Firefighter rescues girl from tower

WOODVILLE — A firefighter struggled with a despondent 16-year-old girl on a narrow catwalk atop a 130-foot water tower, pulling her to safety to prevent her from leaping to her death.

Neighbors reported the girl was creating a commotion at about 12:05 a.m. Saturday atop the tower in Woodville, about 8 miles south of Tallahassee. Mark Trammell, 30, was one of the firefighters sent to the scene.

"He grabbest a satety rope and started climbing the taider, which lacked safety rails. He'd climbed aerial ladders on fire trucks before, but this one was about two or three times higher and had a few bolts missing, making it rickety.

When he reached the top, "She was really not making any sense. She was repeating over and over that nobody cared for her," he said Saturday.

Cuba delays nuclear reactor operation

HAVANA, Cuba — A senior Cuban official said that operation of Cuba's first nuclear reactor, being built by Soviets at a site about 250 miles south of Miami, has been delayed by two to three years.

"Our nuclear porgram is 100 percent for peaceful energy uses. We do not have nuclear arms." Cuban Deputy Foreign Minister Rismon Santher Parodi said in an interview over the wethers." The operation of first reactor is delayed by several years. ... I think that first reactor will start functioning in two or three years."

With the help of the Soviet Union, Cuba is building Juragua I and II, both 440-megawatt nuclear reactors, near the port of Cienfuegos in southern Cuba. The operation of first nuclear reactor, originally scheduled to go critical for testing by the end of the 1990s, was postponed until the end of 1990 and has been postponed again.

Utility: No room for radioactive fuel rode CRYSTAL RIVER — Plorida Power Corp. is running out of room to store used radioactive fuel reds at its Crystal River nuclear plant and has sought federal approval to squeeze more waste into an underwater storage pool.

Federal regulators said the space crunch is a problem throughout the industry, and that the request is expected to be approved.

The utility asked for permission from the Nuclear Regulatroy Commission to rearrange the fuel rods in one of its two pools. Otherwise, the utility said, it will run out of room in four years and may have to shut down the plant.

The request would provide the company with enough room to store used fuel rods through the year 2014. Crystal River's license to operate expires two years after that.

Nuclear intrigue

Thanks to some quick thinking by officials of a San Marcos, Calif., manufacturing firm, the government of Saddam Hussein was folled in its attempt to smuggle nuclear warhead triggering devices to Iraq. This complex international plot ended when U.S. and British agents intercepted the devices at London's Heathrow Airport. Five individuals and two British companies have been charged with conspiracy to export illegal material.

According to the federal indictment issued in San Diego, CSI Technologies, Inc., in San Marcos was contacted 18 months ago by two iraqi agents. They wanted to purchase electronic capacitors that cannot be exported without a U.S. government license.

CSI executives immediately contacted the U.S. Customs Service, which saked the company to obtain an order from the Iraqi conspirators. After a false start, the order was placed by Euromac, a British-based company operated by Ali Ashour Daghir, an Iraqi citizen living in England. Then, an undergovern er customs agent posing as a CSI officer infiltrated the atualitions procurement network.

The 41-page indictment details the lengths to which the lraqi network sought to cover its tracks. The conspirators directed that the initial shipment of 40 electrical capacitors be labeled "variously as items for use in computer room air-conditioning equipment for laser applications" and other subterfuges. The payment of $10.500 was to be made in several stages by two British companies to CSI bank accounts at a nearby Bank of America. America.

During the Customa Service sting operation...Special...Agent Daniel Supnick made several tripation Bagadad.and met with two representatives from Iraq'a Ministry of Industry and Military Industrialization. He was eventually intended for use in Iraq'a serospace operations. Furthermore, Supnick was assured he would "be suprised" by the amount of subsequent business this initial shipment would generate among Iraqi clients. amount of subsequent business this inten-shipment would generate among Iraqi clients. Earlier this year, he was invited to Englidad once more to discuss some "new inquiries."

These disclosures lend credence to U.S. intelligence estimates that Iraq is attempting to acquire a nuclear arms capability, one piece at a time, by buying nuclear components and then stockpiling them.

Although experts believe Iraq lacks the make nuclear weapons, it does have a fairly advanced ballistic missile program. The capacitors it tried to buy from CSI can also be used in separating the stages of missiles and trockets. The combination of nuclear bombs and the missiles to deliver them over long distances is especially troubling in the volatile. Mideast.

U.S. officials predict it will be 10 years before Iraq has an operational nuclear weapon. Jane's Defense Weekly estimates only three to five years.

There is no dispute about President Hussein's determination to make Iraq a regional military power. This is all the more reason to be alarmed at the Iraqi scheme. And all the more reason to be grateful it was thwarted with the invaluable assistance of CSI executives.

Washington falls from spotlight

DENVER — What if they put on a Congress and nobody cared? What if Washington ceased to count in the march of newsworthy events, and the hundreds of reporters and camera crews attationed in the capital suddenly found themselves reduced to watching self-important loaders fencing with rubber swords?

Well, that's pretty much what's happened in the past year, and it is pure tonic for those of us who've long resented the media's tendency to gaze almost exclusively at Washington's navel.

Not that our objection was new. Wendell Philips. complained more than a century ago that "to beer some men talk of government, you would suppose that Congress was the law of gravitation, and kept the planets in their places.

Du Pont, police battle over vests

WASHINGTON - The Justice Department has locked horns with the Du Pont Co. over national standards for bullet-proof vests. And those for whom this is a life and death argument — the police officers of the nation — don't like the sound of it.

The police on the streets are facing bigger guns carried by drug dealers. They want state-of-the-art armor to keep them alive. Du Pont is the leading producer of Keviar, the protective material used in most bullet-proof vests and other body armor for the past 20 years. Two years ago the Justice Depart-ment tightened its voluntary standard for bullet-proof vests because of the heavy arsenal of criminals. Some members of Congress are agitating to have that standard made mandatory. But Du Pont thinks the standard is flawed, requiring more Keviar than necessary, and that a thinner, lighter vest will do the Job. The Justice Department isn't buying it, and neither are the nation's police organizations. They don't like the notion of the standard being set by the company that makes a profit from the sale of vests. Du Pont says it is driven by concern for the police, not by a profit motive. The company wants the out mouve. The com federal government to adopt Du Pont's standard for lighter armor and contends that more police would wear the vests if they were lighter and less visible.

The behind-the-acenes feud between Du Pont and the Justice Department has drawn the attention of Capitol Hill. Pepsi signs $3 billion agreement

MOSCOW - Pepsico Inc. said it will sign a 83 billion agree-ment Monday to expand Soviet sales of the popular soft drink in exchange for tankers, freighters and vodka in the largest deal ever between a single U.S. firm and the Soviet Union.

Pepal has been sold in the Soviet Union since 1974, when Pepaleo Inc. became the first large U.S. corporation to penetrate the potentially huge Soviet market under the chairmanship of Donald Kendall.

Kendall, who is now director of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council, was expected to be in Moscow for the signing of the new deal, a spokeswoman

It is a moment scientists have been awaiting for years, a critical milestone for what many con-sider to be the most important accentific satellite ever built, a project first proposed in the 1960s and funded by Congress

"I think the importance of this is very profound," NASA astrophysicist Charles Pellerin said. "I believe it's littely we will change the way we think about the universe and our role in it.

"I believe, according to every-thing we know, that at least during this period this will be the most important scientific experiment ever done. Of course.

Working high above Earth's hary atmosphere, the telescope and its near-perfect 94.6-inch-wide mirror, capable of seeing the light of a single firefly 10,000 miles away, will view the universe with 10 times the clarity of ground-based in-struments.

This 10-fold improvement in resolution, comparable to the difference between being able to read the letters in the second row of an eye chart ve. the fine print at the bottom, will allo astronomers to study light emitted from stars and galaxies that were created shortly after the universe exploded into be-

The space telescops will be able to study light emitted up to 14 billion years ago, just a billion or so years after the big hang thought to have created the universe. A major goal of the space telescope project is to limit out how galaxies evolved during the next of

"We can see back to 10 billion

"We can see back to 10 billion light years as well as ground telescopes can see to 1 sillion light years." NASA according to the see to 1 sillion light years we can see with (better) resolution, at 10 billion light years we expect to see what galaxies looked like as they were being born, so to speak.

But the price tag for such knowledge is bids. The telescope cost $1.55 billion to build—house abuttle—largely because of a series of delays that pushed launch from 1983 to the present. Another $800 million was spent for ground equipment, planning for ground equipment, planning and testing and another $200 million will be spent every year on data analysis and to fund research proposals.

Another PTL trial begins

CHARLOTTE. N.C. - A former PTL pastor charged with 12 counts of lying to the federal grand jury that indicted television evangelist Jim Bakker told his congregation he expects total vindication.

The Rev. Samuel Johnson is charged with lying when he told the grand jury 12 times he could not remember the source of $10,000 that became the initial payment to keep Jessica Hahn from talking about her 15-minute sexual encounter with Bakker in 1980.

Jury selection in his trial was to begin today in U.S. District Court.

Johnson faces up to 60 years in prison if found guilty on all counts. But during his Sunday sermon, he told his congregation at Heritage Church — the church Bakker once pastored — he expects to be found innocent by Wednesday.

Controversial exhibit continues

CINCINNATI — A federal judge Sunday conditionally barred law enforcement officials from taking further action against an art gallery for exhibiting erotic photographs taken by controversial artist Robert Mapplethorpe.

U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin gave the Contemporary Arts Center of Cincinnati 24 hours to provide him with copies of the 174 photographs in the exhibition.

If the center complies, Hamilton County Prosecutor Art Ney, Sheriff Simon Lies and Police Chief Lawrence Whalen may not seize the photographs, close the exhibit or intimidate gallery patrons, Rubin ruled.

A county grand Jury returned four obscenity indictments Saturday against the center and its director. Dennis Barrie, who went before Rubin Sunday seeking a court order barring law enforcers from taking further action.

Patrolman Mark Tonge of the Taylor police department said a Pace Warehouse store employee was preparing to crush the Coca-Cola Classic can late last month when he discovered 4.6 grams of crack cocaine valued at $800.

Store employees are instructed to shake all cans before they are placed in a compressing machine.

"One of the cans felt heavy, so he looked in it." Tonge said.

He said the rocks were contained in a bag within a porcelain-lined glass container hidden in the can.

Time squeeze is called a myth

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Americans have more leisure time now than they have had in the last 20 years, said a University of Michigan researcher.

Frank Stafford, who has studied time use internationally, says the "time squeeze" that Americane complain about is largely a myth, and that U.S. citizens are the world's leaders in active leisure activities.

While Japanese men work longer hours than their U.S. counterparts, he said, they have about the same amount of leisure time because they do very little housework. The Japanese also spend more time watching television than any other group studied.

Rebellion spreads to 7 more prisons

LONDON — Inmates at seven British prisons reticited against their guards in a spate of incidents simed at showing solidarity with a group of prisoners who have occupied the Strangewsya Prison for eight days.

The spreading disturbances Sunday, including one that began Saturday evening at Dartmoor Prison 180 miles west of London, put the British penal system through one of its worst

"The British prison system has survived very well a very testing day today," Home Office Minister David Mellor said Sunday.

Conservatives claim victory in Greece

ATHENS, Greece — The conservative New Democracy Party claimed victory today in country's third general election in 10 months, but analysts said the party might fall one seat short of an absolute majority in the 300-member Parliament.

With results tallied from 96.6 percent of the polling stations, New Democracy was ahead with 47.1 percent of the popular vote while the Pan-Hellenic Socialist blovement, or PASOM.

trailed with 38.6 percent. The Communist-led Alliance of the Left captured 10.1 percent, and 37 parties split the rest.

Hungarians seek conservative altiance

BUDAPEST, Hungary — The Hungarian Democratic Forum began negotiations to form a center-right coalition government today in the wake of its landslide victory in Hungary's first democratic elections in four decade

Forum President Jozsef Antall said the decisiveness of Sunday's balloting was a clear mandate for's return to the "well-balanced politics of the center," the kind of government Hungary enjoyed before the communist takeover in 1947.

"The Hungarian people, after having gotten through the last 40 years, cast their votes the same way they did 40 years ago," Antall told a news conference. "The Hungarian people are clear in their support for national values, the values of Christian

Cave serve notice to Pistons

Minutes after the best game of his career. John "Hot Rod" Williams talked "tough" while serving notice to the defending champion Detroit Pistons.

The Cavatiers' forward scored a career-high 33 points Sunday, helping Cleveland hang on to defeat Detroit 100-97 in what could be a preview of the first round of NBA playoffs.

"it's definitely a big win." said Williams, who had also scored 30 points Friday in a loss to the Boston Celtica. This is a team we may have to play in the playoffs so we have to let them know that if they are to play us, it's going to be a tough fight."

Elsewhere in the NBA. Charlotte nipped Golden State 110-109, Houston blasted Orlando 148-123. Indiana tripped New York 99-97, the LA Lakera downed Denver 116-109. New Jersey topped Mismt 102-101 and San Antonio dropped Portland 112-105.

Faldo became the second player in history to win the Masters two consecutive years and he did so Sunday in almost exactly the same way he won it the first time.

Twelve months ago, in the rain and gloom of a miserable Sunday afternoon. Paldo came from five shots behind on the back nine to tie Scott Hoch, survived the first hole of sudden death when Hoch missed a 2-foot par putt that would have won it, then captured the Masters on the next hole with a 25-foot birdle putt.

Faldo found himself four shots behind with eight holes to go Sunday and came back on a gorgeous afternoon to catch the faltering Raymond Floyd, again surviving potential elimination on the first extra hole, and winning the title when Flove itself his approach shot on the second hole of sudden death into the pond that fronts the 11th green.

William Howard Taft, our nation's 27th president, threw out the inaugural First Pitch back in 1910 in a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators. Washington blanked Philadelphia 3-0.

Eighty years later, there is no team in Washington, and the Athletics have moved West during an expansion boom. And the First Pitch tradition has changed somewhat.

President Bush, unable to schedule an Opening Day performance because of the baseball lockout, will be making the ceremonial pitch on the second day of the season - in Canada. He will attend a SkyDome game between the Texas Rangers — co-owned by his son - and the Toronto Blue Jays and might share the honor with Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, according to the Blue Jays public relations director.

Gilbert in Classic form

By Nocite STOCK Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - Brad Gilbert knows that many players on the ATP/IBM tour don't understand his game. His serve is not especially hard, his groundstrokes not amazingly accurate, nor his net game very dominating.

But one thing the other players do know — he just wins. On Sunday afternoon, he captured his first Prudential-Bache Securities Classic title, crushing Christo Van Re-nsburg 6-2, 6-1, in a 52-minute match which was over almost

"I played well." said Gilbert, who lost 6-2, 6-1 to Andre Agassi in last year's final. "I played my best match of the tournament. It was the exact reverse of last year. I'm very happy with the way things are going."

Gilbert, 28, who picked up $32,400 with the win, neutralized Van Rensburg's strong net play with crisp passing shots, forcing the South African to win only 36 percent (13 of 34) of his net points.

After leading 2-1 early in the match, Van Rensburg found himself down 3-2 and 40-0 as Gilbert reeled off. I.I. consecutive points, six of which came on unforced errors. And although Van Renaburg battled back to force deuce, he lost the game after making three more unforced errors.

Things didn't get any better in the second set. Despite having the crowds' support. Van Rensburg

He even tried to stop charging the net and play baseline, but he continued to hit shots into the net and out of the court. He made a total of 23 unforced errors.

Offbert finished the match off in style, acing Van Rensburg with two blistering serves (timed at 110 and 104 mph) for a 5-1 lead in the second set. Match point looked the same as all the other points. Van Rensburg knocking a forehand into

"I'm serving better this year," said Gilbert, who is now 5-0 against Van Renaburg. "Right now, if I serve good, I play good."

Despite feeling sick and going to a hospital Saturday night for treat-ment. Van Renaburg provided no excuses for his loss.

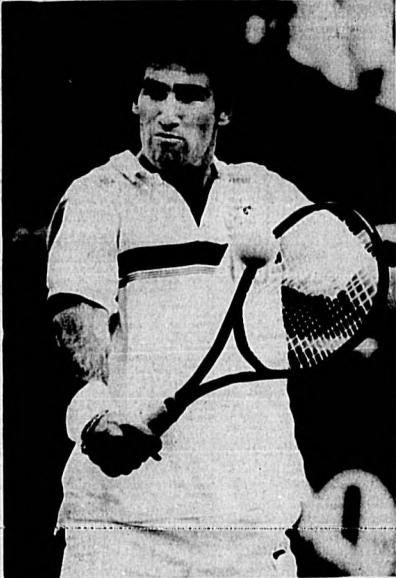

'He (Gilbert) hit some really good shots today," commented Van Renaburg, who earned $19,900 for the second-place finish, the third of his career. "He played better than me today. I just felt I couldn't find my feet - I felt a step slower today. I don't think i played real well."

Gilbert feels he matches up well with the Van Rensburg, 27, currently ranked No. 32 in the world.

"Christo doesn't serve quite hard enough to play his game (against me)," acid Cibert. "Right now, Smsatsified. I concentrated well all week. Each match I hit the ball

Both players compete on different continents next week, with Gilbert traveling to Tokyo and Van Renaburg returning to his hometown of Capetown, South Africa.

Taking advantage of Christo Van Rensburg's problems with unfored errors, Brad Gilbert (above) needed less than a hour to win the championship match of the Prudential-Bache Securities Classic on Sunday afternoon.

County making a name in professional sports

It seems that Seminole County is starting to regain its stature in the world of professional athletics.

athletics.

At one time, when the New York Glants called Sanford Stadium home during the spring. Seminole County was in the national spotlight for a few weeks from late February through the end of March.

Then the Glants headed west and moved their spring training operation to Arizona.

operation to Arizona.

Since then, there have been a couple mentions (it's difficult to tell which ones were serious) about other teams moving into the old ball park. Would a team already situated in Florida re-locate? Maybe a team would come from Arizona to take advantage of the greater number of teams and resulting variety of opposition.

It hasn't happened. Except for the occasional local player who the occasional local player who goes on to the pros, participation in Major League Baseball is in Seminole County's past. But that doesn't mean Seminole County is done with being involved in major athletic competition.

In December, Lake Monroe is home to the Red Lobster Regat-ta, the largest inland sailing regatta in the world. Over 500 sailers with boats in a variety of classes decended on Sanford for the three-day event.

On Sunday at the Racquet Club at Heathrow, Brad Gilbert won the Prudential-Bache Securities Tennis Classic. While the professional tournament is several years old, this was the first year (and certainly not the last) that is played in Seminole County.

County,

Also on Sunday, we learned that not only is Lake Monroe ideal for sail boat racing, its physical characteristics also make it ideal for power boat racing. And if a group of local promoters can make it happen. Sanford could become the "world's championship capital" of the sport. Can you imagine? Can you imagine?

Granted, these events and others (let's not forget the state amateur and professional golf tournaments played on Seminole County courses) may not have the universal appeal of watching the "Say Hey" Kid run one down in center field, but these events are professional in stature and watched nationally (and sometimes internationally) (and sometimes internationally) by people who follow these

In their own way, events such as these are important to the identity of Seminole County. Considered a bedroom community for Orlando, Seminole County sometimes gets lost in the shadow of the big city. Hosting events like these keeps Seminole County from becoming anonymous.

And there will probably be more. In sports, the axiom that success breeds success is particularly accurate. Certainly the success of the Red Lobster Regatta didn't hurt in attracting the American Power Boating Racing Association to Lake

What could be next? More tennis tournaments? Professional golf tournaments of greater magnitude attracting bigger names? Professional hockey? There can be little doubt that Seminole County is again mak-ing its presence felt on the national (and international) sports scene. And its hard to see what the downside could be to this recognition of our home.

Geraniums adapt to any climate

Popular plant produce flowers through autumn

More than half of the flower growers and retail nurseries in the United States grow or sell gerantums. This indicates their wide appeal and range of climatic adaptability. Gerani-ums are popular for their con-tinuous Bowering throughout the summer and serby fell in the summer and early fall in most of continental United States and Canada. In Central Florida, however, geraniums are at their peak of performance late winter through early summer. Traditionally, geraniums are propagated exclusively by branch freely, are less leggy and seem to grown faster. To ensure maximum performance, start with healthy, disease-free plants and follow proper cultural practices.

Geraniums grow best in full sun. They will tolerate partial shade but will usually grow tall, producing fewer lateral branches and consequently, fewer flowers.
They should be spaced 18 inches apart in flower beds. To avoid disease problems and give a well-groomed appearance, cut off all the old flower heads.

Cleantings grows head in soils

Geraniums grow best in soils that provide good drainage and aeration, and have good moisture and nutrient retention capacities. Florida's sandy soils should be amended with organic matter. Incorporation of two to three inches of organic matter into planting beds will increase both water and nutrient holding capacities. Organic materials such as compost or peat moss should be thoroughly mixed in the soil.

Water geraniums during dry periods to prevent wilting and eventual yellowing and dropping leaves. To determine the moisture content of the soil, pick up a handful of soil and press it

Mulching is a good practice to prevent weed growth and con-serve moisture in the soil. Grass clippings, straw, wood chips, sawdust and compost can be used as mulches.

Occasionally caterpillars will feed on geraniums. They can be readily detected by the holes in the leaves where they feed. If only a few are responsible for damage, they should be de-stroyed individually rather than spraying the entire bed.

Genetic inheritance dictates body shape

DEAR DR. GOTT: At 13, I began getting in shape by lifting weights, doing cross country. biking and swimming. Now I'm thin as a rail: I weigh 140 pounds and stand 5 feet 10-1/2 inches. I confess that at times I don't eat enough and have been trying to alter that habit. Why do some people resemble Charles Atlas and others never bulge anywhere?

表现是对表现的表现的,我把这个人的现在分词,我们的是我们的自己的一个人的心态,也不是一个人的人,也不是一个人的人,也不是一个人,也不是一个人的人,也不是一个人的

DEAR READER: Body habitus (shape) is largely a result of genetic inheritance. Some people are naturally stout (endomorphs), some are thin (ectomorphs) and others stocky and muscular (mesomorphs).

Of course, these inherited body builds can be modified: The overweight person can lose weight, and the skinny person can develop muscles through training.

One fact is clear: A person cannot "get in shape" by exercise alone: proper cating habits are essential for muscular development. You evidently are an ectomorph: You've inherited a slim physique. You can "bulk up" and develop your muscles if you eat more calories (to fncrease body weight) and, at the same time, regularly work out to build muscle tissue.

While it's true some people look like Charles Atlas (you're dating yourself with this analogy), most of us must work — and work hard - to achieve the well-proportioned mesomorphic look. To look like Arnold Schwarzenegger, you would have to make a career of body building: daily workouts with weights, a high-protein/high-calorie diet and steroids (a choice that I discourand heart disease).

I think you would be happier looking like Joe Montana. Eat well-balanced meals, get back to regular exercise and learn to throw a quick-release button hook pass.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I play basketball, have been punched in the arms and knocked around

I still have never had a bruise. Have you ever heard of this?

DEAR READER: Yes, I assume you are a young adult and, therefore, do not bruise to the extent older adults do. This is probably because capillary blood vessels within the skin become more fragile with age. Therefore, even minor injuries produce bruises in older people.

By James Jacoby
This deal, from the finals of the North American spring team-of-four championship in 1989, features some distin-guished defense by East-West. Some explanation is needed for the bidding. The double of one heart by North was negative, intended to show only four spades and values that could certainly contest for a part-score. The redouble by East described a good hand, particularly after an original pass. As the bidding proceeded, it was tempting for East to raise to three hearts. He decided instead to defend against three diamonds because he thought correctly that his diamond king was a wasted asset. On the opening lead, declarer rose with dummy's heart king. East, Ron Rubin, won the ace. Sure that his partner had led from the jack (if South held that card he would have played low from dummy), he underled the queen and West won the trick. West, Michael Becker, knew why his partner had put him back on lead, so he played a low spade. Declarer South had little choice but to play low from dummy. East won play low from dummy. East won the queen and switched to a club. South played low from his hand: West won the club king and quickly cashed the spade ace. So poor South was set one trick before he even came on lead. This was a small pickup for the Rubin-Becker team, since at the other table, with less precise defense, three diamonds was allowed to make.
