School Board Approves Record $123 Million Budget

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A $123 million budget, about 8 percent higher than last year's budget, has been approved by the Seminole County School Board. School Board members approved the budget for the 1983-84 school year unanimously without discussion Wednesday night. The budget includes a $7.12 tax rate per $1,000 of appraised value, slightly lower than last year's rate of $7.20 per $1,000 of value.

The budget increased for the second straight year. The 1981-82 budget was about $98 million. The 1982-83 budget was $113.5 million.

Included in the $123 million spending plan is about $5 million for construction of a new middle school in the Longwood-Lake Mary area. That school, currently in the planning stages, will be built for use by the 1985-86 school year.

'...it's a time when the taxpayers want us to be conservative.'

School Superintendent Robert Hughes said the district faced difficult budget-making times this summer because of a late session of the Legislature which delayed the district's work on its budget by nearly a month.

The Legislature approved a school funding formula on June 26, several months after the end of its regular session. That put county budget makers nearly a month behind schedule, Hughes said.

Hughes said the district's budget has grown largely because of the increased requirements set by the state. This year, the Legislature raised graduation requirements effective in the 1984-85 school year, forcing the district to change student schedules and to add one class period each school day. The new requirements have also forced the district to hire additional teachers, he said.

Board Chairman Roland Williams applauded his colleagues for their work in a challenging year. He said the board has been conservative, cutting costs wherever possible in the new budget. "But it's a time when the taxpayers want us to be conservative."

Teachers Approve Contract

Frustration Remains

Seminole County teachers have approved a negotiated raise of $236 in base pay, according to Ron Boeth, director of the Seminole Education Association.

Boeth said 856 teachers, about 60 percent of those voting, favored the new pay package and 558 teachers voted against it. He said the 40 percent 'no' vote is indicative of teacher frustration and should serve as a warning sign for board members.

The $236 increase is about a 1.5 percent raise over the previous base pay of $12,700.

"It's the largest vote of rejection we've had for several years," he said. "There's a lot of frustration out there, not with you as a board but with the Legislature in Tallahassee."

Boeth told school board members Wednesday night they need to urge state lawmakers to find new methods of funding teacher salaries.

Neither Boeth nor Superintendent Robert Hughes is pleased with the contract but both men agreed it was the best that could be done this year.

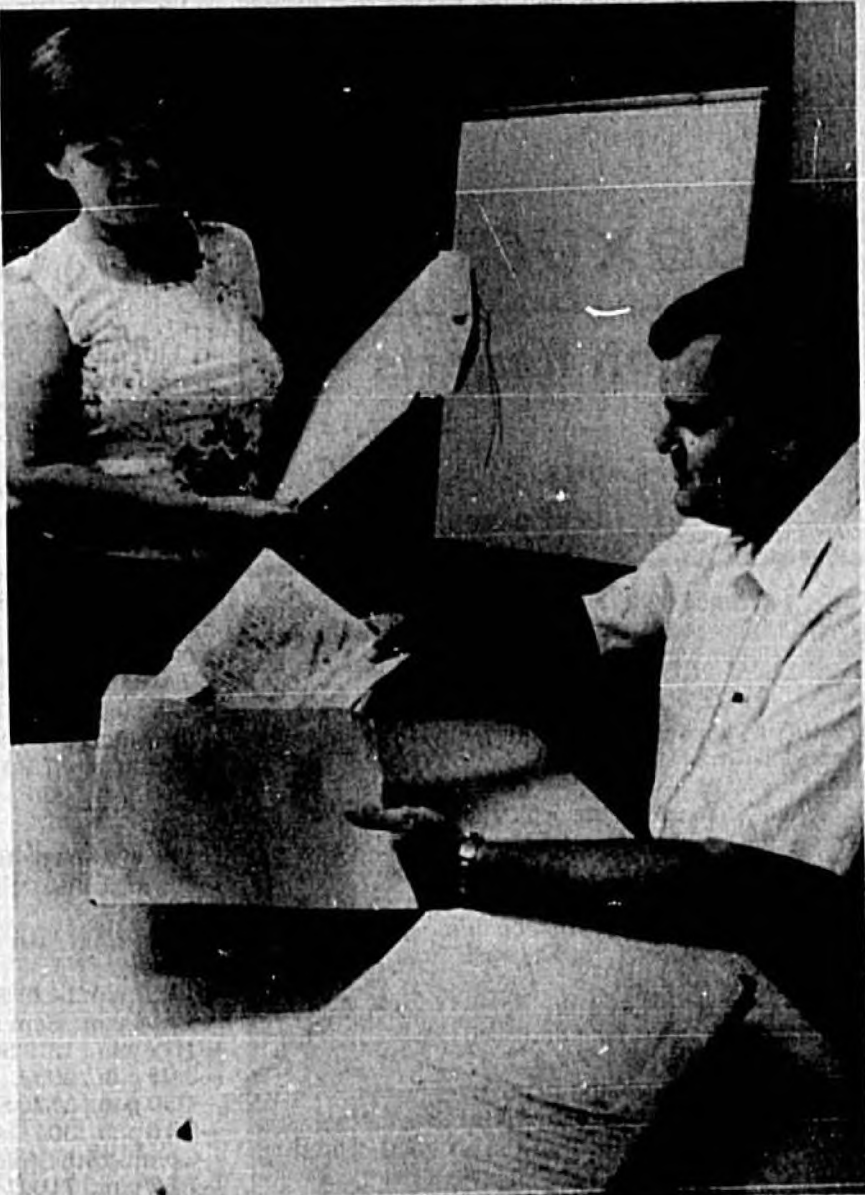

"We're not proud of the negotiated contract," Hughes said.

"I'm not proud of it either," Boeth said.

Seminole County teachers have been ranked in the top five in the state for several years. The average salary for Seminole County teachers is about $18,500.

The teachers are in the final year of a three-year contract.

Three other unions which represent school district employees have negotiated new three year contracts with the district which include a 1.5 percent base pay raise for their employees. Bus drivers will vote on a new contract on Tuesday and non-instructional personnel and clerical personnel will vote later in the week, Boeth said. When the pay agreements are approved by the unions they will be presented to the school board for approval.

District administrators and other personnel not represented by the unions will receive the same pay raise.—Micheal Beha

Lake Mary Supports Grant Request For Boulevard Widening

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission has joined with Seminole County and the city of Sanford in supporting a county application to a state agency for $3.8 million to expand Lake Mary Boulevard.

But the support was given with reservations.

At a special meeting Wednesday, the city commission questioned how much say it will have in the widening of Lake Mary Boulevard from Interstate 4 to Rinehart Road, roughly six-tenths of a mile, citing its particular concern with drainage.

And the board deleted part of a county composed resolution of support before it adopted the document to be forwarded to the state Department of Commerce which is to pay for the expansion.

After City Attorney Robert Petree reminded the commission that it had not previously adopted a policy cited in the resolution, the commission deleted a section which described Lake Mary Boulevard as a "major industrial, commercial and residential hub of the city."

A phrase was also added to the final clause in the resolution requesting the funding, noting that the city support is for the specific area from the proposed new cloverleaf intersection of I-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard, east to Rinehart Road.

The county's senior planner, Storm Richards, said the proposed cloverleaf to be built by the state is expected to cost in excess of $10 million.

Commissioners also questioned the cost estimates for the I-4 to Rinehart Road segment and for the segment supported by the city of Sanford which would extend Lake Mary Boulevard eastward from U.S. 17-92 to County Road 427 (Sanford Avenue).

The cost estimates given to the city by Richards, showed that the four-laning of Lake Mary Boulevard from I-4 to Rinehart Road would cost $2.7 million while the extension from U.S. 17-92 to Sanford Avenue, about one mile through what Commissioner Ray Fox called "virgin territory," would cost $1.09 million. The estimates include not only costs of construction, but also engineering design, right of way acquisition, construction engineering supervision and contingencies.

Richards insisted the estimates are accurate, saying they were computed by the county engineer and approved by the state Department of Transportation.

Richards said the major reason for these type projects is to encourage and assist industry and road improvement in Lake Mary would assist Stromberg-Carlson, NCR and others, while the extension to Sanford Avenue would assist the Sanford Industrial Park, Cobia, Cardinal Industries and the Sanford Airport.

When Mayor Walter Sorenson stated that the city is especially concerned about the engineering for drainage on the section of Lake Mary Boulevard within the city, Richards said the engineering will be done by a consultant and Lake Mary will have input into the process.

After the meeting adjourned, however, Fox said the city was receiving the "mushroom treatment" and "we will have about as much input as we do in the nuclear policy of the United States."

Fox said what disturbs him the most about the Lake Mary Boulevard expansion within the city is the "choke point," where the four-laning will abruptly end and funnel back to two lanes.

He cited current choke points on Lake Mary Boulevard as Rinehart Road and Longwood-Lake Mary Road, noting that the four-laning will compound the problem at Rinehart Road.

"It appears to me the situation will be made worse, not better, at least on a temporary basis," Fox said.

Richards said the application for the state funding will list both the

Goldsboro Students Buzzing About 'Stinging' Nature Walk

About a dozen Goldsboro Elementary School students are still smarting today from an unexpected entomology lesson they received during a nature walk near the school.

Principal Leroy Johnson said about 30 students in Marilyn Hunt's fourth grade science class were walking on a nature trail adjacent to the school Wednesday afternoon when they were confronted by a swarm of bees.

The bees delivered a stinging nature lesson, along with considerable discomfort, to "10 or 12 students" and their teacher, Johnson said.

No one was treated for the bee stings, Johnson said, adding that all of the students and Mrs. Hunt were back in class today.

"They probably won't be going back there for awhile," he added.

School officials sprayed the area to get rid of the bees late Wednesday afternoon, Johnson said.

Boosters At Work

Glenda Jackson, left, purchases season tickets for the Seminole High School football season from SHS Booster Club President Rose Futrell at the downtown Sanford office of Flagship Bank, while bank Executive Vice President Janice Springfield holds up the office sign announcing season reserved tickets will be sold there. The booster club is also selling tickets at the Flagship central office and First Federal of Seminole, downtown. Tickets are $20.

Woman Killed In 3-Vehicle Crash

A 39-year-old Lake Mary woman was killed in a three-vehicle accident in Orlando Wednesday afternoon.

Betty Keen was pronounced dead at Florida Hospital in Orlando after the 5:08 p.m. accident.

Mrs. Keen was northbound in a Buick Regal in the 1900 block of North Orange Blossom Trail when a pickup truck struck her car in the rear.

Mrs. Keen lost control of her car, spun across the median into the southbound lane where her car was struck by a southbound station wagon, police said.

An Orlando police department spokeswoman said Mrs. Keen formerly lived at 345 Cypress Landing in Longwood, but had since moved to Lake Mary.

The driver of the station wagon, Stanley Singer Jr., 56, of P.O. Box 13127, Orlando, was treated for minor injuries.

The driver of the pickup truck, Erich Short, 19, of 1081 Sandy Lane, Longwood, was not injured, police said.

No charges have been filed in the accident and the investigation is continuing, police said.

Midway Group Gets Okay To Check County Records

There was a familiar theme to this week's work session with Seminole County commissioners and members of a Midway community group.

That theme — Midway residents want more county attention to their community's problems — has been replayed time and again in work sessions and other meetings between commissioners and the group, Midway-Canaan Neighborhood Economical Action Team.

But this time there was a new twist. Johnell Jackson, spokesman for MCNEAT, said Tuesday the group wants copies of all county spending records for the past 10 years.

Jackson said the group is working on an analysis of county spending over that period. In the past, MCNEAT members have complained that Midway has not received its fair share of county funds.

County officials agreed to provide the documents Jackson asked for but were hesitant because of the staff time involved to supervise the group's perusal and copying of documents.

County Administrator T. Duncan Rose said he would provide a desk for MCNEAT members to use if they wish to examine the spending records. But if the group wants copies of all the documents it will have to pay for them.

Jackson said the group needs copies of budgets, annual reports, audits, invoices and time sheets to conduct what he termed "a lengthy analysis of county spending." The group would not be allowed to take the original copies out of county buildings.

County Attorney Nikki Clayton said county officials will have to work with the group for a while to determine how much staff time is involved in the search through county archives. But if there is a substantial amount of time involved, the county will have to be reimbursed, she said.

She also told Jackson that the county would not compile data for the group's study. The material will be "raw data," she said.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn also warned that much of the information MCNEAT members seek "simply may not be there." She said the county's record keeping has not always been as complete as it is now. Records for the past two years are extensive, she said, because county officials have been preparing to totally convert their record system to computers. Prior to that, many records were kept by hand and entered in ledgers or simply filed away, she said.

Commissioner Robert Sturm asked MCNEAT members why they are doing the analysis and how it is being funded.

Jackson said the analysis is being funded by private donations and will be conducted by former Midway residents who are now living in Philadelphia, New York and Miami. He said several hundred dollars worth of copies has already been obtained from County Clerk Art Beckwith.

"They used to live in Midway," said Emory Green of MCNEAT. "And like us they still have a dream of what it can be. Midway hasn't changed since I was a boy. We want to make Midway a better place to live."

Jackson said the analysis is the best way for Midway residents and county officials to show state and federal officials responsible for awarding grants that the community is truly needy.

But Ms. Clayton said the analysis could be the groundwork for a lawsuit, charging the county with discriminating against the community.

"It looks like we're involved in preparing the litigation that's been filed in other counties where people from Philadelphia, New York and Miami have come in," she said.

Midway residents have been upset for years about the lack of a sewage system in their community. County officials say they will not fund construction of a system, which could cost about $6 million, from county property taxes. Midway has been a target area for several grant applications and received several hundred thousand dollars in federal grants but has not been funded in several years.

MCNEAT members contend that a sewage system is the keystone to development in their community. Without a sewage system, they say, no one will build new houses in the community.

County commissioners did offer some hope for housing construction funds Tuesday. Commissioner Sandra Glenn told the members about a state program which has about $1.25 million available for land acquisition and construction to low and moderate income houses.

Jackson criticized county efforts to get dilapidated houses in Midway razed or repaired. Although 30 buildings have been demolished in the past five months, Jackson said no action has been taken on 13 more which have been condemned.

Building Inspector Don Flippen said demolition on those buildings should be completed within six months.

IN BRIEF

Turlington Challenging Tax-Cutting Amendment

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington has gone into court in support of a constitutional challenge to a tax-cutting amendment scheduled to be voted on in the November 1984 general election.

Turlington, whose department benefitted most from the state's latest round of tax increases this summer, filed a friend-of-the-court brief in the 1st District Court of Appeal Wednesday in support of a challenge filed in June by Miami lawyer Martin Fine.

The court has scheduled arguments on the case for Sept. 28.

Turlington said the amendment violated the constitutional one-subject limitation on citizens' initiative efforts and he questioned the validity of the signatures obtained to put the question on the ballot.

The amendment, if approved by Florida voters, would cut state revenues and spending to 1980-81 levels but would permit increases in state spending equal to two-thirds of the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index.

It would wipe out a two-year round of taxes that include $233 million in education taxes approved this summer, $237 million in transportation taxes approved in the spring and a 1-cent increase in the sales tax last year which raises about $800 million.

Pershing Launch Success

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Army officials called the latest launch of a Pershing 2 missile a success and said only one more test flight is required before the controversial weapon is deployed in West Germany.

The 35-foot rocket soared more than 200 miles into the atmosphere Wednesday and flew nearly 1,000 miles in less than 12 minutes, landing south of Bermuda.

The Pentagon plans to deploy 108 Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany to replace the Pershing 1. The Pershing 2 has twice the range and is far more accurate than the Pershing 1. It gives NATO troops the capability of striking inside Soviet territory.

Wednesday's launch was the 17th test flight of the Pershing 2. Four of the flights have failed, including the most recent test in July when one of the missiles broke apart shortly after launch and was exploded by remote control.

Smokey To Ride Mustangs

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — When Florida Highway Patrol officers go on duty Friday, some will be driving new black-and-tan Ford Mustangs that are supposed to help them carry out their enforcement duties better.

Col. Bobby Burkett, director of the patrol, said if the 40 cars perform as expected, half the patrol's 1,800-car fleet could eventually be made up of the smaller, high-performance cars. He said the Mustangs will allow patrolmen to catch speeders in a third the current pursuit time in some cases.

Judge Denies Killer's Stay Of Execution

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A federal judge late Wednesday denied a permanent stay of execution for James David Raulerson, who was convicted of gunning down a policeman, clearing the way for Raulerson's execution at 8 a.m. Friday.

In telephone calls to local media, U.S. District Judge John H. Moore II said he had rejected every one of the arguments raised by Raulerson's attorneys at a hearing in Jacksonville Tuesday.

Moore added, however, that the 48-hour stay of execution he issued Tuesday to give him time to study the arguments would remain in effect until 7 a.m. Friday. After the temporary stay was issued blocking Raulerson's scheduled execution at 7 a.m. Wednesday, Florida State Prison Supt. Richard Dugger rescheduled the execution for 8 a.m. Friday.

Moore's speedy announcement of his 19-page decision and the fact that the stay will remain in force until Friday morning gives attorneys for Raulerson time Thursday to file another appeal with the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

A petition was pre-filed with the appeals court Tuesday as a precaution.

Even if the appellate judges decline to stop the execution, Raulerson's attorneys can still go to the U.S. Supreme Court in their efforts to have the execution blocked.

Raulerson was convicted of firing the fatal shot that killed Michael Stewart during a shootout at the Sallmaker Restaurant April 27, 1975. Stewart and his partner, patrolman Jim English, who was wounded, were responding to a report of a robbery in progress.

Raulerson's cousin and accomplice, Jerry Leon Tant, was killed in the fusillade.

During the course of the robbery, which occurred after the restaurant had closed for the night, the gunman terrorized nine employees, making them lie on the floor of the kitchen. Raulerson was convicted of raping one of the waitresses.

Previously, Raulerson was scheduled to die on May 21, 1980, but another federal judge, William J. Castagna, ordered him re-sentenced, saying he did not have access to a pretrial investigative report as required by law.

At the re-sentencing the following Aug. 12, Circuit Court Judge Ralph W. Nimmons Jr. sentenced Raulerson again to death in the electric chair.

Graham has signed 61 death warrants since 1975, of which only one, that of John Spenklink, has been carried out. State and federal judges have blocked the executions in all the other cases.

Lockheed Wins Shuttle Contract

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A $2 billion contract that will propel America's space shuttle program into the operational stage was awarded to a team of aerospace contractors headed by Lockheed, NASA said.

The six-year contract provides for shuttle launch support services in Florida and California, the space agency announced Wednesday.

It also allows for nine additional years of options, making the contract's potential overall length 15 years.

The consortium headed by Lockheed Space Operations of Titusville, won out over a team headed by Rockwell International, the builder of the reusable rocket plane.

The shuttle processing contractor will consolidate services now provided by 15 companies at the Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral and at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

NASA officials said the contract consolidation will permit the shuttle launch processing operation "to evolve from a research and development phase into an operational mode in which mission success and safety will continue to be achieved."

"We're just elated," said John Williams, a Lockheed spokesman in Titusville. "This culminates a 23-month period of operation and study for the contract."

"I suppose we might have been considered an underdog (to Rockwell). However, we were aware we had the right skills and corporate background for the job. It's an important job and we're anxious to get to work."

Lockheed's major subcontractors are Grumman Technical Services, headquartered in Bethpage, N.Y.; Morton-Thiokol Inc., Brigham City, Utah; and Pan American World Services Inc., Cocoa Beach.

Rockwell's subcontractors included Boeing Services International, Martin-Marietta Launch Services Corp. and United Air Lines Aerospace Services Co., and USBI Launch Services.

Williams said the 6,000 employees at Kennedy would be affected "by a change of badges and employers rather than a change of jobs."

Gays Can't Be Stopped At Border

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The federal government cannot stop homosexual aliens from entering the United States unless medical certificates verify they are psychopathic or have a mental defect, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled.

"It means the INS can no longer bar gay visitors to this country just because they are gay," Leonard Graff, Gay Rights Advocates legal director, said Wednesday of the ruling.

The court upheld a U.S. District Court decision that found Congress expressly requires Public Health Service medical certificates verifying that self-declared homosexuals are afflicted with "a psychopathic personality, sexual deviation or mental defect" before barring their entry to the United States.

The court considered the case of Carl Basil Angelo Hill, 35, a United Kingdom journalist who came to San Francisco in 1980 for the annual Gay Freedom Day Parade conducted by the city's vocal and political gay community.

Upon arrival, Hill volunteered to Immigration and Naturalization Service agent that he was homosexual.

The INS barred his entry to the United States.

Before 1979, the INS was permitted to exclude certain classes of aliens, including homosexuals, from entering the United States. The guidelines stipulated homosexuality must be verified by a Public Health Service doctor.

But in 1979 the Surgeon General did away with health service inspections of suspected homosexuals, claiming homosexuality was no longer considered a mental disorder and determination of homosexuality was not a medical procedure.

The INS maintained it was then up to their agents' discretion to permit or deny entry to homosexual aliens, based on the aliens' volunteered statements.

Strict New Guidelines May Keep The Poor From Getting Legal Aid

From Staff, Wire Reports
New guidelines adopted by the Legal Services Corporation make it more difficult for the poor, the elderly and the handicapped to obtain its services.

The New York Times reports that in many cases the rules issued last week by the government corporation keep the same general thresholds for eligibility — but essentially label more things as income or benefits.

The Legal Services Corporation was established by Congress to provide the disadvantaged with non-criminal legal assistance. President Reagan has tried to eliminate the federal corporation, but Congress has continued to renew it — albeit with less funding in recent years.

The effects of the new guidelines are expected to be felt in Seminole County, too. "I think they are cutting out people who definitely need legal assistance," said Deborah Weage, staff attorney for the Legal Aid Society of Seminole County. "Certainly in Seminole County there is a large indigent population and many will do without legal help because of this," she said.

The Times reported that, for example: In the past, for a family of three to qualify for legal services, their income could not exceed $10,275. That dollar figure is being maintained, but the corporation has revised rules to include welfare payments, supplemental Social Security payments and other types of benefits as income.

In another example, the corporation now views the applicant as having available to him or her the entire wealth of a household — and that wealth is used as the criteria for eligibility. That rule means retarded people living with their family or elderly people living with their children may no longer be eligible because the entire family incomes exceeds the guideline level.

A third example disqualifies people who have more than $15,000 equity in their homes. Many elderly people's homes were paid for years ago and have increased in value because of inflation, thus making their equity in excess of $15,000.

The Times quoted Alan Houseman, director of the Center for Law and Social Policy, as condemning the rules as putting the Legal Services Corporation out of reach to the very people it is supposed to serve.

"These rules will preclude representation to millions of poor people who are currently eligible, mainly the elderly, but also the handicapped, battered women, the unemployed, small farmers and migrant workers," Houseman said.

Treena Kaye, managing attorney for the Central Florida Legal Services Corporation branch office in Sanford, said she had not received "formal notification" of the guidelines changes and couldn't comment until she is notified.

Miss Weage said 90 private attorneys in Seminole County provide free legal services for low income persons through the Legal Aid Society by volunteering their time.

She said the Legal Aid Society will probably get more requests for its services since persons who could previously have received help from the Legal Services Corporation will not be able to do so now and will turn to the society instead.

"We may have to revamp our guidelines so that we can help more people," she said.

"There has been a trend in the Reagan Administration to reduce (legal) coverage for the poor. Certainly this is another step in this direction," Miss Weage said.

Shuttle Cell Separation Test A Success

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A space shuttle experiment that successfully separated cells in zero gravity could lead to cheaper methods of treating burns, blood clots and diabetes, scientists say.

Pennsylvania State University scientists said that a weightless "purification" experiment conducted aboard the space shuttle Challenger by Lt. Col. Guion Bluford, America's first black astronaut and a Penn State graduate, isolated cells from the pancreas, pituitary gland and kidneys.

"What these cell purification experiments do is to separate cells you don't want from those you need for a special purpose," said Paul W. Todd, a Penn State biophysicist.

Scientists want to separate insulin from the pancreas to aid diabetics, growth hormones from the pituitary gland to treat burns and an enzyme from the kidney that dissolves blood clots.

These cells have already been separated in earth-bound procedures. The key to the shuttle experiments is the possibility that, doing the procedure in space — without gravity — will prove more efficient and less expensive.

"We think we can get 400 times more of the product by doing those procedures without gravity," Todd said.

The shuttle flight marked the first time the cell-separation apparatus was used in orbit to purify living cells, researchers said. An electric field is used to separate highly charged cells from those of lesser charge.

"There are some limitations imposed by gravity," Todd said. "Gravity causes the cells to settle when they're in suspension. And, since an electric field is used in the experiment, convection occurs, which results in unwanted mixing."

On-board procedures went smoothly but final results of the experiment will not be available for several months, the researchers said.

Todd said a similar experiment on an earlier shuttle flight was unsuccessful because the cells were frozen once they reached the ground and did not survive shipment to the laboratory.

This time, the cells were not frozen but instead were placed in a cooler and shipped aboard a chartered Lear jet.

Next 3 Months: Predictable Script

The safest bet in international politics these days is that Yuri Andropov and company will spend the next three months mounting one last effort to prevent NATO from equalizing the nuclear equation in Europe. If the Soviets fail and NATO succeeds, the first of the new U.S. missiles that Western European governments formally requested nearly four years ago will be deployed in Britain, West Germany, and Italy this December.

Andropov will do almost anything to avoid that, except perhaps agree to dismantle the Soviet missiles that made a NATO response essential. Remember that as you read the newspaper and watch the nightly news on the tube between now and December.

This is what you will likely see: The left in Western Europe will take to the streets demonstrating for peace and (Western) disarmament, all the while painting President Reagan as a warmonger and ignoring the hundreds of Soviet SS-20s aimed at European cities. Exploiting this air of crisis, Andropov will bluff and bluster one day and offer apparent arms control concessions the next. Nothing new here. We have seen it all before.

In July, Andropov predicted that the Geneva negotiations over intermediate-range nuclear weapons in Europe would end abruptly if NATO proceeded with deployment of any new American missiles. In August, he switched from stick to carrot, offering for the first time, to actually dismantle some SS-20s if the new missiles for NATO were canceled altogether.

What Andropov neglected to mention, of course, is that the Soviets are so far ahead of NATO in intermediate-range nuclear weapons that only a wholesale scrapping of virtually all SS-20s, SS-4s, and SS-5s would justify canceling the planned U.S. Cruise and Pershing II missiles.

Andropov's predecessor, the late Leonid Brezhnev, professed to believe that a rough nuclear parity already existed in Europe and that any new NATO missiles would represent a Western effort to achieve nuclear superiority on the continent. Expect more of the same talk from Andropov as the Kremlin makes a final stab at manipulating public opinion in the West.

A new study of the nuclear balance in Europe by the private, non-partisan United States Strategic Institute, makes hash of the Brezhnev-Andropov propaganda. The truth is that the Soviet Union would still enjoy marginal superiority over NATO in theater nuclear weaponry even if Soviet forces were frozen at present levels and all 572 of the scheduled U.S. missiles were deployed.

The Soviet lead over NATO in launchers for intermediate-range missiles is nearly 6-1. Count the missiles themselves and the Soviet advantage is 4-1. Compare numbers of warheads on their total destructive power (aggregate megatonnage) and the Soviets hold a 5-1 lead over NATO. Include missile-launching submarines and medium-range bombers equipped to carry nuclear weapons and the Soviets are still far ahead.

No deal offered by Andropov in Geneva will protect Western Europe from Soviet intimidation unless it drastically revises this grim arithmetic. Two years ago, the Reagan administration offered to ban all land-based, intermediate-range missiles in Europe. Brezhnev said no. Earlier this year, the administration offered a compromise calling for equal but reduced numbers of intermediate-range missiles for both sides. Andropov said no.

Expect more nyets from Moscow until the Soviets are convinced that the only alternative to an equitable deal is European deployment of at least 572 American Cruise and Pershing II missiles. And don't expect that conviction to take hold in the Kremlin before the first U.S. missiles begin to arrive in Western Europe in December.

One final note. Don't expect any deal in Geneva to make the West safer unless it contains foolproof verification provisions. Anything less would only add a theater nuclear weapons treaty to the list of arms control agreements already being violated by the Soviets.

By Diane Petryk

"Some days are diamonds, some days are stones," goes the John Denver song. But occasionally we have days that seem like boulders.

That, informs the federal government's Consumer Information Center, is why it published a booklet titled You Are Not Alone.

Many people cope with daily life successfully with the knowledge that taking ups and downs in stride is part of maintaining good mental health. Some are not so successful. Sometimes too many "downs" and too few "ups" result in depression.

A certain amount of depression is normal, but when prolonged can be dangerous, resulting in erratic behavior, illness, drug and alcohol abuse and suicide. The good news is that you can do something about it, whether the depression strikes you or someone you love. The key is watching for danger signs.

According to You Are Not Alone, written by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, there are signals that indicate a person is really in trouble, not just having a bad day or two. These include:

- Undue prolonged anxiety that seems way out of bounds for the issue the person is dealing with. Anxiety may appear as fear or panic about an event or activity that would normally be fairly routine.

- Prolonged or severe depression that drags on or becomes pronounced for little apparent reason. Feeling inadequate, hopeless, helpless, unconfident and unduly pessimistic are all signs of depression. When someone's behavior shifts radically, especially if they withdraw from activities they enjoyed in the past, it's a sign that the depression is more than mild and professional help is needed.

- Abrupt changes in mood or behavior can be a signal of distress, unless they are obvious changes aimed at self-improvement.

- Recurring headaches or nausea, sometimes physical symptoms of stress, can be the body's way of signaling that it's under too much pressure and "something has got to give."

According to the booklet, when people are terribly upset the first indicators are often changes in eating or sleeping habits. Some people overeat, others can't eat a thing. Some people seek comfort in sleep, others become insomniacs. Depressed people are more likely to think of suicide as a solution to their problems. When anyone is experiencing depression or anxiety they should be encouraged to be with others and avoid brooding about their difficulties, the booklet advises.

It also suggests if someone close to you shows one or several of these symptoms, try to reach out to them. Let them know you feel for what they are going through. Don't be afraid to suggest they seek professional help, perhaps by saying that "talking to a professional can help you feel better faster."

Anyway, assure them that many people use counseling as a therapy tool in times of stress and, after all, the point is to relieve some of the pressure so things can get back to normal.

For more information on this topic you may want to read You Are Not Alone. The booklet may be obtained by sending $2.25 to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 169L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Open Heart Surgery

By Patricia McCormack

NEW YORK (UPI) — At the Texas Heart Institute in Houston, the first open-heart operation with the use of a heart-lung machine was performed April 5, 1956.

Between then and now, surgeons there did 50,000 of the operations, advancing quickly over the 27 years. Their crossing of the awesome frontiers is recalled in a report by surgeon-in-chief, Dr. Denton A. Cooley.

Reporting in the Texas Heart Institute Journal, Cooley's chronicle notes that the first patient died six weeks after attempts were made to fix his heart while it was shut down, the usual functions taken over by a cumbersome heart-lung machine.

On February 16, 1983, 27 years after that first operation, Cooley said, a 48-year old man underwent a double by-pass, spent seven days in the hospital, was dismissed and has had a smooth convalescence.

"The contrast between the two patients is striking," Cooley said.

"The first operation was performed on a patient with a fatal complication of a severe myocardial infarction (heart attack). The second was done more as a preventive measure against myocardial infarction to provide relief of angina pectoris and restore a symptom-free life."

The volume of cardiac operations seems to have plateaued in this hospital, ranging now around 5,000 cases each year.

Tracing the evolution of open heart surgery, Cooley breaks it into several periods, as follows:

—Early Period, 1956 to 1962. Typified by use of relatively cumbersome, reusable equipment which required tedious reassembly between cases. The maximum caseload was 250 a year and most were congenital cardiac abnormalities.

—Late Period, 1970 to 1979. The introduction of techniques to bypass a diseased segment of coronary artery. The first such procedure at the Institute was done in 1965. Cooley said this technique now accounts for more than 60 percent of the open-heart procedures. Also during this period, surgical repair for more complex congenital problems became available.

—Current Period, 1980 to 1983. The volume of open heart procedures has reached a plateau at the Institute, partly due to the use of a technique known as percutaneous transluminal coronary angioplasty.

With this procedure, a thin tube with a papermatch-size balloon on the end is snaked into a clogging artery. Then little bursts of gas inflate the balloon to push back the blocking fatty material, widening the opening.

Cooley said the final assessment of results from angioplasty, now used as an alternative for some types of heart operations, will be forthcoming within the next few years.

Reagan Is Invulnerable

Something very strange is happening between Ronald Reagan and a hostile media, something unprecedented in modern politics. Reagan seems oddly invulnerable to the daily media fusillade, and the media people are frustrated and feeling at once impotent and enraged.

Now, every administration since Eisenhower's has complained, with justification, about media distortion and bias. Yes, the networks and the Washington press corps are tiresomely liberal, and, yes, reporters try to make news by asking Reagan hostile questions.

But something entirely new is going on. The same people who gratified themselves by successfully savaging Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Carter are going up the wall about Reagan's apparent invulnerability to their verbal and electronic onslaughts.

The first expression of this frustration surfaced early, during the 1980 campaign. Jody Powell and other Carterites complained that Reagan was getting a "free ride" from the media. This sense of frustration may well have led Carter into some of his campaign extravaganzas about racism and warmongering, and set him up for Reagan's famous "there you go again" during the televised debate.

But during Reagan's presidency, media frustration has steadily increased. On his public TV show, former Carter spokesman Hodding Carter put on five important journalists — Elizabeth Drew, Sam Donaldson, Lou Cannon, Andrea Mitchell, and William Greider — and the panel concluded that Reagan had been making monkeys of the Washington press corps and the national media. They couldn't explain how, and the old "free ride" explanation is no longer plausible.

In the July issue of Public Opinion magazine, three media analysts publish interesting article analyzing coverage of Reagan. They conclude that it has been as hostile as the White House claims: "In the last analysis, the nation's reporters have written or said that Reagan is dumb, lazy, out of touch with reality, cheap, senile, ruining NATO, tearing up his own social safety net, even violating his constitutional oath. What else could anybody ask these reporters to say?... But one thing we know for sure: the White House press has neither flocked for Ronald Reagan nor ignored his shortcomings... If you don't believe it, pick up this morning's paper. Watch tonight's news."

The fascinating thing is that the attacks and the denigration are not taking hold, and Sidney Blumenthal, author of a book called The Permanent Campaign, thinks he knows why. Blumenthal is onto something in the September 12 New Republic.

When Reagan makes an error of fact, argues Blumenthal, the press corps and the media think it is very important. It shows that Reagan is ill-informed or careless. The press is very careful about facts, and facts matter greatly to a reporter. The media therefore leap upon Reagan's errors as if they were conclusive proof against him, cumulatively devastating.

Oddly enough, Reagan appears to be our most intellectual president since World War II. He has ideas, and that is his strength. And the ideas appear to be generally valid.

DON GRAFF

A Bad Case Of Masochism

JOLO, Philippines (NEA) — I've been dipping into the works of Jeanie J. Kirkpatrick during my current travels. Don't ask why. Maybe I'm coming down with a bad case of masochism.

Anyway, the editor of the sampling I have observed that the ambassador's famous essay, "Dictatorships and Double Standards," is probably more discussed than read.

That's the one where she so vigorously argues the case for U.S. support of "moderate autocrats friendly to American interests," even though the moderation can seem pretty beastly to almost any given autocrat's own people.

The ambassador's editor could be correct in this observation, and it could be to her advantage.

Arguing vigorously is one thing, doing so persuasively is another. She may be right that the Carter administration was hypocritically selective in the application of its human rights policy — coming down hard on "friendly" rightist autocrats while overlooking worse behavior by hostile regimes to the left.

But she has not convinced me that American interests in the long run are served by being associated in the eyes of the world with repressive regimes of any stripe for whatever reason.

The ambassador mentions the Philippines only fleetingly. She might profitably, for her argument, have paid the country more attention. It makes a better example in some respects than several she chose.

Or it did at the time of her writing, before recent developments exposed the fatal flaw this autocracy shares with most others.

There is no question that the regime of President Ferdinand Marcos and his hyperactive helpmate, Imelda, is autocratic.

Nor that it is friendly to the United States and supportive of U.S. interests, although the price of support can come high. Further, until the last few weeks the Marcoses looked good compared to your typical Kirkpatrick autocrat, who, she herself admits, is primarily interested in preserving a status quo.

Sure, there is corruption here. And rigged elections and a controlled press and rule by emergency powers that make any discussion of human rights academic.

But it could be argued that the presidential couple has been sincerely interested in the economic development and unification of the Philippines. No easy task in a nation of 50 million inhabiting 7,000 islands, speaking scores of languages and dialects, and divided by two major religions.

A firm hand in such a situation may be essential.

They have stifled legitimate dissent, eroded the institutions of representative government and made it likely that when power does pass from them, as it surely will eventually, the process will not be orderly but violent.

Deficiencies Made Missiles A Must

WASHINGTON — There is more to the great missile controversy, now under discussion in Geneva, than the press has reported.

The decision to deploy Pershing II and cruise missiles in western Europe not only shook up the Kremlin (which launched a massive propaganda campaign against it), but alarmed many Europeans who see the deployment as a dangerous escalation in the terrifying game of showdown.

Why did NATO decide it had to modernize its nuclear forces despite the high risk of political backlash? The explanations are found in classified documents, which my associate Dale Van Atta has reviewed.

A top-secret State Department report, for example, describes the deficiencies of the NATO forces now in place. Of the 72 Pershing IA missile launchers in Germany, the report complains:

"The Pershing missile system has been in the inventory for a long time and is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain. The system is manpower-intensive as presently configured. The accuracy and yields of available warheads make them unsuitable for some limited attacks. The missile range is insufficient to place targets in the Soviet Union at risk."

NATO wants to deploy 572 Pershing II and cruise missiles in western Europe to offset what is perceived to be a Soviet advantage. Of urgent concern to the West are approximately 250 SS-20 mobile missiles that the Soviets have trained on Europe; each of these awesome missiles can fire three warheads.

The United States also has more than 600 bombers in Europe. But they face more than 900 Soviet Badgers, Blinders and Backfires. Cautions the top-secret report:

"While dual-capable aircraft are a valuable and versatile element of NATO's forces, all the land-based aircraft, except the F-111, lack the range to threaten credible strategic targets in the Soviet Union."

The report describes the submarine-launched Poseidon and Polaris missiles assigned to NATO as "the most survivable systems available to NATO." But the report warns that they "are generally regarded as 'strategic' systems whose use prior to General Nuclear Response might convey an overly escalatory signal to the Soviet Union."

There are also problems with "yields and accuracy" which make the submarine missiles "unsuitable for many of the desired (Soviet) targets." In other words, NATO has a choice between inadequate weapons that would be an ineffective deterrent and apocalyptic weapons that could turn a "limited nuclear war" in Europe into a global holocaust.

That's the reason the military brass decided to deploy 464 ground-launched cruise missiles and another 108 mobile Pershing II missiles in five European countries this year.

Footnote: A worried Yuri Andropov suddenly offered to scrap enough Soviet medium-range missiles in Europe, including SS-20s, to bring the total down to the number of British and French missiles — if the United States will change its plan to deploy the Pershing II and cruise missiles.

HOT ARGUMENT: Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker's management of the nation's money supply has sparked many a heated discussion — but few hotter than this:

Once he got into a tiff with Murray Weidenbaum, President Reagan's then chief economic adviser, it happened on the last of many trips that Weidenbaum made across town to soothe relations between the White House and the Fed.

Between puffs on a fat cigar, a testy Volcker flicked ashes into a trash container while he complained that the administration was doing nothing about deficits but was blaming him for high interest rates. Suddenly Volcker was engulfed in a cloud of smoke: conspicuously larger than his cigar had produced. Weidenbaum leaped to his feet, knocked over the blazing trash container and stamped out the flames.

Oblivious to it all, Volcker rumbled on.

County Humane Society Wins National Award

CHICAGO — The Humane Society of Seminole County, Inc. has been selected one of 15 winners in the Pets Are Wonderful (PAW) Council's 1983 National Shelter Awards competition.

The annual awards program is sponsored by the PAW Council, a national not-for-profit, public service organization, to recognize outstanding work by shelters in the areas of pet adoption, fund raising, humane education, community image and pet registration/identification.

The Humane Society of Seminole County, Inc. won in the fund raising category.

The winning program, "Have A Heart for Homeless Animals," raised $2,000 for the Seminole group. The program received extensive community support and united the efforts of school children who collected 1,000 S&H Green Stamp books in less than one month's time. Money raised from the "stamp collection drive" was used by the Society to build its new shelter.

Winners were selected from more than 50 entries submitted in the competition this year. Judges included representatives from The Humane Society of the United States and the American Humane Association. Award recipients were selected on the basis of their programs' originality, results and effectiveness within the community. Each winner received an honorary plaque in addition to a cash prize.

The programs of all 1983 Shelter Awards winners will be featured in an annually updated resource manual developed by the PAW Council and distributed to more than 2,700 animal shelters and societies nationwide to enable other organizations to learn of and benefit from these successful new programs.

Founded in 1981, the Pets Are Wonderful Council is dedicated to communicating the joys and rewards of responsible pet ownership. It serves as a pet news and information bureau, sponsors school programs, develops community relations materials for animal shelters, works with national researchers studying the healthful relationships between people and animals and organizes Pets Are Wonderful Month every April.

Don't Turn On TV — Prep Football Offers 'Electrifying' Lineup

Although the first kickoff is still a night away, I can guarantee you that the new fall high school football season will be a lot more exciting than the new fall television lineup.

What better way to spend a Friday night than to support your local high school and see some good football in the process? I mean, you could stay home and watch Mr. Chimp Goes to Washington or Celebrity Sharkfighting or some junk like that (excuse the "valley" terminology).

Wouldn't you rather watch Seminole High break its losing streak than watch somebody winning a million dollars (when you know its not you) on Lottery. Or you could watch that dazzling backfield combination of J.W. Yarborough and Barry Williams at Oviedo instead of a bunch of people dying on St. Elsewhere.

Or, how about Harry Nelson leading his Lake Mary Rams into battle instead of Mr. T and friends blowing up everything in sight. Entertainment Tonight? How about the Lake Howell Silver Hawks going after the Five Star Conference title instead of Brooke Shields outgrowing her Calvins and her cuteness.

So, don't touch that dial. Don't even turn on the set. Seminole County football in 1983 promises to be electrifying with six teams that will provide a lot of "great moments."

Here is a look at the first week of the 1983 Fearless Fister Forecast (that's FFF on your cable converter chart):

TITUSVILLE ASTRONAUT AT SEMINOLE

If the Seminole High football team was a new fall TV show in 1982 it would have been cancelled after four weeks. The Tribe didn't have much to cheer about as it went 0-10 a year ago. But, the drought will end on Friday night. It may not be time to call Seminole a "Dynasty" but the streak will be snapped as the 'Noles ground Astronaut. Seminole by 8.

LYMAN AT BOONE

You might as well throw the Boone Braves to the wolves. Throwing them to the 'Hounds will be just as painful. Not even Chief Noc A Homa can save these Braves. Lyman by 30.

Posey Wants Return To Even Keel

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

There is nothing like an 0-10 season for a coach to do a lot of soul searching. But after nine months of looking deep inside and out, Seminole High football coach Jerry Posey still remains perplexed by last year's winless campaign.

"I'm trying to forget," Posey laughed.

Seminole Football

"Trying to brush it off."

But you know it hurts because here is a coach used to winning. And you know it will be tough to brush off because a record like 0-10 will be remembered second only to a 10-0

Still, Posey said he feels his seniors will bounce back from last year's adversity and make 1983 a season to remember. "The returning seniors are the key," he said Tuesday, three days before Seminole would host Titusville Astronaut in the season opener Friday at 8 p.m. "It hurt them last year because a lot of these kids are good athletes and or another and they ask themselves, 'Just what happened?.' When you go down like we did, it's a bigger challenge to come back. It makes you work harder."

Does Posey feel any pressure that if another losing year follows, his job may be in jeopardy?

"Right now, the only pressure I feel is the pressure we coaches put on ourselves," he said. "It's more pride than anything else. Just like any human being, we look back at the past (successes) and say, 'we did this and we did that...and we want to continue to do those good things.' When you get slapped down like we did, it kind of humbles you."

Has he felt any pressure from Seminole Principal Wayne Epps or the boosters club?

"I haven't had anybody jumping on me," replied Posey. "Mr. Epps hasn't come down and said, 'you better either win or we're going to get rid of you.' But he (Epps) wants a winner like everybody else. If you're going to get into this football business, you gotta realize that winning starts at the high school level. You better win (to keep your job)."

And what about the community?

"I know this town. They sit back and ride. But if we don't get this program back on keel — whether it takes us another year or two years — after a while they're going to be looking and wondering themselves, 'why can't we get back where we were?'"

First priority, of course, is breaking the 11-game losing streak. Then, how many games can this team win?

"I really don't know," Posey said. "We have some very good athletes, but some haven't been tested. We could be .500 or we could be a lot better."

Could Seminole bounce back from a losing season to win the district as it did in 1981?

"Yes. Hell, if it wasn't possible, there wouldn't be any need for us to be out here," said Posey. "We've talked with the kids about it. They are a very determined group. All you have to do is get a few breaks and stay away from injuries to have things go your way."

Seminole hopes that first break comes Friday night — a broken War Eagle.

TEPEE TALK — Seminole starting guard David Linton was incorrectly identified once Thursday's story as Jeff David Linton. There's no Jeff involved.

Seminole football coach Jerry Posey surveys his Seminoles.

"I know this town. They sit back and ride. But if we don't get this program back on an even keel — whether it takes us another year or two years — after a while they're going to be looking and wondering themselves, 'why can't we get back where we were.'" — Jerry Posey winners. They don't want to go through another 0-10."

What makes a team tumble from the top (1981 conference and district champions) to the cellar?

"If we look long and hard, I guess we can find all kind of ways to explain it," said Posey. "Just like anything else you can come up with excuses and reasons, but I don't know if you can pinpoint one thing."

Then he ticked off losing four possible starters during the summer including defensive leader William Wynn with a severe thigh bruise. Another starter was lost in the first game with a broken arm. The senior leadership was also missing, he said. And an unsettled quarterback position didn't help either.

How does he expect to bounce back?

"Every year is a challenge," said Posey about this fall. "Of course, when you get knocked down like we did, a lot of time it takes a little extra effort to get up."

So far, Posey has gotten that effort from his players and his coaches. "I'm sure all coaches go through it one time

Deep Lady Patriots, Rams Run After Banner Seasons

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The year 1983 could be a banner one for a pair of Seminole County girls cross country teams. Lake Brantley has five of its top seven runners coming back from last year's team that finished fourth in the state. The Patriots were ranked fourth in the 4A preseason poll. The other team is Lake Mary's Lady Rams, who have all seven returning along with a freshman who will be one of the top three or four runners. The Rams were ranked ninth in the 4A preseason poll.

Meanwhile, Seminole High is in a rebuilding year as it lost four of its top five from a year ago. Lake Howell lost six of its top eight and is facing an uphill battle, but it already started its climb with an impressive showing at the Seminole Summertime Jamboree. Lyman is about in the same boat as Seminole and Lake Howell while Trinity Prep could take it all with standout junior Adrienne Poltowicz and freshman Katie Sams leading the way.

All of the Seminole County teams will open the '83 season Saturday in the Lyman Invitational at Seminole Community College.

Seminole — The Lady Seminoles are perhaps the most inexperienced team in the county and possibly the entire Central Florida area. Lifting a big weight off coach Ted Tombros' shoulders, however, will be junior Sarah Ellmore, a transfer from Lyman. "We are expecting big things from Sarah this season," Tombros said. "She will be an important factor in the success of Seminole Cross Country."

Sophomore Debbie Coleman is expected to be right at the top with Ellmore. "Debbie will be one of the top sophomores in the area this year," Tombros said. "She and Sarah will be the number one and two runners."

There are four runners that are battling for the next three spots in the top five including senior Jackie Sims, juniors Glenda Bass and Katrina Walker and freshman Sheila Crawford. "All four are battling for the 4, 5 and 6 spots and have looked good at times," Tombros said. "They are trading off day to day."

The sixth and seventh spots will probably be filled by Crystal Caldwell and Sharon Jenkins, a pair of standouts on the Seminole track team. "Both girls can be an immediate help to us," Tombros said. "All they need is to get some cross country experience."

Rounding out the team will be seniors Lovisa Strickland, Jackie Johnson and Traci Brown and freshman Andrienne Sessions.

"The inexperience is going to hurt us in the early going," Tombros said. "But we will improve as the season goes on." Also hurting the Lady Tribe will be the absence of Lisa Grant, the most experienced distance runner on the team, who decided to pass up the cross country season.

Lake Mary — Lady Rams' coach Mike Gibson is a little skeptical about being ranked ninth in the preseason poll, but the Lady

Cross Country

Rams have the talent to be a force to be reckoned with in '83.

The main addition to the squad is the one that could make all the difference in the world for Lake Mary. Freshman Sue Kingsbury could very well be the Rams number one runner this season and she got off to a good start with an eighth place finish and with a time of 13:04.7 in the Seminole Summertime Jamboree. As an eighth grader, Kingsbury turned in a time of 12:45 in the 2-mile in an age group meet and she ran a 4-mile road race in 26:00.

The holder of Lake Mary's fastest 2-mile in a cross country meet is junior Kim Averill. Averill's best time is 12:26 and she will be looked to for leadership again in '83.

The number three runner made about as much progress as anybody on the team a year ago. That is junior Liz Stone, who has Lake Mary's second best time (not including other Averill times) at 13:01.

Three more juniors have all ran under 14 minutes and they will fill the number four, five and six spots. Shannon Weger is the number four runner, her best time is 13:39. At number five is Andrea Beardslee, who's best time is 13:45 and at number six is Fran Gordon who turned in a 13:55. Not far behind at number seven is senior Maureen Friel who's top time is 14:01.

Depth comes from junior Amy Maher (14:29 in two miles on the track), senior Michelle Marnitz (14:39) and senior Sara Karen (14:45). Christine Marshall is the only other senior on the team while other juniors include Cheryl Canady, Kimberly Harrison, Sonja Walker and Lisa McCurdy. Sophomores are Kim Waeger, Nikki Hays, Tina Wade and Anquennette Whack and freshmen are Tracey Blakely, Christine Viner and Amy Mitro.

Lake Brantley — The Lady Patriots definitely have a chance to be a 4A powerhouse for the second year in a row. The loss of Ellen Stern to graduation is the only setback, but the five top returnees have a year's more experience and ready to put it to use. The Lady Patriots received a 4th place ranking in the preseason poll behind Orange Park, Northeast and Tampa Leto.

Leading the way will be senior Kathryn Hayward, who was ranked 16th in the preseason individual poll. Hayward was one of the top milers in the state during the track season and is looking forward to a banner senior year.

Adding fuel to the Patriots' fire is senior Barbara Holmes and junior Joanne Hayward. Holmes was 18th in the summertime jamboree while Hayward was 27th. Kim Lubenow, Kim Paccelli and Tracy Rowland will also play important roles for Lake

See DEEP, Page 7A.

Anxious Cheerleaders

The Seminole High varsity cheerleaders are as anxious to break the Tribe's 11-game football winning streak as the players. They will debut Friday at 8 p.m. when the Seminoles open with Titusville Astronaut. In the front row from the left are Anita Smith, Susana Huaman, Tisha Tipton and

Chris, Jimmy Seek 2nd Triumph Of Ecstasy

NEW YORK (UPI) — One more time, Chris and Jimmy may share a moment of splendor, a triumph of ecstasy.

Through the years, no two people have enjoyed more success than Chris Evert Lloyd and Jimmy Connors in the U.S. Open, and they are well on course to adding to their magnificent laurels.

Between them they own 10 singles titles, and their record of consistency in this national championship is unparalleled. Evert, a six-time winner, has reached the semifinals 13 consecutive years and her one-time fencer has attained that level 10 straight times.

One after the other, the two defending champions claimed their traditional place Wednesday, and they did so in championship style. Connors, overcoming some early problems with his serve caused by a high wind, defeated 14th seed Elliot Teltscher, 7-6, 6-2, 6-2. Evert followed, continuing her domination of No. 8 seed Hana Mandlikova, 6-4, 6-3.

Pro Tennis

In the semifinals, Connors will meet 16th seed Bill Scanlon, who pulled out a magnificent 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 victory over his good friend and practice partner Mark Dickson Wednesday night, and Evert opposes No. 14 Jo Durie, who overpowered Ivanna Madruga-Oses, 6-2, 6-2.

The other berth in the men's semifinals, scheduled for Saturday, will be determined today when second seed Ivan Lendl plays No. 5 Mats Wilander in the afternoon and No. 4 Yannick Noah opposes No. 9 Jimmy Arias at night.

The women's semis will be played

Friday, with No. 1 Martina Navratilova facing No. 5 Pam Shriver in the other pairing.

Scanlon, who knocked out top seed John McEnroe on Monday, was extended for 4 hours and 14 minutes before subduing Dickson 7-4 in the decisive tie-break. The 23-year-old Dickson had broken serve in the 10th game to force the tie-break.

"I don't know how to compare this victory to the one over McEnroe," Scanlon said. "Both presented their own different challenge."

Dickson, who said he hoped Scanlon realized he could win this championship, pinpointed the difference between them by saying, "I didn't realize how tough mentally you have to be to be among the top players. He was just a little tougher than me."

Raines: 'No Stopping Expos'

Tim's Double Gives Montreal Sole Possession Of 1st A.L./N.L. Baseball

Montreal's Tim Raines didn't want to get carried away, but...

"If everyone plays up to their potential there's no stopping the Expos now," said Raines, whose two-run double highlighted a four-run second inning that carried Montreal to a 6-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs and into sole possession of first place in the East.

"Defensively, we're playing real well, we're getting the pitching and we're getting the clutch hitting," he said. "If we just keep doing it day in and day out, we're just going to keep winning ballgames. If we keep playing the way we're playing in this homestand — with 10 wins and three losses — we will go all the way."

Montreal, which won its fourth straight, is a half-game ahead of Philadelphia, one game ahead of Pittsburgh and 1 1/2 games ahead of St. Louis in the tight race.

Steve Rogers, who has an NL-leading 17 victories against nine losses, hurled his 13th complete game of the year, walking two and striking out four while yielding five hits. Dickie Noles, 5-9, took the loss.

"Even though I have a good record against Chicago (21-10), I don't feel I've dominated them or anyone else," Rogers said. "They could put out a starting lineup that could come at you as hard as anyone in this league, particularly in September when they haven't put a season together like they'd like. I just don't feel like I've dominated anybody."

The Cubs scored their only run in the first when Thad Bosley reached on shortstop Doug Flynn's error and went to third on Ryne Sandberg's single. Montreal manager Bill Virdon argued that Bosley never touched second and announced he was playing the game under protest. Bosley eventually scored on Ron Cey's double-play ball.

In the second, Flynn and Rogers had RBI singles and Raines made it 4-1 with his double. Terry Francona hit a solo homer for the Expos in the sixth to make it 5-1 and Garry Carter added an RBI single in the seventh.

Phillies 6, Mets 1
At New York, John Denny scattered nine hits and Joe Lefebvre's two-run single highlighted a four-run seventh to lift the Phillies. Denny ran his record to 14-6 and Walt Terrell took the loss. Mike Schmidt hit his 34th home run of the season and 383th of his career, putting him 21st on the all-time list, ahead of Mets manager Frank Howard.

Cards 5, Pirates 2
At St. Louis, Danny Cox pitched a five-hitter over 8 1/3 innings and Ozzie Smith had three hits, drove in a run and scored once to drop the Pirates out of a first-place tie in the East.

Padres 8, Astros 7
At San Diego, Nolan Ryan failed to hold a 7-0 lead and Terry Kennedy's solo homer climaxed a four-run seventh that rallied the Padres. Kennedy, who has 15 homers this season, now has hit one in each of his last four games and in five of his last six.

Giants 2, Braves 1
At San Francisco, Jack Clark's two-run homer with two out in the eighth boosted the Giants. Clark's homer, his 19th of the season, came off Pascual Perez, 13-7. Rookie Scott Garrelts, 1-0, picked up his first major-league victory by holding the Braves to six hits and one run over eight innings. Chris Chambliss popped a towering homer into the upper deck in right field for the Braves' lone run in the fourth inning.

Dodgers 7, Reds 3
At Los Angeles, Mike Marshall hit a grand slam with one out in the bottom of the 10th to help the snap a three-game losing streak. The decision, coupled with Atlanta's loss, boosted the Dodgers' lead to two games in the West.

Yankees 11, Brewers 5
Nearly getting their fingers bruised in the process, the New York Yankees nevertheless managed to keep the door open on their chances to win the American League East.

The Yankees, despite allowing the Brewers to creep back in the game and needing ace reliever Rich Gossage after they had built an 8-1 lead, rebounded from two straight losses to Milwaukee and posted an 11-5 victory Wednesday night over the Brewers.

A loss would have dropped the Yankees 6 1/2 games back, including seven in the loss column, and even the prospect of playing eight games against Baltimore may not have helped.

"It's a tough road to hoe," Gossage said. "We came in here trying to gain ground before we play Baltimore this weekend. Hopefully, when we play them, we'll sweep them."

New York starter Ray Fontenot, 6-2, allowed four runs and seven hits over the first seven innings. Reliever George Frazier yielded a three-run homer to Ted Simmons that pulled the Brewers within 8-5, but Gossage earned his 18th save by fanning Ben Oglivie and getting Jim Gantner on a double play ball.

"I love pressure situations," Gossage said. "I'm a better player in a pressure situation. The big out for me was getting Oglivie. He knows what I throw and he's capable of hitting it out. We had a good battle, but this time I won."

Orioles 5, Red Sox 2
At Baltimore, John Lowenstein hit a solo home run and Joe Nolan and Lenn Sakata added run-scoring doubles to lead the Orioles and Mike Flanagan, 10-3, over the Red Sox. Tippy Martinez notched his 15th save. Dennis Boyd, 4-5, took the loss.

Rangers 3, Twins 0
At Arlington, Texas, Charlie Hough pitched a three-hitter for his third straight shutout and extended his streak of scoreless innings to 29 to spark the Twins. Hough, 13-12, tied a club record for most consecutive scoreless innings, set by Ferguson Jenkins in 1974.

Royals 3, Mariners 2
At Kansas City Mo., U.L. Washington's seventh-inning single scored Don Slaught from third to lift Paul Splittorff, 11-7, and the Royals. Dan Quisenberry notched his 37th save, leaving him one shy of the major-league single-season record set by Detroit's John Hiller in 1973.

White Sox 8, A's 7
At Chicago, Julio Cruz' infield single with one out in the 10th scored Harold Baines from third to lift the White Sox. The triumph was Chicago's ninth straight at home and reduced their magic number for clinching the West title to 10. The loss was the A's sixth straight.

Angels 9, Blue Jays 6
At Toronto, pinch hitter Daryl Sconiers triggered a five-run ninth with a three-run double, rallying California. Luis Sanchez, who relieved in the seventh, improved to 9-7.

Tigers 1-7, Indians 7-3
At Cleveland, pinch hitter John Wockenfuss highlighted a four-run ninth with a two-run single to pace the Tigers and Dan Petry, 16-8, in the nightcap. In the opener, Lary Sorenson, 10-9, got his seventh complete game and Gorman Thomas hit his 21st homer.

Tender Elbow Sacks Bradshaw For Half The Season

By United Press International
The Pittsburgh Steelers were dealt a severe blow Wednesday when it was learned that quarterback Terry Bradshaw could miss as much as half the season with a tender right elbow.

Bradshaw, a two-time All-Pro, revealed that his arm was in worse shape than originally thought. He made his comments as the Steelers, 0-1, were preparing for Sunday's game at Green Bay.

"I'm looking at about six to eight weeks," Bradshaw said. "Once I can prove to (coach) Chuck Noll that my arm is 100 percent, I'll get back to practice."

But Bradshaw, 34, who is on the four-week injured reserve list because of his inability to throw without pain, added that he doesn't think he will be able to do much before that.

His backup, Cliff Stoudt, was unimpressive in the Steelers' loss last Sunday to Denver and has already is under intense pressure in Pittsburgh.

In tonight's game, the San Francisco 49ers take on the Minnesota Vikings at Minneapolis, Minn.

The Vikings, noted as a passing team, surprised the Cleveland Browns last Sunday with a strong running game, totaling 189 yards in a 27-21 victory.

The 49ers are concerned not only with deciphering the Vikings' complicated pass system and their new running game — but also in getting their own ground attack going.

In other Sunday games, it will be Seattle at New York, Buffalo at Cincinnati, Chicago at Tampa Bay, Cleveland at Detroit, Dallas at St. Louis, the New York Giants at Atlanta, Washington at Philadelphia, Denver at Baltimore, Houston at the Los Angeles Raiders, New England at Miami and New Orleans at the Los Angeles Rams.

year. Lake Brantley has matured into a good football team after a 2-8 season a year ago and they have one of the best defenses around. Lake Brantley by four.

BISHOP MOORE AT LAKE HOWELL
The starting quarterback job at Lake Howell will be decided Friday night as Darin Slack and Troy Quackenbush will each play a half. Neither QB should have little difficulty moving the ball against Bishop Moore, though. The Silver Hawks will start the '83 season on a winning note. Lake Howell by 21.

MELBOURNE AT OVIEDO
Melbourne could have given the Lions trouble last year, but they lost a lot of their top people. Yarborough and Williams will take turns running over the Melbourne defense as the Lions win big in their opener. Oviedo by 17.

UCF AT GEORGIA SOUTHERN
Turning to college football, the UCF Knights, a big 37-7 winner over Elizabeth City State in their opener, will have their winning streak halted at one. Georgia Southern is one of the best small college teams in the south. Georgia Southern by 11.

FLORIDA AT USC
The Gators were pretty impressive in rolling over Miami last week. The Trojans aren't going anywhere in '83, they're on probation. USC also has a new coach and a new system and the Gators will take advantage of it and pull off the upset. Florida by 3.

FLORIDA STATE AT LSU
The Tigers have a mean ground attack that will eat up a Florida State defense which gave up 48 points to East Carolina. The Seminoles won't be able to run all over the LSU defense like they did East Carolina's either. Make it two upsets in a row. LSU by 12.

TAMPA BAY AT CHICAGO
So, the Bucs' offense will do just fine without Doug Williams. Sure it will. Last Sunday proved two things to Tampa Bay fans, the preseason does not mean much at all, and the Bucs never should have let Williams go. After losing 11-0 to Detroit, the Bears will keep the Bucs in their misery. Bears by 24.

NEW ENGLAND AT MIAMI
At least one Florida professional team will win this week. The Patriots lost to the Baltimore Colts last week and the Dolphins will send the Pats packing. Dolphins by 28.

Brantley in its quest for state prominence in 1983.

Lake Howell — Although it lost six of its top eight runners to graduation, Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks have some talented returnees along with a fine group of freshman. Lake Howell had a good jamboree with five of its runners finishing in the top 35.

"Since we lost 6 of 8 we are looking at a rebuilding year," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammonree said. "We have our number two and three runners back, but that's about it."

The top two returnees are junior Lyn Lucas and sophomore Angie Smith, who ran 2 and 3 last season but will be 1 and 2 this year. Smith was 13th at the jamboree with a time of 13:32.2 and Lucas was 16th at 13:35.7. A trio of freshman were also impressive at the jamboree, a good sign for the future for the Lady Hawks. They included Lisa Samockl who was 28th, Mary Fonseca who was 32nd and Martha Fonseca who came in 35th.

The only two seniors on the team are Kim McCollum, a returning letterman, and Monica Osgood. Other returning letterman include juniors Nancy Nystrom, Angie Rector and Debbie Van Orden.

Providing depth for the Hawks are junior Hillary Stout, sophomores Amy Ertel, Kathleen Fowler, Megan Lane, Tracie

Mashore and Lara Ruddy and freshmen Ana Cristina Benavides, Ana Isabel Benavides, Micki Blackerby, Christine Gringer, Kim Hammonree, Beas Harold, Allison Hardy and Mary Mathis.

Lyman — The loss of Ellmore (transfer to Seminole) will hurt the Greyhounds as she was one of Lyman's top five runners. Cindy Gaskell will lead the way in '83 and she came through with a good performance in the jamboree with a seventh place finish at 12:59.7. Gaskell is gearing up for her senior year with the Greyhounds.

Gaskell is joined in the top five by Julie Greenburg (59th at jamboree), Vaun Tschieder and Robin Wilbur.

Druze Won't Bomb Peace-Keeping Troops

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Druze Moslem gunners agreed to stop bombarding peace-keeping troops in Beirut, but U.S. envoy Robert McFarlane pressed for a total cease-fire in the four-day-old fighting east of the embattled capital.

The Druze said they would stop shelling targets near peace-keeping troops a few hours after U.S. F-14 Tomcat fighters and French Super Etendards buzzed the Beirut area Wednesday in a stern warning to the Moslem gunners.

The announcement came after McFarlane held two hours of talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad on a total cease-fire in Lebanon, sources said. More talks may take place today, they said.

Israel Nixes Aid

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — A Cabinet minister ruled out Israeli intervention in shoring up the Lebanese government, saying Beirut's request for assistance shows "a lot of nerve on their part."

"We did not leave the Beirut area and the Beirut-Damascus highway in order to return there," Energy Minister Yitzhak Mordechai said hours before Rosh Hashana, year 5744 in the Jewish calendar, began at sunset Wednesday.

As thousands of Israelis congregated in houses of worship and dined in family get-togethers, the Lebanese government warned that a joint Palestinian-Druze Moslem force was driving toward Beirut on the highway from which Israeli forces withdrew Sunday.

Shultz Confronts Soviets Over KAL Jet

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Having accused each other of lying, Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko headed toward a face-to-face confrontation today over Russia's downing of a Korean airliner.

Their planned meeting, coming at the closing session of the 35-nation European Security Conference, was clouded by increasingly bitter rhetoric from both sides Wednesday in an unprecedented series of public statements.

On the eve of their first face-to-face meeting since the Soviet Union shot down Korean Air Lines Flight 007 with 269 civilians on board — including 61 Americans — Shultz and Gromyko accused each other of lying about the incident.

Both men said they believed today's meeting — scheduled for one hour at the U.S. ambassador's residence — would take place as planned despite the verbal clashes Wednesday.

Shultz was visibly angry Wednesday after listening to a speech by Gromyko in which the Soviet official defended his nation's action last Thursday and repeated charges that the South Korean plane was spying for the United States.

U.S. officials flatly denied any connection between American intelligence and the flight of the Korean Boeing 747, which wandered into Soviet Far Eastern airspace over the Kamchatka peninsula.

Andrej Gromyko George Shultz
...exchange harsh words over jettliner

After Gromyko's address to the Madrid conference, which is reviewing the 1975 Helsinki accord on human rights and European security, Shultz charged:

"He (Gromyko) speaks of dishonest juggling of facts and falsehoods. The falsehoods have been continuous and juggling of the facts is too mild a way of expressing the falsehoods on the part of the Soviet Union."

In his meeting with Gromyko, Shultz had said he would discuss nothing but human rights matters, including the plane incident, in which all aboard presumably died.

If Shultz was not satisfied with Gromyko's responses, a tentative meeting between the two men, set for late September in New York, could be canceled.

The Americans canceled a planned preliminary luncheon as "inappropriate."

Besides the KAL incident, Shultz said he would bring up Soviet refusal to allow some Soviet citizens, including Jews, to emigrate and join their families.

Shultz spent his first day in Madrid lining up support for allied action to punish Moscow for shooting down the airliner and to deter future tragedies.

U.S. officials said they expected the allied actions to take the form of sanctions in the field of civil aviation, to be limited in duration and mild enough to win general support from all countries.

The incident overshadowed the Madrid conference with Eastern and Western European speakers lining up on opposite sides of the issue. The Eastern bloc accused "some countries" of trying to destroy the system of detente and create unnecessary tensions.

Soviet Vessel May Have Found Plane Wreckage

TOKYO (UPI) — A Soviet naval vessel today dropped lines into the Sea of Japan in an expanded search for the wreckage of a downed Korean Air Lines jet, fueling speculation the Soviets have found pieces of the aircraft, Japanese officials said.

A Japan Maritime Safety Agency spokesman said a single naval vessel — tentatively identified as a Moma class Okean survey vessel — lowered either two ropes or cables into waters 18 miles northwest of Moneron, a tiny island west of Soviet-held Sakhalin, where the KAL jet was believed to have crashed.

The 714-foot long ship has a displacement of 1,240 tons, large enough to haul large pieces of the airliner. Dropping of the lines triggered speculation that wreckage of the jet shot down a week ago west of Sakhalin with 269 people aboard, had been found.

A total of 47 Soviet vessels, mostly fishing boats, were in the area, the spokesman said.

"We are not sure yet if they (the Soviets) have found any traces of the downed plane," a spokesman said.

The United States today urged Japan to take swift action against Moscow, government sources said.

Japanese and American searches in the area outside Soviet territorial waters so far have failed to turn up any debris related to the Korean plane.

"Our ships have criss-crossed the entire search area, but we have yet to find any debris that can be linked to the KAL plane," said Masayoshi Kato, the official in charge of the search operation.

"The chance that something may come up now has dimmed."

U.S. Ambassador to Japan Mike Mansfield told Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe of the need for a swift and concrete action against Moscow, Foreign Ministry sources said.

Abe, however, said Japan needed to maintain basic relations between Tokyo and Moscow and that any retaliatory action will depend on future moves by the Kremlin, the sources said.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone said earlier the Soviet charges that Tokyo and Washington share responsibility for the incident "are totally irrelevant and are aimed at avoiding responsibility."

Japan's Maritime Safety Agency said 43 Soviet fishing vessels were seen on radar screens near the area where Soviets patrol boats and other craft continued their search operations today.

U.S. Marines Could Take On Added Combat Role In Lebanon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1,200 U.S. Marines in Lebanon could be taking on more of a combat role in helping the Lebanese Army halt Syrian and militia shelling of Beirut, Lebanese Ambassador Abdullah Bouhabbib says.

Bouhabbib said Lebanese and U.S. officials are discussing options for the Marines, which range from a more active role to what he called the unlikely option of "withdrawing troops and failure."

He told reporters Wednesday the Marines may take on more of a combat role in an effort to halt the shelling and Syria's potential for moving into areas evacuated by Israeli forces.

"It is one of many options," Bouhabbib said at a news conference. "There are discussions now. No decisions have been made."

He said possible use of U.S. warplanes from the carrier Eisenhower off Lebanon's coast was also being discussed.

The 1,200 Marines are in Lebanon as part of a 5,000-man multinational peace-keeping force stationed there for a year. The force also includes French, British and Italian troops.

Four Marines already have been killed by hostile fire on their positions near Beirut International Airport, two of them Tuesday.

Bouhabbib said militia artillery directed at the Marines in their positions near Beirut International Airport "is Soviet (made) but came through Syria to groups armed and trained by Syria." Syrian forces were also directly participating in the shelling, he said.

"I want to extend my condolences and those of my government to the families and friends of the two Marines who were killed yesterday," Bouhabbib said. "These men died in defense of values we hold dear and we mourn them with you."

Asked if Lebanon fears the possibility of an American withdrawal from the multinational force, the ambassador said, "We have received continued assurances from the United States they are committed to maintaining the sovereignty and independence of Lebanon."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Tuesday President Reagan plans "no change whatsoever" in the status of the Marines and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the Marines are on "a difficult and costly" mission that "has not yet been completed."

The Lebanese Army, Bouhabbib said, wants to do the job itself but faces greater difficulties since the Israelis began withdrawing from northern Lebanon and Syrian and militia forces began moving into the vacuum and intensifying shelling and rocketing of parts of Beirut.

State Seeks Court-Ordered Cancer Treatment For Girl

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — State officials are asking an appeals court to force a fundamentalist Christian pastor and his wife to permit chemotherapy treatments for their cancer-stricken daughter, who insists "God can heal me."

The state Department of Human Services says if Pamela Hamilton, 12, undergoes the treatments she will have a 50 percent chance of surviving. The girl and her parents, however, say they want to rely on faith in God.

Attorneys for Larry and Deborah Hamilton said they would tell the Tennessee Court of Appeals today that the family's freedom to practice their religion was being threatened, but state officials said it was a case of child neglect.

Dennis Prewitt, county director for the Human Services Department, said Pamela was suffering from Ewing's Sarcoma, a form of cancer that starts in the bones and spreads to the lungs.

"With treatment, she has a 50-50 chance of survival," Prewitt said. "Without it, doctors give her absolutely no chance of living longer than six months."

Campbell County Juvenile Court Judge Charles Herman placed a tear-eyed Pamela in custody of state officials Wednesday, and ordered that she be taken to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis.

But hours later, attorneys for the Hamiltons convinced the appeals court to stay Herman's order until it could hear arguments on the case.

Czech Family Escapes In Balloon

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — A family of four Czechoslovak refugees escaped to Austria early today in a daring nighttime flight over the border in a hot air balloon, the Interior Ministry said.

"They arrived healthy, safe and sound after a smooth landing," a ministry spokesman said. "Their request for asylum will almost certainly be accepted, but it still has to be fully processed."

The balloon touched down around midnight near the northeastern town of Falkenstein, a few miles from the Czechoslovak border with Austria, he said.

The Ministry said aboard the balloon was a family of four, including an 11-year-old boy and a 14-year-old girl. Their names were not immediately released.

The family applied to the Austrian authorities for political asylum on arrival, the spokesman said.

Surprise 64th Wedding Anniversary

Niece Feels Guilty Over Aunt's Lengthy Letters

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe that I, a 51-year-old successful businesswoman, am actually writing a "Dear Abby" letter, but here I am.

I have an 87-year-old widowed aunt living in an exclusive senior citizens residence. She is educated, well-traveled and "has all her marbles."

The problem: She loves to write letters, so every week I get a letter that runs anywhere from 10 to 15 pages! If I don't answer immediately, she writes and asks if I'm "All right," or if I am angry with her. Lately I've been writing postcards because I don't have time to write long letters.

Today I received a letter from my aunt telling me how "hurt" she is that I'm down to postcards. She also scolded me for not answering all her questions. (Abby, she asks dozens in every letter!)

I know she's my aunt, I know she's old, and I know she's alone. So why do I feel frustrated, guilt and anger at this moment? And what should I do about it?

READY TO SCREAM
DEAR READY: You feel frustration, guilt and anger because you would like to say, "Auntie, dear, I'm sorry I don't have time to write long letters, but I think I'm doing well to write a postcard every week. What's more, when you complain, you make me feel guilty."
It would be healthier if you could tell her this. But if you can't, put it on a postcard — with my stamp of approval.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My 3-year-old grandson loves to play with the bare feet of women and girls. He even tries to play with mine. The moment he sees a female's bare feet, he persists in fondling, stroking and hugging them. He puts his face between the feet if possible and carries on as though he is in ecstasy. He gets very excited and his face becomes flushed, which makes me wonder if he could be getting sexually excited by feet.

Do you suppose the boy has some kind of foot fetish? Should this be ignored, discouraged or what?

CONCERNED GRANDMOTHER

DEAR CONCERNED: It's possible that the boy has a foot fetish. If he has, there is no reason to be concerned unless he has other behavioral problems. For the moment, ignore his fondness for feet, but if he shows other signs of unusual behavior, your pediatrician can recommend the appropriate therapist.

DEAR ABBY: My husband hates for me to look at him. He says it makes him very uncomfortable, and he resents it. If I look at him at the dinner table, he will pick up his plate and go into the bedroom to finish eating in private. If I look at him in bed, he pulls the covers over his head. And if I look at him while he's driving the car (God forbid), he gets so upset he nearly drives off the road.

I keep telling him that his behavior is unusual, but he claims that I'm the weird one. Frankly, if he looked at me, I would feel honored.

What do you think?

P. IN THE BRONX

DEAR P: I think your husband is overreacting to an alarming degree. Be on the alert for other signs of strange behavior. And do not hesitate to inform his doctor. This could be a symptom of a physical disorder.

'Vanity In Glass' Theme Of Depression Era Glass Show

The Central Florida Depression Era Glass Club will host its fourth annual show and sale at the Sanford Civic Center on Saturday, Sept. 17 and Sunday, Sept. 18. The show will feature 24 exhibiting dealers from throughout the country, offering a large selection of glass for sale. Included will be Heisey, Cambridge, Fenton and Fostoria, as well as china, pottery, and collectibles.

The club was established in 1974 and has a membership of over 75 depression glass enthusiasts making it the largest in the state. The club meets the first Thursday of each month at 8:00 p.m. at the Altamonte Springs Community Chapel on 436 in Altamonte Springs. The main goal of the club is the preservation of Depression Era Glass. In an effort to further public education, the club has donated several books on the subject to libraries throughout Central Florida. The Maitland Museum houses a collection of Depression Era Kitchenware donated by the club. The club also supports the Central Florida Children's Home. Doors of the Civic Center will open at 10:00 a.m. both days, Saturday, September 17 and Sunday, September 18, and will close at 6:00 p.m. Saturday and 6:00 p.m. Sunday.

The theme for this year's show is "Vanity in Glass." On display will be several antique bedrooms featuring Depression Era Glass such as lamps, glass picture frames, perfume bottles and dresser sets.

Cindy Ring R.A. Nunn Repeat Vows

Cindy Ann Ring and Robert Anthony Nunn were married Aug. 13, at 7 p.m., at the Altamonte Historic Chapel, Altamonte Springs. The Rev. Frederick Suedmeyer performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew Kutz, Sanford, and Ronald E. Ring, Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary Nunn, Catonsville, Md., and Thomas Nunn, Owings, Md.

Nuptial selections were presented by: Becky Suedmeyer, organist; Tammy Ring, flutist; and Allison Wood of Atlanta, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a designer white eyelet chiffon gown over bridal taffeta, fashioned with a high neckline and full elbow-length sleeves. Reembroidered lace and seed pearls lavishly embellished the fitted bodice. The full skirt, bordered in scalloped lace, flowed into a graceful chapel train. She carried a cascade of white mini carnations and lavender Freesia showered with lace ribbons. A wide-brimmed Juliet hat, turned up on one side and covered with shirred chiffon, reembroidered lace and pearls, secured her floor-length veil of illusion that fell from a large back hat bow of matching illusion.

Mrs. Wally Wheaton of Sanford attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore an Alfred Angelo original gown of lavender nylon over taffeta. The off-the-shoulder neckline and full elbow-length sleeves were defined with a wide ruffle. A small bow with flowing lavender ribbons accented one side of the fitted waist. She carried a cascade of dark blue Statice, lavender Freesia and pink mini carnations tied with lavender ribbons.

Mrs. Robert Anthony Nunn

She wore a cluster of the same flowers in her hair. Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Tammy Ring, Gainesville, and Kimberly Ring, Sanford. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

William Nunn of Louisville, Ky., served his brother as best man. Ushers were Michael Sterner, Marco Island, and John Donovan, Tallahassee.

Following a reception at Maison et Jardin, Altamonte Springs, the newweds departed on a honeymoon trip to Key West.

They are making their home in Atlanta where the bridegroom is assistant manager of Houlihan's Restaurant of Atlanta (a division of Gilberts and Robinson) and the bride is pursuing a career in graphics design and advertising after recently graduating from Florida State University, Tallahassee.

Workshop: 'Women On Boards'

"Women on Boards" is a workshop being sponsored by the Seminole County Commission on the Status of Women, Saturday, Sept. 20-9:30 to 12:00, at Seminole Community College. Registration will be from 9:30-10:00 in room L205 of the library building. A $2.50 workshop fee will be collected at the door.

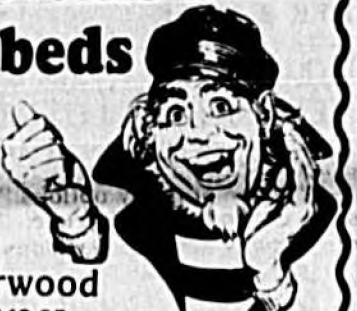

A panel with representatives from government boards, private industry and non-profit corporations will discuss the functions and responsibilities of different boards and advisory committees, what criterion is used to choose new members, how new members are trained and what benefits members derive from their participation.

An informal session will follow where workshop participants will have the opportunity to talk individually with board members from a number of participating organizations.

Sudden Weight Gain Worries Teenager

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am writing to you about a worldwide problem. All my life I never had a weight problem. I could indulge without the bulge. Sometimes I would lose five pounds and not realize it.

As soon as I got to age 17 the pounds came so quickly. Within six to eight months I went from 107 to 120 pounds. A couple of months after I started gaining I panicked and went to doctors. They all said that there was nothing wrong with my metabolism.

I've cut out all luxuries in eating. I drink diet drinks instead of milk. I follow the Scarsdale diet and exercise but still I can't look halfway as good as I used to look.

What could have happened? Could my metabolism have shut down that much?

DEAR READER—You didn't tell me how tall you are. You may not be too heavy for your height. You may simply be maturing to your normal adult weight.

There are two things that happen at around that age. First you stop growing. You probably realize that during the growing phase youngsters can eat everything in the refrigerator and ask for more. That is because as new tissues, such as muscles, develop, you must manufacture proteins. Each time one amino acid is hooked to another amino acid in the process it takes energy to unite them. As long as you are growing tissues, you need that additional "growing energy."

The second factor is the influence of your normal female hormones. Women are supposed to have more fat than men for basic physiological reasons. Body fat participates in converting one form of estrogen to another form.

The best approach is for sensitive people to avoid exposure. That is sometimes easier said than done. The oleoresins can pass through thin clothing. The offending oleoresins can also be carried on the fur of pets or on clothing so you don't always have to have direct contact.

The treatment is largely asymptomatic to relieve the discomfort. The truth is there is no really outstandingly good treatment. That is all the more reason to avoid exposure. The eruption and symptoms should not last over three or four weeks but that is certainly long enough for such discomfort.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am allergic to poison ivy and have had some serious problems as a result. For the past 30 years I have been getting yearly injections to counteract this. My present doctor informs me that tests have shown that these injections are of no value and should be discontinued. I would appreciate your comment.

DEAR READER—Poison ivy is caused by the reaction to the oleoresins from the plant. Your doctor's comments represent current thinking that injections of extracts of poison ivy are not useful either in treatment or prevention. Too bad.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Bring persons you wish to impress to your place, today, instead of meeting them elsewhere. Rapport will come easier in a home atmosphere.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Persons within earshot will sit up and take notice of your points of view today. They'll sense you're not given to making shallow remarks.

WIN AT BRIDGE

In modern bidding it also tells South something else. It tells South that North does not hold a singleton.

South has only 10 high-card points, but they include two aces. South is also looking at a doubleton of North's first-bid suit. South likes his hand and uses Blackwood to check for aces. North shows two, but South wisely decides not to try for seven and to bid merely six. It is a good decision. Not that we haven't seen many worse grand slams, but all in all six is a nice conservative contract.

South wins the club lead and sees that the slam is not guaranteed. There are lots of ways to play the contract, but South follows up his simple bidding with simple play. He draws trumps with three leads and goes after diamonds. They break 4-2 so South ruffs a diamond, leads a heart to dummy's king, ruffs another diamond with his last trump, cashes the ace of hearts, ruffs a heart with dummy's last trump and scores the slam trick with dummy's fifth diamond.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby
 North's jump to four spades is a normal, old-fashioned bid to show 19 or 20 points in support of spades. It is not a preempt. There is no need to shut out opponents when both of them have passed at a low level. It also can't be a stop bid because North has no idea as to what South holds.

Smoking Down But Boozing Up On Television

BOSTON (UPI) — A review of 30 years of television programming shows TV characters smoke a lot less than they once did but booze it up more, researchers reported today.

A study of more than 280 hours of TV programming found cigarette smoking on dramatic television was slashed more than 10-fold to nearly nothing over a 30-year period, researchers said in a letter to the New England Journal of Medicine.

They added in an interview, however, that scenes of drinking more than doubled during that time.

"It's sort of a mixed review on television's public responsibility to health habits," said sociologist Warren Breed from the Institute for Scientific Analysis in Berkeley, Calif. "But much to their credit they've really cut back on smoking scenes."

He said although he was unaware of any cause-and-effect scientific studies, "it's generally acknowledged that what people see on television has an influence on their behavior."

He said on a 1961 episode of the Dr. Kildare show, "both Dr. Kildare and his mentor, Dr. Gillespie, smoked. Marcus Welby would never do that."

"Not a single cigarette was seen in 10 hours of two 1971-1977 hospital dramas — Medical Center and Marcus Welby, M.D.," he said.

Breed said cigarette scenes had the biggest reductions immediately following the Surgeon General's landmark report in 1964 on the dangers of smoking to the health and in 1971 after cigarette television commercials were banned from the airwaves.

"I think that as the dangers of smoking became more apparent, television producers exercised their responsibility to the public — much to their credit — and cut down on smoking scenes," he said.

"Now often the weak characters or the bad guys only smoke and otherwise you rarely see it."

He said it was harder to explain the increase in alcohol-related acts, but speculated it may result from "a greater public awareness of alcohol" that also affects TV writers and the changing nature of programming.

"We have shows like Love Boat and Dallas now," he said. "Could you imagine J.R. not drinking or people on a pleasure cruise not going to the bar?"

In the study funded by the National Institute for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, researchers monitored situation comedies and dramas on 24 stations in four states — a total of 280.5 hours of television programming. They recorded the number of cigarettes smoked per hour and number of shots of alcohol drunk, poured or ordered.

In the years 1950 to 1963 — a time featuring such shows as Dr. Kildare, Twilight Zone and Leave It To Beaver — an average of 4.4 cigarettes were smoked per hour in the dramatic shows and .81 cigarettes per hour on situation comedies. That compares to .32 cigarettes smoked per hour on dramatic shows in 1981-1982 and .13 on the comedies.

In contrast, there were roughly an average of four alcohol scenes per hour in dramas between 1950 and 1963 and 1 1/2 alcohol scenes in situation comedies. In the 1981-1982 period, there was an average of 8 1/2 alcohol scenes per hour in dramas and 8 per hour in comedies.

Chicago's Black Mayor Proves Adept Power Broker

David Smothers
UPI Senior Editor

CHICAGO (UPI) — It took a long time, but Mayor Harold Washington has finally won his first big battle in the war over who really runs Chicago.

He went head-on-head with the "gray wolves" of the old Chicago machine and the wolves finally backed off.

It was not a total victory for the man who has caught the imagination of black people throughout the nation. He had to settle for a compromise: for what he could get.

But what he got amounted to plenty.

He escaped the prospect of hundreds of Chicago police and firemen out of jobs by his order. He escaped the wrath of city payrollers forced to seek other employment on his say-so.

He was spared the humiliation of a 29-vote majority bloc in the City Council telling him how he should go about saving Chicago's budget and civic financial standing.

He may or may not have convinced the hard-faced credit raters in New York not to downgrade Chicago as a good city to which to lend money.

The battleground was staked out last year by Jane Byrne, the mercurial mayor whom Washington challenged and succeeded last spring.

As she prepared for the fray, Mrs. Byrne pushed through a $22 million real estate tax cut. It made good political sense then in Chicago. Property taxes are a touchy matter and riddling them is a good way for a politician to get popular.

Still, Mrs. Byrne might be moving to take it all back now if she were still in City Hall. Chicago is about $50 million short of money.

Washington proposed to take it back. Without ado, he ran into strident opposition from the band of councilmen who have established themselves as the majority in Chicago's legislative branch.

The 29 are led by an audacious and agile alderman, Edward Vrdolyak, a Croatian South Sider from the steel mills district so slick

Harold Washington
...took on the city's old guard and won in the ways of cutting a deal he is known as "Fast Eddie." Vrdolyak and his followers follow the tradition of the revered Richard J. Daley, the boss of Chicago for more than 20 years before his death.

They rebelled when Washington announced upon his inauguration he was perfectly serious about scrapping the patronage system Daley employed to reward the faithful and rule the city. Patronage can be the life blood and the path to affluence for a Chicago alderman.

Ever since, the 29 have blocked and taunted Washington and his 21 loyalists in the council. Not a one would ever say part of the reason might be that Washington is Chicago's first black mayor. But few knowledgeable Chicagoans would doubt it.

When Washington demanded repeal of Jane Byrne's tax cut, the 29 vowed "it shall not pass!" They spoke movingly of the plight of small Chicago home owners and the deprivation they would face. The fact was the deprivation would amount to $5 for a typical householder next year.

In poker terms, Washington raised the bet of the 29 and called. If that's the way it must be, Washington announced, he would simply have to fire 2,045 city employees. That meant 446 firefighters, 331 rookie police officers and 200 police crossing guards would have to go.

Chicagoans, like big city residents everywhere, feel they need all the protection they can get. Cries rose up for the mayor and the council to reach some kind of compromise.

Police firemen, their wives and babies picketed City Hall, warning of dire consequences to come. Vrdolyak's allies hurried into court seeking injunctions. Washington said he wouldn't budge.

The crunch came in late August and Washington and Vrdolyak's 28 did budge.

So Vrdolyak and his friends proposed a deal. They offered to give back $11.99 million of the tax cut for a saving of 1,350 jobs, including those of the police and firemen. The deal whizzed through the council Aug. 31, leaving Washington a possible option to fire 695 or more city workers in search of solvency.

Alderman Roman C. Pucinski, the most eloquent mouthpiece of the 29, was so moved he cried. "Harold Washington could be the greatest mayor ever!"

Washington felt pretty good about it, too. He had waited more than 100 days on the fifth floor of City Hall to truly get his way — or most of it.

"Everyone in Chicago can breathe a sigh of relief," he said. "Today's action is evidence that Chicago has a tremendous potential for the City Council and the mayor's office to work together."

Within hours, he was on his way to face a bunch just as tough as Fast Eddie and those he called wolves.

He had to persuade the Wall Street analysts of Standard & Poor and Moody's Investors Service that Chicago is pulling itself out of the hole and doesn't deserve to have its credit rating lowered from the A level.

Big money is at stake. The verdict on that one won't be in for weeks.

Forensic Engineers: Super Sleuths With Slide Rules

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) — From the ashes of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire arose $2.8 billion in lawsuits and a massive probe by forensic engineers that showed electrical wire manufacturers — for their part — were not to blame for the 165 deaths.

Paralleling the level of litigation was the effort of opposing sides to prove or disprove the cause of the fire and establish the liability for the lives lost in the May 27, 1977, holocaust at the Southgate, Ky. nightclub.

Determining the cause of a fire in a gutted building takes the technical expertise of a highly sophisticated detective — the investigative engineer — whose role as "expert witness" in the legal arena has become essential in recent years.

The outcome of liability cases often turns on the work of "slide rule detectives" who use scientific principles to reconstruct accidents to learn their probable cause.

With suits filed against every contractor, manufacturer and supplier involved with the supper club, the plaintiffs and defendants hired a host of investigative engineers. In one case, the lawyers defending all 26 manufacturers of electrical wiring used in the club assembled an eight-member team to investigate the wiring.

Because of his expertise in electrical fires, Roger C. Landers, president of an investigative engineering firm in Marietta, Ga. was selected as the team's electrical engineer.

"I lived in Cincinnati (where the trial was held) for two years," Landers said. "I would fly home on the weekends when I could."

During his investigation, Landers said he conducted several hundred interviews and ran countless tests before developing his opinion that none of the wiring was responsible for the fire.

"I spent two days on the stand, retracing all the electrical wiring, redrawing the path of the fire and smoke" to show its origin and where it traveled through the club.

His opinion — backed by technical evidence — convinced the jury the wiring manufacturers were not liable for the fire.

The verdict, however, was wiped out and the case was ordered retried because a juror had made an offhanded comment about the heat generated by aluminum wiring in his home.

That legal turn of events "was somewhat frustrating" for Landers because aluminum wiring was not at issue — "I showed that there was all copper wire in the effected area."

But such legal happenings are of little concern to investigative engineers, Landers said. "He must divorce himself from the legal issues and stick strictly to the scientific principles involved."

"We don't feel you should try to play lawyer," said Andrew N. Gilberg, a mechanical engineer at Forensic Engineering, Inc., the firm headed by Landers.

A case "may have no technical grounds, but that doesn't mean the jury won't award damages," said Landers.

Landers said his investigative engineers are paid on an hourly rate and don't have a direct financial interest in the outcome. "We seldom know the dollar outcome. You won't find it written down in our files."

Landers, educated at Georgia Institute of Technology, has been an investigative engineer on civil cases (the doesn't work criminal cases) for 7½ years and has seen the profession develop into a sophisticated industry.

The industry had its birth several decades ago, primarily as a sideline for engineering professors, Landers said. "All an engineer needed was an office, his slide rule and a telephone and he was in business."

But as society increasingly turned to the courts with its accident claims, the demand for scientific investigators grew.

Landers used an example of the nation's worst nightclub fire to make his point.

"At the Coconut Grove fire in 1942, there was a total of $15,000 in lawsuits filed," he said, contrasting the $2.8 billion in claims sought from the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire. (The Boston night club fire claimed 491 lives.)

Today, the investigative engineer — or "expert witness" — has become an "absolute necessity in getting a case to the jury," said Nick Long, an Atlanta attorney whose firm represents plaintiffs in liability claims.

John Vincenzi, Long's partner in Long & Vincenzi & Associates, said the primary reason for reconstructing accidents in a high-technology age is because "it's so helpful to the jury so they will understand what happened."

As the demand for their expertise increased, engineers improved their accident reconstruction techniques.

Today's investigative engineers use computers (Forensic Engineering's staff has four) to trace the path of smoke through every vertical opening in a building, or to determine the point of ignition caused by an over-heated electrical cable.

"It's definitely becoming more sophisticated," Landers said.

Landers said investigative engineering is not taught in the classroom and some engineers are not suited for the job.

"You must work in industry, as we all have, and then apply that knowledge and experience to this business. There's a certain amount of art involved, in addition to engineering," he said.

Landers said the investigative engineer "has to talk on the layman's level" so a jury understands.
