut, Decontrol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter is ruling out decontrol of gasoline prices and, apparently, a tax cut at this time as the unprecedented Camp David series of meetings nears an end.

Press secretary Jody Powell said Tuesday Carter believed removal of gas price controls would be too inflationary.

He also said the prominent non-government economists included in the presidential retreat Tuesday agreed that Carter should not heat up the economy now with a tax cut, even though a recession is in sight. Some of the economists said the nation is in a recession now.

There were indications Carter would return to the White House Thursday afternoon, and it was understood that some of his speechwriters already are at work at the diplomatic recognition and a lifting of sanctions against his nation.

White House. He also planned to interrupt the morning session for a brief talk with Zimbabwe Rhodesian Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, who is seeking U.S.

Searching for broader solutions to the malaise that he believes has spread throughout American society, Carter conferred Tuesday night with 10 or so of the nation's most prominent religious leaders from all faiths.

Carter's cloistered probing for new ideas from a spectrum of experts in and outside of

Computer Could Save County Energy

Savings to Seminole County in excess of $30,000 per year could be realized if the courthouse and other buildings were heated, cooled and ventilated by computer, county commissioners were told Tuesday.

David Holary, director of administrative services for the county, said the net savings over five years would be about $175,022 if a computer were installed. Additional savings would be realized if the heating and cooling equipment in Building 310 at the airport and the Seminole South Library were hooked into the computerized system, he said.

"It is projected that a reduction of approximately 31 percent in energy consumption will result from installation of this service," Holary said. The computer operation would reduce the runtime of the heating and air conditioning equipment, he said.

Both Honeywell Corporation and Johnson Controls, manufacturers of computers, would charge similar rates for installation and service, according to Holary. Those fees would be about $20,000 the first year and less in subsequent years, he said.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said the computer system has proven cost efficient in public buildings elsewhere and suggested the necessary work be done for the invitation of bids on July 24. The delays were made so residents affected by the proposals could have the opportunity to provide the commission with further information.

— Delayed until July 24 public hearings on proposed road improvements on portions of Power Road and Burton Lane. A public hearing on an ordinance to establish a special street lighting district in the Lake Ridge section of Fern Park also was delayed until July 24. The delays were made so residents affected by the family style, according to Roach.

"If the hotel is available, forget the church," commented Mayor John Lormann on learning it was available.

City Administrator David Chace reported to the city commission Monday night that he had made a tentative offer to the church, but "they want a minimum of $320,000."

"I don't want it at any price; we would be trying to fix it up the rest of our lives," said Commissioner J.R. Grant.

"Besides I have it on good authority they would take a lot less."

The church, meanwhile, is trying to sell its facilities at Chace and Grant stresses construction of new buildings on State Road 434 near the church's activities building is scheduled to take place in October. "A stipulation of sale would be that it was not available until April, 1980, when we could move out," said a spokesman for the church.

Altamonte Springs Realtor Don White, who is handling the property for the church, said he doesn't know where Grant got his information, "certainly not from the board of trustees or the new building committee."

"Maybe six months ago, they could have gotten it for less," said White. "But now the church has gotten financing for its new building and can afford to wait until the right buyer comes along."

There are three parcels for a total asking price of $459,700, according to White. Parcel one includes 16 lots with the 4,027-sq.-ft. 21-year-old sanctuary, a 5,222-sq.-ft. classroom building, a 5,500-sq.-ft. education building, a 1,700-sq.-ft. office complex, covered walkways and a house.

The second and third parcels consist of six lots north of Church Street and six lots east on Grant Street.

"There is no way that could duplicate this at near this price at today's costs," said White. Commissioner Grant is trying to renegotiate to try and get a lower price for the church property.

City Clerk Linda Martin said the present city hall facilities are "too small" and the building official's desk is in the council chamber. "We need part-time help, but there is no place to put them and we need storage space," she added.

Hurricane Bob Hits The Louisiana Coast

GRAND ISLE, La. (UPI) — Hurricane Bob today brushed meekly into the unpopulated coastal marshlands of southeast Louisiana, brushed by weakening 75 mph winds and driving rains.

The first hurricane of the season — and the first to bear a male name — had startled weather forecasters Tuesday with its rapid growth from a minor tropical depression to a hurricane in less than nine hours.

But Bob failed to live up to expectations and barely held on to the 75 mph winds necessary to be labeled a hurricane as it skittered across the marsh grass 20 miles west of Grand Isle at daybreak.

Douglas Smith, one of the 200 persons who remained on the island, said Hurricane Bob was milder than some storms he experienced on the offshore oil rig where he worked as a cook.

"I've seen winds worse than this out here on the platform," Smith said. "This is no hurricane. One time a sudden squall kicked up and nearly blew me over the platform. This is nothing."

The burst of the wide struck where they could cause little or no damage — in the marshes that shielded most of southeast Louisiana, a rare section of the coast exposed to the open Gulf.

Water was four to six inches deep in ground-level businesses on the island.

"The water is moving in very fast," said Mayor Wayne Guiley. "What levee we had left is washed away. One roof was partially blown off, but I saw no major residence damage. There's no major flooding of homes."

Grand Isle prepared for the worst by evacuating virtually all 6,000 of its residents and tourists Tuesday. Although the strongest winds bypassed the island, guests were strong enough to break power lines

Casselberry Cyclist Assaulted By Driver

A leisurely bicycle ride turned into disaster Tuesday afternoon for a 21-year-old Casselberry man who was assaulted by an irate motorist, according to Seminole County deputies.

Leslie Harris of 1170 Seminole Blvd., Casselberry, told deputies he was riding his bicycle south on Red Bug Road near the Sunrise subdivision when he was struck by a car.

A red pickup truck traveling in the opposite direction attempted to pass a car in front of him and, in the process, forced Harris off the road, Harris said.

Harris, who was drinking water from a plastic container at that moment, squirted some across the truck's windshield, deputies said. Both truck and bicycle proceeded down the road in opposite directions.

A few minutes later, the truck returned and pulled off the road in front of Harris at the entrance to the Sunrise housing development, he said.

The driver climbed out of the truck and attempted to "karate jump-kick" Harris, the cyclist told deputies. A fight ensued before Harris managed to pin the man down on the ground.

When he released his assailant, the man pulled out a four-inch blade Buck knife and jabbed at him, Harris said. He added that he suffered a slight cut on the left side of his face.

NATION IN BRIEF

A Tribute To Fiedler As Boston Pops Plays On

BOSTON (UPI) — There was a moment of silence at Symphony Hall Tuesday night for Arthur Fiedler. But only a moment.

Then the Boston Pop Orchestra struck a muted, reverent rendition of the song the silver-haired maestro loved best — the "Stars and Stripes Forever March." The podium where Fiedler stood for 50 years was vacant in tribute to the world-famed conductor, who died early Tuesday of a heart attack at the age of 84.

Only a huge wreath of flowers was draped across the stand where Fiedler spread the musical scores that brought joy to millions around the world.

"Fears welled in the eyes of many in the capacity audience as the American flag was unfurled from the ceiling while the leaderless orchestra played 'Stars and Stripes.'"

His death brings the end of an era," said one elderly woman.

Americans Losing Billions?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government says Americans are losing billions of dollars a year in interest by investing in "whole life" insurance policies instead of simply putting their money in bonds or savings accounts.

Whole life policies are those in which the owners' investment accrues, can be borrowed against, and is paid off in the form of dividends or retirement income, as opposed to simple term policies from which death benefits are the only payment.

A report issued Tuesday by the Federal Trade Commission said "whole life" insurance policies earn only 1 to 2 percent on the average, compared to 5 to 7 percent interest on the lowest-paying savings and loan accounts. It said the reason whole life insurance is so popular in the United States is that consumers simply don't realize how little they're earning.

New Mail Service Offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service, in its biggest step into the electronic age, is inaugurating a mail-via-satellite network that photographs letters and transmits them from Washington or New York to London in a matter of minutes.

The new computerized INTELPOST was beginning this week a month-long demonstration stage between the United States and England. The Postal Service then plans to test it between the United States and seven other countries.

The cost of mailing a letter to Britain will be $5 a page — the rates may be reduced if the system proves profitable — plus additional postage for hand delivery if the sender desires.

Governors Reach Compromise

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — When the nation's governors assemble, about the only action that can be taken by majority vote is to adjourn.

Thus it appeared for a while Tuesday that the National Governors' Association, after wrestling for three days with energy issues, might be bogged by its own rules and unable to speak as a group on the vital question of oil prices and windfall taxes. Gov. Richard Lamm, D-Colo., brought a carefully constructed compromise to the closing session.

It endorsed President Carter's gradual decontrol program, called for a tax of unstated percentage on the extra profits of the oil companies and recommended that those revenues be used to encourage energy production and conservation and to be used to help people on fixed or low incomes pay higher fuel costs.

Storm Kills Two Workers

By United Press International

Winds clocked at 80 mph crumpled a partially completed shopping center in Texas, killing two construction workers and injuring several others.

Winds of up to 80 mph smashed into Round Rock, a suburb of Austin, and crumpled Sam Bass Square, a two-level shopping center under construction.

"We went inside to get out of the rain," said Charles Cramer, 23, one of the workers who said the squall line approach. "We heard the walls crack and we started to run. It all came down on us." The bodies of two construction workers were pulled from the wreckage, police said. Several other workers were injured, two of them requiring emergency treatment.

Wayne's Will Revealed

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — John Wayne's will, leaving most of the actor's $7 million estate to his seven children, was accepted for probate without opposition Tuesday at a hearing before Superior Court Judge Bruce Sumner.

The judge authorized the three executors named by Wayne to carry out the will's provisions — Wayne's oldest son, Michael, Arizona ranching partner, Louis Johnson, and attorney, John Warren.

Wayne, a symbol of rugged American manhood to moviegoers around the world for generations, died June 11 of cancer at the age of 71.

His 27-page will provided for an estate with $1 million in real property, $5.75 million in personal property and $100,000 in bonds.

The actor left a trust for his first wife, Josephine, providing her with an income of $3,000 a month, and made gifts of $20,000 to Pat Stacy, his secretary at the time of his death, and $10,000 to Mary St. John, a former secretary.

Psychologists On Licensing: 'A Disgrace'

By SHARON CARRASCO Herald Staff Writer

"I think it's a disgrace and disastrous, particularly for the consuming public," said Dr. Robert L. Edelman, a private practicing psychologist in Altamonte Springs, regarding the give-away licensing procedure for psychologists in Florida.

Before his session ended in June, the state legislature failed to renew the state law that regulates the licensing of psychologists. That law expired July 1.

The power of licensing psychologists now lies in the hands of the counties, which may or may not — require applicants to show proof of training, expertise or experience now, he said.

"I went through nine years of school to get my psychology degree," Edelman said. "We are also meeting to discuss the Association, plans to seek license for his pet cat named Charlie, today as a sex therapist in Polk County.

Another psychologist in Pensacola was "over-ruled" to have registered his children and get hamster Tuesday as practicing psychologists.

"The field of psychology involves an intimate relationship between the client and the doctor," Edelman said. "But with no rules of professional ethics, I can see people using blackmail tactics on clients to suppress this without state regulations, there is no assurance of quality, Edelman said. The practicing psychologist in Florida needs no training, expertise or experience now, he said.

How To Go From Bad...To Worse

So long as the gasoline shortage was confined to California, no one seemed to care very much when Congress turned down the Carter administration's gasoline-rationing plan in early May.

But now, with the phenomenon of filling-station lines rolling along the Eastern Seaboard, there is growing political pressure to grant President Carter his wish for standby authority to ration gasoline.

Apparently frustrated motorists would rather take into account the uncertainty and inconvenience of lining up for gasoline on odd and even days.

Despite the assurance that government-gasoline coupons would offer motorists a given monthly allotment, we must assume the government's proposed new role in the marketing of gasoline would be the surest way to have the shortages go from bad to worse.

As it is, the Department of Energy has managed to give the United States that which no other nation has—lines of waiting motorists at filling stations. Some knowledgeable observers believe the shortage at the gasoline pumps has been greatly magnified because the DOE messed up the rationing it has already undertaken.

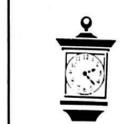

It is expecting the impossible to believe that rationing would offer miraculous relief as the hair from the dog that bit us. Under President Carter's original standby plan, which may or may not be altered this time around, the nation's motorists would be mailed entitlements to gasoline coupons for 90 days worth $25 billion.

The administration estimates it would take six to eight months to create the necessary bureaucracy to impose gasoline rationing after Congress approved the standby authority. And no one has ventured a guess about how many billions it would cost to administer such a vast program.

There should be no doubt, therefore, that the standby authority for gasoline rationing, once granted, will be invoked swiftly. Deputy Energy Secretary John O'Leary is already saying that rationing "should be considered" perhaps by summer's end.

The worst of it is that rationing only addresses the symptoms of our energy shortage and not its root cause. The quickest way to eliminate waiting lines at the filling stations, which is all rationing can hope to accomplish, is for the president to deregulate altogether the artificially low prices now imposed by the government over a three-year period.

Not Like The Good Old Days

It's almost like the old days. Passenger terminals are crowded, trains are jammed and a reservation for a peak travel period can be the hottest ticket in town.

But it's not the good old days. With the explosion of new railroads blue-ribbon runs, electric service is so spotty that it may no longer be possible to get there from here and the condition of most roadbeds gives new meaning to the expression "roughing it."

But travel we will, and a considerable chunk of the gasoline-short public is rediscovering the railroads as a means of doing so. There is even some talk that the energy shortage may bring about what eight years of Amtrak reorganization and federal subsidizing have failed to achieve—rehabilitation of nationwide passenger service.

That might almost qualify as a happy ending to the energy crisis, but don't expect it to be written. If recent history—the aftermath of the 1973-74 oil embargo—is any guide, the rush of new customers will be rapidly run away from the trains and back to autos as soon as the fuel supply improves.

And if it does not, if the shortage proves to be for the very long haul as we are warned, it is unlikely that trains could be the most effective means of meeting the nation's changed mass transportation needs.

Thanks in large part to decades of neglect of what once was a prime national asset, rehabilitation in new much more than a matter of extending routes and proving new rolling stock. Before passenger service could be restored to anything resembling operating efficiency, the existing freight-oriented rail system would have to be thoroughly restructured and millions of miles of track renewed.

Even with such a multibillion-dollar investment, trains would not be providing the most passenger value for our money. The private auto, at least the fancy new ones, have been accustomed to, may well be on its last wheels. But for moving large numbers of people long distances in a fuel-light economy, buses and the superjets have the advantage.

Get to work or around town any way you want except drive—that is what mass transit advocate John Hedrick is proposing for July 19.

BUSINESS WORLD

Continuing Gas Crisis

NEW YORK (UPI)—Asher Markowitz has gasoline was about 150 times worse than the ordinary motorist, no matter how long the line he waited on.

Markowitz manages a fleet of 150 cars for Alpha Renters in Manhattan. His gasoline problems are common to most of the small agencies—and they are costing business and money.

Such money, says Herb Crane, president of the Car and Truck Rental Association of New York, that unless more leadership is shown in solving the gas crisis small rental agencies and independent taxi owners will be driven to the wall in the big cities.

Crane said he believes small agencies in New York are suffering revenue declines of perhaps 25 percent as a result of the shortages; this in addition to a big rise in expenses.

Alpha's Markowitz, who operates out of locations not zoned for underground gasoline storage, said he has been forced to rent his cars with tanks only three-quarters full.

for mass transit. Unfortunately, I don't think it will be the rational explanation that will bring people around to the idea of mass transit.

RONALD REAGAN Senator Jackson Reminder

When historians look back at the debate over SALT II and the evolving relationship between the president and the Senate in the formulation of American foreign policy in the 1970s, I suspect that a certain speech by Sen. Henry Jackson will be among the most quoted documents.

The speech I am referring to is the senator's address on SALT II to a Democratic political group on June 12, in which he compared American policy toward the Soviet Union today to Great Britain's policy of "appeasement" toward Hitler's Germany in the 1930s.

It was not Sen. Jackson's hard-line anti-Soviet position that surprised his colleagues. Jackson has never hedged on his advocacy of a strong American posture vis-a-vis the Soviet Union.

What surprised his colleagues was the dramatic reminder to many Democrats that the specter of foreign policy thought within their own party is wider than they had imagined.

Cable TV Firm Buys Land In Altamonte

Storer Cable TV, which has the cable television franchise for Altamonte Springs, has announced the acquisition of approximately seven acres of land on which will be built the company's 350-foot receiver tower, satellite earth station and office building.

According to Jim K. Faircloth, vice president for Operations of Storer's eastern region, "this purchase is the biggest step yet in our construction efforts on the Altamonte Springs cable system. Now that we have the land and the proper zoning we are in an excellent position to meet our goal of having the entire system completed by April 5, 1980."

The future tower and office location is at the intersection of State Route 434 and Sand Lake Road in Altamonte Springs.

After determining that the land was available it was necessary to complete a computer TV signal survey, obtain FCC and FAA permission to use it as intended, obtain a special exception to Altamonte zoning and do extensive surveys and soil testing.

The land acquisition, Jennings said, is only the latest of many accomplishments, some minor by themselves, but which taken together represent a lot of work and money invested.

There is now a general manager and plant manager in residence. A temporary office has been set up and vehicles have been purchased.

Warehouse space has been secured, all major receiving equipment has been ordered and some has already arrived.

Negotiations of pole attachment contracts, Jennings said, have been all but concluded with Winter Park Telephone Company and Florida Power Corporation.

"These people have been extremely cooperative and helpful," Jennings added. "It is very encouraging since the utility companies have a great deal of work to do rearranging facilities already on their poles so that we may attach our cable."

The areas to be built first will depend on the final design of the system which is not yet completed. Jennings speculated that construction will probably begin at the low end and generally move eastward. This will allow sections to be completed and turned on in scheduled increments in which different sections of the city will be built."

Help Sought In Abductions

He is described as being a white male in his 30's, 5'11", 170 pounds, with black curly hair and a full beard.

It is believed that this man is responsible for the abductions and rapes in Casselberry and possibly some in Orange County along State Route 436.

In one particular case, a man driving a beige Volkswagen approached the victim at Wilshire Boulevard and Winter Park Road in Casselberry.

He offered the 11-year-old girl $5 if she would sweep off the front steps of a nearby convenience store. When she accepted his offer, he then met her in the back parking lot of the store. After she parked her bike by his vehicle, the suspect grabbed her around the neck and pulled a knife on her.

As he was attempting to force her into his car, luckily for her, three young boys happened to come by and scared the suspect off.

Sheiks Are Bad Guys In Assault On U.S.

WASHINGTON—President Carter cannot cope effectively with the oil catastrophe until he recognizes it for what it is. In simple English, the United States is under economic assault, and the American people are victims of unarmed robbery on a scale hitherto unimaginable.

The perpetrators are a few desert sheiks, with neither military power nor international law on their side. Yet in their conclaves, they have spoken boldly of using their oil as a weapon to punish the United States for arming Israel and promoting the Israeli-Egyptian peace pact.

Writing my reports about the Israeli-Egyptian treaty signing. We reported that the oil ministers had asked the Intercontinental Hotel to install television sets in their private conference room, where they watched the signing ceremony in surly silence. Then they went back to their secret deliberations, vowing to retaliate against President Carter for engineering Anwar Sadat's defection.

The press accounts out of Geneva expressed relief over the modest nine percent increase that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries announced. We were alone in warning that the secret agreement would send prices soaring far beyond those percent.

long will the American people submit to a royal gouging that is draining off their hard-earned wealth into the coffers of a few avaricious Arabs who, by geological accident, happen to have settled atop an underground sea of petroleum?

The great banking and investment houses also are caught up in the OPEC-led system. The banks have become depositories for more than $60 billion in OPEC surpluses.

The petroleum-industrial-political complex also includes manufacturers who last year exported nearly $13 billion worth of heavy machinery and transport equipment to OPEC countries; construction companies which are building modern metropolises on OPEC's desert sands; and arms merchants who are selling unprecedented shipments of military material to OPEC governments.

The Arab oil billionaires are doing business, too, with a host of prominent Americans—in- siders with the right political connections. They range from Jimmy Carter's buddy, Bert Lance, and brother Billy Carter, to presidential candidate John Connally and ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew.

'God, Maybe The Developers Will Come'

Daufuskie Island Considers Entering 20th Century

DAUFUSKIE ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — Widow Agnes Simmons hushes her arms on the broken porch and wonders if she will be able to move to the mainland.

Former moonshiner Daniel Mitchell — "The law got too heavy for shine" — warms his hands at the woodstove and hopes he'll be able to earn more than $2,000 this year.

Under a third rusting tin roof Mrs. Alberta Robinson looks at three dead squirrels sitting in a pot in the yard, near the tub of clothes boiling over a fire by the fence, and suggests she might prefer Beanie-Weenies if good things come to pass.

Along with the palmetto, holly and oak trees, the coral, watercress and rattle snakes, the bramble and the weeds, a sort of dream is dawning on this 4-by-2-mile island off the South Carolina coast just above the Georgia line.

"God, maybe the developers will come," said Jake Washington. "We may have a bottle at a time now. If developers come, it'll be six-socks every day."

The New South has not yet captured Daufuskie Island. The island of 150, mostly black, courts capture. It could bring the salvation.

Daufuskie debates coming to terms with the 20th Century. One possibility is South Carolina turning part of the island into a state park. Another is having at least part of Daufuskie, like neighboring Hilton Head Island, become a resort with 100,000 condominiums, malls and marinas and golf courses and an anti-union law so strictly enforced that the McDonald's hamburger parlor has no golden arches, just a name in red block letters.

Over in Beaufort, the mainland seat of Jasper County and a comfortable Colonial era seaport with Charleston and Savannah-type stately homes and so much moss it even hangs down from the telephone and power lines, the developers have been readying for Daufuskie. They watch landladies and county land tax auctions are the subject of much arranging.

Hilton Head, too, was once a black backwater, its plantation life gone with the wind and a population losing its young and a growing number of abandoned tin-roofed shanties. The blacks sold cheaply. The developers later sold handsomely.

Americans have been developing offshore middle class getaways since urban flight began. Once islands were only for the rich. But now, from Puget Sound to Maine, from California to the Texas Gulf Florida, President Carter and lesser Americans are using islands for getting away and for retirement.

On Daufuskie, the telephone system is something encased in a plastic bubble by the timbered dock used by the occasional fishing boat and summer picnickers from Savannah. The roads are unpaved; Daufuskie pride is a bit hurt over the mainland hilarity when two autos met recently at the one crossroads and crashed.

Once it was different. In George Washington's day, Indians and then white men inhabited the island. When the Revolutionary War broke out, pro-British Tories camped on the island. They fought marauding Indians and, at a spot now called Bloody Point, killed all but one Indian.

The surviving Indian had no easy time. He swam away. And that is across alligator swamp. Even today travelers boat the eight miles from Hilton Head; there is no civilized way across the shorter route, through the swamps and among the alligators.

Cotton and indigo grew on the island. But the plantations petered out after the Civil War and trees now grow where field hands worked. Back in the bramble, and watch out for the snakes, can be found the colonial cemetery with markers and metal coffins and unearthen skulls dating back two centuries. So, too, can be found, in denser bramble, the blacks' cemetery, the markers coarser, the dates newer.

And when the plantations died, the population began going. Once the nameless dirt road was lined with shanties. Now most are gone, along with generations of young blacks in search of work on the mainland. The Baptist Church Jake Washington calls "our meeting house" still opens once a month. But until the coming of the mainland's Welfare Age, Daufuskie had lost its footcandle with progress.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alberto, 28 and she's 25 and they are white and keepers of the island school the past five years, are proud of education's progress. A decade ago a teacher took a squad of Daufuskie's future to a fair in Beaufort and the mainlanders found the children did not know what country they were in.

"They are visual learners," Alberto said. "They are not auditory learners," his wife said. "Translation: you have to show by picture or gesture rather than talk, unless you yell very, very loudly," Alberto said.

"If you lived in one room with a load of brothers and sisters, and everyone is screaming and the television is going on full blast, you might be a visual learner, too," he said.

Mrs. Alberto nodded. "And the parents hadn't been teaching. We found children in grade school who could not tie their shoes."

"When we came, we found the students running the school. The previous teacher — he'd come expecting Paradise and found something worse than Florida — went off to Italy after only three days on Daufuskie," Alberto said.

"One of the children refused my request to be seated. He said, 'If you would just beat me, I'd keep my seat.' Self-discipline was not their specialty," his wife said.

"It isn't quite Sesame Street on Daufuskie Island yet. In the room for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades — the school has 14

Cocoa Beach Cleans Up After Storm

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Cocoa Beach city manager Roy Johnson says there are only two things to do about the disaster that turned six blocks of oceanfront property into rubble.

"All you can do is what we're doing — clean up and hope it doesn't happen again," Johnson said Tuesday. "The world can't protect against the weather."

Johnson met with engineers, fire officials, contractors and business leaders before estimating the damage done by Monday's tornado at $2.2 million.

"It really did sound like a whip ... and the wind was horrendous," said Norma McDowell of Burke, Va. She said her family laddered in the bathroom of their room at the Atlantic Beach Motel until the fierce storm passed.

Another Atlantic guest, Morty Heck, 22, of Titusville was eating dinner just after 9 p.m. when the tornado roared through.

"All of a sudden it started whipping, and we started hearing this crashing sound and ripping sound and the door blew open and the suction started. I looked out and my car lifted up off the ground," Hovis said. "There wasn't any warning or anything."

No deaths or serious injuries were reported. As many as six people were treated for cuts from flying glass. The owner of Frank Wolfe's Beachside Motel said some rooms were filled with two feet of glass shards.

Half of a mirrored glass bank was shattered by gusts from the tornado. Cars slammed against the damaged buildings and overturned.

Half the roof of a game room at the Ocean Beach Holiday Inn was ripped off. The funnel cloud touched down in the hotel's pool area and uprooted fences, railings and bushes.

Insurance Group Points Up Perils

U.S. Rules Force Tots To Fly Unsafely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An insurance industry group says government rules force thousands of babies to fly unsafely because they must be carried on their parents' laps in airliners without safety belts or special seats.

Under Federal Aviation Administration rules, infants under two years of age, who fly free, must be held on the lap of the adult accompanying them during takeoff and landing.

Even though "a mother or father may feel that their baby is safe in the grasp of adult arms, the fact is that even in low speed impact, the strength of those arms is usually insufficient to restrain a small child from being smashed into the instrument panel or windshield" of a car, said William Haddon, president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, an insurance industry group.

He said a recent study showed many adults "would not be able to protect a six-month old, 17-pound child" in a low speed auto crash.

"As the report also pointed out, the same kinds of hazards are common also in airplane travel where safety-belted parents hold small children on their laps," Haddon said in congressional testimony. "No alternative means for restraining infants in-flight" is available or permitted, he said.

Haddon said even infant seats meeting Transportation Department standards for use would "be vastly better than current policy which puts children in a position to be crushed."

Currently, auto seats for children are considered by the FAA as carry-on baggage which must be stored during takeoff and landing, when planes are most likely to be involved in accidents. Even parents paying for a seat on a plane for the infant would not be permitted to use an auto restraint device at those times.

But FAA study has found none of the auto restraint devices on the market will hold infants safely in crashes or when the plane experiences severe turbulence.

The primary problem is that auto infant restraint systems are designed to be placed on seats with a fixed back while aircraft seats fold forward.

The study concluded that if infant seats are allowed on aircraft, location of the seats in specific areas on the plane "should be anticipated" because a child safety device might delay the rapid evacuation of an aircraft.

And it noted that when the seats become available, someone will have to decide whether infants will still fly free.

Figures on the number of infant airline passengers is available from government or industry officials.

But a spokesman for the Air Transport Association, which represents the major airlines, said "there are 13,000 departures per day and there's hardly a flight without one or two of them."

In addition, new discount airline fares attract the vacation traveler who is more likely to have an accompanying child than a passenger on business.

The issue of infant safety on aircraft was brought to light last year when a United flight enroute to Portland, Ore., crashed, killing 10 of 189 passengers on board, including three infants.

Under airline procedures, the infants were wrapped in cushioning blankets and placed up against a wall partition. A National Transportation Safety Board spokesman said the three infants and some adults died because a tree tripod out the side of the aircraft in which they were located. Infants on the other side of the plane survived the crash.

Last year, the FAA created a task force of experts in medicine, bio dynamics and aerospace engineering to determine what should be done for infant and young children passengers.

The FAA is working on specifications for an infant seat which would safely hold babies in crashes or other travel mishaps. The seat could possibly be the same one used in the family auto.

FAA spokesman Denis Feldman said Administrator Langhorne Bond will make a decision on how to handle the child restraint issue by early summer.

Among the issues Bond will have to decide is whether the infant restraint systems, once available, will be mandatory or voluntary.

In any case, it still may take years before the devices are actually available for baby airline passengers.

Advice For Leaders: Take The Hint

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Residents along the Mexico border have lived peacefully with their Mexican neighbors for decades, and so were disturbed by the tension between President Carter and Mexico President Jose Lopez Portillo during their talks last month.

They suggest that the leaders of both countries study international relations at places like Brownsville and Matamoros and El Paso and Ciudad Juarez.

Led by Rep. Kika De La Garza, D-Texas, and Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, officials are pointing out to those who live miles from the border, in Washington and Mexico City, that there has been a longstanding international way of doing things, called "amistad" — "friendship" — and that it works.

De La Garza, whose absence from Carter's entourage to Mexico City was conspicuous to border officials, cites the numerous international festivals each year in twin cities along a 1,933-mile border, and years of cooperative problem solving.

"It demonstrates broadly that our relations are vastly better on the border than they seem to be in the capitals of the two nations," De La Garza said.

Mayor Arnoldo Ramirez of Mission, Texas, chairman of the the Texas Good Neighbor Commission, said Carter should have sought advice about the Mexican people and traditions before the trip, and taken someone along to provide day-to-day counsel.

With such advice, the mayor said, Carter possibly could have avoided his embarrassing remark about "Montezuma's revenge" and subsequent stern words from the Mexican president, who might merely have been sticking up for his people.

"I think Kika (De La Garza) should have been invited to that meeting in Mexico, at least to instruct the president so he would anticipate some of the things that had happened," Ramirez said. "You've got to know the people, the character, the chemistry. If the president had called on any of us here along the border... We know how they react and where their sensitivity is."

Amistad has worked for years.

For instance, the recent 82nd George Washington's Birthday celebration in Laredo, Texas — which outdates the New Orleans Mardi Gras — took place on both sides of the border. It featured a handshake at the center of the international bridge between the sons of the countries' two presidents. But Lopez Portillo forewent the traditional "abrazos" with Carter in Mexico City.

In Laredo, Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Texas, was honored as Mr. South Texas, while downriver 200 miles Mexican movie-radio-television star David Reynosa was named Mr. Amigo in the joint Charro Days Celebration which features a lively international parade across the Rio Grande between Brownsville, Texas, and Matamoros, Mexico.

Mexican comedian Mario Moreno, who once drew criticism from some American groups for a film poking fun at the U.S. cowboy in the same fashion that Mexicans are stereotyped taking a siesta by a cactus in American films, is a frequent visitor to international festivals from California to Texas. He participated in the Laredo festival and has been honored several times in San Antonio.

Recycled Aluminum Prices Hiked Again

For the second time this year, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company is increasing the amount it pays the public for recycling aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum.

Effective immediately, the company will be paying 23 cents per pound, an increase of 3 cents per pound, Richard N. Bolling, president of Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company, announced.

Sanford residents can recycle their aluminum every Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Publix Supermarket, Sanford Plaza, 1000 W. State St. Collections also are held at the Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. First St. every Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Besides all-aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum products such as pie plates, foil, frozen food and dinner trays and dip, pudding and meat containers, Reynolds recycles certain aluminum items — including siding, gutters, storm door and window frames, lawn furniture tubing and aluminum castings — which are also worth 23 cents per pound if properly prepared. This aluminum must be free of all foreign materials, cut to lengths not exceeding three feet and should not be mixed with aluminum cans.

Go Ahead, Go Ape Over Monkey Bread

Omar Khayyam inspired many to fun and rapturous comment with his "a lux of wine, a loaf of bread—and thou." Here's a special bread that will put you in a happy mood for the day—even when served with coffee or tea instead of stronger drink.

It's called "monkey bread" and includes juicy blueberries.

You can make up your own story about why it is called monkey bread. One theory is that you can pull chunks of it from the ring just as a monkey would. Whatever the origin, this bread (actually more a coffee cake) is a treat for breakfast, afternoon tea or even dessert when served with a dessert wine.

BLUEBERRY MONKEY BREAD
2-3 cup sugar

1 tbs. cinnamon
4 10-oz. pkgs. refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
1 1/2 cups fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
2-3rd cup white or brown sugar
1 1/2 sticks (10 tbs) margarine
1 tbs vanilla
1 tbs cinnamon
1 cup fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained

Thoroughly grease a 10-by-4 inch tube pan.
Mix sugar and 1 tablespoon cinnamon. Cut biscuits in quarter. Roll each piece in sugar-cinnamon mixture.

Arrange about 1/4 of biscuit pieces and 5 tablespoons blueberries even layer in pan. Place blueberries between biscuit pieces, creating a mosaic effect. Repeat three more times with remaining biscuits and blueberries, covering blueberries of one layer with biscuits of next layer to avoid columns of blueberries.

In saucepan combine sugar, margarine, vanilla and remaining 1 cup blueberries. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Cool, stirring frequently, until sugar is dissolved and margarine melted. Pour over biscuits in pan.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 65 minutes or until done. Lift or turn out onto cake plate. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 10-inch cake. (NOTE: Frozen blueberries may be used.)

Blueberries add new twist to quick monkey bread.

Lime Season Brings Fresh Refreshments

Bright emerald green Florida limes are decorating fruit stands and produce markets around the state. A record crop of this tart-tasting fruit is expected this year, bringing with it bargain prices.

Lime season coincides with the hottest time of the year and nothing is more refreshing than a tall glass of fresh limeade.

For a fruitly tasting variation, we'll want to use your blender to make a pitcher of Lime Fruit Frappe. This drink blends together perfectly lime concentrate, pineapple, and bananas. You'll find it a hit with the adults and kids.

When purchasing limes look for ones with smooth shiny skins and deep green color. If you store them in the refrigerator they will stay fresh up to 3 weeks.

Don't throw away your peel when you recipe calls for juice only. The green portion of the peel contains flavorful aromatic oils. Grate it, removing the green portion only, and freeze for use later in other recipes or to garnish fish and vegetable dishes.

If you feel lazy and don't want to grate the peel put it down your garbage disposal for a delightful refreshing smell that acts as a pleasant deodorizer.

Fish Is Great On A Hot Day

When summer temperatures soar, keep the fat content of menus low with lots of fresh fruit and vegetables and protein rich, low calorie fish such as Cod, Haddock, Sole or Flounder from the icy waters of the North Atlantic ocean. Steam the fish. Oriental fashion in a sweet-spicy vegetable sauce that combines soy sauce and steak sauce with orange juice concentrate and red pepper and onions. With it serve chow mein noodles and a tossed salad.

Cleanup almost takes care of itself because the fish is oven-steamed in foil. And — because the fish is cooked without defrosting — it's a great last minute menu choice on a hot day!

TANGY ORANGE FISH PACKET
1 pound from North Atlantic Cod (or other species) fish fillets
1/2 cup orange juice concentrate
1/4 cup steak sauce
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 onion, sliced

1 red pepper, cut in squares
Allow Cod to stand, unwrapped, at room temperature about 15 minutes. Cut into 4 portions. Line an 8 inch square or 7x11 inch baking dish with enough foil to fold over. Place fish on foil. Pour orange juice concentrate, steak sauce, soy sauce, salt and sugar over fish.

Place onion rings, and red pepper on top. Fold foil over and secure tightly. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes or until fish is opaque. Garnish with sliced oranges if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Emerald green Florida limes are a bargain

Bright emerald green Florida limes are decorating fruit stands and produce markets around the state. A record crop of this tart-tasting fruit is expected this year, bringing with it bargain prices.

Lime season coincides with the hottest time of the year and nothing is more refreshing than a tall glass of fresh limeade.

For a fruitly tasting variation, we'll want to use your blender to make a pitcher of Lime Fruit Frappe. This drink blends together perfectly lime concentrate, pineapple, and bananas. You'll find it a hit with the adults and kids.

When purchasing limes look for ones with smooth shiny skins and deep green color. If you store them in the refrigerator they will stay fresh up to 3 weeks.

Delicate crab, luscious pears and turkey roasted to juicy perfection team up for a versatile summer menu.

Dining Al Fresco Entertaining Outdoors Is Easy, Fun, Delicious

Long summer evenings create the perfect atmosphere for enjoying great, inventive al fresco meals. Entertaining outdoors is easy, fun and delicious when you serve delicate Alaska Snow crab, luscious canned Bartlett pears and turkey roasted to juicy perfection.

Turkey today can be selected as a whole bird, just the right size for your family's needs, or as turkey parts if you prefer. Economical, nutritious and simple to prepare turkey can be barbecued to perfection on a spit, in a covered grill, or in the oven.

Alaska Snow crab offers convenience and gourmet appeal for easy summertime meal preparation. Frozen packs include clusters (body portions with several legs attached) and crab claws, ideal for hors d'oeuvres and entrees, and packaged crab meat. Snow crab meat is also available canned. All forms are fully cooked and ready to use.

For sheer drama, nothing tops a turkey spit roasted and basted with a savory barbecue sauce. This special recipe combines soy sauce and canned pear syrup to produce a turkey with golden color and rich taste.

SWEET SOY BARBECUED TURKEY

For Outdoor Spit Roasting: 6 to 12 pound turkeys are best. If turkey is frozen, thaw and remove from bag. Remove neck and giblets; rinse turkey and wipe dry. Brush inside of cavity with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce (below). The wings securely to breast and drumsticks to tail with twine. Do not stuff turkeys for rotisserie cooking.

Insert spit rod in front of tail; run diagonally through breast bone. Fasten tightly with spit forks at both ends and test for balance, readjusting as needed. If desired, insert thermometer into thickest part of thigh, parallel to the spit. Make sure thermometer bulb is not touching bone.

Cook according to timetable below, basting occasionally with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce.

For Covered Grill: Shape a drip pan from aluminum foil about 2 inches larger than turkey. Place foil drip pan in grill with hot coals around it. Place turkey on grill rack over drip pan. Close cover of grill. Cook turkey over medium-low coals according to timetable below adding more coals to edge after 1 hour, and basting occasionally with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce.

For Oven Barbecuing: Place unstuffed turkey on roasting rack in a shallow pan, brushing inside of bird with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce. Insert meat thermometer into thickest part of thigh, making sure thermometer bulb is not touching bone. Roast at 325 degrees F, according to timetable below, basting occasionally with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce.

SWEET SOY BARBECUE SAUCE

1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup pear syrup
Combine all ingredients; brush on turkey occasionally as it cooks.

Turkey is done when meat thermometer registers 180 degrees to 185 degrees F.

While you wait for the turkey, enjoy a splendid appetizer — cracked Alaska Snow crab clusters served on ice and accompanied with two made-ahead dips. One is a zippy mixture of catsup and horseradish with a good dash of lemon juice. Green mayonnaise gets its cool tint from chopped spinach, parsley and watercress.

CRACKED CRAB APPETIZER

3 pounds frozen Alaska Snow crab clusters, thawed and drained
Cracked ice
Zippy Tomato Horseradish Sauce (below)
Green Mayonnaise (below)

Break crab clusters into sections, cutting legs into 2 or 3 pieces. Crack with nutcracker, crab cracker or mallet. Arrange in bowl on cracked ice. Supply small forks or picks for removing meat from shell. Accompany with Zippy Tomato Horseradish Sauce and Green Mayonnaise. Makes 8 servings.

Zippy Tomato Horseradish Sauce: Combine 1/2 cup catsup, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/2 teaspoon onion powder. Chill at least 30 minutes to blend flavors. Makes about 1/2 cup.

Green Mayonnaise: Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/4 cup dairy sour cream, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed, and 1 clove garlic, crushed. Stir in 1/4 cup EACH finely-chopped spinach, parsley and watercress. (If watercress is unavailable, increase chopped spinach to 1/2 cup.) Cover and chill at least 3 hours to blend flavors. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

For a most refreshing accompaniment to the turkey, serve Sunburst Pear Salad with Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing. Sweet-cured Bartlett pear halves are filled with juicy crushed pineapple, grated carrots and celery.

SUNBURST PEAR SALAD

1 can (29 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
1 can (8-1/2 oz.) crushed pineapple
1/2 cup grated carrots
1/2 cup thinly-sliced celery
1 teaspoon grated orange or lemon peel
Lettuce
Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing (below)

Drain pears, reserving 2 tablespoons syrup. Drain pineapple; set aside 2 tablespoons pineapple for dressing. Combine remaining pineapple with carrots, celery and orange or lemon peel. Arrange pears on lettuce-lined platter. Spoon pineapple mixture into pear centers. Pass Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing. Makes 8 servings.

Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing: Combine 1 cup plain yogurt with reserved pear syrup, reserved pineapple and 1/4 teaspoon grated orange or lemon peel. Chill until ready to serve. Garnish with additional grated orange or lemon peel, if desired. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

An easy "second-day" menu is special enough for another casual outdoor gathering of friends, and is suitable for either lunch or a light supper.

Start with Snow Crab Vichyssoise, a frosty soup using either frozen or canned Alaska Snow crab meat.

For the main dish, leftover turkey stars in a hearty salad, with canned Bartlett pears adding a light touch to the savory rice mixture. Curry powder is the primary seasoning, and chopped bottled chutney adds a touch of the exotic.

SNOW CRAB VICHYSOISE

6 to 8 oz. Alaska Snow crab, frozen or canned
1 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups peeled, diced russet potatoes
1 cup chicken broth
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
1 cup half and half
Dash bottled hot pepper sauce
Lemon wedges

Mince chives
Thaw crab if frozen; drain and slice. Cook onions in butter or margarine over low heat until tender but not brown, about 5 minutes. Add potatoes, broth, parsley, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, over low heat 15 to 20 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. Puree in blender or food processor. Cool completely. Fold in crab, half and half and hot pepper sauce. Cover and chill thoroughly, 4 to 6 hours. Serve in chilled bowls; garnish with lemon wedges and chives.

CURRIED TURKEY PEAR SALAD

1 can (29 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
1 cup cooked chutney
Drain pears, reserving 2 tablespoons syrup for Curry Dressing. Cook rice according to package directions. While hot, toss with Curry Dressing. Cool. Slice 2 pear halves and reserve for garnish. Chop remaining pears and add to cooled rice along with turkey, celery, green onions and chutney. Garnish with reserved pear slices. Chill. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Curry Dressing: In covered jar or shaker, combine 2 tablespoons pear syrup with 1/4 cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar, 2 teaspoons curry powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Mix well.

Woman Held Hostage In Cavern

CARLSBAD, N.M. (UPI) — For 5 1/2 hours, 100 tourists were trapped 750 feet underground in the damp and drafty Big Room Cave at Carlsbad Caverns while FBI agents negotiated with four gunmen holding a woman hostage in a nearby luncheon room.

The chilly vigil ended with the surrender of the four men late Tuesday, two hours after they released their hostage — a female National Park Service employee — unharmed. Soon after their surrender, officials led the tourists to open air.

No one was injured in the incident, although officials said some shots were fired in the 14-acre Big Room Cave where the tourists were trapped. No further details were available.

Two tourists were taken to a hospital complaining of "breathing problems apparently from asthma," Bob Crisman of the National Park Service said.

The four suspects — Eugene Hiram Maroney, 31; William James Lovejoy, 28; and Dennis James Mark, 39, all of Odessa, Texas, and David W. Kucynski, 38, of Riesel, Texas — were jailed in Carlsbad pending arraignment on misdemeanor charges.

"Our promises and assurances were that they would be charged with a misdemeanor if they surrendered and released the hostage," said District Attorney Mike McCormick. "That was done, and we are acting accordingly."

Authorities knew of no motive for the men's actions.

"We haven't determined a motive or a reason for what they did," said FBI agent Phil Mogen.

During the 5 1/2-hour drama, the gunmen issued several demands, including $1 million in cash and an airplane to fly them to Brazil. They also demanded to talk with a reporter to publicize a large number of grievances, which officials said ranged from repression of minorities to the gasoline shortage.

Officials said the four men — armed in Paris 22-caliber pistol, a .45-caliber rifle, a 12-gauge shotgun and another rifle — entered the underground luncheon room from an elevator about 3:20 p.m. MDT.

They ordered everyone out of the area except Linda Phillips, a 25-year-old Chattanooga, Tenn., and a 25-year-old seasonal National Park Service employee, and blocked the room with tables.

The area was evacuated rapidly except for a ranger and the 100 tourists in the adjacent Big Room Cave. The way out of the Big Room led past the luncheon room.

"We felt they should be held there until the situation cleared; they were in a location that was safe, about 2,000 feet away from the luncheon room," Crisman said. "We did not want to take a chance of provoking the gunmen."

After long negotiations, including a visit to the luncheon room by Ned Gravel, publisher and editor of the Carlsbad Current-Argus, Miss Phillips was freed at 7:10 p.m. The four men surrendered at 8:50 p.m. uniformed men who raped her. They were very cruel. They humiliated her," she said.

The refugees were picked up by the French hospital ship Ile de Lumiere and taken to Singapore, from where they were flown to Paris for resettlement.

Ghazali said, however, that Malaysia will continue to follow the United States and other countries agree to set up refugee camps.

He said he would insist such camps be set up at the international conference on refugees in Geneva July 20-22.

Nearly 1,000 Indonesian refugees have been flown to their homes in France since last Friday. The latest group of more than 800 mostly barefoot and malnourished refugees were flown to Paris late Tuesday by the welcome of Paris Mayor Jacques Chirac and other politicians.

"We are stunned and happy to be here," one of the refugees said.

"The arrival of the planes shows the concern for men and women who are suffering," Ghazali said. "There is nothing political in this gesture."

proven to be so, will be brought to book under our penal code," he said.

Ghazali had dismissed the rape charges until Lam Ho Hien, a former Saigon leader of the National Front, gave him English and French, gave him 15 cars and 100 motorcycles, towing their boats out to sea.

"I assure you I am now ordering an investigation immediately to establish the facts," Ghazali said Tuesday after hearing about the attack from a diminutive 25-year-old Vietnamese school teacher.

"Those involved, if involved and proven to be so, will be brought to book under our penal code," he said.

Dispute Holds Up $10 Million Project

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Construction on a $10 million project, said to be one of the area's most exclusive residential developments, could be prevented until a dispute between an Atlanta investment firm and the Seminole Board of County Commissioners is resolved.

Homes scheduled to be built in the Hanover Woods subdivision on Markham Road, about one mile north of Lake Mary Boulevard, will require a water distribution installation. However, who will pay for the water plant is now undetermined. Until the matter is settled, building permits cannot be issued.

Russell Swain, a Longwood builder, said the Hanover Woods development will contain 71 homes on one-acre lots.

"It will be one of the most exclusive projects in the area. I have one order for an eight-bedroom, five-bath home with a selling price well above $300,000," Swain said. He said the average price of the homes in the development will probably be in excess of $150,000.

County administrator Roger Neiswander told commissioners this week he has received a proposal from the Atlanta firm of CMEI, Inc. asking the county to pay $104,000 to purchase the uncompleted water plant. But Neiswander said the original developer promised the plant would be conveyed to the county without cost the pledge was made when the development was planned in 1974, he said.

"They're asking the county to buy a system which had originally been pledged as a donation," commissioner Sandra Glenn said.

The dispute, however, does not involve the original developer, Geiger Development. Neiswander said Geiger experienced financial difficulties in 1974 shortly after tentative agreement over the donation of the plant to the county had been worked out. Hanover Woods then became the project of CMEI, which assumed Geiger's plans, Neiswander said.

A letter dated Sept. 24, 1974, was sent to the county by the Orlando law firm of Lowndes, Piersol, Proulx and Doster, counsel for Geiger Development. The letter reads in part: "Geiger offers to convey the water distribution system in the Hanover Woods Subdivision as designed and constructed with PVC pipe, once it is fully completed and properly approved, together with all of the required easements, to Seminole County."

Official minutes of a Sept. 23, 1974, commission meeting also quote Geiger officials as offering to convey the water plant to the county.

However, before a contract for the title transfer could be drawn up, Geiger pulled out of the project.

Floyd Whittaker, CMEI executive, said the water plant is about three to four weeks away from completion. He said it will be worth between $300,000 and $400,000.

According to Whittaker, CMEI had planned to have the water system run by a private utility, but the county expressed interest in owning the plant.

But Whittaker said negotiations over the plant were in a "delicate stage right now" and he did not want to comment on whether or not a previous agreement had been made for the donation of the plant to the county.

County attorney Nikki Clayton said the hold on building permits would remain in effect until a solution to the water plant question can be found.

That hold on permits has some builders "frantic," according to Graham Campbell, independent contractor.

"Some builders don't understand why they can't get a permit. They're already paying interest on the land and they are a little frantic," Campbell said.

Bill Martin, sales manager for Huskey Realty, marketer of the homes, said some banks are asking for a written assurance from the county that the homes will be guaranteed water service before they are willing to close on the sale of Hanover Woods lots.

Martin said he expects the matter to be resolved before most of the building begins.

School Board Alters Levels Test Plan; Parents Still Irked

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

Proposed recommendations to ease the controversy surrounding the county school levels testing program came under fire Wednesday from dissatisfied parents.

The Seminole County School Board voted 4 to 1 to incorporate the 10 recommendations in its pupil progression policy plan. The plan will be reviewed by the board July 24, to ensure there is no conflict between the current plan and the new recommendations.

One of the recommendations is to continue the levels testing program as "the basic criterion for advancement (advancement) should reflect teacher judgment," which rests on daily classroom work, textbook tests and homework, Mrs. Warren said.

"The teacher doesn't matter because he cannot advance the students until they pass the levels test," complained Sandra Smith.

But Laver argued the levels testing program does permit teacher discretion in advancement and he had strengthened that practice in several of his recommendations.

For several weeks, the levels testing program has come under fire by Seminole Parents Involved in Children's Education (SPICE), who has appealed to the school board to alter the decision for grade advancement to the discretion of the teacher.

SPICE spokesmen indicated they were not impressed with the school board's recommendations presented by Superintendent of School William Laver.

Nancy Warren told Laver the recommendations were in conflict with the 1977 pupil progression plan that says teachers should have the wide basis last fall and replaced the traditional system of promotion from one grade to the next. The tests are administered to students in grades one through five to determine their progress in language, reading and math.

In prior meetings, SPICE and other parents complained their children had to retake the entire levels tests if they failed one section of the test.

Laver's recommendation to ease this controversy is to retest the student on only the section of the test that he failed. He no longer will have to take the entire test over, Laver said.

Other recommendations made by Laver included:

- No levels tests will be administered until after the State Assessment Testing is completed in October to avoid "over-testing."
- Teachers will have in hand Teachers Test Manuals for levels in their classes at the beginning of and during each nine-week period.
- That a level testing schedule be provided which makes it possible for a pupil to be tested in reading, language or math on more than four levels during the 180-day school year.
- That annual teacher suggested revisions to the test be made when justified by available data to be continued.
- That an information brochure be prepared for distribution to all elementary schools prior to the beginning of the school year 1979-80 and presented to: principals before pre-school; teachers during pre-school; and the first meeting of the parent organizations.

In addition to these recommendations, the school board will review current criteria for summer school attendance.

Ever wish you could get something off your chest by putting it on a billboard for everyone to see? It helps if you own the billboards like Peterson Outdoor Advertising Corp. of Orlando, which did just that. Frustrated by rising gasoline cost and shortages, Peterson's director decided to tell the Arabs off in Arabic as well as English so he got an English-Arabic vocabulary and tried to figure out the equivalent for Bushel of Wheat equals Barrel of Oil. "We can't vouch for the accuracy though," the office spokesman said. This eye-catching sign is on Highway 17-92 in Fern Park.

Expert Testifies At Bundy Trial

MIAMI (UPI) — A lab technician testified in the Theodore Bundy murder trial today that bark chips stained with the blood of slain Florida State University coed Margaret Bowman were also found in the rooms where two other Chi Omega sorority sisters were beaten savagely in 1978.

Forensic serologist Richard Stephens told the jury a bark chip was also found in the room of slain Chi Omega coed Lisa Levy, but added it had no blood stains.

Stephens' testimony was aimed at supporting the prosecution's claim that the alibi-marked Chi Omega house intruder used a tree limb to beat a 32-year-old law school dropout, of killing Miss Levy and Bowman and attacking Misses Thomas, Chandler and Kleiner.

Stephens, a technician at the Florida Department of Law Enforcement laboratory in Tallahassee, spent nearly an hour identifying blood stains on sheets and clothing as belonging to the four Chi Omega sisters and Cheryl Ann Thomas, another FSU student who was attacked the same night in her apartment four blocks from the sorority house.

The state has accused Bundy, a 32-year-old law school dropout, of killing Miss Levy and Bowman and attacking Misses Thomas, Chandler and Kleiner.

The jury, which Wednesday was shown 11 x 14 inch color photographs of the bodies of Miss Levy and Bowman, was shown a blood-stained party hose mask today and a pair of pants hose the prosecution said was used to strangle Miss Bowman.

Stephens also showed the jury a pump-type hair spray bottle and said "it had human-type blood stains on the top half" that matched Miss Levy's blood type.

Judge Edward Cowart allowed the photos to be viewed the Wednesday despite defense objections that the pictures were unnecessarily gory and were intended to "inflame the passions" of the panel.

He reserved judgment on one picture, which showed a massive wound in the head of one of the victims.

Cowart said his initial reaction "as a parent" was to keep the photos out of the trial to spare the families of the dead women. And he added one of the photos he allowed the jury to see "could have been in better taste," but did not elaborate.

The judge noted that the prosecution needed to prove premeditation, the exact cause of death and the "severity" of the crime.

The jurors, seven men and five women, examined each of the photos without reaction.

Psychologist Licenses To Cost $150 Each In Seminole

By BRAD PURDOM
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County has decided to begin issuing licenses to psychologists again, but the new licenses will cost applicants 10 times more than previous licenses did.

Nikki Clayton, Seminole County Attorney, said Wednesday her office had decided to advise the county occupational licensing office to again issue licenses to practice psychology in Seminole County.

She said her office had determined that the method used by the state to end its regulation of psychologists was to allow a state law designating psychology as a profession to expire. Since the state is no longer calling psychology a profession, or regulating it as one, she said, the county should not issue "professional" licenses to those wishing to practice psychology in Seminole County.

Instead, she said, the county should begin issuing psychology applicants a "miscellaneous business license." Clayton said her office was now out of the matter. She said it was up to the state or the county to decide either to begin regulating psychology again or to let the issue stand.

A "professional" license costs $15 per year in Seminole County, according to Curtis Dunaway, director of the county's licensing office. But a "miscellaneous business license" costs $150 per year. Dunaway said anyone who "filled out the necessary form" would be granted a miscellaneous business license. But, he warned, the necessary forms are quite long.

The county commission on Tuesday decided, by consensus, not to become involved in the controversy — in effect, letting the license situation stand.

County commissioner Dick Williams said today it was the opinion of the commission that the licensing of psychologists is best left to the state.

He said it can be anticipated that the state will come forth with its own new guidelines.

"It was our feeling that it is a state responsibility. They let it die, and we believe they must have had a good reason for doing that. Being a state responsibility, we don't feel we have the people with the expertise to determine qualifications for psychologists," he said.

The state legislature allowed the state law which, in effect, regulated psychologists, to expire July 1. That move opened the floodgates in county occupational licensing offices across the state. Some counties reported licensing as many as 50 psychologists in the first week. Only 100 psychologists were licensed in all of 1978. More than twice that amount reportedly were licensed in the first two weeks after the state law expired.

Under the now-defunct law, a person wanting to practice psychology had to prove he had passed a state examination or show a college degree to prove he was qualified, Dunaway said recently.

Now, he said, anyone with $150 can obtain a license.

Clayton, said if a person received a psychology license under the miscellaneous business category, it would be valid until it expired, regardless of whether new restrictions were applied later. When the license came up for renewal, she said, the applicant would have to qualify under whatever the regulations were at that time.

That means, she said, that if a person is issued a miscellaneous business license to practice psychology and restrictions later are placed on psychologists are once again making it necessary to have a professional license to practice, those with the business license must fulfill the requirements for a professional license in order to be renewed.

However, Dunaway said, the opposite is not true, noting that those who now hold a professional license to practice psychology will have their license renewed as a miscellaneous business license, not as a miscellaneous business license. He said this is because these people already had been "officially declared professional" by the state.

All occupational licenses in Seminole County are issued for either six months or one year. The licenses run from Sept. 1 of one year to September 30 of the next year. Dunaway said anyone applying now would have to purchase a six-month license, but that the license would still expire Sept. 1.

The county occupational licensing office has received about "eight or ten calls this morning," said Dunaway. No one actually has applied for a license under the new system though, he said.

Dunaway said Wednesday that although no one had yet complained about the increased cost of the license, he expected that he may soon hear some comments.

"After all, he said, 'put yourself in their shoes. What we've done is perfectly understandable, but that is a lot more money for a license.'"
