Officer under investigation

SANFORD — An internal investigation is being conducted by Sanford Police officials into an incident involving officer Victor Burns, who heads the DVARE program and is a reserve officer at Crooms School of Home.

Det. Dennis Whitmeyer refused to give details of the case citing confidentiality but he did confirm an investigation is being conducted. Asked if the case involved Burns allegedly "toughing up a kid," Whitmeyer responded, "No comment."

Whitmeyer said Burns was not suspended but took a vacation beginning June 15. Whitmeyer said the investigation will be completed in two or three weeks.

In August, Burns will mark five years with the Sanford Police Department.

Chief Ralph Russell is on vacation and unavailable for comment on the case.

Endeavour in pursuit of satellite

CANAVERRAL — The space shuttle Endeavour ducked through clouds and raced into orbit today to retrieve a European science satellite filled with an assortment of experiments.

The 4.5 million pound shuttle soared from its second pad with six astronauts at 9:02 a.m. EDT. This time the weather cooperated. Low thick clouds ruined the first launch attempt on Sunday.

Shuttle commander Ronald Garcia was anxious to be on his way. "We're going to be out today," he insisted before liftoff.

Besides the satellite, technicians and capture the mission features a practice spacewalk and the opening of the world's first commercial laboratory.

Endeavour safely reached orbit 88 minutes into the flight as planned. The flight was 22 seconds late in getting into orbit because of a problem with a sensor in an engine on the launch pad.

The NASA's 26th shuttle flight and the fourth for Endeavour. The eight-day mission is scheduled to end June 29 with a Kennedy Space Center landing.

Second rollover boosts jackpot

LAKELAND — Florida's Lotto game has rolled over again, boosting the jackpot to an estimated $34 million — a figure high enough to generate some excitement about the game, lottery officials said Sunday.

The $16 million jackpot that went unwon in Saturday night's drawing of the numbers 1-12-29-37-46-48 was used to fund by rollover from the week before, when the grand prize was paid at $7 million.

A $31 million jackpot will stir up some excitement for the Lotto game, said Lottery Secretary Marcia Mann. It's going to be a fun week for our players.

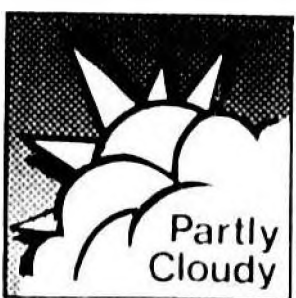

There were still several hundred thousand winners from last week's game, including those holding the 2,891 tickets that have five of the six numbers and are worth $1,676 each; there are 42,714 four of six tickets, winning $7,479 each; and 244,019 three of six tickets, worth $850 each.

School improvement

Plans submitted to be implemented next year

SANFORD — Although the schools in Seminole County have traditionally performed better than average in many areas, there is always room for improvement.

Each school in the district, working with its school improvement committee, has developed a school improvement plan which will be submitted to the state. The schools will begin to implement the plans next year.

The state expects schools to make improvements in several areas:

- student attendance
- teacher time and training for post secondary education and employment
- student compliance by students at the highest levels nationally and internationally and students are prepared to make well-reasoned, thoughtful and healthy life-long decisions.

Schools provide a learning environment that includes sequential instruction in mathematics, science, reading, writing and the social sciences and appropriate educational material, equipment and pupil-to-teacher ratio.

Communities provide an environment that is drug-free and protects students' health, safety and civil rights.

The schools, district and state ensure professional teachers and staff.

Adult Floridians are literate and have the knowledge and skills needed to compete in a global economy and increase the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

At Seminole High School, the improvement team thought the school needed to put special emphasis on all but the first and last goals.

School officials said they have set a goal that 100 percent of their students will graduate, currently about 94 percent of the seniors receive their diplomas at the end of the school year.

The school will implement several new job training programs as well as the academy of health occupations and the academy of construction careers this year.

They will have set a goal of offering additional course opportunities, a more flexible curriculum schedule and more opportunities for students to earn extra credit in a school year. They will also make plans to more effectively utilize existing educational alternatives for dropouts.

The school plans to ask the school board to waive the current pupil progression plan requirements so they will be able to achieve that goal.

The teachers at the school, the team suggested, need to become better versed in the technological resources available at the school so they can better prepare students for the work place and the global economy they will enter upon graduation.

SANFORD — Sanford Police Chief Ralph Russell has asked the police to remove the police officer from duty because of being several charges of sexual misconduct.

A preliminary hearing was conducted last week and a charge was filed against Officer Gary Brewster of his police certification. Brewster, who is suspended with pay, is awaiting trial in Seminole County Circuit Court on four counts of lewd and lascivious assault on a child and eight counts of engaging in sexual activity with a child. The alleged victim, who was 14 when the encounters began, claims to met Brewster while he was an eighth grade student at Lakeview Middle School.

Personal Fitness classes most popular for over 600 students

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — People who say students oppose the idea of summer school apparently haven't checked out the schedule at Seminole High School.

"When summer classes are held under way, the number of students enrolled at the school is the highest ever," says a school official.

According to assistant principal Bobby Lundquist, who will be in charge of the summer school program, more than 600 students pre-registered for classes. He expects that another 400 to 500 students enroll this morning.

Lundquist said that the final report cards of the year were not received by the students until last Wednesday, so that those students who failed classes have not yet had a chance to register to retake the needed course work.

"I think we'll have quite a few of those students come in on Monday," he said.

Lundquist said the number of students expressing an interest in summer school is already a nearly record-breaking number. With the expected additional registrants on Monday, all previous records should be shattered, he said.

He said that 21 instructors had already been employed for the summer and he expected that

LAKE MARY — Citizens have learned a lesson in how to prevent train whistles from being sounded at night in the city. The matter was discussed Thursday night at the Lake Mary City Commission meeting.

Although City Manager John Litton acknowledges there have been complaints about train whistle noises in the past, this is the first time a petition has been presented, he said.

The petition is signed by 85 residents. The request reads: "We, the residents of Lake Mary, are opposed to the sounding of the train horns between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., particularly through predominantly residential areas."

It continues: "We feel that since there are ordinances in several cities that state there will be no train horns, whistles, etc. blown between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., it is not too much to ask that we be afforded the same courtesy."

According to documents received by the city, the petition was initiated by Theodor Feichtner, who lives on County Club Road, as do 34 other signers.

Feichtner wrote to Litton on June 1, submitting the petition. "We have tried to negotiate and sent several letters to CSX in Jacksonville," he said, "but without getting even an answer."

On behalf of the signers, Feichtner is requesting the

Two found dead of heroin overdose

FORT LAUDERDALE — The bodies of two men, one holding a hypodermic needle, and an unconscious third man were found after they apparently overdosed on heroin, authorities said.

Angela Noll, 31, was looking for her boyfriend, Patrick Gardner, at the Pompano Beach home of Larry Stout when she saw Gardner and another man lying on the floor, the Broward County Sheriff's office said Sunday.

When she got no answer at the door, she climbed through a window and called for help.

Gardner, 36, of Pompano, was pronounced dead at North Broward Medical Center. Stout was found by deputies in the bathroom, still grasping a hypodermic needle in his hand, sheriff's deputies said.

Mike Stillwell, 31, of Pompano Beach was in fair condition Sunday night at the medical center, a nursing supervisor said.

Stillwell told Broward Sheriff's Office detectives that Gardner had provided the heroin. He said it was the second time the three had injected heroin together, the sheriff's office said.

Pilot killed in crash

PENSACOLA — A single-engine airplane crashed into a wooded area at the edge of Pensacola's airport, killing the pilot and slightly injuring a passenger.

Witnesses said the plane dived into the trees inside Pensacola Regional Airport's fence. The National Transportation Safety Board is investigating the wreckage to determine what caused the two-seater plane to lose power Sunday.

Michael B. Jackson, 43, died after being thrown from the aircraft, according to Pensacola Police reports.

The passenger, Greg Sabo, 23, first declined medical treatment then went into shock. He was treated and released at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Sabo said he and Jackson took off from the airport just after midnight for a joyride in Jackson's plane when the accident occurred.

Mother witnesses son's shooting

BROOKSVILLE — A Brooksville woman pleaded with a gunman to spare her son's life as he brandished a rifle on a restaurant patio with fellow diners watching.

"Please, don't shoot my child," Rosabell Blake screamed Saturday as the man aimed a .22-caliber rifle at her 38-year-old son.

Moments later, Rodell Blake died, bleeding from a gunshot wound to the head in back of the restaurant.

Police charged Robert Lewis Johnson, 67, of Brooksville with first-degree murder in the shooting in front of about 20 people on the restaurant's patio. Johnson was being held Sunday without bail at the Hernando County Jail.

Hernando County deputies charged Johnson after he told detectives he drove to the restaurant Saturday looking for Blake, according to a sheriff's report. The reports say Johnson told authorities he meant to scare Blake.

No one could say what prompted the incident.

Rybovich dead at 80

WEST PALM BEACH — John Rybovich Jr., a boat builder and fisherman who had several innovations that made his vessel the Rolle-Royce of fishing boats, died at Good Samaritan Medical Center. He was 80.

Mr. Rybovich and his brothers, Tommy and Emil, made Palm Beach famous with their boats.

Everything that characterizes modern sportfishing boats — from their sleek profiles to the transom door that opens to accommodate big fish to the pedestal fighting chair — were innovations created by Rybovich and Sons boat yard.

Mr. Rybovich is survived by his wife, Kathryn Jordahn Rybovich; one son, John Jordahn Rybovich, of Delray Beach; one daughter, Sally Altizer of High Point, N.C.; two sisters, Ethel Dodge and Mary Irene McLane, both of West Palm Beach; one brother, Emil, of North Palm Beach.

Circus employee drowns in pond

NATICK, Mass. — A circus worker who drowned in a pond had gone into the water to cool off with fellow employees after erecting a circus tent, police said.

Charles Bonner, 31, of Jacksonville, had joined six others of the Clyde Beauty-Cole Bros. Circus for a swim Saturday afternoon in a pond behind a high school.

Police said they received a call around 1:30 p.m. that the man had gone under water. Bonner was declared dead at Metro West Medical Center about two hours later.

"He got in over his head and he probably panicked," said Fire Chief Gene Sabourin.

Girls committing more crimes, but little attention is made to them

By Associated Press

TAMPA — Even though a growing number of girls are committing crimes in Florida, little attention is being paid to them, said participants at a juvenile justice conference.

"Girls who come in contact with the justice system are really one of our most vulnerable groups," said Shirley Thrasher, a researcher from Wayne State University who spoke at the three-day conference. "We have paid virtually no attention to them, as far as who these girls are and what their needs are. Theories of criminology have totally ignored girls."

LaWanda Ravotra coordinates a statewide program designed specifically for troubled girls. She said the state and nation have shown no commitment to understand girls who get into trouble with the law. Few programs are designed to deal with them, she said.

"We're trying to put girls into a male system that doesn't even work for males," Ravotra said.

Juvenile crime statistics show that males still commit the vast majority of offenses, especially violent crimes. More than four times as many juvenile males were arrested in 1991.

But more girls are being arrested. Although juvenile girls tend to be arrested for less serious offenses such as running away, possession of alcohol and truancy, more are being arrested for stealing cars, burglarizing homes, assaulting people and committing murder.

Advocates say the dearth of programs for female offenders may be a factor in two troubling trends.

First, girls are more likely to be incarcerated for running away, truancy or ungovernability because there are few options other than jail.

In 1987, fewer than half the females confined in public training schools and detention centers nationally were there for the most serious category of crimes. Second, girls who commit less serious offenses are not getting the help they need and are going on to more serious trouble, advocates contend.

Pasco-Pinellas Circuit Judge Lynn Tepper said because of the trends she sees in the backgrounds of female offenders, programs should be designed specifically for girls. Female delinquents are more than twice as likely to be the victims of sexual abuse than boys, and for a longer period.

"We have not fully addressed the needs of girls in programs," Tepper said. She said there also is a lack of programs for boys, but "there are more options for boys."

Tepper said she has been working with officials at the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services "trying to establish a commitment program for girls" so that as a judge she can have a place to send troubled girls.

If local folks didn't know better they would think this was Sanford's lakefront around the turn of the century. But it isn't at all. Actually this is a photo of the Clyde Line docks not in Sanford but in Jacksonville just off Bay Street.

Pictured here are the "Fannie Dugan," the "DeBary" and "the Queen of the St. Johns." As river traffic increased during the early 1900s the Clyde Line became the St. Johns River Line and a huge warehouse was built just off Bay Street just about where the present Main Street Bridge now connects downtown Jacksonville with South Jacksonville.

During the summer of 1941, the St. Johns River Line warehouse and docks caught fire on a Sunday morning. Thousands of soldiers from Camp Blanding plus sailors and marines from the Jacksonville Naval Air Station and Cecil Field joined firefighters in preventing

Film to steer troubled youth from prison

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The state Department of Corrections hopes a film featuring inmates talking about life behind bars will steer youngsters on the verge of getting into trouble away from prison life.

The film narrated by inmates tell of the violence and frequent sexual assaults inside the prisons. It tells of the loss of freedom and contact with families.

"A lot of these guys have no heart," one inmate says, adding how he has seen others stabbed over a bar of soap, or in a dispute over a game of checkers.

Bob Macmaster, a Florida Department of Corrections spokesman who is associate producer of the film, said groups that work with troubled kids frequently want to show them what is in store for criminals. But taking children into a prison is risky.

"This isn't meant as entertainment," Macmaster said. "There were no efforts made to embellish it one way or another. This is just strictly the way it is."

There is no blood and gore from a Hollywood production here. But there is some frank discussion about what it takes to survive.

The 30-minute movie was produced by corrections employees. Lee Berger, a 15-year veteran of producing videos for state agencies, and his crew traveled across the state last year to film life in prison and to interview inmates.

Last month, the film won a top award — best-produced film of the year — from the American Correctional Association. Macmaster said the department hopes to distribute the film to schools and community groups across the state.

"A lot of the times we would be walking across the compound with our equipment and the inmates would yell out, 'Tell it straight.'" Berger said. "That's what we've tried to do."

The inmates say plainly that new inmates can expect to be raped or beaten by older, bigger inmates for their new socks and underwear. They can expect to be shaken down for money by inmates who rule the prisons like their personal kingdoms.

The movie shows new inmates getting a litany of instructions on behavior — march in single file, no talking in the dining hall, no yelling. An inmate who breaks the rules is shown being placed in solitary confinement and strip-searched again.

POLICE BRIEFS

Battery/domestic violence charged

Craig A. Lindsey, 28, 800 Van Ness Circle, Longwood, was charged with battery/domestic violence on Saturday by Longwood Police.

Police said that after his wife returned from an outing with other family members, the couple became involved in a verbal altercation, but the argument turned violent when he tried to let the air out of the tires of the family car. Police said he had attempted to choke her and that she was having trouble using her arm which she said had been struck repeatedly.

Police noted that all the phones had been pulled out of the wall at the house.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held without bond.

Two arrested for possession

Brian Paul Lovett, 30, 205 E. 18th St., Sanford and Louis Emidio Giacinti, 23, 24th Place, Sanford, were charged with possession of cocaine by Caselberry Police on Saturday.

Police said they stopped the car driven by Giacinti because he was driving erratically.

A plastic bag of what was later identified as cocaine was found on the front seat of the car. A bag containing more of the substance was also found in Lovett's pocket, police said.

They were taken to the JEP and held on $3,000 bond each.

DUI arrest

Joseph Todd Hurst, 25, 468 1/2 Orange Ave., Longwood, was charged with DUI by Seminole County sheriff's officers Saturday.

Deputies said when they stopped Hurst for driving erratically, they noticed his eyes were watery and bloodshot, his face was flushed, his speech was slurred and his breath had a strong odor of alcohol. He refused to take a breath test, according to the department.

He was taken to the JEP and held on $500 bond.

Argument, stabbing reported

Michael David Trull, 29, 3202 S. Orlando Dr., Apt. 607, Sanford and Acy Hires III, 37, 3291 S. Sanford Ave., Apt. 100, Sanford, were charged with aggravated battery by Sanford Police on Friday.

Police said the two were involved in an argument at the Sanford Courts Apartments when Trull allegedly used a butcher knife to stab Hires.

The two were taken to the JEP where they were each held on $4,000 bond.

Battery leads to arrest

Dennis Wayne Evans, 40, 250 N. 2nd St. Lake Mary, was charged with battery by Lake Mary Police on Friday.

Police said that Evans and his wife had been in a verbal argument when his 23-year-old daughter drove up and joined in the argument.

Police said he struck her across the mouth, causing a bloody lip.

He was taken to the JEP and held on $2,500 bond.

Warrant arrest

Alton Jerome Butts, 23, 1216 W. 13th St., Sanford was charged in connection with a warrant for violating the terms of his probation.

He turned himself in at the JEP where he was held without bond.

Longwood considers ordinance

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A city charter amendment making the police department less vulnerable to being dissolved will be considered by Longwood City Commissioners tonight. The first step in the process, an ordinance, will be discussed at the commission meeting.

Commissioner Harvey Smerlison is proposing the city charter be amended to provide for a police department along with operation guidelines. The amendment would go before the voters Nov. 3. The city's police department was created under the city code but is not part of the city charter.

In proposing the change, Smerlison explained, it would take a unanimous vote of the city commission to abolish the department. As it stands now the police department, could be abolished by a majority (three of five) vote of the city commission. Three of the five commission seats are up for election in the Nov. 3 election. Candidates have already filed for seats held by Smerlison, Fred Pearl and Rex Anderson. Mayor Paul Lovestrang and Steve Miller are not up for election.

During the last election, voters voted to keep the city police department rather than turn the law enforcement duties over to the county. Lovestrang backed the proposal to do away with the city department. By creating the department in the charter, it would be less vulnerable when the composition of the commission changes.

In other business, the commission will consider a proposal from Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning to spend $12,000 of drug confiscation money to start a teen dance club for area youth. He has proposed the project to help reduce crime and drug activity by providing a fun, supervised place for youth to go. The project geared for 12 to 18 year olds would serve youth from Lyman and Lake Mary high schools and Milwee, Greenwood Lakes and Rock Lake middle schools. About 7,800 students attend the five schools.

Video music at the twice a week chaperoned dances would be provided, according to the proposal. A $3 per person fee would also help pay the expenses such as building rent, insurance, utilities, music and chaperones. The remaining funding would come from confiscation money.

The commissioners will conduct a 6 p.m. work session Monday to review two proposals, a change in the telecommunications utility tax and a solid waste commercial franchise. The regular commission meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of city hall.

Man arrested in son's drowning

By Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH — A man was charged with manslaughter in his 2-year-old son's drowning when he fell off a boat police said his father was racing through a canal.

Chad David Wright was sitting in the back of the 20-foot boat without a life vest on when he fell backward into a canal. His father, David Mankowski, 27, of West Palm Beach, was trying to pass another boat at a high rate of speed, police said.

Palm Beach County Sheriff's Detective John Van Houten said passengers in the other boat saw something go off the back of Mankowski's boat.

Longwood agenda

The following is the agenda for the Monday meeting of the Longwood City Commission. A work session precedes the regular meeting.

- Work session
  1. Call to order.
  2. Review proposed exclusive solid waste commercial franchise.
  3. Review proposed change to telecommunications utility tax.
  4. Adjourn.

Controversial cash seizures head for congressional hearing

By Associated Press

DELAND — Volusia County Sheriff Bob Vogel's cash-seizure tactics along Interstate 95 will come under congressional scrutiny on police abuses.

Vogel has described the seizures as a needed weapon in the war against drugs, but critics say it is racial and unconstitutional.

U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., convened the hearings scheduled to begin Tuesday after an investigation by The Orlando Sentinel found that Vogel's deputies had used the state seizure law to take money from hundreds of drivers, although they made an arrest in only one of every four cases.

Conyers, chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, has made it clear he believes Vogel's five-man drug squad exceeded its authority by seizing more than $8 million from motorists along I-95 since 1989.

More than 90 percent of those whose money was taken, but who were not charged with a crime, were black or Hispanic. All were accused in sworn affidavits of being drug couriers.

Friday, a black woman from Charleston, S.C., sued Vogel in the first class-action racial discrimination lawsuit in the nation against seizures.

Saturday, Vogel told a news conference that his agency will continue the policy of seizing money that officers believe may be involved in drug trafficking.

"These members of our department are out there courageously fighting the drug war," he said. "I am very proud of the members of that team."

Better property use at airport

The Airport Authority at the Central Florida Regional Airport has taken initial steps which may lead to better property use. The Jett Aire Corporation has been approved for a new facility to be located at the northern side of the airfield. Vehicular access to Jett Aire will be from S.R. 46.

That portion of the airport property has never been developed, even while the field was used as a military base. There is a great deal of land available however, and we hope Jett Aire's move may give other companies the incentive to look at the possibilities of operations in that area as well.

Sanford cannot compete with Orlando or Daytona Beach in major commercial airline passenger flights. It must undertake a different approach.

Sanford is an excellent location for support operations such as maintenance and overhaul, charter flights, cargo flights and flight training.

The move of Jett Aire is not expected to cause any large scale traffic problems on S.R. 46. Aviation director Steve Cooke however, predicts it will become the best corporate jet facility in Central Florida, and one of the best in the nation.

Planning such as this will help bring additional revenue into Sanford in many ways. It will also help in publicizing the city through aviation contacts elsewhere.

We commend the Airport Authority and officials of Jett Aire for this new move and hope it leads to future progress for Sanford and the surrounding area.

But not everyone agrees

There are people who are concerned that any increase in aviation operations at the airport will result in more noise. Several months ago, Lake Mary residents formed a study group from various communities, concerned with the flight path approaching from the west.

Many aircraft fly over Heathrow and other residential areas, using the east-west runway. The committee was formed after several residents complained about an increase in aircraft noise.

Closer to the airport, there are other worries. Some residents of the Midway community are concerned that the airport may eventually try to expand and take over their property. This was brought out at a recent meeting in Midway.

Another meeting, open to the public, is scheduled for Tuesday, June 22 at Sanford City Hall.

Members of Seminole County's Land Use Study group, Airport Authority officials, and representatives from Sanford and Lake Mary will be in attendance.

The airport has been in existence since the 1940s. It was there when many local residents purchased their homes. Did they think the airport would become stagnant and never grow?

If there is a question or a problem about the airport, attend the meeting.

We believe people should take the time and make an effort to learn of plans for the airport.

The Central Florida Regional Airport exists, and has outstanding potential. This has been a known fact for years.

Now that progress is being made, this is not the time to start a battle against expansion and growth.

Balkanizing the First Amendment

Largely unnoticed in the recent clashes between black and white students over free speech rights at the University of Pennsylvania was a fundamental conflict between two groups of lawyers — one white and the other black. The First Amendment issues raised go well beyond the University of Pennsylvania.

Sixteen members of the university's law school wrote an open letter to university President Sheldon Hackney concerning the confiscation of a day's run of the student newspaper, The Daily Pennsylvanian — 14,200 copies — by black students who consider the paper racist.

One of the law professors told me he could not recall that many members of the law faculty ever before publicly chastising a president of the university — a president, moreover, who had just been nominated by the president of the United States to be head of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The letter to Hackney began by stating that "the removal of the newspaper ... was a direct denial of the principle which is most basic to the university. It was conduct which cannot be excused or tolerated. The fact that the newspapers were confiscated as an act of protest cannot excuse it or make it any less intolerable. Those who disagree, of course, are entitled to protest, but not by attempting to silence those with whom they disagree."

Hackney had responded to the destruction of the newspaper by not condoning the act, but he also did not condemn it. Instead he said, in a pass at even-handedness, that "two important university values — diversity and open expression — seem to be in conflict."

The law professors would have none of that: "The important university values of diversity and open expression were not in conflict here. The offensive columns in no way prevented the university from carrying out its policy of diversity and its many programs to promote understanding. Removal of the newspapers struck at the very heart of the most fundamental diversity which the university should foster — diversity of thought, views and expression."

An open letter concerned the confiscation of the student newspaper by black students who consider the paper racist.

There was a dissent. Law professor Ralph Smith, who is black, wrote, "The right to protest injustice and oppression deserves no less protection than the right to publish."

Meanwhile, Sheldon Hackney received another letter. It was from the National Conference of Black Lawyers and was signed by Lorry Brown, president of the Philadelphia chapter.

Among the NCBL arguments is that the material published by the student newspaper was "intended to inflict psychic injuries" on black students. And in a closed campus environment this is not protected speech. Accordingly, its perpetrators cannot hide "behind the First Amendment. Speech that would ordinarily be protected is subject to regulation when the speech invades the privacy of the unwilling listener's home, or when the unwilling listener cannot avoid the message."

If that bold innovation in First Amendment law is ever affirmed by the courts, a huge swath may be cut through all sorts of publications by all sorts of groups claiming to be in "closed environments." Catharine MacKinnon has new allies.

HODDING CARTER

Wavering may ruin Clinton

For five months, I have tried to resist the Washington-based columnist's overwhelming urge to make sweeping pronouncements about the Clinton presidency. Despite a slip here and there, it has been a successful effort. No more. Like every other American citizen I encountered on a recent three-week swing through the South and Southwest, my concerns have overwhelmed my reluctance to rush to premature judgment.

At root, the problem that Bill Clinton has created for himself can be attributed to habitual inconsistency. He won't stay fixed, whether on programs, promises or people. He apparently believes he can square any circle. Policies and nominees alike are offered up and abandoned with head-spinning frequency.

The president is a "New Democrat" one day, an old-fashioned liberal another and, as when he named former Nixon, Ford and Reagan flack David Gergen as White House counselor, Mr. Coalitionist on the third.

When he and his spokesmen announce that they are 100 percent behind an embattled nominee, you can just about bet the bank that the poor esp is through. (If I were a paranoid feminist, I'd wonder why it is that the administration moves with particular speed to abandon women.) The hotter the flame, the quicker the pot is taken off the stove.

The Btu tax on energy was advanced as the absolute bedrock of the president's deficit reduction program. But that was before energy-state Democrats such as Sens. Boren of Oklahoma and Breaux of Louisiana announced their total opposition. When the tax was thrown over the side last week, the White House simultaneously betrayed the House Democrats who had gone out on a long limb to pass the program and undermined the president's credibility. Anything the Senate might devise to raise the money would be all right with him, the president said. This from the man whose presidency's high point was the announcement of an economic game plan fashioned as a comprehensive whole.

Gays in the military? The president has managed to catch hell on both sides of the issue, first by announcing his support for a total change in Pentagon policy, then by capitulating to Sen. Sam Nunn's stubborn insistence that there should be no real change.

Boasia? For weeks there seemed to be a policy de jour. Now there is silence. The Lord forbid that a diplomatic historian should ever try to make sense out of the twists and turns which led the administration deep into a desert of incoherence and retreat. It did not seem possible that anyone could make the Europeans look like models of clarity and purpose when it came to the former Yugoslavia, but the president has almost pulled it off.

Health care was supposed to be the other pillar of the Clinton presidency's first year.

along with deficit reduction, and that is the way it is still presented. But for reasons that defy analysis, the White House has prepared the way for the coming national debate by leaking utterly contradictory ideas week-in and week-out. The result is confusion, rage, fear and incomprehension, not merely among health-care professionals and the insurance industry, but in the general public as well.

While this has not been a comprehensive review, it is illustrative of an administration that talks too much before it is sure of what it wants to do and yields too quickly to forcefully applied pressure.

Washington commentary to the contrary, this is not because of an inadequate or too youthful staff. The president's circle included a number of experienced hands well before the Gergen appointment. His Cabinet is on average quite a bit older than John Kennedy's. When Bill Moyers was named Lyndon Johnson's press secretary, he was still in his 20s, three years younger than George Stephanopoulos.

No, the responsibility is centrally and squarely the president's. Therein lies the hard truth, but also the prospect for solution. Bill Clinton remains, as always, an extraordinarily intelligent, resourceful and decent man. He has stared into the abyss before, pulled back and gone on to success. It is not too late for him to do it again.

But the hour is very, very late. Most of his supporters that I met recently in North Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas, New Mexico and Texas are on the brink of changing their minds about Bill Clinton, perhaps for good. They were as one in saying that they are entitled to far more clarity and consistency from the White House. Not one was demanding Bill Clinton be a miracle-maker. All believed that the president owes them credible, steady commitment to principles and programs that they can understand and that offer hope of gradual improvement in the national condition.

What the people neither need nor want are more town meetings, presidential seminars and eloquent promises. What they do want from the president is a demonstrated willingness to set and then stay the course.

He won't stay fixed, whether on programs, promises or people.

SARAH OVERSTREET

President Clinton is a fickle suitor

The Clinton administration is starting to look like an awkward, self-conscious suitor. It fishes around for the correct group to date, dropping one constituency after another as it sees a better catch just over the fence. So worried about doing all the right things that it can't act naturally, it does all the wrong things. Yet so euphoric in the flush of all things new and the first stirrings of an infatuation, it suffers from too much endocrine production for good judgment and common sense.

Who but someone so hormonally directed would keep plane-loads full of voters waiting while he got a fancy haircut? What team but one infatuated with its own new power would fire five employees and put in its own people, without so much as a Job Service hearing?

Who but a team so exhausted from re-creating history would think it wouldn't make a press corps guffaw to announce they had "fired" five employees one day, only to say a few days later that they'd only put the employees on "administrative leave" and were still looking into the matter?

But if the Lant Guinter mess doesn't bespeak hormones run amok, nothing does. This is the most bizarre toe-dance I have ever seen in presidential nominations. Based on press accounts of the president's statements, this is a logical reconstruction of the presidential team thinking:

A. "She's absolutely, positively the one for the job. We'll make all kinds of points with the civil rights crowd. We may disagree on some fundamental tenants, but she'll just be carrying out our directives anyway, so it doesn't matter what she thinks."

B. "Uh-oh. It looks like a lot of the Right People really disagree with whatever it is that Lant Guinter thinks, and that could mean we won't win Most Popular Senior Boy. We'll just lay low and see which way the wind's blowing."

C. "Oops, the wind's blowing up a maelstrom. And darnabbit, her writings are so darned obtuse we don't understand them anyway. How can we predict what might happen in a confirmation hearing? Ru-u-u-n-n-nnn!"

The president's 11th-hour confession that he'd just read Guinter's writings and had now decided he couldn't in good conscience support them had about as much spin as a Jack Morris breaking ball.

Can the man not pick a staff that can brief him on a nominee and head him off at the pass before he pitches the horse into the canyon? I'll acknowledge that this was, indeed, one troublesome appointment: Members of the Reagan, Bush and Ford staffs said Guinter's philosophies were on par with some adopted by those Republican administrations. Then on the other side, even moderate Democrats called her a radical who would divide us along racial lines. But is it asking too much that a team headed by honor scholars be able to make a firm decision on a nomination and early? Did they have to come off looking like such favor-seekers?

There are roughly a bazillion voters in America who would like to say to President Clinton right now: Get a grip, and get a staff that can hold on to something, too. Quit wandering around like a dog in a meat market, wondering how everyone will react and whatever will you do if they respond badly. Let the chips fall, for heaven's sake.

It doesn't take a Rhodes scholar to see the effect your waffling and backpedaling have among those who voted for the simple precepts with which you wooed them so well.

It suffers from too much endocrine production for good judgment and common sense.

Whistles

city to pass an ordinance to prohibit the whistles during the night-time hours.

After receiving the petition, Litton requested City Attorney Ned Julian to review case law for discussion.

Julian says it would be possible for the city to enact such an ordinance without the city incurring liability.

The state already has a statute banning whistles from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m., but it is only effective if a municipality or county enacts an ordinance.

"The city might incur liability," Julian had commented in a written report, "if it became aware that the crossing gates, bells, and/or flashing lights were not properly functioning, but failed to take action to provide traffic control until repairs are made, or failed to provide notices to the railroad that repairs were necessary."

He added that the city might also incur problems if it failed to make sure that the proper DOT signage was in place and maintained.

During discussion last night, Commissioner George Duryea commented, "I can see the basis for this petition, but whenever there is a contest between cars and trains, I assure you, trains will be the winners."

"If we try to regulate this," Duryea said, "we may be putting ourselves in jeopardy if no adequate warning is at the crossings." He added, "Let's face it, crossing gates don't always work."

Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore asked if there were not other crossings besides Country Club Road and Lake Mary Blvd., alluded to in Julian's letter.

City Planner Matt West explained there was a private driveway leading to possibly five houses, which crossed the tracks, and did not have a crossing gate.

Police Chief Richard Beary told cause against Brewster will be mailed to him this week, Quick said.

Under the bureau's procedures, Quick said Brewster may request an informal hearing to try to keep his certification or voluntarily give up his certification.

If Brewster disputes the hearing officers' findings and wants a hearing, Quick said the group is expected to meet again in Tampa near the end of July.

the commission that he had surveyed the situation. "I found several cities, mostly in South Florida where they have made these changes," he said, "but several of them have already repealed the matter."

Beary recommended the city obtain data from other municipal agencies and talk with railroad officials about the situation. "I, like you," he said, "am seriously concerned about liability."

Commissioner Gary Brender agreed that additional information should be obtained. "We should especially try to find out why some cities repealed their ordinances," he said.

Her car was shoved backward by the impact of the collision and smashed into the 1986 Plymouth that was traveling behind her. The driver of that car, Donald Carl Anderson, 63, of Oak Hill and his wife, Evelyn J. Anderson, 58, were also killed in the crash.

Timothy Corbitt, a passenger in the car driven by Vicki Corbitt, was seriously injured, and is listed in serious, but stable condition at Halifax Medical Center this morning.

The Anderson's grand-children, Michael C. Guthrie, 5, and Katie J. Guthrie, 3, both of Sanford, were passengers in their car, but received only minor injuries, according to the highway patrol.

California man claims to be half brother of Bill Clinton

By Associated Press

APPLE VALLEY, Calif. — Henry Leon Ritzenthaler loves junk food and has blue eyes with bags, but said Sunday he never thought much about politics — until his mother told him President Clinton was his long-lost half-brother.

Ritzenthaler, 55, of Paradise, said he was told last June that he was Clinton's half-brother. His mother, Adele Coffelt, said she was married at age 17 to William Blythe, the president's father.

The couple divorced a year later, but visited several times afterward and a child was conceived on one of those visits, Mrs. Coffelt told The Washington Post.

Henry Leon was born in Austin, Texas, on Jan. 17, 1938. His birth certificate lists Blythe as his father.

A few years later, his mother married Charles Ritzenthaler, who adopted the boy. Blythe married Virginia Casady and their son, William J. Blythe IV, was born Aug. 19, 1948.

Blythe was killed in a car crash several weeks before their son was born. When the boy was 7, his mother married Roger Clinton, a car dealer, and the family moved to Hot Springs, Ark.

Over the years, Ritzenthaler's mother lost touch with the Blythe family, said Ritzenthaler's daughter, Virginia Gana, 32, of Sheridan, Ark.

It wasn't until Clinton was running for president that a family member told Mrs. Coffelt that Blythe was Clinton's father.

She didn't immediately tell Ritzenthaler, but when she did, "He was in awe," Mrs. Gana said.

The Washington Post spent four months investigating the claim. On Sunday, it printed a copy of a marriage license showing Mrs. Coffelt married Blythe in 1935.

The White House has refused comment on the claims.

Clinton's mother, Virginia Kelley, said she was unaware that Blythe had fathered any other children.

Blythe's sister, Vera Ramey, of Denison, Texas, angrily denied that Blythe was Ritzenthaler's biological father.

"If they want to make a big deal out of it and bring charges, I will be there to testify. That's all I'm going to say," Mrs. Ramey told The Associated Press before hanging up.

Earlier, she told The Post that she believed Ritzenthaler was fathered by another member of the Blythe family.

Ritzenthaler, Mrs. Gana, and several other family members gathered here over the Father's Day weekend to celebrate Mrs. Coffelt's 75th birthday.

After her second husband died, she married Lloyd Coffelt. She refused to speak to reporters

Sunday. Ritzenthaler had a janitorial business before a heart condition forced him to retire. He underwent open heart surgery in 1980 and 1984, and has a speech impediment and hearing loss.

To describe himself, Ritzenthaler, who goes by his middle name, Leon, uses words like "common" and "ordinary."

Ritzenthaler said he wrote Clinton in July 1992 and sent a picture and birth certificate. He received no reply.

Mrs. Gana followed that up four months ago with another letter.

"We don't want to intrude in their lives," said Ritzenthaler, who said he has no other brothers or sisters.

Tall and thin, Ritzenthaler never graduated from high school but did play the trumpet in grade school.

He's a registered Republican, but, "I vote for the man, not the party. I did vote for Clinton, but not because he's my brother."

He notes there are a lot of similarities between himself and Clinton. "He is very emotional and I am very emotional. I have blue eyes and my bags are the same."

He says he wants nothing from Clinton except his father's health records so he can pass them on to his own two children. He noted, however, that doctors told him that his heart problem did not appear to be hereditary.

Officer

Brewster was the school's resource officer between 1987 and 1989. Brewster was suspended with pay shortly before his October 1991 arrest on the sex-related charges.

Lt. Dennis Whitmeyer said he could not comment on the case because Russell initiated the process to remove Brewster's certification. Whitmeyer said Russell is on vacation.

Danny Quick of the Florida Bureau of Standards and Training, officer discipline section said probable cause was found last week to revoke Brewster's certification. He said Brewster has about 30 days to file an answer. The finding of probable cause against Brewster will be mailed to him this week, Quick said.

Under the bureau's procedures, Quick said Brewster may request an informal hearing to try to keep his certification or voluntarily give up his certification.

If Brewster disputes the hearing officers' findings and wants a hearing, Quick said the group is expected to meet again in Tampa near the end of July.

Brewster's case is scheduled for trial June 25 before Seminole Circuit Court Judge Alan Dirkey but will be postponed because several pre-trial motions must be argued and ruled on prior to trial.

available to address citizen concerns. This will be the third in a series of four meetings. The last will be Tuesday, July 20, at Highway Elementary School.

In addition to the study group, the airport's Aviation Director, Steve Cooke, and other officials will be on hand. In addition to representatives of the Seminole County Commission.

In the audience, representatives from Lake Mary and other cities as well as residential areas will be on hand.

According to the Seminole County Comprehensive Planning Division, the public's assistance is needed in order to identify important community issues and goals; establish study area priorities; and determine appropriate land use designations.

The community workshops are intended to provide a process which gives residents and property owners the opportunity to comment on and contribute to the plan for the future development of the airport area.

The meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m., in the commission chambers of the Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Schools

The school hopes to allocate additional money to purchase appropriate textbooks and additional technological equipment over the next few years.

The school has set a goal of having 100 percent of its students pass Algebra I or Applied Math and Chemistry I or Principals of Technology I with a grade of 75 percent or better.

Strong self-esteem for all students has been set as a priority for the schools. Teachers will receive training to help the youngsters achieve that goal. They will also be schooled in management techniques that allow students to use a multimedia approach to plan, and to budget time and money cooperatively to complete a research project.

The school hopes to convert their scheduling to the block method where students study all subjects in a lab-type setting.

The team has suggested that to encourage attendance, the nine-week and semester exams be waived for those students who have only one absence during the grading period. The method was used during the 1986-87 school year and the attendance rate was 97 percent as compared to the current 88.45 percent.

The school will make an effort to make teachers and administrators more aware of the signs of drug abuse and make school resource officers more visible on campus while making the campus more secure.

Seminole plans to contact the parents of students suspected of illegal drug use.

Lake Mary High School hopes to increase the readiness of freshmen to enter the ninth grade by beginning their orientation during middle school with visits from the high school teachers and with an eighth grade issue of the school newspaper.

The school plans to offer applied technology programs and maintain those programs as soon as they get the money to implement the plan.

There are also plans to establish a committee to make recommendations on curricular offerings and they hope to reevaluate advanced placement offerings for the purpose of expanding the total program.

They plan to extend the school day by five minutes and revise the bell schedule to maintain six full 60-minute academic class periods while adding a five minute, televised announcement period each day.

Lake Mary hopes to improve student attendance by having the school board waive the district-wide attendance policy which the team deemed to be "ineffective."

They hope to improve security at the school by limiting access to and from the campus and by asking teachers and administrators to help devise a new campus monitoring system.

They will also ask the county to install signs ad lights on the road in front of the school to indicate a school zone.

The team recommended that the school look into the possibility of instituting a demerit system as a means of making the school a safer place.

One of the goals established by the team was increased student participation in school planning to ensure that the needs of the students are being met.

They have also said they hope to increase the cooperation between the school and businesses in order to enable students to make more informed career choices.

Some of the school improvement plans from the district are detailed, while others only outline the goals the schools have set for themselves.

The school board will review all the plans next month before sending them on to the state Department of Education.

Heathrow Stingrays beat the heat

LAKE MARY HEATHROW

SARABECKA ROSIER

To beat the heat, the Heathrow Stingrays swim teams hit the water.

The teams are divided into two groups of 8 and under and 9 and over. Instructor Ross Bohlsen really works these teams hard. Ross says that they have "competitions between other country clubs in the area such as Interlachen, Islesworth, Tusawilla and the Country Club of Orlando." However Ross said that "the whole point is participation, not the 'gotta win' attitude. I believe that the effort is more important than the end result. My emphasis is in trying something and having fun. I hope that most of the kids enjoy it enough to go on with the swimming abilities they've gained. They do work!"

Students pitch in

The school vandalism of late to the many schools in our area really upset Andrew Simmons and Ryan O'Leary when they read about their own elementary school, Lake Mary Elementary, sustaining damages.

After reading all about what happened the boys called their school principal, Sherrill Casey, and told her how upset they were and volunteered their services to come up and help clean up the mess and damages.

"I don't start camp for a week, so I can help out until then," said Simmons.

Their services were graciously accepted by Casey.

La Sertoma presented check

During the last meeting of the Greater Seminole La Sertoma Club, the Event Chairwoman Mary Scuito presented a check in the amount of $1,000 to Sandra San Miguel who is the school social work supervisor for Seminole County public schools. The donation was made to the Marie Taylor Needy Children's Fund whose funds are administered by San Miguel. The fund has no operating costs, therefore, all monies donated are spent on direct service for the child. This particular donation was earmarked for hearing impaired children in need. Seminole County School Board Member Barbara Kuhn was on hand during the presentation.

Church offers fun program for kids

Since Year Round Education (YRE) is right around the corner for Lake Mary and Heathrow areas, Holy Cross Lutheran Church has come up with a pilot program that will alleviate the problem of what to do with children during off track periods.

This pilot program is called Kids Kamp and will run for only one week this summer from July 26-July 30 to see the type reception it receives.

It is for boys and girls entering kindergarten through 6th grade in the fall of 1993. Kamp will begin at 9 a.m. and end promptly at 2 p.m. After care is available from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

This week's session will close with a performance and art exhibition Friday evening from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. "We want to celebrate all our campers who have learned at Kids Kamp," said Pastor Dave Schilling.

Kids Kamp is a community of campers from different religious backgrounds. The staff will project a positive attitude in a warm, caring atmosphere. However, Kids Kamp includes no religious instruction or related activity.

Kids Kamp is offered in partnership with the Orlando Science Center and the Orlando Museum of Art.

Each of the campers will experience the following activities each day.

• Fine Arts. The vivid colors of flowers, foliage and birds will come to life in this class. Campers will also experience the excitement of a different culture expressed through mask making and native food fest as well as the fun of squiggle, squirt and spray painting art form. The course will be presented by the Orlando Museum of Art instructor, Cheryl Paben.

• Natureworks. Campers will enjoy hands-on experience with the environment. Topics include aquatic studies, reptiles and amphibians. All classes focus around the Orlando Science Center's permanent exhibit, Natureworks. This is presented by the Orlando Science Center instructor, Deidra Englehart.

• Drama. Campers will participate in dramatic experiences through a variety of theatre-related activities including games and preparation of a special presentation for Friday evening's performance presented by Jeff and Rachel Hoyer, members of a New York City theatre group.

Class sizes are limited to a maximum of 15 per age group and there will be three age groups. The cost is $65 which includes the $25 non-refundable registration fee. Children will need to bring a sack lunch, drink and snack each day. "This is like having the Orlando Science Center and the Orlando Museum of Art come to your door," said Pastor Dave. "Right now we are projecting one week in each intercession period, but we hope to expand to three weeks for kindergarten through 6th grade. We feel this is going to be a much needed community service during YRE and it is basically a non-religious community service type program," continued

Pastor Dave. "We are really excited about the program and the benefits of the cultural exposure to our kids."

Small field plays big

Homer-led Just Do It wins SOS softball tourney

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Small field or no, it was an exciting tournament.

While only seven teams were entered in the Sanford Officiating Service Annual Softball Tournament held at Chase and Pinchurst parks Saturday, all but a few games were closely played with several games not being decided until the final at bat.

No team was able to make it through the tournament undefeated as Sanford's Bamboo Cafe came out of the loser's bracket to knock off undefeated Just Do It from Casselberry 4-2 to force the necessary game.

Just Do It came back strong, clubbing Bamboo Cafe 11-1 to claim the championship.

Ted Homer from Just Do It was named the Most Valuable Player after going 9 for 19 with three doubles and a home run. He also scored seven runs and drove in 11 in the five games his team played. For his effort, he received a new Steele Sporting Goods hat from Sportsmart.

Each member of the winning team received a hat bag and the sponsors from each of the top three teams — Just Do It, Bamboo Cafe and Sportsmart — were awarded trophies.

It was a good tournament, said Sanford Officiating Service booking agent Duane LaFollette. I'd like to thank Pat Kinsey from Sportsmart for donating the MVP hat, Karen Zeak from United Trophy Sales in Casselberry for the sponsorship trophies, and Braxton Sporting Goods for the hat bags.

I'd also like to thank the umpires and scorekeepers, Lee Ann Wargo and Gloria Beasley, for their help in making the event a success. We held the tournament to help raise money for the Central Florida Soap Box Derby and we will make a presentation of the check at the derby banquet.

Winning the tournament did not come easy for Just Do It, which had to come from behind in its last turn at bat each of its first two games to win 8-7. It had to score four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to win its opener against Sportsmart, then scored five runs in the top of the seventh to edge Fossil Sport Goods from Orlando.

The eventual champs had a much easier time of it in the winner's bracket finals, coming back from an early deficit to blast Bamboo Cafe 23-5.

Bamboo Cafe, which leads the Sanford Thursday night league, reached the finals by outscoring fellow Thursday night rival Hancock Hardware 18-15 in eight innings, crushing Signature Homes 14-2, and after losing to Just Do It, won the loser's bracket by trouncing Sportsmart 9-5.

Babe Ruth All-Star game today

SANFORD — Sanford Recreation Department employees and Babe Ruth Baseball League coaches will play a scrimmage game against the Sanford Babe Ruth All-Star 11-13 year old team today at Zinn Beck Field starting at 6 p.m.

O-Cubs rally by Suns

ORLANDO — Doug Glanville singled home Greg Longino in the bottom of the eighth inning to give the Orlando Cubs a 3-2 Southern League victory over the Jacksonville Suns on Sunday.

Tony Scruggs hit a two-run single in the top of the first to put the Suns up 2-0.

Orlando's Mike Grace and Ozzie Timmons answered with solo home runs in the second and fifth innings, respectively, to tie the score.

Dave Stevens (5-0) allowed eight hits in eight and a third innings for the win. Travis Willis got the last two outs for his 15th save.

Jacksonville Suns reliever Mark Czarkowski (0-1) suffered the loss.

AROUND THE NATION

Kruk's homer sinks Marlin

PHILADELPHIA — The Phillies' John Kruk would much rather see a fastball than a knuckleball, and he showed why Sunday.

Kruk hit a three-run homer on a fastball from Florida's Trevor Hoffman with two outs in the seventh inning, giving Philadelphia a 4-3 win.

In his previous at bats against knuckleballer Charlie Hough, Kruk had walked, flied weakly to short left field with the bases loaded and popped out to third with a runner on third.

Kruk's homer made a winner of Tommy Green (9-1), allowing the Phillies to up their Sunday record this season to 11-0.

The Marlins has lost six of their last seven.

Simmons leaves Pirates

PITTSBURGH — Ted Simmons, who presided over the breakup of the three-time NL East champion Pittsburgh Pirates, resigned as general manager Saturday night due to heart problems. He was replaced by assistant general manager Cam Bonifay. Simmons' announcement came less than two weeks after he underwent an angioplasty procedure to unblock a blocked artery.

Janzen registers U.S. Open win

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. — There were cops in the bunkers, photographers in the trees, and Lee Janzen standing over a birdie putt on the 18th green with a two-shot lead in the U.S. Open. They all looked a little out of place.

The cops and photographers still do. Lee Janzen does not anymore.

Janzen made the putt, giving him a share of the Open scoring record of 272 with Jack Nicklaus and a victory over Payne Stewart.

The clincher, however, had come two holes earlier, when Janzen, a look of grim determination on his face, knocked in a 30-foot chip shot from the rough for birdie on the par 3 16th, evoking memories of Tom Watson's chip in win over Nicklaus at Pebble Beach in the '82 Open.

Martin's 'fuelishness' lifts Rudd

BROOKLYN, Mich. — Mark Martin had the fastest car and a big lead. What he didn't have was enough gas.

Ten laps from the finish of Sunday's Miller Genuine Draft 400, the engine on Martin's Ford Thunderbird, which had powered him to the lead for 144 of the 200 laps at Michigan International Speedway, died as he drove onto the backstretch of the 2-mile high-banked oval.

As Martin coasted into the pits for the needed splash of gas to finish the race, he saw Ricky Rudd's Chevrolet Lumina glide smoothly past and into the lead on the front straightaway.

Rudd, who announced on Saturday that he will start his own NASCAR Winston Cup team in 1994, went on to post his first victory since last September at Dover. Ted

No. 1 pick cut from U.S. team

MILLINGTON, Tenn. — Alex Rodriguez, the first selection in this year's amateur baseball draft, was among six players cut Sunday from the U.S. national team and his release wasn't for a lack of talent.

Rodriguez, who played at Miami Westminster Christian, was chosen by the Seattle Mariners in the draft and he was the first high school player ever invited to try out for the U.S. squad.

Catch John Anderson said Rodriguez was cut because he refused to sign the standard player release to be used in a series of baseball cards from Topps. Rodriguez asked for the right to negotiate with other card companies.

The team leaves Monday for the International Cup in Italy and will play in the U.S. Olympic Festival from July 23 Aug. 1.

Power Grip sweeps doubleheader

By BILL KERNS Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — When baseball seems predetermined to be a trouble.

Predictably, Sanford Post 53 Power Grip (with a core of players from Seminole and Lake Mary accustomed to winning) swept a twinnit at Seminole Field with pit-bang speed and defense.

Also predictable was that tough North Central American Legion from Alachua made it close.

Now here's the story part.

Both games were decided 2-1, with the second game ending on a Blake dropped throw by a first baseman who had played flawlessly. With Demy Beamon on third and two out in the seventh inning, Dan Storey grounded to third, seemingly sending the game into extra innings. But the first baseman dropped the throw and Beamon scored the winning run.

Sanford, already focused on winning the American Legion World State championship, is now 7-1 on the summer. Their next play at DeLand Tuesday at 6 p.m. The Post 53 Cyclones, Sanford's "B" team, will play Monday at 3 p.m.

Table with 2 columns: SANFORD POST 53 and NORTH CENTRAL 11. Game One scores: Sanford Post 53 Power Grip 010 000 0 1 2 0, North Central 010 010 0 2 0 2.

Table with 2 columns: SANFORD POST 53 and NORTH CENTRAL 11. Game Two scores: Sanford Post 53 Power Grip 000 001 1 2 3 0, North Central 000 000 0 1 1 1.

As usual for its defense and speed kept us in the games," said Sanford head coach Kool Ferguson. "Our kids are starting to play together well, which isn't easy when you put kids from different teams on a single team. (North Central) has four or five college players, and is one of the better teams we'll play."

Staff ace Jeremy Chalm, allowed only two hits without a walk over six innings for his first win of the summer in the opening game. He only swerved from his

Mistakes unavoidable for caring father, coach

Yesterday was Father's Day. But you know that or should it be pertinent to you.

I've written before of my father and probably will again. And while I will discuss my father in passing during this column, this collection of words isn't about him per se.

Sorry about that, Dad.

Rather, this is about coaches, men (and women) who serve as father figures, teaching and/or reinforcing lessons about what it takes to be competitive, what it takes to be successful, what it takes to be an adult.

Specifically, it's about one coach.

Right or wrong, we assign different emotional attributes to fathers and mothers. Fathers discipline, mothers nurture. Fathers lives seem to revolve around sacrifice, mothers, lives around giving.

If you're blessed, as I was, those roles were not gender-exclusive for your parents when you were a child, your parents switching roles as the situation dictates.

But just as the color red suggests hot and blue means cold, fatherhood and discipline are somehow linked. Just wait until your father gets home — much in the same way as coaching and discipline. Emory Blake's coaching philosophy is built on discipline.

In his 18 years at Seminole High School, Blake helped build the girls track team into a state powerhouse and turned a football program that had an outlaw reputation into a respected and competitive organization.

When I first started working here, I heard horror stories from cool leagues around the state about Sanford Seminole High School about fights on and off fields. One associate told me he witnessed a game where Seminole football teammates fought on the field on the field.

Some of it was exaggerated, some of it was true.

Blake and his staff worked to put an end to that. But they didn't do it the easy way, by running all the trouble makers. Instead, they worked on the trouble maker the much like a father with a prodigal son, building young men out of loud-mouthed boys.

It wasn't a pretty process. A couple of kids who had to struggle to explain a serious offense to their father, as the most difficult lesson to learn and often requires the hardest teaching techniques to get the lesson across.

As difficult and painful it may be for both individuals, it's those hard lessons that are the roots and bolts of a successful relationship between father and child.

But even the best of fathers will make mistakes. My dad made them. My daughter's only 3 years old and I've already made a slew of them.

On May 21, Blake made one. I've heard variations on the story involving a dispute over downs in a physical education class basketball game, someone cursing at someone else, and a confrontation escalating between Blake and a student from calling for physical contact.

A reporter following an investigation into the incident said that Blake had made the best judgment in dealing with the case. As a result, he had been given a five-day suspension.

He'd walk out this Blake has been suspended from the Seminole school system until further notice. It's a pretty tough one, maybe not a

'Hooligans' celebrate Bulls' title

By TAMARA STARKS Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — An NBA champion Ship came with violence and vandalism in Chicago, where police today reported more than 600 arrests and scattered looting after the Bulls clinched the title.

Police reported 600 arrests in five hours after the game, most for disorderly conduct and minor vandalism.

There is an element of knuckleheads and hooligans, and nothing you can do stop them, Chicago police spokesman Bill Davis said early today.

A woman was shot to death outside her South Side home and three police officers sustained minor gunshot wounds, Davis said. Police assumed the officers were shot in post-game revelry, they did not know the circumstances of the woman's death, Davis said.

Looting was reported all over the city, but there was no way to estimate the extent of the scattered incidents, he said.

The city put thousands of extra police officers on patrol and spent at least $1 million this year trying to prevent a repeat of the 1992 riots, when more than a thousand people were arrested and 107 police officers injured.

This year, six officers sustained minor injuries, three from rocks and bottles thrown in street crowds, Davis said. He said the number of home calls and trouble calls to police were about normal for a busy night in Chicago, though the number of arrests was much higher.

Thousands of fans congregated at O'Hare International Airport to greet the Bulls when their flight came in after 3 a.m. The city planned a public rally Tuesday in a downtown park.

Compared to last year, crowds were small in the city at night, though the Bulls defeated the Suns 99-98.

in the county. Reportedly, his request will be honored.

What's frustrating is that the primary student involved in the incident played football for Blake. Small of stature, the young man worked hard to make himself a state champion in weightlifting and a key contributor to last year's Seminole state championship baseball team.

To understand what may have caused this lapse of judgment, recall your reaction when your darling child, the apple of your eye, who's never given you a moment's care or worry, suddenly becomes a hell-spawned imp at the most inopportune time.

Regardless of how much you can for your child, frustration and embarrassment quickly mushroom into anger when that child seems to willingly and openly flout your direction, ignore your admonishments, scorn your authority, then physically challenge you.

I don't condone Blake's actions, but it's not for me to condemn. Neither is it my place to forgive or offer absolution.

But I do understand. And I wish him well in his future endeavors.

Use caution when using steroid drugs

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can the use of steroid drugs such as Medrol and prednisone impair adrenal gland function?

DEAR READER: The adrenal glands, which produce cortisone and related compounds, are under the control of the pituitary gland. When a person is given inflammation-combating prescription cortisone, such as prednisone or Medrol, the pituitary stops stimulating the adrenals to produce their own cortisone. Over time, the adrenal glands wither and become unable to manufacture the substance.

This is why patients taking cortisone drugs for more than a couple of weeks must be slowly weaned off the prescription. If the medication is suddenly stopped, the adrenal glands are unable to respond to the body's need for natural cortisone; shock and death may ensue.

On the other hand, if the prescription drug is slowly tapered, the adrenal glands gradually begin production again and, after a few weeks, the situation returns to normal. Cortisone drugs are marvelous for reducing inflammation; however, they must be used cautiously because of serious side effects and should be stopped gradually once they are no longer needed.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 23-year-old daughter recently passed away from thrombotic thrombocytopenia purpura. What causes this and how easily is it diagnosed?

DEAR READER: A disease of unknown cause, TTP is an acute, serious disorder of the blood marked by a sudden drop in platelets (the tiny blood cells that are essential to clotting), destruction of red blood cells (leading to anemia), and multi-organ failure. This latter feature is associated with jaundice, renal damage and changing mental state.

TTP is diagnosed by blood tests and treated with blood transfusions and cortisone. Untreated TTP is uniformly fatal. However, even with therapy, the prognosis is poor. Unfortunately, if the first attack isn't fatal, the patient may experience subsequent attacks that are equally life-threatening. Patients with TTP should be under the care of hematologists.

MEDICINE

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Back in 1989, two of Britain's top players, Rixi Markus and Terence Reese, wrote an interesting book entitled "Better Bridge for Club Players" (Gollancz, $11.45, The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124). There are 56 articles covering all facets of the game. The main theme of the deals is that the normal-looking play doesn't work. You must look deeper into the possibilities and find a better approach. If you don't see the answer, you will kick yourself as soon as you read the authors' explanation.

Today's deal from the book would trip up the unwary. Against your four-spade contract, West leads the heart king. What is your line of play? Three spades is a limit raise showing about 11 total points and at least four spades. The lead is annoying. Without it, you could have established a discard for your heart loser on the third diamond. Most players would win the first trick, play a club to hand and lead the spade queen with an illegal furtive look in their eye. They hope that West, with king (or ace) doubleton of spades, will put up his honor. There's not much chance of that.

Yet there is one possibility: that the clubs are 3-3 and either opponent has a singleton trump honor. After winning the first trick, play a club to your king, cash your club ace and overtake the club jack with dummy's queen. Then lead the 13th club and discard your heart loser. Either East or West may ruff, but it costs one of their two trump tricks.

Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper. They can be answered only through the column.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Tuesday, June 22, 1993

New associations and friendships might play a major role in helping you achieve your goals in the year ahead. Some of these contacts you'll make could be labeled "sheer luck."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even if you are subjected to some types of changes today instigated by outside forces, don't get upset. Matters are trending towards favorable conclusions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not waste your time on insignificant matters today, because you're likely to be far more fortunate with endeavors, issues or projects that are substantial and meaningful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you might be luckier than usual in your commercial or financial dealings than you have been for quite some time. Try to capitalize in these areas as effectively as possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to advance your self-interests today you must be bold in situations that require bold measures. Have faith in your abilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have some X-pluses going for you today about which you might not even be aware. However, like the calvary, they'll arrive when you need them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Agreements you work out with friends today should benefit both you and your pals. Negotiate with an eye towards mutual gain and all will come out okay.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could have a marvelous opportunity today to strengthen your position in a critical area that has an influence upon your work or career. Don't let it escape you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your probabilities for success are considerably enhanced today by merely doing that which you do best, which is to get along well with everyone from all walks of life.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep a whether eye peeled at this time for a new development that could provide you with a second source of earnings or income. There's a good chance it might be revealed to you today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be rather fortunate today in matters that involve some form of verbal or written communication. Your skills as a salesperson or promoter are also considerably enhanced.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be dismayed today if you get off to a slower start than you anticipated. Your strengths are likely to begin to grow as you get near the finish line, or more important, the bottom line.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Keep all of your lines of communication open today, because there is an excellent chance you may be getting the good news for which you're hoping.
