

Sanford Trash Removal Fee Hike Forecast City OK's Waste Removal Idea

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city commissioners have given a qualified approval to a comprehensive solid waste removal concept which would convert county garbage into energy by use of special incinerators.

But City Manager Warren E. Knowles cautioned the plan endorsed could raise the trash removal fee to Sanford residents by as much as 300 percent over the next 11 years.

At the regular meeting Monday, commissioners voted to approve a resource recovery study report for Seminole County.

The report followed a two-year study mandated by the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) which required each of 19 regional areas to approve a solid waste disposal plan by July 1 of this year. The report was prepared by the engineering firm of Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan of Miami.

Commissioner Eddie Keith is scheduled to meet with other municipal officials in the county May 2 to discuss a wide approval of the plan. Seminole County itself was designated by DER as one of the 19 regions for which a plan is required.

The plan calls for the construction of three resource recovery incinerators in the county which would burn solid wastes as a fuel in generating electricity. The report states that the resource recovery units should be operational by 1990. Proposed locations for the units are Altamonte Springs, Iron Bridge and Sanford.

The report, Knowles pointed out, indicates that the units at Altamonte Springs and Iron Bridge would be operationally efficient, but that Sanford would likely generate more solid waste than would be needed to be burned and thus there would be continued use of a landfill.

For that reason, Knowles recommended the city give a qualified approval of the plan which asks that the recovery unit built in Sanford be smaller than the other two units until such time as the city's energy needs require the city to burn all recoverable trash. That would reduce costs somewhat, Knowles said.

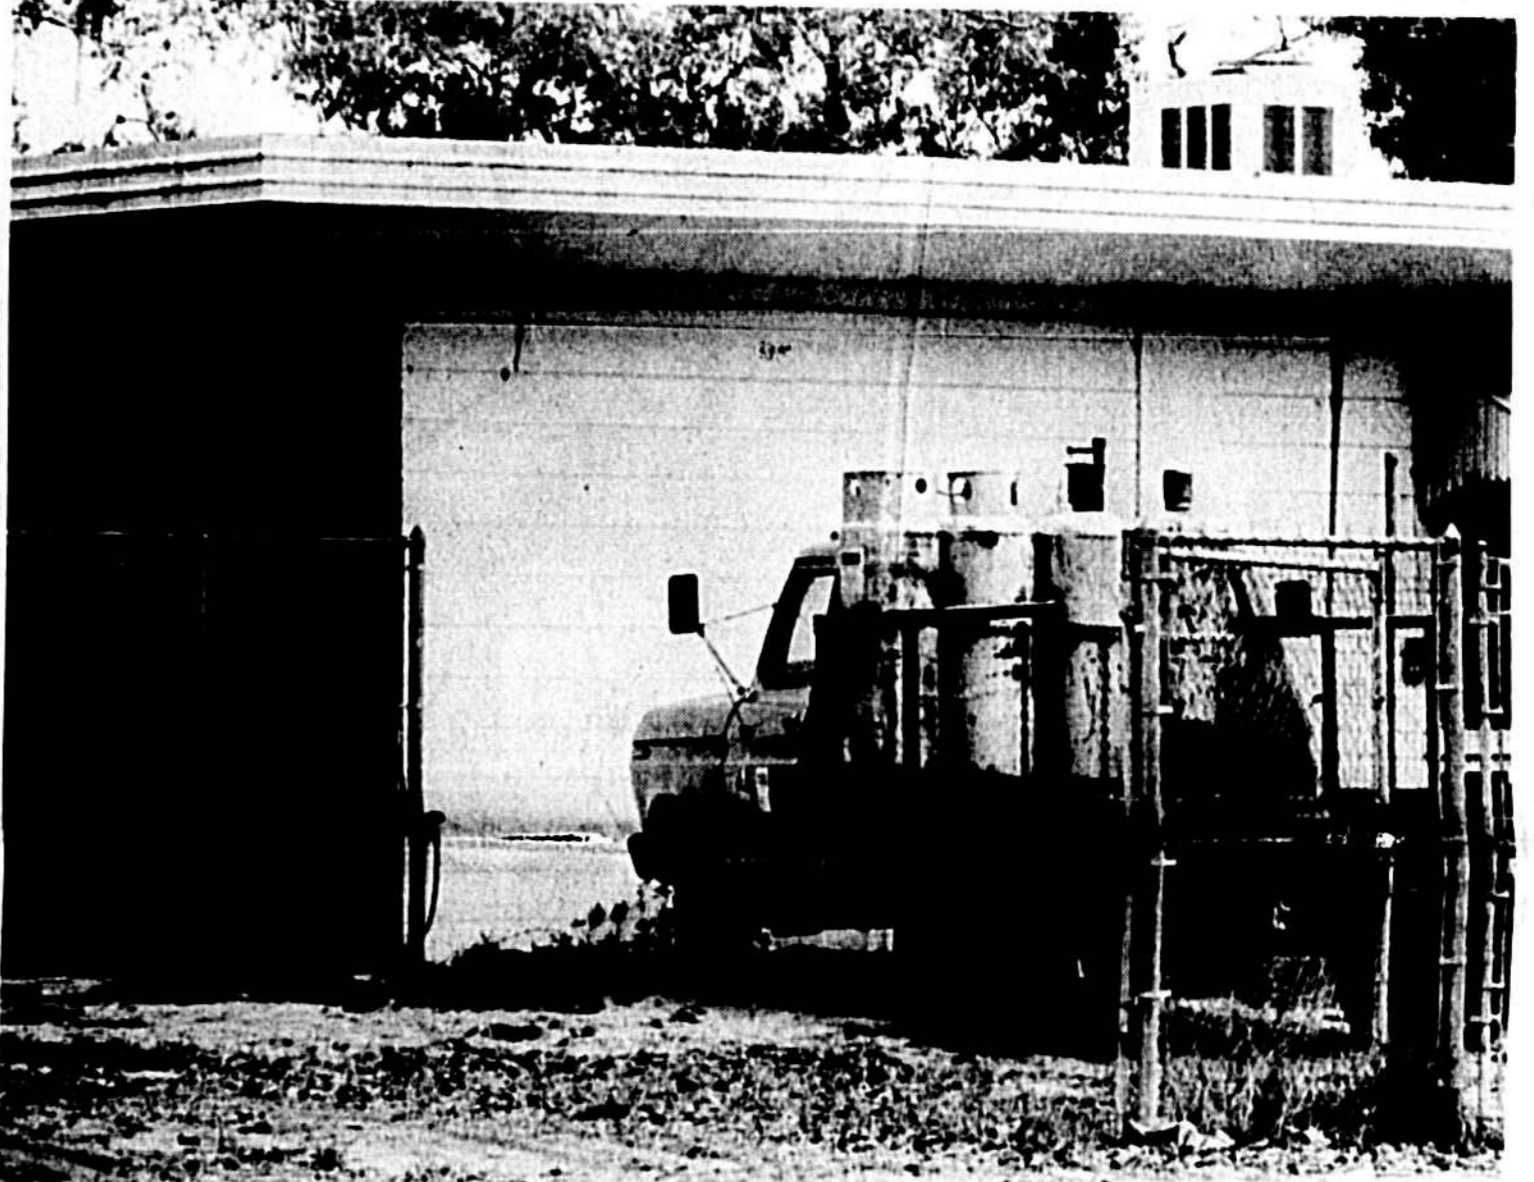

But Knowles warned that the conversion from a landfill disposal system to an energy recovery system is going to raise the price of refuse collection.

He said the declining supply of oil and its subsequent rise in price make the conversion to the resource recovery units "philosophically acceptable," but he said the cost of that conversion is going to be a financial burden initially.

He noted that the report did not translate the cost of the conversion into what it means to the individual, but he said the cost of building the recovery units and implementing the plan indicate a doubling or tripling of the present $5 monthly fee is likely.

The plan indicates that the cost of disposing of a ton of solid waste under the current landfill system is about $4. When the recovery units are operational, the cost of disposing of a ton of trash will be about $10, according to estimates.

"Solid waste disposal is to be one of the real major, costly problems of civilization in the years ahead," he said. "The public will not like what it sees or hears when costs are related to the solutions of their own demands."

KAREN WHIGHAM COLEMAN
...Florida Teacher Of The Year

Tuskawilla Teacher Is Tops In State

For the first time in history, a Seminole County teacher has been selected the Florida Teacher of the Year to represent the state in national competition in 1980.

The winner is Karen Whigham Coleman, 31, who teaches gifted students in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades at Tuskawilla Middle School.

"It's such a wonderful experience," said Mrs. Coleman, who had learned she was selected Florida Teacher of the Year 1980 just fifteen minutes before reporters contacted her today.

"Supt. William Layer just called and offered his congratulations but anything like this is a joint effort," Mrs. Coleman said. "My school has been so supportive."

Mrs. Coleman was selected from among 38 nominees from throughout the state in March before being named one of the six finalists in the program. She has been teaching for 12 years.

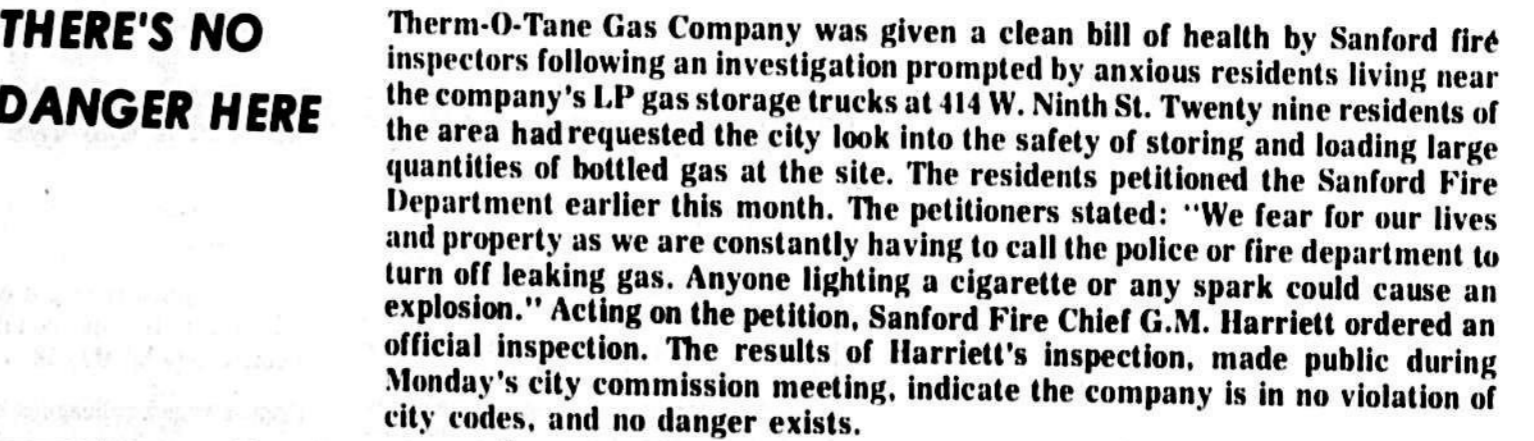

The six nominees for the state honor were chosen by a screening committee composed of representatives of the Florida PTA, the Florida Association of District School Superintendents, Florida Education Association, the Florida Teaching Profession and the Department of Education.

The selection of Mrs. Coleman for Florida Teacher of the Year 1980 was a unanimous decision, said Al Erlaben, coordinator of the program for the Florida Department of Education. The committee based its criteria on the same standards the national committee will be using when it makes its selection in 1980, Erlaben said.

"The national committee is looking for a teacher having a superior ability to impart love of learning in students of all backgrounds and abilities," said Erlaben.

"Of course, we take into account the teacher's own background, education, school and community involvement and extra-curricular activities," he said.

THERE'S NO DANGER HERE

Therm-O-Tane Gas Company was given a clean bill of health by Sanford fire inspectors following an investigation prompted by anxious residents living near the company's LP gas storage tanks at 114 W. Ninth St. Twenty nine residents of the area had requested the city look into the safety of storing and loading large quantities of bottled gas at the site. The residents petitioned the Sanford Fire Department earlier this month. The petitioners stated: "We fear for our lives and property as we are constantly having to call the police or fire department to turn off leaking gas. Anyone lighting a cigarette or any spark could cause an explosion." Acting on the petition, Sanford Fire Chief G.M. Harriett ordered an official inspection. The results of Harriett's inspection, made public during Monday's city commission meeting, indicate the company is in no violation of city codes, and no danger exists.

She Takes Job Seriously

Longwood's Mayor June Longmann takes her job seriously, even if some of her commission colleagues don't.

Mayor Longmann said she is convinced signing proclamations is a mayor's task, but also feels out of courtesy to commissioners, she ought to be permitted to introduce them for commission endorsement before signing them. Some of her colleagues feel differently about the issue, however.

The Longwood mayor over the past several weeks has had occasion to bring before the council several proclamations she's had to sign. There was National Coin Week, Private Property Week, Christ Episcopal Appreciation Week, Seminole County Youth Week, etc., etc., etc.

Monday, Mayor Longmann had still another one: Municipal Clerks Week proclaimed by Mrs. Longmann's attention by City Clerk Linda Martin.

So, Mayor Longmann asked commissioners to accept the proclamation and said she would sign it. Not this time, however.

"This is getting to be ridiculous," proclaimed Commissioner J.R. Grand, wanting to draw the line somewhere.

"We've had so many, there's no longer any meaning to it," proclaimed Commissioner Stephen Barton.

"I just feel it's my duty as mayor to sign proclamations, and when the commissioners look that attitude, I just told them I'll take it off and sign it by myself anyway," proclaimed Mayor Longmann.

"Was she disappointed?"

"Yes,"

"Will it cause any future problems for the mayor?"

"No. I'll just keep bringing them before the commission out of common courtesy, and if they continue to decline acknowledging them, I'll continue going off by myself and signing them," said the determined mayor.

Lamar said the citizens committee could also function as a receiver station where residents can report programs or advertisements they view as offensive.

Lamar urged the members to retain their rationality in their purposes.

"You cannot be on a white horse charging windmills stupidly. Let's not be a bunch of pranks if we are really serious about accomplishing something. The newspapers have already labeled me a nut."

Friend Comes Through With $

Dobermans Get Reprieve

Bruce and Judy Crocker's two registered Doberman Pinschers escaped death today when the county released the animals to their custody.

The couple recovered their dogs just hours before a decision was to be made on whether or not to destroy the animals. Both dogs were impounded by Seminole County animal control officers on April 10 after they had been suspected of biting a 4-year-old girl on April 7.

After the dogs were impounded the couple said they did not have the funds to pay the breeding fees for the dogs during quarantine period. Bruce Crocker said he and his wife are both unemployed and only recently moved here from Colorado.

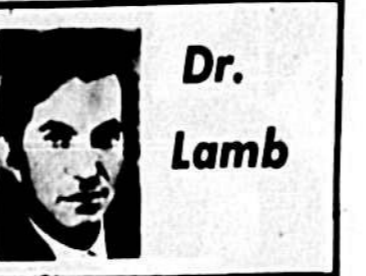

Under county ordinance, a dog becomes the property of the county if it is not claimed within a 15-day period and can be destroyed. Today would have been the 15th day of the Crocker's dogs' confinement.

Acting County Animal Control Director Jeff Etchberger said the Crocker's appeared at the dog pound this morning with the $94 they needed to free the animals. The county charges $3 per day for boarding plus an additional charge for registration and tags to those dogs without papers.

"It's a happy ending, the dogs are back with their owners," said Etchberger.

Etchberger said he was told the Crocker's were lent the money by a friend who did not want to see the dogs destroyed.

A Wife's Options: Affair Or Divorce

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need help in understanding a sexual problem that exists between my husband and myself. It might even save our marriage if I could gain a little insight. At present I'm contemplating an affair with a long-time friend or a divorce or both.

My husband is 64 and I'm in my early 60s. For the last 20 years there's been a decreasing ability to function sexually on his part and now no attempt at all is made. I've tried to be understanding but frustrated. He won't see a physician. He is a heavy drinker and smokes two to three packs of cigarettes a day. I've tried to get him to give up these habits and told him that he would live longer and more pleasantly so we could enjoy our lives together but nothing works.

I can conclude that he enjoys things the way they are which is to go to work, come home, start drinking and stagger off to bed. This means no home life for either of us. My husband's shortened life span for him. What is a woman supposed to do in circumstances such as these?

DEAR READER — You're right about the effect on his life span. If he drinks as much as you say, at 64 years of age he may not be around much longer to provide any form of companionship.

The excessive use of alcohol can significantly impair a man's sexual capacity. Alcohol doesn't make men better lovers. It usually decreases their objectivity so they don't realize how bad they are.

People who drink often think they drive better under the influence when, in fact, they're traffic hazards. Or they may think they do a dozen other things better. All of this is illusion. Tests have shown that

WASHINGTON — Gross mismanagement and negligence by the National Archives have destroyed vital parts of our American heritage.

Private documents and films that record the history of the United States back to George Washington's time are slowly crumbling into dust or otherwise deteriorating beyond repair.

Vitamins To Supplement Diet

DEAR DR. LAMB — I enjoy your column very much and all the valuable information that you give us. It does annoy me, however, when you put down vitamin supplements. While it's true that they're unnecessary if one eats a well-balanced diet, how many people do, and on a daily basis? Most of the people I know either do not like, cannot afford or have no time to prepare fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain bread and cereals, etc., every day.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 83 years old and have a spastic colon. Since I've been taking wheat bran before breakfast and eating roughage, I don't have any problem with constipation. I would like to know what causes that full feeling and if there is a remedy. I eat nothing fried, spicy or greasy and eat no pie or cake, in fact, practically no sweets.

Nuclear Power Plants May Be Closed

By United Press International
The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is expected to decide today or Wednesday whether to temporarily shut down atomic power plants built by the same firm that constructed the Three Mile Island reactor. Temperatures in the crippled nuclear core are cooling on schedule.
In Washington Monday, two top NRC staff experts recommended plants built by Babcock and Wilcox be shut down for a month or so pending a review of their problems. NRC Chairman Joseph Hendrie said the commission will meet today or Wednesday to decide what to do.
Harold Denton, the NRC's director of nuclear reactor regulation, said he would rather wait until more information is studied on possible defects in the plants.
Nine Babcock and Wilcox reactors will, but only four — three Oconee units in North Carolina and Rancho Seco in northern California — are now operating. The other five were previously closed for repairs or maintenance.
The shutdown recommendation came from Denton's deputy, Edson Case, at a staff briefing for the commissioners.
"I believe there exists a considerable mismatch between operator training, operator experience and the B and W plant," he said. "A lot is expected of these operators — a lot more than the present training program provides."
He said he would "feel more comfortable" if the other Babcock and Wilcox reactors were shut down pending a full review of their problems, which he said could take "a month or so."

'Forgiveness Day'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The St. Petersburg Junior College library staff is holding a "Forgiveness Day" Thursday at the St. Petersburg campus.
People having overdue books can return them that day without having to pay any fines — regardless of how long the book has been overdue. In fact, whoever borrowed "Philosophy for Beginners" back in 1962 can bring it back Thursday with no questions asked.
"This is a friendly reminder to get people to look on their bookshelves and under their beds, find our materials and return them," said librarian Florence Jones. "Some of those books are rare and out of print, and we'd like to have them back in our collection."
She said it hoped 300 to 500 missing books will be recovered.

Gacy Charged In 26 Killings

CHICAGO (UPI) — John Wayne Gacy has been charged with 26 more murder counts. Monday a grand jury returned the additional 26 counts.
Since Gacy's arrest, authorities have charged him with 52 murders. He is charged with 26 murders of young men and boys, now connected to the convicted sodomist.
Gacy, who was arrested last December for allegedly confessed to killing at least 32 victims after engaging in homosexual relations with them, was charged with 26 more counts of murder, Monday.
The last body buried to Gacy — that of Robert Piest, 19 — was pulled from the Illinois River southwest of Chicago earlier this month.
Piest disappeared last December after telling members of his family he planned to see Gacy about a job with Gacy's contracting firm. It was that clue which first led police to Gacy.
Since the initial discoveries, police have slowly dismantled Gacy's home, Monday.
Frank Braun, head of the investigations north unit, said the excavation has been completed.
"We're satisfied" there are no more bodies, he said.

Supreme Court Hears Case On Soliciting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A challenge to the way local governments regulate door-to-door soliciting by charities will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.
The high court announced Monday it will hear arguments on an appeal by the village of Schaumburg, Ill., from a lower court ruling that its solicitation ordinance violated the rights of a public interest group.
Citizens for a Better Environment was a lower-court ruling invalidating Schaumburg's ordinance requiring that 75 percent of any door-to-door proceeds be used "directly and solely for the charitable purpose of the organization."
Direct spending did not include salaries or commissions and administrative expenses such as lawyers' fees, rents or telephones.
Village lawyers warned the Supreme Court the lower-court ruling "will have the effect of granting absolute license of any organization, which purports to be charitable in nature, to abuse the rights of citizens and homeowners."
The battle lines were drawn when the environmental group filed suit against Schaumburg village officials.
Although the major source of funding for the group, which began operating in Illinois in the mid-1970s, was small contributions from door-to-door canvassing, it refused to provide information saying its spending met the ordinance's requirements.
The group filed suit against Schaumburg and 18 other Chicago-area towns, challenging ordinances regulating solicitation within town limits.
In its suit against Schaumburg, the environmental group said the 75 percent requirement was an absolute bar to canvassing and soliciting and hampered its constitutional guarantee of free speech.
The village countered that it had a responsibility to differentiate between commercial and charitable organizations to protect its citizens against fraud by door-to-door solicitors.
A federal judge found the requirement an impermissible form of censorship and a restraint on the exercise of free speech.

'I Feel Like An Animal'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — "I feel like an animal not here on a mission of vengeance" because the man who killed her son and two other Metropolitan Dade County police officers committed suicide, she said.
Dr. Scharlette Holdman, representing the Florida Criminal Justice Clearing House, said capital punishment is inhumane and death by drugs was no more acceptable than the electric chair.
But Anita Kimbler, Holdman's aide, said slain policeman Frank Duraweb, called capital punishment, "a necessary means of self defense carried out by the state on my behalf."
The discussion was held Monday as the House Criminal Justice Clearing House, said capital punishment is inhumane and death by drugs was no more acceptable than the electric chair.
But Anita Kimbler, Holdman's aide, said slain policeman Frank Duraweb, called capital punishment, "a necessary means of self defense carried out by the state on my behalf."

House Debates Executions

"Electrocution is not a 'slippery slope,'" he said, "recounting previous testimony about jerking bodies and burning flesh. "It doesn't impact on the victim as much as the electric chair," he said.
"It isn't as clean and surgical as the electric chair," he said.
If it becomes law, persons still on death row in 1980 are committed prior to 1980 would be given a choice of death by electrocution or injection.
People who survive responsible strong currents of electricity, he said, recall nothing. Rep. Frank Williams, D-Share, said he was struck by lightning and felt no pain.
Hodes, who routinely puts surgical patients to sleep by injection, said most physicians favor capital punishment but would oppose doing it by injection.
Putting a needle in a vein is often difficult and requires cooperation of the patient, he said, predicting it would be doubly hard with "an individual who knows he is going to be killed by the injection."
