Guerrillas: 'We killed officer'

MANILA, Philippines - Communist guerrillas Saturday claimed responsibility for the ambush slaying of a U.S. Army officer, saying he was a "direct participant" in President Corazon Aquino's counter-insurgency campaign.

'The New People's Army takes responsibility for the ambush of Col. James Rowe.'

Col. James Rowe, 51, chief of the ground forces division of the Joint U.S. Military Advisory Group (JUSMAG), was killed Friday as he rode to his suburban Quezon City office.

The rebels have recently stepped up their threats against U.S. forces on the island and called the Rowe's slaying "the firm commitment of the revolutionary forces to continue military actions against U.S. personnel and installations."

Gator possession charges filed

SANFORD - Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission officers report that on March 12, a Sanford man and two juveniles were given notices to appear in court on a charge of possession of an alligator without a permit.

The three were not jailed, GFWFC Capt. Gary Phelps of Ocala said Friday.

The boy and girl who were charged were dealt with through the Prosecution Alternatives for Youths program.

Jeffrey Russell, 20, was charged as an adult and appeared in court. Phelps said Russell was fined $100 and ordered to pay $85 in court costs. He is on one-year supervised probation, which will cost him a $30 monthly fee.

Adrian Hillsman stretches herself to the limit during the long jump competition. She won that event and two other individual crowns.

Lady 'Noles take track title

LAKE MARY - Adrian Hillsman won three individual events and ran on two winning relay teams to lead Seminole to its fourth consecutive Seminole Athletic Conference Championship Friday night at Don T. Reynolds Stadium at Lake Mary High School.

The Lady Seminoles finished with 122 points with Lake Brantley finishing a distant second with 71 1/2. Lake Mary was third with 67 1/2 followed by Lake Howell with 34. Lyman with 31, Oviedo with 19 and DeLand with 2.

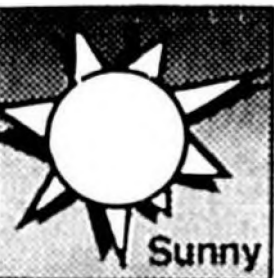

"We came and did exactly the things we had to do," Seminole coach Emory Blake said. "With the exception of Michelle Pearson's fall in the 110 hurdles we had a strong meet. Michelle just got out of the realm of what we wanted to accomplish and it cost her. I'd rather something like that happen now than in the district meet."

No VA hospital here

McCullum says Orlando is probably a better site

Rep. Bill McCollum addresses crowd during meeting at Sanford City Hall.

SANFORD - Seminole County probably won't be chosen as the site for a Veterans Administration hospital, U.S. Representative Bill McCollum told about 80 local residents at a town meeting yesterday at Sanford City Hall.

Catastrophic health insurance, congressional bailout of savings and loan institutions and the recent Exxon oil spill were other major concerns McCollum heard yesterday during the public forum.

Two sites in Seminole County are under consideration for the 400-bed VA hospital. The city of Sanford has offered the VA a tract of 2,200 acres of city-owned land in Geneva. In February, the VA confirmed consideration of a second Seminole County offer of a tract of County Road 426 near Ojeda.

Five Brevard County sites are in competition.

The Naval training center in Orlando, one of three proposed sites in Orange County, is more centrally located in the primary service area, McCollum said.

"So don't get your hopes up too high," McCollum said.

The VA is expected to make a decision on the location this summer.

McCollum said he is sponsoring an amendment to the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act, a law passed last year placing a 15 percent surtax on

Longwood lady faces eviction

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE

LONGWOOD - There's a house in Longwood on Widma Street with no glass in the windows, holes in the roof, and the chimney is separated from the main frame.

"Abandoned?"

No, it is occupied by Rose W. Massey, a 62-year-old lady who has lived at that address for the past 38 years.

Massey has refused to vacate the premises despite pleas made by the city for her to move out of a structure that has been declared unsafe by the building official.

City officials said all efforts to have Massey bring the house up to a condition that meets city and safety and health codes have failed. Massey said she had thought about mortgaging the dilapidated home to get the needed funds to make those repairs.

Recently, Longwood City Attorney Richard S. Taylor Jr. sent a letter to Massey asking her to vacate the house on or before April 9. But Massey and her manager of dogs have not budged.

"That time has long since passed. The next thing

LONGWOOD - Rose Massey looked up from a raking chore in her front yard on a sunny Saturday afternoon.

She smiled and said hello. Numerous pet dogs, every size and breed, loyally flanked her side.

Massey, who has been asked by the city to leave her home because of its unsafe condition, said she is angry and that she has been "done an injustice."

She said she is concerned that gossip has ruined her reputation. "I'm a citizen and an old timer. I had no idea they were going to turn on me. I feel like I was turned on," Massey said, her blue eyes direct and penetrating.

Massey was unflinching in talking about her home, the Lawn care officials refute 'state of pesticides' study

From staff and wire reports

A number of pesticides used in the lawn care industry were found to be safe, according to a study by the Florida Department of Agriculture, which refuted a study by the consumer advocacy group 'Public Citizen' that said 40 pesticides used in the lawn care industry were suspected cancer-causing agents.

The study said: "An examination of available data on the health hazards of lawn care pesticides indicates that there are many safe pesticides in use today. The study also found that the pesticides used in the lawn care industry are safe for the environment and for the people who use them."

PESTICIDE DANGERS

These are the findings of a study sponsored by the consumer advocacy group 'Public Citizen'

Of the 40 pesticides used mainly in the lawn care industry, 12 are suspected cancer-causing agents, with 11 having caused cancer in animals and nine classified by the EPA as "probably" or "possible" human carcinogens.

21 of the pesticides have been shown to cause birth defects, gene mutations, dermatitis, and liver, kidney and nervous system damage in people and laboratory animals.

20 have been shown to cause short-term damage to the central nervous system of people and resulted in flu-like symptoms, while 36 have been shown to cause eye, skin and throat irritation in people and animals.

Satanic pornographer jailed

United Press International

TAMPA — A National Guard employee and former Polk County substitute teacher is in jail on charges he took nearly 100 pornographic photographs of young girls, some of them depicting satanic rituals.

Richard Joel "Rex" Secae, 43, is charged with possessing photographs of children in sex acts and misdemeanor child abuse and marijuana charges. He is being held without bail.

Secae was arrested Thursday after deputies talked with a 15-year-old runaway from Maine. She had lived with Secae since January and told deputies about the photographs of bondage sex and satanism.

A search of Secae's apartment revealed 86 photographs of females age 18 and older in sexually suggestive poses, said Hillsborough

Sheriff's Capt. Gary Terry.

Terry said some of the Polaroid snapshots depicted nude girls engaged in satanic rituals, but he refused to elaborate. Other pictures showed girls and women performing sex while handcuffed and bound at the feet.

The runaway was shown in at least 19 of the photographs taken between April 14-18, according to arrest records. She was not physically injured during the rituals, Terry said.

The runaway told deputies that Secae gave her beer and marijuana, then had her pose for photographs. Secae knew the girl was a runaway, according to arrest records.

Inside the apartment, detectives found a ceremonial robe associated with devil worship, candles and other occult-related items, Terry said. They also found a small amount of marijuana and glass and metal smoking pipes.

Not all the snapshots were taken inside the apartment, Terry said, and authorities are trying to figure out the location and the identities of the other subjects.

Secae, twice divorced, is a civilian clerical worker at the Florida National Guard's Tampa headquarters on Howard Avenue. A National Guard spokesman said Secae would be placed on part-time administrative duties pending trial.

Polk County school officials said Secae worked as a substitute high school teacher in the Lakeland area from 1985 to January 1988.

His father, Guy Secae of Lakeland, said his son also is a former state prison guard. "This is a shock. I can't believe it," he said.

Former Jehovah's Witness pleased

BRANDON — A man forced out of the Jehovah's Witness church because he refused to kidnap his daughter from a hospital says the conviction of a Sarasota couple for the death of their little girl might wake up some parents and save some lives.

The conviction might "wake parents out of fanaticism," said Paul Bizard, who ignored demands by Jehovah's Witness elders that he kidnap his daughter from a hospital when a court ordered a blood transfusion. He was excommunicated.

"It ought to put the fear of God in them that the state is not going to stand by and let children die because of religious fanaticism," he said Friday.

William and Christine Hermanson, who relied on spiritual healing instead of taking their diabetic daughter, Amy, to a doctor, were found guilty Tuesday of third-degree murder and felony child-abuse charges.

Amy, 7, died even though her illness easily could have been controlled by insulin, a doctor testified.

Now a Southern Baptist minister and a theology student at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., Bizard was in Brandon to speak at a state convention of former Jehovah's Witnesses Saturday night at King's Avenue Baptist Church.

Tampa rapist sought in New York

TAMPA — An ex-convict sought for the abduction-rape of a Tampa woman and the stabbing of her companion earlier this month now is wanted on a murder charge in his hometown in New York.

William Michael Branahaw, former resident of Riverview, Fla., is accused of the shooting death of a 17-year-old high school student Thursday night in Oswego, N.Y., authorities said.

The student was watching the pets at the home of a vacationing neighbor when someone broke into the house, said Sharon Whipple of the Oswego Sheriff's Office. Sam Amedeo Jr. died of a gunshot wound, and the attacker stole his Pontiac Firebird.

New York authorities connected Branahaw to the crime through fingerprints found at the house in Oswego County, about 40 miles north of Syracuse in upstate New York.

Oswego deputies were aware of Branahaw because two weeks ago, Tampa police dispatched teletypes of his arrest warrants for rape, kidnapping and assault. Branahaw, 28, is an Oswego native and has relatives there.

'Chorus Line' author Kirkwood dies

KEY WEST — Actor, novelist and playwright James Kirkwood, who won a Pulitzer Prize for writing "A Chorus Line," the longest-running musical in Broadway history, died at his Manhattan, N.Y. apartment.

Friends gave his age as 88, although Kirkwood had admitted to being born in 1924. "As an actor, I got in the habit of lying about my age," he once explained.

Kirkwood, whose main residence was in Key West, died of cancer after being hospitalized recently in New York City, said Nicholas Dante, who co-authored "A Chorus Line," a tale based largely on real Broadway dancers' recollections of their professional agonies and successes.

"He will really be missed. He had a great life force and a great curiosity about everything," Dante said. "I really am completely amazed because it was so very quick. He had just gotten out of the hospital."

Haitian hijacker suspects plead innocent

MIAMI — Two Haitian soldiers accused of hijacking an airplane belonging to a missionary group have pleaded innocent on grounds they were seeking asylum and fleeing for their lives.

Fadeal Milord and Beritose Guillaume were indicted on air piracy charges Thursday and pleaded innocent Friday. They are being held at the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center without bond.

The two men had told their attorneys they were on their way to the Dominican Republic, which is on the same island as Haiti, April 10 after participating in an unsuccessful coup aimed at Haitian President Lt. Gen. Prosper Avril.

But they said as the drove past an airport in Cap Haitien, they changed their minds and decided to go to the United States.

FBI agents said they commandeered at gunpoint a twin-engine Cessna 402 owned by Missionary Aviation Fellowship of Redlands, Calif., to take a missionary group from Haiti to Fort Lauderdale.

They demanded to be taken to Miami where they immediately threw down their weapons and surrendered to agents who were waiting for them.

"This was not a case of air piracy. My client was seeking political asylum," said Henry Bugay, who represents Guillaume.

Gallagher fundraiser canceled

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Republican party has decided against holding a $6,000-a-plate fundraising dinner for Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher because of the appearance of impropriety.

GOP leaders said they are still planning a $500-a-person cocktail party for the same day, May 3, but they are taking Gallagher's name off it and holding it in honor of all elected Republican officials.

The plans for the fundraiser drew fire from Democrats and Republicans alike because it would have come during a legislative session during which several insurance bills are pending.

Jill Chamberlain, a spokeswoman for Gallagher said he and party Chairman Van Poole "decided that a well-intentioned effort to raise money for the Republican Party had been poorly executed and had resulted in widespread misperception."

"It's Gallagher's belief that if you made a mistake, you ought to admit you made a mistake," she said.

The invitations were sent by Poole to lobbyists, GOP loyalists and others. Both Democrats and Republicans said it appeared to provide an opportunity for influencing legislation.

"It was an unfortunate development," said Brian Ballard, chief of operations for Gov. Bob Martinez. "Just the appearance ... those types of things you need to strive to stay away from."

He said the governor "communicated" with the party during the controversy and approved of the cancellation.

"The governor thinks it's a very wise move," Ballard said. "It was just something that needed to be corrected. I think [Gallagher] saw that, and he was a big enough man to realize it."

NASA changes launch schedule

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Delays getting the shuttle Columbia ready for its second flight in six years have forced NASA to delay an August military mission, officials said Friday, which could result in five flights this year instead of seven as planned.

While the domino-like ripple the delay will have on the overall launch schedule is not yet clear, it is likely the long-awaited launch of the $1.4 billion Hubble Space Telescope will be pushed from December to at least March and possibly to as late as May 15.

NASA Administrator-designate Richard Truly said in Washington that Columbia, carrying a classified military payload, will be launched around Aug. 1 on the third mission of 1989 instead of July 1 as originally planned.

As expected, Truly said a military flight with the shuttle Discovery that had been planned for Aug. 10 now will be delayed until after the shuttle Atlantis takes off in October to carry the Galileo Jupiter probe into orbit.

"We currently are assessing manifest options downstream of Galileo," Truly said in a statement.

Columbia has only flown once since 1983 and it has been apparent for months that it would not be able to make its July 1 launch date. NASA managers at the Kennedy Space Center recently implemented an around-the-clock processing effort to get the veteran space shuttle back up to flight status.

But the delay comes at a crucial time for NASA's launch planners, who are struggling to balance a variety of complex factors. Among the issues affecting the launch schedule: the positions of Earth and Jupiter and plans to retrieve a science satellite that is falling back into the atmosphere.

NASA's launch schedule as it now stands calls for Atlantis to blast off Friday, April 28, at 3:24 p.m. EDT on the year's second flight, a high-priority mission to launch a $530 million probe to Venus. Work at the launch pad, Friday, was on track for the start of Atlantis' countdown Tuesday.

Columbia would take off around July 31, followed by the Galileo mission in October. But after that, the manifest is up in the air.

At least two options are under debate. The first, called option 2A, lists the following schedule:

—July 31: Columbia takes off on a classified military mission.

—Oct. 12: Atlantis launches the Galileo probe.

—Nov. 19: Discovery blasts off on the military mission currently planned for August.

—Dec. 21: Columbia takes off to retrieve the Long Duration Exposure Facility, or "LDEF," the science satellite left in orbit in 1984 to expose a variety of materials to the harsh environment of space.

Poisonous snakes are easy buy

UPI report

FT. MYERS — A newspaper said Saturday it purchased three poisonous snakes from a Florida dealer and had them shipped to Michigan to demonstrate that anyone with a telephone and a credit card can buy the deadly animals, regardless of their training or reasons for wanting them.

The Detroit Free Press said it paid $105 plus $31.92 in freight charges for two large rattlesnakes and an Asian pit viper.

The animals were acquired from dealer Chris McQuade, who listed 51 poisonous species for sale in a July 1988 catalog.

The snakes arrived at Detroit Metropolitan Airport as freight on a passenger flight. Such animals cannot be mailed.

"If you're 21 and you live in an area where possession of the venomous animals is not restricted or prohibited, there is nothing that would prevent you from selling the animals to you," McQuade said.

decaying white structure lacked with two "No Trespassing" signs. Foliage had grown around glassless windows and the bright sun revealed every decaying hole.

Massey said that she wanted to repair the home, but funds kept her back. She said that she has been most hurt by the gossip in town. She said she has been called everything in the book and people are curious about her, paying unwanted visits.

"Somebody sent welfare here and told them I couldn't cook. That's not true. I've been cooking a long time," she said. Rumors that she doesn't have running water or a stove are false.

Massey said that she has lived in Longwood all her life, and that her father, Tom Pinch, served on the city council and was a deputy for the Longwood sheriff's department. She said the home, now almost a shell, once belonged to her mother and father.

"Dad did a lot of things for the city to beautify it with grass and flowers," Massey said.

Massey said that she gets nervous by the pressure to get out of the house and takes nerve and sleeping pills to help her sleep.

"I feel the pressure of it every day. They send people over here day and night to the house. It's not helping my health any," she said.

Massey said that she is trying to sell her house and once she does, she would like to buy another house.

"Somewhere where I could take a few dogs," she said while affectionately gazing at the creatures. "Pets are my heart."

Massey said she is a member of the First Baptist Church in Longwood.

"Many prayers have been said over this fence," she said.

Massey said she is angry about the way she was treated. She said even the town children call her a witch and throw rocks at her house, breaking the upper bedroom windows.

"Everything I own is what I own here. I eat here. I live here. I even have furniture in there. This is where I get my check (social security)," she said.

Massey sits down on a chair and her pets flock to her. She caresses them lovingly.

People have called me a nut for years. Your reputation goes a long way, doesn't it?"

Battleship nears port; probe continues

United Press International

NORFOLK, Va. — The crippled USS Iowa steamed towards its home port Saturday as Naval investigators scoured the battleship in search of clues to what caused the explosion that claimed 47 lives amid reports some sailors died of asphyxiation.

The inquiry continued as Norfolk Naval Base was preparing to welcome home the World War II battleship, expected to arrive at the world's largest naval station at 5:40 p.m. EST this evening, and local merchants offered free services to families of the victims.

Lt. Cmdr. Alan Dooley said a team of six investigators was aboard the ship, searching for clues to the blast Wednesday off the coast of Puerto Rico.

He said no cause of death has been announced for any sailors, but The Washington Post reported Saturday that seamen in the upper chambers of gun turret No. 2 died instantly in the fiery explosion while those in the lower levels suffocated as the blast siphoned off their oxygen.

"We have not announced any causes of death," Dooley said, refusing comment on the Post's report. "The team will continue its probe until it's complete."

Preliminary reports indicated the sailors in the turret and men in some of the mechanical and electrical machinery decks immediately below died from the massive blast generated by 660 pounds of burning powder used to fire the ship's 16-inch guns, the Post said, citing Navy officials as sources.

In lower chambers, where the projectiles are stored, the explosion sucked out all the oxygen. However, sailors in the ammunition room on the lowest level were protected by the maze of doors and seals that separate it from the remainder of the ship.

Two fully loaded gun barrels in the turret also remained intact following the accident, the newspaper said.

The Post reported that a sailor with a home video recorder taped the explosion but Dooley refused to discuss the making of such a tape.

In Norfolk, preparations were being made for Monday's memorial service, to be attended by President Bush, as forensic experts and medical examiners continued identifying the remains flown to Dover Air Force Base, Del., in flag-draped coffins.

The bodies were to be prepared for funerals in dress uniform and the first four were to be shipped to their hometowns Saturday night.

Bush ordered that flags be flown at half staff until sunset Tuesday as a sign of respect for the officers and crew who perished in the blast.

Reporters Saturday toured the Iowa's sister ship, the USS Wisconsin, whose No. 1 and No. 2 gun turrets are almost exact replicas of the wounded ship's chambers but no questions were allowed about the accident.

The Wisconsin's No. 2 turret, almost identical to the Iowa's chamber, contains three guns. Sailors load six 110-pound powder bags into each gun, which fires each 2,700-pound projectile about 20 miles.

Each of the ship's turrets, enclosed in 488 tons of armor, is operated by crewmembers stationed behind closed doors within the chamber, although the actual firing is done by officers above deck.

Turret No. 2 has low ceilings, making it difficult for sailors to maneuver. Men enter the turret by climbing through a hole about 2 feet in diameter.

Lt. Becl Brenton said the outpouring of support by the community has been "tremendous."

She said AT&T had donated 120 telephones to line the pier, where the Iowa will dock, for sailors to call their families anywhere in the world, free of charge.

Restaurants, hotels, rental car services and even dry cleaning establishments have offered their services to the families, Brenton said.

The first memorial service Friday was attended by hundreds of mourners who gathered on the banks of the Elizabeth River.

North jury to resume deliberations Monday

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Jurors in Oliver North's Iran-Contra trial deliberated for more than three hours Saturday, their second day of considering whether the former White House aide committed 12 felony crimes arising from the scandal.

The jurors, who have been sequestered since Thursday night, worked only half a day and were scheduled to resume deliberations at 9 a.m. Monday. Saturday was juror Beverly Turner's 37th birthday.

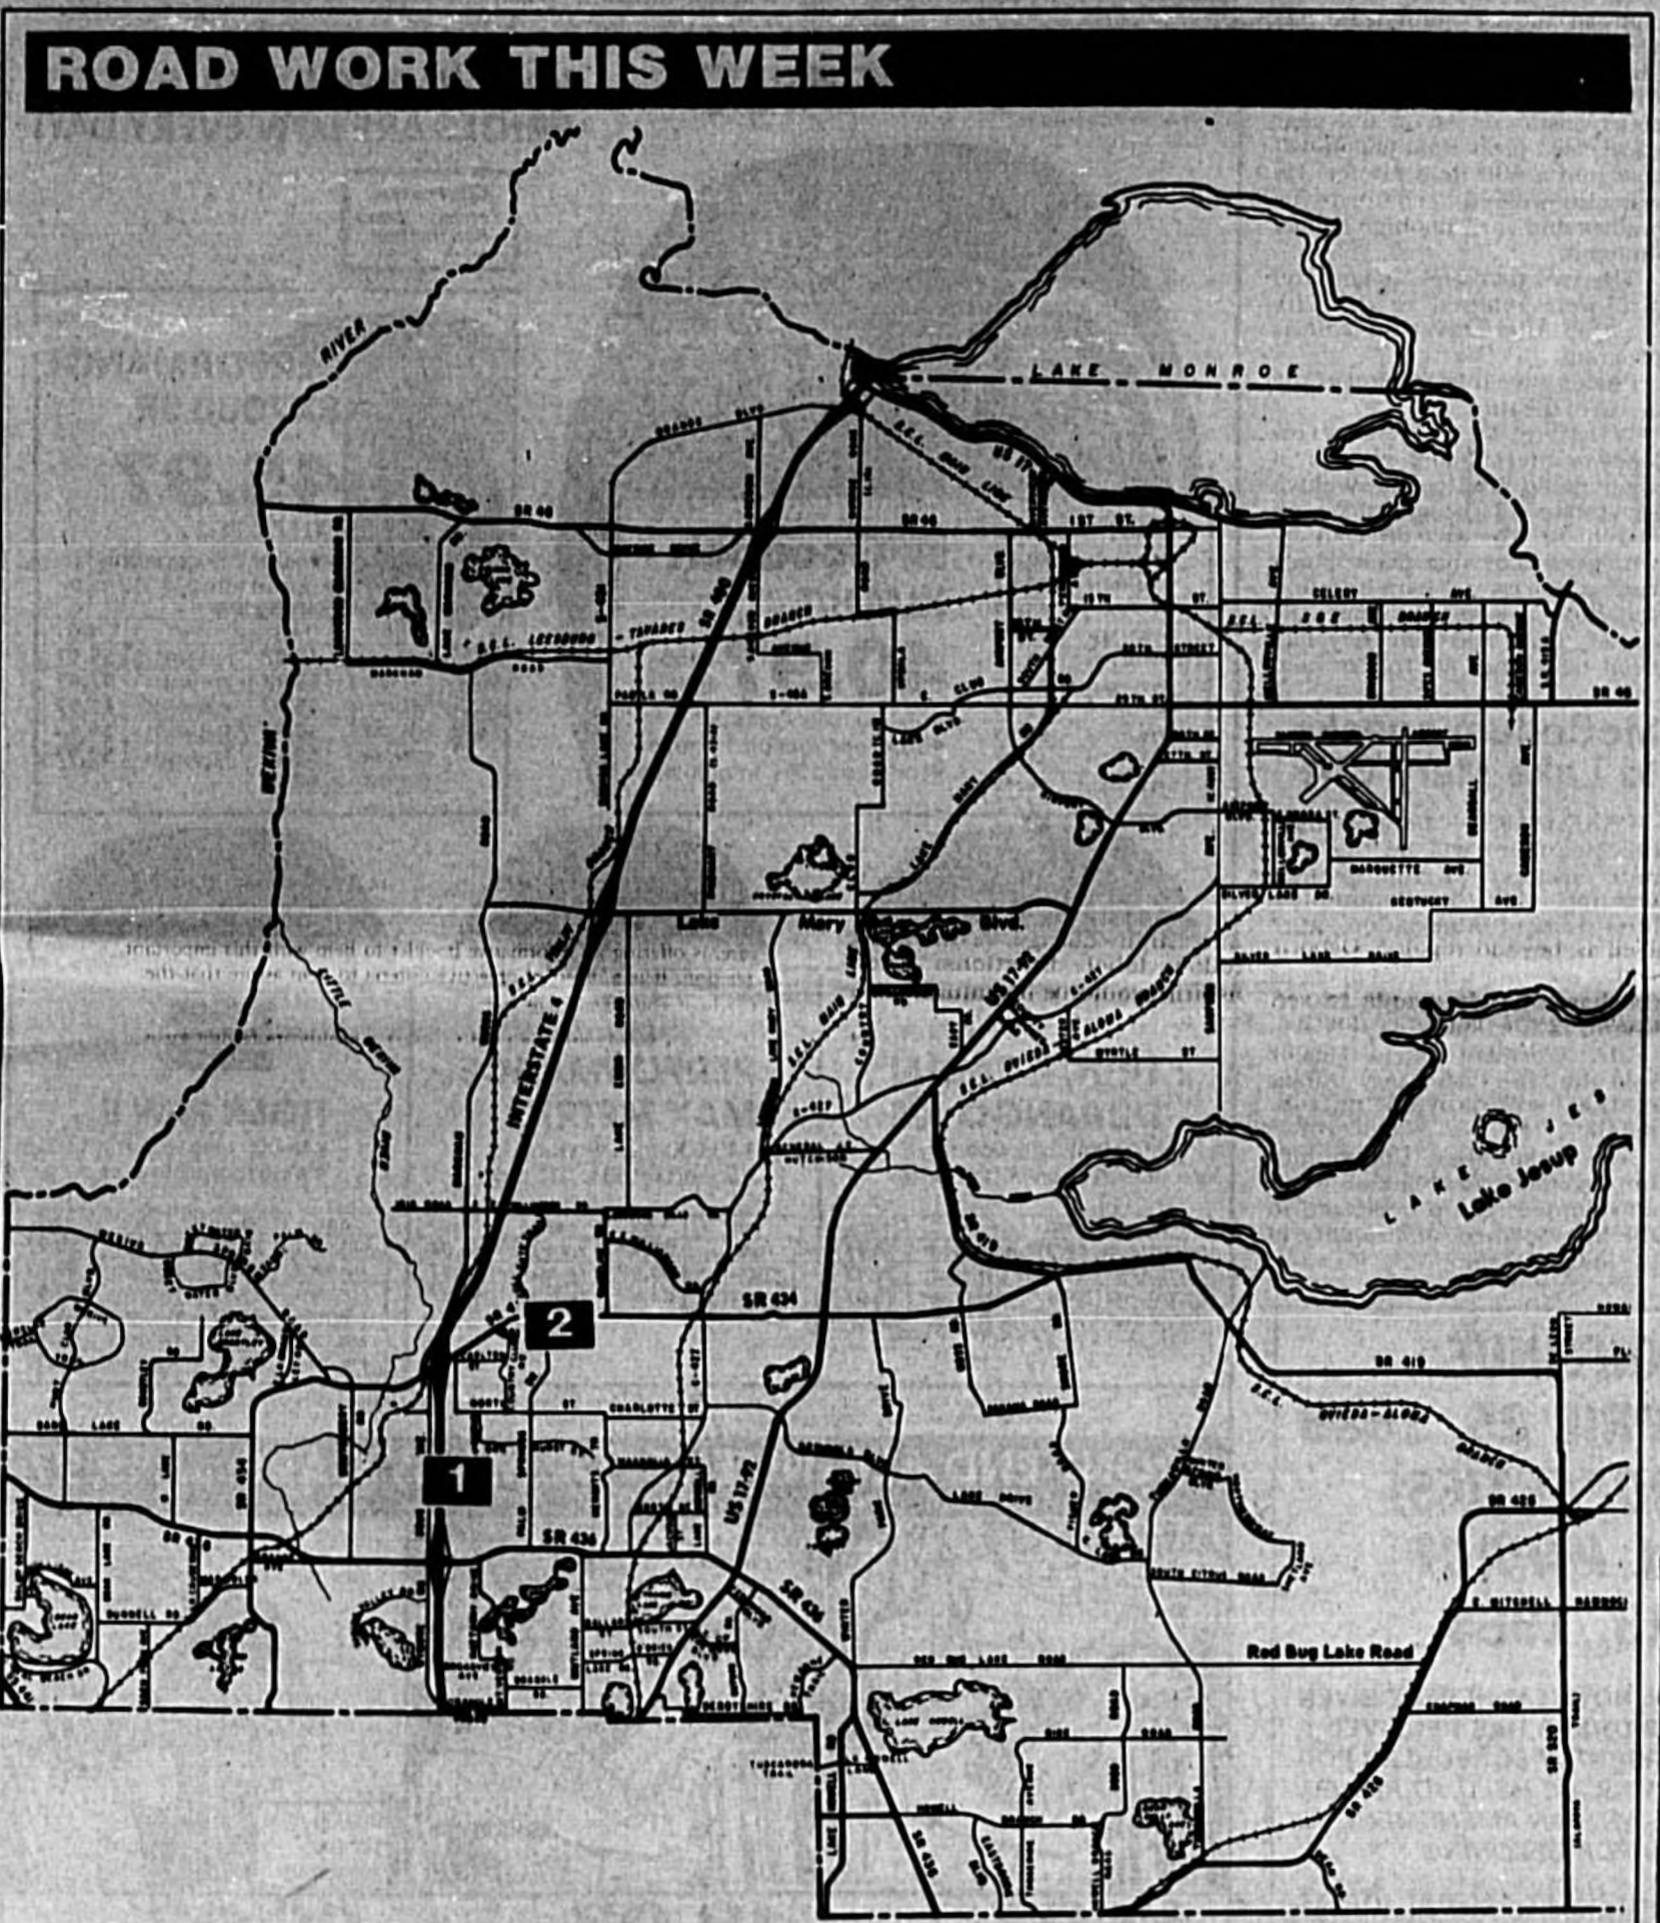

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell promised the panelists last week that if they wanted to go to church Sunday, a U.S. marshal would escort them. The judge also said "possibly a pleasant trip or other reasonable relaxation" would be arranged, although there was no word on what the activity might be.

For a second day, the jury arrived at the courthouse early in the day. A half-dozen television cameras tracked their van as it cruised to the building and into the basement garage.

Jurors began deliberating at 8:45 a.m. EDT and finished at 12:10 p.m. Foreman Denise Anderson, 34, a hospital secretary, presided over the deliberations, which ran nearly 10 hours Friday and Saturday.

Fifteen minutes before the jury quit for the day, Anderson sent a note to Gesell asking him to make sure the exhibits were kept in the order the jurors had fashioned. The note had a postscript: "Please sharpen pencils, and we need more pencils and highlighters."

The jurors have been sequestered in a local hotel.

Storms hamper cleanup; race to save sea lions

United Press International

VALDEZ, Alaska — A line of violent storms pounded Prince William Sound Saturday, kicking up 6-foot swells and scuttling aerial reconnaissance of America's worst oil spill.

Cleanup work halted on Smith Island, where Exxon is in a race with nature to decontaminate the shoreline's rocky coves and inlets vital to the survival of the sound's sizeable sea lion population.

"There's nothing going up and nothing going out," said Bill Lamoreaux, on-the-scene coordinator for the state of Alaska. "This is the kind of weather we feared, and the reason why it was so important to take advantage of the good days."

But Exxon didn't. On Day 31 after the March 24 rupture of the Exxon Valdez and loss of 10.1 million gallons into one of the nation's most ecologically sensitive regions, the company has yet to deliver on its promised beach cleanup. Saturday was scheduled to be D-day, but the weather shut down most activities with the exception of locating equipment.

An emergency meeting of the Interagency Shoreline Committee Friday night urged Exxon to move quickly to wash down beaches in four critical seal-breeding areas: Applegate Rock, Seal, Green and Smith Islands — all located immediately southwest of the reef where Exxon Valdez ran aground.

"These are major haul-out areas," said Lamoreaux, "areas in which the entire sound's (sea lion) population begins pupping. But the newborns, perhaps 3,000 in the next few weeks, cannot survive when their sensitive skin is coated in oil. Moreover some of the heaviest stained beaches are also critical birthing, or haul-out, areas. The sound supports a sea lion population of more than 16,000.

The shoreline committee gave Exxon until May 10 to hit the endangered islands.

Exxon reported it had collected 2,502 barrels from water skimming Friday. The company now operates more than 50 vessels including 37 skimmers from the port of Valdez to near Kodiak, 300 miles away.

But Lamoreaux said he was cautious about using Exxon data.

"About 80 percent of the oil collected in mousse (weathered and thick) form is water," he said. "There is also considerable debris. The percentage of pure crude being recovered is relatively small."

Exxon reports up to 50 percent of the spill, now covering an area the size of Rhode Island and Connecticut combined, has simply disappeared, emulsifying with water or evaporating.

Exxon, meanwhile, is being hit by an afterwash of bills. The state of Alaska has assessed the world's second largest company with $1.5 million in expenses ranging from $19 for a pair of rubber boots to $15,000 for rental of the state ferry Aurora. Exxon has already paid the majority of the bill.

"(Exxon) has paid on time and with minimal hassle," said Mike Nizich, director of the governor's division of administrative services. "They've paid, or promised to pay, for everything we've sent them."

"As far as paying bills, they're a good corporate example."

Radon

elevated levels of radon gas can be found in a high percentage of those rooms. In 41 percent of the schools which were tested, at least one room contained levels of the gas that were above acceptable levels.

Nettles said Friday that testing prior to receiving HRS instructions would be a waste of money if it was done improperly.

Some districts are opting to take that gamble and have begun checking school sites for the gas.

Nettles said that they are unsure if HRS will require testing on a room-by-room basis or if they will ask for testing of larger areas.

Radon is produced when radioactive materials, such as phosphates, begin to decay. Normally the gases are released into the atmosphere and are disburbed.

When gases seep through a crack in a slab on which a building is constructed, they filter into the building and are trapped.

The lack of ventilation created by air conditioning only frustrates the problem.

The monolithic slab has been a popular style for school facility construction for several decades. According to Nettles, more than 80 percent of the schools in Seminole County are built on concrete slabs.

"We've got the advantage of vapor guards," said Nettles, who explained that the guards had been put in to protect the buildings from moisture, but said they serve as effective radon barriers if they remain intact.

"When a crack develops in the barrier, the gas seeps into the building and gets trapped," Nettles said.

Once testing is done, there are several ways to alleviate the problem if one is discovered.

If the source of entry can be determined, it is sealed. If not, ventilation is increased to the area in an attempt to disburse the gas.

"Seminole County is concerned about the health of the students and the teachers in the schools," Nettles said. "As soon as we get the instructions from HRS, we will begin testing."

He would not speculate on the possibility of radon in the schools noting that it is an unpredictable, nearly unpreventable hazard.

As for the cost of doing the tests, Nettles would not hazard a guess because different testing methods cover a large range of prices.

"Once we get the directives from HRS, we'll have a better idea of the cost," he said.

Nettles expects to have his instructions within a month and hopes to have testing done by the end of the year.

"This is a problem throughout the country and it's not just limited to schools," he said.

Reilly recommended to his audience last week that schools in every state test for the presence of the gas.

"We're a step ahead of them," said Nettles.

Medicare recipients to pay for long hospital stays. McCollum said his amendment would eliminate the surtax and reduce some of the benefits of the program.

About the initial legislation, McCollum said, "I made a mistake: I voted for that bill."

McCollum criticized the American Association of Retired Persons, who sponsored the original bill until recently. "That kind of nonsense representing senior citizens has hurt us."

Heathrow resident Walter Schlemmer, 72, said, "Obviously Congress thinks the elderly are senile and stupid and are an easy group to hit with an unfair tax."

Taxpayers should not have to pay for the illicit profits made by failed savings and loan institutions, Joe Larkin told McCollum. He asked the ranking Republican member of the House banking and finance committee to sign consumer advocate Ralph Nader's petition against the proposed $157 billion bailout.

Of the $157 billion package, McCollum said $11 billion would be spent over this fiscal year, and about $2 billion would be spent in each subsequent year.

Larkin said the money proposed for the bailout was enough to build 15.7 million $100,000 homes — enough housing for about 64 million people.

Sylvester Chang, owner of Sanford Car Care Center, encouraged close scrutiny of the Exxon corporation in its cleanup of last month's Alaska oil spill, created when the tanker Valdez ran aground off the coast of Prince William Sound. He told McCollum the corporation should not be allowed to increase its oil prices across the country to pay for the cleanup.

"They have already made a profit on that oil spill," Chang said.

McCollum said Congress will watch closely the corporation's actions, and will address the problem. "It's not the kind of thing you rush in and do something overnight," he said.

In a message prefacing the public forum, he told the group Congress had to answer to voters about the increasing deficit.

"We should be able to get to a balanced budget by virtue of our increase in revenue alone," he said. Each year for the last few years the federal government has taken in about $80 billion more in revenue than the previous year, he said.

McCollum blamed the budgeting system for the deficit problem. He said under the current services budget, Congress adds to each agency's current budget an inflation allowance and an allocation for new services.

"The problem we have is because we've played this game," he said.

McCollum held a second meeting yesterday at Longwood City Hall.

House

is to file a lawsuit (to obtain a court order) to order her out of the house," Taylor said.

Taylor's letter read: "...despite the City's patience, cooperation and attempts to assist you with this matter, you have failed and refused to vacate your home and now refuse to allow Longwood building officials to even enter upon your property. Mrs. Massey, it is our desire to help you and it is not our intent or desire to in any way hurt you. We are extremely concerned about your health and safety."

In the letter, Taylor offered to personally assist her with his pickup truck to move to another location.

City and agency officials agree the situation is a touchy one, but they insist that requesting her to leave is for the woman's own welfare. They fear she will be hurt or possibly killed in a structure not fit for habitation.

Massey said she heard a lot of things about her situation "over the grapevine."

"Somebody's trying to please someone that bought a fancy building (nearby) so I was told. I've been here all my life in Longwood. I respect it. I'm an old timer. A man built a new business and the town wants me to move out," she said.

Because Massey will not allow Building Official B.L. Helms into her home to inspect, and she has not vacated the property, Taylor is in the process of filing a court order to get her to leave the house.

"Basically the house has been condemned. We told her to get out of the house. How can we help to get her someplace safe without putting her out in the street? It's a horrible problem. We're not trying to hurt the lady, we're trying to help her," Taylor said.

Helms said that the structure is in violation of the 1985

Standard Unsafe Building Abatement Code. He said the woman will not let him in to tell her what she must do to restore it.

Massey said her attorney cautioned her against allowing Helms or anyone else in the home.

"You know why I won't? I've got dogs. If one of them bit him, he would really be mad at me. The lawyer told me not to. He told me once you let them through here, they're going to make more trouble. I can barely handle that mess now," Massey said.

Helms declared the structure unsafe on July 7, 1988 and informed Massey at that time that she had 60 days to secure a permit to commence work which needed to be completed in 120 days.

Massey said she went to the city to secure a building permit about six months ago, but was told that she couldn't get one issued to her because of a concern about whether she could get the money to make the necessary repairs.

"I would have got a mortgage and maybe got the place fixed," Massey said.

Helms said that several real estate deals by Massey to sell the home have fallen through. Last year she tried to sell the house and property for $75,000.

Massey said the house and property are still for sale and she expects to speak with a prospective buyer next month. Two real estate signs are posted on the property.

Acting City Administrator Don

Terry said the city is working with different agencies to help in the matter.

"What we're trying to do is protect Mrs. Massey and get her a place to live. I want to make sure all proper agencies have been contacted and we explore every avenue to get the problem resolved," Terry said.

Russell Miller, Seminole County Human Rehabilitative Health Services (HRS) director of environmental health, said that last year the department received a complaint about garbage outside of the home.

"In that particular case, we asked her to clean it up and she did," he said.

Russell said his agency cannot direct Massey to do anything within her home.

An adult protection agency in Casselberry said that they have made several investigations which led them to believe that Massey was able to care for herself.

Businessman Peter Osborn said he and a group of people are trying to get Massey relocated.

"We're working with the city and city attorney and putting together some answers. At this point, it seems like the house itself is beyond repair," Osborn said.

Osborn said he wants to see Massey get a fair price for her home, and that any additional money left over is invested properly. He said he is helping her "through Biblical principles" to solve the problem.

"I believe the lady just needs some honest, good, down-home type help," he said.

"Tax those who created and benefited from this mess, not the average American taxpayer," Larkin said.

McCollum said he supported the bailout because it protected depositors. He said the plan included a $64 million allowance to prosecute those who benefited from the failings of savings and loans.

Chinese protestors cheered

United Press International
 BEIJING — Chinese students drew cheers and tears from tens of thousands of onlookers early Saturday as they marched through the capital to the political heart of Beijing and to a moral victory over the communist government.
 "Long live the students," screamed a hoarse 67-year-old government cadre as a 2-mile-long procession claimed the streets of western Beijing and poured into its central square.
 "Long live the people," an estimated 40,000 students cheered back, shaking hands and thanking spectators lining the 10-mile route the midnight march took to Tiananmen Square.

 An outpouring of raw emotion greeted the clearly elated students who defied ominous government warnings and took over the largest public square in the world to mourn an ousted liberal leader whose death spawned a week of political unrest.
 Donning black armbands and white paper flowers, the students marched from Beijing Normal University in the northwest suburbs to the 100-acre downtown square that last week became the mourning ground for the late Hu Yaobang and site of the largest anti-government protest in 43 years.

 The cheers and the applause the sometimes tearful spectators showered on students sent a strong message that many Chinese do not view this year's 40th anniversary of the communist government as an occasion for celebration.
 "If I were young, I'd be out there all night with them," said a middle-aged man who pushed his bike alongside the procession.

Survivors of sunken sub vent anger over deaths

United Press International
 MOSCOW — Crewmen who survived a Soviet nuclear submarine disaster complained that the doomed vessel lacked the proper rescue equipment, which an officer blamed for the deaths of 38 of the 42 victims.
 Sixty-nine sailors were aboard the nuclear submarine in the Norwegian Sea April 7 when a fire broke out that sailors could not extinguish.

The nuclear generator on board was turned off and the vessel sank after surfacing briefly to allow the crew to escape.
 Lt. Cmdr. Sergei Dvorov said that only four crewmen perished because of the blaze itself.
 "To put it plainly the rest died because rescue devices were imperfect," Dvorov told the Sotsialisticheskaya Industriya newspaper.

Guerrillas claim they killed G.I.

United Press International
 MANILA, Philippines — Communist guerrillas Saturday claimed responsibility for the ambush slaying of a U.S. Army officer, saying he was a "direct participant" in President Corason Aquino's counter-insurgency campaign.
 "The New Peoples Army takes responsibility for the ambush of Col. James Rowe," said a statement delivered to news agencies and signed by Rolly Ramanar, chief of the 23,000-strong rebel army.

Moseby rallies Jays past Texas

TORONTO — Lloyd Moseby hit two doubles and scored the winning run on a bases-loaded passed ball in the eighth inning Saturday, rallying the Toronto Blue Jays to a 4-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Toronto broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth. Moseby led off the inning with a double, off Texas starter and loser Charlie Hough, 2-1. Kelly Gruber was then hit by a pitch. Drew Hall relieved Hough and walked pinch-hitter Pat Borders on four pitches. Cecilio Guante relieved and retired George Bell. Kenny Rogers replaced Guante, becoming the fourth Texas pitcher of the inning. With a 1-0 count on Fred McGriff, Jim Sundburg mishandled the pitch, which rolled behind him. Moseby beat the throw home, with the go-ahead run. Fred McGriff then singled to score Borders.

Duane Ward pitched 1 1/3 innings of perfect relief, to improve to 1-2.

Penguins seek control of series

PHILADELPHIA — Since they are making their first playoff appearance since 1982, a lot of what goes on in the postseason is unfamiliar to the Pittsburgh Penguins.

A 4-3 overtime victory Friday night gave Pittsburgh a 2-1 lead in its best-of-seven Patrick Division final series against Philadelphia. And even the Penguins know the significance of Game 4 Sunday night.

"That is a huge game for us," said Phil Bourque, whose goal at 12:08 of overtime gave the Penguins their third consecutive victory at the Spectrum after an 0-39-3 streak in Philadelphia that dated from 1974.

"We're going to have to bring our game up a couple of notches. We have to concentrate on what we're doing and come out flying at the start of the game."

Vikings trying for Merriweather

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. — The Minnesota Vikings have agreed to trade their first-round pick in the NFL draft to Pittsburgh for Mike Merriweather, provided the holdout linebacker signs a contract before Sunday's draft.

Minnesota General Manager Mike Lynn said Friday the deal is conditioned on the Steelers signing a contract with Merriweather, a three-time Pro Bowler, by noon Sunday, a deadline that may not be feasible.

Merriweather, 28, did not play last season because of a contract dispute.

Mike Blatt, Merriweather's former agent, said Steelers President Dan Rooney "wants to ruin Mike Merriweather."

Blatt said he did not think a deal could be reached. "My gut reaction is Mike won't play," he said.

Pirates get past Philadelphia

PITTSBURGH — Bobby Bonilla and Junior Ortiz each drove in runs in the eighth inning Saturday to help the Pittsburgh Pirates rally to a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Jeff Robinson's bases-loaded wild pitch in the eighth allowing Juan Samuel to score had given the Phillies a 3-2 lead but the Pirates came back.

Robinson, 2-2, earned the victory with 1 1/3 innings of relief. Philadelphia starter Don Carman, who carried a 3-2 lead and a five-hitter into the eighth, dropped to 1-2.

With one out in the eighth, Jose Lind singled, and R.J. Reynolds singled to center, chasing Carman.

Jeff Parrett surrendered an RBI single to Bonilla to score Lind that tied the score. Barry Bonds was intentionally walked to load the bases and Ortiz drove Bob Dernier to the warning track in right for a sacrifice fly scoring Reynolds to make it 4-3.

Oviedo sends tennis team to state meet

From staff reports

TITUSVILLE — They're a team with a mission.

Faced with competing in their last 3A state tennis tournament, the Oviedo High School Lady Lions won't be satisfied with just being there this year. They plan on going and taking the whole enchilada.

On Friday, the Lady Lions served notice of their intentions, whipping the 3A-District 4 field at Titusville behind the Ehrhart and Wise twins.

Jenny and Jill Wise won their individual district championships at No. 4 and No. 5 singles, respectively, then combined to sweep to the district championship at No. 2 doubles.

Ashley and Mandy Ehrhart won their district championships at No. 2 and No. 3 singles, but were eliminated in the semifinals at No. 1

Lady Seminoles follow Hillsman to SAC title

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Adrian Hillsman won three individual events and ran on two winning relay teams to lead Seminole to its fourth consecutive Seminole Athletic Conference Championship Friday night at Don T. Reynolds Stadium at Lake Mary High School.

The Lady Seminoles finished with 122 points with Lake Brantley finishing a distant second with 71½. Lake Mary was third with 67½ followed by Lake Howell with 34, Lyman with 31, Oviedo with 19 and DeLand with 2.

"We came and did exactly the things we had to do," Seminole coach Emory Blake said. "With the exception of Michelle Pearson's fall in the 110 hurdles we had a strong meet. Michelle just got out of the realm of what we wanted to accomplish and it cost her. I'd rather something like that happen now than in the district meet."

LAKE MARY — Darren Marshall and Teddy Mitchell each won three events to pace Lyman past Seminole in the Seminole Athletic Conference Championship track meet before 501 fans Friday night at Lake Mary High School.

The Greyhounds finished the meet with 126 points as Seminole, who was close most of the night, took second with 95. Lake Howell was a distant third with 57 followed by Lake Brantley with 39, Lake Mary with 32, Oviedo with 14 and DeLand with 6.

"When you consider the caliber of coaches we have in this county our kids are really pleased to win this meet," Lyman coach Fred Finke said. "Mitchell and Marshall did a real nice job but we had quite a few other athlete's really come through □ See Boys, Page 4B

Brown stars in Patriot sweep

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald sports editor

SANFORD — In true Hollywood fashion, Terry Brown went from bit player to starring role for the Lake Brantley Patriot baseball team in a twinkling of an eye.

Playing in a doubleheader of sorts against Seminole at Sanford Stadium, Brown had a cameo role in the end of the first contest (the continuation of a game postponed by rain on March 22) as the Patriots won 5-4, then stole the show with a home run, double and single to drive in three runs as Lake Brantley won 12-7 in the nightcap.

In the opening contest, Brown completed an at bat that was interrupted on March 22, looking at three pitches before striking out. Lake Brantley scored its winning run in the bottom of the sixth when Ed Zaremka walked, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on a Seminole error.

The games closed out the regular season for both clubs. Lake Brantley's Patriots finishing 13-12 overall and 9-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference while the Seminoles fell to 9-13, 3-8 in the SAC.

"The idea tonight was to play everybody," said Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith. "We didn't want to run the score up. We wanted to get an idea of what it'll be like at the districts as far as which players we can bring in and which we can't."

Even though Smith said his team didn't want to run the score up, the Patriots did something that got the Seminoles' dander up and made things interesting down the stretch.

Ahead 12-1 in the top of the sixth, Tyler Iler attempted to steal second for Lake Brantley. While the batter was called out on interference, negating the steal attempt and ending the inning, Seminole definitely were insulted by the effort in a game all but decided.

"I got hot and the kids got hot," said Seminole coach Mike Powers afterwards. "That put a little fire in us. We started to come around and we came back."

Rams win share of SAC crown; Lions post win

From staff reports

CASSELBERRY — Making only his second pitching appearance of the season, Jason Sewell turned in three solid innings as Lake Mary outlasted host Lake Howell 18-7 in a Seminole Athletic Conference baseball clash.

The win gives the Lake Mary Rams a tie with Lyman atop the SAC standings, both teams finishing with 10-2 conference records. Because the two teams split during the year, they will reign as co-champions.

Overall, Lake Mary is 19-8. Lake Howell ended its regular season 9-17, 4-8.

With the score tied 1-1 after two innings, Lake Mary erupted for seven runs in the top of the third. But Lake Howell countered with a six-run rally in the home half of the third that hastened the departure of Ram starting pitcher Andy Anson.

With Sewell pitching shutout ball the rest of the way (striking out five in the process), Lake Mary's offense scored two runs in the fourth and one in the fifth before blowing the game open with a seven-run sixth.

The game was called after six innings because of the 10-run mercy rule.

Aaron Iatarola paced the Ram attack, going 3-for-4 with a home run and a triple to drive in three runs. Joe DiFrancesco also was 3-for-4 with two rbi while Shane Stufflet was 3-for-5 with a triple and two rbi. Sewell also contributed three hits.

Next up for both teams will be the 4A-District 9 tournament, which will be played next week either at Stetson University or Lake Mary High School.

Shoney's Braves rally in the fifth for Pinto win over Athletics

From staff reports

CASSELBERRY — Scoring four runs in the bottom of the fifth inning, the Shoney Braves pulled out an 11-8 Pinto Division win over the Lake Mary Athletics in a Seminole Pony Baseball contest at the Five Points Complex on April 19.

Chris Bachand powered the offense with his first home run, a two-run shot to left. Banchand finished with three rbi, two runs scored and a single to go with his home run. The defensive star of the game was Andy Echols, who made a great catch in center field.

Other Braves who stood out offensively were Charles Candler, Nick Ireland, Todd Shigley, Robby Rauch, Echols, Kevin Davis and Chris Sizemore.

In other Pinto action:

Jeremy Weiner clubbed two home runs and Angel Lorenz converted a pop up into a double for the Dr. Getta Twins in their 28-5 mastery of the K92 FM Brewers on April 18. Weiner also had two singles, four rbi and four runs scored. The Twins also benefited from offensive contributions by Anthony Lapella (who made a nice catch of a line drive on defense), Lorenz and Brandon Lippa. Jeff Carr and Terry Crites each had two singles for the Brewers. Crites also scored a run.

Alan Konke was 3-for-3 at the plate and combined with Keith Smith to turn a double play as the Lake Mary Fire Department Red Sox squeaked past the Salvaglio's Red Sox 14-13 on April 18.

Outstanding defensive plays by Richard Rodriguez and We Feldman allowed the Advanced Brake Angels to come back and beat the Casselberry Reds 12-10 on April 17. Rodriguez made a diving catch at first and Feldman caught a hard line drive in left. Rodriguez hit a home run and two singles for the Angels, who also received key hits from Mark LaFaber and Wendell Mains.

Mustang

Winning pitcher Andy Mariette and reliever Mike Evans combined on a no-hitter to lead the Sanford Royals to an 8-4 decision over the Jon Hall Orioles on April 19. Adam Winstead was the losing pitcher. Evans pitched the Royal attack with a single, double, rbi and three runs scored. Danny Purcell and Stuart Gilmer also hit well for the Royals.

Chris Sanders hit a single and triple in the Salvaglio's Angels 19-4 wipeout of the Police Athletic League Brewers on April 19. Andy Neufeld out-pitched Longfellow for the win. Sanders also had two runs scored, as did teammates Neufeld and Miller, who also had two hits each. Miller threw out a

The Seminole Honda Pirates' 17-2 victory over the Diamond Lube Indians on April 18 was highlighted by the return to action by Aaron Black, out since February due to illness. Black struck out six in two innings of relief of winning pitcher Jimmy Rabun. P.J. Ramsey fueled the Pirate offense with two singles, a double, six rbi and three runs scored. Allan Gehr, Brad Klinger, Stephen Luger and Matthew Candler had key hits for the Pirates as well.

Good outfield play by Brad Stenstrom and Matt Moos was the defensive highlight for the Florida Carbonic Yankees in their 21-7 thrashing of the Midland Construction Cardinals on April 18. Randy Jonda was the winning pitcher over Ryan Bitzer. Moos hit a triple while Yach Young, Jonda and Brian Katauskas each hit two singles.

Winning pitcher Chris Louswma worked through his three innings with just 30 pitches as the Marina Isle Fish Camp Braves knocked off the Central Florida Underground Blue Jays 13-5 on April 17. S.Coffman was the losing pitcher. Jeremiah Mitchell led the Brave attack with two doubles and two rbi. Louswma and Shaun St. Dennis each had two hits and an rbi for the Braves. Scott DeOraff, the only Blue Jay to get a hit off Louswma, finished with two singles.

Jimmy Parsons threw three strong innings to pick up the win in the Arby's Red Sox's 14-4 victory over the Superior Trim and Door Astros on March 17. Brian Steberud was the losing pitcher. Brett Demorett hit a single and double to drive in two runs and score two more for the Sox. Parsons and Harding also hit well for the Sox. Jeremy Parks had two singles.

Bronco

Shawn Burger hit his first home run for the Salvaglio's Expos in their 11-2 win over the Vertical Blind Giants on April 19. Also the winning pitcher, Burger and reliever Patrick Nave threw a great game. Dusty Curry was the losing pitcher. Other offensive standouts for the Expos were Chris Flora, Eric Strecker and Nave. For the Giants, James Petrakas hit a double and Curry hit a single, both players scoring a run.

Mike Goodall drove in seven rbi with a grand slam, a solo home run and a single to back three-hit effort of winning pitcher Jim Corrigan in the Tusawilla Rotary Red Sox' 11-2 decision over the Metal Manufacturing Mets on April 18. Jamie Pitzer was the losing pitcher. Bobby Dodenhoff and Paul Hagg also contributed to the Sox offense.

Trailing 6-3 after two innings, the Central Florida Enterprises Royals scored two runs in both the third and fourth innings to rally past the Perkin's Twins 7-6 on April 18. Winning pitcher Michael Johnson supported his own cause with a single, home run, four rbi and a run scored. The Royals also used hits from Peter Boiler and Mike DeVosa. Spencer Munns hit two singles to drive in one run and score another for the Twins. Kyle Calappa was the losing pitcher.

Winning pitcher Dustin Lucas spun a four-hitter and hit two singles for the Casselberry Reds as they blew away the Toke Trucking Pirates 23-1 on April 17. Leading 10-1 going into the bottom of the fifth, the Reds exploded for 13 runs. Brian Lowe led the attack with two doubles, three triples and four runs scored. Michael Castro, Clay Green, Andrew McClung, Brad Butterfield, E.J. Redouty and Eddie Cruz all contributed big hits for the Reds.

A five-run rally in the top of the seventh was the difference in the Dan's Restaurant Astros' 6-4 win over the Seminole Office Product Yankees on April 17. Robert Vessey pitched four innings of outstanding relief to earn the win while Robert Gaffert was the losing pitcher. Vessey also hit a single and had three rbi to lead the offense, which featured hits from Gabe Lovasz, Andy Mayer, Rene Perez, Matt Thompson and Chris Kapelka. Travis Freeman had a single, double and two rbi for the Yankees, who also had contributions from Gaffert, Tyler Wright and Scott O'Brien.

Winning pitcher Gabe Lovasz combined with relievers Matt Thompson and Robert Vessey to get the Dan's Restaurant Astros past the Ken Rummel Cardinals 13-5 on April 16. Rene Perez's single, double and four rbi led the Astro attack. Also hitting well for the Astros were Lovasz, Shawn Savage, Scott Trimmer, Vessey, Thompson, Chris Kapelka, Tom Joy, Jon Bushor and Tate Wilkie. Chip Polita hit two singles and had an rbi for the Cardinals. Other offensive standouts for the Cardinals were Jason Kaiser, Tony Hudjara, Mike Dunn, Ryan Hall, Jason Floyd, Josh Ison and Richie Bradley. Kaiser was the losing pitcher.

Winning pitcher Chris Taylor faced just 10 batters in his three innings of work as the Holmes Development Twins defeated the Seminole Car Care Mets 16-5 on April 14. Rightfielder Robin Hess and shortstop Allen Rosenfeld made fine defensive plays behind Taylor. At the plate, Chad Averitt led the Twin attack with a single, two rbi and three runs scored. Brian Crockett, Scott Maine and Hess also had hits for the Twins. Renwick and Hanshaw each singled for the Mets. Renwick scoring a run and Hanshaw driving one in.

Colt

Charles Lloyd threw a complete-game one-hit shutout to lead the Lake Mary Astros to a 12-0 blanking of the West Seminole Dodgers on April 19. Bates was the losing pitcher. Lance Reyes hit a single and a triple to drive in three runs and score three for the Astros while Mike Stewart contributed two singles and an rbi.

Crosnoe, Moreno pace offense as CFCC does a number on SCC

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

OCALA — Robert Crosnoe and Alex Moreno combined to drive in seven runs while Brian Simmons and Tom Beagan tossed a four-hitter as the Patriots of Central Florida Community College put a 13-3 hurting on the Raiders of Seminole Community College in Mid-Florida Conference baseball action Thursday.

The game was called after seven innings by the mercy rule as the Patriots advanced to 27-22 on the season and 12-10 in the conference. Seminole meanwhile fell to 11-25 and 6-14.

SCC played a late game Saturday at Lake City. All of the Raiders hits came in the first four innings as Simmons held Seminole in check. All three of the Raider runs were unearned as errors led to the Seminole scores.

Seminole did try to make a game of it, scoring a pair of runs in the top of the second to tie the score at 2-2. After Bret Rutzebeck walked, Teddy Craig reached on an error and Kevin Monahan beat out a bunt for a single to load the bases. Dan Peters got home the first run with a ground out. Ted Lamar brought in the other with a sacrifice fly.

But CFCC quickly retook the lead in the bottom of the second with a pair of runs and then really put the game out of reach with four runs in both the fourth and fifth innings.

Rutzebeck, Monahan, Lamar, and Dale Stevens had the four Raider hits in the contest. Charlie Bynum, who had been pitching as well as anyone in the state his last four starts, was really knocked around in suffering the loss.

For the Patriots, Crosnoe had four runs batted in and Moreno had three. Crosnoe and Oviedo's Allan Greene had three hits each, and Moreno, David Hayden, Jose Jimenez, and Dave Sulecki had two hits each. Crosnoe had a triple and Moreno a home run.

It took a little bit before the 'Noles really caught fire. It took Lake Brantley pitcher Don Nestor to hit a batter and throw a couple of wild pitches for Seminole to avoid being beaten by the 10-run rule.

With one out, Nestor plunked Bubba Coral with a pitch. After John Wilkes struck out, Ron Cox hit a single. A couple pitches later, Patriot catcher Jason Varitek appeared to have Coral picked off second, but his throw went into center field, both runners moving up a base.

From there, Nestor uncorked a pair of wild pitches to score Coral and Cox before striking out W.L. Gracey on a called third strike.

In the seventh inning, Seminole rallied with two out. After Mike Senechek and James Joyce reached on infield hits, Lake Brantley suddenly had trouble handling the ball, committing three errors. The first came when second baseman Tom Penney dropped a Coral ground ball that loaded the bases.

Wilkes then ripped a two-run single through the middle. On the play, third baseman Joe DeLeon dropped the throw from the outfield, allowing both Coral and Wilkes to take another base.

Smith then brought in Matt Fair, submarine-style pitcher. He got Cox to hit a ground ball, but DeLeon threw it away at first. Coral and Wilkes scoring. Fair finally put the fire out as he struck out B.J. Osborne with a very slow curveball.

"Nestor was a very good junior varsity pitcher," said Smith. "I think he was 4-0 for them. But he's only gotten in four and two-thirds innings for us. He's only a sophomore. He'll be o.k."

baseball win over the host DeLand Bulldogs.

Twiggs ran his personal record to 5-4 while Oviedo (which wrapped up its regular season on Saturday at Winter Park) improved to 13-13 and 6-6 in the SAC. DeLand fell to 2-19, 0-12.

The Lions gave Twiggs all the runs he needed in the first inning, scoring three times.

They gave him a little breathing room with a four-run rally in the fourth.

With Oviedo coach Mike Ferrer playing everyone on the roster, the key hits were spread evenly throughout the lineup. Mike Verne and Greg Hughes were the only Lions with two hits.

Both teams now will prepare for the district tournaments this coming week.

Darren Marshall (above) and teammate Teddy Mitchell each won three events in Friday night to lead the Lyman Grayhounds to the team championship in the Seminole Athletic Confer-for us. James Flint, Octavius Holiday and Howard Marshall all did an excellent job of coming through for us along with Dave Garrett and John Scherpf."

Marshall tied the meet record in the pole vault as he cleared 13-0 for the second consecutive week. Marshall also won both hurdle events as he ran both races without much competition.

Mitchell ran the distance triple, winning all three events and setting two records along the way. Mitchell opened the night by winning the mile where he was less than a second off the record, then broke his own record in the 880 with a 1:59.6 clocking before running a record time of 2:33.9 in the two mile.

"You expect athletes like Darren (Marshall) and Teddy (Mitchell) to go out and compete that way," Flint said. "But we also had strength behind them and you need both to be successful. Flint really got our team fired up when he took second in the 120 hurdles and we started going after everything."

Flint took second in the 440, high jump, 120 hurdles and added a third place finish in the long jump. Howard Marshall was second in the 330 hurdles while Holiday took third in the 880 and fifth in the mile run.

Garrett won the discus with a record toss of 150-6 with Scherpf taking second in the event. Garrett also took second in the shot while Scherpf took fourth.

Seminole was led by Lewis Butler who won the triple jump with a record leap of 47-14 and added a second place finish in the long jump clearing 22-4 while taking second in the 100 meters at 11.0. Joseph Murphy had a strong meet winning the 440 by edging Flint and running on the winning mile relay team while placing fifth in the 220.

Robert Moore put together a solid all-around performance placing second in the triple jump at 44-9 and sixth in the 100 meters, the 120 hurdles and the shot put. Freshman Carla White won the shot with a nice heave of 52-84.

Maurice Thomas ran a leg on the winning leg of mile relay team with Davin Davis and Eric Walker joining him.

Lake Howell was led by the winning 440 relay squad that featured an incredible anchor leg by Marquette Smith. Hector Rodriguez, Bruce McClary and Rick Evans teamed up on the 440 relay team that ran a record time of 43.7.

Smith also won the long jump and placed third in the 100 meters and fourth in the 220 yard dash. Mike Goina added a first place finish in the high jump for the Silver Hawks clearing 6-2 with Brandon Lowenthal taking second in the 880 and fourth in the mile run.

Clint Johnson led Lake Brantley with two first place finishes in the 100 meter dash and in the 220 yard dash. Matt Jewell took second in the mile and sixth in the 880 as Matt Miller took third in the discus and fifth in the shot put.

the discus throw and the long jump with brilliant efforts in each event. Hillman teamed up with Pearson, Yolanda Baker and Georgette Milwood on the winning 440 relay team which set a meet record with a time of 49.0. Sharlene Milwood, Kecia Ward and Nadrian McGill joined Hillman on the winning mile relay squad which won their race going away.

"Adrian had an exceptional meet," Blake said. "She knows what this is about and once she gets into track shape she's tough to beat in anything she enters."

Baker added first place finishes in both the 100 meter and 220 yard dashes while adding a fifth place finish in the shot put. Chinita Gilchrist won the shot and took third in the discus to help the Lady Tribe in the field events.

Sharlene Milwood won the 440 yard dash, triple second in the 220 yard dash and placed third in the long jump while twin sister Georgette took fourth in the 330 hurdles. McGill added a second place finish in the 220 and a third in the 100 meters to help the Lady Notes dominate the sprints.

Lake Brantley was once again led by strong performances in the distance events as Joyce Tullis won the two mile and took second in the mile run. Heather Camino won the mile and ran on the second place mile relay team. Chelsea Trotter won the 880 and also ran on the winning mile relay team with Kristen Pauley taking second in the 880 and Amy Ginetta placing third in the two mile and fourth in the mile.

Mona Ariza added a third place finish in the 330 low hurdles and ran a leg on the winning mile relay team with Beth Schaefer running the other leg of that second place squad. Lisa Chambers took fourth in the 440 and the 220 for the Lady Patriots.

Lake Mary was led by Heather Gleason who won the 110 hurdles and placed second in the 330 hurdles. Amy Kuvach added two second place finishes in the shot and discus with Tonya McCree taking second in the long jump and the 100 meters.

Miki Palumbo and Stacy Johnson led Lake Howell with second place finishes in the two mile and 440 respectively. Kim Grant added another second for the Lady Silver Hawks in the 110 hurdles with Monica Compton taking fourth in the 880. Kelly Kobia was fourth in the discus and the Lake Howell mile relay team took fourth.

Lyman was led by its triple jumpers Melissa Lewis and Shima Clark who took second and third with Julie Greenberg taking third in the 880 while running on the third place mile relay team.

"This was a real good warm up meet and showed us what we need to improve on," Blake said. "Now we'll concentrate everything toward the state meet."

doubles. Ashley and Mandy Ehrhart won their district championships at No. 2 and No. 3 singles, but were eliminated in the semifinals at No. 1 doubles.

At No. 1 singles, Oviedo freshman Mimi Tran picked up a pair of team points with two wins before being losing to eventual champion Michelle Fry of Haines City in the semifinals.

"The girls did really well," understated Oviedo coach Don Gustafson. "The closest team in points was 31-18. They did as much as I could have hoped they'd do."

But as Gustafson pointed out after the Lady Lions romped to the Seminole Athletic Conference team title a week ago, this is all just a build up to a possible state championship.

"In the past, we were just happy to go up," said Gustafson, whose team won its fifth consecutive district title. "But this year, the girls really want to win it, or at least be the runners-up. Next year we'll be 4A, so we'd like to win state in our last year of 3A.

"The girls will work hard next week and go up next Friday."

This year, the 3A state tournament will be played on Friday and Saturday. Once again, the Varsity Courts at the University of Florida in Gainesville will be the site for the state meet.

According to Gustafson, the luck of the draw will be the deciding factor in Oviedo's state title bid.

"A lot depends on the draw," said Gustafson. "Four of our five players (the Ehrhart and Wise sisters) will have state rankings. If they can stay away from the other top players, they'll get into the finals and keep accumulating points."

"Our No. 3, 4 and 5 singles and our doubles should get us some points. If Mimi Tran can get a good draw and pick up a couple points, that would help a great deal."

In the boys' competition, Seminole's Josh Lewis fell just short of qualifying for the state meet when he lost his championship match at No. 1 singles.

seas. Dolphin, sailfish and wahoo have been reported in 120 feet of water. Look for some school kings on Pelican Flats. The wahoo line is still very slow, with only a few tripletail providing any action.

Inside the Port, it is mainly sheepshead and flounder filling the bill. Trout and reds are strong on the flats of the Sarasota and Indian rivers. Half-ounce gold spoons and top-water plugs are the best bet.

Snook are still plenty cranky at Sebastian Inlet, biting one night and going on a hunger strike the next. One-ounce jugs and lures are taking most of the linesides, but live shrimp and finger mullet will often take the larger fish. A few flounder and reds are also giving snook addicts a pleasant surprise.

The New Smyrna jetties have been rough, but reds, sheepshead and drum have been hitting live shrimp for the anglers that tough out the rough waters. Listen carefully to the marine forecast before planning to fish the jetties.

Martinsville Speedway treats Bodine well

United Press International

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — Geoff Bodine says growing up on short tracks gives him an edge at Martinsville Speedway's tight oval, where he enjoys such a string of good luck "it looks like we own this place."

Bodine, who will lead the field in Sunday's Pannill Sweatshirts 500, has been productive on the difficult .528-mile track. To begin with, he won his first Winston Cup race at Martinsville.

"I think every driver has a special feeling about the track where he wins his first big race," said Bodine, a Chemung, N.Y., native who now races out of Jullian, N.C. "I know I sure do."

In addition, he has won races in three divisions at the track and at one time held track qualifying records in those divisions — Winston Cup, Busch Grand National and Modified.

"I know I always look forward to racing here," Bodine said.

Last week was a vintage Martinsville week for him. On Thursday he demolished the track record in turning in a fast lap of 93.097 mph in a Chevrolet. The mark was 91.372 mph, set last fall by Rusty Wallace.

"Whenever we come to Martinsville some people say it looks like we own this place," said Bodine after winning his fifth career pole position at Martinsville.

"We've had fast cars, good engines, people that back us and give us that little extra. I grew up on short tracks, and that makes it a little easier."

Thursday's time trials left drivers and pit crew members puzzled, with 18 drivers breaking the track record.

"I really don't know why we picked up so much speed," Bodine said. "It's the same track and the same car."

Alan Kulwicki, who had the second fastest qualifying speed Thursday and will start on the outside pole, was equally mystified.

"This is the best I've ever run here," said Kulwicki, who finished second in his Ford at North Wilkesboro a week ago. "I honestly can't explain why everybody is so much faster this time."

Kulwicki says one thing remains the same — the need for excellent brakes.

"Brakes will be critical here," he said. "North Wilkesboro is hard on brakes, but not as hard on them as this place."

Mark Martin will start third in a Ford Sunday while Terry Labone will start fourth, also in a Ford. Rounding out the top five starts is Ken Schrader in a Chevrolet.

Richard Petty, the winningest driver in Winston Cup racing, will start 17th in the 32-car field. He failed to qualify for the past two races.

New coach pleased with 'Cane scrimmage

United Press International

MIAMI — The Miami Hurricanes wound up their first spring football practice under new coach Dennis Erickson, who said after the intraquad scrimmage Saturday he feels the team is well ahead of schedule.

"We're a lot further along than I thought we would be," Erickson said of the Hurricanes, who finished second in the nation last year. "We were able to evaluate our players and we know who is going to play next year."

Erickson moved from Washington State to Miami March 5, replacing Jimmy Johnson, who had left the Dallas Cowboys.

Erickson is installing a new spread offense, but is sticking with the same defense as Johnson used and it showed in the scrimmage. The Orange and White played a scoreless first half before the Orange finally put it away 14-0.

"This is a very dominant defensive football team, but I thought in the second half the offense played well," Erickson said.

The scrimmage was controlled to the degree that quarterback sacks were not allowed, and the passer was ruled down as soon as he was touched by a defender. Under those rules, the white's first-team defense scored 10 sacks on Orange quarterback Craig Erickson. He is replacing Steve Walsh, who is turning pro and forgoing his final year of eligibility.

Erickson completed 22 of 33 passes for 274 yards and two interceptions against the first-team defense in four 12-minute quarters, but he wasn't completely satisfied.

Young orator keeps winning

LAKE MARY — Richard Peterson, 14, of Sanford, took first place Tuesday in the boys competition at the zone 11 oratorical contest of the North Florida district of Optimists International.

Sponsored by the Sanford Optimist Club, Richard delivered his talk on the theme "Challenge the Summit" at the CIA Building in Lake Mary.

"The guy is a real Martin Luther King Jr.," said Bob Howe, chairman of the competition for the Sanford club. "He can really deliver a speech. I don't care if he was talking about ditchdigging—it would be exciting."

The next step for Richard, a student at Sanford Middle School, is the Optimist's May 6 regional oratorical competition in Jacksonville. He won a first-place medal April 4 at the Sanford club's own competition.

They're off to see the Wizard

SANFORD — Two Sanford youngsters have learned to capitalize on their height as the result of auditions for Munchkins for "The Wizard of Oz."

Talent scouts for the musical, being performed through today at the Orlando Arena, held auditions April 15 at the Altamonte Mall. Selected to waddle, dance and sing in the production were Donald Cadman Jr. and Charlie McLain.

Donald, son of Donald and Dawn Cadman of Sanford, was selected for Thursday's performance.

Charlie, son of Daryl and Barbara McLain of Sanford, is to perform today at 5 p.m.

Both boys are third graders at Pinecrest Elementary School in Sanford.

Uprooted from foreign soil

Mai Pham holds a hat her sister brought from Vietnam a decade after Pham fled the country. The non bai tho, or "poem hat," has a poem inscribed on the underside of the brim so the wearer can read it on special occasions.

She, daughter had to adapt to new homeland

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — On April 28, 1975, Mai Pham and her 8-month-old daughter Nguyen Ngo fled Vietnam aboard a military helicopter. The next day, U.S. forces evacuated Saigon as the communist Viet Cong completed their takeover of South Vietnam.

"My husband was in the Army at that time, so he couldn't come with us," Pham said. "He let us go first and planned to join us as soon as he could."

But she has not seen her husband since he left them at the Baptist church that was coordinating the evacuation.

Though she has had no contact with her husband since her evacuation, Pham has heard through the "grapevine" that he has since escaped and is living in Germany. She thinks that, perhaps in the intervening time, he has taken another wife.

Devoting all her spare time to raising her daughter, Pham has not remarried in this country.

When she and her daughter escaped Vietnam, there were strict guidelines determining who could enter the United States, she said.

"At the time, to be allowed to leave, you had to know an American," Pham said.

She was a lifelong member of the Baptist church in Saigon. Her great-grandparents had converted to Christianity before the turn of the century, when the first church missionaries had come to Vietnam. It was that long-standing relationship with the mission that allowed her to escape to the United States.

The trip to her eventual destination of Sanford was not an easy one. A helicopter loaded beyond capacity took the refugees from Saigon to the Philippines to Guam and then to Camp Pendleton in Oceanside, Calif.

She had several opportunities to stay in California but opted, instead, to wait until the Sanford-based missionary who had been in Saigon could bring her to Central Florida.

"We didn't know anything about America," Pham said. "So, where

Competition open to all great moms

Behind every great man stands...his mother?

That special combination of gentleness, attentiveness and love of a mother commands a quiet but strong respect. Often, it inspires one to aspire in adulthood.

The Sanford Herald is searching for a mother worthy of our annual Outstanding Mom title. But we need our readers—whether kin or friend—to help us by writing letters of nomination, to be reviewed by a panel of judges.

Judging will be based on the quality, rather than quantity, of letters; therefore, only one letter need be written per nominee.

Here's how to enter: Write us a letter about your nominee, telling us why this mom is so special.

Letters should be typed or printed legibly. Write the nominee's name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of the page. Then write her qualifications or why she's outstanding. At the end of the letter, write your name, address, telephone number and age (if under 18). Mail to "Outstanding Mom," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, FL 32771.

There is no maximum length limit on letters of nomination.

All entries are due at the Herald office by 1 p.m. on Thursday, May 1.

The top three winners will be featured in the Mother's Day edition of the Herald, Sunday, May 14, and will receive plaques.

His mission trips help teens go far

CASSELBERRY — Going on a trip with Sam Deputy is no vacation.

As program director at Community United Methodist Church in Casselberry, Deputy last summer took several of the church's middle schoolers on a mission work trip to Warwomen Valley, Ga.

The mission seemed impossible: Get teenagers to build a 4-foot wall around a hilltop church cemetery that was suffering from erosion. But the youth mixed 55 bags of cement and laid 40 tons of granite rock to nearly complete the project.

"Their fingers were literally bleeding when they were done," Deputy said.

Rene Langston, an eighth grader at Milwee Middle School, remembers the trip well.

"We went through about three pairs of gloves that week," Langston said. "The cement would eat through our gloves, then it would eat through our hands. We were all wondering what we were doing there."

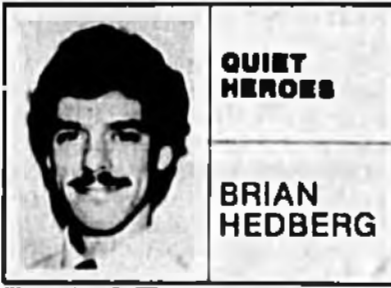

Strangely enough, every middle schooler who went on the grueling work trip has come back for more hard labor this year.

"I can get kids to work their brains out who won't clean their own rooms," Deputy smiles.

The senior pastor at Community United Methodist, Dave Brazelton, can't quite figure out the phenomenon himself.

"He's fairly rigid and disciplined," Brazelton said of Deputy. "You'd think the kids wouldn't respond to that in today's world."

Deputy, 32, has conducted some 14 mission work trips thus far for high school and middle school students. On several trips, the teens often have deecided to forego "fun days"—white-water rafting, seeing the mountains, touring Boston—in order to work a little more, he said.

"Obviously, I think we're striking a need they have," Deputy said. "I think kids really want to give. It really makes them feel like they're important."

Deputy conducted his first mission work trip in 1981, while with a church in Fort Lauderdale. After being made aware of dilapidated buildings at a Seminole reservation in Morehaven, he decided to recruit from the youth group to tackle the task.

He brought the idea with him to Community United Methodist when hired there in 1984.

"God loves us, and we're to love others. We're just putting this into action," Deputy said. "We get more out of this than the churches. These kids remember these experiences for the rest of their lives."

This July, he will take middle schoolers for 10 days to Warwomen Valley, Ga. There the Casselberry youth will complete the retaining wall they began last year.

Also this year, 19 high school students will journey to Gary, W.Va. The coal mines there have

ENGAGEMENTS

Gibbs-Rowe

David Gibbs of Dade City and Margrette Everman of Winchester, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Julie Annette Gibbs, of Orlando, to Joseph Robert Rowe of Casselberry, son of Robert and Janet Rowe of Casselberry. Born in Bedford, Penn., the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Joe and Sara Petty of Sanford.

Miss Gibbs graduated from high school in 1985 and is employed as head teller at the Seminole County Teachers Credit Union in Sanford.

Her fiancé, born in Buffalo, N.Y., is the paternal grandson of Jean Elzer, also of Buffalo.

Rowe graduated from Lake Mary High School in 1985 and attended Seminole Community College in Sanford. Currently, he works as a subcontractor for Pools by Max in Longwood.

The wedding is set for 7 p.m. on Saturday, June 3, at New Life Assembly in Sanford.

Eichner-Holt

MAITLAND — George Thomas Eichner and Ann Teresa Eichner of Maitland announce the engagement of their daughter, Leigh Ann Eichner of Maitland, to Richard Anthony Holt of Sanford, son of Newell Lee Holt and Ruth Louise Holt of Sanford.

Born in Orlando, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of the late James John Shannon and Anne May Shannon.

Miss Eichner graduated in 1987 from Bishop Moore High School in Orlando, where she was active in cross country, track and soccer.

She presently is employed as an after-school, child-care worker for the city of Maitland.

Her fiancé, born in Meridian, Miss., is the maternal grandson of Mr. and the late Mrs. Kerth O. Keck Sr. of Meridian, Miss., and the paternal grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Holt.

Holt played tennis at Seminole High School in Sanford, where he graduated in 1980.

He works as a service man for Solar-Tite Inc. in Casselberry.

The wedding is set for 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 24, at St. Mary Magdalen Church in Altamonte Springs.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Godfrey

Swisher, Godfrey unite in ceremony

SANFORD — Lynda Anne Swisher and Steven S. Godfrey were married in an outdoor ceremony at 11 a.m. on Saturday, April 8, in Centennial Park in Sanford, with Notary Jan Snyder officiating.

The bride is the daughter of William E. Swisher, of Forest City, and Shirley A. Swisher, of Sanford. She is the maternal granddaughter of Mary T. Harper, of Sanford.

The bridegroom is the son of Patricia Godfrey, of Lewiston, Mich.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a street-length, white lace, cocktail-style dress, sleeveless with a V-neckline in front and back. The gown was worn by her mother at her wedding in 1963.

The bride's headpiece was a white, beaded cap with a shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Marla Bucci of Orlando, as maid of honor, wore a pink tea-length, tulle dress with butterfly sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Mary T. Swisher, of Sanford, and Donna C. Swisher, of Forest City, both sisters of the bride. Both wore tea-length, tulle dresses with butterfly sleeves; Mary's dress was orchid, Donna's was blue.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried white bouquets with variegated streamers to match their dresses.

Mark Figliuzzi, of Ft. Stuart, Ga., attended as best man.

Groomsmen were Larry Morgan, of Orlando, and James W. Lemon, of Forest City.

Flower girl was Amanda Rae Morgan, of Sanford, who wore a green dress and carried a bouquet matching that of the maids.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Sanford. Assisting were Jackie Smith and Sonja Holsky, both of Sanford.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to Daytona Beach. Both are employed by the U.S. Army.

NEW ARRIVAL

Robert and Teresa Rabun of Dade City announce the birth of a son, Robert Grafton Rabun Jr., born at 4:35 p.m. on Thursday, March 23, in Dade City.

The boy weighed in at 8 pounds, 2 ounces, and measured 20 inches in length.

Maternal grandparents are Ed and Elsie Griffith of Sanford.

Paternal grandparents are Charles T. and Voncie Rabun of Lake Monroe.

50 years wiser, grads reunite

Reunions are not new to the 1939 class of Seminole High School. Many classmates have been reuniting for fun and festivity every five years since the 30th anniversary of their graduation.

But the big 50 was super-special over the April 15 and 16 weekend. Classmates arrived from across the nation to get a glimpse of their roots and the old home town where they got their start. Nancy Terwilliger, chairman, said, "We had the best time. Everything turned out so nice. It was just super."

Festivities got under way at the Holiday Inn, Sanford Marina, with a banquet on that Saturday.

"People came from all over the country," Nancy said, "and they were so complimentary of the food and accommodations."

The class colors of blue and white were carried out in the decor. SHS students were known as the "Celery Feds" back in those days. It was only apropos that sticks of celery tied with blue ribbons should decorate the tables, as well as floral arrangements of white roses and blue delphiniums. Blue balloons tied with blue ribbons and welcome banners further added to the pomp and pageantry of the gala celebration.

Dr. Walter Haynes was the master of ceremonies for the celebration. Nick Pfeiffauf and his band carried the revelers back to their youth with popular music of their heyday. Did they have fun dancing and reminiscing? Nancy said they danced until 12:30 Sunday morning.

In 1939, G.E. McKay was the principal of SHS (located at the present Sanford Middle School), and T.W. Lawson was the county school superintendent. There were 100 students in the graduating class, and 91, including spouses and guests, attended the reunion. Nineteen classmates are deceased.

Prior to the reunion, the committee issued a plea for help to locate some of the missing classmates. Octavia Blades Edwards of North Carolina was on the list, but her whereabouts were still unknown until she decided on her own it was about time for the reunion. She called Seminole High School and talked to Bobby Lundquist, who referred her to Nancy. And she attended the reunion, the first time she has been back to Sanford in 50 years. Imagine her surprise when she saw Lake Mary, her home town of a few dirt roads, now woven into a spectacular, progressive community.

Nancy marveled that none of the "boys" in the class were killed "in the war." She added that they all saw and survived active duty, but Darrel Ferguson, a pilot, was killed in North Carolina after World War II. His brother, Buck, also a class member now living in Daytona Beach, attended the reunion.

Marjorie Tillis Lansing, a class teacher from Ann Arbor, Mich., who spends a lot of time in the area, said she could not get over "how close the class was." This closeness was credited to the Great Depression, World War II and the class spending 12 years together doing things back then that kids today just don't do.

The next day, all but 13 of Saturday's 91 classmates at the banquet, attended a brunch at the relaxing Golden Lake home of Fred and Boo Ganas, where colorful, preening peacocks always run wild to the delight of the couples.

Class officers were: Jack Bolt, president; Fred Ganas, vice president; Martha Telford Vihlen, treasurer; Lucy Roumillat McLeod, secretary; and Arthur Williams, chaplain.

Committee members with Nancy Terwilliger were: Mary Ellen Leshner Martina, Anne Aiken, Helen Alderman, Derieux Hayes Dean, Doris Jackson Duxbury, Dorie Sue Williams Eisele, Fred and Boo Ganas, Jack and Dottie Bolt, Martha Vihlen, Lucy McLeod, Virginia Pezold Wedekind and Ernest Southward.

Friends of the park

Guess who came to dinner Monday night at the century-old home of Jay and Joyce Malone? The guests included 53 members of the "core committee" of the Children's Park on Park Playground.

And guess who did all the cooking? According to several reports, Joyce cooked every crumb of the delicious lasagna and all the trimmings, with Judy Wimblish preparing the dessert.

And guess who is so ecstatically gung-ho over the children's playground? Right, Joyce Malone.

Rachel Wagner, a playground designer from New York, was in Sanford all day Monday meeting with children and volunteers as well as representatives of the Sanford Scenic Improvement Board.

The dinner preceded a meeting Monday night at the Sanford Civic Center when plans for the park were finalized. Construction of the playground at the beautifully landscaped park will start on Nov. 1 and will be completed Nov. 5 by 1,000 volunteers. Care to sign up, anyone?

Joyce says the project "is much bigger than a park. This will pull the community together. The whole thing is a community experience with a vast cross section of people working together."

The committee, which plans to build the park in five days, includes: Judy Wimblish, general coordinator; Gert Weldon and Susan Reid, children's committee; Joyce Malone, public relations; Les Owen and Gordon Frederiek, co-chairmen of donated materials; Audrey Williams, fund-raising; Danny Lee, purchased materials; Glenn Dornen and Joe Forbes, tools; Kathy Krasnoff, recruiting 1,000 volunteers; Beverly Huffman, food for the volunteers; Martha Crossier, child care for workers.

Mrs. Smith in Alabama

Mrs. Ralph Austin (Charlotte) Smith recently attended her late husband's fraternity alumni weekend and founder's day program at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa. A charter member of Alpha Phi Zeta Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha, Ralph Austin Smith rose to the office of national treasurer of the fraternity.

Charlotte took with her to Alabama a bag of oranges and a photocopy of the original charter of the Iris Club, a men's club at the university, petitioning to become Alpha Phi Zeta of LCA. She also took bound copies of the national fraternity magazine "Cross and Crescent," sent to Mr. Smith after his six-year term as national treasurer.

Mrs. Smith was accompanied on the trip by her son, Walter, and his wife, also named Charlotte. Arriving in Tuscaloosa from Quitman, Miss., to join the family gathering were another son, Ralph Jr., and his wife, Carolyn.

Eat brunch, then take vows

May 7 is going to be a red-letter day at the Sanford Civic Center. This is the big day when couples who have been married 50 years or longer will be honored at the golden wedding anniversary fete in the afternoon, while in the morning a May Day Brunch will be in progress.

The golden wedding anniversary celebration, sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, will include recognition for the couple married the longest, couples renewing their wedding vows in unison, refreshments and other gracious amenities. The celebration will begin at 2 p.m. and last a few hours.

Applications are available at the chamber, and should be returned early enough so participants can get their names in the programs. Call 322-2212 for information. Co-chairmen of the event are: Mildred Haen and Barbara Forester.

The 13th Annual May Day Brunch, to benefit continued beautification and improvement of Sanford, will take place from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. that day. The success of this event speaks for itself; it attracts a large crowd of repeat diners. Donation is $4.50, adults, and $3, children under 12.

For information, call the co-chairmen, Winifred "Bill" Gielow at 322-6473, or Beth Bridges at 323-2755.

Glad to be a grad

Louise Priest Blackwelder, daughter of Randall and Edna Priest, will graduate from the University of Central Florida on May 9. It took Louise 10 years to finish college, but she put her education on hold while caring for her husband, Erl and young son, Benjamin.

Last year Louise was inducted into Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society in education. She has been an intern teacher at UCF, and a very fine one, we hear.

On Friday night, April 14, UCF selected an intern teacher of the year from among 200 intern teachers in Central Florida. Louise was one of the 16 nominees in competition. Although, she did not win the title, Louise is a winner by any standards. Congratulations are in order.

Marrying into music

"White Line Fever," a band from England often called the Beatles of country music, will perform in Sanford from April 25-May 7.

For something with a Sanford flavor, the band's drummer, Derek Bain, and Mal Coulombe, formerly of Sanford, are engaged to be married in Nashville in August.

Mia, daughter of Joan Coulombe, is a 1976 graduate of Seminole High School and a 1980 graduate of the University of Central Florida. She is formerly a tour and travel manager of Church Street Station, Orlando, and is now employed by the William Morris Agency in Nashville.

In memory of Whigham, in support of research

Karen Coleman, spokeswoman for Seminole County schools, receives a $500 check from Steve Harriett, Sanford police chief, in memory of her brother, the late Thomas E. Whigham. Because he was a childhood friend of Whigham, Harriett presented the check to Coleman April 5 at the Sanford Civic Center on behalf of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, of which Harriett is a member. Coleman plans to use the money for the Thomas E. Whigham AIDS Super Challenge Fund to establish a chair for neurological research at the University of Miami. Whigham died of AIDS complications resulting from a blood transfusion. Also pictured are David Lanier (left), president-elect of the Sanford Kiwanis, and Jim Barks (right), the club's vice president.

Menu but one asset of brunch

A lovely spring day, an exquisite array of foods and a gracious hostess combined to create a charming Sunday afternoon brunch for a group of ladies in Longwood. Jean Barber acted as the perfect hostess who invited 16 women to brunch in her home on April 9.

Each table was tastefully decorated with a centerpiece and at each place setting was a sample of perfume and a shell sachet, hand-painted by Barber. The guests were given the two items as favors.

The gourmet selection of foods was catered by Edibles of Altamonte Springs. The menu included crab salad stuffed in flowered tomatoes, Italian breadsticks, fruit kabobs and scrumptious chocolate-dipped strawberries along with extremely rich lemon squares for dessert.

"The food was wonderful," commented Elaine Cofoid, one of the guests.

Barber entertained her guests as a special thank-you for all their help while she was in the hospital. The women at the brunch all took turns watching Barber's 1-year-old daughter and also invited her husband for dinner.

The guest list included: Karen Martin, Lisa Lavender, Jean Vatalaro, Barbara Fowle, Sherry Durkin, Jane Surdyka, Cynthia Borcena-Jones, Elsie Bentley, Jamie Sherin and Lisa Wells.

The women ended the delightful afternoon with a game of charades. Mary Ott, one of the guests, played the game for her first time. Unfortunately, her team didn't guess her antics for the TV show, "WiseGuys." Ott's team won, anyway.

LAKE MARY LONGWOOD

CYNTHIA AUSTIN

Four-footed exterminator

A group of second graders learned that all community helpers don't have to be people. Even a dog can be a great helper, as students at Altamonte Elementary learned at a special program put on at their school on April 6.

The dog we're talking about, Wilson, is a termite detection dog that hunts out the insects for Walkup Exterminators of Orlando. Wilson cost $25,000 to train.

Wilson and his human colleagues from Walkup presented a program on bugs as a part of Dividends, a volunteer program in Seminole County schools.

Before the program, termites were hidden in the school and Wilson found them as part of the show. The students also were given fun books that had games about insects, bugs and mammals.

"The booklet is really good. All the games are perception games, and make the children think," said Peggy Prater, one of the second grade teachers.

The children, however, thought the dog was really good. They loved Wilson and are writing thank-you letters to let Walkup know how much they enjoyed the dog.

Around 125 students and five teachers were in the audience to watch Wilson perform. Teachers present were: Anita Graves, Peggy Prater, Rhonda Hobbs, Carol Babcock and Diane Caslow.

"I'd recommend (the program) to any school. It's really a good program," Prater said. "This is the third year we've had them, and we'll try to get them again next year."

Taking to the water

The Alombro family of Longwood entertained the Familiar family in a unique way on Easter Sunday. Auggie and Dottie Alombro and their two children, August, age 10, and Tiffany, age 9, recently bought a boat and decided to take their out-of-town guests water-skiing on Easter.

Dottie's brother, Joe Familiar, drove his family of four from Jacksonville, Miss., to Longwood, to spend Easter vacation with his relatives.

Lisa Familiar, Joe's wife, thought it was great fun to spend Easter on a boat and not in a kitchen.

Kyle Familiar, age 5, was a little too scared to attempt water-skiing, but she enjoyed swimming in Lake Brantley. Holland Familiar, age 2, and her cousin Tiffany became best buddies during the vacation.

"I had fun while they were here," August said.

The Alombros also took their guests to Disney World, but most of the week was spent lounging around in the boat.

Mt. Calvary Church turns 71

New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church, 1109 West 12th St., celebrated its 71st anniversary today at 11 a.m.

The Youth of Calvary were in charge of the service.

The speaker for the morning service was Mt. Calvary's own Ericka Terrell Tillman, a sophomore at Seminole High School. She is the daughter of Benita Tillman and the granddaughter of Marie Tillman.

An active member of her church, Ericka is an officer of the junior church, sings with the Voices of Calvary, and is assistant Sunday school teacher.

The anniversary message and service at 3 p.m. today will be brought by Sanford's own Rev. Patrick Miller. The Mt. Tabor Missionary Baptist Church, Leesburg, will join in the 71st anniversary celebration.

The Rev. Bobby John Player is pastor of Mt. Calvary. Ethel June is chairman.

Banquet for mothers

Have you thought of something special for your mother for Mother's Day? A Spiritual Gala Banquet for Mothers Everywhere will be held at the Sanford Civic Center on Mother's Day, May 14, from 5-8 p.m.

Admission at the door is $10 for adults, $5 for children aged 12 and younger.

This event is being sponsored by New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, East 10th Street, and Rejected Stone Full Mission Missionary Baptist Church.

The entertainment will be at its finest, featuring a hat show by hat designer Kathy Jones of Altamonte Springs, and hats by Charlene's Shop of Sanford. Gospel music will be performed by the contemporary gospel band "Devotion" and guest saxophonist Ronald Nathan. Dramatizations will be given by creative dancers Alicia Wells, Rachel Adams Wilson and Toni Singleton Adams.

Tickets are available from the Young Adult Usher Board members of New Bethel and from the members of Rejected Stone Church.

Proceeds will go toward the building fund of Rejected Stone Church and the Usher's Youth Board of New Bethel.

Charity ball upcoming

Let me tell you the big news. The Scholarship Purple and White Charity Ball will be held Saturday evening, April 29, at The Sanford Civic Center, Sanford Avenue and Seminole Boulevard.

The attire is semi-formal. Tickets are $8 per person. All funds will go to the scholarship fund to give scholarships to the winners of the Celery City Lodge No. 542 and Evergreen Temple No. 321 oratorical winners, helping them attend the college of their choice.

Come and witness the crowning of King and Queen of Elks, and help give scholarships to our deserving young high school students. See you there, music lovers.

Third place in oratory

The Annual Florida State Association of Brothers and Daughters of Elks of the World, Improved Benevolent Protective Order of the Elks, was held in Daytona Beach from April 14-16, with Halifax River Elks Lodge No. 1723 and Peninsula Temple No. 329 hosting the state association.

The Florida State Association Oratorical Contest and Banquet was held Sunday evening, April 16. Local winner of District Two's competition, Sanford's own Milton D. Wilson, placed third in the state. Our congratulations to Milton for his success, though he has been sick with the flu for two weeks. He is to receive scholarship funds to attend Florida A&M University, Tallahassee, in the fall.

The newly organized Crooms Academy Alumni and Friends Chorus, under the direction of former director and teacher Earl E. Minott, was the honored guest chorus for the memorial service of solemn tribute to the memory of the deceased brothers and daughters of all lodges and temples. The chorus has received an invitation to give a program of musical selection in Miami in the near future.

Sanfordites were indeed known throughout the convention in Daytona. Angla Cummings was first runner-up in the beauty and talent contest, the first of its kind to be held by the association, under the direction of Dgt. Reitha Baker, chairman of the department. Angla is the daughter of Wadle Cummings Green, of Sanford.

Evergreen Temple No. 321 and Celery City Lodge 542 were well represented by their leaders. In attendance were Exalted Ruler Bennie Alexander; Bro. Willie King; Bro. E.E. Minott; Carletha Merckerson, Dgt. Ruler; Olivia Ayres, Vice Dgt. Ruler; Lura Thomas, chaplain; Gail Ford, recording secretary; Joyce Byrd, escort; and Grace Melton, treasurer.

An appreciated musician

Morning Glory Missionary Baptist Church will have an appreciation program day, today, April 23, at 3 p.m. in honor of Faye Williams, musician for the church.

Some of the invited guest groups will include the Wilson Ensemble, Bethel Baptist Church of Orlando, Mt. Calvary Choir, and the Jones and Gordon Family.

The community is invited. The Rev. Andrew Evans is pastor. Ruby Johnson is chairman.

Late parents careless about obligation to day-care worker

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you wrote about how "no-shows" hurt hairdressers. Would you please put in a similar pitch for home day-care providers?

Abby, I agree to work a 10-hour day, from 6:45 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. I am paid $1.25 per hour per child. This covers meals, toys, discipline, trips to the park and hugs. Do you blame me for being upset when a parent drops off her child at 6:30 a.m. and doesn't pick him up until 6 or 6:30 p.m.? I have tried penalties, but the parents just take their child to some other underpaid fool who will put up with it.

I love my job, but I hate the way some of my clients treat me. I have spoken to other day-care professionals, and they all say the same thing happens to them. Any suggestions?

TIRED IN TACOMA

DEAR TIRED: My first thought was, deliver the child to his home, but a parent who would be so irresponsible as to pick up her child an hour to an hour and a half late would probably not be home when you delivered the child.

How about posting a sign at your home that states that parents who leave their children more than 15 minutes past the agreed-upon pickup time will be charged for one full extra hour? Then telephone the other "underpaid fools" within a 10-mile radius and suggest the solution to them, too. If you all stick together and refuse to put up with irresponsible behavior, you'll all be winners.

DEAR ABBY: You have made some good suggestions for conserving water—shut the faucet off when brushing your teeth and shaving, etc.

I have another suggestion that could save thousands—maybe millions—of gallons of water a week. Every first-class hotel I have stayed in changes its sheets and pillow cases every day! This is unnecessary. When people are home they don't change their bed linen every day. They put fresh sheets on their beds once a week—twice a week, if they're really fussy.

What do you think, Abby?
CONSERVATIVE IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR CONSERVATIVE: While a daily change of bed linen may see extravagant, it's a well-established policy for which hotel guests pay handsomely. It also ensures the ultimate in cleanliness, which all travelers appreciate. (If it ain't broke, don't fix it.)

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

CORRECTION

Due to erroneous information given to the Herald, the Casselberry Senior Citizens Center was wrongly reported to host duplicate bridge games. The center, rather, hosts progressive bridge games, in which one does not need a partner.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY

April 23, 1989

Keep the channels open in the year ahead so that people for whom you've done favors in the past will be able to find ways to reciprocate. Your biggest opportunities could come through people you've helped.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let emotions overrule your financial judgment today. If your extravagant impulses are not held in check, there's a chance you may do something foolish with your budget. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your opinions might not be as popular with companions as you lead yourself to believe today. This could become evident if you try to force your views on your audience.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't put too high a value on the services or favors you render for others today. What looks like a big deal in your eyes might not appear that awesome to a recipient.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're likely to feel more comfortable socially today being involved with a small, cozy group rather than a large crowd. Keep this in mind if you have to make a choice.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Individuals who try to impress you with their importance or material worth will turn you off today. Let them play their big-shot roles to a more appreciative audience.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your focus on details could obliterate the big picture for you today. Stand back a few paces so that you will be able to take in the entire view in its proper perspective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others can't be expected to help you out of tight spots today, especially financial ones. Try to take care of things yourself or wait until another day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let a close companion whose judgment is questionable make important decisions for you today. This person's intentions will be good, but the conclusions could be faulty.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Make this a day of rest and try not to worry about things you can't take care of until the business week begins. You could waste a pleasant day fretting about maybes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against tendencies today to treat others in an indifferent fashion. If your behavior is thoughtless, you might make a bad impression on someone who likes you. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In order to achieve desirable end results today, don't leave the final phase up to chance. You'll have to be as attentive at the close as you are at the opening.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's admirable to be optimistic, provided your assumptions are based upon a realistic premise. Today be sure your rose-colored outlook is anchored in practicality.

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY

April 24, 1989

Your chart indicates you should be able to do well financially in the year ahead through creative projects, especially if you're associated with someone who is equally as imaginative and industrious as yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being helpful to another today might not pay you the immediate dividends you're hoping for, but everything will be adjusted a little further down the line.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The right type of companion will help placate your restless urges today. Select a perky partner who shares similar interests and would also like to escape today's routine.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to do your best work today if you're involved in some type of creative endeavor. Try to find things to do that are both useful and stimulate your imagination.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a rather charismatic person to begin with and these enviable qualities will be accentuated today. Wherever you go you are not apt to be overlooked.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions that contribute to your domestic security are beginning to firm up more at this time. However, what's occurring may not be totally visible for a while.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try not to involve yourself today in activities you could find too restrictive either mentally or physically. You'll operate much more effectively as a free spirit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Important financial arrangements are likely to work out better for you today than they will tomorrow. See if you can schedule things accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Personal ambitions can be advanced today, provided you do not let peripheral developments slow you down. Don't let distractions cause you to take your eye off your targets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're likely to fare better today if you maintain a low profile and stay in the background a bit. Keep in touch with events, but don't attempt to lead them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should function extremely well today where your group involvements are concerned. Something beneficial could result through people who are sincerely interested in your current affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Two or more important objectives can be achieved today if you apply your efforts properly. See if you can figure out a way to make them dovetail.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you're the one who comes up with the brightest and most novel suggestions, but today, if you'll listen closely to others, they might have ideas that you'll find useful.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

When your hand is all aces and kings, it's hard to decline an invitation to slam. South bid six no-trump and now had to navigate the play. From West's point of view, there was no automatic lead. He tried a low spade rather than leading away from any of his queens. If declarer had reasoned that West would be reluctant to lead away from a queen, he would have played low from dummy. That would have given declarer one more trick right away, but he put up the jack from dummy. He took East's queen with his ace and played the king of diamonds and a small diamond. It was good news when the queen of diamonds appeared. He then played three more diamonds, throwing two hearts from his hand as West shed a spade, a club and a heart. He then played a club back to his jack. West won the queen and returned a club. At the finish declarer had to give up a trick to West's 10 of spades. Did anything go wrong? After the second diamond, when declarer has won West's queen with dummy's ace, there is a sure play for the contract, assuming that West is not false-carding. Declarer should not play more diamonds. Instead let him play ace of hearts and another heart. When East follows low, South also plays low. West can now win the queen of hearts, but his next play must present declarer with the extra trick he needs to make the slam contract.

people told us to go, we went. Sometimes I think it might have been better if I'd stayed in California."

In Vietnam, Pham had been a dentist. At the time she arrived in the U.S., dentists were in short supply in California; many of her peers were able to be licensed and open offices in their new home. In Florida, where the need was not so great, Pham was less lucky.

Despite her medical training, Pham tried unsuccessfully to get her license three times and now works as a public assistance specialist with the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, interviewing prospective Medicare recipients.

Pham said she often misses the life she had in Vietnam, but knows that era no longer exists. Now, her daughter, Nguyen, a 14-year-old freshman at Lyman High school, is an American through and through, according to her mother. "She does not even like Vietnamese food," Pham said. "She likes mostly spaghetti and other Italian food."

Pham said that it is difficult to get "real" Vietnamese food in Central Florida. Even the restaurants claiming to have authentic dishes serve something more akin to Chinese cuisine.

"My people like soups...lots of soups and vegetables," she said.

Pham said that her daughter's American diet hasn't affected her school work or her creativity. The proud mother said that her daughter's grades are exemplary and that she constantly writes poetry. In fact, Pham boasts, Nguyen received a letter Thursday congratulating her that she has been chosen by the Gwendolyn Brooks Writers Association of Florida to read one of her poems May 18 at Seminole Community College.

"I like to write too," said Pham, who writes a great deal of fiction for her own pleasure, but has no plans to publish any of her work.

When Pham first arrived in this country, she spoke little English, though she has studied it a bit in school.

"I learned to speak English from a French teacher, so I speak English with a French accent," she said.

An avid reader, Pham said that much of what she reads is in English, because the scarcity of Vietnamese books and newspapers in the Central Florida area. But she said that she can sometimes get publications in her native language from California.

Occasionally, she also is able to rent a videocassette of a Vietnamese film, but that is a rare treat.

At home, Pham speaks to her daughter in Vietnamese and her daughter responds in fluent English. While Nguyen doesn't speak her mother's native tongue very well, she also is fluent in Spanish, which she learned in school.

While she has complaints with some parents in this country, she has no desire to return to her native land.

"I have relatives there still," she said. "I hear it is very bad. You have to work a month there to earn enough to buy two or three kilos of meat."

Pham said that she has thought about attending medical school, but has decided that at age 45, it is probably too late to begin school.

"I will work to help my daughter to go to college instead," she said.

Pham's mother, sister and sister's family came to the United States four years ago, where Pham heard more of the deprivations under communist rule. She is glad for her American freedoms.

"In my country, we had a curfew, even before communist rule," she said. "The communists were everywhere, so there was no peace. Here, you can go anywhere, anytime. You can go from state to state; you don't have to worry about anything."

"I think I'll stay here awhile," she said.

IN BRIEF

Lake Howell takes first place

WINTER PARK — The Lake Howell High School calculus team won first place in the Mu Alpha Theta contest for the district. In the individual competition, team members Brian Acton placed fifth and Larry Bradley won a seventh place victory. Gabriel Bouch placed fourth in the Algebra I competition. The overall math team finished in the number five spot.

Lake Marionettes dance with a star

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Marionette dancers recently performed a tap dance from the musical "42nd Street" with movie and stage star Ann Miller. The dance was filmed as part of a TV special that will be aired nationally as part of the grand opening ceremonies of the Disney/MGM studios on April 30. The Lake Marionettes will also be a part of the press pre-opening ceremonies April 28.

Lyman presents 'Oklahoma'

LONGWOOD — The Lyman High School theater department will present "Oklahoma!" April 27, 28 and 29 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students. There is no reserved seating.

Lake Orienta students honored

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Scott Sturgill, a third grader at Lake Orienta Elementary School, was named the Altamonte Springs Outstanding Youth Volunteer. Sturgill, eight years old, is the youngest volunteer ever awarded the city's honor. Azurae Willis, a second grader at the school, was recently named Little Miss Altamonte Princess.

Sheridan awarded scholarship

LAKE MARY — Dave A. Sheridan, a senior at Lake Mary High School, has been awarded a music scholarship to attend the University of Florida for the 1989-1990 academic year. The award is given in recognition of outstanding musical talent and achievement. Pending satisfactory progress the scholarship can be awarded for four years.

Nursing students get financial help

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a wide-reaching effort to provide nursing students with affordable education financing, the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) recently announced it will sponsor a comprehensive education loan plan called the Nursing Education Assured Access Program.

The plan will allow students enrolled in nursing programs and their parents to obtain, from a single course, three types of federally-sponsored education loans and a low cost private education loan.

Nayee named to Butler honor roll

INDIANAPOLIS — Longwood resident Dharmendra Ramabhai Nayee was named to the honor roll during the fall semester at Butler University. A junior in the college of pharmacy, she maintained a 3.0 average over the first semester this year.

Science education fellowship announced

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — A $5,000 fellowship from the Challenger Center will be awarded to a teacher or administrator to establish a space science education program. Applicants should propose space science education projects that are innovative, multidisciplinary, technology-driven and oriented toward problem solving and team work.

Deadline for application is April 28. For more information write to the Challenger Seven Fellowship Program, 1101 King Street, Suite 190, Alexandria, VA 22314 or call (703) 683-9740.

Art education restructured

SARASOTA — National art education leaders will meet at the John and Mable Museum of Art to promote the restructuring of the way in which art is taught to children.

The workshops will help establish a discipline-based art education model that will be designed for individual school districts.

Intensive English program at UCF

ORLANDO — The Center for Multilingual/Multicultural studies at the University of Central Florida will offer an intensive English program on May 10 for the benefit of international students preparing to enter college.

The class will prepare students to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). It will also focus on cultural differences and accent reduction.

The 15-week program offers five hours of classes daily. It will focus on listening, speaking, reading, writing and structural skills.

Lyman teachers honored

LONGWOOD — Lyman High School history teacher Barbara Stearn has been recognized by the Seminole County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution as the district's outstanding teacher of American History.

Spanish teacher Melanie Piedras, who heads Lyman's fine arts department, was recently recognized as an outstanding teacher by the FACTS organization.

Fashion show to benefit scholarship

MAITLAND — The Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce will present a fashion show April 25 at noon to benefit the chamber's scholarship fund. Tickets for the event, to be held at the Park Suite hotel in Altamonte Springs, will be $15 apiece or $200 for a corporate table. Lunch is included in the ticket price.

Seminole cheerleaders to be on ESPN

SANFORD — The Seminole High School varsity cheerleaders recently competed in the Universal Cheerleaders Association's National High School Cheerleading Championship at Sea World. That competition will be featured in an hour-long special on ESPN on Saturday, April 29 at 5 p.m.

UCF to teach hearing conservation

WINTER PARK — A three-day course in hearing conservation will be offered at the University of Central Florida's Winter Park campus (Lee Road and 17-92) beginning Friday, May 5. The class is approved to meet the requirements for continuing education needs of professional audiometric technicians. For more information, call 275-2123.

Milwee chosen as model school

LONGWOOD — Milwee Middle School is one of only 36 middle schools in the state to be chosen as a training site for children to be assisted by an adult through their middle school years. The program, under the guidance of Florida's five model school Advancement Programs, will provide each student with a caring adult who will monitor their progress, consult with their parents, provide them with educational activities and be available to advise and assist.

Writing is McCloud's passion

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald staff writer

OVIEDO — Rebekah McCloud, 10th grade English teacher at Oviedo High School, has wanted to be a teacher as long as she can remember. She has also wanted to be a writer.

She has done both and now combines the two in her effort to help students become better communicators with the written word.

This year she was named one of the top ten teachers in the Seminole County school district during the teacher of the year competition.

A product of the Rochester, N.Y. school system, McCloud was inspired to pursue her love of writing and teaching others by her senior English teacher.

"He was so energetic and enthusiastic about writing that I know I'd spend my life writing and teaching others to write," she said.

Another inspiration to McCloud was a college professor, Dr. Abraham Rothberg, at St. John Fisher University. He, too, encouraged to combine her dual interests into helping other experience the joy she found in writing.

"Intelligent and high spirited, he was a coach and a facilitator," McCloud said of her mentor. "He made it easy to learn. I knew that was the kind of teacher I wanted to be."

Encouraged by Rothberg to spend some time as a professional journalist, McCloud moved to Longwood where her parents had retired from the cold New York winters and took a job as a reporter for the Orlando Times, a weekly publication for the black community.

"I did that for four years," McCloud said. "I enjoyed every minute, but I spent a lot of spare time tutoring, lecturing and teaching."

Her late father convinced her to give teaching full time a chance.

She left the newspaper and took a job teaching English at Idylwild Elementary School. She said that from the very Rebekah McCloud, a 10th grade English teacher at Oviedo High School, spent several years as a professional journalist. She found herself teaching at every opportunity so she decided to enter the classroom full time.

first day in the classroom she knew that she'd found her niche in life.

"I love the kids," she said. "They are the best part of any teaching job."

She taught for seven years at the elementary school level at Idylwild and Rock Lake elementary schools before moving to Oviedo High School four years ago.

McCloud publishes a book of each class' collected works. "We lay it out, illustrate it, print it and bind it," McCloud said of the annual publication. "At times we have also combined the publications of each class into one giant work," she added.

McCloud feels that putting the students' writing into print encourages to do their best work so they can be proud of the publication. "When the students first come to me," she said, "a lot of them do not feel very good about their writing. But I like to encourage them to write their best."

McCloud teaches both gifted and basic students.

She feels that the basic students are often lost in the shuffle because their skills are weak and their behavior is often poor.

"I believe these students need good, dedicated teachers, too," she said. She makes a concerted effort at all times to show them that "they matter, they are important and what they have to say has value."

One shortcoming McCloud has sometimes seen with other teachers is a lack of preparation with the class curriculum. "You have to have a knowledge of the subject," she said. "If you don't, kids can see right through it. And they can be very brutal in letting you know... they haven't learned to be tactful yet."

McCloud said one secret to her success is getting to know each student and respecting each as an individual with special talents.

While she loves the teaching profession, McCloud foresees the day when she will retire and return to a career in journalism.

Currently, she is working toward her doctorate in education.

"Maybe in a few years, after I get my PhD, I'll retire," McCloud said.

In the meantime, she hopes that she can inspire more students to have confidence in their writing and themselves.

"Teaching is such a joy," she said.

Study: Only a fraction of needy students served

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Only a small fraction of the nation's poor, handicapped and non-English speaking students benefit from educational programs funded by the federal government, the National Education Association charged Tuesday.

NEA President Mary Futrell released what she described as the first comprehensive estimate of what it would cost to serve all students currently eligible under the Chapter One remedial math and reading programs, the education for All Handicapped Act, bilingual education and Pell grants, the student aid program for low-income college students.

"Today, incredibly, fewer children are served by federal education programs than were served at the beginning of the decade. After nearly a decade of blue-ribbon reports on the importance of educating all children, we as a nation has actually gone backwards," said Futrell, who released the report a day before President Bush announced his legislative proposals for education and as Congress begins to review of the 1990 federal budget resolution.

Futrell, who said the report was developed by the NEA from charts provided by Fiscal Planning Services Inc. of Washington, D.C., added that "the numbers in our new report clearly demonstrate a shocking erosion of federal support for these essential programs" and called on Congress to renew its commitment to fund key educational programs.

Moves, changes, actions in Seminole County School District noted

The following school district employees have been appointed, transferred, promoted or terminated within the district pending final approval by the school board during the April 25 school board meeting:

● Goldsboro Elementary School: second grade teacher Rebecca Dean will return from leave.

● Dividends: coordinator Dede Schaffner will take two days to attend a National Association of Partners in Education meeting in Hartford, Mass.

● Greenwood Lakes Middle

School custodian Freddie Brown resigned for personal reasons.

● Lake Brantley High School: guidance counselor Sally McCall will be taking maternity leave later this month.

● Lake Mary High School: athletic trainer Roger Mosure will be taking two days to attend a national athletic trainers convention in Dallas.

● Milwee Middle School: Charles Kirk will be terminated for failure to inform his principal of his intent to return from leave.

● Oviedo High School: cheerleading sponsors Teresa Black and Carol Hollander will be taking a leave of absence to attend a three-day National Cheerleading Coaches Conference in North Carolina next month.

● Sabal Point Elementary School: teacher Beth Harris will take an extra two weeks of maternity leave.

● Seminole High School: math teacher Maureen Maguire will be taking three days off to chaperone a group of students who will be in a math competition at Six Flags Over Georgia.

● Stenstrom Elementary School: Lisa Lindblom will be terminated for failure to inform her principal of her intent to return from leave.

● Summer Youth Employment program: Ruby Smith will take new duties in the program as a vocational assistant where she will assess students' talents.

● Winter Springs Elementary: instructional assistant Shelia Eaton resigned for personal reasons.

VIEWPOINT

There's always something you can look forward to

I woke up the other morning and it was the dreariest of days.

It was about 5:30 a.m. and it was raining. It was one of those days when you'd just as soon stay in bed and sleep until about 2 p.m.

It's hard to get motivated when it's still dark out and the rain pelting off the windows makes a noise somewhat reminiscent of an old K.C. and the Sunshine Band song.

Cold, gray, dreary mornings like this one have probably inspired their fair share of suicides. It was probably an atmosphere like this that put Napoleon in a bad mood. It was probably cold and rainy when Sherman marched through Atlanta, when the Ayatollah left France and when Hitler came up with the idea of gas chambers.

KLONIE JORDAN

The last thing I want to be doing on a morning like this is staring into a computer screen and trying to think and plan for another day's newspaper. I'm tired of thinking. Somebody else think for a while. I just want to chill out, catch some Zs and dream about Elle MacPherson.

But, being the diehard professional I am, I came on into the office and managed to get through another day.

I thought I could hear the bed teasing me as I put my hand on the doorknob.

"Come on back to bed," it said sarcastically. "Look, I've fluffed your pillow up. It's nice and soft."

I mumbled something about smart-alecky home furnishings and headed out into the monsoon.

That particular morning reminded me of something my dad once told me.

"When you just don't think you can make it anymore, when you feel like there's nothing left to live for, look for something you can look forward to," he said.

That theory has helped get me through some pretty tough times. My dad is a smart man.

If you can think about something pleasant that's coming up in the near or not-so-distant future, it will often help get you through a rough day or a tough situation.

You can usually break these "looking forward to" items into two categories. There are those you are sure about, the ones you know, barring any unforeseen tragic circumstances, are going to occur. The second kind are the ones that may not occur for quite some time but you think, really believe in your heart, they will eventually happen.

For example, I'm going home (back to the hills) for a week or so in a couple of months. I know that's going to happen, unless there's a death in the family or something, so I can look forward to it.

I'm going to catch some trout from a cold mountain stream, sit by the lake and enjoy the scenery, smell the dogwoods and honeysuckle and be the laziest hillbilly you ever saw for seven or eight consecutive days. I can look forward to that.

Get the idea now?

Another thing I'm looking forward to is Jimmy Johnson getting his face stuck in the dirt. The former Miami coach, who once delighted in running up scores on helpless opponents, is now the head coach of the Dallas Cowboys. There's nobody in the NFL that Johnson can run the score up on. Quite the contrary, there are a number of teams that will kick Johnson's team pretty good and he's going to learn the meaning of the word 'humility.' I'm really looking forward to that.

I can also look forward to eventually seeing some Cincinnati Reds games on television. Since the local cable company doesn't have the technology to bring us Cable Channel 56 which is, by the way, one of the best sports channels in the country, I'll have to wait until the Reds play the Braves or Cubs. But I will eventually get to see them on TV despite the inabilities of the cable people.

Other long-term events also merit some attention.

Eventually, Sanford will come up with a better slogan than 'The Friendly City.' There's a couple hundred 'friendly cities' out there, so there's nothing unique about that nickname. It's just like the 'You Have A Friend in Pennsylvania' license plates.

Yeah, right.

I got mugged in Pennsylvania once. What's so friendly about that?

Then there's television, specifically music television. I'm looking forward to the day when something horrible happens to Madonna. MTV gets taken over by an Arab sheik and Dick Vitale loses his voice — permanently.

Can you believe these clowns on MTV. Rock music was once a pretty decent brand of entertainment. I used to like to watch MTV. But now, there's nothing on there but long-haired, screaming heavy-metal bands who couldn't carry a tune in a suitcase. Switch over to MTV at any point, day or night, and it will remind you of a pack of sheepsdogs on acid.

And another thing, this 'rap' stuff has got to go. Just because you can rhyme the last word of every other sentence doesn't make you a musician. Come to think of it, it doesn't even make you a good lyricist.

Take my word for it. MTV is one step away from going the way of the World Football League, and I think the world will be a little better place once that happens.

Talk smart, be pretty, play fair, live long and prosper.

Competing for time

American newspapers changing their ways to keep pace with high-tech competitors

UPI Analysis

American newspapers are up against a competitor tougher than any tabloid that ever came to town, more seductive than the sleaziest of sleaze TV. The competition is for time.

The information explosion of the 1980s has given consumers a mind-boggling array of high-tech choices for news, information and entertainment. There are powerful mini computers, PC on-line services, personal facsimile machines and copiers, hundreds of cable TV channels, CDs, VCRs, call-waiting, call-forwarding, beepers, buzzers and talking grocery carts.

And there is the newspaper. It doesn't beep or flash or dance around on a screen. It just lies on the front drive, competing for readers' time in the harshest market environment in history.

It's a fast-paced world with too many choices and too little time.

Fully 63 percent of infrequent newspaper readers — those people publishers try hardest to hook — responded in a 1987 survey that they didn't have enough time to do the things they want to do. Even among frequent readers, time spent with a newspaper is decreasing, some studies say to as little as 20 minutes a day.

Some call it "time poverty."

"We may be losing to television. We may be losing to aerobics class. We may be losing to time with the kids in the park," said Albuquerque Tribune Editor Jack McElroy.

Compounding the problem is a generation of teenagers who increasingly say they never read a newspaper and aren't becoming readers even in adulthood.

It's not surprising then that the newspaper industry has banded together to put all its research muscle into finding a way to boost circulation that is lagging behind growth in population and households.

In 1982, total daily circulation of U.S. newspapers exceeded the number of households, 53 million to 45 million. By 1987, circulation stood at 63 million in a country of 89 million households.

"I think it's gradually dawned on many of us that we're not competing with anything but the reader's time," said John Seigenthaler, editor and publisher of The Tennessean, in Nashville. "Time is our chief competitor. We are having to re-evaluate how we can make newspapers command more of the time of more readers."

Finding new readers is unquestionably the greatest concern of newspaper editors in every state. Methods they are using to attract new readers range from the newfangled — such as The Hartford Courant's FaxPaper for well-heeled executives — to running pictures of all the newborn babies in town, a 50-state survey by United Press International showed.

Newspapers around the country also are:

—Renewing emphasis on local news. One editor calls it "refrigerator news," the kind of stories people will clip and tape to their refrigerators.

—Energizing editorial pages.

—Writing shorter stories in clear language.

—Dressing up pages with graphics and color.

—Increasing coverage of topics newspapers hadn't touched in years, if at all, such as health, fitness, fashion, personal finance, entertainment and a variety of lifestyle issues.

The debate over whether newspapers should change has been replaced with an awareness that they must change to survive.

"Newspapers are going to have to become better, going to have to get rid of some of their stodginess, going to have to provide people with a more exciting and informative type of journalism," said Chuck Cook, editor of the Newhall Signal in Newhall, Calif.

"Is it the type of journalism we were taught? Probably not, but you've got to do something to capture these readers."

But which readers will American newspapers try to capture? People with money to spend? The young and the poor? The semi-literate? The ethnic communities? In the newspaper business, about 75 percent of profits come from advertising, not paid subscriptions. And advertisers increasingly are demanding a targeted audience or they are taking their accounts elsewhere.

"I hate the word, but we're going to wind up smaller, for a more 'elite' audience," said Frank McCulloch, managing editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

Charles Lehman, vice president-survey research manager at the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, agreed. "We may have to accept becoming more of a 'class' and less of a 'mass' medium," he said.

Most editors, surveyed, however still try to serve all of the people some of the time. "The main thing is not to leave anybody out," said Mike Fancher, executive editor of The Seattle Times, where black ink on newsprint competes against outdoor activities in the spectacular Cascade Mountains and Puget Sound for readers' leisure time.

Fancher also believes a newspaper is obligated to be valuable to its readers. And that means, for most newspapers, beefed-up coverage of local news, sometimes at the expense of other coverage.

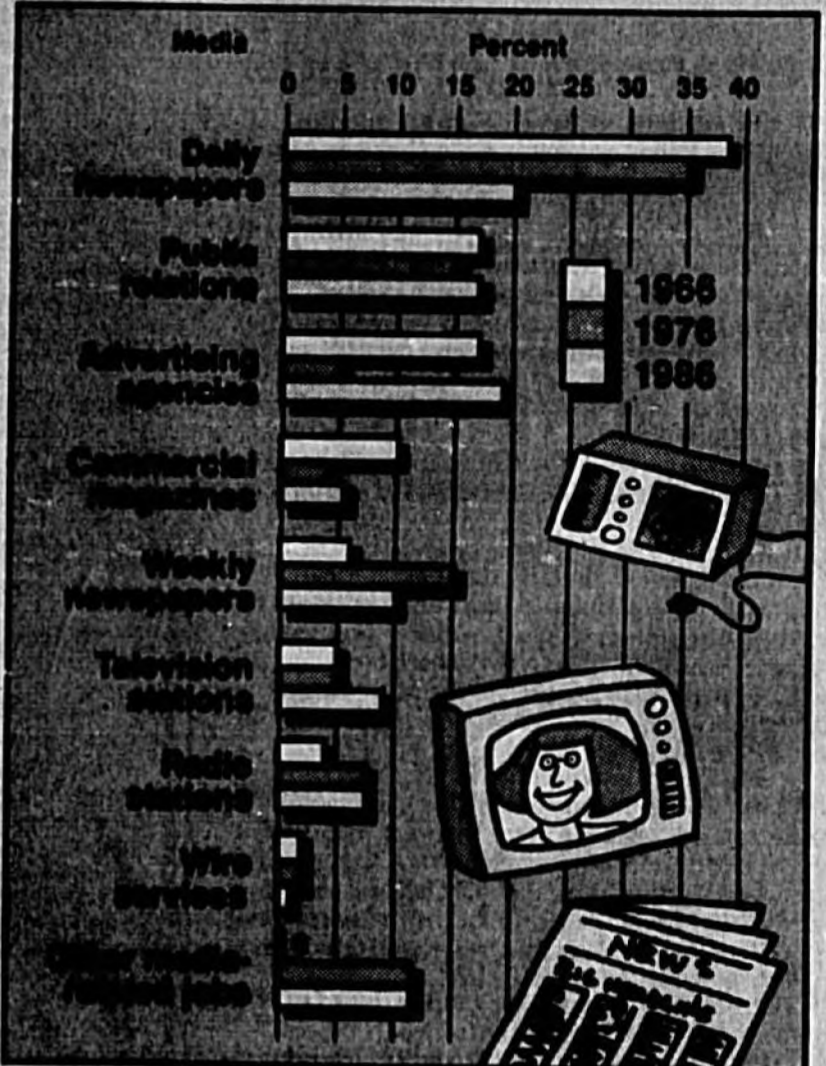

In a 1987 survey by the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 35 percent of newspapers reported they had increased the ratio of local and state to national and international coverage in the previous four years. Only 8 percent had done the reverse.

Supreme Court ready to hear crucial Missouri abortion case

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Since the Supreme Court extended the right to privacy to cover a woman's decision to have an abortion, many cases have been brought seeking to restrict or overturn that right.

While the court has upheld some restrictions such as state and federal laws that ban the use of public funds for abortion, the most restrictive abortion laws have been struck down by clear majorities.

But four members of the original 7-2 majority that legalized abortion in the historic 1973 Roe vs. Wade case have left the court, and that majority has dwindled to the point that many fear it no longer exists.

And while few believe the court is ready to take the drastic step of overturning Roe, many believe it may be ready to begin undoing the landmark ruling and its progeny.

Douglas Johnson, legislative director of the National Right to Life Committee, said of Roe. "We certainly think its days are numbered."

"We're hopeful there is a majority at this point prepared to accept at least some restrictions on abortion. Perhaps to go further; perhaps a majority to re-examine Roe itself and overturn it. This is the first time we've had even a prospect of that."

Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said she is worried because the current court has shown it is willing to rethink major law, and that if new restrictions are allowed on abortion others will soon follow.

The court's direction may soon be made clear. On Wednesday, it will hear oral arguments in an abortion case from Missouri with a decision expected before the end of the term this summer. The court also has pending three other cases involving restrictive abortion laws from Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio.

However, it is the Missouri case, called Webster vs. Health Services, that has caused all the uproar.

The case is the first major test of the legality of abortion to be accepted by the court since it returned to full strength last year with the confirmation of Justice Anthony Kennedy, whose view on the matter could be critical.

The last major abortion case before the court was resolved on a 4-4 vote. The tie upheld a lower court ruling that struck down portions of an Illinois law that dealt with a minor's access

Roe vs. Wade was case that set precedent

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court's historic decision in 1973 that legalized abortion case in the case called Roe vs. Wade.

Jane Roe was a pseudonym for Norma McCorvey, an unwed mother in Texas. Henry Wade was the Dallas County district attorney.

McCorvey has had three children but never an abortion. Her first child, now in her 30s, was the product of a short marriage and is cared for by her mother. Her other two children were given up for adoption.

She lent her case to abortion advocates in 1970 when she became pregnant with her third child and was arranging for its adoption. Her name went onto a challenge to a Texas law that prohibited abortion except when necessary to save the life of the mother.

Lebanese genocide

If a bomb falls in Beirut and no one hears it outside of Lebanon, what does that say about compassion fatigue in 1989?

Artillery shells are exploding in Beirut at the rate of 5,000 a night, according to Lebanese radio stations. More than 150 people have been killed and 500 wounded in the three-week bombardment of Moslem and Christian neighborhoods. The death count would be higher if Lebanese were not schooled in survival. Most families are living in bomb shelters.

Syrians are shelling Christians. Christians are shelling Moslems. A Christian general is trying to push Syrian troops out of the country. He says Syria wants to control Lebanese ports, keeping its hands on a $20 billion drug business. Two Lebanese governments are ignoring each other's legitimacy. Israel occupies a "security corridor" in the south. An Arab League truce that began at midnight was broken in the morning by renewed shelling.

The communal violence in Lebanon is difficult, if not impossible, for Americans to understand. Most Americans are more concerned about heat waves than the conflict between Syria, Lebanese Christians, Sunnite and Shiite Moslems, radical militias and drug peddlers in a far away, fratricidal Mediterranean capital.

But to the Lebanese community in the United States, the violence is close.

"I'm in constant calls with friends in Lebanon," says Bob Jabbour, who was born in Lebanon and now lives in San Diego. "They have been in the shelter for 20 days. No food. They can't dare to go to their cars. There are still cars on the streets of East Beirut with families burned to death. They blew up the gas tank depot in Dora. Israel claimed this smoke from Lebanon will definitely cause cancer for Cyprus, Israel, Syria, and Mediterranean coast. Fifty thousand Lebanese had to be evacuated from the coast inland. The shells are falling, according to the ministry of defense, 20 bombs a minute."

Jabbour, a Christian, helped organize a rally to protest the Syrian shelling of Lebanon.

"It's a big genocide," he says. "It is perpetrated by the butcher of Lebanon, (Syrian President) Assad. He is the Hitler of the Arab world today. The head patriarch of the Christians of Lebanon issued an appeal for the whole world to please stop this genocide. It is no longer a war. It is a full destruction of a people, of a civilization."

Jabbour wants the United States to help his people.

"Stop the Syrian shelling," he pleads. "Give Lebanese the chance to reconcile and strengthen the central government. Push for a peace initiative in the region. Preserve a free, democratic, pro-Western Lebanon."

After the bombing of the U.S. marine barracks in Beirut, most Americans are skeptical of what this country can do to preserve peace in Lebanon. Our efforts have failed. Our hostages remain in captivity. For every argument voiced by a Lebanese Christian, we hear counter-arguments voiced by Muslims. Lebanon's fragmented communities have suffered at each other's hands, to say nothing of the iron rule by Syria.

Jabbour and other Lebanese Americans want us to take notice of their people's suffering, to overcome our indifference and feel compassion. America cannot unilaterally dictate what happens in Lebanon. But we must refuse to let the bombs fall unheard.

Red line divides blacks and whites

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — One of this city's two daily newspapers says that residents of white neighborhoods receive 17 times more home-mortgage funding from local financial institutions than those living in black areas.

The Arkansas Democrat reached that conclusion after its reporters studied almost 10,000 home loans made from 1983 to 1987 by 13 area savings and loan associations and banks — but racial imbalance in mortgage lending is hardly confined to Little Rock.

Last year, the Atlanta Journal and Constitution examined $6.2 billion worth of home loans made in its circulation area, then reported that whites receive five times as many residential mortgages as blacks with the same income.

"Race — not home value or household income — consistently determines the lending patterns of metro Atlanta's largest financial institutions," the newspaper said.

In Chicago, the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union has accused the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., the state's second largest commercial bank, of operating a home-mortgage program "biased according to race and income."

In an extraordinary action, the Federal Reserve Board recently accepted that criticism, cited "important deficiencies" in Continental Illinois' residential loan program and rejected its application to purchase a small Arizona bank.

What apparently has been occurring in each of those cities — and in hundreds of other communities throughout the nation — is known as redlining. That name dates back to an earlier era when bank and S&L executives drew red lines on city maps to designate the neighborhoods — invariably inhabited by poor people and members of minority groups — they wanted to shun.

That blatantly discriminatory practice supposedly was outlawed with the passage of the Community Reinvestment Act of 1977, which required every federally regulated financial institution to "meet the credit needs of its entire community, including low- and moderate-income neighborhoods."

That blatantly discriminatory practice was supposedly outlawed.

Other federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act of 1968 and the Equal Credit Opportunity Act of 1974, reinforce the goal of providing to all families the opportunity to secure both adequate housing and the associated financing.

But the federal agencies that were supposed to implement those statutes allowed their enforcement efforts to lapse during the 1980s, when President Reagan was slashing their budgets and sending them the message that equal opportunity programs were not especially high on his agenda.

A study conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, for example, concluded that lenders of home-mortgage funds in that city had a "racial bias." The study was promptly suppressed, however, and resurfaced only after being uncovered by a local newspaper.

Nationally, the Atlanta Journal and Constitution reported earlier this year that blacks applying for home loans at the country's S&Ls are rejected twice as often as whites. "Redlining — refusing to lend in an area because of race — has persisted and may have grown worse in the 1980s," the newspaper said.

Its examination of 10 million applications for $1 trillion in mortgage money revealed a nationwide rejection rate for mortgage applicants of all incomes was 11.1 percent for whites.

GEORGE F. WILL

Treat Asian-Americans as equals

SAN FRANCISCO — The University of California at Berkeley says it is sorry. About time, you may say, remembering the 1980s. But the Chancellor's grudging apology pertains to something recent, something that looks like racism practiced by a bastion of liberalism.

In a statement in which circumspection competed with contrition, the Chancellor said that "decisions made in the admissions process indisputably had a disproportionate impact on" Asian-Americans. He blamed "insensitivity." But the real reason may be resentment of people who are "different" and have the temerity to be excellent.

One group sensitive to that is the unfortunately named Chinese for Affirmative Action, located in Chinatown in, appropriately, a building on the site of San Francisco's first bookstore. CAA knows that Asian-Americans are facing what Jews once faced: the resentment reserved for "outsiders" preening for a fair share of the status conferred by elite institutions. Like American Jews before them, Asian-Americans have an intense desire to achieve social mobility by means of education, respect for which is inculcated by cohesive families.

Generally "race-conscious" policies are advertised as "remedial." They supposedly place floors beneath particular groups, guaranteeing a certain level of social participation to disadvantaged people. But race-conscious policies toward Asian-Americans may place ceilings through which they are not allowed to rise.

Recently, Berkeley revised the formula by which applicants are evaluated. The new weighting — less weight for high-school grades, more for verbal tests — disadvantaged Asian-Americans, many of whom have English as a second language but are academic "overachievers."

An interesting term, "overachievers," "Over" what? Over their quota of excellence? Of America's rewards? Who sets these quotas?

About nine percent of California's high-school graduates are Asian-Americans. Today, 26 percent of Berkeley's undergraduates are Asian-Americans. There probably would be more were it not for race-conscious social engineering in the name of the latest theory of distributive justice.

Evaluating the aptitudes of young people for higher education is difficult. Academic freedom requires granting universities discretion in devising admission policies. However, universities must be monitored because they have proven themselves susceptible to intellectual fads and politicization. California, particularly, is a polyglot state sunk deep in the dangerous business of racial discrimination on behalf of government-approved minorities deemed "under-represented" in this or that. The name Chinese for Affirmative Action reflects a felt need to participate in an ethnic spoils system. However, affirmative action discriminated against Asian-Americans by restricting the social rewards open to competition on the basis of merit. We may want a modified meritocracy, but it should not be modified by racism and the resentment of excellence. An egalitarian democracy is prone to such resentment.

Coinciding with rising academic attainments by Asian-Americans has been a suspiciously sudden tendency by colleges across the country to de-emphasize high-school academic performance of applicants. Admissions offices place more emphasis on, for example, extracurricular activities. Henry Der, executive director of CAA, says Asian-Americans are "developing a paranoia that they are not well-rounded." They are, he says, sometimes too academically driven, too focused on math and science. Now in self-defense, they are "attacking extracurricular activities the way they attack calculus."

Der cites a white student who said, "If I walk into a classroom and see five or more Asian-Americans, I'm not going to enroll because they will drive up the grade curve." Lowell High School here is 60 percent Asian-American, and some parents say, "I don't want my child to go there because he will not have leadership opportunities." That, says Der, is just flinching from competition. There even is talk of making whites an affirmative-action group to protect them against Asian-American competition.

Yes, the "Yellow Peril" is back, this time dressed in the language of liberalism. We have been here before, with "the Jewish question."

Earlier in this century, quotas restricting Jews in universities were defended as liberal measures to prevent anti-Semitism.

At a time of high anxiety about declining educational standards and rising competition from abroad, and especially from the Pacific Rim, it is lunatic to punish Asian-Americans, the nation's model minority, for their passion to excel.

Evaluating the aptitudes of young people for higher education is difficult.

Rural teacher urges crackdown on drugs

WASHINGTON — Imagine a world where police dogs routinely sniff through high school lockers in search of cocaine and where seductive beer commercials are banned from the airwaves. Picture a world where kids are required to take a course in manners and parents are required to chaperone school dances.

That's a world on its way to ending teenage addiction, according to one small-town school teacher speaking from the front lines of the war on drugs.

Greg Wood teaches and coaches athletics in the Delmar School District in Delaware. When his senator, Democrat Joe Biden, came to town recently, Wood drew up an anti-drug manifesto and gave it to Biden.

With the crack epidemic turning inner-city streets into battlefields, why are the suggestions coming from a rural teacher? Because drugs, particularly crack, know no city boundaries. Crack has spread from the urban ghetto to rural Main Street, in towns where everyone knows everyone else's business, parents are suddenly finding that they don't know where their children are.

Wood's ideas are tough. They could raise warning bells in the halls of the American Civil Liberties Union. But they are the kinds of solutions that would tickle the fancy of a shape-up-or-ship-out guy like federal drug czar William Bennett. Here are some of Wood's ideas:

• Ban all television commercials for alcohol. The brewers would call it censorship, but we think children see too much of the romance of drinking before they understand the responsibility. "Tell me how many responsible adults are walking around with Spuds MacKenzie T-shirts," Wood said. "But there are a lot of kids walking around with them."

• Raise the minimum driving age from 16 to 17. Advocates of this position say it would cut down on the number of drunk-driving deaths and teach kids that driving is a privilege, not a right.

• Require kids to participate in after-school activities — sports, clubs, community work, whatever suits their interests.

• Allow drug-sniffing dogs to patrol the schools. Drugs can be hidden from the eye of a teacher, but not from the nose of a dog.

• Require all parents to chaperone at least two school events per year. We think this would be a real eye-opener for parents who have been too busy to notice that the old sock hop isn't what it used to be.

• Require all sophomores, juniors and seniors to take at least one class on drug use and abuse. Make it a graduation requirement.

• Teach a manners course in elementary schools and make attendance mandatory.

• Establish reward systems for kids who meet the high expectations of the school. Promise them higher grades or coveted privileges.

• Tax alcohol sales heavily and give that money to the states to pay for prevention and treatment programs. Make the manufacturers share the responsibility for addiction.

• Restructure schools to make them far more interesting. "The plain truth is that our schools are boring for many students," Wood said. "Put an emphasis on research, experimentation and creativity."

Sen. Biden liked Wood's ideas, but Wood admits his peers aren't universally enamored with his approach. But his list demonstrates the extreme measures that desperate teachers and parents think may be necessary to combat the drug epidemic.

The old sock hop isn't what it used to be.

Tribute to slain deputy touching

Recently, our son and brother, Seminole County Sheriff's Deputy Hugh E. Thomas, Jr. gave his life while protecting the lives of others that live in this community.

Hugh made this ultimate sacrifice so that all of us could pursue the dreams that we work so hard for each day. You and I are able to live our lives to the fullest because he gave so much of himself.

Hugh's death has been devastating to our family. We will no longer be able to see and touch him each day. Words will not permit us to describe the loss that we feel.

At Hugh's funeral service, this community did express the loss that they felt. The vast number of law enforcement officers, friends, family and acquaintances that attended have shown us that he will be missed by so many. The spectacular tribute that each of you paid to Hugh will forever give us memories that we can hold close to our heart.

We were truly touched by the displays of respect and condolences that were given by people on the street, businesses, and others who only knew Hugh as a public servant.

We, as his family, wish to express our eternal gratitude as you have shared our grief and provided us with some everlasting memories.

It's these memories that must sustain us for a lifetime.

Thanks for Camp Challenge coverage

On behalf of Easter Seals and Camp Challenge, I want to thank the Sanford Herald for the article on Leigh Moncreif, the 1989 Ambassador for Camp Challenge.

The article appeared in the People Section of the April 9 edition of your paper. I commend Tommy Vincent, your photographer, for choosing to photograph Leigh and her mother in an active playful setting. Your reporter, Vicki DeSormier, did an excellent job writing about a subject that some writers might not have handled so well.

So many times, an article about a person with a disability leads the reader to view the disabled person as a "poor, pitiful victim."

Another common downfall of many "disability stories" is the other extreme: the disabled person is set upon a pedestal and practically canonized just because he or she happens to have a disability.

Thankfully, Ms. DeSormier's article avoids both pitfalls! She used facts, interviews, and a picture to inform, educate, and tell an interesting story of a local resident to the public. I hope and believe that the article will lead to two very positive results:

●Your audience learned about Camp Challenge, the wheelchair accessible Easter Seal camp that Leigh represents. So many children and adults with disabilities could benefit from a season at Camp Challenge...I hope that some of your readers who have disabilities or have a disabled family member will contact Easter Seals or Camp Challenge to learn more.

●I am sure that many parents of children with disabilities were encouraged by your article. Even the title, "Disabled, yet still able," is confident and reassuring.

Again, thank you for the fine article. Keep up the good work.

Let 18-year-olds buy beer and liquor

Don't you all think that it is about time to allow 18-year-olds to purchase beer or liquor?

I sure do!

These guys and gals can join or be drafted into the military where they are trained and taught how to maim, cripple, and kill others including innocent women and children.

You can't really expect me to believe that they are emotionally and mature enough to become killers; but not to go out and buy a drink for refreshment!

It is about time for our federal lawmakers to enact an 18-year-old "national drinking age" act/law.

After all folks, if an 18 or 19 year old wants a cold beer or drink; they sure as H----- know where to get it!

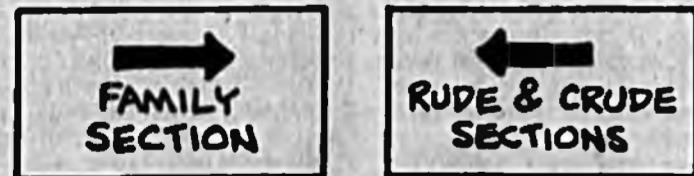

However, I must also add that anyone, no matter who, convicted of "drinking under the influence" should lose their driving license for no less than five years. NO EXCEPTIONS! Fair enough?

Equal education a concern

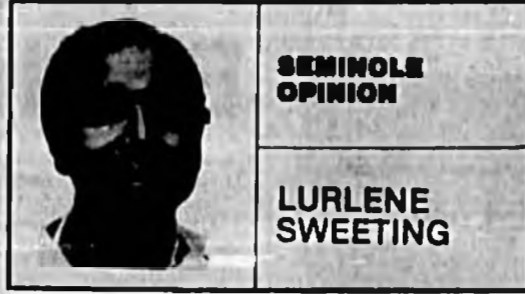

The history of American Education is replete with parents who were concerned with educational equity for their children. Sanford has a cohesive group of parents, whose children attend Seminole High School. These parents sincerely believe that their children have been deprived of equal educational opportunities, because equitable funding has not been received from the Seminole County School Board.

School funding is allocated according to the number of students enrolled and the weighting of specified programs, in which students participate. Consequently, schools with smaller enrollments have less revenue. Funding for schools is predicated upon FTE (full time equivalency) that is the enumerating of students in October and February of each year.

The parents analyzed Seminole High Schools' enrollment patterns during the last five years period. This revealed that there has been an annual loss in student population of about 100 students between October and February. This decline in enrollment resulted in inadequate programs to meet the needs of a diverse student population.

The parents contend that the School Board did not avail themselves of a golden opportunity to rectify this problem with the recent rezoning affecting Middle and Seniro High schools.

The middle schools that comprise the feeder pattern for Seminole High School are

SEMINOLE

Lakeview and Sanford Middle. Lakeview is of immediate concern because of the fact 400 vacancies for students exist.

While Lakeview is operating under capacity Sanford Middle School is in the midst of a building and renovation program that will expand their capacity. Seminole High School is also engaged in a renovation program to upgrade the physical plant and accommodate 300 additional students. However, if the zoning of students undersupplies students to Lakeview then expanded physical plant at Seminole High School may produce greater student vacancies at Seminole High School.

The parents question the cost effectiveness of this type of planning. Growth is anticipated along the I-4 corridor and State Road 46. Elementary, middle and eventually a senior high school are being planned to accommodate this growth. In the long term this would further escalate Seminole High School and its feeder schools enrollment problems.

Two other factors that have been identified as negatively impacting Seminole High Schools enrollment are: Realtors adverse advice to newcomers about purchasing homes in the Sanford environs, and the significant number of students who are illegally attending other Seminole County High Schools.

Volusia County networks with the law enforcement 911 system to confirm residential addresses for students to insure that students are attending the proper schools.

The concerned parents have collected over 900 signatures supporting their position. They desire continuing dialogue with the School Board members and the administrative staff to ameliorate existing inequities.

The parents have made the following request for the 1989-90 school year: adequate teachers to support additional courses which have been added to the curriculum addition of computer labs with software, additional guidance counselors, continued expansion of advance placement and gifted programs and the initiation of an identifiable drop-out prevention program.

Comparable equity in funding and educational programming to address present and future needs of Seminole High Schools' student population is the goal of this parent group.

Protests in China may ignite social unrest

By DAVID R. SCHWEISBERG

BEIJING — The renewed pro-democracy student protests in China, as yet smaller than demonstrations that convulsed the nation two years ago, nonetheless pose a greater dilemma for its leaders because of danger they could ignite broad social unrest.

The protests come at a time of discontent among both Chinese young people unhappy with political repression and most adults upset by the economic and social crisis plaguing the country, even though it is the younger generation that is demonstrating in the streets.

Problems in China's otherwise popular market-oriented economic reforms have left inflation at a record 30 percent, official corruption rampant and a wider gap between rich and poor. Strikes and other economic protests have increased in the past year.

With few outlets for tension, political protest provides both a means to let off steam and entertainment for the thousands of youths who show up as spectators.

By Wednesday, students began to call on workers to join them in demanding a more responsive government and authorities in Beijing announced regulations intended to restrict the protests.

Although Chinese leaders have allowed the rare public protests to swell for days unimpeded, they face a delicate problem: Do they risk the public being swept up in the unrest or crack down swiftly and risk showing fear?

Ironically, their flexibility is limited by the man they sacrificed in January 1987: Hu Yaobang, whom they ousted after six years as Communist Party chief to take the blame for the nationwide student protests that winter.

Hu's death Saturday of a heart attack evoked an outpouring of grief among students for the most liberal of Chinese leaders. Memorial tributes swiftly blossomed into demands for greater political freedom, which students say Hu symbolized.

Hu was popular among Chinese for his willingness to buck convention, the quality that angered other leaders most. He was the first to shed his Mao jacket for a Western suit and once suggested that Chinese use knives and forks instead of chopsticks.

Mindful of Hu's popularity, authorities will be more reluctant to send riot squads into central Tiananmen Square where, along with protesting students, thousands of Chinese workers, peasants and even government employees have been joining the tributes to Hu.

But they will be almost forced to react should those ordinary Chinese — called the laobaixing, or masses — also join in public challenges to government authority.

Yet the students also could turn into shock troops should Hu become a martyr to aspirations among all Chinese for a freer political climate and a healthier economy.

The danger will not subside after a memorial service for Hu set for Saturday.

Early next month, China will mark the 70th anniversary of the May 4th movement, a nationalistic drive by intellectuals in 1919 for democracy and modernization.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

Democrats circling wagons around Wright

By LEON DANIEL

WASHINGTON — House Democrats are circling their wagons around Speaker Jim Wright for a shootout they know he may not survive.

The bushy-browed Texan will be firmly in command of the defending Democrats in the fight for his political life.

Fainthearts should ride off now because a lot of blood is about to be spilled, not all of it Wright's.

Some observers believe it already is inevitable that Wright will become the first of 48 House speakers to be forced from the job.

Newt Gingrich, the minority whip from Georgia who filed the ethics charges last June, has dubbed Wright "the least ethical speaker in the 20th century."

But it will be difficult for the Republicans to prove in a House controlled by Democrats for 34 years that Wright used his office for financial gain.

Some Republican strategists are touting the ethics issue as one the GOP can use to gain seats in the House.

Other analysts disagree, arguing that it is difficult to make corruption a partisan issue because Americans doubt that ethics is a strong suit of most politicians, regardless of party.

In any case, House Democrats are lining up publicly with Wright for the fight to clear his name and redeem his leadership.

The risk of doing that would seem to be fairly low in view of the current 98 percent reelection rate for congressional incumbents.

But the Democrats know they need an unsullied House speaker as part of a credible leadership base from which a strong nominee can emerge for the 1992 presidential race.

They don't want to be forced to limp along with a House speaker crippled by lingering doubts of his innocence.

They also have reason to worry that Gingrich and his GOP guerrillas in the House may attack Rep. Tony Coelho, the No. 3 Democratic leader.

The Washington Post reported that Coelho profited from junk bonds recorded as bought by his campaign committee, but the Californian contended the record was wrong.

There was an unsurprising early suggestion that Wright step down temporarily until the charges against him are resolved.

It came from Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., an assistant to Gingrich, who uncharacteristically had no immediate comment.

Democratic Rep. Charles Wilson predicted his fellow Texan "will survive" but warned of "a little revenge here and there" from Republicans still smarting from the Democratic-led rejection of Texan John Tower as President Bush's defense secretary.

An amateur boxer as a youth, Wright was staggered by the accusations against him.

Those who know the man who flew combat missions in the South Pacific during World War II expect him to fight hard for vindication.

Wright is genuinely proud of a record of major bills passed in the 100th Congress. That legislation dealt with such issues as trade, welfare and catastrophic health care.

Don't ignore the Alaskan oil-spill crisis

A woman I know just cut up her Exxon card and sent it to the company in little pieces. If I had an Exxon card, I'd do the same thing.

After the company's tanker created the nation's worst oil spill, they showed us what they thought of the earth they profit from so well: They hadn't cared enough to prepare themselves for the disaster that had been predicted since the pipeline was built.

In those first numb days following the spill, after the company had sent bewildered workers to the scene, who ended up standing around waiting for someone to figure out what to do, Exxon was forced to trot out the "disaster plan" it had kept for just such an accident. It was all ropes and mirrors. Part of the "plan" called for asking "volunteers" to help contain a spill such as the one from the Exxon Valdez.

Records Exxon had to file with the state after the disaster said that controlling the spill would require 500,000 gallons of chemical dispersant; when the Exxon Valdez ran aground, the company had only 3,795 gallons.

But we've got bigger problems than Exxon. Most of the safeguards that would have prevented such a catastrophe — and future ones — have been dismantled bit by bit since the late '70s.

Here are some highlights from an Associated Press investigation started immediately after the Exxon Valdez wrecked.

OVERSTREET

The AP report included dozens of interviews with former officials and safety officers, and a study of state records and original contingency proposals:

In 1984, the Coast Guard cut its radar staff in Valdez to 36 from 60 and decreased the distance required for radar monitoring. No one was watching the Exxon Valdez when it crashed into a reef.

In 1982, the Emergency Response Team for the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. — the consortium of eight oil companies in the Prudhoe Bay fields — was disbanded. The team would have had first-response duty for spills, but there was no team and almost no equipment. Spill-fighting equipment on hand was below the minimum required; the barge that was supposed to carry supplies and containment booms was in dry dock.

The oil industry and the Reagan administration ignored a study by top technical specialists that predicted such accidents. The state of Alaska proposed several safeguards, including mandatory tug escorts, extended radar coverage and double-hulled tankers; all proposals went unheeded.

In 1977, Alyeska promised it could airlift within one hour all the oil boom, transfer pumps and floating bladders necessary to collect oil. No one in charge, either in the oil companies or the government, made sure they could. They couldn't.

And then there's our "environment President." Handed the reins after his predecessor pounded through the budget cuts and deregulation that left us naked in the Gulf of Alaska, he let the situation languish for two weeks before offering help to clean up the spill.

To have let the response to the crisis stall and falter as long as it did was unconscionable. Yes, Exxon and Alyeska should pay the expenses. Yes, we should force them to. No, we have no right to stand by idly while an American company destroys a goodly portion of the earth we are fortunate enough to use for a time.

For now, cutting up Exxon cards satisfies. It dulls the stomach ache put there by the cries of dying birds, preening furiously in a race with death. Tomorrow, a punch at the voting booth will be as sweet.

IN BRIEF

Cafe Mendoza opens in Sanford

SANFORD — The Cafe Mendoza, a new business located at 1008 S. French Avenue, had a ribbon cutting on April 18 to commemorate its opening and joining of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Danny and Deena Mendoza own the restaurant, which serves Cuban cuisine for lunch and dinner.

Business hours are 11 a.m.- 3 p.m. (lunch only), and 5-9:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Kowalski named to chamber board

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Timothy P. Kowalski, M. A., C.C.C. and Owen L. Kowalski, M. A., C.C.C., speech-language pathologists at Professional Communication Services, Inc., have been elected to the board of directors for the Asian-American Chamber of Commerce, Orlando.

Kowalski will serve as Vice President of the Chamber and Owen L. Kowalski as a representative for the Chamber to the United States of America.

State bar suspends attorney

LAKE MARY — The Florida Supreme Court has suspended attorney Mark A. Olewinaki from the practice of law for six months, effective tomorrow, following action taken by The Florida Bar.

If he is reinstated to the practice of law, the attorney will be required to serve a two-year probation period, according to the bar.

Olewinaki, who listed his address as a post office box in Lake Mary, was found guilty of violating several attorney disciplinary rules in five cases.

According to the bar, the violations included using money from his trust account for other than the purposes for which it was entrusted to him; neglecting a legal matter and related violations; failing to pay funds to a client; improper trust accounting and recordkeeping; engaging in conduct that adversely reflects on his fitness to practice law; practicing law when it violates the regulations of the jurisdiction; violating disciplinary rules or inducing another to do so; engaging in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit or misrepresentation; engaging in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice and damaging clients during the course of the professional relationship.

GTE buys Vision Technology

TAMPA — GTE Information Services Inc. has purchased Vision Technology Inc., a small computer software company in Reston, Va. Terms were not disclosed.

GTE Information Services is the Tampa-based subsidiary of GTE Corp. Vision Technology makes software for law enforcement agencies, spokesman John G. Clemons said Monday.

Clemons said Vision's main product is a program called Posee-Vt, which computerizes some administrative duties of law enforcement agencies and provides crime analysis and statistics-gathering. He said GTE plans to market Posee-Vt nationally.

Superior says profits rise 11 percent

SEMINOLE — Superior Surgical Manufacturing Co., a maker of uniforms and accessories, said Tuesday its first quarter earnings rose 11 percent from year-ago levels.

Income for the quarter ended March 31 was $1.38 million, or 80 cents per share, compared with $1.23 million, or 50 cents per share, for the same period a year ago. Revenues rose 5 percent to $27.6 million from $26.3 million a year ago, the company said.

"The growth in sales and net earnings gives us confidence in projecting another record sales year in 1989 and an earnings performance greater than our sales gain," Chairman Gerald M. Benstock said in a statement.

First Florida Bank income rises

TAMPA — First Florida Banks Inc. said Tuesday that loan growth, an higher net interest margin and higher non-interest income led to a 12 percent increase in first-quarter income.

Income for the quarter ending March 31 rose to $12.9 million, or 81 cents per share, compared with $11.6 million, or 73 cents per share, for the same period last year.

First Florida, which operates 148 banking offices in central Florida and along the state's Gulf coast, said its loan portfolio grew by 12 percent. The bank's non-interest income also rose 12 percent, First Florida said.

Flagler Bank says profits increase

WEST PALM BEACH — Flagler Bank Corp. says that an increase in net interest income helped boost profits in the first quarter by 20 percent. Income was $534,000, or 25 cents per share, compared with $444,000, or 21 cents per share, for the same period a year ago. Net interest income rose to $3.8 million from $3.1 million a year ago. Assets rose 12 percent, to $340 million, from $303.1 million in the year-ago quarter.

Florida students named to team

A team of four junior high school math students has been selected to represent Florida in next month's MATHCOUNTS National Championship in Washington, D.C.

Named to the Florida team were eighth graders Bradon Hunaker of Fort Clarke Middle School in Gainesville, Kiran Musunuru of Berkeley Prep School in New Port Richey, Scott Ruthfield of Plantation Middle School in Sunrise, and Douglas Zare of Pine View Junior High in Sarasota.

They won their spot on the team by achieving the highest score in the state competition. Winning teams will be recognized, but the individual champion will receive a $10,000 scholarship and a personal computer.

MATHCOUNTS is designed to increase the math skills and interest of students and is a cooperative project of the National Society of Professional Engineers, the CNA Insurance Companies, the Cray Research Foundation, the General Motors Foundation, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, NASA and the United States Department of Education.

Care Plus profits nearly double

FORT LAUDERDALE — CarePlus Inc. said Thursday an increase in its medical therapy business led to a 25 percent rise in first quarter profits.

Income for the period ended March 31 was $376,000, or 7 cents per share, up from $301,000, or 6 cents per share, for the same period last year. Sales rose to $8.4 million from $6.8 million a year ago.

Business projects a big image

United Press International

ORLANDO — Drake Wayson is big in the television business because he specializes in big television, selling custom projection video systems to clients like the Navy and United Technologies who need the really big picture.

"When people want to know what we do, the easiest thing for me to ask if they saw the movie 'War Games,'" said Wayson, president of General Projection Systems, a subsidiary of the privately owned M/W Recreation Corp. of Orlando.

"Most everybody says 'Yes,' so then I ask if they remember that wall of videos inside the mountain. That's what we do."

Wall-size television images are accomplished with a technology known as light-valve projection, in which an arc lamp about 20 times brighter than the bulb in a big-screen bar TV shines through oils that make the colors.

The average light-valve system costs more than $100,000 and can exceed $1 million. Consequently, Wayson said, there is a limited market and only about 20 companies competing in it nationwide.

"The type of business we go after is a very special niche of high-end work. If you call it generally the audio-video business then there's almost a glut of companies. But we never intended to get in that business and compete with other A-V houses.

"I don't want to sound cocky," Wayson said. "We don't turn down small systems, but we intentionally avoid things that don't require our expertise as we've developed it over the last few years."

One of the first jobs General Projection had after start up in 1983 was installing a $10,000 classroom video system for Little Rollins College in Winter Park.

Currently the company is working on a $1 million projection system for the Payload Operations Center under construction at Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, from which military space shuttle payloads will be tracked.

Also qualifying as a "high-end" project was the Top Cat simulator the Navy uses to train aircraft carrier flight deck crews. Now in the preconstruction phase is a space station simulator.

The company also has installed systems at Walt Disney World in VIP chambers of Epcot Center pavilions. In United Technologies' Living Seas building, a huge screen and projector descend on cue from the ceiling over a giant conference table.

"Real James Bondish stuff," Wayson said. Frequently, as with the military projects, General Projection is asked by the project's prime contractor, Harris Corp. or McDonnell Douglas Corp., for example, to take over the display technology work.

General Projection's 80 employees do not build any of the equipment it installs. Wayson describes the business as an "integrator of off-the-shelf equipment," making only small hardware changes when necessary.

Wayson declined to discuss sales and profit figures for his "small business" but did say it's growing. The company has installed systems across the country and has begun to bid international projects.

"There aren't a lot of companies getting into it, and the market is not huge," he said. "That's one of things about niching yourself. If you look for a market that's not incredibly large you might end up with $150 million, $250 million a year, which in a lot of company's terms is not enough."

New business

Carlo Omar Farias, owner of Romina's Pizzeria 7 Restaurant, 2475 Airport Blvd., Sanford, tosses dough for a pizza at his new store. Employee Guillermo "Bill" Alzugaray watches. The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce recently scheduled a ribbon cutting ceremony to mark the new business joining the chamber. The store, at West 25th Street, is open seven days a week.

Scotty's reports income increase in third-quarter

United Press International

WINTER HAVEN — Scotty's Inc., the hardware and home improvement company, reported a 10.6 percent increase in net income for the third quarter that ended April 1.

Net income for the period was $3.37 million, or 23 cents per share, compared to a net income of $3.05 million, or 21 cents per share, for the same period last year.

Sales were $149.1 million, up 8.6 percent from $137.3 million for the third quarter last year. Chairman P. Scott Linder attributed the increase to improved service.

Linder said third quarter gross margins slipped because of a change in accounting methods. The company also benefited from larger gains on the sales of real estate and lower tax rates.

For the nine months, net income after first quarter pretax restructuring reserves of $7.28 million amounted to $1.37 million or 9 cents per share. A year ago, the company reported that net income before the cumulative effect of accounting changes amounted to $7.87 million, or 54 cents per share, and net income after the impact of the accounting changes was $14.2 million or 97 cents per share.

High court ruling to aid local government

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, in what could be a major boon for local governments, has ruled that states may recover costs passed on to them in illegal price-fixing conspiracies.

The court, in a 7-0 ruling last week by Justice Byron White, reversed a ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that barred states that were indirect purchasers of products from using their laws to collect damages in antitrust actions.

The case was brought to the high court by California, Minnesota, Alabama and Arizona of a ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

White said the court of appeals "erred in holding that the state indirect purchaser statutes are pre-empted (by federal laws). There is no claim that the federal antitrust laws expressly preempt state laws permitting indirect purchaser recovery."

Justices John Paul Stevens and Sandra Day O'Connor took no part in the ruling.

The lower court had ruled in May 1987 that the four states were not entitled to share in a multimillion-dollar settlement in a cement price fixing conspiracy because they had not purchased cement directly from the defendants.

While the case involved a technical point of law, its ramifications for state treasuries could be enormous. At issue was the constitutionality of state laws allowing "indirect purchasers" to recover damages from antitrust defendants.

State and local government agencies spend millions of dollars each year on products used in public works projects, ranging from cement to steel. To protect themselves from being overcharged on such items, at least 18 states have passed laws allowing them to collect damages from the antitrust violator, even when the purchase was made through a middleman.

A 1977 Supreme Court ruling involving federal antitrust laws held that only direct purchasers may recover such damages. However, the court said Tuesday that case, and others, dealt with federal law and nothing in the ruling "suggests that it would be contrary to congressional purposes for states to allow indirect purchasers to recover under their own antitrust laws."

In legal briefs written on behalf of the four states in the antitrust case, the California attorney general argued the lower court decision, if allowed to stand, would make it impossible for states to protect citizens "from demonstrable injuries arising from anti-competitive conduct."

"Here, a national price-fixing conspiracy was uncovered and first challenged by state antitrust authorities. ... Yet because of the 9th Circuit's decision, states will recover none of the overcharges they paid for massive indirect purchases of cement," he said.

"When state law enforcement officials are called upon in the future to decide where limited investigative resources will be committed, they will be hard-put to justify substantial expenditures to investigate many conspiracies because state taxpayers may not recover anything," he added.

The case stems from 35 separate lawsuits filed in 1976 and 1977 against National Cement Co., Alpha Portland Industries and other cement manufacturers alleging a nationwide conspiracy to fix cement prices.

Four of the suits were filed by California, Minnesota, Alabama and Arizona representing governmental agencies within their states that had purchased cement or cement products.

Ultimately, all the cases were consolidated and the participants in the conspiracy agreed to a settlement fund in excess of $32 million.

But in subsequent proceedings involving distribution of the funds, litigants who had purchased cement directly from the defendants successfully challenged the states' rights to be compensated for their indirect purchases of cement.

Twenty other states, the District of Columbia and the federal government sided with the four states in urging the court to uphold indirect purchaser laws.

Health care costs expected to rise 3% by 2000

United Press International

NEW YORK — Americans spent $1,900 per capita on health care expenses in 1987, up from $500 in 1970, and the annual bill will almost triple by the year 2000, the Conference board has reported.

Per-capita health care expenditures are expected to grow to $6,000 over the next 11 years, the board said, and the total U.S. bill will top $1.5 trillion.

The Conference Board's study on health care reported that only a quarter of these expenditures were paid by patients. The remaining balance was paid by federal and local insurers.

"U.S. consumers have shown little interest in slowing the rising costs of health care," the board said. "Most have been insulated from the true cost of their health bills, since private insurance companies or government-funded programs have paid most or all of the cost."

Payments in 1987 by Medicare and Medicaid were $83 billion and $52 billion, respectively. The board said these numbers are expected to rise to $321 billion and $138 billion by 2000.

"Health care costs are expected to account for 15 percent of gross national product in the year 2000, up 3 percent from current levels," said Eva Culen, an economist for the Conference Board.

She said several factors will be responsible for the rise, including the quality and quantity of health benefits provided, advanced medical technology and the growing number of elderly people who are large users of health care.

The board listed proposals to reform the U.S. health care system, including the introduction of a basic national medical insurance or a government-funded program, similar to the current system in Canada.

IN BRIEF

Impotence treatment seminar Monday

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — New developments in the treatment of impotence will be the topic of the next Impotents Anonymous meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the Challos Conference Center at Florida Hospital, Altamonte. Dr. Michael Friedman and Pedro Bachrach will speak.

Doctors attend family practice meeting

Several are physicians attended the 51st Family Practice Weekend at Coral Gables April 6-9. The program was to update the knowledge and skill of family practitioners in a wide range of topics including acute wounds, burns and abrasions, research findings in miscarriage, headache, food allergy, attention deficit disorders, and epilepsy.

Doctors from this area who attended the seminar included: Ken Fraser of Lake Mary, George A. Pyke of Longwood, George H. Culpepper of Fern Park, Clyde K. Meade of Deltona, and Humberto A. Dominguez of DeBary.

Stress management seminar Wednesday

LONGWOOD — A free educational seminar is scheduled for 7-9 p.m. Wednesday at West Lake Hospital, 509 W. State Road 434, Longwood.

Phyllis Phipps, R.N.C., a certified psychiatric and mental health nurse in private practice in Winter Park, will be the featured speaker. Seating at the seminar is limited.

Cancer awareness program today

ORLANDO — The third annual Cancer Awareness Health Fair at Orlando Regional Medical Center will be held from 10 to 5 p.m. today at the hospital's Radiation Oncology Center, 50 W. Sturtevant St.

Physicians and other health care professionals will be available to answer questions on cancer risk factors and give advice on prevention tips and early detection methods. The fair will also include demonstrations and displays on dietary guidelines, pediatric oncology, cancers of the skin, lung, breast and colorectal and OB/GYN cancers, and new methods of fighting cancer.

AMI Medical Center accredited

ORLANDO — AMI Medical Center Orlando has received a three-year accreditation certificate from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations, the highest accreditation awarded to a hospital.

AMI, located at 1800 Mercy Drive, is a 153-bed acute health care facility of American Medical International which recently completed at $20 million expansion and renovation project.

Exercise can help arthritics function

SANFORD — The last of a series of free seminars for arthritics, this one focusing on exercise, will be presented from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Joe Flaherty, a registered physical therapist at the hospital, will talk about how the right kind of exercise can maintain and increase the range of motion in arthritic limbs, and maintain and increase strength.

Flaherty said he plans to talk about what types of devices can be used by arthritics to exercise at home.

One example, he said, is a pulley system, using ropes and weights. Another is wrapping a rope around a dowel or some other device, and attaching a weight to the rope. The arthritic can then roll the weighted rope on the dowel. Another type of exercise at home, is said, is used rubber tubing or bands which can be purchased, and will offer resistance to movement of a joint.

Flaherty will also offer advice on what type of purchased equipment, such as exercise bicycles or rowing machines, are good for arthritics, and which may be inappropriate, or even harmful.

He will also explain why exercising certain ball-and-socket joints, such as the shoulder or hip, can only be carried so far by an individual. At some point, professional help will be needed to continue to increase movement and strength, he said.

Flaherty said the best thing a physical therapist can do for an arthritic is to design an exercise program the person can use at home. However, he said a general exercise program won't be good for every arthritic.

Joe Flaherty, physical therapist, demonstrates how a piece of rope and a weight can be used to exercise arthritic wrists, hands and forearms.

Cancer treatment news

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A new genetic screening technique may lead to better treatment of cancer of the colon and rectum — the second leading cause of cancer death in the United States, doctors say.

A team from Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore and University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake City examined the loss or mutation of genetic material in the cells of 56 colorectal tumors removed during surgery. Reporting in the Journal

Science, the researchers said they found patients whose tumors displayed greater-than-average loss of genetic material "had a considerably worse prognosis than did the other patients, although the size and stage of the tumors were very similar in the two groups."

The American Cancer Society estimates 61,300 Americans will die of cancer of the colon or rectum in 1989 — second only to lung cancer. The five-year survival rate for colorectal cancer is generally about 50 percent.

SANFORD — Dr. Rias Mazcuri will talk about "Treating the Whole Patient" at a 7 p.m. Thursday meeting of the support group for impotents. The program will be at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Dr. Mazcuri will discuss the psychological aspects of relationships, problems with intimacy and closeness, as well as conflicts, in the context of sexual dysfunction situations.

He will also discuss specific exercises which are prescribed in some instances for couples to better focus on heightened sensory awareness to touch, sight, sound and smell.

Also to be noted are the results of medication, excess weight, fatigue and stress on impotence, as well as alcohol intake, particularly while under medication.

Dr. Mazcuri will also talk about interpersonal communication.

to abortion. The 1988 Missouri abortion law includes a variety of provisions that range from declaring life begins at conception and that "unborn children have protectable interests in life, health and well-being" to provisions banning the use of state funds, employees or public facilities for abortions.

The law also requires that doctors, before performing an abortion on any woman who a doctor has reason to believe is 20 or more weeks pregnant, perform tests to determine the viability of the fetus.

Doctors, nurses and two non-profit corporations challenged the constitutionality of the law. A federal district court struck down the provisions and the appeals court concurred.

The appeals court held that the provisions of the law were unconstitutional and designed to erect obstacles "in the path of women seeking full and uncensored medical advice about alternatives to childbirth."

The court also said the ban on the use of public facilities for abortions goes beyond Supreme Court rulings.

The appeals court said there "is a fundamental difference between providing direct funding to effect the abortion decision and allowing staff physicians to perform abortions at an existing publicly owned hospital."

Seeking high court review, Missouri argued that the appeals court's analysis "expands this court's precedents in favor of abortion on demand, further contracts the state's compelling interest in the life of viable unborn children, and disregards this court's holdings that abortion is a private matter which government need in no way subsidize."

Missouri also said that if its law is unconstitutional, "Roe vs. Wade should itself be reconsidered." And the federal government, in a controversial friend-of-the-court brief, urged the court to overturn Roe.

"The court's decision in Roe vs. Wade rests upon two key premises — that there is a fundamental right to abortion and that the states do not have a compelling interest in protecting prenatal human life throughout pregnancy," the government said. "Neither premise, however, is supportable."

The government called on the court to return the power to regulate abortion to the states, where it rested before Roe.

Arguing against review, those who originated the suit said that "turning back the clock 15 years to a time when the states were free to criminalize abortion would reinstate the untold misery and deaths of thousands of women from illegal operations and reverse startling improvements which the legalization of abortion has made in both maternal and infant mortality and morbidity."

"Legal, safe abortion is a choice now exercised by one of every four pregnant women in the United States, including half a million teenagers, women seeking to break the cycle of poverty through control of their own reproduction and family size, victims of rape, incest, AIDS, and drug abuse, and women whose fetuses are afflicted with serious genetic and congenital disorders."

The importance of the Missouri case has not been missed by either side of the debate.

On April 9, some 300,000 men, women and children marched in Washington in support of a woman's right to choose an abortion in contrast to the annual anti-abortion marches held on the anniversary of Roe that have drawn far fewer.

Many groups including doctors, lawyers, religious organizations, state legislators, members of Congress and the federal government have also filed legal documents in the case, and the court itself has been inundated with calls and letters on the issue.

Those opposed to abortion view the case as an opportunity to open the door a crack — a crack that anti-abortion state legislators across the country will quickly open wider.

Johnson, of the National Right to Life Committee, said if the Missouri regulations are upheld without Roe being overturned many "state legislatures will pass comparable regulations and stronger restrictions."

Michelman, of NARAL, was in rare agreement, saying that the court's upholding of some restrictions would have a "dramatic effect" in state legislatures and may lead to a backhanded overturning of Roe.

Whatever the result of the case, the battle over abortion will not end. Abortion has been a constitutional right for 16 years and as such cannot easily be undone. There have also been widespread societal changes since 1973 involving the role of women that many see as directly tied to Roe vs. Wade.

Michelman said the campaign waged against abortion goes to the heart of equality and freedom for women, that Roe has been the foundation for personal decisions and options for women.

"What they're trying to do is dismantle that foundation layer by layer," she said. "To strip away a woman's right to choose abortion, strip away her right to have birth control. Then you're getting at the layers of opportunity that women have. Economically, socially, politically, educationally, career-wise. That is what the issue is all about."

She said a reversal of Roe would be the "galvanizing political issue of our decade" and predicted "political and social chaos across the country."

BOOK REVIEWS

Whitehead tells Baby M story

A Mother's Story
By Mary Beth Whitehead and Loretta Schwartz-Nobel
(St. Martin's, 220 pp., $17.95)

"A Mother's Story" is Mary Beth Whitehead's chance to tell her side of the notorious "Baby M" custody case.

She won the battle when the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled that surrogate mother contracts violate the state's laws against selling children. But she lost custody because her daughter, then 2, had been living with her father, William Stern, and his wife, Elizabeth, since the age of 4 months.

The case pitted a professional couple with three doctorates between them against a fiercely traditional housewife, a high school dropout who had to cope with two toddlers and an alcoholic husband before she was out of her teens. It brought out one of the dilemmas of the women's movement, that many women with high-powered jobs and incomes depend on ill-educated and poorly paid women to clean their homes, cook their meals and raise their children.

Whitehead's book, written with a Pennsylvania investigative reporter, explains why she changed her mind about surrogacy and fought for her daughter through a trial that exposed her and her family to the world. It may change some minds about the business of surrogacy.

Goldwyn: A Biography
By A. Scott Berg
(Knopf, 675 pp., $24.95)

The life of Samuel Goldwyn, one of the founders of Hollywood and pioneers of motion pictures, was as much a "Samuel Goldwyn production" as any of the movies he helped bring to the screen.

He was born Schmul Gelbfisz in Warsaw, Poland, but after emigrating to America in 1899 changed his name first to Goldfish and then Goldwyn. Biographer A. Scott Berg says records show his birth was "probably in July 1879" but Goldwyn in later years always swore his birthday was Aug. 27, 1882.

The uncertainty of even basic facts gets to the core of the problem in understanding Goldwyn. After becoming rich he tried to distance himself from his youth. In fact, he groomed himself to the point where he literally re-invented himself.

Along the way he helped pioneer silent pictures and found or built Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer — the company he also took his name from — and had a hand in bringing to the screen many memorable movies. He helped create hits including "Dodsworth," "Stella Dallas," "Wuthering Heights" and "The Best Years of Our Lives."

But behind every smash picture there were monumental battles with actors, directors and writers.

Goldwyn tried to produce quality pictures and surrounded himself with quality talent. But somehow he never seemed to fit in. This book recounts his many losses, as well as the victories and awards he won.

Juice
By Robert Campbell
(Poseidon, 254 pp., $18.95)

Move over, Elmore Leonard. From now on, you'll have to share top billing with Robert Campbell in setting the standards by which U.S. crime novels are measured.

All of the preliminary indications were that Campbell was a comer. He won an Edgar Award with his recurring Jimmy Flannery character and excited readers with a series of other quality offerings.

But "Juice" represents a clear breakthrough novel for the California author once nominated for an Academy Award for his screenplay of "The Man of a Thousand Faces." It is a novel that, like Leonard's best, crosses the boundaries of traditional crime books.

In "Juice," Campbell captures a segment of society — the bookmaking, shylocking, loansharking world of juice — and portrays it with a series of memorable, colorful characters who combine to provide the reader with a highly entertaining slice of life on the dark side.

The result is masterful.

Geek Love
By Katherine Dunn
(Knopf, 348 pp., $19.95)

A "geek," the dictionary says, is a carnival performer whose act is particularly disgusting and morbid. The example used in this unsettling novel by Katherine Dunn is the performer who bites the heads off chickens.

But Dunn's story is not about that performer. It is about a family crippled by physical deformities, about different kinds of love, and about the power of love and hate. It also is about fear.

Al and Lil Binewski run a traveling carnival known as the Fabulon that comes on hard times. Al has decided to people the carnival with strange creatures by breeding them. The couple begets a collection of children including a boy named Arturo with flippers instead of arms and legs, a hunchback dwarf and another boy who seems "normal" at first but turns out to have a wondrous gift.

The dwarf, Olympia, tells the tale, much of it in flashbacks, about what has happened to the Fabulon, and about her daughter, who has a slight freakishness that leads her into danger.

Arturo, also known as the Aqua Boy, becomes a cult figure for masses of disaffected believers who see themselves as outcasts. The Aqua Boy becomes the geek of Dunn's story, luring his followers into accepting and even desiring a morbid fate.

Dunn challenges the reader's perceptions of abnormality and normality. "Geek Love" is a bizarre story that will shock, but it also amuses and saddens because this strange family may not be so strange at all.

Papers

Anadarko Daily News in Oklahoma, puts it, readers are still more interested in "a dead dog across the road than a dead man halfway around the world."

Suburban papers are feeding the appetite for local news, right down to births, deaths and graduations.

"You can talk about all the problems overseas but when your children are being killed in alcohol-related accidents and there are drugs in your schools and floods in your basement, that's what you're concerned about," said Steve Barnaby, managing editor of 12 newspapers in suburban Detroit.

Local coverage takes many forms. In Washington, the Yakima Herald-Republic runs a list of garage sales on page 1, while the St. Albans Messenger in Vermont devotes whole pages to school events. The Cleveland Plain Dealer has nearly tripled its suburban beat staff.

In North Carolina, The Gaston Gazette began running pictures of babies born at the local hospital, and also added more business and sports reporters, to fight encroachment by The Charlotte Observer.

Improved local coverage complements a strong and enlarged editorial page, the UPI survey found.

"If I could print only two things in the paper, I would print obits and letters to the editor," said Thomas P. Geyer, editor and chief executive officer of the New Haven Register, in Connecticut.

But all stories, local or otherwise, must be written in language readers can understand. Many newspapers are also stressing shorter stories.

"The papers that are going to be successful are those that treat the heavy news short and concise," predicted Ken Brown, marketing consultant for the Gwinnett Daily News near Atlanta.

Indeed, even the flagship paper of Gwinnett's parent company, The New York Times, has started to change the way it presents, and defines, news.

Times Executive Editor Max Frankel is placing more importance on trend stories in fields as diverse as science and fashion.

The increased coverage of such "soft" subjects causes some journalists to shudder, but editors are quick converts when they see a rise in readership. Publisher Pat Murphy says coverage of non-traditional news helped boost circulation at his fast-growing papers, The Arizona Republic and Phoenix Gazette.

"We do a lot of work in trends, polling work, things that touch people's lives directly — child-parent relationships, marital relationships, employee-employer relationships," he said. "All of those things have been falling through the cracks for years and years with the same old traditional beat structure."

"We still do beat coverage, but we're also looking at things that touch people's lives."

Web Hawkins, publisher of the weekly Osawatomie Graphic in Kansas, thinks newspapers should devote less space to government news.

"My Lord, we're covering county commissioners and city councils and planning boards and so forth," Hawkins said. "We'd be better off if we ran stories that affect people directly, stories on health, insurance costs."

Newspapers with entertainment sections are expanding them. Papers without them are starting them to attract readers,

is this real news? Not everyone is convinced.

"If you look at newspapers today, there's a lot of soft stuff. Everyone wants to be like USA Today," grumbled Jim Shumaker, dean emeritus of the journalism school at the University of North Carolina and the inspiration for the comic strip "Shoe."

Added Gerry Keir, editor of The Honolulu Advertiser, "In my view, the key thing is to stick with a basic diet of hard news and not fool around with a softened edge, which some people have tried to do, not go to a People magazine kind of thing."

The Newspaper Advertising Bureau's Lehman said "soft" news is not new.

"I have a feeling that maybe if we went back and looked at newspapers in the pre-TV era we would find a lot of soft news and entertainment that (some journalists) have forgotten newspapers used to carry," Lehman said. "Newspapers even used to carry fiction."

Some editors said the argument should not be over soft or hard news, but over usefulness, which might mean more graphics, digests and brief items and fewer "jumps." In some cities, it might mean a special Spanish-language edition.

"I think we have to put out more consumer-oriented products," said Jack Butcher, circulation director for the Tampa Tribune.

Otherwise, Butcher and others warn, there will be more people like the young Houston accountant who thinks there is nothing in the paper that affects her directly. "I have enough things to worry about without worrying about the rest of the world," she says.

Poor transplant success rate reportedly linked to genetics

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The poor success rate of kidney transplants among blacks suggests the problem may partly stem from genetic incompatibility between black and white recipients and donors, a leading transplant surgeon says.

Complicated by the scarcity of donors among blacks, the assertion by Dr. Clive Callender, director of Howard University Hospital's transplant center, could be grave news for blacks with end-stage renal disease or kidney failure.

At the recent Second International Symposium on Renal Disease at Howard University, Callender said statistics indicate the success rate for black kidney transplant patients is 10 percent to 20 percent below that of whites.

In the past, some medical experts have blamed the high rate of kidney rejection among black transplant recipients on their failure to follow dietary and medication guidelines.

"Blacks as a group are more diverse in their immunogenetic makeup," Callender said. "The likelihood of compatibility is less."

Although blacks make up 28 percent of all patients treated for kidney disease, Callender said far fewer blacks donate kidneys than whites, even to close relatives. A recent study at the Howard transplant center found only seven of 63 kidneys used in transplants were donated by blacks.

"Since blacks make up a large portion of those needing kidney transplants they should be a part of the solution to the problem," Callender said.

Precedent

and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court, which issued its decision Jan. 22, 1973.

In his opinion for the majority, Justice Harry Blackmun, still on the court today, wrote a long history of the legality and acceptance of abortion, from the ancient Persian Empire to the late 20th century. He noted various laws making all abortions a criminal activity, a criminal activity only after the fetus was considered viable, and even no crime at all.

He said the laws banning abortion, mostly enacted in the latter part of the 19th century, appeared to have three aims — to discourage illicit sexual conduct, protect the mother from what was then a life-threatening procedure, and to protect the fetus.

Blackmun said that in 1840 only eight states had statutes dealing with abortion. His historical review also showed debate over whether the fetus is a living being predates Christ.

Nonetheless, Blackmun wrote that while the Constitution does not "explicitly mention any right of privacy," the court (dating back to the 1890s) has recognized that a right of personal privacy, or a guarantee of certain areas of zones of privacy, does exist under the Constitution.

"This right of privacy ... is broad enough to encompass a woman's decision whether or not to terminate her pregnancy," he said in the opinion joined by Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices William Brennan, William Douglas, Lewis Powell, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall. Only Justices William Rehnquist and Byron White dissented.

The ruling said that abortion decisions in the first trimester are between a woman and her doctor. In the second trimester states can regulate abortion but only to protect the health of the woman. Once the fetus is viable, a period the court said occurs between 24 to 28 weeks, states can more severely limit or ban abortions.

Since then, more than a dozen abortion-related cases have come to the court and the court has upheld its original decision, while allowing some restrictions.
