

TEEN TALK
By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

You'd know in a minute that 16-year-old Patti Murphy was half Irish, even though she looks like a full-blooded Indian—her smile and sense of humor are that big. And since cowgirls and Indians sort of go together, Patti is in New York riding Western saddle at the rodeo at Madison Square Garden.

Patti is overawed by the big city, but she's devoted to the Indian reservation at Lapwai, Idaho, where she lives. Says she:

"We do not have as many liberties as girls in the East. I was surprised to learn that girls here can stay out so late at night.

"We do not have so many dances, either, and if we do, men and boys do the dancing—not the girls. During the annual George Washington birthday celebration which lasts for a week, we dance 'The Owl Dance'.

This is the dance Indians used to dance with their loved ones before they went off to war. You dance with one person all evening in a slow, sad fashion. This and the 'Swan Dance' which is similar are really prayer dances."

Patti's town is about 80 per cent Indian and 50 per cent white. In some respects white girls and boys follow Indian customs. Many of the white girls marry Indian boys, although Patti believes that white boys prefer white girls to Indian girls. Her father, an Irish lumberman, married her mother, a full-blooded Indian, however. Patti points out:

"It is funny, but Indian grandparents always want to pick your husband or wife—even if you are half white. If Granny has an old friend who has a grandson, she probably has promised you to his family before your eyes are really opened. It didn't work in my case, however, because my father is Irish and wouldn't have it. He says I can marry whomever I like if I love him."

At the moment Patti doesn't have a real romantic interest because she knows she is too young. She divides her time between Indian and white boys and doesn't play favorites. Indian boys, she says, are more devoted to Indian girls, naturally, and since they know Indian customs, appear to be more courteous. They are never wolfish, she says. And here's a tip-off for you palefaces who think little girls are super-women.

Patti says: "White boys make dates to take girls bowling, roller-skating and other sports which really belong to men. The Indian boy thinks of us as being more delicate, and doesn't suggest an evening's entertainment that is too strenuous. They are romantic and enjoy spending the evening at home, even with the family. They like to sing soft music around the fire."

She loves sports, even if she isn't active in them herself. She loves baseball and football, and favors the New York Yankees and Notre Dame. As a matter of fact she'd like to marry an athlete, but not a professional one.

Patti, who wears one feather in her headdress to indicate that she is single (two are for married girls) is a lyric soprano and wants to be a music or dramatic teacher eventually. She'd give up her career if she married, though. Says she:

"I'd like to raise a family and be as happy as my mother and father. They gave up smoking and drinking and partying and everything because they thought good parents are no more than any child deserves."

Girls in Patti's neck of the woods are permitted a 10:30 curfew during the week and 12:30 on Saturday, if something special is on the date book. Patti, who is a high school junior, says not a single girl in her school is cut-throat, a cut-up—they do not smoke or drink, or have other wild impulses."

Childhood Hints
By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The basis of civilization is self-discipline. No greater benefit can be offered a child than constant, intelligent help toward self-understanding and the realization of his own powers. And in the architecture of character the foundation stones are laid during infancy and early childhood. It is only too easy to forget that the human infant is less well equipped than are most newborn animals to cope with life in the world, says Dr. Eleanor Dunbar, famous psychiatrist and author.

Writing in National Parent-Teacher magazine, Dr. Dunbar, who is in charge of psychosomatic research at the Presbyterian Hospital and Vanderbilt Clinic in New York City, maintains that the newborn child is least capable of fending for itself. Hence it is dependent upon its parents, nurses and doctors for most physical comforts.

All living creatures have one almost magical power, the power to return to equilibrium after having been shaken out of it by shock or stress. When a stone is kicked off a ledge it doesn't try to climb back, but a living creature will unless the shock or injury has been too great.

The newborn baby, however, is not so capable of recovering his stability as grown people are. He has less reserve strength to draw on in a crisis. His movements are uncoordinated. His reaction to a stimulus is an "all-or-none" one. Touch him on any part of his body and the whole body will respond.

This all-or-none reaction, says Dr. Dunbar, which is normal for the infant, is likely to persist in later life if something happens to him that produces a too intense fear or rage. For example, when a normal baby hears a door slam, he gives a "startle reaction." But gradually this reaction fades away. But suppose the door is slammed by Daddy in anger and Mother, upset by the argument, is so untrusting that the infant feels insecure in her arms or is perhaps even dropped. Then that startle reaction to a slammed door may persist through life because a meaning—and a very disturbing one—has been attached to the noise. "It should be noted here," she says, "that letting the baby fall is less of a shock than continued exposure to the mother's shaking arms or to her stolidly disguised anxiety."

The very young baby has many physiological handicaps. His body temperature is unstable. His heart rate is highly variable; his breathing is unstable; his water balance is poorly regulated, and he cannot maintain a stable blood sugar or blood pressure level. This means, says Dr. Dunbar, that when a baby is disturbed he cannot restore his balance all at once but must drift back to equilibrium.

The child who is beginning to talk and put his experience into words encounters new difficulties.

It is important to teach a child what "No" means, she says, but it is equally important to leave him free to say "Yes" or "I want" or "Why?" or "Why not?" If a child tries something his own way and his father or mother says "Aren't you bright? I never knew it could be done that way," one more step has been taken toward self-management.

The Earl of Sandwich re-introduced the food item which bears his name in the 18th Century, but it is believed to have been used by the ancient Romans.

Easiest wheel you ever turned!
Safest wheel you ever held!

Come try it yourself...

Chrysler this year introduces the first power steering ever offered on an American passenger car. Many owners tell us it is the greatest advance in car driving since the self-starter! To a person who hasn't tried it, it is actually impossible to describe what a difference it makes. Driving becomes a new and wonderful experience. At your touch on the wheel, automatic power instantly provides you with all the energy needed to move the car. Gone is all sense of tug, strain, tension. In its place you find a wonderful sense of absolute front wheel control with almost no effort on your part. Hydramatic is regular equipment on Crown Specials, optional at extra cost on other 8-cylinder models. Whatever car you're driving we invite you to...

Chrysler's new Hydramatic Power Steering!

NEW SAFETY! Even off the road, a car with Hydramatic Power Steering is safer. The new steering wheel is designed to give you a new feeling of control and safety. In city traffic... on narrow drive-ways... in some being given extra... you never get stuck... stuck in any one place.

When Pasadena, California, dismissed Willard Goslin, its superintendent of schools, it seemed a routine incident. Superintendents may prove to be unsatisfactory as do persons in other jobs; or they sometimes offend parents by upholding the disciplining of their children; or offend taxpayers by advocating increased expenditures for the schools.

As Goslin tells his story in his book, "It Happened in Pasadena," the episode appears to be much more serious. To the ordinary cases of dissatisfaction with school administration were added violent smears, likened to those in which the Nazis and Communists have indulged. It is suggested that evil forces were at work beneath the surface, seeking to discredit public education, especially of the progressive variety.

As busy a man as James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, has been moved to write a review of Goslin's volume in the New York Times Book Review. He compares the superintendent's opponents with those who "in every age like to exert power by causing trouble, by urging the posse to lynch the victim, the mob to burn the dissenter's house, or the school board to fire the 'progressive' administrator." He adds that the technique of these groups and of Nazis and Communists is the same—"the arousing of emotions by words repeatedly so twisted as to have only evil connotations in the minds of certain types of readers."

Mob psychology is likely to appear in unexpected places, dealing with unlikely subjects. Americans need to be constantly alert against it.

Upon The Swanee River

The people in White Springs, Florida, on the banks of the Suwannee river, paid tribute to Stephen Foster on the hundredth anniversary of the publication of his ballad "The Old Folks At Home." The song is more commonly known as "Swanee River" and the tribute of the people in Florida was an expression of gratitude to Foster's memory for making the name of their river immortal.

Foster died in adject poverty in New York when he was only thirty-eight years old. He had but a few pennies in his pocket and a piece of paper on which was written "Dear Friends and Gentle Hearts," possibly a last attempt at the kind of lyric which won him such lasting fame.

Many people regard Foster as a failure. But the music that he wrote is still sung in the country that he loved. In large cities voices are raised for the gracious days of plantation living that the singers never knew. In classrooms children still sing of "My Old Kentucky Home" and of "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair." No picnic bonfire is complete without some of his songs.

Foster was not a failure. His songs are timeless. They will endure.

Summit Of Life

The German philosopher Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche was full of many cynical sayings in his harsh comparison of man as he is with the ideal which he envisioned. He also put his finger on many illuminating truths, and perhaps his very harshness led him to his beautiful comparison of life to the climbing of a mountain. "Life always get harder toward the summit—the cold increases, responsibility increases.

At the very peak of a mountain the risks and responsibilities are heaviest of all, the cold the most intense, the peril the greatest. But the air is clearest, the sky and the sun the brightest, the view the most magnificent, the sense of accomplishment the deepest. It is worth the climb.

THE WORLD TODAY
 By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—We've been told much new about our "fantastic new weapons" that will be indeed fantastic if someone in government does not go a little further and spill the beans about their secrets.

When this kind of talk gets started, particularly in Washington, it's hard to stop it. There's a tendency for everyone with a little knowledge and a big mouth to add his two cents until a secret is no longer a secret.

One thing seems sure: we'll hear more about the so-called fantastic weapons—so much more, because at the moment they're still mysterious, that the atom bomb will cease being the center of attraction.

And the people of this country conditioned since Hiroshima in 1945 into thinking of an atomic weapon as a bomb dropped on a city—will have to adjust themselves to the idea of atomic weapons used in a battlefield.

President Truman started the ball rolling with a speech he made to a Democratic Party rally early in September when he said "fantastic new weapons" were being developed.

Until then, from time to time, there had been talk of developments—most of it coming from members of Congress, such as atomic artillery shells and guided missiles.

But the word "fantastic," which made everyone all up straight, had been missing till the President supplied it, although last April Rep. Gore (D-Tenn) used the word "cataclysmic."

The congressman at the time said the U. S. had perfected "cataclysmic" new atomic weapons and indicated they could spread deadly radio-activity. He urged the President to order them used in Korea.

In August came the word "amazing." Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said the Joint Chiefs of Staff testified before a Senate committee that an "amazing advance in the science of weapons" had been made in the past year.

But Mr. Truman had hardly flown back from his "fantastic new weapons" speech in St. Paul, Minn., when Senator McMahon (D-Conn) made a Senate speech which really drew attention.

He called for all-out mass production of atomic weapons to equip a mighty atomic army, and a new airforce. Could such a thing be done? McMahon was in a good position to know, since he's chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

He said "I am here to report... that the atomic bottlenecks are being broken. The day is coming when the quantity of atomic weapons will be sufficient, beyond any question, to serve as the paramount instrument of victory."

On Oct. 1 McMahon told reporters that he had urged the committee, had vigorously recommended a major expansion program.

So the kettle was kept boiling and late last week Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, added to the national guessing game about new weapons with a speech in California. He said:

"Through our atomic energy expansion program and recent technological developments in the atomic weapons field, we are entering an era where our power to wage warfare with atomic devices is so great even in comparison with the recent past, that our fundamental concepts of what atomic warfare is and what it might mean to us must undergo a revolutionary change, a new era."

"We have reached the stage where we can begin to meet the tactical needs of the armed services (troops in the field) while still retaining our immense capacity for strategic retaliation (long-range bombing)."

But all this vague talk about "fantastic" and "cataclysmic" and "amazing" new weapons must not have been sifting well with another member of Congress, a Texas Democrat, Rep. Mahon. He said:

"I think one sentence would be appropriate at the moment: Those fantastic statements about fantastic weapons are entirely too fantastic. No right thinking person is going to be misled by all this superman talk of push-button warfare. There is no easy and inexpensive road to victory in war."

Chinese cultivation of oysters is reported to go back 8,000 years.

Congressman Herlong Reports
 By SID HERLONG

This will probably be my last news letter until the second session of the 82nd Congress, which opens in January. The House plans to adjourn Oct. 19. The last week we will be engaged in finishing up Conference Reports. We will probably complete action on the Railroad Retirement Bill before this is printed. I have accepted an engagement to speak at the State Kiwanis Convention in West Palm Beach on Oct. 15 and will miss the last few days of this Congressional session.

However, I have conferred with the Speaker and the Whip about this and they do not anticipate any controversial legislation during this period, as many members of Congress will be in Miami at the National American Legion Convention. I also want to drop in there and help show my Congressional colleagues some Florida hospitality. I expect to be in Gainesville on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 19 and 20, at the annual University of Florida Homecoming.

After that time I am going to be about the District visiting among you until after Nov. 11. The last engagement I have accepted is the Lake County Cham-details for re-opening talks. Presumably the liaison meeting will be held in Panmunjon, as were most of its predecessors. Ridgway answered a Red note received Sunday. In it the Reds proposed:

1. The truce talks be shifted to Panmunjon.
2. The Kaesong five-mile neutral zone be extended to include Munsan, site of the U. N. command advance headquarters, about 15 miles away.
3. Both sides to assume responsibility for controlling the conference site in effect to establish joint armed control.

"It is my view," Ridgway said, "that all that is necessary is a small neutral zone around the new conference site, with Kaesong, Munsan and the road to Panmunjon from Kaesong, and Munsan free from attack."

His message may mean that Allied troops are in the area the Reds want cleared and Ridgway does not want to pull them out.

He said it was essential that any new site be located approximately halfway between the Allied and Communist front lines.

"Only so," his message said, "can each side be expected to discharge its share of responsibility for the security of the approaches to the conference site and of the site itself."

The message was addressed to Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier, and Gen. Peng Teh-huai, commander of Chinese Communist forces in North Korea.

Meanwhile a thin line of dog-tired American infantrymen edged toward the top of the last Red-held peak on craggy Heartbreak Ridge in eastern Korea.

Last reports put them within 200 yards of the summit. Communist grenades and machinegun fire poured down from Red bunkers above as the troops of the U. S. Second Division's 23rd Regiment fought forward foot by foot and bunker by bunker.

Across the Munding valley to the west the Ninth Regiment of the Second Division fought fiercely against North Koreans for possession of Kim Il Sung ridge, named by the Reds for the North Korean premier. A pooled dispatch from the front said the doughboys took several small hills. Their progress toward the ridge itself was slowed by Communist artillery and small arms fire.

Between Kim and Heartbreak infantrymen of the 81st Regiment, also of the Second Division, slashed northward and captured a small hill. Tanks attached to the regiment moved into the val-

Southern Cal Is Already Being Boomed As Rose Bowl Material

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—It's early to be talking about potential bowl teams, but the Pacific Coast Conference already is whooping it up for Southern California for a Rose Bowl spot.

Not that Southern Cal will win the league title. But California, the top team in the West—and very possibly the nation—is not eligible for another crack at the Jan. 1 game.

Southern California went to the top of the conference Saturday by upsetting Washington, supposedly California's only threat to the title. The score was 20-13.

California whipped Minnesota of the Big Ten, 55-14. That immediately brought up the question of which is stronger, California or Michigan State which beat Ohio State, 24-20.

There should be no trouble this week because all the top teams in the first Associated Press Poll—Michigan State, California and Tennessee—face easy assignments.

The Spartans play Marquette of the Southwestern Conference in the state of Washington. California and the Colts, who turn back North Carolina, 45-20, and Texas Christian recorded a 17-7 triumph over Arkansas. Any of those three might win it if Southern Methodist falters.

But Notre Dame, No. 6 this week and rolling along almost like the Irish of old, after polishing off Detroit, 40-0, Friday, run into Southern Methodist, which whipped Missouri, 34-0. This one ought to give a line on just how far Notre Dame is going to go this year.

H. N. Russell, SMU coach, says Notre Dame is "big, powerful and potent" and should be a four-touchdown favorite against SMU. It looks as though the class of the country is going to be in the Southwest Conference this year.

The Texas Aggies perhaps showed the most class in overcoming Oklahoma, last year's mythical national champion, 14-7. But Texas, sixth-ranking team in the country, turned back North Carolina, 45-20, and Texas Christian recorded a 17-7 triumph over Arkansas. Any of those three might win it if Southern Methodist falters.

In the has-been department at this early stage of the season, you can toss Michigan, Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia, Kentucky, especially, has been a big disappointment, and lost its third straight Saturday, Georgia Tech doing the honors 13-7.

Michigan, defending big ten champion, lost to Stanford, 23-13. Mississippi State nipped Georgia, 6-0, and Vanderbilt nosed out Alabama, 23-20.

Two other significant facts were unearthed as a result of the weekend's action.

No. 1 Army is not as weak as it was cracked to be in after the ribbing heaped, Northwest coasted the Cadets, 20-14, after Earl Black's men held a 14-7 third period lead.

Princeton will bear watching. The Tigers were one of the top teams in the country last year, but were decimated by graduation. Behind Dick Kazaire's passing Princeton squeaked Navy, 24-20. No one is going to get over Charlie Caldwell's lads and they very well might win the Ivy League title, again.

In other major games, Colorado outscored Kansas, 35-27. Baylor defeated Iowa, 34-0. Indiana stopped Santa Clara, 44-17. Penn triumphed over Dartmouth, 30-14. Columbia blanked Harvard, 35-0. Holy Cross manhandled Fordham, 34-0. The Citadel polished off Davidson, 34-14. Wake Forest downed Richmond, 60-0. Baylor was victor over Tulane, 27-14. Marquette did Iowa State, 8-0. Maryland squashed Georgia Washington, 33-0, and Brown upset Yale, 14-14.

Polo Grounds Get Mopped For Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Sixteen groundskeepers attacked the polo field at the Polo Grounds this morning with sprayers, mops, buckets in an effort to get the field in shape by 1:00 P. M., for the World Series of baseball.

Delay due to heavy rain, but the grounds were mopped and the field was in about the best condition for the game.

Sanford Drops Game To DeLand In Final Plays

Freshman B Squad Plays This Week; Varsity Is Idle

Sanford's Celery Feds lost a close one to DeLand Friday night in the final quarter as the Bulldogs took advantage of a Sanford fumble to drive for a TD and win the game 7-0.

The game was marked by sterling offensive play by both sides with neither team able to get a real scoring attack under way.

Ed Gordon sparked the Celery Feds offense while the whole varsity line came close to holding the Bulldogs scoreless.

Sanford routers saw victory hopes suffer their first defeat when the Bulldogs scored in the final quarter of the game.

Baseball Immortal Back In Majors After 14 Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Rogers Hornsby signed to manage the St. Louis Browns for three years, even though he had not played since 1917.

The signing was announced today by the Browns' manager, who said that Hornsby's return to the majors was a surprise.

Hornsby, who played for the St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Red Sox, Philadelphia Athletics, and Cincinnati Reds, was a three-time batting champion.

He was also a member of the National League's Hall of Fame and was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1952.

Hornsby's return to the majors was a surprise, as he had not played since 1917.

Little Fellow On Third Base Was One Of Calmest At Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—He stood there on third base, brushing himself off, a mischievous twinkle in his eye, a look of sweet innocence on his face.

The little compact guy was perhaps the calmest person at the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants. The thrilled populace was busying with excitement. The Giants were grinning broadly. The Yankees stood around helplessly, arguing with Second Base Umpire Bill Summers.

But Eddie Stanky stood calmly on third, surveying the panic he had created among the staid, austere Yankees, proud defending champions of the baseball world.

You looked back and realized the sincerity, never-to-be-forgotten speech the little guy had made the night he was presented with the "player-of-the-year" award for his brilliant achievements in 1929.

"I don't know when we have had such a hitting slump," said Casey Stengel, trying to explain why his favored Yankees are struggling to overtake the Giants in the World Series.

It's an unfamiliar role for the Yankee who has won 13 of the 17 world championship series in which they've played. But it's also a rarity for these Stenglers not to come through with the big blow when they need it.

They've left 31 on base. "The Giants have made a lot of mistakes and we've had plenty of chances to score," Stengel continued. "But we're just not getting the hits."

Here is the Yankee lineup, likely to go today, with batting averages:

Hauer RF	.000
Rizzuto SS	.333
Berra C	.300
DiMaggio CF	.300
Woodling LF	.188
McDougal 2B	.400
Brown 3B	.143
Collins 1B	.222

As a team, these eight regulars, excluding pitchers, are hitting .182 for the first three games.

Stengel, who has shuffled his order slightly but made no dramatic changes, said he would have to stick with Berra and DiMaggio at the No. 3 and No. 4 spots.

"Those guys won three pennants and two World Series for me," he said. "I don't pull out fellows like that."

Furthermore, the Yankee manager added, he doesn't have replacements even if he wanted to stage a wholesale shakeup.

"I'm just hoping that fellows like Berra and Woodling get hot. They're bound to bust loose some time," Stengel said.

Stengel said he still planned to get some use out of Johnny Mike, who has hit more than 300 home runs during his lifetime.

"I'm going to use him as a pinch-hitter and I'll probably stick him in against a left-handed pitcher," Casey said. "John hits lefties pretty good."

SMU Mentor Sees '51 Irish Good As '49

DALLAS, Oct. 5. (AP)—H. W. Russell, coach of Southern Methodist, says Notre Dame's team of this year is as good as the 1949 team that won the national championship.

For that reason, he declared today, Notre Dame should be a four-touchdown favorite over SMU in their game at South Bend, Ind., Saturday.

"My scouts report that Notre Dame has the same type team as 1949 when we were four-touchdown underdogs before we played them," said Russell. "That should be about the same margin this time." Notre Dame beat SMU 27-20.

He described Notre Dame as "big, powerful and potent" and anything you want to say about them. They have some apprehension to be sure but when a sophomore makes the Notre Dame team he's bound to be a great guy.

"This is the first time I have been introduced without them saying 'I can't hit, can't run and can't throw,'" Russell said.

As he watched Stanky move deftly off third, you remembered another thing he had said. "I want to thank you for appreciating my intangibles on the field."

Only a few moments ago, Stanky had walked with one out. He broke for second on a hit-and-run pitch that Alvin Dark missed and he was a dead ruckus sliding into the bag. Yogi Berra's throw as Phil Rizzuto was right on the target. The shortstop swooped down with his glove and Summers' thumb jerked upward to signify the out this time.

Stanky slid into Rizzuto and before Phil realized what was happening, Eddie's toe flicked out and the ball squirted from the pitcher's glove into center field as Stanky sped to third.

That was the turning point of the game. Before the panic was halted, Dark had almost duplicated Stanky's art by knocking the ball out of Berra's glove in a play at the plate and the Giants went on to sweep the game.

Some two hours later, the inseparable Dark and Stanky had showered, dressed and were preparing to leave the park.

"Was that one of the intangibles you were referring to?" Somebody asked Stanky.

The little fellow, whose quiet, easy-spoken, intelligent manner off the field belies the cold and calculated insolence that grips this bundle of concentrated fury on the diamond, pondered the question a while, then replied: "That's right. That's one of my intangibles."

It was Casey Stengel, manager of the Yankees who only a few moments before had said of Stanky: "That little so-and-so beat us with a field goal." But it also was Stengel who had added: "I wouldn't mind having a few of his kind on my club."

Stanky's return to the majors was a surprise, as he had not played since 1917.

Woody's Kinda Mad Wisconsin Warned By Coach's Spouse

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5. (AP)—Mrs. Wayne Woodrow Hayes, charming wife of Ohio State's new football coach, said today: "Oooh! I'd hate to be Wisconsin next Saturday. Woody's kinda mad."

The corpulent boss of the Bucks couldn't be reached by newsmen. He was locked up in his office, huddled with his staff around a motion picture projector, figuring out just how Michigan State pulled that 24-20 game out from under the Bucks Saturday.

But Mrs. Hayes, via telephone, confided: "Woody doesn't blame anybody but himself for losing. He thinks he should have let the boys have 20 to 25 yards of telling them to just run the ball."

He isn't downhearted, and neither the boys were riled. No. 1 team, but he thought Ohio could win. Losing the game after being ahead is what upset him.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—The other day one of the better qualified second-guessers opined the Giants wouldn't be a good second baseman. Eddie Stanky, he claimed, had "stirred down" so much that he couldn't cover any ground, and he never was much of a hitter. All the Giant's implausible brag does is win ball games, by whatever means are necessary. On Saturday, the expert couldn't decide whether to use a punt, placement or drop kick, or maybe he had been learning about soccer from Bobby Thomson, who came from Glasgow, that both of the kicking game. Another theory that has been pretty well ruined was that the Giants would benefit by rain because their pitchers needed rest. Yet another theory was a help to the Yanks because they can go with Alie Reynolds now instead of relying on Johnny Bain, who had a 5-11 record this season before he left the National League.

Nice Work, Coach Dal Ward, the Colorado U. football coach, doesn't mind telling this one on himself. Colorado was leading Colorado A. and on 14-15, with a minute to go and the way the team was playing, Ward was satisfied to take a one-point victory. He muttered: "Take their time. Hoping quarterback Casey Williams now let the hint to run a couple of cautious plays. Instead Williams not the message as meaning the coach wanted time out." Deland led to determining to justify the call, so he sent in Freshman Carroll Hauer, who never had been in a game. Hauer ran for a touch-down on the final play. Thirty seconds later Colorado, in possession, came and scored again to win by 12 points instead of one.

Ten Are Killed As Bad Weather Hits Northeast

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Ten persons were killed Sunday as rough weather slammed the country from the Mississippi valley to the North Atlantic States and eastern seaboard.

In the northeast, high winds, thunderstorms and driving rain raised havoc. Topped telephone poles and power lines cut off electric and telephone service to thousands, particularly around New York City and New Jersey. In New York, heavy rains poured water into subway tubes, interrupting service on several lines in Brooklyn and filling one tunnel with three feet of water.

Wind-churned seas threatened craft on the Great Lakes and off the Atlantic coast. Storm warnings went up on all the Great Lakes except the Ontario. Off the eastern coast, the Coast Guard received numerous distress calls from small craft.

Seven of the ten deaths attributed to weather conditions occurred on highways. A skid on a slippery highway sent a packed Trailways bus crashing into a tree near Gainesville, Va. Five persons were killed and 21 injured.

State police listed three of the dead as Robert Blinton Good of Raleigh, Va.; Mrs. Gertrude Rogers of Alexandria, Va.; and Lena Lunsford of Washington. The other two still were unidentified today.

Two servicemen were killed in Philadelphia as their car skidded on rain-swept highway. A plane crash in which three Air Force men were killed was reported Saturday near Fort Knox, Ky., during a thunderstorm.

The Washington, D. C. area had a partial blackout as lightning hit transformers, disrupting power service.

The storm area shifted eastward Monday from the Great Lakes region and skies cleared in the Midwest area. East of Chicago to New England winds remained strong. The eastern seaboard had showers and thunderstorms Monday with the rain belt extending south to the Carolinas.

Series Of Bible Lectures Renewed

G. E. Carter, prophetic preacher, whose series of lectures at the Bible Lyceum, Ninth Street and Laurel Avenue were postponed for a week due to flooding of the area, renewed the talks last night with an illustrated lecture on Armageddon.

More human blood has been shed in this area of northern Palestine where it is predicted that Armageddon will be fought than in almost any battle area in the world, he stated.

He told of the awakening of the nations of the east during the past 70 years, the weakening of Turkey, and predicted from Bible prophecy that the great final clash of nations, that of the east, including Russia, against those of the west, will take place in the Palestine area.

Coming talks will include "How To Solve Life's Greatest Problems in Old Age," "The Peace of the Anti-Christ?" Wednesday night, Harold Flynt will lead in song.

Federal Funds

 sons on the welfare rolls are being made on schedule entirely out of state funds, but they won't last much beyond this week. Smith said he was hoping to get an extension of time so Federal money will keep on coming until a final decision is made on October 31.

In accordance with Federal regulations, the state for years has reduced welfare checks of old age assistance recipients produced foodstuffs in gardens or backyards. Livestock operations. Such produce was figured as income to offset their need for assistance.

However, the 1951 Legislature passed a law declaring that the state agency should not consider produce from a half-acre garden plot, one cow, one hog and 10 domestic fowls in determining that the welfare recipient needed it. "provide reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health."

The Legislature wrote into the law a "finding" that the costs of growing and producing foodstuffs on such a limited scale would not be exchanged by the producer and that the expense may be claimed only by a member of a family on the welfare rolls.

The law became effective June 1. It has been carried over without withdrawal of Federal funds until now because the state has agreed to try and make up the difference. The law is now being reviewed by the state agency.

The last passage, an actual exemption, was a result of the fact that the state had to make up the difference in the cost of the new law.

Desmond Is Model Of Happiness In Years After Sixty

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
 NEW YORK (The Times) — Desmond's friends call him a walking model of "how to be happy after 60."

Now he is busy preaching what he practices.

As New York state senator he fathered the first state plan in this country to prevent poverty, sickness and heartache in old age and keep people well and flourishing after 60. Other states are now studying it as a possible solution for a problem faced by all and one of the most serious of the times.

"Life does not have to be misery after 60," says Sen. Desmond. "It can be good if you work, plan ahead, have some kind of creative hobby and take care of health. It's best to start the program early. But it's never too late to start."

Desmond started about 50 years ago. He worked his way through high school, Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, labored on construction crews, saved his money, established his own engineering business, made a fortune, married the girl of his choice, retired from business at 41 and went into politics. For the last 20 years he has been New York state senator.

For the last 30 years he has had a complete health check-up every year. Today he is a bronchodilator, a diuretic and one of the best of working men in New York. He has several hobbies — but his main love is an arboretum of 700 trees, shrubs and woody vines which brought him a flock of gold medals.

After World War II, when Sen. Desmond was studying unemployment problems he discovered that thousands of people over 60 were having an extremely rough time because they were jobless and state aid of their families had been cut off. He decided to do something about it. He headed the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aged, which developed the plan to benefit those 60 and over.

He says that the state, cities, industries, labor and citizens groups have forces to help oldsters get jobs, improve their health and enjoy creative hobbies. In the belief that if these people their needs are met, they can remain well and self-sufficient after 60.

Desmond introduced bills covering state action in the legislature and wrote mayors of 50 cities. He believes the plan could save New York tax payers millions by relieving much of the present need for more expensive services.

"We had better give attention to this problem fast," says Sen. Desmond. "There are 11.3 million people who are 60 and over in this country. In 20 years, at the same time, it is much harder for elderly people than it used to be. More people live in cities in small apartments, where there is no room for grand-children.

"We, too, people on the industrial scrap heap at 65 and then tax ourselves for their support. Two and three quarter million people who are 65 and over are drawing old age assistance today. But the support is far short of the need. Old age assistance averages $45 a month. Social Security payments to single people average $28 a month.

"Many elderly people want to go on working, but can't get anybody to hire them. Two years after they leave the payroll, many die of heartbreak. Others brood and fret until they sicken or become senile. And many of these end in state-supported hospitals for the chronically ill or mentally ill. Our study revealed that 25 per cent of the people in New York state mental hospitals are 65 or more.

"All this unhappiness is being bought at terrific cost. The total cost to the people of New York state of the care of oldsters every year is $601 million. No one knows what it costs the entire country.

"This is what the New York state plan for oldsters proposes in its field of work:

Start a job-finding service for elderly people in every sizable town. Place an expert in every local office of the State Employment Service to give oldsters counseling and placement service. Let the two offices cooperate. Maintain a full-time agency in the State Labor Department to do an educational and publicity job aimed at breaking down prejudices against elderly workers.

In the field of health the plan proposes that both state and city health departments start divisions and activities to fight the diseases of old age and teach people how to be healthy in later years.

Also the plan proposes that local organizations in every town start a recreation program for people over 60, with emphasis on creative hobbies, and that the state give them financial help.

Make a different kind of peanut butter sandwich for lunch for youngsters. Blend a little mayonnaise or salad dressing with the peanut butter and then mix in some finely diced celery, grated raw carrot, and chopped tomato slices.

The last passage, an actual exemption, was a result of the fact that the state had to make up the difference in the cost of the new law.

Rotary Club

 are all familiar, I can assure you that some of the biggest and costliest fires in this country today are the direct result of Communist activity."

Other reasons that are sometimes given for starting fires, he said, are alcoholism, covering up crimes such as theft and murder, thrills, the desire to be a hero, a habitual criminal, pecuniary gain, and pyromania.

He even cited one case where a great forest fire was started due to the desire of a certain individual for blueberries. He had the idea that if he burned over the land every year, better blueberries would result in another year or two.

Line Jacobs of Deland, speaking for the Florida Wildlife Federation, thanked the Rotary Club for its cooperation during the past year and mentioned the fine work of Porter Lansing and George A. Speer, Jr., and invited the club to attend the convention in Daytona Beach on Nov. 3 and 4.

Orville Touchton, speaking on Rotary Information outlined the duties and responsibilities of the district governor. He pointed out that Florida and Georgia together once constituted this district of Rotary. Then Florida alone became the district. And now Florida is divided into three districts.

The district governor is nominated by the district conference, he said, but he is elected by Rotary International. He begins his term of office on July 1 of each year and serves until his successor takes office. Principal qualifications of the office, he said, are plenty of time and money, since the work of Rotary occupies about three-quarters of the time of every governor.

Among his duties are to visit every club in the district, to preside at club assemblies and district conferences, read all publications sent out by Rotary International and to send out monthly letters to all club presidents.

The meeting was presided over by Jack Ballan. Visitors introduced by Sonny Powell included Mr. Jacobs of Deland, L. M. Weeks of Deland, and Charles Wagner, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Princess Arrives

 specially built dais where Viscount Alexander, governor-general of Canada, and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, waited to welcome the royal couple.

As the Princess emerged from the plane's doorway the governor general stepped forward to offer his hand.

The first shot of a 21-gun salute jarred the chill air. The band played "God Save The King." It was a dramatic moment in the brief welcoming program.

Smiling graciously, the Princess after being greeted by the governor general and the prime minister, inspected a guard of honor of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

She and her husband then entered an open car for a drive around the air port en route to the sliding where a train waited to take the royal party to Quebec, where the tour will get under way officially tomorrow.

The crowd sent up cheers after they saw Elizabeth and Philip smile and waved at them from their open car.

Before she had entered the car, Elizabeth shook hands with each of the crew members of the plane and chatted with each one briefly. The Duke did likewise.

The Princess wore very little makeup. She showed no signs of the strain the royal family has undergone as a result of King George's serious lung operation two weeks ago.

Caldwell Thinks Russia Can Atom Bomb U. S. Cities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Civil Defense Administrator Mitchell F. Caldwell said today he thinks Russia has enough atom bombs to hit major American cities simultaneously in "an all-out grand-slam attack."

Such an attack, Caldwell said in a copyrighted article in the magazine U. S. News and World Report, probably would be designed to "stop production cold and blast the morale of the people."

"There will not be one blast, as I visualize it," the Civil Defense chief said. "There will be a number of cities hit at the same time."

Caldwell's views were published as the Senate began debate on a copyright bill carrying $97,625,000 for civil defense. This amount is about $30,000,000 more than the House voted. Caldwell had asked for $35,000,000 to prepare the nation for possible enemy attack.

Should such an attack come from the air, Caldwell estimated the casualties per city at "about 75,000 dead and 75,000 injured."

Caldwell said "considerable progress" is being made in setting the "pattern" for Civil Defense in this country but that his organization is handicapped by a shortage of funds.

He laid the major blame for this on Congress which he said "does not know a great deal about the need for Civil Defense and what it includes." Remarking that one member of Congress he did not name had expressed doubt that Russia has produced an atom bomb, Caldwell added:

"Maybe in view of the announcement (last week) that Russia has exploded a second bomb, he will be convinced now."

He said the famous blue room of the White House.

The city will be presented by the Princess on behalf of her father, King George Sixth.

Mossadegh Lands In U. S. To Argue Iran Oil Dispute

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Iran's ailing premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, arrived here by plane today to argue his country's oil dispute with Great Britain before the United Nations.

He indicated the keynote when he told a group of 100 waiting newsmen and photographers that British oil interests were using "international organizations" to national wealth of a poor nation. He tried to continue the "pillaging of the Mossadegh was assisted down the Dutch airlines plane by Nassrollah Entezam, Iranian ambassador to the United States.

The 72-year-old premier was wearing a black overcoat, and carrying his hat and a walking stick.

By special pre-arrangement, he was cleared aboard the plane by U. S. public health, customs and immigration authorities.

As he posed for photographers at the foot of the ramp, a bouquet of red roses was presented to Mossadegh. The donor was not disclosed.

About 200 Iranian government officials, friends and well-wishers applauded as the premier entered an automobile.

The automobile hardly started before the premier noted a group of 100 Iranian students waving American and Iranian flags from the international airport's observation deck.

The car stopped and he stepped out to raise his right hand in greeting to the young people. From the airport he drove to New York hospital where he will reside during his stay.

He told reporters at the hospital he felt a little weak and expected to have a physical check-up.

The premier spoke in Iranian, with his remarks translated by a member of his party.

Acheson, Jessup Contradicted By Ex-Gov. Stassen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Harold E. Stassen contended today the record makes it plain the State Department played a part in undermining the Chinese Nationalists, and contradicted denials by Secretary Acheson and Ambassador Philip C. Jessup.

Testifying before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee, Stassen said:

"The denials by the State Department of things which I know are true, leave me very uneasy and disturbed with regard to our country's future policy."

The Senate group is considering Jessup's nomination to be a delegate to the coming United Nations General Assembly meeting in Paris. He is now an ambassador-at-large, a post in which he represents this country on many special occasions.

Stassen, former Republican governor of Minnesota and now president of the University of Pennsylvania, testified last week on the Jessup nomination.

He said then that the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich) told him that Acheson and Jessup meeting at a secret White House meeting in 1949 for a cut-off of aid to Nationalist China.

Egyptians Warned Britain To Defend Her Treaty Rights

Bills Providing For Ouster Of British From Suez Area Introduced in Cairo

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The State Department declined today to comment on Egyptian news that the 1936 pact with Great Britain, "We have no background on this yet from our embassy," press officer Michael McDermott said in a news conference. "We would rather not get into it until we get more information."

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Iran's Premier Mohammad Mossadegh is a "very ill man," a New York hospital spokesman said today. Mossadegh went to the hospital yesterday after his arrival here to attend his country's case in the oil dispute with Great Britain before the United Nations. The hospital spokesman said no visitors would be permitted today and a doctor said Mossadegh was to undergo a series of "preliminary tests" the nature of which was not disclosed.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Britain warned Egypt today she intends to keep her "full rights" under the two countries' 20-year defense pact. Cairo moved yesterday to void that treaty.

This was taken to mean that Britain intended to keep her in the strategic Suez area despite Egypt's proposed cancellation of the treaty.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said in a statement that Britain would not recognize the legality of Egypt's one-sided action in moving to reject the treaty.

The statement said Britain takes "the strongest exception" to the Egyptian action.

In Cairo crowds were showing their hostility to the British and support of their own declaration. Police kept the crowds away from the British embassy, which had denounced the Egyptian action as illegal.

Workers and students in the streets shouted "Long live the King of Egypt and Sudan. Police were alerted to prevent disorders.

Premier Mustafa El Nahas said he had told the Egyptian parliament yesterday his call for the ousting of the British from the vital Suez Canal area and giving Egypt control of the Sudan. Britain's right to maintain troops in the canal and her joint rule with Egypt over the Sudan are provisions of the 20-year treaty, signed in 1936 and which still has five years to run.

There was talk among diplomats in London that Egypt would demand the Sudan as well as price for joining the new Middle East Defense system proposed by the Western Powers.

Morrison noted that Britain had told Egypt at least twice that London expected soon to discuss the pact.

Tax Agent Says Private Legal Practice Okayed

Senators Hear Testimony On RFC, Jessup Loyalty

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—James P. Finnegan, former U. S. tax collector in St. Louis, testified today that when he took the job in 1944 he was assured it would be all right to continue his law practice on the side.

He said the assurance came from the late Robert Hannegan, then Internal Revenue commissioner, late Democratic National chairman and postmaster general.

Finnegan testified before a House Ways and Means subcommittee which is looking into his alleged activities as part of a general inquiry into administration of the nation's tax collection business.

He was reassigned as St. Louis collector last April and his handling of the office is now under investigation (Continued on Page 13)

Yanks Lead 3 To 2 In Series After Slugging Fest

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The New York Yankees smothered the St. Louis Cardinals today with the most runs scored in a World Series game in 15 years to take a 3-2 edge before 47,500 Polo Ground fans.

Rocky Colletto pitched for the third time in the series and Phil Rizzuto punched a two-run "Chinese" homer down the right field foul line in the Yanks' 12th inning off live Giant pitchers.

Lefty Loloplat, winner of the second game, breezed home with a five-hitter to beat Larry Jansen for the second time.

Thus the score shifts to Yankee Stadium tomorrow with the Yanks leading only one more win to nail down a third straight world championship for Ed Manager Casey Stengel.

This was the biggest score by a series team since 1936 when the Yanks and the Giants, 11-5, at the Polo Grounds Oct. 6, 1936. On Oct. 2 in the same park during the '36 series they hung up the all-time high of 18-4.

Stengel started veteran Johnny Mize, an ex-Giant, at first base in the first inning, moved Joe Judge to right field and realigned the batting order to the left field spot. As a result of these changes, Hank Bauer was benched. The Yanks had six left-handed batters in the lineup.

Facing a confused pitcher, Stengel sent Clint Hasting to right field in place of Ed Thompson. That left only one left-handed batter, Whitey Ford, in the lineup. Jansen started strong in the first inning by weak opening in Ford's game. He struck out Woodling and made Rizzuto roll to Stanky. After walking Yogi Berra on four pitches, he retired the side when Joe DiMaggio forced Berra, Hank to Stanky.

As DiMaggio went into the fifth game he led the record for most series games played, 50, held by Frankie Frisch.

The old one-two punch of Hank and Yogi plus an error by Woodling gave the Giants a run in the fifth. After Ed Lopat grounded to Brown, Hank singled to left, his eighth hit of the series. Bobby Thomson hit DiMaggio before he had a chance to get to first base. That since 1936 when the Yanks hit the Giants 15-4 and 11-5 scores had a series team piled up as many runs.

The Giants succeeded in the first out by putting in the sophomore. The change of pitcher struck out Mays and Westrum and returned Hasting on a grounder to Coleman.

For the first time all afternoon the Yanks went down 1-0 in the fifth. (Continued on Page 13)
