FLORIDA BRIEFS

South Florida water restrictions may end

WEST PALM BEACH — Mandatory water restrictions in south Florida may be coming to an end.

The staff of the South Florida Water Management Board is expected to recommend Thursday that the board lift the mandatory restrictions, a spokeswoman said.

"The long-term drought and its effects are not over, but the dry season is," said spokeswoman Ann Overtown. "We still have an ultimate water-supply problem, but right now we're getting out of the crisis."

Heavy rainstorms over the past several weeks have helped to replenish ground water supplies.

Nevertheless, the proposal faces opposition from some board members.

Leads sought in murder

ATLANTA — Police still have few leads in the slaying of a Miami man who was killed in a hail of bullets as he was chased through a housing project, authorities said Wednesday.

The victim, Gregory Manson, 21, died of two bullet wounds to the back.

Police said a bystander, identified as Jerome Hambrick, 26, was hit in the leg by a stray bullet. He was treated and released from Grady Hospital.

Astronomer fights to be kept in the dark

ORLANDO — An internationally known Arizona astronomer is bringing his campaign against light pollution to Florida, saying the number of bright lights being burned at night should be cut.

Astronomer David Crawford of the Kitt Peak National Observatory near Tucson, Ariz., is executive director of the International Dark Sky Association, which promotes the use of efficient lighting outdoors.

Crawford says the use of bulbs that send too much of their beam skyward is causing pollution for astronomers and amateurs who want to explore the heavens. Lights should be pointed downward to improve visibility.

Chiles puts environment at top of list

MIAMI — Lawton Chiles, the Democratic candidate for governor endorsed by noted environmentalist Marjory Stoneman Douglas, says a cleanup of the Everglades would be a top priority in his administration.

Chiles also says he would make sugar growers pay a "major" share of the cost of that cleanup. How much those growers should pay was debated by this year's Legislature.

The former U.S. senator met Tuesday with Douglas at her Coconut Grove home.

Douglas, who founded Friends of the Everglades, has been a critic of the sugar industry on the southern shores of Lake Okechobee.

Man skips before guilty verdict

MIAMI — A 40-year-old boat mechanic on trial for manslaughter walked out of a Miami courtroom shortly before the jury found him guilty and has not been seen since.

Steven Kivett had appeared in court every day since his trial began last week. After the jury began its deliberations Tuesday, however, Kivett left the courtroom and did not come back.

Kivett, who was free on bond, was on trial for the second-degree murder of his girlfriend. Police say the couple was playing with a gun when it discharged, striking the girlfriend in the head.

If caught, Kivett faces up to 17 years in jail.

Fox had a cow?

ORLANDO — Federal authorities have confiscated more than 1,000 Bart Simpson T-shirts after 20th Century Fox had a cow about the unauthorized manufacturing operation.

The raid Tuesday at Florida Classic Impressions took place after 20th Century Fox asked for a restraining order against the company.

Dudes from the U.S. Marshals office showed up as about a half-dozen workers were making the shirts.

20th Century Fox holds the licensing rights for the characters from The Simpsons.

Man and cat shot in trailer

HAWTHORNE — A man and his cat were recovering today after both were hit by a bullet that came through a wall at his mobile home.

Police have no idea who fired the shot, but they do not think anyone intended to shoot the victim, Bill Hanner.

Authorities say Hanner was asleep in his recliner early Tuesday with the cat on his lap. Hanner told authorities he heard an explosion as the bullet struck his right arm, which was draped across his chest.

The bullet then struck Pinky the cat, before coming to rest across the living room. Hanner was not seriously injured.

Squeeze loosens on oranges

Monthly estimate up but season still down

By CHARLES J. ABBOTT
UPI Farm Editor

An upturn in Florida's Valencia orange crop is helping to swell the U.S. orange crop to 184 million boxes, up 3 percent from last month, the government estimated Tuesday.

A record Navel orange crop in California also is a pricetole factor.

Nonetheless, the 1989-1990 orange harvest would be 12 percent smaller than the preceding season. A devastating freeze last December in Texas and Florida slashed production of an already small crop.

In its June crop report, the Agriculture Department projected the Florida crop at 110 million boxes, up 2 million boxes from the May estimate but 25 percent below last season. California's output was forecast to fill 71 million boxes, up 3 million boxes from May, and up 17 percent from the preceding season.

Oranges are the dominant U.S. citrus crop and Florida is the No. 1 orange state.

Last season, the U.S. orange crop filled 207.1 million boxes. The citrus crop was estimated as 10.8 million tons, up 200,000 tons from May.

Florida's Valencia orange harvest was estimated at 42 million boxes, up 5 percent from last month but still 31 percent below last season. The Sunshine State also grew 68.1 million boxes of early and mid-season oranges. The orange harvest is nearly over.

California Navel orange production was estimated as a record 43 million boxes, up 5 percent from the May estimate and 26 percent above last season's mark. The estimated output of the Valencia crop was raised 4 percent, to 28 million boxes, and would be 13 percent larger than last season.

Texas was forecast to harvest 1.2 million boxes of oranges, the same as last month but 35 percent less than last season.

Frozen concentrated juice yield from Florida oranges was estimated at 1.23 gallons per box, up 0.01 gallons from last month and well below last season's 1.53 gallons. The reduction is a sign of freeze losses. The record is 1.55 gallons, set in 1987-1988.

The U.S. grapefruit crop again was forecast to fill 48.4 million boxes, the same figure as in May but 30 percent below last season.

Checking for Tuberculosis

Seminole County Health Department employee Iris Quinn injects a small amount of the tuberculosis antigen into Lyman student Lane Wiseman, 15, on Tuesday to determine whether he has contracted the disease. One student at Lyman was diagnosed as having TB and all students who were in class with him are being tested.

Accused spy ordered held without bond

BY VICTOR GALVAN
United Press International

TAMPA — An ex-sergeant accused of causing a serious breach in U.S. and NATO security by videotaping military secrets for delivery to Eastern European countries was ordered held without bond Tuesday pending his espionage trial.

Roderick James Ramsay, 28, a former assistant documents custodian for the U.S. Army 8th Infantry Division in West Germany, said nothing during the five-minute detention hearing.

During an earlier, 1 1/2 hour hearing Friday, FBI Special Agent Joe Navarro testified that Ramsay acknowledged videotaping hundreds of sensitive documents in 1985 for Clyde Lee Conrad, a retired sergeant who was convicted last week of treason by a West German court.

"Based on the information and testimony presented last Friday, there is probable cause to hold the defendant. ... I order that he be detained until his trial," said U.S. Magistrate Elizabeth Jenkins.

No trial date has been set. If convicted, Ramsay would face a possible life sentence.

Ramsay was arrested without incident last Thursday on a downtown Tampa street not far from FBI offices. Assistant U.S. District Attorney Greg Kehoe would not say if the defendant had met with Navarro or other FBI agents that night.

Ramsay, who was seeking work as a taxi driver when arrested, was stationed in West Germany from 1983 to 1985 and worked under Conrad's immediate supervision, the FBI said.

Man charged with 3-year-old murder

United Press International

MIAMI — A self-described mercenary was arrested Tuesday in the 3-year-old slaying of millionaire boat designer Donald Aronow who was shot near his boat-building business in February 1987, police said.

Robert Young, 41, was arrested on a first-degree murder indictment returned in March by a Dade County grand jury, said detective Lizette Williams of the Metro-Dade County Police Department.

"Aronow was murdered on February 3, 1987, and at the time the only information we had was that he was murdered by a person in a dark-colored Lincoln Town Car," Williams said.

Investigators refused to release any information linking Young to Aronow's death. Young had been serving time in an Oklahoma jail on cocaine charges, but was brought back to Dade County to serve a sentence on an unrelated murder charge.

Young, who one of his attorneys, Fred Haddad, described as a "soldier of fortune type," was arrested and charged.

Oil from burning tanker poses little threat to Florida

United Press International

MIAMI — The threat to the Florida coastline posed by oil from a burning tanker off Texas is "miniscule," unless the oil enters the main loop current in the Gulf of Mexico, experts said Tuesday.

"Anything of this magnitude deserves watching," said Ken Haddad of the Florida Marine Research Institute in St. Petersburg. "But the likelihood of this affecting Florida in anyway is in the miniscule percent range." Scientists at the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration's oil spill war room in Seattle say current circulation and wind patterns probably will deposit any oil that is spilled along the Texas coast between Galveston and Corpus Christi.

But should the tanker Mega Borg sink or explode, dumping its cargo into the Gulf, there is a chance the oil could be picked up by the loop current and carried toward the Panhandle, Haddad said.

The loop current enters the Gulf through the Yucatan Straits, moves through the Gulf and comes out of the Florida Straits as the Gulf Stream.

"If pushed into the loop current proper, it (oil) could be transported, though it would have to move pretty far," said Haddad.

"Picture it as an interstate. The oil spill now is miles from the interstate on a backroad somewhere and it has to find its way without a map to the interstate."

Burglary suspect nabbed

SANFORD — A witness reported to Sanford police he saw a man enter a house at 215 S. Holly Ave., through a window at about 12:05 p.m. Tuesday. The suspect exited through a door, carrying a stolen stereo, police said.

Police caught and charged Ricky Ricardo Knight, 25, 217 S. Holly Ave., Sanford, with theft in the case. The stereo was recovered when the arrest was made at 1:20 p.m. Tuesday at Knight's house, police reported.

City wants appeal of TDC decision

By J. BRADLEY DILLING

SANFORD — The Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum is getting a second chance at county tax dollars to finance construction of a $1.3 million wing to the building.

More than two weeks ago, the Seminole County Tourist Development Council voted four to three to deny a request for $400,000 in tax money for the project, but now will be allowed to appeal the council's decision, county officials said.

Organizations wanting to appeal the decisions of the TDC will have the opportunity to do so before the Seminole County Commission when it meets for its annual budget hearings in the second and third week of July. The organizations must register ahead of time, but a deadline has not been set.

Last week, the Museum Advisory Board unanimously voted to ask the city to represent the museum to the county. Upon hearing the request at a city commission Monday night, the commission unanimously voted to grant the request and will assign city staff to represent the museum to the county.

"There is no game plan right now," Mayor Bettye Smith said. "We just made the decision. We just decided to support one of our advisory boards."

The museum, 520 E. First St., falls under the direction of the city parks department.

Parks Director Jim Jerugan said he was not particularly hopeful for the museum's appeal because the county commission will be advised on the matter by the same body that denied the museum's request.

County manager search may go into second year

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — If a new Seminole County manager is not hired soon, the county may be without an executive until after October — nearly a year after former county manager Ken Hooper was forced to resign.

County commissioners will hold a special meeting next Tuesday to decide their course of action. Last week, Michael Bryant, county administrator for Hall County, Ga. became the second candidate to turn the job down after it was offered by commissioners.

Acting County Manager Bob McMillan said Tuesday most counties and cities throughout the state are already reviewing their annual budgets. He said their managers might be reluctant to leave until that review is completed and the budgets adopted by Oct. 1.

Commissioner Fred Streetman said he would favor offering the job to John Lawrence, city manager of Dunedin, Fla. Streetman said he was equally impressed with Bryant and Lawrence and called his decision to favor Bryant a "toss up."

Saving the fireworks in Sanford is worth community support

Steve Alford has the right spirit. And it seems to be contagious.

Mr. Alford is the local resident who believes it's just plain awful that there won't be a fireworks display this year in Sanford to help celebrate the nation's 214th birthday.

He has taken it upon himself to try and raise enough money to put a big bang back in the local festivities. So far, he says he has $1,200 toward the $3,500 that Vic Vickers needs to put on a show along the shores of Lake Monroe.

Caught up in Mr. Alford's spirit and good will, Mr. Vickers himself has promised to put on the show even if the amount raised falls a little short.

City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan caught the spirit, too. "Mr. Alford, if you raise $3,000... I'll give you the remaining $500," he told the community-minded volunteer during Monday's commission meeting.

Now, that's a fine example for others to follow so that the Fourth of July can be celebrated in a properly sparkling manner here.

Help for crime victims

Crime victims in this country who seldom receive the financial compensation that is due them should be heartened by a U.S. Supreme Court decision that upholds the federal government's right to make criminals help pay for victim-assistance programs.

In a unanimous decision, the high court upheld the constitutionality of a 1984 federal statute that adds $25 to each federal misdemeanor fine and $50 to each felony fine to compensate victims. Two years ago, Congress reduced to $10 the extra fines for misdemeanors. These funds are currently distributed among the 38 states, including California, that have victim compensation laws. The money is also used to augment programs run by local governments.

The court challenge stemmed from a San Diego case involving German Munoz-Flores, who was found guilty in 1985 of two misdemeanor counts of smuggling aliens across the border. Placed on two years' probation and fined $25 on each count, he was ordered to pay an additional $50 for crime-victim assistance. His lawyer contended the extra fine violated a clause in the Constitution that gives the House of Representatives sole power to introduce revenue-raising measures. The Victims of Crime Assistance Act of 1984 originated in the U.S. Senate.

Although the challenge was dismissed in U.S. District Court, it was upheld by the 9th U.S. Circuit of Appeals, which held that the Senate had overstepped its constitutional authority. Not so, argued Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall. Writing for the nine-member majority, he concluded that the law was clearly intended to help the victims of crime. Were it strictly a revenue-raising measure, he reasoned, Congress would not have earmarked the funds for victim assistance.

Justice Marshall is right of course. Congress approved the law in part to ease the enormous financial burdens that are put on people through no fault of their own. If a government cannot fulfill its primary responsibility of protecting its citizens, the least it can do is to help crime victims put their lives back together. And the criminals themselves should make a substantial contribution to that rehabilitation.

Texas campaigns for better times

LIVE OAK, Texas — Nowhere in the nation is the nexus between politics and economics more apparent this year than in the contest for governor of Texas.

Economics is important in most campaigns for public office, but it is especially crucial in Texas because the state is only beginning to recover from an exceptionally long and severe recession.

Most of the country suffered through a recession in the early 1980s, and many states were adversely affected by regional economic problems in the middle or late 1980s — but Texas experienced an unremitting downturn throughout most of the decade.

Attempts to plot on a graph almost any economic indicator in Texas during the 1980s produce a backward-J or fishhook-shaped line. It begins with a sharp drop in 1982 or 1983, is followed by a long bottoming-out throughout the middle of the decade and ends with tentative signs of an upturn in the late 1980s.

Housing starts in Houston, for example, peaked at 67,000 in 1982, bottomed out at 8,300 in 1987 and staged a modest recovery to 13,600 last year. Land sales in Dallas plummeted from more than 3,600 in 1983 to fewer than 600 in 1988 and turned up to exceed 700 last year.

The state's banks earned more than $1 billion annually during the first half of the 1980s but sustained serious yearly losses throughout the last half of the decade. After bottoming out at $2.25 billion in 1988, losses totaled $567 million last year.

Even though there was almost no office construction in the state's two largest cities during the late 1980s, the market is glutted because of previous overbuilding.

More than 30 million square feet in Dallas and almost 40 million square feet in Houston are vacant.

The value of crude oil, long the mainstay of the state's economy, collapsed in 1982 and again in 1986. During the decade, the gyrating price of a barrel of West Texas Intermediate crude reached a high of $37 and a low of $10. In recent years, it has ranged from $16 to $22.

Against that background, political neophyte

Economics is crucial in Texas because the state is only beginning to recover from a long recession.

Clayton Williams rides onto the political stage atop his white horse, brawls his way past veteran office-holders in the Republican gubernatorial primary and announces to an anxious electorate: "Rebuilding is my purpose. Let's make Texas great again."

Williams is a shrewd businessman who has amassed a $250 million fortune in telecommunications, oil, gas, ranching and banking ventures. But he also is a fourth-generation Texan who almost always wears his ten-gallon hat, personally leads cattle roundups on his sprawling Big Bend ranch and has entranced the state's voters into believing he is a likable, honest good ol' boy.

"He has rattled the Republican country-club set with his simplistic if not naive agenda. He symbolizes the spirit of the rustic, the frontier, the Texas version of the gospel of success, the wisdom of the countryside," says George Shipley, an adviser to state Treasurer Ann Richards.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Richards, has an impressive record of performance as a public official. She is a savvy politician doing her best to neutralize Williams' popular appeal by proclaiming herself to be just a "country girl." During the Democratic primary, however, she ran a lackluster, themeless campaign devoid of the spirit evident in Williams' efforts.

NRC nominee too close to the fold

WASHINGTON — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has strayed so far from its mission that a White House plan to put a fox in the henhouse isn't even ruffling feathers on Capitol Hill.

The NRC mandate is to regulate the nuclear power industry. Common sense would dictate that one would not recruit regulators from within that industry.

Those who watch the workings of the NRC have already abandoned any hope that it will be an adequate watchdog over the industry. But, if Payne is appointed, this would be the first time that the White House has blatantly called an NRC commissioner right out of the enemy camp.

In that respect, the nomination of Payne may mark the nadir of the NRC, an agency that already "doesn't have a skeptical bone in its body," as one source close to the commission told us. Critics have charged for years that the five-member commission is little more than an arm of the nuclear power industry. As we have reported in the past, NRC investigators working at the whim of the commissioners put their jobs in jeopardy when they actually attempt to get tough with nuclear power utilities.

Payne's appointment could tilt policy even further toward the industry. But what is more troubling is that those in government who used to protest the tilt now seem resigned to this latest compromise.

So far, there hasn't been a whisper of opposition from Congress, which is already weary of bloodshed over presidential nominees. No one is willing to go to the mat to salvage an agency that has long since sold out.

"These people are all picked by the industry," one congressional source told our associate Dan Njogomir. Another source suggested that a presidential nominee would have to be an "ax murderer" to get turned down by the Senate. "People just don't want a tough (NRC), that's the bottom line here," said another discouraged congressional source.

Neither the NRC staff nor the White House will confirm that Payne will be the nominee. Payne told us he would like the job but said he hasn't lobbied for it, doesn't know who is pushing him and has no guarantee of getting the appointment.

He and others in the industry dismiss the talk of potential conflict of interest and insist that an industry veteran would bring the NRC some perspective. "I think it's very important to have someone knowledgeable (about the industry) doing some of the regulating," Payne told us.

Perhaps Payne hasn't noticed that the NRC already has enough of an industry "perspective" to make its regulatory efforts a joke. The perspective that Payne brings may be foreshadowed by his past criticism of federal safety inspections at nuclear plants. He has said that some of those inspections have gone beyond regulations. Payne told us he wouldn't bend the rules for the industry and said he welcomes the "extra eyes" of federal inspectors. (Those eyes recently found safety hazards at one of Payne's nuclear reactors near Oswego, N.Y., and fined the New York Power Authority $75,000.) Payne said he would abstain from NRC matters involving his tenure at the New York Power Authority. And a spokesman for Payne told us he was "an absolute straight shooter."

The White House has blatantly called an NRC commissioner right out of the enemy camp.

Lessons from the Wellesley flap

BOSTON — The Wellesley Controversy. The Wellesley College Flap. Even after the conflict that threatened to drown the class of 1990 had been absorbed in the bright June sunshine of Commencement Day, this remained the Story that Would Not Die.

For one memorable day last Friday, any ruffled feelings among the students and speaker had been excised like crab grass from the lush college campus. For one polite morning, the focus was on diplomats and detente. Detente between capitalists and communists, between students and First Ladies, between Barbara Bush and Raisa Gorbachev.

The only hint of a rejoinder to the young protesters in Mrs. Bush's deftly recycled e-z listening speech were in her remarks about "too little tolerance" for people who didn't fit the stereotypes of women. The old ones or the new.

The only mention of women's roles in Mrs. Gorbachev's Central Committee text was about their "special mission." "Always, even in the most cruel and terrible times," she said, "women have had the mission of peacemaking, humaneness, mercy and kindness." She sounded more like Mother Russia than Ms. Perestroika.

As for the students, those who had objected to the choice of a spouse as speaker wore their protest primly. Purple armbands honored the "unknown women who have dedicated their lives to the service of others."

So, Mrs. Bush concluded, "The controversy is over." But that was optimistic. Before the limousine had even left Boston, the story had picked up again. More reams of copy and reels of videotape were filled with the debate about Barbara Bush as role model.

As a devoted media watcher, I have devised a list of reasons over the past month why this story took on a life of its own. But in one way or another, it seems to me that the Wellesley tale fit everybody's favorite "take" on the debate over women's roles. It cast this issue as a controversy of, by and between women. A single-sex debate that had nothing to do with men.

The Wellesley story at the most popular scenario of social change: See these young (tuppety) women trashing the older (virtuous) women. More to the point, it reinforced our favorite image that this is a fight (bare I say "cat fight") between the CEO and the mommy, the woman at the office and at home.

Men are not only being left out of this great debate. They are being let off the hook.

Women do take these issues more seriously, more personally. This is a moment in social change when half the mothers of pre-schoolers are in the work force and half are at home. Those at home feel vulnerable to charges of brain-neglect, that all they worry about is waxy, yellow buildup on the linoleum. Those at work feel vulnerable to charges of child neglect: Are you sure the baby sitter isn't a child abuser?

It has become easier to blame the 'other women' for those feelings.

To blame the 'other mother' for feelings of inadequacy rather than a husband, or an amorphous "society." In Newsweek, a full-page piece was written about Mommy versus Mommy without recording a single male voice.

But I submit that it's at least as likely to be a man at a dinner who turns away in disinterest when he finds out your job title is mother. It's at least as likely to be a husband, father or male co-worker who intimates that the kids might be happier, smarter, healthier if you were home with them. It is most assuredly a men's magazine, Esquire, that this month poses "the last American Housewife" happily cleaning a toilet. And it is, in all likelihood, a man setting the corporate or federal policy that exaggerates these conflicts.

As long as men are exempt from this argument, as long as they remain a single-sex seminar about women's options, women's decisions, we are going to stay stuck.

So one other commencement note from the Wellesley class of 1990. Those young protesters, bashed for weeks by the press, replaced their petition with a polite plea to the First Lady. They asked her to speak up, even to the First Man, on behalf of an agenda, from parental leave to pay equity, that would indeed make these choices easier.

Not a bad thing for women to bring back from their own separate summit. We all could use a bit of perestroika.

She sounded more like Mother Russia than Ms. Perestroika.

We're still waiting. I have seen people wear them (thong-type bathing suits) in the park."

Randy Lewis of the Department of Natural Resources in Tallahassee today said the new rules really do nothing more than make the orders more specific and less general. Park workers, he said, have always scrutinized swimwear for overexposure. "If you wore a swimsuit to a state park three weeks ago with no problem, you could wear it back there today with no problem," Lewis said.

Out of 780 miles of Florida beaches only 30 miles are controlled by the state, Lewis said. "So there are 750 miles of beach where you can defy the limits of good taste, if you choose," he said.

In state areas it will be up to rangers to determine if attire violates the rules, but it has always been that way. The clarification, he said, is not in reaction against any specific type of swimwear. It's just a routine update of the rules. "Thong" suits, with some material visible between buttocks are acceptable, but G-strings, where the fabric disappears between the cheeks is what is banned, Lewis said.

On Tuesday, Martinez said: "I think the policy... adopted today is good public policy. Public areas ought to be open to everyone."

The rules ban exposure of the buttocks, the genitals, and the female breast below the top of the nipple. The policy effectively bans wearing of the popular thong-type bathing suits, which reveal almost all of the buttocks.

The older regulations only ban "indecent exposure" and merely say that proper bathing attire must be worn.

In addition to Wekiva State Park, the rules will be in effect at Tomoka State Park in Volusia County and at Sebastian Inlet in Brevard County, Lewis said.

The new rules governing attire were one of several changes in regulations requested by the Department of Natural Resources. The others included changes in job descriptions and changes in guidelines governing everything from cattle grazing to scuba diving.

State beaches make up only 30 miles of Florida's 780 miles of beach, but state park officials say they want to make sure a family atmosphere is maintained.

Officials said the older rules were too general, given some types of bathing suits worn today.

"Thongs and g-strings are not appropriate, as I see them," said Fran Malinella, director of the state's recreational parks. "I think we need to protect the rights of all visitors to our parks. We don't want children exposed to the types of experiences their parents may not want them to be exposed to at this time."

Malinella said it will be up to individual park rangers and managers to judge what constitutes inappropriate attire.

But nudists complained that the new rules were adopted without the benefit of public input — especially from nudists.

They said they did not want to take over state beaches, but wanted the DNR to set aside some beach areas as clothing-optional.

"We believe DNR has a problem with scantily clad bathers," said Kevin Kearney, a member of American Sunbathing Association, an association he claims has one-fourth of its 40,000 members living in Florida.

Kearney asked that the Cabinet have DNR develop clothing-optional beaches, using California and Oregon as models.

But fellow nudist Arnie Erickson did not want the Cabinet to change the rules at all. "That way, the Cabinet wouldn't have to vote for or against nudism," Erickson said.

NEW ORLEANS — The Southern Baptist Convention ensured the nation's largest Protestant denomination will remain on a conservative track with the election Tuesday of the Rev. Morris Chapman of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Chapman, who got 57 percent of the votes cast by 38,000 delegates, became the 12th straight conservative president of the denomination that represents about 14.5 million Baptists.

The defeat of the Rev. Daniel Vestal, pastor of Dunwoody Baptist Church of Atlanta, set the stage for a possible breakaway by frustrated moderates.

It was the second straight defeat for Vestal.

We even had someone from the Sheraton Hotels looking into the possibility of putting up one of their hotels in the Lake Mary area," she said.

She said she was pleased with the number of inquiries, especially because the chamber office is only staffed four hours a day, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"Before the chamber moved here," Parker said, "according to our records, most of the inquiries were received through the mail. Now most of them are in person, although we still get letters asking about this area."

Parker started working for the chamber when it moved to its new location at 3821 Lake Emma Road April 2.

fourth concept which combined the best aspects of the earlier ones.

Originally, the focal point of the redevelopment was aimed at the area along County Road 427. This has now changed to concentrate more on the historical area because Seminole County has begun construction on the CR 427. The plan calls for streetscaping several present streets, including West Church, West Warren, Wilma from West Warren southward and South Milwee Street. Five key gateways at prominent intersections are also included to give the area identity. The plan calls for the closing of Wilma immediately to the west of city hall, so a new, larger city government complex can be built. Other innovations would be provided for a number of public parking areas and open space sites and establishment of a commercial area on both sides of CR 427.

When the meeting was opened for public comment, citizens as well as city officials voiced their ideas and suggestions. One citizen questioned moving the post office further west to a smaller street as a possible traffic and noise problem, suggesting it should remain on CR 427.

Richard Walker, station manager for the Longwood Post Office, reported, "We now serve 7,000 home deliveries from our facility, and with our growth, we'll have to move to a larger quarters soon." As for the truck traffic and noise, Walker told of a similar facility where landscaping and design had resolved the traffic and noise problems completely.

"The city needs to start something soon," Mumford suggested, and called for a "demonstration project, one that would be highly visible so the citizens would know work was actually underway." He said it might be installation of old fashioned street lights, establishment of a gateway area, or something that could be done in a short time. "Next," he said,

"funding will be needed, perhaps in some areas from private developers who might be interested in the project." He also urged establishment of a Community Redevelopment Association to help guide the various projects.

Longwood City Administrator Mike Abels said the city was ready to begin planning for redevelopment and that it would be one of the main considerations as the city begins planning its new budget July 1.

The meeting was concluded with a supportive show of hands and a round of applause. The city commission is expected to begin initial discussions on the proposals at the next meeting, Monday, June 18.

Schools

suggested the name.

Both schools were named at the request of the developers who donated the land for the sites.

The firm of Dulwood, Deryberry and Pavlechak, Architects, PA, has been contracted by the school district, at a cost of $600,000 to provide architectural and engineering services for the two new schools. They have agreed on a completion date of October 1, 1991 for the two projects.

Stenstrom Elementary School, 1800 Alafaya Woods Blvd. in Oviedo, will be used as the prototype for both facilities.

By using an existing school as a model and making some modifications to accommodate special needs of the new school, the district can save, according to some accounts as much as 25 percent on the architectural and engineering costs of a project. In addition, it is not necessary to receive full approval from the Department of Education for the plans as they have already been approved for the first school.

The board will be asked to approve modifications to the plans at their next board meeting on June 26 so that the first phase of work on the projects can begin.

The board also approved a five year contract with the Temporary Living Center, Inc. for use of the "Little Red School House" on 8th St. and Palmetto Ave. in Sanford, for use as a drug abuse treatment and education center for women. The contract allows for a review after one year to be sure the arrangement is still acceptable to both sides.

The facility, paid for with funds from the United Way and IRS will not be used as a residential center, but rather as a treatment center and day care facility.

The Midway drainage project will also continue with $210,000 to pay for design and right of way purchases for the project.

Other approved CDBG projects include:

- Roseland Park — $152,000 to install water lines into the neighborhood and $20,000 to connect the lines to 53 homes.
- Winwood — $115,000 to design paving and drainage for Lake Mobile Drive, Oak Avenue and a portion of Plumosa.

Lockhart's Subdivision — $185,000 for design and paving of West 23rd Street.

● Johnson Hill — $170,000 for design and paving of Queen Avenue.

● Casselberry — $70,000 for paving and drainage of portions of Lake and Carlisle Drives.

Feds probe fireworks plant explosion

COLUMBUS, Miss. — Federal investigators said they would sift through the rubble of an exploded fireworks factory to determine what caused a blast that killed two employees and shook buildings 15 miles away.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms sent a team of 13 agents to the rural site Wednesday to find a cause for the explosion, which occurred Tuesday morning as the factory was packed with inventory for the Fourth of July.

Bill would lift ban for federal employees

WASHINGTON — Ignoring threats of a veto, the House gave final congressional approval to a bill that would lift the half-century Hatch Act ban on partisan political activity by federal employees.

The bill approved Tuesday would allow some 3 million federal workers to take part in virtually all political activities, except running for public office on a partisan ticket.

WORLD BRIEFS

Soviet Union bans censorship

MOSCOW — The Soviet Parliament wrote glasnost into law, banning censorship and granting wide press freedoms including the right of individuals to start publications.

"The press and other mass media are free," the new press law's first article says. "Censorship of mass media information is not allowed."

China ousts key liberals

BEIJING — China Wednesday announced the ouster and reshuffle of a dozen senior officials in what foreign diplomats described as a continuing purge of liberals and consolidation of power by the hard-line government.

Among those replaced was Vice Minister of Culture Ying Ruocheng, also one of the country's best-known actors.

Flag-burning issue blazes in Congress

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A constitutional amendment against desecrating the American flag began its trip through Congress today, headed toward becoming a key and controversial campaign issue in the fall.

Members of a House Judiciary subcommittee were expected to routinely pass the amendment along to the full committee, which next week is likely to whisk the issue to the House floor.

The amendment, which declares "the Congress and the states shall have power to prohibit the physical desecration of the flag of the United States," was introduced two days after the Supreme Court struck down a federal anti-flag burning law.

To become part of the Constitution, the amendment would have to receive two-thirds of the vote in both houses of Congress and approval in 38 states, or three-fourths of the state legislatures.

Last year House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., promised the amendment's supporters that if the Supreme Court rejected the anti-burning law, he would give them a floor vote within 30 days. Both sides expect a close vote.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas announced Tuesday that the amendment has 46 co-sponsors, including two who voted against it last year, Sens. Slate Gorton, R-Wash., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

Foley has cautioned against using the flag to partisan political advantage in the November elections.

Blacks gain ground in two primaries

United Press International

Black candidates made political gains in South Carolina and Arkansas as they captured major party nominations for governor and lieutenant governor.

State Sen. Theo Mitchell won the Democratic nomination for South Carolina governor Tuesday, becoming the first black candidate nominated by a major party in the state since Reconstruction.

Mitchell garnered 60 percent of the vote to defeat his opponent, fellow state Sen. Ernie Passalunghi, for the right to challenge Gov. Carroll Campbell in the fall.

Campbell, a Republican elected in 1986, was unopposed in the GOP primary. He is expected to be a heavy favorite in the general election.

In Arkansas, black real estate agent Kenneth "Muskie" Harris claimed victory over Ku Klux Klan sympathizer Ralph Forbes in the contest for the Republican lieutenant governor's nomination.

Besides South Carolina and Arkansas, voters cast primary ballots in Maine, Virginia and North Dakota, bringing to 24 the number of states that have chosen candidates for the general election.

Harris and Forbes finished first and second in a primary two weeks ago, with Forbes receiving 46 percent and Harris 36 percent.

Forbes's connections to the American Nazi Party and the Ku Klux Klan were a focal point of the runoff contest and Harris, who received considerable mainstream GOP support, argued Forbes wanted to "make this race emotional and racial."

Senate sustains Bush veto of Amtrak plan

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Senate upheld President Bush's veto of a three-year, $2 billion authorization for Amtrak — the country's rail network — preserving Bush's unblemished record of winning veto fights.

The Senate voted 64-36 Tuesday to override the veto, three shy of the two-thirds majority required. The House voted last week to override the veto 294-123.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine immediately requested the Senate to reconsider the vote but did not schedule a time for a second attempt.

Decisions expected on garbage disposal

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The way garbage in Seminole County is collected and recycled was headed for a new direction today.

Members of the Seminole County Solid Waste Task Force were to choose between three proposals for a recycler to handle garbage from unincorporated areas and any of the county's seven cities choosing to participate. Their recommendations end 18 months of study and planning ways to meet the state's mandate to decrease the amount of garbage going to landfills 30 percent by 1994.

Three companies bid for the recycling contract and the county's recycling consultant, R.W. Beck, has recommended Southeast Recycling of Longwood to handle recyclable materials because Southeast agreed to accept all county recyclables without setting a tonnage minimum amount and would not charge a transfer fee because their facility is in Longwood.

Sanford recycler Kokomo Tool Co. Inc. did not compete for the contract, said Sherry Newkirk, county recycling coordinator.

The franchise hauler will provide each home with three stackable plastic bins to collect all colors of glass, plastic and aluminum weekly. Newspapers will also be collected by tucking them between the bins at the curb.

The task force will also finalize their recommendation on who your garbage hauler will be. They have tentatively proposed to divide the county into several franchise areas, giving an individual garbage hauler exclusive rights to residential collection in each area.

There are currently 12 residential haulers in the county and each could receive a franchise area if the contract is signed. The franchises would not apply to commercial and multi-family complexes such as apartments and condominiums.

The rate for each hauler won't be set until contract negotiations are complete. During the first year of the franchise program, the hauler will bill the homeowner individually. The county tentatively plans to bill homeowners for garbage collection annually by 1992 in their tax bills, setting a standard rate throughout the county.

FPC ends uncertainty, sues over burying its power lines

By NICK PFEIFAU
and J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writers

LAKE MARY — Florida Power Corporation has sued Seminole County and the City of Lake Mary to over who should pay to bury FPC's power lines along Lake Mary Boulevard.

FPC charged the city's and county's "gateway" ordinances requiring burial of utilities along the boulevard was unconstitutional because they tried to supersede prevailing state laws, violated a 17-year agreement with the city to use the side of the road and was unfair to FPC customers with overhead power lines.

The action ended months of uncertainty of when the legal issue of who's to pay for the burial of power lines along the roadway can be resolved and construction begun.

Some Lake Mary Boulevard businessmen fear construction of the widening project could be delayed for years until the case is resolved. The utilities must be moved before widening can begin.

County Attorney Bob McMillan told county commissioners on Tuesday that he hoped to get a ruling from the judge within 30 days requiring the burial of the lines, setting aside the issue of who will pay for the work until the case is resolved. McMillan made the statements before the FPC case was filed in Seminole Circuit Court. It was assigned to Seminole Circuit Court Judge O.H. Eaton Jr.

Last week, Lake Mary commissioners voted to sue FPC to get the widening project begun, though no case was filed by Tuesday. County commissioners voted Tuesday to assist in either defense of an FPC suit or a suit filed by Lake Mary and to equally share the expenses of burial if the city and county lose.

In order to undertake a beautification and road improvement project, Lake Mary has requested that the power lines be placed underground along the roadway, from near Interstate 4 to Country Club Road. Seminole County is supporting the project and plans to continue similar improvements on the road further east toward U.S. 17-92. It, too, wants the power lines buried. The main controversy however, is the question of who will pay for the burial.

In the complaint, FPC notes that on March 14, 1989, Seminole County adopted an ordinance which amended its Land Development Code by creating the Lake Mary Boulevard Designated Gateway Corridor, and required that utility lines be installed underground. It reports that "Within a few days, the City enacted a virtually identical ordinance dealing with the same corridor which passes through the City."

In one of the three charges in the suit, Florida Power Corporation alleges the County ordinances are "invalid and unconstitutional because they violate Article VIII, Section 1(g) of the Florida Constitution, which prohibits a chartered county from enacting ordinances inconsistent with general law." The statement continues, "The City's ordinances are likewise invalid and unconstitutional as they exceed the powers of municipalities delegated pursuant to Article VIII, Section 2(b), Florida Constitution, by violating fundamental legal principles in attempting to regulate in an area already regulated by the state."

FPC says it negotiated with the County and City in efforts to convince them it was unfair to impose the increased costs of underground lines on either FPC or the general body of its statewide ratepayers. It adds that it had offered to relocate the power lines overhead when the road was widened, at no cost to the city or county.

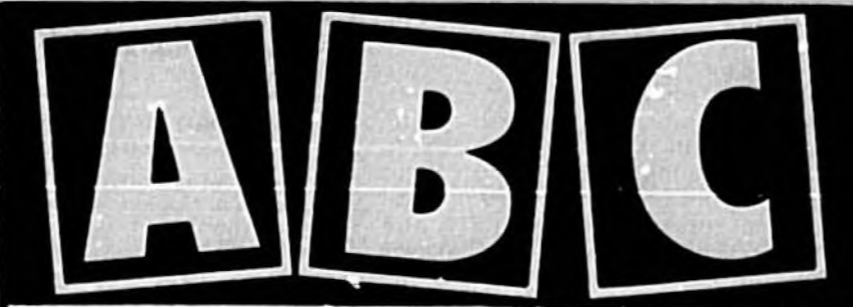

One section of the complaint says, "The residents of the County and City vetoed the idea of paying taxes to improve the road and pay for buried electric lines by voting down a referendum proposing a one penny gasoline tax in November, 1989."

The second count claims Lake Mary and the county are seeking preferential service without providing for payment.

The third and final count is centered on an FPC charge of Breach and Impairment of Contract, where the power company says it has, for a 30 year period, "the unconditional right to use for electric power facilities, the city streets, easements, public grounds, etc. In return for an annual payment of six percent of FPC's revenues derived from sale of electricity within the city."

The suit was filed yesterday in Seminole County. No determination has been made as to when initial hearings might begin, although Ned Julian, City Attorney for Lake Mary had previously told the city commissioners that he expected it would not take long for the matter to be resolved once it went to court.

Beware a sneakin' lizzard

United Press International

CASSELBERRY — Kittens and bunnies beware: Gizzard the lizzard, a rare, 3 1/2-foot South American reptile, has escaped its cage and is on the loose.

The brown, black and gold lizzard was last seen Saturday, the day after it escaped from its cage at the home of owner Gary Locker, 21.

"He is kind of a grump," Locker said. "If somebody sticks their fingers in his face, he'll bite. He'll definitely put a hurting on somebody."

A police officer writing a traffic citation spotted Gizzard strolling down a street Saturday. "He was walking very slowly. If a car had come, it would have been a dead lizzard," said officer John Holton.

Locker said the 2-year-old lizzard normally eats three rats a day.

A missing, voracious reptile, however, isn't Locker's only problem. Vicky Hilburn, city animal control director, said Tuesday the city would investigate Locker after he told an officer he was trying to lure Gizzard home by putting a caged cat in his backyard.

Locker said the cat was Sabrina, his family's 5-year-old pet, and that the lizzard would not have been able to get to it inside the cage.

"It's too big for him anyway. That's a 28-pound cat," Locker said.

Museum drive spurred by donations

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Leaders of the Sanford Historical Society are pleased with the public response and participation in their fundraising efforts last weekend, when the ice cream social at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the open house at the Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum produced over $400 in donations, including 110 pre-sold tickets.

According to attendance figures, 65 persons visited the Sanford museum, and 119, including 23 children, toured the various exhibits set up at the chamber building.

Jack Pambias, Sanford Historical Society president, said the turnout Saturday "proved the interest (in local history) is there." He added, "We've got to keep more people involved in it."

The money is to be used toward a planned building expansion at the 520 E. First St. museum, a project that eventually will double the size of the present structure.

Alicia Clarke, museum curator, said the aim of the expansion is "to provide space for a permanent display on the history of the city, plus additional areas for traveling historical displays or special exhibits including the history of baseball in our city, which is greater than many people think."

Many people believe the museum has only historical materials related to General Henry Shelton Sanford, after whom the city is named, Clarke said. "We have that, but we also have a great deal more that will be of interest to the public."

It was learned yesterday that the special Tim Rames exhibit set up at the museum for Saturday's open house will be able to remain on display at least through the end of this month to

Fire department kept busy by thunderstorms

From staff reports

SANFORD — Even during gushing downpours, such as those that Sanford experienced Sunday and Monday, the Sanford Fire Department responds to the calls of fire alarms. In fact, during those daily drenchings, they usually respond to more.

But it's seldom fire that causes the alarms to sound off these days.

"Lightning strikes and the power surge sets them off," Sanford Fire Department Lt. Doug Luce said Wednesday morning. "We had five Sunday and three since then. We can just kind of expect it. But we don't know until we get there. You have to treat everything like a real emergency."

Luce said, aside from the many false alarms perpetrated by Mother Nature and some residents disgruntled by flooded basements, Sanford has been calm and quiet the past couple of days.

allow time for more people, especially school students, to see the memorabilia. Rames, a 1977 Seminole High School graduate and baseball star, is currently in his tenth season with the National League's Montreal Expos.

Regarding the museum expansion plans, Clarke said the first phase, which was the formulation of the space needs analysis, is completed. "Next," she said, "our advisory board will be talking to the city about starting work on the actual design of the building with the new expansion."

"It's difficult to get people more enthusiastic over the expansion project without being able to show them specific plans," she said.

In addition to money, volunteers are also needed at the museum. "But not necessarily for staffing," Clarke said. "What we need are volunteers to work on oral history projects and research studies in various areas, to help us expand the scope of the museum's offerings."

Included with the new wing expansion program at the museum will be the renovation of the existing structure, plus addition of improved public facilities.

Historical group plans Pioneer Days

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Historical Society and Commission are planning a Pioneer Craft Days event for Oct. 6 and 7 at the Historical Society Museum headquarters, 300 Bush Boulevard, with educational demonstrations of pioneer era crafts as the focal point.

Rather than being strictly an arts and crafts show, the two-day event will feature demonstrations on how the pioneers of the past were able to survive and create their own furnishings, clothing and supplies.

Julie Scott, at the Seminole County Historical Museum, said, "We already have some applications submitted. There will be quilting, chair caning, weaving, wood carving, and soap and candle making demonstrations and exhibits, to name a few." For those who plan to have actual demonstrations of old-time arts and crafts, there is no entry fee. There is also no requirement that a pioneer craft demonstrator be a local resident. Those, however, who will be planning to sell their wares, will be charged a $35 entry fee.

Cecil Tucker, Seminole County Historical Society president and a member of the Historical Commission said, "The two day event will have two goals. One is the demonstration aspect, the other is fund raising through the sale of crafts, that will help us in rebuilding some exhibits, purchasing display cases, and several other needs."

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Error boosts Jays into first

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota Twins second baseman Fred Manrique wasn't ducking responsibility for the Twins' 5-4 loss Tuesday night to the Toronto Blue Jays.

His three-base error allowed the tying run to score and set up Tony Fernandez's winning sacrifice fly in the seventh inning.

"It just rolled under my glove, there's no excuse for it," Manrique said. The miscue turned Junior Felix's potential double-play ball into the game-buster for the Twins, who dropped their fifth straight game.

The win was Toronto's fourth in its last five games and catapulted the Blue Jays into first place over Boston in the AL East.

Elsewhere in the AL on Tuesday night, Texas trimmed Oakland 6-5; Cleveland beat Detroit 7-3; New York shaded Boston 5-4; Baltimore bested Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings; Seattle topped Chicago 5-2; and California blanked Kansas City 3-0.

BASKETBALL

Celtics go with Ford

BOSTON — The Boston Celtics, again looking within their faded franchise, Tuesday named former player and assistant Chris Ford their head coach.

Ford, who has been with the Celtics since 1978, succeeds Jimmy Rodgers, who was fired last month following Boston's elimination from the playoffs after one round.

Other Celtic players to coach the team were Bill Russell, Tom Heinsohn, Tom Sanders, Dave Cowens and K.C. Jones.

Ford, who played at Villanova, was drafted by Detroit in 1973 and played for the Pistons for six seasons before being traded to Boston. On Oct. 12, 1979, he scored the first 3-point field goal in the NBA and was one of the league's best long-range shooters. He became an assistant coach with the Celtics in 1983 under Jones.

WORLD CUP

Strikers official defends APSL

FORT LAUDERDALE — Noel Lemon would like to remind those involved in the World Cup, especially U.S. midfielder Paul Caligiuri, that the United States does have a professional soccer league.

Lemon is president of the Fort Lauderdale Strikers of the American Professional Soccer League, a fledgling league in its third year of providing a training ground for American players.

Lemon was upset with comments made by Caligiuri after the U.S. lost 5-1 to Czechoslovakia in its World Cup opener, in which the midfielder said the Americans are at a disadvantage because they "had no professional league to play in."

"We have had a professional league in this country for three years," said Lemon, whose Strikers are the defending APSL champions. "The large majority of the current U.S. national team players play or have played in that league. To say they have no place to play is completely untrue."

Sixteen of the 22 players on the U.S. World Cup team are affiliated with APSL teams, including playmaker Tab Ramos and leading scorer Bruce Murray. Caligiuri is not among that group, as he plays for West German second-division club SV Meppen.

There are 22 teams in the APSL, which is split into two separate entries — the American Soccer League and the Western Soccer League.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Braves take two from Reds

CINCINNATI — Manager Lou Piniella was on edge after his first-place Reds dropped a double-header to the Western Division's last-place Atlanta Braves, but he thinks he has the answer.

"We just aren't getting the key hits and scoring the runs," Piniella said Tuesday after the Reds lost a two-night doubleheader to the Braves, 8-3 and 3-2, to extend their losing streak to five in a row and drop their eighth in their last nine outings.

Greg Olson, Ron Gant and Jeff Blauser got the big hits for Atlanta, which had been pounded by San Francisco in losing three out of four to the Giants at home.

Elsewhere in the NL on Tuesday, New York hammered Chicago 19-8; Philadelphia clipped Montreal 7-2; Houston edged Los Angeles 5-4; Pittsburgh knocked off St. Louis 6-3; and San Francisco nailed San Diego 7-2.

Compiled from staff and wire reports.

Domino's takes tourney

Lowe, Montalvo pitch locals to championship

From staff reports

OCOOE — Starting pitcher Diane Lowe and reliever Maria Montalvo limited their opponents to a total of 17 hits as Domino's Pizza swept through its four games en route to winning the West Orange Annual Softball Tournament this past weekend.

Playing at the West Orange Girls' Club in Ocoee, Domino's — a 16-and-under slowpitch softball team — improved its record to 19-2 with the victories. This weekend, Domino's will travel to Tifton, Ga., to play in the Friendly City Tournament.

In the first game of the West Orange tourney, Domino's blanked the Seminole Savages 13-0 as Lowe (from Lake Howell High School) tossed a two-hit shutout. For Domino's, Katania Diaz of Lake Brantley was 3 for 5 with a run scored while Cassie Hirschy of Evans

High School was 3 for 5 and scored twice.

Overall, Domino's had 17 hits in the contest.

The second game was considerably closer as Domino's got by Hot Tuna 3-1 despite being out-hit 4-3. Diaz scored twice for Domino's while Charity Blocker of Oviedo High School scored once.

Lowe and Montalvo (from Lake Mary High School) combined to throw another shutout in the third game, limiting host West Orange to three hits in a 5-0 victory. Lowe helped her cause by going 3 for 3 with one run scored. Diaz contributed three hits and two runs scored for Domino's.

Domino's and Hot Tuna clashed again in the championship game. Domino's posting an 8-4 win as Lowe and Montalvo limited Hot Tuna to eight hits. Jennifer Masciarelli of Lake Brantley led Domino's 13-hit attack with two triples while Lowe had a triple and a single.

Also contributing two hits for Domino's in the little game were Nicole Rathbun (Lake Brantley), Tara Calvin (Lake Mary), Montalvo and Diaz.

Other players on the Domino's roster are Monica Dale (Lake Mary), Shannon Booth (Deltona), Michelle Davis (Lake Brantley) and Tracy Souza (Boone).

Paulk helps leaders to sixth win

From staff reports

SANFORD — Sharon Paulk was 4 for 4 with a triple, two doubles and three runs scored to lead Thermocarbon to its sixth straight win, 10-1, over Seko Air Freight in Sanford Recreation Department Women's Softball League action at Chase Park Tuesday night.

In other games, In Home Medical scored 15 runs in the first inning en route to a 23-1 shellacking of the Honey Bees and Enslay Incorporated scored four runs in the sixth to pick up an 11-10 triumph over Harcar Aluminum Products.

Thomas hammers 32 more nails in Trail Blazers' coffin

United Press International

PORTLAND, Ore. — Who said there would be no snoozing in the NBA Finals with Magic Johnson missing? On Tuesday night, Isaiah Thomas delivered what likely was the Kiss of Death to the Portland Trail Blazers.

The All-Star guard scored 30 of his 32 points in the second half — including the go-ahead jumper with 25.7 seconds to play — to put the Pistons on the threshold of their second straight NBA title with a 112-109 victory.

"I just wanted to take it to them and take it to them," Thomas said. "After I made my first few shots, I felt like I could make them from anywhere."

Detroit, seeking to become only the third franchise to repeat as league champions, had squandered all of a 16-point lead it had built with 14 minutes remaining.

However, the Pistons regrouped to capture their second straight road game — at a place they hadn't won since 1974 — for a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

After a last-second blunder by seldom-used Detroit reserve Gerald Henderson, Danny Young of the Trail Blazers sank what appeared to be a game-tying three-pointer. However, the officials huddled and ruled the shot came after time expired. Thomas, who set the Finals record of 25 points in a quarter against the Lakers in Game 6 of the 1988 series — a game the Pistons lost — poured in 22 in the third quarter Tuesday night.

"It was one of my special quarters," Thomas said.

The 6-foot-1 guard made 8 of 13 shots in the period, including three of his four three-pointers. He hit 11 of 20 shots from the floor on the night, with 5 assists and 4 rebounds.

The Pistons also received an emotional lift from Joe Dumars, who played just two days after the death of his father and scored 26 points in 43 minutes.

If Detroit can't clinch the crown Thursday night at Portland's Memorial Coliseum, it will have two chances at home Sunday and Tuesday night.

Only four teams in NBA history have overcome a 3-1 deficit in the playoffs, but the feat never has occurred in the Finals.

"All we have to do is break these three games up and take them one at a time," said Portland's Buck Williams, sporting five stitches received after suffering a deep cut near his right eye. "Mentally, I am a little shaken because I felt this was a game we could win."

The Trail Blazers had beaten the Pistons 20 straight times at Memorial Coliseum over a 16-year span, but now have lost twice to the Pistons in three days. Portland had not lost back-to-back home games since February 1989.

Portland was led by Clyde Drexler, who scored 34 points on 14 of 19 shooting. He also had 8 rebounds and added 10 assists.

Drexler, who made the winning free throws in overtime of Game 2, had given Portland a 107-106 lead with two free throws with 31 seconds remaining. Detroit took its final timeout and Thomas nailed his go-ahead 15-foot baseline jumper six seconds later.

Portland's Terry Porter then drove the lane, but Dumars stepped in to draw the charge. Contact was made, no foul was called and Thomas tipped the ball away.

Vinnie Johnson, who added 20 points off the bench for Detroit, tapped the ball back to Thomas, who was fouled and made both free throws for a 110-107 edge with 8.4 seconds to go.

Portland called two timeouts and Mark Aguirre fouled Porter with 6.5 seconds remaining. Porter hit the two free throws.

Detroit inbounded the ball under heavy pressure and found Henderson racing downcourt. But rather than dribble out the clock, Henderson took a layup and scored with 1.2 seconds left.

Titusville's Eads posts Late Model victory

In a superbly contested Sportsman run, Allen Rhodes notched his first career win in the division. Ray Smith took the early lead in his converted Figure Eight car and gamely held on as Rhodes stayed even, wheel-to-wheel with him in the outside lane.

Meanwhile, Ricky Marshall, Ronnie Burkett and Von Crews were jockeying for positions, creating a crowd-pleasing five-car battle.

Rhodes gained the advantage with two laps to go and sped to victory, as Marshall got past Smith on the last lap for second. Smith was third over Burkett and Crews.

The wild, slam-bang 30-lap "B" Bomber Special went to Rick Johns over Ted Head, Tom Waring, Dave Waddell and Harley Gibbons.

Bobby Sears came back from a first-lap, multi-car tangle to take his 15th Mini Stock win of the year while David Indiveri went wire-to-wire in winning his fourth Florida Modified feature.

Driving his potent Jim Rathman Chevrolet-sponsored "A" Bomber stocker, Donnie Narmore made it to victory lane for the seventh time this season. Rick Johns was a close second, followed by Chuck McRoberts, Jimmy Johns and Dave Savicki.

Young Lori Loomis made a late-race charge to win the ladies' Powder Puff Derby. Spectator Oval Drags winner was Dwayne Waddell, while Jody Flynn took the five-lap Fan Participation race in a 1968 Mercury Cougar.

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — After spinning in speeded oil early in the race, Stan Eads later steered around a battling lead pair and went on to win the FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Back for good after being sidelined by a broken crankshaft while leading a few weeks back, Eads was at the wheel of the Kelsey's Pizzeria/John Glen Chevrolet Camaro.

Fast-hitter Jim Crowe, a three-time (1973-74-76) Florida Orange Blossom 100 Champion, finished second after he was tugged, bumped, pushed and shoved lap after lap by third-place finisher David Russell.

Rounding out the top five were Pete Starr and Granny Tatro, a pair of seasoned veterans who have been consistent top-five finishers in recent weeks.

Driving Ray Krueger's Monte Carlo, Late Model ace Sid Sills, in a rare appearance on the high-banked half mile, made shambles of the "A" Bomber division, as he led all the way for the win.

Mike Filch went wire to wire to score his 17th Florida Modified feature win of the season.

Following a heated duel with early leader Jerry Symons, Ted Vulpus moved upon the point at half-way and went onto win the Mini Stock final.

"The car handles good, but I need more power," Vulpus said. "These wins are really hard to come by. There's so much good competition. This is a good group to race with. They'll give you a line to run in."

The Sportsman feature went to Ricky Marshall. But the real battle was for second as talented rookie Ronnie Burkett, driving state-of-the-art equipment, held off Von Crews, Allen Rhodes and previous week's winner Mike Kubanc for the runner-up spot.

Kubanc, who seems to have solved his overheating woes, now leads the season-long point chase for that division.

John Ripley drove the Kar Supplies Chevy to victory in the "B" Bomber final. Current high-point man Ted Head was second over defending track champion Barbara Pierce, "Big Jim" Harris and South Florida's Gary Crowe.

Besting an 18-car field, Jim Cobran won his second Demolition Derby in a row. The Great American Sack Race went to Rob Buchanan and Dave Hickman. Mike Ridenour was the top eliminator in the Spectator Drags, while Ed Reynolds won the five-lap Fan Participation race.

Granny cooks old-fashioned meals

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Anna Boyer Webb, our Cook of the Week, has been a Sanford resident since 1946.

She is a great-grandmother and was married to William (Bill) Webb for 42 years when he passed away in 1975. This bright, articulate lady still refers to her Bill as "my honey" when she speaks of him. The love lights sparkle in her eyes as she reminisces about a lifetime with her Bill. Those times were "the best years and the most fun of my life," she smiles and says.

Webb is a good-natured lady who is affectionately known as Granny.

Her home is an attractive granny-type abode with a white fence and lattice archways that charmingly invite her visitors. Flowering potted plants and hanging greenery dominate the landscape of her front yard. Webb has a green thumb as evidenced by a neighbor's recent request. Granny Webb chatted about her cooking while she potted an aloe plant for her next door neighbor.

"I just put my green thumb in it," she laughs and says. "It will grow."

Webb grew up on a farm in Willistown, near Gainesville.

"We always had the good things: plenty of fresh vegetables and meat right from our own farm," she says.

Webb didn't learn to cook until she was a teenager.

"I didn't learn to cook until I was 17. Didn't need to," she says. "My mother did all of the cooking. I swept and made beds. Otherwise, I was too busy climbing trees and reading books."

That all changed when her brother and his wife Ethel returned to the farm during the depression and Webb started dating Bill.

While Webb was dating her husband to be, her sister-in-law suggested that she learn to cook.

"I thought it was about time, too," she says. "Bill's favorite pastime was eating and he thought Ethel was a great cook, she was and still is. Ethel is like a sister to me." Webb grins, eyes smiling through eyeglasses.

Webb doesn't cook big meals every day now, however, she does cook several times a week and "makes plenty, because the younguns drop in and eat and friends come over for a visit. I always have lots of food cooked," she chuckles.

"I like one-pot meals. My husband used to call them stretcher meals, such as a big pot of spaghetti or a big pot of vegetable beef soup on the stove," Webb explains.

Cool cake will make you hop for seconds

Try this cool, no-bake cake for a summertime treat.

1 pkg. Grasshopper cookies or any mini-flavored chocolate cream-filled cookies.

2 8 oz. tubs frozen non-dairy whip topping

8 oz. pkg. cream cheese

1 cup 10X sugar (powdered sugar)

1 lg. and 1 sm. pkgs. instant chocolate pudding

Milk

In a 9 x 13 cake pan, spread a layer of crushed cookies. Use 3/4 of the pkg.

Beat together one 8 oz. tub frozen non-dairy whip topping and one 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese, add one cup 10X sugar, mix well and spread over first layer.

Next mix 1 lg. and 1 sm. pkgs. instant chocolate pudding as directed minus 1 cup of milk. Spread over the second layer.

Spread the other 8 oz. tub of non-dairy topping over the third layer.

Sprinkle the remaining cookie crumbs over the fourth layer and refrigerate overnight.

This is a five layer batterless cake for any occasion.

Granny Webb says, "I'm an old-fashioned southern cook and nothing fancy. Just plain, stick-to-the-ribs-type cooking so a meal stays with you."

This granny drives her own car, does her own shopping and does as she pleases in her golden years. She has the charm and graciousness of a lady from an era sorely missed.

SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN

Cut up chicken (as much as you need) skin on

1 cup flour

Salt & pepper (few shakes of each)

Oil heated in large skillet about 1 1/2 inches

Wash and drain chicken. Do not pat dry, some moisture is needed.

Let set about 10 minutes. Place flour, salt and pepper in a bag, then chicken in the flour until it's coated. Heat grease on medium until hot. Place chicken in the hot grease and cover with lid until brown, turn and brown other side. It takes about 25 to 30 minutes to fully cook.

ZEB'S FAVORITE BBQ RICE

Cook rice until tender (everybody knows how to cook rice). Precook any meat of your choice, use your favorite BBQ sauce and simmer meat in it. Add a little water to thin it down. When meat is thoroughly heated add all to hot rice.

Zeb is Granny Webb's great grandson.

SPAGHETTI SAUCE (as taught to Granny by an Italian girl)

1 small whole beef roast

1 small whole pork roast

2 cans tomato paste

1 tomato paste can full of water

1 medium can tomato sauce

6 whole cloves garlic

Salt & pepper to taste

Use a slow cooker or cook it on top of the stove. Put everything into the pot together and bring to boil, then turn heat down to low until the meat is cooked. Serve over vermacelli with a salad on the side. (Be sure to remove garlic before serving.)

GINGER CAKE

1 1/2 cups self rising (be sure it's self rising) flour

1 cup syrup (pancake or maple syrup)

Anna Webb with her baby Wooley Bulley.

1 stick butter melted

2 eggs

1 tsp. ground ginger

3/4 to 1 cup milk (consistency should not be runny)

Mix it all together and pour into a cake pan, bake at 350° for about 45 minutes or until the edges fall away from the sides of the pan.

Who's cooking?

The Sanford Herald welcomes suggestions for cooks of the week.

Do you know someone whose food is always the highlight of company picnics, church potlucks, receptions or covered-dish luncheons? It might be an acquaintance who has won a cooking contest or invented a new twist to the peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwich.

Native cooks and ethnic cooks, as well as experienced cooks and master chefs, add a different dimension to dining. Who is your choice? Maybe it's your mother, father, brother, sister, son, daughter, spouse, friend or boss.

Submit your nomination for Cook of the Week to the Herald People editor at 322-2611, ext. 34.

The Cook of the Week feature is published in this section each Wednesday.

Help find best pet

During June, Adopt-a-Cat month, the Sanford Herald will be searching for pet stories from our grade school and middle school-aged readers.

We need you to write us a letter about you and your pet to be reviewed by our panel of judges. Tell us how you adopted your pet, what your pet means to you, and include any anecdotes about you and your pet. Your pet does not have to be a cat to qualify.

Judging will be based on sincerity and clarity.

You must live in Seminole County to enter. We will select one winner from grade school and one winner from middle school. We will be running a different contest for high school students in the near future.

Letters should be typed or printed legibly. Include your name, your pet's name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your letter.

Deliver or mail to "Love a Pet Contest," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

There is no maximum length limit on letters.

Entries are due at the Herald office by 1 p.m., Friday, June 29.

The two winners will be featured with their pets in an upcoming edition of the Herald.

In loving memory of:

Follow-ups needed for breast disease

DEAR DR. GOTT: A recent mammogram revealed I have fibrocystic breasts. Can this condition lead to cancer? My mother died of breast cancer, and I'm quite worried.

DEAR READER: Fibrocystic breast disease is a common condition that rarely causes symptoms. It is due to benign scar tissue that produces a lumpy feel to the breasts. Occasionally, these irregular lumps can enlarge and become somewhat tender in relation to the menstrual cycle.

About 30 percent of women with fibrocystic disease show a condition called proliferative hyperplasia (overgrowth of cells within the breast), in conjunction with the usual benign cystic scarring. This overgrowth is associated with an increased risk of breast cancer and may have to be biopsied or removed. Therefore, authorities urge women with fibrocystic disease to be examined at regular intervals by their doctors and to have mammograms every 12 months.

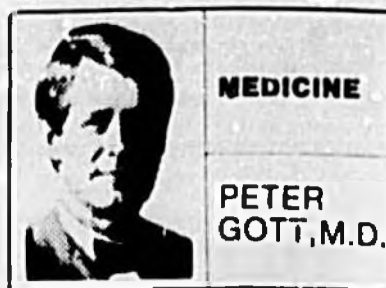

The fact that your mother had breast cancer puts you in a particularly high-risk group. You should follow your physician's advice about appropriate intervals for follow-up and when (and if) you should have a biopsy of breast tissue.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am plagued with a constant tingling in the calves of both legs. I've contacted six different doctors, and one described it as "crazy legs." To complicate things, I'm 73 years old with a heart condition and am on daily medication, yet I can't sleep more than an hour at a time because of the tingling.

DEAR READER: Tingling, cramping or so-called restless legs can reflect circulatory problems in older patients. When the calf muscles are deprived of oxygen, these symptoms may occur. Such symptoms are often prominent at night because during sleep the heart's output of blood falls by as much as 30 percent, thereby accentuating poor blood flow through arteries that are already partially blocked by arteriosclerosis.

In addition, some heart medicines — such as those used to lower blood pressure (and hence the work of the heart) — will contribute to nocturnal leg discomfort.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

In the world of slam bidding, a pair's high-card total is not as important as a good trump-suit fit plus key controls. Thus in today's deal South held a minimum hand, but when a good fit was established and when North's four-heart cue-bid showed a key card in that side-suit, declarer jumped to five spades as an invitation. North accepted. This was not a hand to be played by Willy Nilly. Willy would ruff the opening lead and play Q-A of spades. Then he would realize that he might have heart losers. So he would play K-A and ruff a heart. East would overruff; later West would take a heart trick and the slam would be set. More astute declarers should realize the likelihood of heart losers, and perhaps the necessity of using more than one trump in dummy. So they would ruff the opening lead, and immediately play K-A and ruff a heart. East would of course overruff, but what next? Whatever East might lead back, declarer would be able to ruff still another heart with the queen of spades, and the slam would make. In fact, declarer can even succeed by playing the ace of spades before going after hearts, if he is careful to ruff the first heart with the spade queen. He can then return to his hand and ruff one more heart with dummy's remaining small trump. East can overruff, but that will be all for the defense.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 14, 1990

Success could come to you in the year ahead through an extremely unusual chain of events, so be sure to fully explore every opportunity that comes your way, regardless of the source.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In order to achieve an important career objective today, there must be a meeting of minds of all the principals concerned. A lack of harmony will be extremely unproductive. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail S2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to be too set about doing things your way today, because someone with whom you'll be involved might have better ideas. We can always learn something of value from others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In a business dealing today, it might be necessary for you to make a few, small concessions in order to sweeten the pot. Keep your focus on the big picture and let go of the insignificant.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a good day to try to seek commercial favors from someone with whom you'll be involved socially. If you're going to conduct business, do it in the proper setting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The more you talk about what you intend to do today, the less time you'll have to perform the task. Make this a work first and talk later day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Social involvements could be a bit unusual today, so be on guard. If you're not, you might unintentionally incur some extra expenses for a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's best not to let others make decisions for you today, especially if they could directly affect your financial position. Be prudent and use your own judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to experiment with new ideas or procedures you feel could help lighten both your mental and physical burdens. Nothing ventured, nothing gained.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even though you will be adequately astute in business matters today, don't lower your guard, because you might have to deal with a person who is just a trifle sharper.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure you show the same tolerance and forbearance with family members today that you will show with friends and acquaintances. Remember blood is thicker than water.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility you might be pressured a bit from all sides today, however, don't waffle. Your resourcefulness will come into play and help you weather these storms.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you get involved in some type of game of chance today, keep the stakes as minimal as possible. You could get ruffled if the winner isn't you.

Sun-warmed crop fresh from the vine

This has been a particularly good season for Florida tomatoes. Weather conditions have been good (warm nights) for producing bumper crops. The varieties that we have in our garden are rewarding us daily with good, firm fruit for salads, sandwiches and side dishes. My plans are to use some in the making of chili sauce to serve with roast beef or meat loaf.

For serving stewed tomatoes, the microwave adds in boiling water to blanch the tomatoes for easy removal of the skin. Allow the tomatoes to stand in the boiling water for 1-1 1/2 minutes. The skins will slip off easily.

MICROWAVE MAGIC
MIDGE MYCOFF

STEWED TOMATOES

4 medium tomatoes, skins removed
1/4 C. onion, chopped
1/4 tsp. savory leaves
1/2 tsp. basil leaves
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sugar
CROUTONS
Parmesan cheese

Cut tomatoes into uniform chunks. Combine tomatoes and remaining ingredients in a 2-qt. casserole. M/W on 100% power 5-6 minutes or until tomatoes soften and mixture is of a saucy consistency. Stir several times. Garnish with croutons and Parmesan cheese. Serves 4 — 36 calories per serving. If using fresh herbs, double the suggested amount.

This micro-quickie combines two favorites from the backyard gardens or the produce stands.

MICRO-PEPPER/TOMATO BAKE

2 medium green peppers
1 medium onion
1/2 tsp. basil
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. water
2 medium ripe tomatoes, skin removed

Remove seeds and stems from peppers. Cut into chunks and place in 1-qt. baking dish. Cut onion into 1/4-inch slices, separate into rings and lay on green pepper. Sprinkle on seasonings.

add water and cover. M/W on 100% power 4-6 minutes. Stir after half the time. Cut tomatoes into 1/4-inch wedges and arrange over other vegetables. Cover and continue to micro-cook 2 minutes longer.

Make use of some leftover ears of corn with this vegetable side dish. Remove the kernels from the cob and measure.

TOMATO CORN CASSEROLE

1 1/2 C. whole kernel corn
4 medium tomatoes, core and skin removed
1 medium onion, sliced
1/4 green pepper, cut in strips
1/2 tsp. thyme
4 small link sausages, cut up, optional

Combine ingredients. Cover dish and microwave on 100% power for 6-8 minutes or until sausage pieces are cooked and other ingredients are heated through.

Tomato sauce is a great convenience to have stored in the freezer. While tomatoes are plentiful make this sauce to enjoy many times later.

FRESH TOMATO SAUCE

3 qts. hot water
12 medium tomatoes
1 can (12 oz.) tomato paste

1/4 C. chopped green pepper
1/4 C. chopped onion
1 Tbsp. olive oil
2 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dried basil leaves
1 bay leaf

Pk. hot water in 5-qt. casserole; cover, M/W on 100% power 18-20 minutes or until boiling. Dip half the tomatoes in water. Let stand 30 seconds to 1 1/2 minutes or until skins begin to loosen. Plunge tomatoes in cold water. Remove skins and core. Repeat with remaining tomatoes. Puree tomatoes with food processor, blender or by mashing. In 3-qt. casserole combine puree and all remaining ingredients; cover, M/W on 100% power 10 minutes. Stir. Microwave, uncovered, on 100% power 35-45 minutes or until sauce is thickened, stirring several times. Cool. Spoon into 6 freezer containers. Label and freeze no longer than 3 months.

Do you have a question or suggestion about microwave cooking. Midge Mycoff will use her column to answer. Address letters to: Midge Mycoff, Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave. Sanford, 32771.

Trip down memory lane avoided

DEAR ABBY: In response to Leonard Portzline's letter urging people to respond to invitations to class reunions, did it ever occur to him that perhaps those who did not respond do not wish to be included.

Now that I am a successful businesswoman, married to a wealthy professional, I am bombarded with invitations from former classmates. When we were in high school, I would have given anything to be included in the "in" group, but I was snubbed. Believe me, it hurt.

The shoe is on the other foot now, and I cheerfully toss all their correspondence into the trash. Sign me...

IT'S MY TURN IN L.A.

DEAR MY TURN: You belong to a very large club — of which I am a member. I too, was snubbed by the "in" group in high school — and you're right, it did hurt. But I put my hurt aside and went back for my 50th reunion, and a lot of bitter memories were put to rest. Try it, you'll like it.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the letter from "Mrs. W.W. in New York" who wanted to be buried in a beautiful nightgown, but her children had misgivings about carrying out her wishes. (They feared it would be too revealing.)

Thank you for reassuring her, Abby. Let me tell you about my wonderful mother. She took me into her bedroom several years before she died, and showed me a beautiful soft pink negligee. She told me that she wanted to be buried in it. (One of my brothers had given it to her as a Mother's Day gift.)

Abby, she died at 89, and was buried in her soft pink negligee with her eyeglasses on and an open Bible in her hands, as if she had fallen asleep reading it. She looked so radiant and peaceful. I am proud to say that we carried out her wishes.

HER DAUGHTER, MARGARET

DEAR MARGARET: Many others wrote to say that sleeping attire seemed to be the most appropriate kind of dress for burial (When in doubt, ask the mortician.) Thank you for the Bible idea, Margaret. Some readers may want to borrow that suggestion.
