FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Pair Arrested In Death Of Jacksonville Banker

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - Authorities have arrested an asphalt paving contractor and a heavy equipment dealer on first degree murder charges in the slaying of ex-banker Forrest J. Harris.

Contractor Ernest C. Downs, 28, a native of Dublin, Ga., was indicted by a grand jury Thursday on charges of killing Harris April 23. Johnny W. Barfield, 31, accused of hiring Downs, was arrested later in the day. State Atty. Edward Austin said there are indications that a third party may have paid Barfield to arrange the slaying. "We don't think we are at the end of the road by any means." Austin said.

No Televised Executions Likely

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Federal courts in the state and an appellate panel in New Orleans probably would uphold Florida's rules prohibiting television coverage of executions, officials say.

Deputy. Atty. Gen. James Whisenand said Thursday the state rules probably can't be thrown out now that the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has barred camera crews from filming executions in Texas.

"The opinion of the 5th Circuit Court will lay to rest any questions about whether there will be any televising of executions in Florida," Whisenand said. "The rules would have to be appealed to the Supreme Court, but I think the decision will be substantial impediment to any

Betty Lynn Lee, general counsel for Broward County, asked if a county had the option of not only imposing the tax countywide but also in a special taxing district, thus making some persons pay up to four per cent as a surcharge on accomodations.

Escapees Caught After Chase

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - Two escapees from Florida State Prison in Raiford are back in custody after leading police on a chase in a hijacked cab, officials say.

Authorities said Charles Deloach, 32, and Mark John, 21, escaped Thursday in prison pick-up truck which they later abandoned in Orange Park. The two stopped a cab driven by Robert A. Thomas, robbed him and forced him to drive Jacksonville, police said.

Police, alerted about the cab's disappearance, spotted the vehicle in Jacksonville and chased the cab through the city. Officers forced the fleeing cab to the curb and captured Deloach. John was caught nearby, officials said.

Bus Crash Injures Tots, Driver

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP) - Ten preschool children and their driver were injured when their school bus was rammed by a car and overturned, leaking gas that caused a small fire, police said.

When's It Safe To Spray With DDT?

If DDT is dangerous to human beings when used outdoors to combat insect pests, as the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) claimed when it banned use of the pesticide (later relaxing the ban to permit its use when specifically ordered by the agency), then, certainly, it must be dangerous when used within the closed confines of an aircraft transporting human passengers.

Despite that obvious conclusion, however, the federal government has ordered that planes leaving a Washington airport for California, be sprayed with DDT. The order came after live Japanese beetles were found on board an aircraft. Speaking for the government, King Lovinger, an Agriculture Department official, said that the 'routine' spray order was aimed at protecting California's agriculture industry from the beetles.

Evidently, the spray order was not considered as "routine" by United Airlines which, citing an EPA ban on routine use of DDT to combat farm pests (including Japanese beetles), has refused to spray its planes until assured that passengers will not be endangered. Speaking for United, James Linse told the Associated Press that:

"We hope to get total satisfaction that any material that USDA wants us to use in spraying an aircraft is absolutely safe to anyone coming in contact with it. Nobody has been able to explain so far to us why the EPA has banned it (DDT) but the Agriculture Department (the parent department of the EPA), gives it to us to use.'

Attempting to defend the illogical banning of DDT on the one hand, while ordering its use on the other, Lovinger suggested that airline officials are mistaken in the impression there has been a total ban on the use of DDT.

"They (the EPA) have banned most uses of DDT but not all uses," he told reporters. "The airlines have been instructed not to spray food handling areas." the USDA spokesman went on to explain, "and if they're doing it, they're in violation of our instructions.

Ah, yes. But all of which fails to answer at least

1. What if the culprit beetles happen to be in food handling areas of planes leaving the Washington airport for California? 2. Why is it that DDT cannot be routinely used by farmers to combat insects attacking their crops outside of aircraft, but can be routinely used, even ordered, on insects inside aircraft? 3. When the use of DDT is banned out in the open air on the grounds that it is dangerous to humans possibly coming into contact with it, how can the USDA possibly assure the airlines that its use will be safe in the limited space of a plane in close proximity to passengers? The paradox of banning an action on the one hand and ordering it on the other is a classical case of bureaucrats being given powers which no errorprone individual should possess or can safely

Visitors from the West bring back an overriding impression from shopping districts in Moscow or Leningrad. Glum if not grouchy clerks serve glummer and grouchler customers who must forever stand in line for goods eternally in short supply. Well, the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party has finally noticed this, too. It has issued some new rules that could come straight out of a business manual from the U.S.A. Get out there and sell - be cheerful, clerks are told, and there'll be a little something extra in the pay envelope for those who do. To get more groceries on the market, farmers are being encouraged to grow more fruits and vegetables on their private pirts - a practice once frowned on since it undermines the system of collective agriculture.

Communist minority has been issuing decrees in the name of "the people," while methodically giving the people the short end of the stick. The new sign of creeping capitalism may herald brighter times in the marketplace. On the other hand, if the clerks start smiling how will anyone know if they're really happy - or just laughing bitterly under their breath?

Because last Tuesday night I was driving, not watching the horses.

The invitation came from the Seminole Harness Track for two reporters to participate in the news media "Celebrity Stakes" the track is currently sponsoring. Never having been a celebrity before, and never being one to turn down a challenge (a sure way to get into trouble), I agreed to represent The Herald in one of the races.

The first step was to contact the track uperintendent, Billy Rouse, and set up a practice schedule. It turned out that there was only one morning when neither of us had other things to do, so the morning before the race I arrived for my one and only practice session.

SOGNELLARY COMME TO SERVICE

I'd hauled out my cowboy boots from the back of the closet - they hadn't been worn since I rode partway with the Bicentennial Wagon Train last year. "Well, at least you're wearing the right kind of shoes," said Billy when we met. The rest of me he eved kind of doubtfully.

Still, he covered up his doubts pretty well, and we set off for the track When the horses are training, the driver sits in a larger, more comfortable training cart, instead of the tiny, light sulky he rides during a race. Still, the contraption looked pretty flimsy to me - just a seat, two metal stirrups on wheels. Once aboard, we jogged around the track a couple of times, Billy coaching me how to handle the reins, Then he let me solo, and it was all very low key and orderly. That single practice session didn't prepare me in any way for the thrill and speed of the actual race. however. All decked out in bright jockey silks and helmet, and under the bright lights of the nighttime track, I maneuvered into position - third from the rail - along with four other media representatives. Struggling to keep our horses abreast as we followed the starting car around the track, I was aware that already we were going a lot faster than during my practice runs. Then, as we approached the starting line, the start car speeded up, the orses speeded up, and finally the starter yelled Thundering hoofs, flying dirt, and a desperate attempt to secure the coveted rail position. I didn't make it onto the rail, but I was immediately aware of the exhibitation of speed-any-exercition.

Three-quarters of the way around and I was still running third. I couldn't stand it. Only the first two would make it to the semi-finals, and I had to be one

The leader was uncatchable at this stage, but with a thrilling surge of speed, we edged alongside the number two horse. And just as we thundered past the finish line, we spurted ahead. What a finish! Second, by a nose.

And all the time I was thinking, not how great it was to have won a place in the semi-final, but (with a kind of awe) that I had suddenly discovered a powerful competitive streak in me that until this race had been lying dormant.

Y'all better watch out for Number Three in the semi-finals, guys. She's a sure winner — and that's a tip you can bet on!

RONALD REAGAN Air Bags Will Boost Car Costs

After the auto companies fell into line with a Federal order to build 1974 models so they wouldn't start unless the seat belts were buckled. it took Congress about one full recess home to feel enough heat to repeal the law.

Front seat air bags could share a similar fate but probably not till after several thousand buyers realize the bags will cause a $100 to $500 price increase on 1962, '83 and '84 model cars as a result of mandatory installation decreed by Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams.

Adams, in an apparent move by the Carter Administration to placate Ralph Nader's forces, on June 30 announced that he was scrapping a plan devised by his Ford Administration predecessor, William Coleman. Coleman's plan had resulted in General Motors, Ford and Mercedes-Benz voluntarily signing contracts with the government (after some arm twisting) to install a total of 200,000 air bags on 1980 and 1981 models, as a means of conducting a largescale field test.

The principle of the bags is to cushion the driver and front seat passenger with a bag of air that inflates on impact. Problems of misfires, temporary loss of visibility and quick deflation remain unresolved, but Adams plunged ahead and declared the air bags mandatory, beginning with full-size 1982 models. Huff, Boryla Get Chances Against Dolphins Saturday

TAMPA (AP) - Coach John McKay would like to see his Tampa Bay Buccaneers win their pre-season contest against the Miami Dolphirs this Saturday night. But he says he won't be too concerned if they don't.

"I don't want anyone to think McKay said Thursday. "But we

we aren't going to try and win,"

McKay says a victory is more important to the Dolphins since the National Football League club is trying to rebuild an image tarnis ed by a 6-8 record last season. A loss to the Bucs, even in the preseason opener for both teams, might damage the Dolphins' image. The first-year Bucs wound up

Murderers' Row Different Mold

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees were sitting quietly on the bench. They were not at each others' throats. There were no signs of turmoil. "Our bench was like a second grade schoolroom," says a member of the team. "If you talked, you only talked baseball. The manager maintained discipline like we were in the second grade and had our hands clasped behind our backs."

Obviously this description does not fit the 1977 New York Yankees' "Murdurer's Row." Rather it is pitcher Waite Hoyt's recollection of the 1927 Yankees' "Murderer's Row," the team that featured such stars as Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, won the American League pennant by 19 games and the World Series over Pittsburgh in four straight.

"I won't compare eras. It's just not valid," said Hoyt, the ace right-hander for the Yankee team of 50 years ago. "But we had one of those teams that always found a way to beat you. When we

This provision would mean that farm laborers and other seasonal workers would not qualify for welfare as soon as their jobs ended. Carter did not spell out how long they would have to go without income before qualifying.

But he acknowledged, "There is no perfect solution for these difficult problems." The most surprising of several major concessions outlined by Carter in his statement and accompanying message to Congress was a decision to discard his stated goal of putting no additional bite on the treasury, at least at the start. He said he was proposing $2.8 billion in added spending, but this figure did not include an additional $3.3 billion cost to the treasury in new tax credits for wage earners who pay income tax. Carter outlined these major provisions:

"waste, fraud, red tape and errors," and promised to save $400 million by reducing such abuses.

He promised that his plan would "provide strong incentives to keep families together, rather than tear them apart."

To do so, he would end rules prohibiting assistance when the father remains in a household. And he would allow single-parent family heads to earn up to $150 a month extra without losing welfare payments if the money was used to pay for child care so the parent could go to work.
