Inspection Stations

What Will Happen Now That They've Been Vacated?

"We don't want a commercial enterprise to pop down right in the middle of where we are constructing our new municipal complex," Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard said concerning the upcoming disposition of the former motor vehicle inspection station adjacent to City Hall.

According to Assistant Seminole County Administrator Jim Easton, the county is accepting applications "from individuals and whoever else might want to lease the structures formerly used as inspection stations in the county."

The three county inspection stations, in Casselberry, Sanford and Sanlando, were vacated Sept. 30 following the state Legislature's decision to discontinue the vehicle inspection program.

"We would prefer they (the county) not use the inspection station for anything else and we are asking for special consideration so it will be used only by us," Sheppard said. "We want to be able to control it aesthetically — painting the building to conform with our complex, landscaping the surrounding grounds and maintaining the building. We will probably use the building for utility department equipment storage."

The Casselberry City Council is slated to discuss its position on bidding for the inspection station building lease at the Nov. 2 work session, following the regular council meeting at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, 35 Lake Triplett Dr.

"We are accepting requests for all three inspection stations through 5 p.m., Nov. 18," Easton said. "The proposals generally must provide us with information as to how the applicant intends to use the building, the applicant's agreement to a two-year lease and their agreement to keep the building intact in case the Legislature decides to reactivate the inspection program."

Easton said the county will hold an "open house" at the three stations for the public to view the structures from 10 a.m. to noon Nov. 4 and 11.

"Once we have all the applications submitted by the Nov. 18 deadline we will present them to the County Commission for review tentatively, at the Nov. 24 work session," he said. "We are primarily looking at two factors: applicants proposing the highest use of the facility, and what is in the best interest of the county."

Sheppard argues that if his city is not granted the lease agreement for the Casselberry station and the structure is awarded to a business, "It will commercialize the area. It would defeat what we are trying to do here."

Chemical Firm In Contempt?

A contempt-of-court citation is being sought by the city of Sanford and the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) against the City Chemicals Co. of Orlando, said City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles today.

Knowles said City Attorney Bill Colbert and DER Deputy General Counsel John Boltcher are today preparing the paper work seeking the order.

Knowles said a contract agreeing to how the Orlando-based firm would within 22 weeks remove 3,264 barrels of chemical waste from a two-acre site off Jewett Lane and Airport Boulevard in the city was to have been executed by the city and City Chemicals on Wednesday.

Knowles said the city signed the agreement, but agents for City Chemicals, "without consulting anyone, changed the terms of the contract and wrote them in."

"Therefore the contract is null and void," Knowles said. Knowles said the DER officials told him after the contempt of court citation is received the state agency will take over the chemical-removal operation.

Knowles said City Chemicals workers were at the site Thursday sampling, testing and separating chemicals. He said that while City Chemicals spokesmen said the first chemicals would be removed from the site Tuesday, a lawyer for the firm said the first shipments would begin Nov. 6.

"Both dates are in violation of the stipulation made between the firm, the city and DER," Knowles said, adding the agreement called for the chemicals to start moving out of Sanford within 24 hours of Wednesday's agreement date.

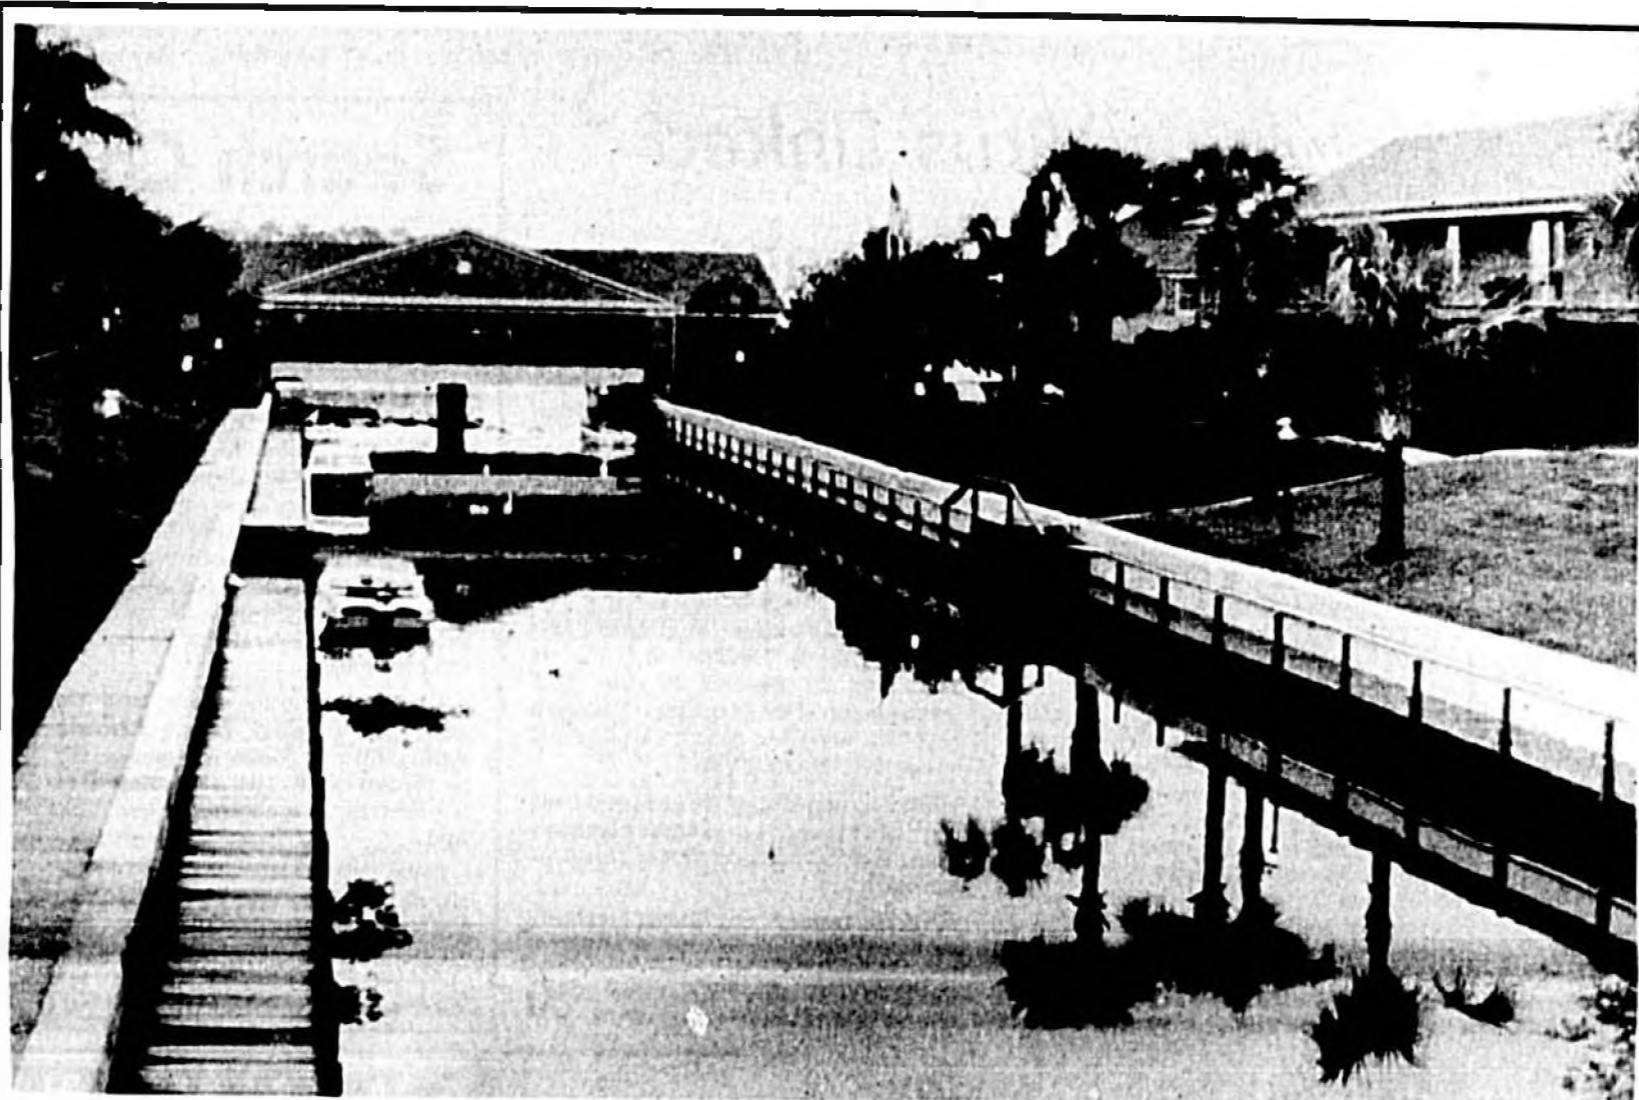

Joyce Buchan, who identified herself as an administrative assistant at City Chemicals, said by telephone from Orlando today that spokesmen for the firm talked to DER officials in Tallahassee this morning and "everything is all right."

Boltcher, in a telephone interview from Tallahassee, said, however, that everything is not just fine. He said, "We are pursuing a contempt-of-court citation and looking at other legal recourse and trying to work with (Arthur) Greer (president of City Chemicals) at the same time to get the site cleared up."

Boltcher said the DER is seeing whether someone else is available to clean up and remove the chemicals from the site and trying to work a deal with Greer at the same time.

He said the changed agreement has raised "some concerns" and will not be approved in its present form by DER.

If extreme water pollution controls are deemed necessary by an upcoming environmental study of area lakes, residents such as those living in Lake Howell Condominiums could find not only their lake but this "backdoor waterway" drained as well. The waterway, off State Road 436 at the condominium complex in Casselberry, leads into and is fed by Lake Howell.

Agencies Working On Problem

Area Lakes Suffer From Pollution

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer
Several Seminole and Orange County lakes are sick—very sick, according to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The lakes are suffering from increasing water pollution, and several area agencies are now working to correct the situation.

"It's true. Many of the lakes in the area are polluted, and we are taking steps to restore the quality," Nancy Ahlin of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council (ECFRPC) said. Ms. Ahlin is the public participation coordinator for the ECFRPC water quality committee.

"We are in the planning stages to correct the water situation in the area including the Howell Branch basin, Little Econ and Lake Wekiva basin to meet the water quality standards set by the EPA," she said. The St. Johns River Water Management District also is involved in the project.

"There are a lot of algae problems in the lakes, and the lakes are going to get worse and worse from the lack of oxygen if the trend continues," said environmental engineering consultant Amanda Perez, who is expected to head the study of the Howell Branch basin and surrounding lakes. Perez said he expects the contract between the ECFRPC and his firm, Post, Buckley, Schuh & Jernigan—within the next two weeks to be signed and the project analysis to begin shortly thereafter.

"We're going to be looking at about six large lakes and numerous small lakes in the area, examining them for levels of pollution," Perez said. "If the problems are not corrected, the lakes will lose their recreational value."

Perez said his company will primarily be studying two lakes, one surrounded by development and the other more isolated from development, to determine the degree of pollution, how they are being polluted and how the pollution can be treated. The cost of the 18-month study will total about $77,000 for environmental engineering fees, funded primarily through federal, state and local grants, he said.

According to Perez, his company is considering several options to correct the problem once the severity of the pollution situation is determined.

"An extreme corrective method would be draining the lakes," he said. "This would not be a permanent thing, but we would drain the lakes in the dry season and let them stay that way until the rains and natural water fill them again."

Perez said alternative methods of purifying the lakes include reconstructing drainage systems in parking lots to retain and redirect run off water, and creating parks to serve as rainwater detention areas during storms.

"The East Central Florida Regional Planning Council is committed to making sure the public understands what is being done," Perez said. "We are studying the problem now. In about a year and a half we will have completed the study, and will then take action to correct the situation. Throughout the study and the corrective measures, we want to make sure the residents know what is happening and why we have to take these steps to bring the area water up to a quality level."

Overpass, Widening May Be Delayed

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Florida Secretary of Transportation Jake Varn is recommending that construction of the State Road 46 railroad overpass in Sanford and the widening and resurfacing of State Road 436 from Douglas Road to Boston Avenue in Altamonte Springs be delayed for a year.

But, he said today, he might change his mind about one or the other of Seminole County's projects if he can be convinced that Orange County's Silver Star Road extension should be delayed instead.

"It will cost $5 million to do the Silver Star Road extension. If it were delayed, at least one of the Seminole projects could be done," Varn said in a telephone interview from Tallahassee today.

The estimated cost of the SR 46 railroad overpass in Sanford is about $4 million and the estimated cost for the SR 436 work is about $4.6 million, Varn said. The state Department of Transportation has begun work on the SR 46 improvement by buying additional right-of-way and moving buildings from the new right-of-way.

Varn said that under his current recommendation there are three problems with the road program for the state in the 1981-82 fiscal year, including federal funding cutbacks, restraints placed by Congress and the "department's and Legislature's optimistic

Over The Top: United Way Celebrates

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

A relieved campaign chairman Richard Fess broke out the champagne for a victory toast Thursday night as a last-minute report by the Pilot Division put the United Way of Seminole County over the top in its 1981 fund-raising drive.

Cautiously optimistic, United Way volunteers gathered for the victory dinner at Robinson's Garden Room restaurant in Altamonte Springs and heard the announcement that the grand total of gifts and pledges had reached $314,126.

That was $9,126 over its all-time-high goal of $305,000.

It was a double blessing for the 15 agencies who shared in the $30,000 excess from last year's campaign on a pro-rata basis. A total of $250,500 was dispensed to the agencies over the year.

Bonus checks were given out as follows: American Red Cross, $6,945; Girl Scouts, $2,625; Boy Scouts, $3,543; The Grove Counseling Center, $700; Salvation Army, $5,846; Catholic Social Services, $450; Children's Home Society, $2,427; Community Coordinated Child Care, $1,050; Federation of Senior Citizens, $100; Retired Senior Volunteer Program, $625; Good Samaritan Home, $1,639; YMCA, $1,971; Visiting Nurses Association,

$1,573; We Care, $396; and USO, $15.

The three new agencies of United Way of Seminole did not share in this year's surplus. They include Hospice of Central Florida, Consumer Credit Counseling Service, and Omega Workshop.

The contributing factor in the resounding campaign victory Thursday night was the fact that the Pilot Division, made up of the county's major employers, not only achieved its $158,500 goal but exceeded it, with a total of $174,820 from the firms and their employees.

Bruce Cox reported that the 2,100 employees of Stromberg-Carlson Corp. in Lake Mary had donated or pledged a total of $50,432.

Also indicative of the enthusiasm for United Way by Pilot employees is the fact that NCR of Lake Mary, with 150 fewer employees than last year, made 101 percent of its goal, exceeding last year's goal by $3,000. Their total this year was $27,453. Sanford Southern Bell employees and members of the Communications Workers of America local, although the company has fewer employees this year, gave 29 percent more than last year for a total of $13,250.

United Tel Florida Group gave a total of $21,955, with its subsidiary, Winter Park Telephone Co., giving an additional $5,000 corporate gift, and the employees $4,259.

The Financial Division reported a grand total of $30,765, or 94 percent of its goal.

The Professional Division reported a total of $14,150. David Chace reported a 10 percent increase in giving by employees in the cities for a total of $7,245. Also under the Public Employees Division, Seminole County workers pledged $2,260; state employees, $814; federal, $3,000.

County School Superintendent Robert Hughes, speaking for one Education Division, reported a total of $11,200 from county schools and Seminole Community College.

The Black Division, headed by Margaret Jones, exceeded its goal for a total of $2,555.

There was a total of $9,328 in special gifts from individuals in the county, including one mailed from South Bend, Ind.

Doris Dietrich, chairman of the Agency and Feature Divisions, reported her division had a total of $4,779, exceeding the $3,000 goal.

The Commercial Division reported a total of $54,285. Some of the new money reported Thursday night included $1,023 from Zayre employees; $2,178 from Clark Chrysler-Plymouth and employees; $1,300 from K mart, Sanford; and $1,775 from Burdines employees.

Countdown Starts Saturday For Space Shuttle Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The countdown is set to start early Saturday for the second orbital test flight of the space shuttle Columbia — a new "first" for the nation's space program.
Never before has a manned spaceship returned to orbit.
Veteran rocket plane pilot Joe H. Engle and space newcomer Richard H. Truly are scheduled to take off in the reusable orbital freighter at 7:30 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Cabinet Dept. For Roads?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Declaring that three secretaries in three years is bad for the Department of Transportation, some legislators are ready to try for an elected Cabinet-rank official to manage the state's $900 million road and bridge building program.
House Transportation Chairman Fred Jones says the transportation constituency has no voice under the present set-up in which the governor has sole control of the huge department.

Sorry, No House Raffles

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The state attorney's office said Thursday a homeowner could not raffle off his house under Florida law even though a part of the proceeds were earmarked for charity.
"If 100 percent of the proceeds of a project do not go to charity, then it can't be allowed," State Attorney Ed Austin said. "We can't knowingly let this happen."

HRS Proposes Staff Cuts

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State government is cutting down on its personnel in an effort to live within shrinking revenues.
The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has proposed a 1,500 cut in its staff to save $20 million and help offset reductions in federal funds.
Senate Appropriations Chairman Jack Gordon of Miami Beach on Thursday announced a plan that will force other state agencies to reduce the number of employees if they want to give pay raises next year.

Water Warning Issued

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham says water scarcity is Florida's greatest concern as it heads into the dry season.
Aggressive action is necessary, he said, to keep the state from turning from "an earthly, somewhat awesome paradise to a dry, desert peninsula." Graham sounded the warning Thursday to a meeting of water managers.

Time Running Out On Casselberry Hopefuls

Time is running out for persons planning to run for office in Casselberry's Dec. 1 election. The deadline for candidate qualifying is 5 p.m. today.
To date, Mayor Owen Sheppard is running unopposed in his race for reelection as mayor.
Council Chairman Tom Embree is also unopposed for reelection to council Seat 5.
However, Councilman John Leighty, who announced earlier his intentions to seek reelection to his post, is the only opposed candidate so far, according to City Clerk Mary Hawthorne.
George Smith, 555 Diane Circle, Casselberry, is running against Leighty for council Seat 4.

NATIONAL REPORT: A storm dumped up to 29 inches of snow in the Sierra Nevada and travel advisories were posted today from Montana to northern California, where more than a foot of snow covered some mountain areas. Snow showers were scattered across Montana, Utah, northern California and Colorado late Thursday and up to 6 more inches of heavy snow was expected in the higher elevations today. Between 1 and 4 inches of snow was predicted in the mountain valleys. Most ski resort operators shied away from announcing an official opening of the ski season, citing warmer temperatures predicted over the weekend. Skies were clear to partly cloudy over most of the rest of the nation, except for thundershowers in southern Florida. Morning temperatures there and along the state's Atlantic Coast remained in the 70s.

Oviedo Man Indicted In Oct. 2 Murder

A 32-year-old Oviedo man has been indicted by the Seminole County grand jury on charges of murder and aggravated battery in the Oct. 2 shooting death of another Oviedo man.

C.L. Townsend Jr., of Geneva Drive was being held without bond in the county jail today in the shooting death of Thomas F. Wilson Jr., 34, of 296 Wilson St.

According to court records, Wilson died of massive bleeding after being shot with a .32-caliber pistol in the right cheek and under the right armpit.

He reportedly had stopped his Volkswagen at Reid Avenue and Taylor Street in Oviedo when a man walked up and the two began arguing, court records claim.

The man, standing on the passenger side of Wilson's car, then drew a pistol and fired twice. Wilson got out of his car and collapsed. The gunman walked away and was arrested a short time later.

The grand jury also returned a "no true bill" against Catherina Finocchiaro in the Sept. 2 shooting death of her husband, Carmello, of Casselberry. While the grand jury refused to indict Mrs. Finocchiaro for murder, she could be charged later with a lesser offense, such as aggravated battery.

In other court action, two persons were sentenced for crimes to which they had earlier pleaded guilty. They are:
— Alfred Altieri, 24, of 2377 Antilles Dr., Winter Park, three counts of forgery, 15 years' probation. Altieri was accused of making $6,486 worth of charges on a stolen credit card between January and February 1980.
— Ronnie L. Walker, 25, of Orlando, grand theft, one year in prison. Walker was charged with stealing hubcaps from cars in the parking lot of the Ellis Bank, 158 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, on Nov. 17.

Hepatitis Virus Linked To Killer Liver Cancer

BOSTON (UPI) — Researchers reported today they have strengthened the link between the virus that causes hepatitis and liver cancer, the number one cancer killer worldwide.

The researchers at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City, with the help of two other institutions in Greece and South Africa, found DNA from the hepatitis B virus had worked itself into the tumor cells of 12 liver cancer patients.

DNA, the building block of genes, carries codes that enable the virus to reproduce itself. The virus causes a disease that can range from liver inflammation to complete failure, accompanied by fever, nausea and other symptoms.

"That strengthens the link between hepatitis B virus and liver cancer," said Dr. David A. Shafritz, author of the report in the New England Journal of Medicine.

"It doesn't prove that the virus itself is oncogenic (cancer-causing). Other types of work will be necessary to prove or demonstrate what way hepatitis B virus can participate in or cause liver cancer."

Liver cancer causes only about three in every 100,000 deaths per year in Western countries, the study said, but in the Mediterranean, Africa below the Sahara, Southeast Asia, China and Japan, it ranges from 25 to 100 cases.

"Worldwide, it is the leading cause of death from cancer," the study said. Lung cancer is the No. 1 one cause of cancer deaths in the United States, according to the American Cancer Society.

Shafritz, a professor of medicine and cellular biology at Einstein, said it is not known how the hepatitis B virus' DNA becomes a part of the liver tissue. Nor does it mean that people who contract hepatitis will develop liver cancer, he said.

However, past studies showed people with liver cancer were five to 10 times more likely to have been victims or carriers of hepatitis B than others.

Previous research also showed hepatitis B carriers — those who had the virus in their blood and could transmit it to others, but were unaffected by it — were 22 times more likely to contract liver cancer.

STEREO TAKEN

A Pioneer AM-FM stereo radio valued at $75 was stolen from Robin Anderson's home at 901 North St., Longwood, sometime between 9:30 and 11:55 a.m. Tuesday, police report. Burglars gained entry to the home via a rear side window, police said.

THEFT ARREST

A 20-year-old Fern Park woman was being held at the Seminole County Jail this morning in lieu of $5,000 bond on a charge of grand theft.
Katherine Ann Hurley, 20, of 220 Graham Rd., was arrested shortly before 8:30 p.m. Thursday when she was caught trying to sell tapes that had been stolen about 6 weeks ago from a car belonging to Laura Rendel of Maitland, deputies said.
Ms. Hurley was arrested after she allegedly tried to sell some tapes and a tape case to a friend of Ms. Rendel's. The approximate value of the tapes and case is $115.

BURGLARY ARREST

John C. Cameron, 18, of 1835 Dale Ave., Winter Park, was being held at the Seminole County Jail this morning in lieu of $5,000 bond on charges of burglary to an automobile.

possession of burglary tools and petty larceny.
According to a Seminole County sheriff's report, Cameron was arrested at 10:11 p.m. Thursday as he was trying to break into a car at McGrew Auto Sales, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park.

WHILE THEY SLEPT

While John and Katherine Herrick, 283 Coachman Court, Sanford, slept, burglars entered their home through the kitchen door and stole a woman's purse containing $160, two uncashed checks and some credit cards, police report.

The burglary occurred between midnight and 5 a.m. Thursday. The emptied purse was later recovered in the garage.

In an unrelated incident, Carol A. Hughes, 58 Kent Court, Carriage Cove, Sanford, left her purse on a kitchen table near a window when she went to bed Thursday evening. The purse wasn't stolen but the problem was her car keys, which were in the purse, were.

When Ms. Hughes awoke, she discovered her car was gone. She said she had left the vehicle locked, according to police. No other items were missing from her purse.

MISSING RECLINER

A Sanford woman reported a recliner and ottoman valued at $700 stolen from her apartment at Apt. 3, 111 Cedar Ave., Sanford. Shirley Ann Lawrence told police Wednesday the apartment has been unoccupied and she could not pinpoint the time of the theft.

AUTO BURGLARY

A $100 bill and two $40 Jensen speakers were stolen from a 1979 Toyota belonging to Kelly C. Simpson, 290 Lakeshore Drive, Lake Mary, when it was parked in front of Record City, Fernwood Blvd., Fern Park sometime between 9 p.m. Thursday and 1 a.m. today.

Search Continues For New Crime Lab Site

Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) officials are still searching for a site for the proposed new $4 million Central Florida Crime Laboratory, now located in Sanford.

In a conference attended by FDLE and Orange County law enforcement representatives at the Orlando Criminal Justice Building on Thursday, the group agreed to search for a site near Interstate 4, noting a site near I-4 would be most convenient for all Central Florida law enforcement units.

Claude Truby, lab director, said the University of Central Florida Research Park is still in the running as a possible site for the new facility. "But a site closer to I-4 is preferred, as it always has been," he said.

Truby said a 10-acre site offered by the city of Lake Mary near I-4 was preferred but is no longer being considered because the Lake Mary City Council and industrialist Jeno Paulucci are involved in a lawsuit over the Rinehart Road property.

Truby said that among those at the Thursday meeting were FDLE Commissioner Jim York; Gerald Bailey, division director of staff services for FDLE; representatives of the Orlando and Winter Park police departments and the Orange County Sheriff's Department, and himself.

"It was an awareness meeting," Truby said. Noting that the Orange County law enforcement units are the greatest users of the lab, he said they were alerted to start looking for city- or county-owned property which could be donated or offered at a good price.

A site must be acquired and planning and architectural work completed before the Florida Legislature convenes Jan. 18 and will consider the $4 million in funding requests for the 31,000-square-foot one story building.

Truby said a minimum of 2.5 to three acres is needed for the new building and parking facilities. The crime laboratory is currently operating in a building at Sanford Airport.

SHA Auction Saturday

The auction of office items and building materials left over from the Sanford Housing Authority's (SHA) federally-funded Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program will begin at Sanford City Hall at 10 a.m. Saturday and move at noon to Building 332 at the Sanford Airport.

Among the items to be auctioned at the former SHA office in City Hall are desks, calculators and other office furniture. The items to be auctioned at the airport include lumber, other building materials, tools, ladders, electrical wiring, fixtures and miscellaneous items.

Proceeds from the auction, being conducted by Sanford auctioneer Lewis Dellarco, will be disbursed following completion of audits on the federal program, Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said.

Air Force Jet Crashes; 8-Member Crew Killed

LA JUNTA, Colo. (UPI) — An Air Force B52D bomber from March Air Force Base near Riverside, Calif., crashed on the eastern Colorado prairie about 9 a.m. EST today, the Air Force said.

The Air Force in Washington said apparently the entire crew of eight was killed in the crash.

The eight-engine aircraft, the oldest model B-52 that was slated for retirement beginning next year, was carrying no weapons, an Air Force spokesman said.

Brink's Suspect Returned

NEW YORK (UPI) — A woman member of a black radical group was returned to New York under heavy guard late Thursday to face charges in the $1.6 million Brink's robbery. A grand jury returned an indictment — the first in the case — against another woman radical.

Cynthia Boston, a member of the Republic of New Africa, one of four radical groups tied to the Oct. 20 heist in Rockland County, arrived at the Metropolitan Correctional Center at 11:35 p.m., escorted by four carloads of marshals.

Oil Power For President?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved a bill that would give the president the power to set standby oil-price controls and allocation of supplies in times of shortage, but refused to allow him to ration gasoline.

The Senate also voted Thursday to make the standby plans subject to congressional veto.

The bill, which was approved 85-7, goes to the House, where its sponsors acknowledge it faces strong opposition.

WORLD IN BRIEF

OPEC Price Unity May Actually Be Beneficial

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Industry experts say OPEC's new unified price will boost the cost of gasoline and heating oil slightly, but may benefit Western consumers in the long run.

The 13 oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed Thursday to set a standard base price for the rest of 1981 and 1982 at $34 per barrel of oil.

Plane Hostages Threatened

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — Right-wing Nicaraguan plane hijackers threatened to kill their hostages, reportedly including Americans, unless Costa Rican authorities today free eight jailed Nicaraguans.

"The situation is becoming desperate," the pilot of the twin-engine Costa Rican airliner radioed the control tower Thursday evening. "The children are crying and the mothers are getting nervous. We need food and water."

Warsaw, Solidarity Collide

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Polish Communist Party vowed to press for a ban on strikes at today's session of parliament, but Solidarity said it would never allow the government to remove its hard-won right to strike.

However, the union also said on the eve of today's debate it wanted to discipline its own union members who have been staging wildcat walkouts in defiance of the government and Solidarity.

projection of the amount of funds we would be getting. There are $83 million worth of projects in the current fiscal year we are not going to be able to deliver. We have to look at priorities."

Varn said that for these reasons he suggested some projects be delayed a year, putting the Seminole projects into the 1982-83 fiscal year. Another $123 million in projects are to be delayed in 1982-1983.

"We came up with a list of deferred projects and went to the Legislature to tell them our recommendations and to give them an opportunity of knowing what we plan to do. This gave legislators the ability to discuss the priorities with me," he said.

If the priorities stay as proposed, with delaying the two Seminole County projects, Varn said, both would be done in the 1982-83 fiscal year "unless something else unforeseen comes down the pike."

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte

Springs, said today no Orange County programs were delayed at all in Varn's recommendation.

He added that Varn told him he would look again at the Orange County program to see if it could be eliminated for the SR 436 improvement.

Development Threatens Sleepy Suwannee River

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The prospect of the treelined, sleepy banks of the Suwannee River being bulldozed for convenience stores and trailer parks has frightened environmentalists into action.

The Suwannee, immortalized in song by Stephen Foster, flows some 230 miles from the Okfenokee Swamp across north Florida into the Gulf of Mexico, making for some of the state's most pristine settings.

Although much of the river area is undeveloped, the spectre of things to come has sparked a "Save the Suwannee" campaign.

A citizen's committee established by Gov. Bob Graham has recommended that development along Suwannee be restricted.

Construction would not be outlawed, but the rules would limit the density of subdivisions, prohibit septic tanks in flood-prone areas and restrict the amount of natural vegetation along the river that can be destroyed.

The proposals were made by the Suwannee River Resource Planning and Management Committee and will be considered at a public hearing in Lake City Nov. 8, then finalized by the citizen's committee. It will be up to each city and county that the meandering, shaded Suwannee cuts through to decide whether to adopt them.

But Lake City Sen. Pete Skinner says the Legislature could impose the rules itself for all 11 counties along the Suwannee — from Hamilton and Columbia on the Georgia line to Dixie and Levy on the Gulf of Mexico.

Environmentalists say the waterway isn't in too bad a shape now, but they're worried about the future.

North and north-central Florida will be the fastest growing sections of the state in the next few years and the Suwannee is a vulnerable target.

"Next to our people over here, the Suwannee is the greatest resource we have," Jerry Scarborough, Suwannee County Court clerk and chairman of the management committee, told the Tallahassee Democrat recently.

"We can't kid ourselves. The river is being threatened every day through growth," he said.

"It's a very desirable area for people to live because of the vegetation, the springs and the pristine, historic river," says Ken Woodburn, Graham's chief environmental advisor. "It's obviously an area people are going to move to in droves if you go by the number of lots that have been platted."

The North Florida Regional Planning Council reports that 10,200 lots have been platted along the Suwannee. Most have not been developed, but roads are being graded and widespread development is likely soon.

"These rules are very farsighted because development is obviously headed the river's way," Woodburn said.

HIGHWAY
DEDICATED

The William A. Kratzert Highway became a reality for Kratzert's widow, Minnie, daughter Rose Weekley, Senator John Vogt and daughter Evie Park (left to right) at Thursday's unveiling of a memorial marker along State Road 46, Sanford. Kratzert worked for the state road department for 32 years, retiring from the department as an assistant highway engineer in 1953.

Water Use Restrictions To Continue

Unless Seminole County receives a good deal of rain this winter, restrictions on the use of water imposed by the St. Johns River Water Management District are likely to continue at least until the spring of 1982.

Douglas Munch, director of the district's resources evaluation division, today said Seminole and other counties in the district are "out of the rainy season and going into the winter months when rainfall is usually less" and levels of both surface and underground water remain low.

On May 13, the St. Johns River Water Management District declared a water shortage and asked all users to voluntarily cut daily water use by 15 percent.

On July 8, the district set a mandatory 15 percent conservation level.

To comply with the district's conservation program, area cities used various methods including restricting lawn sprinkling and car washing to certain days or hours, and reducing the pressure in water pipes.

Munch said a September study indicates that the level of area lakes and rivers and the Florida Aquifer are at the same level they were in May.

"Unless we have a wet winter," water conservation restrictions may be continued on a month to month basis at least until spring, Munch said today.

The restrictions on water use were set originally because of the deficit in rainfall, continual lowering of ground water and the potential for salt water intrusion into the aquifer — a massive underground reservoir — Munch said.

Opulent Retirement

Top-level federal employees are retiring in droves, the beneficiaries of an illogical compensation system that penalizes skillful work while rewarding retirement with oversized pensions which will cost taxpayers $45 billion a year by the end of the century.

The problem is already too pressing to be ignored. As recently as 1977, only 508 senior federal employees, 19.3 percent of those who were eligible to retire, elected to do so. By last year, however, the numbers had increased to 3,137, or 51.8 percent of those eligible. The pension system which encourages this exodus is depriving the government of its most experienced and skilled senior employees, and at the same time adding to a massive deficit in the federal retirement fund.

The obligation to retired workers, as well as to those eligible but still on the federal payroll, has reached $450 billion, up $36 billion in the last year, and equal to two-thirds of the entire 1981 federal budget. Most troubling is the fact that only $83.6 billion has been set aside to pay those pension bills, and most of the rest will have to come out of current federal tax revenue.

The basic problem is that Uncle Sam has given his employees a lavish pension plan that few private industries could afford. Federal employees contribute to their retirement system at about the same rate as privately employed persons pay into the Social Security System. But federal workers become eligible to retire at full pension at age 55, after 30 years service, and they can receive up to 80 percent of their highest salary.

Top-level bureaucrats who earn $50,112 a year can thus look forward to retirement on $40,000 a year, augmented by guaranteed cost of living increases. So openhanded has Congress been, that some 100,000 federal pensioners are now receiving more in retirement than they did when they were working. When Former House Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts died last year, he was getting a pension of $94,000 a year, more than 50 percent higher than the $62,500 paid active congressmen.

Such opulence alone is enough to lure thousands of senior federal employees into early retirement, but they are further encouraged to leave by the freeze on top-level federal salaries. Unable to look forward to substantial pay raises after they reach the top rung on the federal ladder, senior employees retire instead, creating a huge brain drain in the top levels of government departments.

The problem could be resolved by bringing federal pay and pensions into line with those in the private sector. This would require raising the pay for the highest level bureaucrats to match that received by managers in industry. But, by the same token, pension benefits would have to be scaled down to industry levels. There is no reason federal employees should be able to retire at age 55, for instance, instead of 62 or 65, as required by Social Security and most private pension plans.

It is easier, of course, to talk about reducing federal pensions than it is to stir Congress to action. In the first place, members of Congress are beneficiaries of this bonanza and are unlikely to forego their fat pensions unless they are prodded into it by alarmed taxpayers.

The trouble is, the taxpayers aren't sufficiently alarmed, even though mounting federal pension obligations are creating the same multi-billion-dollar deficit faced by the Social Security system. Carrying a huge federal workforce is bad enough. Giving a free ride to the affluent retired as well is too much.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Like my Halloween costume?"

By TENI YARBOROUGH

People keep talking about the rising cost of gold, but if you've visited your local dentist lately, you know the cost of silver is also skyrocketing.

I love dentists. I go to my dentist every two and a half years whether I need to or not. And, although I did need to go — Look Mom, only one cavity. Really.

My dentist is Dr. Greg Reddish. Actually, he's a new dentist on the block taking over the practice of my former dentist but I didn't know that since I've been "away" for a few years. Anyway, I did promise him I'd be back a little more often from now on.

I went into the office and believe it or not, they called for me right away. So far so good. (Try to pull that one off at a doctor's office).

The dental hygienist put me in "the chair" and started taking pictures of my teeth. It did cause a little confusion when they couldn't find my right eye-tooth on the x-ray but I settled that when I told them I don't have a right eye-tooth. Oh.

Well, the hygienist finished her photography and before she could put paste on her brush, the dentist, himself, was in to see me. Talk about red carpet treatment.

He looked over the x-rays, poked around in my mouth and said let's take care of that one, pointing with a metal toothpick to my back, bottom right tooth. (I don't know its name).

I was escorted to a new room for the filling and once the nitrous-oxide mask and stereo headset were intact — fill away, Doc.

Reddish has posters tacked all over the walls and ceilings of his work rooms and when you are experiencing the floating sensation of the gas, the phrases on the posters take on a whole, new meaning. They are so deep and inspiring. All I know, though, is it took my mind off what Reddish was doing.

I say give me the gas anytime. I'd rather have it than have my jaw and half my face numb from novocaine, anytime.

But, wait, where are we going? What do you mean it's all over. I didn't feel a thing and besides, I was listening to one of my favorite songs.

But, it's true. Reddish was through filling my mouth with silver while I was filling my head with music.

After a quick clean-up job by the hygienist, I paid my check, tipped the waiter and it's all over again until May.

I really don't know why I hate going to dentists so much. Maybe I carry subconscious scars of those numerous visits for braces check-ups years ago. Maybe.

But, I'd rather go ahead and do a little preventive care now, than have to go through major treatment later for neglected teeth. And, besides, with the royal treatment I got this time, why should I mind.

Remember, the tooth you save, may be your own.

Vicki Shook, Casselberry's Animal Control Officer, is having some work done around the city animal shelter and needs a few more supplies. If anyone has sheets of plywood or some 10-foot, two-by-four boards they don't need, Mrs. Shook said she will be more than happy to take the building materials off their hands.

Anyone wishing to donate the building supplies should contact Mr. Shook at the city shelter for further information. Mrs. Shook can be reached by asking for her through the main city switchboard at 831-3551.

BUSINESS WORLD

Housing Crisis Mounting

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the most serious consequences of prolonged inflation could be its effect on housing, making it almost impossible for some millions of Americans to find a place of their own, says Gregory Junkin.

Executive vice-president of Balcor Co., of Chicago, which owns 15,000 apartment units in 20 states, Junkin says the current housing crisis in the United States is far worse than most people realize.

"Attention has been focused on the high prices and shortage of mortgage money for singlefamily houses" he said, "but the shortage of rental units is so bad that rents likely will go up 100 percent in the next five years — if you can find any place to rent. Few people can stand that."

New building of rental housing is at the lowest level since World War II. Conversion to co-ops and condominiums is taking away more than 150,000 apartment units a year and urban decay a lot more, he said.

Junkin admits he's scared. He sees no hope of an early cure for inflation, high interest rates and other conditions that have caused the housing crisis. He said it is potentially the most dangerous of all inflation-induced hardships for people and the one most likely to explode in violence.

He said people may not realize it yet but the nation is on the verge of a "doubling up" crisis in which most families will have to take married children and their youngsters or older parents into their homes.

"I think the crisis will be a lot worse than that of the 1930s depression," Junkin said, "because people won't submit to it as tamely as they did then."

The crisis is being aggravated, he said, by several factors.

"The very rich don't care how high the price of purchased shelter goes because they think the prices will keep on going up and their investments will be safe. All they're interested in is the amenities.

"Shelter expectations of today's young people are so much greater than were those of their parents when they were young. The rate of family formation is faster now. The influx of rich foreigners and of illegal aliens also helps aggravate the housing shortage," he added.

But the big problem is that inflation, high interest rates and various restrictive laws destroy the incentive of developers to build, he concluded.

Although Junkin offered no specific proposals for dealing with the crisis, President Leon T. Kendall of Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corp. of Milwaukee did. In testimony before a congressional committee, Kendall took almost as somber a view of the crisis as Junkin, saying the shortfall of mortgage money could reach $400 billion for a single year by 1989. He also commented on the much higher rate of family formation today. Kendall urged Congress:

To remove the SEC registration cost impediments applying to issues of conventional mortgage-backed securities. He said these are bought mainly by institutions who do not need consumer protection.

VIEWPOINT

The Real Welfare 'Mess'

Surely you remember the "welfare queen" who used assorted aliases to collect a small fortune in public-assistance payments. Ronald Reagan referred to her frequently during his presidential campaign to illustrate what was wrong with the nation's welfare programs.

But did you hear about the pregnant woman who visited a Minnesota welfare office after having been beaten by her husband? The woman — who had no food and no place to sleep — was told by a receptionist that nobody could see her until the following Monday.

How about the Milwaukee mother who had to go without benefits for a month because the welfare department refused to re-issue the check that she had never received? It turned out that the check had been sitting in the department's own business office all that time.

Or what about the recent arrival to the Twin Cities who was denied benefits because she had no permanent address? The woman and her three children were living in her car, and nobody at the welfare office bothered to tell her that she could use a friend's address as her own.

These are a few cases from a recent investigation into what its authors term "the humiliating obstacle course that must be completed by any family desiring to obtain Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits." The study was headed by Alvin Schorr, professor of family and child welfare at Case Western Reserve University, under a contract from the now defunct Community Services Administration.

It is perhaps bad enough that applicants must endure the careless, insensitive, even rude treatment from welfare workers that was documented by the study. But it is far worse that too many of them are being denied benefits for which they are eligible or forced to wait unnecessarily long periods before receiving their first check.

The researchers found that applying for welfare was often a discouraging and time-consuming endeavor. Applicants may have to wait for hours at the welfare office just to obtain forms and then wait additional hours for an interview. This process is especially hard on the infirm, the undereducated and those who speak little English.

An especially dehumanizing procedure was described by a representative of an Ohio social agency: "Applicants are instructed to line up outside the welfare building at 6:45 a.m. When the doors are unlocked, the most able run upstairs and get in first. The less able have to wait... Only the first 15 are given applications that day; the rest have to come back."

The researchers found that benefits were often awarded or denied in a random, almost arbitrary fashion without basis in the law. For example, several Cleveland mothers were improperly denied aid because they were under 18; the welfare office didn't even have a copy of the manual that spells out such rules as the eligibility of minors.

Another obstacle is the too rigid interpretation of the rules — what Schorr calls "following the letter of the law instead of the intent." An extreme case was the one-legged woman who was required to produce a doctor's statement attesting to her obvious disability.

The underlying problem, says Schorr, is that welfare workers are "overburdened and poorly trained." They may resort to delay or guesswork because they do not know and cannot find out the proper action to take.

Staff turnovers of 50 percent a year are not unusual in many welfare departments, and budget cuts have slowed the hiring of replacements. Those who are left, says Schorr, have become exhausted and frustrated. "We are approaching management breakdown," he warns.

And things are getting worse. New amendments to the AFDC law — most of them proposed by the administration — impose additional burdens on the welfare system. Imagine the difficulties of trying to enforce the new rule that recipients' assets not exceed $1,000 excluding home and car.

These changes coupled with the federal budget cuts are likely to result in more forms to fill out, more confused recipients crowding welfare offices, more calls lighting up welfare switchboards.

VIEWPOINT

U.S. Jews Watching, Waiting

In synagogues across America during the recent High Holidays, memorial prayers were offered for slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. That would have been an unthinkable act only four and a half years ago.

Unthinkable then, but not surprising now. American Jews were among those who applauded loudest at Sadat's transformation of Egypt from Israel's bitter enemy to her ally. Now, in the wake of Sadat's death, American Jewish leaders say they are "cautiously optimistic" about the future relationship between Egypt and Israel.

Rabbi William Berkowitz, president of the Jewish National Fund, the agency in charge of land reclamation and reforestation in Israel, is "optimistic but realistic." The most important thing, says Berkowitz, is to "emphasize and re-emphasize" that this is a peace between Egypt and Israel, not between Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

"If the process was truly between two men," then, indeed, it was a fragile arrangement," he says. "To succeed, the thrust has to be made that this was the peace of two nations."

Howard Squadron, president of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, which represents more than 20 Jewish groups, also sees reason to be optimistic — but only if nations act logically: "If any semblance of logic prevails, it's clear that continuing the peace process is in the interest of Egypt, Israel and the United States."

Squadron notes that the shock of Sadat's death was basically a Western shock — felt most deeply here and in Western Europe and Israel. The very qualities the West praised Sadat for — his courage, his willingness to take risks, his pursuit of peace — caused the Arab world to either celebrate his death or be indifferent, says Squadron.

When this "shocking imbalance" in attitude is realized and the initial trauma wears off, Squadron says, Israelis will be bound to wonder whether there will be real hope in the struggle for peace and whether new Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak or anyone else in the Arab world can control forces sufficiently to move to a permanent and lasting settlement.

And what about the Israeli prime minister? Both Squadron and Berkowitz say they believe that Begin will not become more rigid now that Sadat is gone but rather will become more concerned, cautious and committed to the peace process.

Another potentially troubling element is the Sinai. The valuable strip of land that Israel is due to return to Egypt in April is considered the most important test yet of the Camp David peace process.

Indeed, rumblings that all bets are off are already being heard in Israel. Professor Yuval Ne'eman, leader of the Tehiya Party, which broke away from Begin's Herut, declared that the assassination proved that the "Middle East is not ripe for peace" and called on the government to stop the evacuation of the Sinai.

Berkowitz maintains that such opposition is only undermining the peace process and giving strength to its enemies. But he says that he understands the anxieties of the Sinai settlers.

Firms Dump Inedible Food On Poor

WASHINGTON — Many corporations are dumping their leftovers, often unusable and inedible, upon the deprived peoples of the world. It may be a bad deal for the hungry and homeless, but it's a good deal for the corporations.

Here's the way it works: Manufacturers of such products as baby food, drugs and vitamins invariably end up with stockpiles of unsold materials. When the expiration dates are about to render the goods useless, the companies donate them to registered, tax-exempt charities. These organizations then distribute the products to the needy around the world.

It sounds like an ideal situation. The corporations clear their warehouses of overstocked items and get tax writeoffs in the bargain; the deprived get much-needed food and drugs.

But there is a catch: By the time the donated goods get into the hands of the needy, the expiration dates have long since passed and many of the products are spoiled and rotting.

Last August, for example, some supplies donated by U.S. corporations arrived at a refugee camp in El Salvador. Among them were 607 cases (14,568 jars) of Beechnut pumpkin-pie pudding baby food that was completely spoiled; 184 cases (4,794 cans) of Abbott's Ensure Baby Food milk with "pull-dates" of November 1980; Unicap vitamins and iron tablets, manufactured by Upjohn Co., most of which had expiration dates in the summer of 1979.

One volunteer in the El Salvador camp told my associates Donald Goldberg and Ron McRae that the Beechnut baby food was "rancid and black." The foul food was discarded and the jars were used as toys by the refugee children.

Such "dumping" of about-to-be-outdated products is completely legal. If the contributions do not reach the camps before their expiration dates, the corporations argue, it is not their problem; it's the fault of the receiving organizations.

Said a spokesman for Upjohn: "Because of the problem of shipping, we do our major giving through just a handful of charities. We're very happy in general."

Officials of the charitable organizations — such as Food For the Hungry, World Vision, and Catholic Relief Services — candidly admit they often accept gifts with full knowledge they will spoil before delivery. The charities can't afford to turn down any gifts from corporations, they say, because they cannot risk offending the donors, who oc-asionally offer useful items.

Obviously, there is a crying need for a regulation that would force corporations to ensure that their perishable, tax-deductible donations won't spoil in transit. This was partially, though temporarily, achieved in 1980 when President Carter issued an executive order prohibiting the export of goods which are banned in the United States. However, President Reagan subsequently rescinded the order.

Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., chairman of the House Inter-American Affairs Subcommittee, has proposed a bill that would forbid the export of goods which cannot be sold legally in the United States. Of course, this would not prohibit corporations from donating products whose expiration dates are approaching. Even so, the Barnes bill stands slim chance of being enacted by Congress.

Gardening

It's Time To Add To Landscape

Probably your major expense, whether you are beginning a landscape or adding to an existing one, will be in purchasing trees and shrubs.

Therefore, it is important that you know how to take care of new shrubbery from the day you bring it home from the nursery.

First and foremost, this means correct planting methods. In fact, the way you plant new trees and shrubs has a lot to do with the way they'll look for many years to come.

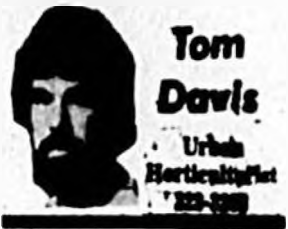

A common question about planting trees and shrubs is "when is the best time to plant?"

Generally speaking, late fall and winter are the recommended times for adding new plant material to the landscape. So, if you've been thinking about picking up some new shrubs for your landscape, now's the time to do it.

However, there are a few exceptions to this rule. Evergreens, for example, are best planted in August or early September, and palms should be planted in the summer, during the rainy season.

Planting times and procedures can also vary depending on how the plant is grown and packaged at the nursery. Plants are usually prepared for shipping in one of four ways: they may be bare-root, which is when the roots are bare of all soil. They may be balled and burlapped, where most of the root and soil mass is dug intact and wrapped in burlap. Or the plant may come as a packaged bare-root, in which case, all the soil is removed from the roots, and the roots then are wrapped in sawdust, bark, or peat moss. The fourth variation is the container-grown plant, where the root system is not disturbed until planting time.

A plant may be prepared in any of these four ways. The exact method of packaging will depend on the characteristics of each particular plant, as well as production and shipping considerations. For the most part, bare-root, packaged bare-root, and balled and burlapped plants will have a higher survival rate if they are planted in late fall or winter.

Tom Davis
Urban Horticulturist

The next area to consider is preparation of the planting site. This is one area that is very important in the success or failure of your planting efforts. Always prepare the site well in advance so that it will be ready for the new plant as soon as possible.

If you procrastinate, even a few days, that healthy plant you bought at the garden center could be in poor shape before it even reaches its new home in your landscape.

Therefore, try to always take a little extra time in preparation. This will give your plant a much better chance of getting off to a good start in your landscape.

One important step in preparation is digging the hole. Make sure you dig the hole deep enough. It should be about 6 inches deeper and wider on all sides than the root ball of the plant. Keep the sides of the hole going straight up and down, rather than sloped. At the bottom, loosen several inches of soil to allow for root development. Always make sure to plant your shrub or tree at the same level it was previously growing.

Before you can plant, you'll probably need to add some amendments to the soil such as compost, peat or pine bark to help the soil hold water and nutrients better.

One final note: a new bare-root tree or shrub may need pruning after planting. This is because, when part of the root system is lost, the plant can't take up water as well. By pruning out some of the top part of the plant, you reduce its need for water. Generally, remove about one-third of the top of the plant. Prune so that you shorten the plant about the same amount all over. Smaller container-grown or balled and burlapped plants usually do not need pruning.

Bazaar-Luncheon

Just Look At All The Goodies

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES EDITOR

The annual Fall Bazaar sponsored by the First United Methodist Church Women, will be an event of Friday and Saturday, Nov. 6 and 7, according to Dottie Sullivan.

The bazaar and luncheon will be held in the church fellowship hall, Park Avenue and Fifth Street, Sanford. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, and 8 a.m. to noon, on Saturday.

Mrs. Sullivan says a buffet luncheon will be served on Friday between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The food will include home smoked ham and turkey, unlimited salad bar and beverage for $3.50. Tickets are available in advance through church circle members or at the door.

The public is welcome. Proceeds will be directed toward liquidating a debt incurred to complete the church parlor, a project of the United Methodist Church Women.

Lou Baker, president of the Women's Society, has named Wilma Racey as the overall bazaar chairman. Mrs. Racey says some of the women have been working for nearly a year to complete the vast array of items for the bazaar.

Among the bazaar features are: a Gift Shoppe, Christmas Booth, Trash and Treasures and Baked Goods.

Readers Out Of Joint Over Pot

DEAR READERS: My mailman isn't speaking to me (again). "Concerned Mom" wrote to say that her 12-year-old son was grounded by his father for having taken it upon himself to call the police and report the next-door neighbors for growing marijuana in their garden. The neighbors, according to "Concerned Mom," were good friends who neither sold nor used marijuana — they were just growing it for "the fun and novelty" of it.

The boy had been lectured at school about the evil of drugs and had been instructed to report users and growers to the police.

The mother said she thought her son's actions were commendable and he should not have been grounded. I said I didn't think his actions were all that commendable, and I wondered why he blew the whistle on friendly neighbors without discussing it with his parents first.

(As it turned out, the police didn't press charges because all they found were two dying marijuana plants, which would indicate the neighbors were not trafficking in marijuana.)

Some typical responses from my mailbox:

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I, who work with juvenile delinquents in the Baltimore City Juvenile Court, were infuriated with your response to "Concerned Mom."

Abby, there is nothing cute or novel about growing marijuana. A little marijuana is like being a little pregnant — probably didn't discuss it with his parents first because he knew they would tell him to mind his own business. What makes you think "good people" with "harmless" intentions are above the law? Who is to say what might have happened if the good neighbors had been successful in growing these plants? They might have been tempted to grow more for a little extra income. (We all have our weaknesses.)

I think that boy made the right and mature decision. His only mistake was revealing the fact that he was the informer.

DENISE K. BIRKEL, BARGOR, MAINE

DEAR ABBY: For a father to punish his 12-year-old son for reporting a crime to the police is beyond belief. The boy deserved a medal! Dad's judgment must have been warped by his embarrassment at having his progeny pull the plug on his friends.

You blew it, kid. Tell Dad to get off Junior's back. Too many people feel they have no responsibility to assist in the enforcement of the law for fear of being called a "fink."

FREDR. STAPLES, JUDGE, SUPERIOR COURT, PASCO, WASH.

So far, the score in Readers, 4-0; Abby, 1.

And here is the lone letter in support of my side:

DEAR ABBY: I commend you for your very perceptive answer to "Concerned Mom." I'm sure you'll catch a lot of flak from your readers, but

Dear Abby

It has a way of blossoming into a big responsibility for someone.

I wish you could see the thousands of children we see who were a little high when they punched out that little lady for her little Social Security check, or stole a little car and went on a little chase when they were a little high on a little marijuana.

The is no such thing as a little illegal. This country is overburdened with people who cheat a little on their taxes, steal a little from welfare or shoplift a few little things — often for the fun and novelty of it.

You may use our names if you wish.

HELEN AND RICHARD BARTHOLOME

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "Concerned Mom" really stunk! I'm 13 and they are always telling us in school that marijuana is bad and we should report anything we find out about it. I don't think that kid deserved to be grounded, even if the neighbors were good friends. Breaking the law is breaking the law, no matter who does it.

ON HIS SIDE IN CHARLES CITY, IOWA

DEAR ABBY: I just can't believe your answer. The boy

Correction

Instructions were incomplete for preparing Peanut Brittle in Midge Mycoff's Microwave Magic column in the Herald Wednesday.

The correct recipe is as follows:

PEANUT BRITTLE—MICROWAVE

1 cup raw peanuts
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon butter
1 teaspoon baking soda
Dash salt

Mix peanuts, sugar, salt, and syrup together. Cook at (high) 7 to 8 minutes. Add butter and vanilla. Stir. Microwave 23 minutes longer. Mixture should be darkened. Add baking soda and stir quickly. Pour out on lightly greased cookie sheet. Let cool and break into pieces.

Shatto Rambles For 142 Yards

Rams Snag Barracudas

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor
It's not quite Halloween, but when the Lake Mary Rams looked into their roughing-the-kicker candy basket, they found a very sweet penalty.
Translated: sometimes a penalty against your team can be beneficial. Lake Mary was clinging to a 21-14 lead Thursday night when visiting New Smyrna Beach pulled a Halloween trick flea-flicker from the Ram 31 yard line. Halfback John Bivins rambled 29 yards to the Ram one.
Four plays later running back Willie Harrell bounced over on fourth down to pull NSB within, 21-20 with just 2:36 to play in the junior varsity contest. NSB elected to go for the tie and when Barry McCullen's kick sailed wide left—the Rams thought they had secured victory number four.
An over-exuberant Ram, however, was whistled for roughing the kicker and the penalty moved the ball to the one and one-half yard line. The Barracudas decided to go for two and the victory, but a turned-on defensive line smothered halfback Wally Harrell to hold on to the 21-20 victory before 1,900 happy partisans.
"When we needed the strong defense we got it," said Roger Beathard savoring his fourth victory and in seven outings. Thursday, the Rams conclude their season by baptism by hosting Lyman.
Thursday's second-half offensive explosion was quite a contrast to a 0-0 first half, during which the Rams drove to the NSB five, but quarterback Kyle Frakes threw an interception on first down to kill the threat.
On two other occasions, 15-yard penalties quelled the advance. Halfback Greg Shatto picked up 63 yards on seven carries before intermission and it was Shatto's determined rushing which opened up the attack after the popcorn and Pepsi break.
Brent Blakely returned the kickoff 14 yards to the Ram 47. Shatto ran for 3, 12 and 9 yards with the last two coming on precision pitches from Frakes.
Frakes then hit Blakely with a quick pop over the middle for a first down at the NSB 21. Versatile Jeff Hopkins bolted over left guard Scott Kutz for another first down at the 10.
Two plays later Frakes knifed left, released the ball just in time to Shatto, who sped around the end for the touchdown. Hopkins drilled the extra point for a 7-0 edge with 8:27 left in the third stanza.

Lake Mary
It lasted a scant 49 seconds.
Bivins, the third such workhorse to visit the Rams this year, took a pitch and scorched past several bewildered Rams 92 yards for the tying TD. Harrell booted the PAT for a 7-7 deadlock.
"We've got some new people in the secondary," explained Beathard. "It's going to take them some time to adjust."
Harrell boomed the kickoff out of bounds setting up LM at the 40. The two teams couldn't muster a drive and after an exchange of punts, Brian Joseph set the Rams up pretty well at NSB's 49.
This time the Rams struck quickly. Frakes and Shatto worked their magic for 23 yards and a first down at the Barracuda 28.
On the very next down, Hopkins received a key block from Zach Martin and outstepped two tackles 26 yards for the touchdown. His subsequent extra point kick was good and the new school led again, 14-7.
This time the lead lasted a whole 12 seconds.
After Hopkins blasted the kickoff into the end zone against the wind, Bivins took off around right end for 80 yards and another TD. His two carries netted him 172 yards. He picked up $8 more on the night for a 230 total. Harrell retied the game with his boot, 14-14. Only 2:38 remained in quarter three.
On the next LM drive, three penalties assisted a 10-play, 83-yard drive what proved to be the game-winner.
The drive started innocently enough when Joseph had trouble finding the handle on the kickoff and returned it to the Ram 17. Hopkins rambled for six and was awarded 15 more when a Barracuda bit his facemask.
With a first down at the 42, Frakes again went to the quick pop to his tight end Blakely and the sophomore broke two tackles while dragging the fish down to the NSB 36.
Shatto jumped back into the action with 12 yards, but on the next play Frakes was dumped for a 14-yard loss. The quarter ended. Shatto ran for 3 to open the fourth period.

Frakes found Hopkins for 10 yards over the middle to the 25 of New Smyrna. On the play the 'Cudas were cited for interference. When they argued too strenuously, they were hit with an unsportsmanlike conduct hankie. It moved the ball to the 10.
Frakes floated right on the next play and found Shatto all alone in the right flat for another TD. Hopkins made it 21-14, with 10:45 left to play.
Eight minutes later, New Smyrna pulled its trick which turned into a treat with a sour taste.
"We kept our blocks (sustained) in the second half a lot longer and it helped our running game," Beathard pointed out.
The black-haired coach lauded Martin, Ed Ades and Kutz offensively.
Linebacker Billy Vickers and Mark Swartz did the job defensively.
Shatto had 142 yards on 14 carries.

SYSA Races Tighten

Seminole's Youth Sports Association (football season) is entering its sixth week of play and the races couldn't be tighter.
Especially in the Pee Wee Division with Jackson Heights (5-0), the Tuskawilla Warriors (5-0) and the Lake Dolphins (4-0).
In the Mitey Mite Division, Forest City and Eastbrook are still undefeated. FC is a half game ahead with a 6-0 slate. Eastbrook is 5-0.
Jackson Heights is the lone undefeated team in the Junior Pee Wee Division. The Heights crew is 5-0. Altamonte and English Estates are just behind with 4-1 marks.
Lakeview has another unbeaten team in the Junior Midget Division as the Sanford group is 5-0. Jackson Heights and Milwee are each 4-1.
In the Midget Division, South Seminole leads the pack with a 4-1 mark. Tuskawilla and Rock Lake are one game in arrears.
In that tough Pee Wee Division, coach Wes Childers Lakeview Dolphins kept in the race with a 20-0 victory over South Seminole.

Jerod Jones broke loose for two touchdowns to pace the Sanford cause. One went for 53 yards as Jones ran for 107 yards on the day. Terrance Carr added the last TD from 12 yards out.
Eric Williams led the Dolphin defense with eight tackles, three of which resulted in quarterback sacks. Dwayne Menefoe had seven tackles and two sacks. Bobby Flowers had six tackles and three sacks. Jones contributed one interception.
In Junior Pee Wee results, Jackson Heights pushed across a fourth-period touchdown to knock off English Estates, 7-0. John Clinton tallied the game-winner on a three yard run.
Lakeview rolled up 26 points in the first and third period to ease past South Seminole, 26-12.
The Milwee Patriots received touchdowns from three different players as they whipped the Eastbrook Bucs, 27-0. Paul Bowen opened the scoring with a 16-yard jaunt. Anthony Bailey added a 14-yard scoring dash and Lester Wilson scampered in from 26 yards out.

Chris Boyle, Greg Hendricks and Zane Miller led a savage Patriot defense which blanked the opposition in its last three outings, while the offense has put 62 points on the board.
Danny Hendricks hauled in a touchdown pass from Mitch Sahito in the fourth period to lift the Woodland Falcons to a 7-3 victory over Sabal Point. Shatto hit Todd Christensen for the extra point. Sabal Point scored its point on a safety.
Leading the Milwee defense was Todd Hendricks and Underwood with interceptions. Shane Stanley blocked a punt.
In another nailbiter, the Forest City Otters scored on a 64-yard pass play from quarterback Andy Staggs to Robert Cushman late in the fourth quarter to edge the Wekiva Redskins, 7-6.
Defensively, Steve Shuman, Peter Joseph and Ryan Campbell had outstanding games for Forest City.

Tribe Junior Varsity Stomps Brantley, 30-0

By GEOFFREY GIORDANO
Herald Sports Writer
Sanford's junior varsity Seminoles stunned the Lake Brantley Patriots, 30-0, Thursday night to pull out their first winning season in five years.
The JV Tribe finished its season at 4-3 and will be sending 12 players to coach Jerry Posey's varsity squad.

"Tonight was parent's night and the kids dedicated the game to their parents," said a pleased coach Bill McDaniel. "We had set our goal as a winning season."
Seminole started the game with that goal in mind as it has the past two games — both big victories. After taking the kickoff, the Tribe drove all the way to the Lake Brantley 15 yard line.
Halfback Tim Lawrence and fullback William Wynn had the key runs of 17 and 21 yards respectively on the drive. But on a third-down-and-four at the Patriot 15, Wynn lost the ball and Brantley picked it up at the 14.

Their first drive was short lived, however, as two plays later, Seminole defensive lineman Tom Miller picked up a loose ball after a bad snap, and gave the Tribe possession on the Brantley 19.
Seminole picked up where they left off, and Wynn struggled into the end zone from one yard out with only 5:15 left in the first quarter. Bass broke off a run across the goal line for the two-point conversion, putting Seminole on top, 8-0.
The period ended with Seminole driving from their own 13 yard line. They reached the Patriot 47 before it stalled, and Lawrence was called on to punt.
After the ball rolled to the 20, Lake Brantley began its series of downs. A 24-yard pass to fullback Chuck Stallings from quarterback John Harris, along with a 34 yard run by Alan Armstrong, put the ball to the Tribe 18. After a one-yard loss by Stallings, Harris lost the handle on the ball, and linebacker Steve Dennis picked it up and dashed 75 yards for a second Seminole touchdown.
This time, Lawrence made the conversion on a short gallop, adding to

Seminoles

Seminole's score to make it 16-0.
Another turnover by Brantley, this time a fumble on their 49, gave Seminole a chance to build up its lead. After six plays, quarterback Mike Futrell threw an 18-yard strike to Daryl Collins, bringing the ball to the Patriot 16.
It wasn't long before he clicked again, this time, a nine-yarder to Ricky Whitaker. With the ball on the 5, Futrell bulldozed his way to the one. Then, with 3:44 left in the first half, he plunged into the end zone. Steve Alexander's extra point gave the Tribe a 23-0 advantage.
The Patriots started a drive at their 45 in a desperate attempt to score and stay in the game. The Tribe defense had different ideas.
On the third play, Bass made a stinging hit on Stallings, who stayed on the ground for a good three to four minutes before slowly walking off the field.
Following that tackle, Brantley's Armstrong sprinted for 35 yards to the 15 of Seminole, with an obviously superb chance to score. Then Bass came through again, deflecting a pass at the tribe 9.
When Harris threw into the end zone on the next play, Alexander got into the show, breaking up a sure touchdown play.
The half ended, still 23-0, and a victory looked, and was, certain for the Seminoles.
Brantley's Jeff King took the second half opening kickoff, and raced 46 yards from his 19 to the Seminole 35, finally being nailed by Collins.
Lake Brantley, true to form, botched another drive which might have kept them alive, and gave the ball up to the Seminoles at the Tribe 20, where running back Teddy Jones promptly ripped off a 34-yard run to the Brantley 46.
He gained seven on the next play, then Futrell picked up eight, and Bass, six, which brought the ball down to the Lake Brantley 25. Then, Jim Partin took off for another 13-yards to the 12. Five plays later, with the Fighting Seminoles apparently ready to score, Bass fumbled on the 1 yard line, and an alert Patriot stopped the Tribe drive, only to lose the ball yet again to a stingy Indian defensive squad.

An interesting thing happened on the punt by Stallings, however. After a bad snap, which he bobbed for some time, he picked the ball up and managed a weak punt to his 21, while being pounded by Lawrence. An official ruled that the ball was touched by a defensive player later on, and the Patriots had a stroke of good luck, keeping the ball in deep Brantley territory.
Stallings was called on again four plays later to boot the ball again, and Collins broke loose on the return, running all the way back to the Patriot 25.
The fourth period began soon after with Seminole still on the 25. A Bass nine-yard gain was added to a few short plays later, when a pass from Futrell to Collins was deflected, and caught by Dennis on the one foot line. Jones put the ball across this time, and Alexander kicked the ball through the uprights for the final 30-0 shutout.
Little later on, with reserve quarterback Rob Cohen at the controls, the Tribe drove to the 33, continuing its persistent offensive play. While nothing came of the drive, it showed the spirit with which the Fighting Seminoles were playing with in their attempt to break a string of five losing seasons.
"It was a very good season," remarked McDaniel. "We had a super bunch of kids, and I'm sure coach Posey will be pleased."

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, October 31, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
October 31, 1981
This coming year you are likely to be more daring and enterprising in financial ventures than you've been in the past. Situations you develop will have better chances than operations controlled by others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're in a fortunate position at this time, in that others are working behind the scenes to help you in several matters important to your personal security. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Hopes can be brought into being today if you make things happen instead of leaving them to chance. When you assert yourself your possibilities are greatly increased.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
It's been said that we get to heaven on the arms of those we help. Today, interests important to you can best be advanced by offering unselfish aid to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Warmer relationships will begin to develop with several persons with whom you're now involved. Each will play big roles in one another's future affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Don't hesitate to gamble on your abilities today if you see ways to improve your lot in life. You'll know which risks make sense and which don't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Others will find you an extremely agreeable person with whom to deal today. You are fair, impartial and sharing. Alliances will be strengthened.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Be alert for larger-than-usual opportunities today in business or career areas. Your possibilities look good, owing to idealistic associations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
This is a good day to iron things out with any persons with whom you've had misunderstandings lately. They, like you, are ready to forgive and forget.

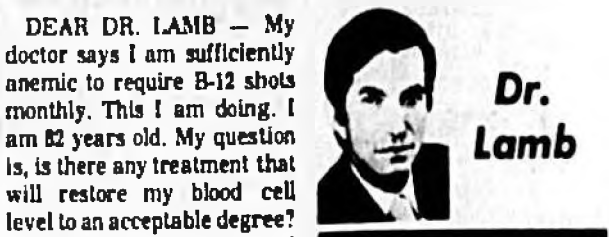

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
At work today don't wait for the boss to issue instructions if you see something which you can take care of. Your initiative will be appreciated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You'll be able to get others to do your bidding today. They'll recognize your way of doing things is the best for all concerned and doesn't merely serve your interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Press for finalization today on matters important to you materially. You're on a lucky roll and, if you handle things wisely, substantial gains are likely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Even though you prefer doing things in tandem, you'll get better results today by operating independently. Don't delegate unless it's absolutely necessary.

B-12 Shots Vital To Combat Anemia

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor says I am sufficiently anemic to require B-12 shots monthly. This I am doing. I am 62 years old. My question is, is there any treatment that will restore my blood cell level to an acceptable degree? B-12 shots are expensive and do not build back any permanent blood, according to my doctor. He says I am stuck for a lifetime of B-12 injections.

DEAR READER — You will need to be very good about doing as your doctor asks. The anemia is caused from the lack of B-12. We require B-12 to form new cells. That includes not only new blood cells but new cells of the digestive tract and elsewhere in the body. The B-12 is part of the system in forming new nucleic acids for the new cell nucleus.

We must constantly regenerate new blood cells as the red ones only live about 120 days. When you have enough B-12 and everything is working right your bone marrow will produce enough new ones at a constant rate to replace these. But since we need so many if you are low on B-12 it often shows up as an anemia and that is how the B-12 deficiency may be found.

Keep in mind that the lack of red blood cells is only one aspect of the medical problem. Lack of B-12 can also affect the nervous system including the spinal cord. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia, which you need to read to understand your problem.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You must have the injections to be sure the B-12 gets into your bloodstream. Eating a normal diet is not so you can tell your partner what to do.

North and South arrive at four spades after an opening heart bid by West. You may not approve of the way they got there, but it is the sort of hand where all roads lead to Rome. In other words, four spades is a fine contract.

West opens the king of hearts and it is now up to East to use a defensive convention that is rather well known.

He follows with the queen to show that he also holds the jack. This tells West how to get him on lead assuming that the second heart won't be ruffed.

There is no reason for West to put him on lead right away. There is nothing East can lead back.

However, West can and does lead a diamond at trick two. South wins in dummy and can either take a trump finesse or play ace and another trump in the hope that West will have been dealt just king-small of spades.

Either way West gets in with the king, leads a heart to East's jack and gets a diamond ruff to sink South's ship.

Sanford, Florida — Friday, October 30, 1981

Swashbuckling drum majors and pretty majorettes from Lake Brantley, Lake Mary, Oviedo, Bishop Moore, Lake Howell, Seminole and Lyman high school bands will add sparkle and pizzazz to the 7th Annual Seminole County Band Festival to be held at 8 p.m., Nov. 7 at Lyman stadium in Longwood.

High Schools To Strike Up The Bands

Music under the stars, fancy footwork, snappy uniforms, beautiful girls and an exciting fireworks finale make the Seventh Annual Seminole County High School Band Festival the best show around.

The festival will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 7 at the Lyman High School stadium on County Road 427 in Longwood. The show is under the sponsorship of the Sanford Optimist Club and the Evening Herald.

The new Lake Mary High School Band joins the roster of area high school bands participating this year. Lyman, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, Oviedo, Seminole high school bands will participate along with the host band from Bishop Moore.

The bands will be under the direction of Bishop Moore's Joe Derrico, host bandmaster, and Don Schmaus from Lyman; Jack Herron, Lake Brantley; Greg Martin, Lake Howell; Terry Pattishall, Lake Mary; Richard Feinberg, Oviedo; and Sylvester Polk, Seminole. Derrico will be in charge of the music program at the festival.

Each school will have six minutes to perform individually. Then the 1,000 young musicians will perform the Star Spangled Banner and the Battle Hymn of the Republic altogether in conjunction with the fireworks display. Pyrotechnics expert "Vic" Vickers of Orlando will be in charge of the fireworks.

Trophies will be presented to each band at the close of the program.

John Blair is president of the Sanford Optimist Club and Ernie Butler is Band Festival chairman.

All ticket proceeds will go to the bands for uniforms, music, and instruments. Tickets are adults and $1 for children. They are being sold by band members and are available at the school or at the Evening Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford.

Tips On Toys

Helpful Hints for Fun, Safety and Economy

Teaching Tenderness

Few adults realize it, but when they watch a child give a teddy bear or a doll a big hug, he or she is actually learning to love. Youngsters learn to love partly from loving their toys.

When your child is playing "mommy" to her doll, she is also learning to be more responsive to the needs of others.

Toys have traditionally provided companionship, security and served as love objects for children. The Toy Manufacturers of America point out that a favorite doll, teddy bear or other special toy has helped many children cope with difficult moments in their young lives.

'Why In The World' Is Cronkite's Dream

By PETER MEADE
 The question: "Why in the world?" The answer: because Walter Cronkite has a dream.

"Why in the World" is a weekly current events series that was conceived by Cronkite, who ended his 19-year reign on the "CBS Evening News" last March. The series premiered on PBS last month.

Don't, however, expect to see Cronkite in front of the camera on this new series — he will only be a "consultant and adviser." It's his dream but other people will carry it out.

Cronkite's dream is to combine television and education. During the '60s, the number of families with televisions increased dramatically, he says, yet education is still using basically the same methods.

"'Why in the World' will broaden the field of contemporary education by providing youngsters with the link between current events and the basic studies in the nation's high schools," says Cronkite.

Each 30-minute program will focus on a major or timely news story. Topics of discussion are as limitless as the headlines they will be taken from. A different "guest guide" each week, an expert on the chosen topic, will explore the subject with an in-studio high school audience and also tie it in to their high school curriculum.

"High school education is grossly separate from the world outside and today's headlines," Cronkite explains. On "Why in the World" the greatest minds in the world today can be made available to the nation's high schools.

"If students are excited about their world," Cronkite says. "They will go out and share their knowledge. It will open up dialogue at home and strengthening the family will strengthen education. My ambitions are not small in this area."

Cronkite foresees "Why in the World" as a daily program, sometime in 1982 if funding is available. In February the series will be expanded from once to twice a week. The 28-week schedule of 46 programs was made possible by a $1 million grant from General Motors. The premiere features

WALTER CRONKITE

Fred Friendly, professor at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and former CBS News president, and a dozen Los Angeles high school students discussing why and how events become news. "Everything is news but not everything is newsworthy," Friendly says, explaining the importance of gathering news for the public. "News is as important as the food we eat. What we don't know as a nation could kill us."

"Why in the World" is the latest instructional television (ITV) series offered by PBS. Currently over 15 million students are using ITV as both an in-school and complementary learning source.

Teachers' handbooks are being distributed free to every high school in the country. The handbook supplements the series and offers suggestions on how to build and continue discussions along with ideas for giving the program greater accessibility.

All high schools and libraries have unlimited rebroadcasts rights to the series. "This program is available to the world," Cronkite says. "Take it. Tape it. I hope everyone will."

TUESDAY

Merlin Olsen stars in a new series as a rugged 1870s gold miner who pretends to be a Catholic priest in "Father Murphy," to air Tuesday, Nov. 3 on NBC.

Marco Polo Film

How does a film company recreate the fabled 13th century tent city of China's legendary Kublai Kan? "Very expensively," says Vincenzo Labella, the producer of "Marco Polo," NBC's upcoming eight-hour mini-series. "We basically had to start from scratch," Labella explains. "Outside of young Marco's brief eyewitness accounts, there were no historical sketches for us to draw upon."

A team of 30 Italian artisans from Rome and 50 Chinese from Peking constructed the majestic tent city where Kublai Khan met the Polos (Marco, his father and uncle). The "city" comprises Kublai's circular yurt (Mongol house), 40 royal bodyguard tents, two enormous bamboo pavilions for entertaining 1,000 guests, an exotic bath house, Kublai's wife Chaihi's tent and guest quarters for the Polos.

Women Talking

"The Body Human: The Loving Process - Women," a new two-part special to air Tuesday, and Wednesday, on CBS, focuses on host Linda Gray and three Santa Fe, N. Mex., women: Anne Fullerton, who is happily married; Nancy Parker, recently divorced; and Sara Fischer, single.

The women explore and discuss their feelings about female sexuality, what it is and what role it plays in their lives. The four women spent a week together, learning about and sharing in each other's lives.

"It is really important to get women to look at themselves, realize their powers, vulnerabilities, frailties, strengths and feelings," says Miss Gray. "This is a show about feelings. Nancy, Sara, Anne and I talked a lot about women and their feelings. We all have them even though we may not know how to express them, or get in touch with them..."

Peck on TV

Gregory Peck will make his television dramatic debut portraying Abraham Lincoln in "Bruce Catton's the Blue and the Gray," an eight-hour mini-series based on Catton's personal views and impressions of the American Civil War, for the future presentation of CBS.

Peck's most recent films have been "The Boys from Brazil," "The Omen" and "The Sea Wolves." He has won five Academy award nominations and he received a best actor Oscar in 1963 for his performance in "To Kill a Mockingbird."

WEDNESDAY

Pamela Sue Martin plays Fallon Carrington in the continuing drama on "Dynasty," to air Wednesday, Nov. 4 on ABC.

THURSDAY

Douglass Watson plays Mac Corey and Linda Borgeson plays Alice Frame on the continuing daytime serial "Another World," airing every Monday through Friday on NBC.

Lynn Redgrave To Star In New Series For NBC

Award-winning actress Lynn Redgrave will star with Norman Fell in NBC's new half-hour comedy series "Teachers Only," to premiere early in 1982.

Miss Redgrave will portray Diane, a young, idealistic English teacher in a Los Angeles high school; Fell will play the school's principal, Ben Cooper. The series will focus on Diane's relationships with the school's students, faculty and administrators.

Miss Redgrave joins previously announced cast members Adam Arkin, who plays science teacher Mr. Dreyfuss; Kit McDonough, who plays Lola, a school clerk; Richard Karron, who plays the school custodian;

LYNN REDGRAVE

Norman Bartold, who plays the assistant principal, Mr. Brody; and Vanessa Clark, who plays the French teacher, Ms. Edwards.

"Lynn Redgrave is a consummate actress," says Brandon Tartkoff, president of NBC Entertainment. "She has established herself as a star of the legitimate theater, films and television..."

Miss Redgrave was nominated for an Emmy award as outstanding lead actress in a comedy series for her co-starring performance as Ann Anderson in CBS's "House Calls." Her other television roles include that of Charlotte in NBC's 28-hour television adaptation of James Michener's best-selling novel "Centennial," in which she aged from 18 to 85; and Kate, widow of Tom Jordache, in the award-winning four-hour NBC miniseries "Beggars, Thief," by Irwin Shaw.

She starred in the 1966 film "Georgy Girl," for which she won the Golden Globe award and the New York Film Critics award. And she was nominated for an Academy award as well for "Georgy Girl." Other film credits include "Tom Jones," "Girl With Green Eyes" and "The Deadly Affair."

She made her professional acting debut as Helena in Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in her hometown, London, England. Among her first starring stage roles were Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" and Congreve's "Love for Love."

She made her Broadway debut in "Black Comedy" in 1967, which she followed with "My Fat Friend."

Miss Redgrave is the youngest of three children of the celebrated acting couple Sir Michael Redgrave and Rachel Kempson. Her parents named her after the noted actress Lynn Fontanne. Her sister is the well-known actress, Vanessa Redgrave, and she has a brother, Corin.

Miss Redgrave is married to producer-director John Clark. They have three children: Benjamine (born in 1968); Kelly (1970); and Annabel Lucy (July, 1981).

Why Do Other Nations Have Better Kids' TV?

A new study will attempt to find out why England, the Netherlands and Japan seem to consistently offer more quality TV for children than the United States does.

The comparative study will be undertaken by the Children's Television Workshop (CTW), producer of "Sesame Street," "The Electric Company" and "3-2-1 CONTACT," under a grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York. The report is expected next year.

Dr. Edward L. Plamer, CTW's vice president for research who will direct the project, says the study will evaluate the forces that affect the amount of quality children's TV in the four countries.

Bette Davis stars in "A Piano for Mrs. Cimino," a new motion picture for television now filming in Vancouver, B.C., for future broadcast on CBS.

Also starring in the drama are Alexa Kenin, Penny

Fuller, Christopher Guest, Keenan Wynn and George Hearn.

Miss Davis plays a widow — diagnosed as senile by her doctor and deemed incompetent by the court — who fights to regain control of her estate and her life.
