ORLANDO TEN, SANFORD THREE

Reporter-Star Is Able To Sit Up And Take Notice

Ten to three, shows what our boys can do to a fellow who pitches with his left arm and wants to pitch and shut us out three times a week. It was real bad the way we "doused the glim" of that bright Ray.

Ray, the big southpaw, the boy who has to pitch at least three games a week to keep in condition, the fellow who was going to shut us out in every game, was not bright enough yesterday to blind any one, for we got him and my, how he did flicker and wanted to go out, but the powers high up said, "Burn on, and get your punishment."

It was cruel the way the "Tourists, as the Herald dubs us, took a liking to the little sugar coated pills that this wonderful southpaw Ray hurled across the plate, when he could see it. Why, in the first inning, Stump liked it so well, that he tried to put it over the fence, and only failed by a few inches, but near

I said our boys seemed to like Ray's pills, but there must be a mistake, for they knocked them back at him almost as fast as he could throw them, and after the pills left the bat they must have become bitter, for as soon as the Celery Collegians touched them they would drop them.

"Pa" Wallace on first, who usually plays a good game, even spit out a few. In the ninth Howatt got so mad that he knocked one back at Ray so fast that he could not dodge, and he had to swallow one of his own pills (it hit him in the back as he was running).

Our Tourists hit consistently and regularly throughout, but the way they treated Ray in the fifth was a shame. They got six hits, netting seven runs, and two doubles were among them and the boys ran around the bases until they were completely tired out, so Doc Wilson in his second time at the bat, got out and retired our side.

Wilson, the speed king, was going good and as the day was a little dark, it was awfully hard to see his fast ones, much less hit them.

Sanford Six, Orlando One

Orlando had the Boost Day and part of a new team all fixed up to show the visitors just what they could do. It seems that Sanford gave them a game the day before just to keep them in good humor and the Orlando people had an idea that they actually had a ball team and started off by making one run in the first inning. They never made any more and after laying it on the umpire and everybody else finally came to the conclusion that the team was responsible. At any rate the Tourists received a nice package of six to one and the only reason we do not give the full details is that our boys were too lazy to keep account of the many hits on the part of Sanford and the many errors on the part of the Tourists. We will refrain from making any remarks about the game. In fact we will refrain from saying anything about any more of the games unless some of the Sanford sports wake up enough to hand in the box score to The Herald office.

The only thing to be said is that Sanford won again.

Base Ball Fans of Sanford and Orlando

Some time since there appeared in this sheet, a certain comment regarding the manner, motive, etc., in which I performed my part of the duties as umpire in the games played between Sanford and Orlando. I did not think it necessary to answer the comment, nor is this meant as a retort or reply, but simply as a statement from the umpire's standpoint, which I believe should be the viewpoint of every true fan.

At the outset I thought it possible for an honest man, who had played some ball and was therefore to some extent familiar with the game to execute the duties of an umpire in a way satisfactory to all parties concerned: Provided he would lay aside all interest, as resident of either town, keep his eyes open, make a point to be as near the play as possible, and attend strictly to his duties. This I have tried most zealously to do, and I state upon my honor as a gentleman, which I consider a thousand times the value of every series of base ball that have ever been played or ever will be, that I have, in making every decision eliminated from my mind every trace of interest I have in the final outcome. I am free to acknowledge that I have made mistakes, for the human eye is not infalible and the relative position of the players to the umpire have sometimes made it impossible for me to see some features of a play that should be considered had I seen them. These mistakes when I realized, I willingly acknowledged on the spot, but I did refuse to change any of them, for had I changed a single decision, every close one would have been bitterly contested.

In other words a close decision, however decided, would mean absolutely nothing to either captain until there had been an argument, which would often result in unpleasantness and ill feeling, between the captains, teams, umpires, spectators and possibly extend to both towns.

The fact that the field captains or the particular player against whom the decision is rendered makes a vigorous protest, is no indication whatever that an unfair decision has been given. This is part of the game for them and perfectly admissible. In the case of the player it puts him in better with the crowd, as for instance the batter has let the pitcher outguess him and let a good one go by, he feels foolish, hence it is up to him to make a kick, the crowd feels that he has been imposed upon and jumps the umpire. The captain is on the field to win, and if he can influence the umpire to see a close one in favor of his team he has scored a point, hence he makes a kick to help the team and to show the management that he is on to his job.

The umpire is in a better position than any person on the grounds to judge every decision. His undivided attention is given to each particular decision as it comes up, every other thought being thrown aside to allow him to concentrate his faculties in making his decision. The fan is at a much greater distance from the play than the umpire and he is watching in a general way the whole field and situation. Who is the better qualified to make a decision, the umpire directly behind the bat, with only the ball and the plate to watch, and giving his best attention to his duties, according to his position in the grounds, and elevated above the ball, or perhaps he is in an auto down by the foul flag in left field? The umpire is familiar with the game and his duties, and his attention is concentrated. The fan has probably never umpired at all, possibly never played the game and is watching the whole situation in a general way. It seems to me that only half fairness would give the vote to the umpire.

I am not taking any personal offense, but it is a little hard for any self respecting person, to stand up time after time, when exerting every effort to do things exactly right, and hear such epithets as thief, robber, liar and many others not fit for publication, hurled at him simply because the play did not go the way the particular spectator wished.

Kindly place yourself in the position of the umpire; take into consideration the difficulties he has to meet; the impossibility of pleasing everybody; say to yourself even if he is from the other town "it's possible he may be honest after all;" and help make his duties a little less unpleasant. In other words, cooperate with the management, team and umpires in making the series, clean and sportsmanlike. Put a little more real base ball spirit into your rooting and not quite so much Sanford and Orlando.

WILBER L. TILDEN.

One Murder Per Day

New York, N. Y., Aug. 2.—There was an average of one murder per day during the month of July in this city, according to an official tabulation compiled by the police department's homicide bureau. The records show that hot weather stirs murder to action.

The revelations of the Rosenthal murder case, pointing to the existence of a system of police blackmail levied upon illegal resorts, prompted a number of prominent citizens to issue call for a public mass meeting at Cooper Union this week to adopt plans "to make effective the public demand for the observance of law and order in this city." The signers of the call are Jacob H. Schiff, Eugene A. O'Sullivan, Eugene J. Phiblin, Henry Moskowitz, Allen Robinson and Felix Adler. A number of prominent women, including Mrs. Russell Sage and Mrs. E. H. Harriman have been asked to become members of the women's auxiliary committee. The call was sent out over the signature of W. W. was sent out over the signature of this "citizens' committee to a large number of prominent men and women.

The right to execute rebels without trial was conferred on the Mexican army today when the permanent commission of congress approved the bill providing for suspension of guarantees in three states and portions of nine others. It will not become effective however until approved, article by article. The measure which principally provides for martial law, will apply to the entire states of Morelos, Chihuahua and Guerrero and parts of the states of Puebla, Tlaxcala, Mexico and Oaxaca, in the south where Emilio Zapata is fighting the government and parts of the states of Sonora, Durango, Zacatecas, Sinaloa and Coahuila in the north, the region most harassed by the forces of Orozco.

A large delegation of women from all sections of the country will attend the ceremonies at Sea Girt, N. J., next Wednesday when Gov. Wilson is notified of his nomination for president. The Women's National Democratic League, which was recently incorporated in New York with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson as honorary president, received today a telegram from Mrs. Wilson inviting oficers and members of the league to attend the notification ceremonies. Mrs. Stephen B. Ayres, corresponding secretary of the league, said tonight that many women would go to Sea Girt and that this will be the first time in the history of either party that such an organization of women participated in a notification ceremony.

Congress will begin today what is expected to be the last fortnight of the present session. Adjournment by Aug. 15 or 17 is confidently expected. The postponement of the Archibald impeachment trial until December 13 has cleared the decks of the senate so action on the remaining legislative matters can be pushed to a speedy finish.

Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo in a statement relative to the Rosenthal case recommended an impartial and thorough investigation of the charges made regarding the alleged connection between the police and gamblers. At the same time he declared that gambling can exist only because the gamblers can obtain what amounts to protection from the courts and asserted that gamblers do much of the corrupt election work of the political parties who placed the judiciary on the bench.

After twenty-four hours work the police completed an inventory of the art treasures, bric-a-brac, jewelry, silver plate and other articles stolen by Jacob F. Guthrie, alleged society burglar and forger, now under arrest in Chicago and announced that the goods recovered are estimated to be worth $250,000. Last night after a partial examination of the barn and the room in a storage warehouse which Guthrie used to hide a portion of the goods stolen, the police estimated the value at $150,000. This was nearly doubled when half a dozen additional trunks and chests filled with jewelry, laces, bric-a-brac were discovered. Most of the stolen property was found in Guthrie's home where he lived with his mother, sister and brother, who is a Chicago policeman.

LITTLE GUN PLAY

Festive Citizens Seek to Emulate Wild West in Sanford

While the majority of the peaceful inhabitants of Sanford were pursuing the even tenor of their way last Saturday evening two men were seeking to emulate the example of Wild Bill and have a pistol duel.

The trouble started in one of the Midway houses that rest on the shores of Lake Monroe just east of the city and yet close enough to be accessible. Hamp Harris and Jim Bailey were engaged in the pleasant pursuit of looking at the lake through the bottom of a barrel in the heat of an argument the lie was passed and Hamp started shooting. One shot passed into the fleshy part of Bailey's arm and the other just burned his hide good enough to make him think he was shot sure enough.

In the excitement of the moment Hamp made his escape and is probably on his native heath near Osteen. Both of the principals are white and both are well known and both are old enough to know better. Until Hamp can be found and returned to court the case will rest as it now stands. Bailey expects to resume his regular run on the ice wagon in a few days none the worse for having been the target of Hamp's trusty 98.

He Was Passed

Washington, Aug. 5. The lie was passed on the floor of the house today when Ex Speaker Cannon denounced as "unqualifiedly false" the charge by Representative Burnett, of Alabama, that Speaker Cannon had led his followers out of the chamber, thereby breaking the quorum and defeating immigration legislation. Before speaking, Cannon twice asked Burnett to retract his statement. There was no outbreak.

FARM WORK STARTING

Growers Are Beginning to Plant Their Seed Beds

CROPS WILL BE DIVERSIFIED

Ground is Being Broken For Seed Beds And Active Work is Now Beginning

Work in the fields has started in Sanford!

The people who went north for a vacation several months ago are coming back and getting down to hard labor—the hard labor of watching some field hands do the work and the work at the present time is getting the lands ready for seed beds—those little elusive patches of ground in which are placed all the farmer's hopes. The grower who has to plow the same relation to the grower that the sluice box does to the gold seeker—you soon know what your future holds in store. If the sluice box shows grains of gold you have a gold mine. If your seed beds come along in good shape you may not have a gold mine but it means that you will have the plants and after that it is you and the weather man and the commission man and the railroad man for it.

This season the grower is up against fair.

The price of celery seed has doubled. The price of fertilizer is said to be advancing. The grower must meet the high price of both and get the seed beds ready. Nurse the plants to maturity and then look for the proper distribution of the crop to get his money back. There is one point in favor of the celery crop through all this seemingly hard time. The high price will curtail the acreage and tend to stop the glut in the market.

While many of the growers are busy now getting seed beds ready for celery and lettuce there are many others who will not touch celery this season, contenting themselves with staple crops. One well known potato grower will plant two hundred acres in Irish potatoes this season. He made money last year on his potatoes and only worked part of the season, going back north early in the spring and planting a crop up there. He expects to work both ends of the string now each year and will bring down some of his northern neighbors to do the same thing.

There are other staple crops that made money for the growers last year and they will be followed up this year with good results. After the celery crop was off last spring to be followed by corn and tomatoes the hay crop came in for an inning and it is safe to assert that at no point in the state was more good hay stored away for winter use than in the Sanford section. For about two weeks the sun shone hot with few showers and the Maud Mullers all raked in the hay to good purpose. Every farmer in the celery delta has hay, good hay and plenty of it for all his live stock, and if there is a grower here who buys baled hay before next spring it is because he was too lazy to take the hay offered him by Nature's lavish hand. The corn crop was also exceptionally fine and the thrifty farmer who planted an acre of sweet potatoes in the back lot is now eating yellow Nancy Halls or selling them to the city man at a good profit.

Taking the celery delta by far and large the farmers could be in more straightened circumstances and they are starting the new season with a determination to make it a success. They realize that the land will produce the crops. They realize that the Sanford section is the greatest farming section in the south and with the proper marketing facilities they can make larger profits here than in any other section of the world. A general getting together of the farmers here will mean that market conditions and cold storage and freight rates will soon be adjusted in a manner to give the farmer what is rightfully his own.

Next Thursday is Boost Day at Holden Park. Sanford will attempt to prevent Orlando from winning the pennant.

You will want to read the Saturday Evening Post this week. Have it brought to your house by Reginald Holly. Call up No. 124 and he will serve you.

ABOUT FAIR APPROPRIATION

Report That The Matter Was Steam Rolled In Meeting

A well known resident from the Fifth Commissioners' District was in the city yesterday and in a conversation anent the affairs of Orange county remarked that many of his people were displeased with the manner in which the county commissioners have out the fair appropriations this year. At their last meeting this matter came up and while there is but little doubt that all the people of the different districts are in favor of an appropriation these same people would like to discuss the matter with their county commissioners and find out just what money is being appropriated and where it is going. Hon. E. L. Brown, who represents the Fifth District stated to his constituents that he was not allowed sufficient time to take up the matter, and that it was passed at the meeting over his protest. The folks out in the Fifth are beginning to think that the steam roller tactics are altogether out of order in the county commissioners' meeting and that no appropriation should be made unless the people of the county are in favor of same or at least until the commissioners have a chance to discuss the matter with their constituency.

Bull Moose Party Launched

Chicago, Aug. 5. The National Progressive party was formally launched at noon in the Coliseum where a little more than a month ago President William Howard Taft was re-nominated for the presidency on the Republican ticket, over the protest of many of those now leading the third party movement.

The big convention hall, ready for the new party, shows but few changes in the arrangements provided for the Republican national convention. Over the main entrance door, however has been hung the head of a magnificent specimen of a bull moose in token of the nickname attached to the new party.

Between 1,100 and 1,200 delegates are expected to gather in the Coliseum to participate in the convention which has already attained a place in the history of American politics.

On Wednesday, when all the necessary preliminaries of a political convention have been disposed of, they will ratify the nomination of Col. Theodore Roosevelt for president.

Who will be the nominee for vice president has not yet been determined. Few of the leaders in the city will discuss the subject of a running mate for the Colonel, declaring that it is a matter to be threshed out in the convention, and decided as the delegates deem best for the interests of the party. On every hand there is the apparent purpose of the convention leaders to defer announcements of any character whatever until the convention shall have assembled and the delegates have been consulted.

So far, only the temporary officers of the convention have been given out. It was quite generally reported, however, that Colonel John M. Parker, of New Orleans, a Democrat, would be the permanent chairman of the convention. For a time it appeared to be the plan to retain former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, the temporary chairman, as the permanent presiding officer, but it was said tonight that Mr. Beveridge had expressed a desire that this be not done.

Waving Red Flags

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The red banana handkerchief is an emblem of the new party today almost supplanted the moose head.

Nearly every delegate wore a bandana knotted about his neck or hatband. "Buy a Roosevelt battle flag!" shouted vendors at every down town street corner. Milliners were besieged with orders to trim hats with the gaudy handkerchiefs.

The construction work on the new DeSoto county court house is progressing very satisfactorily. The walls of the building are now above the second story and the structure is ready to assume the shape of a magnificent piece of architecture. Whatever else the opponents of the new court house proposition may have to say when the job is completed, we doubt if they can find fault with its appearance.—Arcadia Enterprise.

The house numbering in Kissimmee is now under way and when completed will give the long deferred free mail delivery. There are about forty miles of streets in the city and approximately 3,000 houses, so that the man tackling the job will be kept busy for some time, and consequently the citizens will have to wait some time for the postman.

The old court house which used to stand in the center of Quincy has been torn down and is being replaced by a modern structure. The ladies have agreed to see to it that the square is beautiful when the new court house is finished.

Truly, South Florida is an island now, says the Miami Metropolis. The last obstruction, the dam in the north canal has been removed, and now there is one continuous unobstructed waterway from the ocean to the gulf. The locks have been dug around to let the large dredges pass up the canal.

The Jensen correspondent to the Ft. Pierce News uses some excellent arguments urging livening up the Jensen board of trade and general arousing of enthusiasm for faster progress. Located at the head of Indian River—one of the most beautiful navigable streams in the entire country, the town certainly has every inducement to develop on broad lines and if her people are sleeping on their opportunities, they should be awakened.

A Gainesville man has invented a shock absorber out of palmettoes, that is designed to put automobile tire factories out of commission. He has applied for a patent and, if the invention proves to be practical, you may expect to see syndicates corner every palmetto patch in the state.

Pinellas county has about a million dollars in prospective bonds to spend on improvements. They are doing things worth while in Florida's youngest county.

According to the registrations on hand in the office of the Tourist Club of America in New York City, there are in Florida 4,964 automobiles.

A new town is to be established by a party of Elmira, N. Y., business men on a tract of 40,000 acres near West Palm Beach, which they have just purchased for $400,000. The Elmiraans interested are John Brand, E. W. Philo, F. M. Blystone, Frank Inksater, G. A. Goff, and Herbert and Charler Brand. The property is located four miles from Jupiter and eight miles from the coast. It is to be developed into a producing enterprise on a large and extensive scale. The property will be cut up into small fruit and poultry farms to be managed by the Philo Co.

The watermelon season in West Florida, the best in the history of the crop, is now nearing an end, and instead of from two to five solid trains passing loaded through the city each day, the shipments are now limited to half a dozen carsloads, and within another two weeks will cease altogether.

The Citizens' Bank, Mulberry's new financial institution, has opened its doors and begun doing business.

Another centenarian died in Pensacola during the past week, according to the death certificate's on file in the office of the city clerk. The certificate shows that Phillis Riley, colored, who died Friday morning, was 105 years old. General debility was given as the cause of her death.

A movement has been started for an electric railway from Waycross through Folkstone, Hilliard, Callahan and into Jacksonville.

A Budget of Opinion "Just Between You and Me"

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chief is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith. He'll Present 'Em'—So Says Summerrer.

Several times I have spoken about the high cost of living, the exorbitant charges of the railroads, of the express companies, of the insurance companies and every trust that combines in America to grind down the poor man and keep him down. The government ownership of all utilities or the state ownership or even municipal ownership will have to be maintained in the future if we are to live in this country. Being the good old summer time and knowing that you folks have plenty of time on hand for reading I just want to hand you an interesting article from Mr. Poole of New Zealand, recently given at one of the Chautauqua meetings. Read it and ponder over the truths that are given:

"New Zealand is strictly up to date," he exclaimed at the Plainfield Chautauqua the other day, where he spoke afternoon and evening. "We have kept up with advanced thought in legislation and governmental policies, and have constantly legislated for the people, and not for the interests. And if you American people are not asleep, you will be up and doing to secure some of the blessings we have already tried out for you."

"While we have legislated along many lines, always for the benefit of the people, the trump card is the estate ownership policy. Our state owned utilities are a complete success and a benefit to every man, woman and child in the country."

"The state owns and cooperates the Railroads
Telegraph
Telephone
Water power
Wireless telegraph.
"New Zealand is also engaged in competitive business and owns and conducts Coal mines
Life insurance company
Loan bank for farmers and workers
Postal savings' bank.

"Now a word of suggestion. The sooner you people get active—take an interest in the subject of handling these public affairs—the better it will be for you.

"With the state in control, owning and operating, you will be surprised how your high cost of living will decrease.

"Some years ago your great statesman, William Jennings Bryan, visited our country and studied our government. He became convinced that state ownership of public utilities was the thing to save the people from robbery. The trouble was he was ahead of his time.

"He came back to the United States and against the advice of all his political friends, determinedly declared for state ownership. And what was the result? The people threw him down.

"Even though he met defeat his time will come. He will yet be recognized and lauded as your great prophet. His honors will come in the fulness of time.

"The other day I sent a telegram of seven words from Moose Jaw to St. Paul. The charge was 95 cents. Why in our state owned lines in New Zealand you can send twelve words for twelve cents a much greater distance than from Moose Jaw to St. Paul. The New Zealand state service charges only one cent a word for any distance, and makes a profit at that.

"We have undoubtedly the best telephone service in the world."

"When the life insurance companies charged excessive rates and refused to be fair, the government began its own life insurance company and soon reduced the cost of insurance 33 per cent.

"When coal was high and the operators refused to come down, the government opened mines of its own, and soon had the price down 22½ per cent.

"When usurers were charging people eight, ten and even higher rates for money, the government put aside $60,000,000 and loaned it to the farmers and workers at 4½ per cent interest, and that $60,000,000 is steadily at work. There is no more business for the vampires and the community of usurers.

"In New Zealand the combine is being knocked out; in fact, is knocked out.

"We did not attain to this state by sitting down and waiting. We fought and that is the only way you can get them. Many of our best men died fighting for these reforms.

"In consequence I am safe in saying we are the most happy and prosperous people on earth. Not 50 people in New Zealand are compelled to go to bed hungry. And these fifty must be charged up to drunkenness. New Zealand is going to drive the liquor traffic out of the islands.

"Let me give some advice to the boys and young men. Sports are a good thing and necessary. I go to ball games myself, but being a champion ball player will not solve these great questions of your rights, happiness and prosperity. You can do no greater service to yourself, and your people, than by studying these problems and engaging in the fight.

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, quoted Mr. Poole to his feminine audience in the afternoon. "In New Zealand we recognized the truth of the proverb, and made good. We gave the women the ballot.

"It was bitterly fought by the saloon. The liquor traffic saw danger ahead, if the women were given the right to vote, but victory was ours. Soon we will oust the liquor traffic from the islands. It is the most iniquitous business in the world and should be wiped out."

¶ The Orlando Citizen remarks that even if Winter Garden does want cold drinks on Sunday, Orlando does not and will not have them. I believe this matter should be left to the various sections just as the matter of good roads. If Orlando does not want a cold drink or a newspaper on Sunday let them go without. Sanford does want them and Sanford may have them and there are numbers of Orlando people who come here on Sunday to get them. There is no harm in the proprietor of a news stand staying at his place of business a few hours on Sunday if he so chooses. His clerks can have the day off, but the proprietor should be allowed to open up for the mall, just as the post office does and let the man who wants to read on Sunday get his paper or a cigar or a cold drink. It is rather difficult in this age to attempt to force the old Blue Laws on the people. I do not favor the store staying open all day on Sunday and having a crowd congregate to discuss base ball, election and kindred subjects, but I do believe it is all right for the stationery store and cold drink store or two to remain open a short period in the morning and afternoon. There are other things more harmful on Sundays than buying newspapers, cigars and cold drinks. At any rate Orlando can close without interfering with Sanford. We often feel sorry for our sister city, but if the people prefer living there—well, what are you going to do about it?

They can't have brick roads, or a ball team, or a steamboat, or get a cold drink or read a newspaper on Sunday. All that is left to the few full blooded people of Orlando is to take a car and come to Sanford, where there are real people walking on the streets, drinking real ice water and reading real newspapers and doing other real American stunts without fear of being arrested and taken to church against their will as they are forced to do in Orlando. The next thing we hear about Orlando will be that people down there are being forced to read Orlando papers.

¶ For the benefit of my friends who intend going to the beach the following rules should be observed:
Always rest upon the beach at least two hours before entering the water. By that time you will have a ring of admirers large enough to give you a wide choice in the matter of a bathing companion. Select the brownest, handsomest and most athletic of the men, making sure that his bathing suit harmonizes well with your own. Walk slowly with him to the water's edge, giving all the observers enough time for admiring comment. On first wetting your feet, gasp slightly or emit a melodious scream, at the same time clutching your partner's hands tightly. He will assume a protecting air, mingled with frank adoration. Cling to him more and more as the water grows deeper. By this time he will be your willing slave. At the first really high breaker, throw both arms around his neck and half strangle him in your embrace. Helplessness covers a multitude of sins. The more you maul him the greater will be his ecstasy.

If he succeeds in getting you into the quieter waters beyond the breakers, at once suggest to him that you would like to learn to float. He will teach you with alacrity. Sink, slowly and carefully back into his arms, reclining in a graceful position. He will hold you safely and tenderly, never realizing that his support is quite unnecessary. After about fifteen minutes of this you will be ready for a continuation of the more violent embraces of the breaker-jumping.

On coming out of the water, hurry home as quickly as possible. It is unhealthy to stand around in a wet bathing suit. Moreover, the woman has not yet been created who can make a good impression when she looks like a drowned rat. Your period of exhilaration is over for the day.

News and Views on Matters of Importance at Washington by our Special Correspondent

Washington, D. C., August 5 (Special).—The care of transatlantic travelers of late months has been sedulously provided for by every agency of the Federal government. Notwithstanding the perils of sea travel, despite the unforeseen horrors of the Titanic disaster, the stream of travel from America across the Atlantic and from the farther shores to the Atlantic has not noticeably diminished. People these days will come and go, trajectiles by land or sea to the contrary. American shores make a magnet no calamity can negative. They will keep coming hither from alien lands, just as they have done from the halcyon days of Columbian discovery. And they will keep going hence, the descendants of these earlier and earliest settlers, curious to look upon the land of their ancestors. The multiplication of ships, the improvement in every way of facilities for ocean travel, added comforts, even luxuries, speed of the craft more closely linking socially and in business the old world and the new—all these things have very greatly augmented the importance of ocean movement both of passenger and commercial trade.

An absorbing question is whether the government by which they are bound by allegiance of oath, birth or citizenship, is inclined to care for them or not in the risks they take at sea.

It is worthy of note that there has been no dereliction upon the part of the United States government in its various duties that have evolved upon it since the catastrophe which sunk more of the world in grief and horror than anything of the kind that has visited humanity in modern times.

What machinery of this government is available to promote the safety of lives and property in transit across the seas has been used energetically, intelligently and without stint.

Supervising Inspector General George Uhler of the Steamboat Inspecting Service has devoted himself unceasingly and most earnestly to all the problems involved in the share of this government in responsibility for the safety of ocean travelers. He said today, talking on this subject:

"As soon as the Titanic disaster occurred everything was done to provide life-saving equipment for everybody on board ship, including passengers and crew. Although the American rules previous to this provided for the care of more than twice as many people as were provided for by the rules of the British board of trade, still we did not relax efforts to improve the situation. The basis of both American and British rules, however, is the tonnage of the ships rather than the number of passengers, the same basis being acknowledged by all the maritime nations of the world, with the possible exception of Norway, which country, since 1909, had provided for full boatage on trans-Atlantic ships. With the event of the appalling Titanic calamity, all nations have interested themselves actively and profitably for the safety of lives and property crossing the seas, and none more effectually than our own government.

"Indeed, nothing has been left undone, conceived by ingenuity and painstaking thought, to insure safety for ocean travel. Any sincerely urged project to that end that appeared upon its face to be feasible and practical has been instantly tested. The steamship companies, realizing to the full their responsibility, have not been remiss in attention and activity in the emergency. I know of one company that, even before our rules went into effect, had already placed orders for 280 lifeboats, all of which are being built as fast as they can be turned out by working day and night and Sundays. The very earnestness with which our country has engaged in forwarding a solution of the greatest possible promotion of safety for life and property in transit over the sea has tended unquestionably to keep confidence alive, and all reports indicate there has been no material diminution in such travel and business. The American people will travel, if they have reasonable assurance of ordinary care for their safety."

In this connection it is interesting to know that nearly fifty bills have been introduced in the two houses of congress since the Titanic disaster looking to the safe guarding of life at sea. Some of these bills are meritorious, others wholly impractical and inadequate, but all well intended, relating to the provisions for life boat equipment, sufficient crew service, fire fighting apparatus, etc., but are most crude. It is nevertheless believed that an intelligent consensus of views will be reached before congress adjourns that will evolve the best possible laws. Certain it is that nobody in this administration has been permitted to be derelict in this particular emergency.

The Insurance Trust

The worst trust which confronts the citizens of Florida today—a trust that is deep rooted as man's insatiable desire for no evil—is the insurance trust, says the Palm Beach County. The Standard Oil "trust" has decreased the price and bettered the product from what it was before the magnates secured it. The Diamond Match "trust" sells more and better matches for a nickel than its competitors handled for four times that price. But the insurance trust. It is to be hoped that enough members can be found in Florida's next legislature to pass a law which, while it will not be prohibitive and work hardships most foul upon insurance companies, will prevent their waxing fat off the hard earned money of their patrons in this state. At the last session of Florida's legislative body an effort was made to put insurance laws in this state upon the same footing obtained in many states—Texas in particular. But there was a lobby—one of those things carefully run and luxuriously greased to prevent any remedy being applied. Just how much it cost the companies to kill objectionable legislation, those best can tell who participated in the rake-off—but a trust that clears so many thousands of dollars each each year from its clientele can afford to buy several automobiles and lift mortgages to suppress profit-decreasing legislation. Few people are aware of the large sums these insurance companies take from the state and the small amount they return as losses. Take the American Union of Philadelphia. Last year that company collected in premiums from this state $10,696.92. Not very much, to be sure; but then it paid back as losses only $1,829.64, so it made a clear profit of about 600 per cent—less its commissions! A very tidy sum—really more than even a pineapple grower nets—on an average. The North River Fire Insurance Company, New York, made even a larger percentage than the one first named. Although it took out of the state as premiums $12,655.20 (less commissions to agents) if it ever paid one cent of loss there seems to be no record of it. Consequently its receipts were all velvet. The reader may figure the percentage of profit. The Hartford did not do as well in percentage—but it handled more money. Statistics show that it collected as premiums $154,036.52; and returned as losses $78,355.93. That comes pretty near being a two-to-one shot and seems about like the Dutchman's one per cent profit. The Northern Assurance Company of New York did enough business to take as premiums $52,113.39 and paid in losses but $20,701.16. This paid a profit of more than 150 per cent, so the company had no need to gamble. And every few months some gallant inspector will come along and add a blue or yellow or pink square to the city map "adjusting" the spring to the highest tension possible and never deducting a cent for improved water service or high-priced fire fighting apparatus. It is time that this state enacts some laws—not drastic measures, but honest propositions—for the relief of the insured. And eyes will be upon the next legislature both the upper and lower house—to see where the leak occurs. That is, if there happens to be a leak.

Orlando Increases Telephone Rate

At a regular meeting of the Orlando city council held Thursday night, a new thirty year franchise was granted the local telephone company, allowing an increase of fifty cents a month in rates on business phones, with a schedule of further increased rates provided for. Until 750 phones are installed the rates will be $3 per month for business phones and $2 for residence; over 750 and up to 1000 the rate will be $3.50 and $2; over 1000 and up to 1500 the rate will be $4 and $2.50.

WE WIN WITH WILSON

The Monotype machine at the Herald office is turning out some fine borders this week for the printing trade. If any printing offices need this material they can save money by writing The Herald office.

The new hotel is looming greater each day.

Brick roads are stirring the people of the whole state.

Sanford needs that Business Man's Club this summer.

In naming the baby the Clyde Line will make it a papoose.

The Bull Moose party will be strictly pure and white—lily white.

Base ball is all right for a few weeks but how about the new hotel?

Now is the time to cut the weeds and get your premises in shape for the fall. Weeds cut now will save trouble next year.

Will some one please explode a stick of dynamite and wake up some of those dead ones around Sanford. They are too lazy to even go fishing.

Sanford ought to be represented at the state meeting of the boards of trade at Kissimmee. The meeting will result in great benefits to every part of Florida.

People continue to complain about the small quantity of ice given by the Sanford Ice Co. Bather a bad time to cut down the supply when the people are needing it.

Those Orlando fans are so artistic that they have "temperment" and sometimes they get excited and say things. Now we wish to warn them against getting angry down here next Thursday. Sanford policemen will not stand for rough stuff.

What does the city council purpose to do about the supply of water for the water works? Some time ago the subject was debated and almost decided upon but since that time there has been nothing doing. Is the water any better these days that you are perfectly satisfied to get your supply from the lake?

Loud cheers are to be heard arising from the Missouri river bottoms and from other places in the state the tillers of the soil most do congregate. A new liquor that will make every farmer his own bartender has been found! It is to be gotten from the bottom of every silo and comes from the fermentation of the corn silage. It is similar to the ordinary corn whiskey before it is distilled and is pronounced good.

BRING YOUR CONTRIBUTION

The Herald has received the following communication from Hon. J. T. Crawford, the National Committeeman: "The legitimate expense of the campaign which has been planned, and which is deemed essential to success, are very large and while the outlook is bright if the Democrats of the country will contribute a sufficient amount of money to properly carry out the plans made.

A Democratic administration will mean much to Florida. It will be the means of gratifying the long cherished political ambitions of a great many of our citizens. We will in many ways be beneficiaries of Democratic success in November. It is, therefore, just and right that we should contribute our mite towards making success possible. The Democratic press of the country will be more directly responsible for victory than any other single agency. Florida is overwhelmingly Democratic and that fact greatly restricts the usefulness of Florida papers. But there is a great service that can be rendered, viz: RAISING CAMPAIGN FUNDS. Will you kindly begin at once a popular subscription? Please keep a careful record of the names of all contributors and send in with remittances so that due credit may be given."

Pursuant to this request the Herald will start a Campaign Fund at the office in the Herald building and all the Democrats or any progressive Republicans who want the people to rule instead of the plutocrats can bring in their contribution and the same will be forwarded to headquarters to be spent in electing the real friend of the people, Woodrow Wilson.

The Democratic party depends upon the people for a campaign fund instead of the corporations and the campaign fund must necessarily come from the people. Give as much as you can and every little bit will help. We win with Wilson.

A UTILITY CROP

In a great many business houses or manufacturing plants they have a commodity called "utility." A manufacturer of automobiles will make a fancy car and a utility car. A manufacturer of huggies will make a fancy buggy and a utility buggy.

In other words they supply the fancy trade and the utility trade or the trade that demands something needful.

You see the point illustrated in everything you eat and wear and our every day life is made up of fancy and utility articles. The same rule applies to individuals. Some of us are fancy people and some of us are utility people. As to whether the fancy or utility are the better is left to the consideration of the reader. It takes both kinds to meet the demand.

As the editor sat at his desk this morning ruminating upon this subject and wondering which one of his neighbors would bring in something for his dinner, Hon. J. N. Whitner stopped before the office with a bushel of sweet potatoes and donated a peck to keep the editorial stomach working a few days longer. All of which brought to our mind more forcibly the question of fancy crops and utility crops.

We are planting every year acres upon acres of fancy crops. Sometimes the growers strike it rich and sometimes they do not. Where there are thousands of people in the north using fancy vegetables there are thousands using staples or utility crops—sweet potatoes for example. You can raise them in unlimited quantities and now when they are in demand in the north and bringing good prices how many growers in the celery delta have them to ship?

How many growers right here in the Sanford section have any sweet potatoes for their own use?

How many of our own Sanford people are paying 60 cents a peck for Irish potatoes when they could be eating sweet potatoes for 30 or 40 cents per peck or less.

Several Sanford growers planted sweet potatoes after the celery crop was off and in two months were eating and selling the finest sweet potatoes that ever came out of the ground. A market could be created for these potatoes in the north. We can raise more of them, raise them easier, raise them cheaper and raise them to ship at a time when there is a dearth in the northern markets. They require no fertilizer, but one working and several hundred bushel can be raised to the acre.

Would it not be a good policy for the Sanford grower to have the hitherto despised sweet potato for a utility crop and rake in some good money each year on the side?

Why not a utility crop?

GASOLINE GOING HIGHER

"The gasoline trust is dissolved—hence lower prices will follow." Thus runs an ancient adage—and not very ancient either. It is not so very long since newspapers were "here's hoping" to the dissolution—in order that lower prices might prevail.

What about it now? Was the dissolution a success?

Gasoline has never been as high priced in West Palm Beach as at the present time: twenty-two cents a gallon in five gallon lots! There seems to be no "combination in restraint of trade," because trading goes right along: the engines of the auto, the motor-cycle, the boats and the establishments working without a steam power must be fed—and vast quantities are daily consumed.

If the Ariston Ice and Electric Company could but be forced to furnish power as called for by its permit considerable gasoline could be dispensed with, the company make more money, and the consumer of the current save money. But nothing is doing along that line.

Consequently the demand for gasoline at 22c continues and will increase week by week. If there were a dozen combinations and as many dissolutions there would be no decrease in prices—probably—after the first few weeks.—Palm Beach County.

Wilson and Marshall Meet

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 6.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson will pay his respects to Governor Marshall of Indiana, his running mate, today at Spring Lake, two miles from here. The presidential nominee will call on the vice presidential candidate who will attend the notification exercises Wednesday. The meeting will be the first since the two men were chosen to head the Democratic ticket.

The governor was unable, he said last night to announce the name of the treasurer of the National Committee agreed upon by him and National Chairman McCombs.

Big Fund For Becker

New York, Aug. 6.—A police fund of $50,000 is being raised for the defense of Charles Becker, the police lieutenant charged with instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, according to information in the hands of District Attorney Whitman tonight. The money is being collected, it is said, by the so-called "System" which aside from the murder case, is to be investigated by the District Attorney, who believes there is a corrupt alliance between the "System" and the gambling fraternity founded on "graft and blackmail."

MRS. GRACE IS FREE

This Noted Trial in Atlanta Has Come to an End

Mrs. Daisy Opie Grace is a free woman, acquitted by the jury which had heard the evidence at the trial in which she was accused with shooting with intent to kill Eugene H. Grace, her husband, at their home in Atlanta last March.

The jury was out about three hours, returning with the verdict of "not guilty."

Mrs. Grace exhibited great nervousness as the jury filed into the court room and was intensely agitated as Judge Roan asked the foreman for the verdict. She bowed her head as if in prayer after the foreman had stated in simple words: "We find the defendant not guilty." Then her lawyer, Attorney Moore stated to Judge Roan that his client would like to thank the jury. Mrs. Grace's words, scarcely audible, were: "Gentlemen, I wish to thank you for your kindness to me."

Some cheering and hand clapping were begun in the court room, but Judge Roan held up a warning hand and silence was restored. Mrs. Grace, escorted by her mother and her attorneys, left the court room. She went immediately to her boarding place and prepared to take the train for Philadelphia, having received a telegram stating that here her home there.

The Real Cost of Living

While there is a universal cry over the country of the high cost of living and while are seeking some easy way out of the difficulty, very few pay attention to the trifling amounts spent in silly ways. It seems to be the little things that count.

A series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post tells in most graphic details how the present generation fritters away the income which a past generation would have considered an affluence, and from which our grandfathers would have saved and invested a competence.

A nickel is but a trifle—and a dime hardly worth noticing. But it is the constant stream of nickels which yields the great dividend of the traction companies. It is the multiplicity of nickels dropping into the bootblack's till which allows him to get a banking account and invest in the only real, stable and honest proposition—real estate.

The money continually wasted in trifles would make many payments on properties bound to enhance in value. It is so easy to be careless about the nickel and the dime: so easy to wonder where the dollar goes once it is changed to smaller coins!

And it seems so easy to buy 75c silk socks when grandpa used to either have the home-made ones or bought the 10c kind. The average young man of today pays more annually for his garters and socks than his grandpa paid for shoes and stockings for the whole family: no doubt of that. And where the fond lover of other days escorted his sweetheart to the singing school and lingered lovingly all the way home the young man of today must engage an auto and spend his two weeks' salary on one evening's joy ride!

And then we talk of the high cost of living! It is the desire of each one to live a little better than his neighbor which makes much of this cost. If the neighbor has meat three times a week he must have it six; if the neighbor hires a span of horses for a Sunday drive he must procure an auto. If the neighbor tips the porter, or the drayman, or the bootblack a quarter nothing less than a dollar tip goes to him.

Were the people willing to get right down to brass tacks and live in a conservative manner shunning high-priced luxuries; avoiding those expensive vacations which usually return the wanderer poorer physically and financially; abolishing the sudden bursts of spendthriftism which indicate more of a desire for publicity than for comfort; then there would be a lessening of the long continued serial of "high cost of living."

But they are not willing. Consequently the present pace must be kept up—no matter how many private privations or home heartaches may ensue.

The pace is set; either keep up to it and be a "good fellow" while you last—or go slower and be happier, but get the highball laugh and the contemptuous giggle.—Palm Beach County.

State Fights Hookworm

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 5.—In view of the success attending the establishments of a local dispensary in Tallahassee for the free treatment of hookworm disease, by the state board of health, and with desire to accomplish more rapid and widespread results in other sections the health authorities have decided to inaugurate this system in the adjoining counties thereby extending to them the same opportunities and privileges as have been enjoyed by people living in this and surrounding vicinities for the last few months.

Beginning today there will be inaugurated in Leon, Wakulla and Franklin counties, a chain of institutions for the free treatment of hookworm disease, in connection with which practical suggestions will be offered for the improvement of local sanitary conditions and such other problems as influence public welfare.

From a preliminary survey already completed it is evident that 65 per cent of the children in these counties are suffering from the effects of the devitalizing parasite which is draining from its unfortunate victims, the youth and vitality, which it is their inalienable right to possess. It is earnestly desired that every person living in these sections will lend his influence and cooperate in every possible way with the doctors in securing the greatest amount of good possible from this crusade.

Mistaken Charity

The Herald has called the attention of the people to the fact that we have a first class Charity Association in Sanford and all cases should be referred to the organization. There are numerous applications for charity that should be turned down and those that are seemingly needy are usually fakes. The Sanford Evening Chronicle indicates that the pan handlers are abroad in the state this early in the season:

"The Ocala Banner, after copying our local last week regarding the two women jailed here for begging on the streets, adds: There seems to be no pity for the poor, why should poverty be made a crime." Bro. Harris extends his sympathies in the wrong direction. When these women were released upon agreeing to leave town, they went to the depot, and from a wallet extracted a roll of bills, among which was a fifty dollar bill, and bought tickets to Waycross, Ga. That's poverty with a vengeance! It really did seem too bad to jail the girl, whom it is believed was not the daughter of the elder one, but a stoolpigeon taken along by her for effect. Our sheriff disliked very much to place in jail this capture because of their sex, but he declares he intends hereafter to jail every unworthy beggar plying his or her vocation on the streets, and he will be upheld by the people in so doing.

Avocado Market Glutted

Late communications from New York indicate that simultaneous shipments of avocados from Florida, Havana, Trinidad and Porto Rico has glutted the market for the time being and ruined it. Local commission men have been advised to hold for a time till market conditions again become normal. It is not thought that the slump will continue for a great length of time.

On the local market avocados have been bringing from 75 cents to $1.25 per dozen. Shipments to Jacksonville and Chicago have been even better. One grower states that in a shipment last week he received $7 net for a crate of three dozen in Chicago. This is considered unusual, although not impossible, for while the avocado market is limited, it is a market which can pay almost any price in order to get them. This year's crop is reported as rather slim, although on the whole the size and quality of the fruit are good.—Miami Metropolis.

Uncle Sam Is Broke Again

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Your Uncle Sam is broke again today. Several of the largest appropriation bills are still to be passed by congress. For the last month the government has been operating under the emergency resolution which extended the appropriations of the last fiscal year through July. It is expected this will be repeated.

A resolution has been agreed upon by the appropriations committees of both houses extending the appropriations of the last fiscal year until August 15. Its immediate passage is expected. This action also indicates that the members of congress expect to get the appropriations bills through by August 15.

Spills Curbstone Brokers

Without opposition the membership fee of the Miami real estate board was raised at its monthly meeting Saturday night to $200 for active members and $100 for associate members, and an amendment to the constitution adopted to that effect. Seventy-five per cent of this fee is to be refunded after the firm obtaining membership has been in the board for one year. The object of the increase in fees is to protect the board from being taken advantage of by agents who come here during the winter, staying but a few months, and sometimes but a few weeks.

TO MEET IN PALATKA

State Automobile Association to Have Convention

The State Automobile Association has called a meeting of its organization in Palatka for next Thursday, August 8.

In connection with this gathering there will be also held a meeting of the State Good Roads Association.

Now if there is one thing more than another that the first named organization wants, it is good roads to play on.

The second association carries its object in its name.

The meeting of these two associations at the Putnam House on one and the same day will not result in serious disagreement. Rather they will blend, or run together on the plan of a hymn a few of the more pious members are wont to line out: "All one body we, one in faith and doctrine, one in charity."

During the visit of these people the town will be full of automobiles. They are coming in dozens from Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Daytona, Gainesville, Ocala, and every other town within short time auto distance.

These associations have a single object in the meet, and that to make Good Roads sentiment. The State Good Roads Association has prepared a Good Roads bill which it intends to have introduced in the next Florida legislature, and which it hopes that body will enact.

But the important thing...

just now is the coming of these people, many of whom are among the most prominent citizens of the state. We want them to know that the city feels honored in having them here. We also want them to know that in selecting Palatka for the meet the people of this city are willing to concede that they showed more than average judgment.

The Palatka board of trade has appointed a reception committee to meet the visitors at the gate and give 'em the glad hand. Mayor Warren is very properly at the head of this committee, and his co-receivers are such expert glad hand extenders as J. Finley Tucker, E. M. Earnest, T. J. Barnett and W. W. Tilghman. That outfit suits us and should have the same soothing effect on every other unofficial citizen of the place.

The board also appointed a committee on entertainment consisting of W. B. Royster, Rev. P. Barry, Chas. H. Seig, N. F. Dillon and Chas. Burt. The task of this committee will not be hard for if at any time they seem at a loss to know just what to do for the visitors all they need to do is to ask Jack Flinn.

Public entertainment is never hard or expensive in a dry town.

The city ought, however, to dispense with its half holiday on the occasion of this meeting. There ought always to be some show of life in a town that is trying to make a good impression on visitors.—Palatka News.

Notice to Orange Growers and Shippers

A convention of orange growers and shippers to Florida has been called to meet in Gainesville, Florida, on Thursday, August 15, 1912, at 12 o'clock noon, to receive and consider the "Standard for Immature Citrus Fruit" as recommended by the Commission appointed by the Department for the purpose.

This Commission, consisting of the president of the State Horticultural Society, the director of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, the chemist of the State University, the chemist of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, and the State Chemist of Florida, will report to the convention the result of their investigations of all the analytical and other data obtainable, and recommend a standard for immature oranges for adoption or rejection by the orange growers of the state, for the guidance of the executive officers and the courts in preventing the shipment of Immature Citrus Fruit.

It is recommended that all parties interested be present at this important meeting, as on the decision of this convention, depends the fixing of a standard satisfactory to the parties directly interested, to-wit: the orange growers and shippers.

Standards for all commodities are fixed by the persons directly interested in the business and adopted by the legislative, executive and judicial authorities for their guidance.

W. A. McRAE,
Commissioner of Agriculture.
R. E. ROSE,
State Chemist.

STATE BOARD OF TRADE

Meeting in Kissimmee Promises Some Good Results

Secretary H. H. Richardson of the Jacksonville board of trade, who has been active in the plans for a state board of trade which it is expected will be formed at a meeting to be held in Kissimmee August 15, has outlined the following tentative program for the affair:

August 15, 10 a. m.—Meeting called to order by Henry Clay Stanford, president of the Kissimmee board of trade.

Invocation.

Selection of temporary president and secretary.

Appointment of committee on credentials.

Discussion of plans for State Chamber of Commerce, led by secretary, H. H. Jackson of the Jacksonville board of trade (by request) and followed by other leading citizens of the state, who are vitally interested in the subject.

Appointment of committee on constitution and by-laws.

Report of committee on constitution and by-laws.

Nomination of permanent officers.

Selection of next meeting place.

Adjournment.

Secretary Richardson is in receipt of the certificates of the delegates from the following boards of trade: Jasper, Sarasota, St. Augustine, Havana, Starke, Trilby, Plant City, Baker county (of Monroe and Palatka).

President Lake and Secretary Bates and several members of the Commercial Club expect to attend the meeting.

MONROE LOCALS

P. D. Cobb and family have moved their store to W. W. Brady's old stand.

The Monroe church and school building lacks about one hundred dollars' worth of material and work of completion. The good people have done all they can. Crops were short and times are hard. However, our building is up, is covered and floored. We can hold school in it, if we can get it seated. Perhaps the school board will seat it for us.

Mr. H. R. Lock has left us for a visit to his old home in the state of New York.

A number of our truckers have planted their celery seed beds. From present indications the acreage will be greatly reduced.

Quite a large number of automobiles pass through Monroe and cross the river at the ferry. When we get the brick roads there will be a great many more.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Johnson of Markham are at Mr. E. R. Potter's. They have sold their farm at Markham and expect to go to his former home in New Jersey.

Another Everglades Investigation

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 1.—Charges of incompetency and neglect of duty have been filed against Chief Drainage Engineer J. O. Wright by assistant engineers who have been in active charge of the work of draining the Everglades. The full text of these charges has not been made public.

The internal improvement board, under whose jurisdiction the drainage of the Everglades is conducted, has been investigating these charges in executive session for several days. No intimation of the nature of the proceedings have been given until today. Publication of sensational stories in state papers were partly confirmed by this statement which says that "all of the charges made against Mr. Wright have been heard in Mr. Wright's presence and that he has made answers. The trustees are making it thorough investigation and will advise the public when a conclusion has been reached."

The charges against Mr. Wright were preferred by First Assistant Engineer G. C. Pierer and R. F. Ensey, the engineer who made the survey for the drainage work. Both of these engineers have resigned.

Had Twenty Children

Chicago, Aug. 1.—"A man who raises twenty children on $25 a week should not have to pay taxes," said Roy O. West, chairman of the board of review yesterday.

"I earn only $25 a week and have to support ten children, all of whom are going to school," said Finkelstein. I am the father of twenty, but ten have died. Altogether I had eight boys and twelve girls to care for. Now I have four boys and six girls left. If you can reduce my taxes it would make it easier for me."

"I guess you have about all you can do to take care of ten children, especially if they all go to school," said West, as he marked the complaint "no assessment."

"I think this country should be proud of you. Your class of fathers are the nation's greatest asset," the official added.

For Special Road and Bridge District

The returns of the election held on July 18th, 1912, ordered by this Board for the establishment of a special road and bridge district, and the payment for the construction thereof by issuing bonds to the amount of $200,000.00, having been made to the Board by the inspectors of said election, the same were opened and canvassed by the Board and the canvass showed two hundred and nineteen votes for and thirty-nine votes against, establishing the special road and bridge district, the same to be paid by issuing bonds for the sum of $200,000.00 as tax upon taxable property in said district, the majority being 189 votes in favor of establishing such district and issuing said bonds.

It is therefore ordered that the following territory shall be and constitute a special road and bridge district:

Beginning at a point on the Wekiwa river on the east side, on the Township line between Townships 19 and 20 South Range 29 East, and running thence east along said Township line to the section post at the northeast corner of Section 5, Township 20 South, Range 30 East, thence running south on said section line to the section post at the southeast corner of Section 29 (on south boundary of Section 29), in Township 20 South, Range 30 East, thence running east to the waters of Lake Jessup, thence following the north line of the waters of said Lake Jessup to the St. Johns river, thence following the waters of the St. Johns river on the south side of said river to the waters of Lake Monroe, thence following the waters of said Lake Monroe on the south side thereof, to the waters of the St. Johns river west of Lake Monroe, thence following the waters of the St. Johns river to its junction with the Wekiwa river, thence following the east side of the waters of the Wekiwa river to the point of beginning.

That said district shall be and the same is hereby designated as "Special Road and Bridge District Number One."

It is further ordered that this order be published in Sanford Herald for thirty consecutive days.

Done and ordered in open Board this 15th day of July, 1912, B. M. ROBINSON, Clerk of Board.

SPORTING GOSSIP

The Return of the Goat

At the Old Racing Track there was silence sublime. The kind that prevails when we're six games behind. When out of the gloom swinging wildly and free, White talked a three-legged, and took it from me. That the fans as they saw it went suddenly mad: As they realized Sanford was one to the lead.

Then Turp from the grand stand with strenuous jumps the Cream of our City, and hoorsy galore With such noise as a mule gives when, hunger intense.

He breaks into grass through a barbed wire fence; For that was the custom so fans all claim; That the Orlando Goat, and its tail homeward came.

But ere to our heads this success could have flown, There rose from the diamond that Mystic balloon, (The sight of which weakened "Our Baby" a lot who started to throw the ball clean out the lot.) For it banneted our team since the season began; And before it was captured they led three to one.

So we called on the Doctor of life-saving fame, A lad widely read in the tricks of the game; Librarian put an "Olimp" where a Bobb was before; But to spite us they added three more to the score And thus trimmed us again, but we won't be kept down. With the spirit as high as it is in this Town, Reporter-Star.

Boost Day Thursday

Next Thursday afternoon will be Boost Day again and Orlando will come up in all their glory expecting to lower our colors. They have materially strengthened their team and are confident of victory. The Sanford band will discourse sweet music and the famous trombone player, Mr. Mutt, will chronicle every good play by a solo on his sax.

zoo. The crowd will be kept in good humor, no matter whether we win or lose, and every loyal fan is expected to come out in full force. Every fannibelle will also be there and bring a boy along. This will positively be the last real boost day and aside from the good game and large crowd both ball teams are expected to do their best to take the pennant. You know Orlando is only seven games behind the Sanford bunch and they are liable to get a game most any time and Thursday may be the psychological moment. Come out, everybody, and help to swell the gate receipts. Next Thursday is the big day.

Sanford Two; Orlando One

Yesterday's game, a pitcher's battle between Lee and Wilson, was by many who saw it, conceded to be the best game of the season. Wilson, who pitched on Thursday went back at Sanford and pitched superbly and should have won his game. Lee, for Sanford, was right there with the goods, however, and held us to one lone tally, which came in the eighth. Lee, supposedly walked Brewster, who stole second and scored on Stump's hit through short. Sanford got one in the fifth after two men were down. Farmer hit to right for two bags and scored on an error by second. In the eighth they got another. It looked like we would tie things up in the ninth, when with one down, Lee walked Brewster, who was put out stealing second on a very close decision. Jack Johnson Was Bad Again

Wanted to Argue When He Fanned.

Act Like They Were Playing

We are very glad to be able to note that baseball has taken a new hold here. The locals lost the Friday's game, but the exhibition was so fine, and the spirit animating the players so encouraging, that decidedly the fans have no kick.

The criticism of the old team was not so much that they failed to win, as it was that they did not exhibit a winning spirit. The townspeople do not necessarily demand winning ball; but they do demand, and with justice, that the men who are paid by the citizens make a proper effort to win. And this is not to be mistaken as a criticism of the individual players that composed the old team. They confronted a discouraging condition which was beyond their control, and with which they could not cope.

A lesson has been learned. An up-and-downing spirit pervades the nine now, which is going to result in splendid baseball, even if we don't win.—Reporter-Star.

COBB'S FIRST GREAT PENNANT-WINNING FEAT

FOR five consecutive seasons the achievements of Tyrus Raymond Cobb have furnished daily topics of conversation for followers of baseball. Of all the occasions in which he has been the central figure, at the bat, in the field or on the bases, it is probable no single exploit had greater effect on the fortunes of the Tigers than his home run drive in the ninth inning, of the seventeen-inning drawn game between the Athletics and Detroit, played in the City of Brotherly Love, September 30, 1907, the final score being 9-9.

That wallop batted the American league championship from Philadelphia to Detroit, which may be considered a reasonably long hit.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb.

The season had only a week to run, the loss of the game by Detroit in the regulation nine rounds would almost surely have cost them the pennant. It was scheduled as the first game of a double-header. The Tigers were only half a game ahead of the Mackmen and an even on the day was all they expected. Jennings had no twirler in shape to take the second contest from the veteran Plank, who in his best form was to work for the home team. An even break meant much to Detroit, however, as the Tiger pitching staff happened to be strong against the only two clubs which they were to meet after this eventful day.

Manager Jennings sent "Wild Bill" Donovan to the slab and he was opposed first by Dygert, then Waddell and finally Plank. The strain of pitching twenty-four victories out of twenty-eight games within a period of three months, had had its effect on the Detroit star and before the tired muscles could be made to respond to his iron will the game was apparently lost and with it the Tiger prospects.

At the beginning of the seventh round an error unsettled Waddell and before he regained his footing four runs had been rushed across the plate. By dint of much labor the visitors had made one run previously, and another in the next session brought the total to six. The Athletics had made eight runs without much effort.

When Cobb faced Waddell in the ninth inning with a man down and Crawford on first, all the strength, skill and nerve that had changed this sixth place outfit to pennant contenders, all the work of the tireless, cheering masses—all the hopes of the western fans were at stake.

Here was a team of seasoned veterans, former champions, guided by a master hand, the terror of American league batsmen on the slab, two runs ahead, only two more hands to retire, a league pennant, a world's series for the prize. Against this powerful combination a mere stripling was opposed. It seemed easy.

In response to signals flashed from bench to field, from base to base, from the home plate to the pitcher's slab, the giant southpaw sent five balls whizzing toward the watchful, keen-eyed youth. Three times the "Peach" had been tempted by curves that just missed the plate. Twice he watched the ball cut over a corner. Then with that intuition known only to the kings of the clan he divined that the cannon ball speeding toward him was not going to break, it was comink "straight over."

There followed a mighty crash as of broken hopes, of crushed ambitions, of dreams dispelled. The runner on first base scored, closely followed by the flying "kid." The champion batter, champion base runner, champion fielder of the age had tied the score. Cobb had won his first pennant.

Some Facts About Ty Cobb

He is six feet tall, weighs about 175 pounds when in training. He bats left handed, but throws right handed.

He is an all wool Democrat of course, and expects to vote for Wilson. Cobb is a crack shot with a rifle and a gun, drives an automobile well and has but one regret, that he did not have a chance at football.

In a game at Cleveland once he singled and stole second, third and home without even breaking his stride.

He invented the art of scoring from first on a single.

He admits that his own position in the outfield is easy to play and says that the catcher has the hardest position.

He likes best to play in Detroit—next to that Boston.

The pitchers who trouble him most are Ed Walsh and Walter Johnson. When Joss was alive he had Ty's goat.

The style of pitchers who trouble him most are those with a side arm delivery or those who turn their back before they pitch.

He admits that a spit ball, especially a low one, is the most difficult thing for him to hit.

Cobb's early ambition was to be a surgeon. He has tried his hand at selling automobiles and at acting and does not like either.

He is investing his money in bank stock, farm lands, base ball clubs, and sporting goods stores. He will probably go into the sporting goods business when he retires.

He has been a chronic scrapper since a boy, but is as quick to forgive an enemy as he is to fight.

Ty learned to plow when he was a boy and can drive a mule with the best of them.

Cobb is a man of moderate tastes. He drinks little and smokes little.

Cobb stirred up a lot of rough talk by spiking various batsmen but fair-minded men, even among his enemies admitted that the spiking was always accidental.

This spring the Detroit team went on a strike when Cobb was suspended for dashing into the stands at New York and beating a spectator who had been rough in criticising him.

Cobb is the only man who has batted as high as .420 since the foul strike rule was adopted. Only five men in the last twenty years (Duffy, .438, Turner, Philadelphia, 423; Burch, Brooklyn, .423; Burkett, Cleveland, .433; Lajoie, Philadelphia; .412, have beaten Cobb's 1911 mark.

Not in a decade or more have there been so many snakes in the southeastern part of New York state as at present, according to reports received by the New York Zoological Society. Because of this prevalence the society has placed in service an automobile equipped with a 500 candle power searchlight, and will hunt the snakes by night in several suburban counties. The automobile is equipped to carry several hundred snakes.

The small shipper rather than the one who ships in large lots will be the one to be benefited by the interstate commerce commission's proposed changes in express rates, according to an analysis of the new express charges by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The express companies will attack the new basis of rates on Oct. 9. The greater part of the pieces carried by the express companies are small and have been the source of the bulk of the revenue, though representing by far the smallest portion of the weight carried.

An inventory of the estate of the late Thomas A. Snyder, catsup manufacturer, who was buried at Toronto, Canada, has been filed in probate court. His personal estate amounted to $47,704.50, with real estate valued at $100,000. Among his effects was found $93,628 worthless stock and worthless debts to the amount of $5,720. Debts collectible to the amount of $22,500 also were listed. Mr. Snyder and his wife, whom he had recently married, were killed in an automobile accident in Pennsylvania. Attached to the inventory is a notation saying that the wife survived him by about ten minutes, and that he left no minor children.

Because he wouldn't travel in the negro compartment of a passenger coach Sheriff V. A. Spinney of Augusta county, Alabama, who was escorting a negro prisoner to Prattville, was ejected from a Mobile & Ohio train yesterday. The officer employed a lawyer and threatens to sue the railroad, insisting that the Alabama law prohibits whites traveling in the coaches with negroes.

The biggest man in Georgia is dead, and they had to bury him in a box because no coffin of sufficient dimensions could be found. He was Job Allgood, a rural mail carrier of Walton county, and he weighed close to 500 pounds. His death came suddenly, following a barbecue at which he is said to have astonished the people by the amount of victuals he stowed away.

Jumped in Front of Train

Zephyrhills, Aug. 8.—Richard W. Burke, vice president of the Cooperative Homestead Co., operating a colony four miles south of this place was instantly killed by the passenger train just as it was nearing the depot at Zephyrhills this morning at 11:40.

Mr. Burke came up from Crystal Springs this morning and was around town quite awhile before the train was due. Just before the train arrived he left the depot, walking down the track, meeting the train. Just before the train reached him, as he was between the main track and siding, according to the account given by F. A. Gibson, W. D. Judy, Merton Fowler and Will Williams, who were eye witnesses from the depot, he deliberately jumped on the track. In another second his head was completely severed from his body. The body rolled to one side of the track, and the head was carried seventy-five feet up the railroad.

SANFORD'S MILITARY COMPANY

Organization Held up Pending Instructions From Headquarters

Several months ago Capt. Palmer succeeded in organizing a military company in Sanford, made up of many members who had previous military experience, and the full quota of men signed the roster. In fact there are half a dozen men over the full quota and the Sanford company would be one of the full complement companies of the regiment.

Letters from General Foster indicate that there may be several vacancies in the second regiment that would allow the Sanford company to join at once, other than the Sanford boys would be assigned to the first regiment. Letters to this effect were received here a month ago, stating that General Foster would take up the matter for readjustment as soon as the summer encampment was over. Since that time no word has been received here regarding the arrival of an officer to muster in the company, and our citizens and the members of the company are beginning to think that the higher authorities are slighting their request for action to be taken at once.

In other words, the men who have endeavored to organize a company here have succeeded and now await the orders from headquarters, and if Sanford is to have a military company they want to know when and how. This is the time to organize, when the summer season allows more time for drilling and all the preliminary work can be done better than in the winter season when men and officers will have other matters to attract their attention and make demands upon their time.

Sanford Boy's Success

A J. Bowler of Dixie as his Sanford friends are wont to call him is meeting with success since his matriculation in college. He is now connected with the Merchants National Bank of North Carolina and during his spare moments devotes the time to journalism, in which he has shown remarkable aptitude and which he expects to follow some time in the future. The Manufacturer's Record, recognized as one of the greatest magazines on manufacturing and development in the south, recently gave Mr. Bowler a commission to write a series of articles upon the development of that portion of North Carolina and his first one on the Piedmont & Northern Railway, known as the interurban, received most favorable notice in the Spartanburg Journal, which characterized it as "one of the most interesting and instructive articles ever written on that subject."

During his college career Mr. Bowler was manager of the athletic association and wrote all the articles relative to the athletic events, receiving well merited praise from the faculty and students and also from the large daily papers, whom he supplied with articles during the term.

His many Sanford friends will be gratified to learn of his success in college and in business and expect to hear of great achievements from Dixie in the future.

Complimentary Party

Miss Annie Whitner was the charming hostess of a delightful party last Monday evening, complimentary to Miss Katherine Mahoney and Lillian Herring.

Beautiful cut flowers and ferns made the rooms very attractive. The guests were entertained with pleasant games until the dancing began, which continued until 11:30. Delicious ice cream and cake were served and refreshing fruit punch was enjoyed during the evening. Miss Annie's invited guests were Misses Katherine Mahoney, Lillian Herring, Lettie Caldwell, Douglas Abernathy, Adelaide Higgins, Lucile Denton, Katherine Wilson, Jessie Graves, Carrie Rossiter, Claire Walker, Ether Moughton, Anna McLaughlin, Muriel Harrold, Messrs. Griffin Herring, Richard Whitner, Joel Fields, George McLaughlin, Feaney Deane, Ned Chittenden, David Caldwell, Robert Deane, Weisman Caldwell, Randall Chase, Humo Rumph.

AUTOMOBILE SKIDDED

Car Turns Over and Kills Mr. W. D. Holden

CAST GLOOM OVER ENTIRE CITY

Prominent Citizen Killed Without a Moments' Warning, on the Orlando Road

The automobile has added another victim to the ever increasing list.

Coming from Orlando to Sanford yesterday in the big Everett car of the Holden Real Estate Co., Ernest Morrow driving, W. D. Holden on the front seat with him and Gus Hart, C. O. McLaughlin and J. L. Gorusch on the rear seat were thinking of getting to this city ahead of the storm that was coming up behind them. In turning out to pass a vehicle on the marl road where the sand road runs to the west, the big car skidded on the wet marl and despite the superhuman efforts made by Mr. Morrow to right the car it skidded for some distance in the middle of the road and finally turned almost completely around and toppled over on the left hand side. It all happened so suddenly that even the occupants of the car have no clear recollection of just what happened to each individual. Morrow, Hart and McLaughlin escaped with minor bruises and sprains and were able to get out of the wreckage and assist Gorusch, who had sustained a broken collar bone and was badly bruised.

Mr. Holden being a man of considerable weight seems to have fallen forward on the wind shield and there was forced over the front seat and with his own weight and that of part of the car on him, had his neck broken and one of his feet badly bruised. He was killed instantly, and when his body was disentangled from the car and was laid on the roadway physicians hurriedly summoned found life extinct. The compartment of the swiftly moving car and the ground must have been terrific, as even the key ring in Mr. Holden's pocket was broken into small bits.

The car when righted did not seem to have been badly broken and was driven to Sanford under its own power. The top was torn off and the wind shield broken, the steering gear badly wrenched and one of the axles bent.

Mr. Morrow, who was driving, stated that he was not running fast, but that the road was very wet and slippery, and in attempting to pass the horse and buggy and gain the road again the car skidded and before he could get it back, reversed positions and seemed to strike something on the side of the road, throwing it over on the side. From what can be learned of the accident Mr. Holden was talking to the occupants of the rear seat and was unaware of the car starting to skid. He had no time to save himself had he been able and the car must have turned over on him so quickly that he could not catch hold of any part of the car to break his fall.

That any of the party escaped with their lives seems miraculous after going over that part of the road where the accident happened and noting the smooth and slippery nature of the marl when it was wet.

As soon as news of the accident was brought to the city cars were immediately dispatched to the scene and physicians hurried to render aid. Mr. Gorusch was brought to Sanford at once to receive medical aid and the other members of the party were looked after. The report at first stated that Mr. Holden was badly injured, but the first ones to arrive were horror stricken to observe the lifeless remains near the death car.

Several hundred Orlando people Sanford to witness the ball game were on the street when the accident happened and with the groups of citizens discussed the sad affair that had not only robbed Sanford of a prominent citizen but Orlando as well, for Mr. Holden belonged to each city and all of Orange county.

A Prominent Floridian

W. D. Holden was born in Volusia county and with his parents moved into Orange county about forty-five years ago. His early life was passed on the plantation owned by his father and he was engaged in agricultural pursuits and in cattle raising in the early days of the county. After reaching maturity he

NEW CLUB HOUSE

Sanford Organization Will Provide Entertainment For The Visitors

At the present time there is no place for the stranger within our gates to while away the time. No place to rest, sit down and write a letter, read a paper or indulge in recreation of any kind. In order to overcome this great handicap to our city ere another winter season, The Herald has organized a club by Sanford will add several hundred new people to our population this season. There are many people here every winter who leave Sanford in disgust and go to other cities because they endeavor to stay here for a few days and are tired of walking the streets that they are forced to leave for a more congenial place where they are accorded the glad hand and made to feel at home. If every business man and every other man in the city, by the way, this new club Sanford can have the most boosting organization in the south. With a new club house on the shore of Lake Monroe where ladies and gentlemen are made to feel at home, where the stranger can be made to feel at home, where the business man can meet every day or every week and discuss matters of importance to the city, the value of such an organization to our city can be much plain at once. There is not a town, village or hamlet in the state today that cannot boast of such an organization and not a place that has one but that can trace the prosperity and good feeling in the town directly to such an organization.

Lake Monroe at the present time might just as well be one thousand miles away for all the good our people get out of it as a pleasure resort. Sanford people are losing a grand opportunity to do the city a vast amount of good in letting the matter of a club house be dormant now is the time to get busy and form the organization before the winter season begins.

We would like to hear from you if the club should have a fine home on Lake Monroe. The Herald will outline a plan and the editor of this paper will be around in a few days to see every live man in Sanford and ask him to join in the enterprise.

We will see whether you are alive to your opportunities or whether you are content to let everything get by you and never get any pleasure out of it and blow away.

We want every live wire in the city to ponder the subject well and let us have your answer.

City Officials go Fishing

When the launch Nettie left the city dock at 4 a. m. Wednesday it carried the chief of police, the sanitary inspector and the city clerk bound on a fishing expedition. After a run of about half an hour Capt. Tillis came to anchor in DeBary Creek.

The party took to the small boats and the fun began. First blood by the clerk. It would weigh all of three ounces. The fish did not seem to have very good appetites, and the party only succeeded in catching enough for dinner. They had plenty to feed the crowd with, but not much left. After noon a heavy shower came up, and after it was over fishing was resumed with better success. The party caught about thirty. Many of them would weigh three pounds. They arrived home at 4:30, after a very pleasant day. The thanks of the party are extended to Capt. Roy Tillis for the trip and the fine manner in which he entertained them.

Money from the sale of the $200,000 bond issue will soon be available in St. Petersburg, and the Times says that brick laying on some of the streets where most needed will be among the first of the improvements started. The Punta Gorda Land and Lumber Co., with a capital of one million, is in process of incorporation at that place. This is one of the big enterprises which insure a bright and busy future for Punta Gorda. Almost every day some industry is begun or some enterprise started, and all together it bespeaks rapid growth and financial advancement for Punta Gorda and its citizens. The Punta Gorda Land and Lumber Company owns many thousands of acres of land in DeSoto county, and the establishment of its huge mills at that place means the employment of two or three hundred men.

Owing to the vigorous kicking of the DeLand News the Underwriters' Association, which is characterized by the News as the largest of all trusts, has advised that they have ordered a rating clerk to return there and correct the statements recently made there. They raised the property of the News to a fancy price, but after the publication of several articles they decided to withdraw the new rate and restore it to the old price. He says the moral is kick them and then kick a little more, as they seem afraid of publicity.

In furtherance of its efforts to improve and make more efficient the medical department of the Florida hospital for the insane, the board of commissioners of state institutions has created the position of pathologist at the hospital, and has elected Dr. Howard S. Dr. Holloway was recommended to the board on highest terms as a competent pathologist and he is believed to be the best man available who could have been selected for this work.

W. C. Clayton of Brooksville committed suicide there a few days ago in a rather sensational manner. The plans and specifications have arrived for the proposed improvements and extensions to the Federal building in Pensacola. The whole interior of the postoffice and custom house will be changed and improved upon. There will be a general re-arranging of the offices, etc. A three story, thirty feet by one hundred and fifty feet extension is to be added on the west side of the building. When all is completed Pensacola will have one of the finest federal buildings in the south. It will be up-to-date in every particular.

News comes from Winter Haven that plenty of grapes are now on the local market and they are very fine. The mango crop is rather short this year, due perhaps to the heavy rains.
