

ORDER MARKS DAY'S TRADE IN WALL STREET

Decline In Volume Of Deals And Orderliness Of Movement Are Main Features

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(INS)—A flood of profit taking and selling of "support stock" blocked the rally in prices today, after many of the speculative leaders had started the day a few points higher.

The most important feature of the market today was the decline in the volume of transactions to considerably below 4,000,000 shares and the orderliness of the movement of prices, as compared with the last few sessions. Stock sales at noon aggregated $1,150,000, a decline of $1,000,000 from the same period yesterday and in place of the 10- and 20-point dips and rallies in the fast-steppers, few stocks wandered more than 3 or 4 points from Thursday's closing levels.

After the first half-hour the trend of prices was downward, though losses were comparatively small. General Electric declined about 5 points to $18; American Tel. and Tel. lost 3 points; U. S. Steel 2; American Can 3; Johns-Manville 4. On the other hand, Columbia and Consolidated Gas advanced about 1 point, Westinghouse lost 3 and radio 2.

Trading was materially reduced by the unwillingness of professional investors to commit themselves on either side of the market on the eve of a double holiday. With forward liquidation near completion it was believed that heavy pressure had been permanently lifted. In place of the 20-minute delay in the final period, the tape was only 17 minutes late at the close today. Reflection of the upheaval in Wall Street in the last few weeks was seen today in the reports of further tapering off of business, particularly in the luxury and semi-luxury classes, with the unfortunate effects of a considerable buy-off of workmen.

Most of the commodity markets were unsettled as the result of increasing production and a falling off in spot demand. Wheat lost 4 cents a bushel in Chicago and New York, and cotton sold off about a dollar a bale.

Two Marriages Of Cawthon And Wife Confirmed By Him

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 8.—Confirming the statement of County Judge J. C. Bala that he had been secretly married at Bronson, Aug. 25 to Miss Sarah Payne, only to go through a second ceremony at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York city last Sunday, Rainey Cawthon, captain of the University of Florida football team last night declared:

"We didn't intend to let that secret out, but now that Judge Bala told all about it, why, we might as well."

Cawthon said he and his wife, who taught dramatics in the University of Florida Summer school last summer to a class that included the football star, "decided after summer school that we'd go ahead and get married."

"We went down to Miami last summer, school was over," Cawthon said. "My wife went down there visiting friends and I was working there for the University. While we were driving back to Gainesville, we decided to get married. The ceremony was performed by Judge Bala in Bronson last Aug. 15."

"Then, after school opened, we decided we'd better have a nice church wedding and invite the football boys. We didn't tell a soul about the wedding at Bronson except a friend of my wife's who went with us."

Cawthon returned to the university campus from New York city yesterday. Mrs. Cawthon remained in New York city, where she is studying for a Ph. D. degree at Columbia university.

Five Are Killed By Premature Blast

COLEBROOK, Mass., Nov. 8.—(INS)—Fifty pounds of dynamite believed to have been accidentally set off by a falling rock took a toll of five lives in a tunnel a mile inside the earth on the new Swift River project of the metropolitan district water supply here today.

There were conflicting reports as to just what happened. Officials of the West Construction Company said the drillers were making holes in the rocky walls of a shaft. It was believed a rock dropped from the side or ceiling of the shaft, struck the dynamite boxes behind the men, starting the explosion. Another report was that the charge of dynamite had been set in the drilled holes and prematurely exploded.

CAPITAL IS STILL AGITATED ABOUT WHISKEY AFFAIRS

Hint Is Dropped That Diplomatic Corps Is Protected From Quiz

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—A gentle hint that the treasury and state departments are protecting the diplomatic corps against any senatorial inquiry into the diplomatic liquor situation was dropped today by Senator Howell (R) of Nebraska, as the national capital continued to agitate over prohibition enforcement.

Howell announced in International News Service he has been trying for six weeks to get from the two departments a record of diplomatic liquor imports in the last few years. The Nebraskan said he could get no response from the two departments in his requests for information. He apparently hoped to use the information in a speech replying to President Hoover's demand for specific evidence of dry law violations in the national capital.

The federal inquiry into the "Wall Street honor party," described in the senate by Senator Smith W. Brockhart (R) of Iowa, meanwhile continued before a grand jury here. Edward E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and a member of J. P. Morgan and Company who was "invited" to appear before the grand jury Monday via telegraph, last night informed District Attorney Rover he would appear as requested. Loomis got into the case when Brockhart told of seeing him drink liquor from a silver flask at the party.

Walter P. Fahy, New York banker, who staged the party probably will get a chance to tell his side of the story to the grand jury next week. Fahy however has told friends he had nothing to do with furnishing any liquor at the party and could not recall having seen any. Brockhart thought said that silver flasks, filled with whisky, were distributed as "favors."

Howell's personal inquiry, growing out of a speech he made in the Senate last September, though seemed to be running into official snags. He has charged that Washington diplomats had no immunity against the prohibition law. He further argued that all railroads, steamships and truck companies, engaged in importing embargo liquors, were guilty of dry law violations. That was why he called on the treasury and state departments for a list of diplomatic liquor imports.

Senator Norris Hurt
When Struck By Car

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—Senator George W. Norris (R) of Nebraska, veteran insurgent leader of the Senate, was recovering today from painful bruises suffered when he was knocked down by an automobile near the Capitol last night.

A sprained wrist and a badly bruised leg was the extent of the Senator's injuries. He declined medical attention, however, and went to his home unattended. Milton G. Wood, 31, driver of the automobile posted $500 bond on a charge of reckless driving.

Fire prevention and control calls for the concerted and continuous effort of every citizen, with the common end in view of conserving national resources, both in lives and property.

GLASS URGES LAW TO CURB STOCK DEALS

Indirectly Places Responsibility Of Bad Market Condition On Large Private Banks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—Legislation to curb stock market speculation and give member banks more of the huge profits of federal reserve banks was proposed today by Senator Carter Glass (D) of Va., author of the federal reserve act in a letter to Gov. Harding of the Boston Reserve Bank. Glass had been invited to speak before New England bankers out was forced to send a letter instead.

Indirectly placing responsibility for stock market conditions upon big private banks, Glass discussed a further division of reserve profits and then said:

"There are other matters which need grave attention such as modification of the national bank act and the federal reserve act so as to make it more mandatory, if possible, upon the administrators of the banking laws to prevent, by penalization, such disorders in stock gambling operations as have recently disgraced the country."

"If there are men in the financial world, as I think undoubtedly there are, who imagine themselves superior to the existing governmental banking system and who are totally indifferent to the real commercial and industrial interests of the nation, the sooner such men are restrained and severely disciplined by adequate punishment, the better it will be for the country."

Glass' statement apparently was an aftermath of his quarrel with Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, who was charged by Glass with defying the reserve board.

Pointing out that the reserve banks have already paid the huge earnings into the federal treasury, Glass said that member banks should have a greater share of profits. Unless this is done, he said, there is danger of the reserve board's power being supplanted by gigantic bank holding companies.

McGouldrick To Be Tried For Murder Of Ione Ord's Lover

POINT-A-LA-HACHE, La., Nov. 8.—(INS)—John McGouldrick, second mate of the coastwise steamer Creole, today faced trial Nov. 25 for the murder of Jack Kraft, New York pressman whose body was taken from the Mississippi River with a "bullet hole near the heart."

McGouldrick's trial is to be held despite testimony yesterday that Kraft leaped from the Creole's deck in a suicide leap. Gloria Rouser, the lone girl of the death mystery, testified at McGouldrick's arraignment yesterday that she had tried to prevent Kraft from leaping into the river.

District Attorney Leander Perez announced following the hearing that McGouldrick must face trial Perez also stated Miss Rouser, New York society girl, will be held in the county jail at least until tomorrow when he will decide whether to parole the girl to her mother or require a bond for her appearance at the trial.

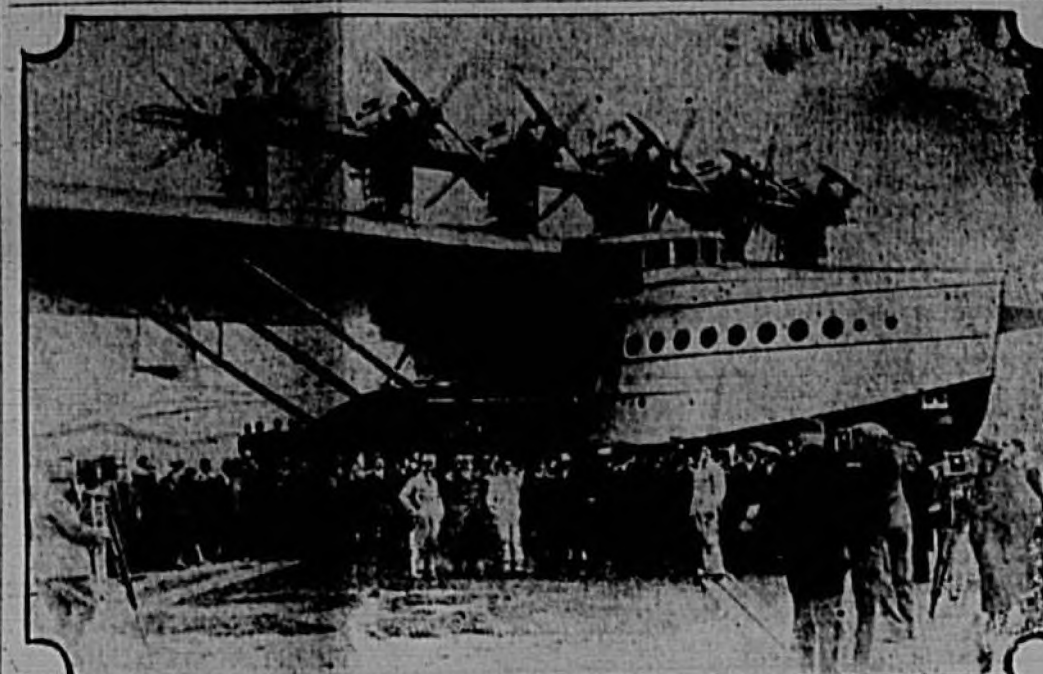

Miss Rouser testified Kraft jumped to his death after she had refused to marry him. In answer to questioning from Perez she said she had known Kraft only a short time and was traveling to the west coast with him to illustrate a series of magazine articles.

Light House Keepers
Commended For Acts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—Official commendation of E. J. Brunner, keeper of the Lloyd Harbor Light Station, New York, and Niels Nilzen, keeper of the Pascagoula River entrance light, Mississippi, for acts of bravery, was announced today by the commerce department.

Brunner, Sept. 21 rescued two men from drowning; they had fallen overboard from a motorboat. Nilzen in the face of hurricane warnings in very bad weather went to the rescue of two boys adrift in a raft in Mississippi Sound.

BITTER CLASHES BREAK OUT OVER TARIFF AFFAIRS

Moses Does Not Deny He Called Coalition Members Bad Names

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—Bitter personal quarrels over the tariff broke out afresh in the Senate today when insurgent Republicans from the West took the floor to flay Senator George H. Moses (R) of New Hampshire, for describing members of the full Democratic-progressive coalition as "sons of wild jackasses."

With Moses presiding as president pro tem, Senators Wheeler (D) of Mont., Brookhart (R) of Iowa and Nye (R) of North Dakota, indulged in personalities in total disregard of the usual rules of senatorial courtesy.

Moses maintained his usual complacency as he was forced to recognize the embattled westerners when they took the floor. He did not deny that he had characterized the coalition as "sons of wild jackasses" at a dinner of New England exporters here last night.

When Senator Wheeler suggested that he might want to explain Moses said: "If the Senator can find a more fitting appellation for the arched eye who run the Senate I'll be glad to use it."

The recent statement of Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, that Republican insurgents from the Northwest who are fighting the rates in the Hawley-Smoot bill "are more dangerous to the country than all the communists combined" also was disputed during the controversy.

"I want to call attention of these Republican senators from the West that this man (Senator Moses) who has made these remarks is the man selected to run the campaign to re-elect Senator Norris next year and to make a strong campaign for all those."

New Smyrna Plans Volusia County
Legion Armistice Day Exposition

The people of Sanford together with those of other nearby towns and cities are invited to attend the Volusia County Legion Armistice Day Exposition, which is to take place in New Smyrna for three days beginning tomorrow. It was announced today by the post commander of New Smyrna Legion.

During the exposition, it was further learned, there will be parades, fireworks, dancing, speeches, band concerts, parades, a football game, a regatta, and several horticultural and agricultural exhibitions. Everything is announced as being free of charge with the exception of the fall and the football game. The expenses of the exposition are taken care of by Volusia County and the American Legion Post of New Smyrna is arranging the program.

The program for the three days of the celebration is given as follows:

"Talkies" Invade Telephone Field

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(INS)—The "talkies" today had invaded the telephone field. A new "talkie" device by which a dial telephone speaks its caller's numbers to control while the number is maintained a silence has been perfected by the Bell Telephone Laboratories. It, according to the company, will be in use here soon. With the new automatic telephone, which was demonstrated last night before the telephone pioneers society.

Sergius P. Grace, assistant vice president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, is required to attend a banquet. The subject merely deals the number of lines and the number of lines to whom it alone is available.

Maddened Husband Wounds Wife, Kills Sister And Himself

CHICKAMAUGA, Ga., Nov. 8.—(INS)—Two persons were dead and a bride of four months today after an angry husband ran amuck with a rifle at the home of his mother-in-law here. The dead were Dorothy Autry, 14, and her brother-in-law, E. J. Strickler, who shot himself to death after slaying the girl and attempting to kill his wife.

Strickler was maddened last night when his young wife refused to return with him to his home in Marietta, Ga., according to Mrs. Emma Autry, mother of the wounded woman.

Strickler came here four months ago to wed his wife. After the wedding they went to his home in Marietta, where they lived two months. They came to Chickamauga two months ago and remained here despite Strickler's repeated desire to return to their Marietta home.

Some time ago I called Sheriff McChesney's office and notified them that someone was shooting birds near my place. They told me to get in touch with Mr. Hodges. And Mr. Hodges was somewhere in the woods and couldn't be found. (Continued From Page Three)

Interstate Business Will Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—A complete survey of the interstate business of electric utilities in the country was directed by the Senate today when it adopted a resolution of Senator Cawthon (R) of Michigan.

The federal trade commission would be required to make a report of the amount of electricity, both for power and light, transmitted from one state to another. The information is expected to be used in consideration of Cawthon's proposal for a new federal commission dealing with interstate communication.

MAIL OF REVERE REVEALS HE WAS RUM DISPENSER

Documents Throw New Light On History Of Revolutionary Hero

By David P. Sontner
International News Service
Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Aside from galloping through the night and into history, Paul Revere, the patriotic horseman of the Revolution, engaged in a number of professions including the sale of anti-prohibition liquor.

In correspondence made public today by F. H. R. Revere, great grandson of the revolutionary hero, bills of lading are included showing that Paul Revere had a consignment of rum at 60 cents a gallon and a case of gin at a proportionate bargain figure. Other documents, hitherto unpublished, showed that Revere was America's original lack of all trades being at various times a dentist, a sugar tapper, a goldsmith, an engraver of the nation's currency, and a powder manufacturer.

In addition, he probably was the new republic's first great industrialist who was in every commercial fire. The copper fastings which he founded in Boston is mentioned today in a corporation headed by his great grandson.

The letters revealed that Revere supplied copper to Robert Fulton for the famous "Clayton" first steamboat.

Revere also was a manufacturer of picture frames and ran a hardware store on Essex Street in Boston.

Revere was justly proud of his ability as a dentist and sent the following reminder to past and future clients: "Paul Revere takes the method of returning his most sincere thanks to the gentlemen and ladies who have employed him in the line of their teeth. He could now inform them and all others who are so unfortunate as to lose their teeth by accident or otherwise, that he still continues the business of a dentist, and flattens himself that from the experience he has had these two years, (in which time he has fixed some hundreds of teeth) that he can fix them as well as any surgeon here, but who ever came from London. He fixed them in such a manner that they are not only an ornament, but of real use in speaking and eating."

The claim, the teeth, and will wait on any gentleman or lady at their beckoning. He may be spoken with at his shop opposite Dr. Clark's at the North End, where the gold and silver teeth's business is carried on in all its branches."

"Affidavit Battle" Looms Today Over Case Of Pantages

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 8.—(INS)—A "battle of affidavits" loomed today on the eve of presentation of a plan for a new trial for Alexander Pantages, convicted on a charge of attacking Miss Eunice Prengle, young amateur dancer.

Three members of the jury which convicted the elder millionaire, all women, have made affidavits asserting that they feared a radio denunciation if they did not convict Pantages.

The other nine jurors, according to the district attorney's office will sign affidavits denying the statements of the three women jurors, as to any alleged threats made concerning the possibility of being criticized over the radio, in the event of conviction was not brought in.

One of the women jurors also asserted that the jurors had discussed the arrest of Garland Biddle, a defense witness, on charges of perjury, although the arrest was made outside of the courtroom and was not supposed to have been known by the jury.

Court Holds Too Many Names In Jury Box; Grand Jury Included Depositors Of Bank

That there were too many names in the box at the time the petit jury which tried Forrest Lake was drawn, and that seven of the grand jurors were depositors in the Seminole County Bank, were the main reasons assigned by the Supreme Court for its reversal of the lower court in the case of the state against Lake.

The Supreme Court points out that it would have been unfair for the defendant to have been tried before a judge who had been a depositor in the defunct bank when the judge might have been injured by the closing of the institution. It further reasons that it similarly would have been unfair for a jury composed of depositors in the closed bank to have tried him. It then cites Section 8213 C. G. S. in the effect that "if the depositor and creditor of a defunct bank is disqualified as a juror in the trial of the cause, . . . such depositor and creditor is also disqualified to act as a Grand Juror."

With regard to the number of names in the box from which the petit jury was drawn, the Supreme Court has this to say: "It was shown that the population of Seminole County was 14,738 at the last State census. It was shown that in October, 1927, the jury box was filled by special order made in open court by Judge M. G. Howe, Presiding Judge, and that the jury box was filled October 21th, 1927, that there were 560 names placed in the box at that time; that between October 7, 1927 and January 10, 1928, there were 230 names drawn from the box. That there were 270 names left in the box. That the jury box was filled again on January 10, 1928. That the 270 names were left in the box and 500 names additional were placed in the box. That this is the same jury box from which the jury was drawn to try the case at bar. That at that time a part of the 270 names remaining over from the October drawing were still in the jury box. That there were 18 of the names on the October list drawn for the trial of this case and answered for service. That no name was placed in the jury box twice.

"Upon this evidence, which was uncontradicted, the challenge to the array of jurors should have been sustained."

The statute clearly contemplates the annual selection of a jury list by the County Commissioners and further contemplates that the names appearing on such list as selected personally by the County Commissioners shall be placed on a separate piece of paper and that this piece of paper shall be folded and put in a box from which list shall be drawn the jurors to serve the courts in the county during the ensuing year. Affirmative was never contained. (Continued On Page Six)

NEW YORK DROPS BACK AS CENTER OF BOXING WORLD

Rickard's Death Was Final Blow To Domination Of Pugilism

By Dave J. Walsh. International News Service Sports Editor. NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Nine months ago, a certain coterie of men around Madison Square Garden set out to make New York boxing forget Rickard. Today, they are in a position to state that they have succeeded beyond all reason. They even have made New York forget boxing.

It may sound silly to those who know the amount of money that flourishes in this town, but nevertheless the possibility that the boxing capital of America is moving elsewhere more than exist. It clamors for a hearing. Right or wrong on this point, there isn't any doubt about the authenticity of another claim. There isn't any doubt that, temporarily at least, Madison Square Garden no longer is the White House of boxing.

It isn't this claim that boxing now looks for its big matches and purses. Boxing would get gamulated eyelids if it did. The garden has sponsored two major fights since Rickard died. One of these was Rickard's own, the Sharkey-Stirling event last winter. The other was the corporation-made fight between Sharkey and Loughran, which netted a lot of hair-cut money.

The corporation's third stand-out match of the year is the Scott Von Porat affair next month and I can't cheer the garden all the way up from the Battery to City Hall on that one because it actually was made by amateur promoters behind the Christmas show.

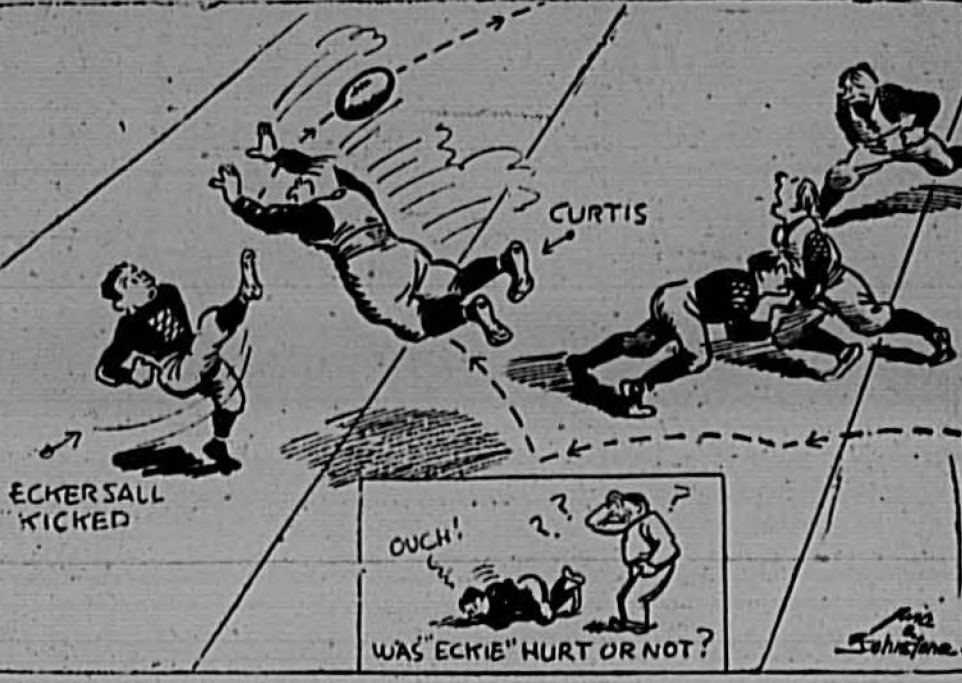

Of course, New York is New York and you can't ever keep money from fighting its way into your good graces. But even money demands intelligence on the part of its custodians and this is one of the reasons that Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles are stealing matches that normally belong to New York. Late boxing towns, they have live promoters whose practical experience makes the garden look amateurish.

They are getting ready with a $2,000,000 arena at St. Louis, too. That means something. People don't promote two million dollars worth of anything unless they have a legitimate notion that they are due to spend some of its profits. The venture means that St. Louis also is aware of New York's stagnation and is trying to get in on the good thing before New York comes alive again. Paddy Harmon and Nat Lewis in Chicago have shown the rest of the country just how easily this can be done.

However, the garden's lack of initiative is only one of the reasons. Another, and very insistent one, is the fact that a lot of hot sport get the tridicaine treatment in Wall Street several weeks ago. A lot of them, even trying

Freak Football Plays

By Will B. Johnstone

Morris Aleshire recalls a play that the writer saw back in 1905 that undoubtedly should be classified as a freak. University of Chicago, coached by the wily Amos Alonzo Stagg, the great Yale celebrity, which plays Princeton today, waged a championship battle with one of coach Yost's great Michigan teams. The famous Walter Eckersall, all American quarterback of all time, a Stagg pupil, was the mainstay of the Chicago team. Weighing only 145 pounds, he could run, kick and drop kick like the fashion of Yale's Albie Booth of today. A midge, a la Booth, he was hounded around by the football giants of his time but never suffered an injury in his four years of college play, and, being a constant menace, he was never spared by tender hearted opponents. He it remembered that "Eckie" kicked five goals from the field against Illinois and won a ball game against Wisconsin, kicking three goals to offset their two touchdowns. Therefore, when Michigan met Chicago it was expected that the Wolverine would give the Maroon a good poney of attention. On the Michigan side was a tackle named "Bull" Curtis, probably the greatest tackle the Middle West ever saw. He was the whole left side of their line. And incidentally, Yost's boys were favorites to win. So, shortly after the kick-off, this freak occurred. Eckersall dropped back to make one of his 60-yard punts. "Bull" Curtis charged in to block the kick, but "Eckie" never had a punt blocked. Curtis recklessly leaped at the flying ball and the momentum of his body threw him smack down on little "Eckie". Down the two came in a heap and the strange part of it was that Eckersall who had never been hurt in a game before, remained on the ground writhing in pain. The officials were amazed, while the Chicago partisans loomed Curtis, who was the cleanest fighter who ever trod a gridiron. So insistent were the crowd that a foul had been committed, poor Curtis was ruled out of the game. Then the strangest part of it occurred. As soon as the Michigan star left the field, the mortally injured "Eckie" rose like an electrified Phoenician and proceeded to win the game.

FRUIT FLY WORK IS REPORTED AS VERY EFFICIENT

Committee Appointed By Secretary Hyde Makes Good Report

Having made a thorough investigation into the Mediterranean Fruit Fly eradication work now being carried on in Florida, the committee, which was appointed some time ago by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, has reported that the work of the research and control forces was efficient in every case.

Mr. Hyde is said to have appointed this committee under the direction of William R. Wood, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House of Representatives, to secure the latest information for the use of that committee. In a letter written to the Secretary of Agriculture, the committee reported that "in order to be familiar with the problem, we spent the last week in Florida, during which time 1,200 miles through the infested and outlying areas were covered and many citizens of Florida interviewed. We commended the work of the research and control forces, the former for the progress made in the short period since the discovery of the infestation April, 1929, with the attractive, poison-sprays, host plant studies and fruit sterilization; the latter for the apparent thoroughness and completeness of the quarantine and eradication work.

"We likewise commend the cooperation of the growers and the sacrifices which they have made in destroying hundreds of thousands of boxes of fruit, in order to aid in the eradication. A study of the activities of the research and control forces, and the expenditures to date show an economical and efficient use of the funds available.

"An important part of the project is the quarantine which involves the possible spread of the fly by means of the public carriers. This work has been admirably accomplished by the National Guards of Florida. Many who have objected to one or another phase of the fruit fly project were interviewed, but after discussion and conference a distinct majority were in favor of a continuation of the research and eradication work on a reasonable basis."

Fox Terrier Plunges 1,500 Feet And Lives

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—(INS)—Plunging 1,500 feet to the ground from an airplane, and escaping unhurt was the unique accomplishment today of a parachute-jumping fox terrier at Chandler Field here.

The dog was taken aloft by his owner to practice a stunt he was pulled off at a forthcoming air meet. From an altitude of 1,500 feet the canine, with a parachute attached to its back, jumped from the fuselage. The safety device failed to function, and the dog shot with terrific speed to the ground.

RECORD IS MADE IN EARLY SALES OF CITRUS CROP

Fifteen Per Cent Of Grapefruit Crop Is Shipped In 8 Weeks

ORLANDO, Nov. 7.—September and October shipments of grapefruit out of Florida, not only have set a record for early movement, but have reduced the state's grapefruit crop by more than fifteen per cent of the estimated yield for the year, it is learned at fruit fly eradication headquarters here. The government's system of certifying shipments this year for the first time makes it possible to account accurately for every box of citrus fruit leaving the state. Florida grapefruit shippers to date including Oct. 31 amounted to 45,100 boxes, including export shipments and movement to canneries in the state. The earlier crop estimate from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture put this season's grapefruit production at 6,300,000 boxes. Shipments to date, 15.3 per cent of this season's crop. This leaves only 5,447 per cent of the Florida grapefruit crop to go to market over the entire balance of the shipping season.

While the original government estimate was for 6,300,000 boxes of grapefruit, prominent citrus shippers have expressed belief that these figures may be reduced, because the records show that in very many instances crops thus far picked have been below the estimated yield of the properties from which they came.

Even though competition from other grapefruit shipping areas may prevent any shortage of the grapefruit supply for a time it is evident, with the short crop of grapefruit all around and the very considerable portion of the Florida crop which already has been moved, that Florida grapefruit should be in a strong position in the markets of the country.

Negotiations Begun On Debt Settlement

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—(INS)—Actual negotiations looking toward a separate agreement between Germany and the United States on debts and reparations were begun here today. Edwin Wilson, secretary of the American embassy in Paris, who has come to Berlin for the purpose, is conducting the negotiations on behalf of the United States.

The agreement is designed to prove a means for Germany to pay the United States the costs of the American army of occupation and other debts resulting from the war, without recourse to the Young plan or the international bank for reparations settlements.

New Star Looms On Scientific Display Florida Eleven In Causes Discussion Person Of L. Silsby In Electric World

By Frank S. Wright. GAINESVILLE, Nov. 7.—Lincoln W. Silsby, aged 20, a sophomore from New Smyrna, hasn't done as great amount of fullbacking for the University of Florida this Fall, but he figures his time is coming.

The main reason why Link, as the boys call him, hasn't been in the forefront much this year is because Florida has been blessed with two outstanding fullbacks in Capt. Rainey Cawthon and Ed Sauts. Cawthon finishes his football this year. Sauts has but one year more, so in two seasons following this one, Link Silsby hopes to do what his predecessors have so ably done.

The injury to Goodbread in the Georgia game brought about a change in the backfield for the Florida game, and Sauts was at right backfield. If he remains at that post, Link may get to see more action in the remaining four contests this year than he previously anticipated.

Link came to the University of Florida in 1927 and played in the freshman backfield with Bethea, Sauts and Ferguson. He did all the punting and was a big cog in one of the best rounded freshman backfield combinations ever in Gatorland. His father died early in the spring of 1928 and Link was out of school until this fall.

Pacing such competition as tossed up by Cawthon and Sauts, Silsby has not had much opportunity to show his wares in varsity football company, but he's evidenced enough to make his presence desirable, and a bright future for him is predicted by those closely following his development.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7.—(INS)—A Yost-coached football team is awaiting Harvard here for this Saturday's intercollegiate battle. The veteran "Hurry Up" Yost last night assisted Coach Harry Kipke in directing the Wolverine drill in an effort to break the losing streak.

CAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 7.—(INS)—More speed was the keynote of Illinois' drill for the Army conflict this Saturday as Zupke modified his team for the Cabot game. With the exception of Hills at tackle no further changes over the lineup of the Northwestern game have been made.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 7.—(INS)—A Northwestern squad of 34 men embarked tonight for Columbus, O., to battle the Ohio State team. Defensive scrimmage occupied most of the practice session yesterday.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 7.—(INS)—Chicago's style of overhead attack is worrying Wisconsin's defense considerably. Yesterday the freshmen, using Chicago ploys, gained consistently on the varsity. Ernie Lushy, punting ace, has almost recovered from an injury and may see service in Saturday's game.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 7.—(INS)—Bronko Nagurski, despite an injured hand, is still an active member of Minnesota's unbeaten team. He took part in the drill yesterday which riddled the freshman presentation of Iowa pays.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 7.—(INS)—Notre Dame's first and second teams were to stage their final heavy workout today in preparation for the Drake game Saturday.

BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR INDIGESTION

Kentucky Man Tells How He Suffered From Pains In Stomach.

Brookston, Ky.—"I have used Theford's Black-Draught thirty-five or forty years, keep it in the house all the time, and would not be without it," says Mr. H. O. Grandstaff, of this place.

"I am 71 years old, and am reasonably stout. I attribute my good health to Black-Draught, as it is about all the medicine I ever take.

"I take Black-Draught mostly for stomach trouble. I think it practically relieved me. I take it when I feel any trouble coming on.

"I used to have pains in my stomach. I would also feel bloated and uncomfortable after meals, and then have a headache and dizziness about the eyes. After I found out about Black-Draught, and would take small doses after meals, I was relieved.

"I don't have to take Black-Draught all the time—just occasionally."

Theford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Good for children, men and women, and those of advanced age.

Biggers Wish Enforcement Of State Game Law

The Sheriff's office won't have anything to do with the game laws.

It was out west of Sanford last week and had a talk with some of the people of that section and they told me that they had seen coveys of turkeys with only about half of them left. One of them said he had seen a Sanford man kill a turkey out there.

"I have talked with James Black, the game commissioner of the District, and C. W. Entminger, with regard to keeping a part of the Wakiva reservation open. At present over two-thirds of the best hunting territory in the county is closed. I think it would have been proper for them to keep the north half of the hammock closed, but they should open Shepherd's scrub to the people to hunt in. This would be fair to all parties concerned.

"I think it would be a good thing for the County Commissioners to give Mr. Hodges several deputies to help him enforce the game laws during the next 10 days for he cannot possibly look after all sections at the same time. And I believe he is doing his best to protect the game in this county."

who came to the attention of the House, said Senator Wheeler, referring to Moses' chairmanship of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

"In the days before dry dinner the senator from New Hampshire referred to the 'farm bloc' as being composed of 17 lawyers, one editor and one well digger, interjected Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa. "Since it has become the fashion to have dry dinners the senator calls them sons of wild jackasses."

Wheeler declared that Moses and Reed both expressed the thought of manufacturers in New England and Pennsylvania and said the Northwest would resent it.

Poisoned Alcohol Will Not Endanger Christmas Drinks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(INS)—Industrial alcohol production and distribution has been placed under such effective control that there will be no poison Thanksgiving and Christmas liquor from that source, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran declared today.

From two to eight dry agents are on duty at each of the 60 industrial alcohol plants of the country, checking every step of production, while distribution likewise is supervised by experts to prevent diversions to bootleg channels.

Virtually none of the 100,000,000 gallons of denatured alcohol produced during the past year has gotten into bootleg channels Doran said. He explained that the denaturing formulas are so effective that the bootleggers abandoned industrial alcohol as their principal source of intoxicants and turned to the manufacture of moonshine alcohol out of sugar and other commodities.

That doesn't mean that it will be safe to drink anything distributed by the bootleggers during the holidays, however, Doran pointed out that occasionally a consignment of bootleg whiskey or gin concocted from wood alcohol, a deadly poison, gets on the market frequently causing deaths. He also declared that much of the illicitly distilled alcohol and whiskey is poison because of improper methods or haste in manufacture.

Society Matron Held In Death Of Banker

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—(INS)—Clarence R. Saunders, 54, wealthy Cleveland, Ohio, attorney, banker, and prominent Harvard graduate was killed while crossing Memorial Drive here, and as a result Mrs. Alice De F. Sedgwick, young society matron, and the recent bride of Frances

M. Sedgwick, of New York and Southbridge, today faced a charge of manslaughter.

She and her husband, now attending the Harvard Business School, told police they did not see Saunders until he stepped directly into the path of the automobile.

HOTEL HURNS

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Nov. 8.—(INS)—The Hotel Bayou, a favorite resort much frequented by politicians and sport followers here, burned to the ground this morning. About 75 guests fled from the hotel after being aroused by a night watchman. The fire started in an elevator shaft and spread rapidly despite the efforts of three fire engines to control it.

First Period Day Left

Make The Most of It The Time Is Short

The first period of The Sanford Herald's Steamship Tour Campaign is fast drawing to a close. There is only one day left for contestants to capitalize on their opportunities by securing first period votes. In the second period the votes given for subscriptions will be just half the number offered during the first period, so workers can readily realize the importance of strenuous efforts before 10 o'clock Saturday night. The Herald office will remain open until that time to accept reports of contestants who wish to work until the last minute.

NOT TOO LATE TO ENTER and WIN

EVERY-ONE HAS AN EQUAL CHANCE--MAKE THE MOST OF YOURS

View Of One Of The Clyde Lines' Magnificent Steamships

Subscriptions secured in the Second Period Will Earn Only HALF as many Votes as in the FIRST PERIOD

Don't Be Sorry-Play Safe!

Why take a chance when you don't have to? Plain facts show that subscriptions in the second period earn only half the number of votes offered in the first period and workers should make every effort to ballot their full strength before the period ends at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Rally friends to your aid—resort to every possible means in super-effort to gain a first period lead—everyone is on an equal basis and has the same chances—be ambitious, be determined—let nothing stand in your way—the time is short—get out and win!

Contrary to general opinion, it is not too late for any ambitious person to enter and win—the first period does not close until Saturday night—by rallying the support of friends and exerting every effort during the few days remaining, anyone has a good opportunity to win. Enter now!

NOW is the time to put forth your best efforts—FIRST PERIOD ENDS SATURDAY

The crash of the stock markets just goes to show that real estate is not the only place where there are paper profits.

Lives of great men all remind us, We can make our lives sublime, And by striving to emulate, Save ourselves from doing time.

No, we don't believe the tariff association has anything to do with the Bootleggers League which also says for protection.

Sanford got more good publicity out of the night football game than it has received from anything since the Milwaukee Brewers' arrival here.

L. Mellon's million dollar check to the Vagabonds, has already arrived in Miami for the season. There's coming down early this year.

Smoking of the Brewers, why not get them to come here again next spring, and what became of that other baseball proposition mentioned at a Commission meeting lately?

The Florida legislature kicked to the thousand dollars to the campaign fund of the Southern Tariff Association. We didn't know that the legislature had the authority to make such contributions.

In the short space of one month, some fifty thousand dollars' worth of liquor paraphernalia fell into the hands of federal agents in the city of Tampa. We can only assume from that that either the agents in Tampa are unusually active, or that the bootleggers are.

Mayor Walker, opposed in Tuesday's election by three other candidates, continues to be mayor of New York City, showing that all one needs, to be mayor of the largest city on earth, is a pleasant smile and a knowledge of how to greet in the most approved collegial boy manner.

John D. Rockefeller said a week ago that the stock market had hit bottom and that those who bought at that time would realize big profits. Some folks took his advice, thinking that he old a man would not try to kid the gullible public, but Wednesday's stocks again went down like the Titanic.

The Tampa Tribune suggests that A. R. Key be pardoned. We will go the Tribune one better. A local man suggests to the State Pardon Board that every Seminole County convict now incarcerated at Raiford be liberated and that a monument be erected at the band shell in memory of those who died there.

No one has yet come forward with any tangible plan for inaugurating an annual Seminole County Fair beginning next January. This is something which Sanford of all cities and Seminole land in Florida, should have, and some enterprising citizen with progressive ideas should take the suggestion and do something with it.

"Deadwood Dick," who frequently dashed through the open doorway with a blazing cannon in both hands and a dagger in his teeth, just in time to prevent the spilling of the heroine's blood, has just been discovered—unearthed, we started to say—in Omaha, Nebraska, where at the age of eighty-three he is to take part in celebrating the commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Nebraska's induction as a territory. He is generally recognized as the real life and blood hero who inspired the dime novel of a quar-

Key Should Be Paroled

We respectfully but urgently recommend a special meeting of the State Pardon Board, to grant a conditional pardon or parole to A. R. Key, of Sanford, serving a sentence at Raiford on conviction of misuse of funds of a bank of which he was Vice-President.

The pardon should be conditional on the further disposition of the case of Forrest Lake, who was President of the bank in which Key was his subordinate officer, and whose conviction and sentence to 14 years on four charges similar to those on which Key is "doing time," have been reversed by the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court, in its reversal of the Lake conviction, did not go into the trial of the ex-banker, the testimony or the verdict, based its decision on irregularities in the selection of the Grand Jury which indicted him. Too many names were placed in the box from which the Grand Jury was drawn and the Grand Jury included depositors of the bank. Because of these entirely technical objections, the result of a long and arduous trial has been nullified. Meantime, Key, whose guilt, if any, must have been subordinate to that of Lake, his superior officer, if any, is a convict at Raiford. Were there no technicalities in his case?

Certainly, justice would suggest that Key be pardoned—conditionally, as we have indicated. We bring his case to the prompt attention of the Pardon Board.—Tampa Tribune.

Big Little Men

The ordinary conception of a football player is a big bruising hulk of a fellow who can run through the side of a house without any material damage to his anatomy. So anonymous has size become with football men that we usually refer to them as towering tackles, gigantic guards and other names connoting extraordinary tonnage.

In the old days, when men were men and women were glad of it, the association of beef and strength with gridiron prowess was more closely identified. Those were the days when the flying wedge was the popular offensive weapon of football and its execution appeared more like the charge of modern tanks than an athletic maneuver. Smashes at the center of the line required very little skill but plenty of toughness to withstand the opposing lunges of giant line-men.

But even in oldtime football there was an occasional player of small size who would stand out and shine above his gargantuan comrades. Such a player was one of Princeton, whose feats as a 130-pound half-back have made his name immortal. Eckersall of Michigan will never be forgotten as the greatest quarterback his school ever produced. Eckersall weighed only 145 pounds but he managed to do everything with a football anyone could hope to do and never was injured in spite of the fact he was opposed sometimes by men twice his weight.

Although today the size of players has become less important and teams are getting lighter, the public never fails to marvel when a bantamweight enters a game to make monkeys out of bulkier but clumsier opponents. Thus when Albie Booth, 145-pound Yale quarterback stepped through the Army for 224 yards, three touchdowns and victory for his team a few weeks ago, the public was quick to acclaim him as a phenomenal player.

Clyde Crabtree of Florida with his 145 pounds of human dynamite has at one time or another been so devastating to his opposition that he has won the sobriquet of the "Cannon Ball," and like many of the other small players he seldom is injured in a game.

Thus it is apparent that in the hardest game in existence, little men frequently hold their own with the brawniest giants. It has never been questioned that small men are not handicapped in fields requiring mental ability or the ability to achieve great things, and we have only to cite the example of Napoleon, who as a lightweight, played one of the greatest games of world achievement in history.

TELLING THE WORLD

BY NEAL O'HARA

THE ONE HUNDRED NADDEST CASES

Among the persons who got wiped out in the bear market were: The fellow who had 600 shares of Autostrop on margin and thought the Autostrop Company made beta fo, motor, cars. The chap that thought Brown Shoe only made ten bucks.

The lady who bought 1,000 shares of Hotany Mills because she thought they made artificial flowers.

The market expert from Evanston, Ill., who loaded up on Hawaiian pineapple shares because he figured they manufactured bombs.

The Broadway smart guy who thought if American Piano went down any lower, Helen Morgan couldn't have any place to sit.

And that other Times Square trader who thought "Int. Rap. Tran." made wooden transoms that house detectives rap on.

Then there was the widow who invested her savings in General Bronze, thinking the company made Bronze statues of Civil War generals to put in public squares and parks.

A man in Scarsdale who thought "Lee Rub. and Tire" was a liniment concern.

The fellow who put up more margin on 300 shares of Fairbanks and thought he was backing Doug's new film.

Then there was the shrewd market follower who had 250 shares of "Tenn. C. and C." and thought it was a brand of 10-cent ginger ale.

There was a lady in Nutley, N. J., who bought 150 of McGraw-Hill and thought she was investing in the Polo Grounds.

Another female school teacher dumped her savings into Booth Fisheries, figuring they controlled all the phone booths where people fish for return nickels.

The World's Window

By Pierre Van Passon

Black men and brown men, men with dirty head-wrappings, blind beggars, half-naked urchins, Bedouins with flashing eyes, heavily veiled women who seem no more than walking mummies, colonial camels with hairy flanks, all these multiplied ad infinitum, endless streams of them, push you along, elbow bump, shove, crush and nib you in the native bazaar. It doesn't matter which city you take, Cairo or Jerusalem, Beirut or Damascus. The scene is pretty well the same everywhere. It differs only in size and dimensions. Cairo is the largest this side of the Himalaya Mountains. The din and clatter is unbelievable; merchants cackle and argue, sheep bleat and baa. A native policeman blows a whistle to make himself a passageway. They donkeys supporting gentlemen of immense volume trot perilously over the slippery cobblestones, their legs spreading out in an X-shape. The shops are mere holes in the wall—dark mysterious places, from which a turbaned or veiled individual topples like an automatic Jack-in-the-box the moment you halt to inspect some of the wares displayed. Every second place is a cafe or ice cream parlor. All are crowded with disputing and gesticulating Arabs and cool black Abyssinians. Each cafe, refreshment booth, barber shop boasts a huge gramophone. It's of the old screaming, unimproved variety, and bellows from morn till night. It does not appreciably increase the fracas in the bazaar. I doubt if you could hear the rumble of thunder above this infernal bedlam, or even the firing of a battery of cannon.

Passports, Please

Unless one be thoroughly exasperated with all the passports and visa nonsense flourishing in Europe it is quite an amusing game. It also gives a lot of people some thing to do, which is an important consideration for a man of humanitarian feelings. This does not prevent the matter from becoming ridiculous at moments, however. When you get a jet of real efficient passport officials to go over your booklet it is a matter of profound and mysterious import, to judge by their unsmiling faces. They adopt the attitude of first class sleuths, pour-say-gim. One gets hold of your passport and holds it up against the light to verify the watermark. Another takes it from his colleague's hands, while casting a penetrating glance at your features and proceeds to compare your physiognomy with the photo pasted on the passport. The little book, ten to one he will glance up again, startled, no doubt, by the similarity that exists after all between the photo of the disheveled refugee that the passport snapshot invariably portrays to the man in front of him. I do not know what ideas passport officials have of mankind. But they must have the notion that most of us, in our homeland, lead dissipated and worthless lives. For I have never seen one of these spongers without the heavy looking fully like a disreputable drunk or near imbecile. A matter of curiosity in the hieroglyphics that the officials get out of your travel booklet. But the questions they ask in some countries are transparent enough. They want to know if you are tainted with any kind of political virus that might be dangerous to the regime in vogue in their land.

"White Man's Hell"

No European can stand the climate of the lands adjoining the Red Sea. That is to say, mutual labor of any kind is impossible to him. British troops stationed at Aden, for instance, are rotated every six months. This period has been found to be the limit. Native labor is practically unobtainable. Even Africa Negroes refuse to undergo the terrific strain of working under a sun that stings almost vertically above. But who you may ask, works the extensive salt pans that stretch in both directions along the coast at Aden? And the answer is, Italians. The climatic resistance of these people is something phenomenal. Not only do men live there but women and children from Italy form a large colony to what is sometimes called the "White Man's Hell." Such people are uncatchable. Aden is no more than a rather large collection of nuts and barracks with corrugated iron roofs, with a bleak, sun-baked shore in front and terraced, forbidding hills and mountains in the distance, with nowhere a single tree or a blade of green. And here Italian children walk around bare-headed!

Where one of two are gathered together, only the stock market is discussed. A Fifth Avenue jeweler in New York lets it be known that he has for sale a $300,000 pearl necklace, which can be bought for $100,000. But it must be all cash. Some lady apparently expected prices to go up forever. Arthur Brisbane—such things have been done in Florida.

If the United States were to state whose present names are about the recent European practice of reviving old place names such as Olan for Christiania, Niagar for Trondhjem, Helsinki for Helsinki, Warszawa for Warsaw, and Praha for Prague, the names of the 48 states would vary in many cases, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Nineteen states have different original names they could go back to: Alabama, Arizona, Queensland, California, Illinois, Ayubba (Iowa), Kanza, Kentake, Masowidchush (Massachusetts), Mishigamaw (Michigan), Mississippi, Missouri (Ohio), Texas, Ute, Mishkonging, Arbuwamink (Wyoming), Arkansas.

Restoration of old names would require Delaware to revert to De la Warr, the name selected in honor of Lord de la Warr, New York was named for the Duke of York, but if origins were to be pushed back as far as possible the Empire state must receive the old English form, becoming New Ewreux.

Revival of an historic name, such as that of Leone for Lansing in Poland, would restore Vert Mont in honor of the French, Hood in honor of the Dutch explorer and Orjones, as a compliment to Spanish Conquistadores.

Illinois serves as an example of MONEY MATTERS

FRANKLIN'S MONEY

The little building in which Benjamin Franklin printed his books, his Poor Richard's Almanac and other documents, survived till 1881, when it was demolished to make room for a modern structure. One little memento, however, was saved—a small closet door—a disreputable looking antique with curved hinges, peeling paint, a useless keyhole and a frail wooden latch. This door has recently passed into the possession of the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia, where it will be preserved along with other relics as a rare remembrance of the patriot saint.

Many of the activities of this great American are well known to all of us. It is not so well known, however, that the famous colonial money of New Jersey, issued in 1726 and 1727, was printed by Franklin, and that it was done on a diminutive press in the little Philadelphia house.

Providing work for from six to eight additional men, the McCormick Lumber Company has begun sawing up raw timber at their plant on North Delaware avenue at the railroad for the first time in three years. The logs are being brought in from various small timber tracts in the vicinity of DeLand and sawed in the rough at the planing mill and then passed on to the finishing mill for final trimming. Workmen are busy setting a roof over the planing machinery recently set up, and the yards now present a busy scene, with the buzz of the various mills singing a song of much activity.—DeLand News.

FASHIONS for the SMART WOMAN

SLIM ONE-PIECE

Women became so used to slim little one-piece tennis frocks this summer, that it is logical to expect a great change for the straight, one-piece woolen frock for fall. A youthful light weight tweed model is shown on the left with circular flared side sections, topped by patch pockets.

A slightly more dressy version of the one-piece appears on the right. The skirt is gathered and the bodice develops a pleated theme. A complete selection of the newest fashions will be found in the Fashion Review Fashion Quarterly for Fall, on sale at newsstands and pattern counters.

First Model: Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 4786. Sizes 14 to 42, 45 cents.

Second Model: Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 4786. Sizes 14 to 44, 50 cents.

Mrs. T. A. Brotherton presided at the meeting of Circle Number Six of the First Baptist Church which was held on Monday afternoon at her home, 2215 La Belle Avenue. Mrs. Ernest Gatchel conducted a study of a chapter of the mission study book after which it was voted that Mrs. R. I. Gibson should entertain the members at their next meeting.

Refreshments were served for the following: Mrs. Jane B. Smith, Mrs. F. R. Savage, Mrs. Loretta Brotherton, Mrs. Forest Gatchel, Mrs. J. H. Parker, Mrs. Arthur Gatchel, Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins, Mrs. M. G. Lewis, Mrs. H. C. Moore, Mrs. C. A. Tyre, Mrs. R. I. Glenn and Mrs. H. F. Giovanni.

Mrs. McKay Presides At Meeting Of Club

At the general business meeting of the Woman's Club which was held on Wednesday morning at the club rooms on Oak Avenue, Mrs. G. E. McKay presided and the Literature Department had charge of the program. The following committees were appointed to have charge of the sectional meeting which will be held on Thursday Nov. 14 at the Woman's Club here: hostesses, Mrs. G. E. McKay, Mrs. John W. Sneed and Mrs. J. H. Coldough; registration committee, Mrs. Henry Wight and Mrs. J. C. Gibbs; and luncheon committee, Mrs. Enobar Curlett, Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. Howard C. Long, Mrs. Carrie Willis and Mrs. I. M. Telford.

During the business session it was decided that the club should sponsor a minstrel show which will be given at a future date. Mrs. Henry Wight announced at this time that under the capable management of Mrs. W. T. Wheeler, the Thrift Shop, which is sponsored by the Woman's Club, is progressing well and has paid all of its debts. Mrs. Wight further stated in her talk that at the next meeting of the Welfare Department, Mrs. W. M. Scott would give a "travel talk."

Immediately before the closing of the business session Mrs. McKay announced that the speaker at the December club meeting would be Walter P. Corbett. The business meeting was then concluded and a play reading conducted by the Literature Department was presented by Miss Love Turner, Miss Ruth Hand, Miss Sarah Wheeler and Mrs. G. E. McKay. The title of the production was, "When Grates Hang High," a burlesque on Woman's Club life.

Mrs. E. D. Bullock, the oldest member of the Woman's Club, who celebrated her birthday anniversary recently, was presented with a large bouquet of pink rosebuds, a gift from Mrs. McKay.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. B. Cogburn, Mrs. R. D. Blinholser and Mrs. Henderson.
