Presidential Campaign: Plus And Minus To the Bad in Us ruled out from the beginning must be at least

As the presidential campaign heads into the home stretch it is worthwhile to recall what this competition for the most powerful office in the free world has not done.

A noteworthy example is the conduct of the team named by and strictly controlled by the incumbent Republican President Richard M. Nixon. Their actions have been those of such a desperate nature as to imply that they started out with an historic plus which only the president could dissipate and which they just couldn't believe.

This is that an incumbent American president has not been denied a second term by the voters since the debacle of the economic world on a global scale and President Herbert H. Hoover was ousted by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

Even the most partisan observer of the Nixon record would be hard put to muster enough bad decisions and bad policies to support such a denial. Quite the opposite. And all this before the nominating conventions.

However since then the cloud which has settled over the Nixon drive for re-election has exhibited some rather black hues. Of these it now appears that political espionage was engaged in by the Republican high command to the excess of the "Watergate" affair already resulting in the case being pushed beyond the Nov. 7th election date.

This is a sample but not the whole story of the overkill which the Republicans, fat with money and muscled by some Democrats who could not understand the basic political reforms their own party had produced in the backlash from the '68 violence, have engaged in.

President Nixon's continued use of the personal and effective trips of his chief security advisor - Dr. Henry Kissinger - to keep the hopes for peaceful and diplomatic settlement of the hideous Indochina war alive while his orders to bomb and devestate Vietnam are being pushed with a vigor never before seen as a great power seeks to demolish a small but resolute nation, is also something which has marred the purposes of such a campaign.

Thus it is that the extraordinary lead which Candidate Nixon now holds over the democratic Presidential Nominee Senator George McGovern is threatened not by the poverty stricken and badly split Democrats but by the conduct of the kind of campaign Nixon and his powerful and determined advisors have seen fit to adopt.

The American voter thus has the im-

Senator McGovern's campaign has been one which lost the momentum which the Democratic nominating convention had produced, a momentum based on the recognition of the national sentiment which would want the burdens and the profits of government re-valued, and re-distributed and has only recently shown signs of getting this message across to the people.

McGovern's Recovery In Bay State

By JAMES CARY Copley News Service

BOSTON - A wave of excitement raced through the crowd lining Washington Street. It mounted to a roar as the motorcade came into sight. People shouted, waved and whistled as a grinning and elated Sen. George McGovern rode by, waving back and nodding.

By the thousands they jammed into Post Office Square to stand and shout in approval as the Democratic candidate mounted a speaker's platform and worked himself toward an emotional peak.

He was denouncing President Nixon for sending out notices to 28 million Social Security pensioners, notifying them of a 20 per cent increase in benefits. "That implies that the older people are indebted to Richard Nixon for that 20 per cent increase," McGovern shouted. "I say that piece of paper is a total fraud."

Nowhere in this foray into Massachusetts was there visible evidence of the deep troubles he has encountered elsewhere. The crowd was variously estimated at 30,000 to 100,000. Old party regulars were on the stand to indorse his efforts - former Sen, Eugene McCarthy, former House Speaker and Massachusetts political power John Mc-Cormack, and Boston Mayor Kevin White.

But McGovern is in trouble here, too. His early lead has evaporated and there is increasing evidence he could lose the 14 electoral votes of this liberal Democratic stronghold to Richard Nixon unless the holes in his battered campaign battlewagons are repaired quickly. McGovern's problems in Massachusetts, however, are problems with a difference. Here he has the capacity to recover, for he has an excellent political organization, ample financing and some of the traditional Deomcrats are slowly returning to the fold.

Furthermore, his Massachusetts campaign director, John McKean, has pushed a statewide canvass of voters, with the help of thousands of volunteers, to the point where he feels the pro-McGovern voters and those leaning in his direction have been largely identified. Knowing who and where they are is is a major part of getting their vote into the ballot box. "We are organized town by town, city by city and ward by ward," McKean says. "We'll carry the state by a substantial margin." One reason for optimism, he feels, is the success of a drive to register new voters, most of them 18 to 24-year-olds who have never previously voted. McKean said 100,000 have been added and predicted that total would reach 200,000.

for granted that if you leave anything of even minor value unguarded for a few moments, it will disappear.

The mere physical movement of people in public places has changed. Gathered in crowds at political or other events, they often push and shove in ways perilous to others and themselves. The mad capers which frequently accompany victory for the home baseball or ootball team are turning into orgies of truly vicious vandalism.

Even in small clusters, there is a curious, disorderly restlessness in people's movements. Patient, quiet wait-ing is out. While the doors are still closed before some event begins, you'll see people dashing about, crisscrossing each other's paths as if they were somehow alone in space, lounging on floors like exhausted athletes.

These things are minor but symptomatic. The big thing is that too many today neither practice nor believe in standards of behavior. Why should they get excited about Watergate? What the politicians do is a lot of what they, themselves do. If they were in public office, would they be different? Not very likely.

Energy Policy Need Is Cited

One of the best overviews of the much-warned-of energy crisis was presented recently by John L. McLean, chair man and chief executive officer of Continental Oil Co. Discussing the nation's domestic energy gap and its implications for national policy before the World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh, he predicted that by 1985, the United States may have to import approximately 40 to 55 per cent of its oil requirements from foreign sources. chiefly Middle East nations. This is nearly four times as much as we currently import and could by the early 1980s, amount to a deficit in he U.S. balance of trade in fuels "in the $20 to $30 billion

The diplomatic and national security aspects of this whole situation demand a great deal of attention, he said. as does the impact on the world financial structure of as much as half a billion dollars flowing into the oil-producing countries between now and 1985. Not only the United States but Western Europe and Japan will be heavily dependent upon the Middle East for their oil requirements. Russia, he says, will be the only major world power in the coming decade that will be self-sufficient in energy resources. Nevertheless, McLean declares that the consumption of energy should be encouraged - provided it is used efficiently for socially desirable ends - because "it inevitably increases the overall efficiency of our economy.

Leguna Seca Can-Am

The Leguna Seca Can-Am was not just a victory this past weekend for George Follmer. It marked the end of any opportunity for the McLaren Team of Hulme and Revson to catch the Penske Porche Team in the 1972 Series. Follmer now has an insurmountable lead with 118 points toward the Can-Am Championship. The McLaren team has totally dominated the Can-Am series every year but the first since it was started in 1966. This year Roger Penske and Mark Donohue along with Follmer have done what many great drivers and teams have failed to do. Defeat the McLaren Team in the Can-Am Series. Teams and drivers who have tried it in the past and failed include Dan Gurney, Jim Hall with his various Chapparels including the famous "Vacumn Cleaner" car which appeared in 1970; Jackie Stewart in the Loa in 1971, Mario Anndretti in the Holman, Moody Ford McLaren, The Great David Hobbs and others.

All these fine drivers and teams tried and failed to take away the crown from the perrenial Can-Am Champs, the McLaren team. This team which was begun by the late and great Bruce McLaren who along with Denis Hulme began the dynasty have completely dominated a racing series with the best in the world trying to dethrone them for six years. It was a truly amazing performance. Lets face it though. Somebody had to burst the bubble.

Nobody was more superbly equipped to do that than the Penske Porche Team with assistance from the Maroue. It had to happen some time and and 1972 was the time for the Can-Am Championship to pass into other hands. The final race at Riverside will take place at the end of the month. Again, the winner of the Leguna Seca Can-Am was Folimer in the Penske Porche 917-10.

American 500

This weekend at Rockingham, North Carolina we have the American 500 with Bobby Allison in the Chevrolet along with Richard Petty in a Dodge and David Pearson, Buddy Baker and all the rest of the stars of NASCAR doing battle on the mile oval which happens to be one of the toughest tracks on the entire circuit to drive.

Chevrolet has clinched the NASCAR Manufacturers Championship with 163 points. A hearty congratulations goes out to Bobby Allison, Coo Coo Marlin, Fred Lorenzen, Cale Yarborough and the late Friday Hassler for doing the kind of driving job that have Chevy the championship in a year which saw the greatest racing that NASCAR has ever produced with the finest cars and equipment.

Certainly the best competition, the best drivers, make this victory for Chevrolet powered cars that much sweeter. Bobby Allison and Junior Johnson deserve a lions share of the credit for making this possible. Even Bobby Isaac was in a Chevy before the season was over. As a matter of fact Isaac in his first race in the car at Charlotte in the National 500 was racing with the leaders for most of the event.

Chevy has definitely made a dent and a large one in a series previously dominated by Ford and Chrysler, I don't believe that Chrysler and Ford will ever dominate NASCAR like they have in the past. There are now enough General Motors entries who are competitive that I am convinced 1973 will see another repetition of this year with competition very close and very exciting. Keep it up NASCAR.

Baby Grand Series

A single point separates the top two contenders - Earl Fellin and Carson Baird - in the B. F. Goodrich Baby Grand Series and the national championship will be on the line in the curtain-raiser of the two-day International Motor Sports Association meet at Daytona International Speedway on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 18-19.

Fellin of Hyattsville, Md., and Baird of neighboring Laurel, Md., will battle it out in a 100-miler at 3:30 p.m., on Nov. 18 in a test of speed and stamina on Daytona's demanding 3.81-mile international road and track course. The pair will stage a daylight rematch of the IMSA Easter weekend night race at Daytona that Fellin won when Baird's headlights failed. Fellin hasn't found the winning combination since, but has finished high in almost every race during the season. Baird has posted two victories during the season to bring about the showdown.

Following the BFG opener, the speedy little International Formula 100 machines will compete in a preliminary 50-miler at 1:00 p.m., on Nov. 19, just prior to the 2:00 p.m. running of the IMSA-Camel Grand Touring "Presidential 250" championship battle.

24 Hours Of Daytona

up with the Daytona 500, Sunday, Feb. 18. Registration, medical examinations and technical inspection opens the week, Wednesday, Jan. 31, and the following day will be filled with practice sessions. Practice and timed qualifying runs are set for Friday, Feb. 2. Night practice will be held both Thursday and Friday. Saturday's action begins with a two-hour morning practice session over the famed 3.81-mile road-track circuit. The drivers' meeting will be heid at one o'clock and the 24hour race will begin two hours later.

The 1973 edition of the World Manufacturers' scramble is open to cars classified in four Federation International de l'Automobile (FIA) Groups; Group II (Special Touring Cars), Group III (Special Production Grand Touring Cars). Group IV (Special Grand Touring Cars) and Group V (Sports

The annual SPEED WEEKS program will also feature Daytona 500 NASCAR-FIA stock car pole position qualifying, Saturday, Feb. 10, and ARCA's Royal Triton 300 stock car race, Sunday, Feb. 11.

"I don't usually strike out key Southeastern Conference that many batters," said Billingham, who fanned seven Athletics. "The twilight no Kentucky worked out in a cold doubt helped me."

Her veil of illusion was secured to a Chantilly lace headpiece and she carried a cascade of daisies centered with a detachable orchid. Miss Debbie Thomas attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a mint green gown and carried a Bible, given to her by her grandmother, which was centered with an arrangement of daisies.

Bridemaids were Susie Thomas, Sandy Sefried and Marilyn Rudd. They wore yellow crepe gowns and carried bouquets of daisies. Pat Smith served the bridegroom as best man. Usher-groomsmen were Danny Lee, Mike Maples and Roy flower girl and Peter Kooy was the ringbearer. Immediately following the ceremony, the church social hall was the reception site. Pouring the punch was Bonnie Johnson. The cake was cut and served by Harriett Fortier and Emma Farmer. Following a wedding trip to Walt Disney World and other points, the newlyweds are residing at 102 Commodore Apartments, Sanford, where the bridegroom is employed by Family Finance and the bride is a student.

Among the out-of-town wedding guests were the parents of the bridegroom and Mrs. Maude Thomas, grandmother of the bride, from Speedway, W. Va.

Does honesty pay? Readers write in

By Abigail Van Buren 10 1972 by Chicago Tribene-N. Y. News Smil., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You gave a good answer to the woman who asked "Does it pay to be honest?" ["Honesty pays in the currency of honor and self respect."]

May I add a postscript? In determining what is right, find it is helpful to consider the alternative. With regard to the abovementioned situation, the alternative would have been to keep the items she found instead of returning them to their rightful owners, rationalizing, "I probably won't even get a 'thank you.' This type of rationalization would surely create nagging guilt feelings which would be harder to live with than the resentment of unexpressed gratitude on the part of the OWDERS.

Again and again I have found that considering the alternative has made the immediate unpleasantness much easier to bear, and helped in making the right decision. THE REVEREND C. W. KIRKPATRICK

LUDLOW, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "Honest or Stupid," I wish to relate an experience I had some years ago in Philadelphia: While shopping on my lunch hour in the five and ten cent store, I noticed a woman's large pocketbook setting on the counter. It was a shabby bag of expensive quality. I looked around to see if anyone appeared to be looking for it, and since no one was, I looked inside for the owner's identification. I felt so guilty searching a stranger's purse you'd have thought I had stolen it.

There was a wallet bulging with several hundreds of dollars-maybe more. I was too nervous to count it. Also, a large bunch of keys, and several credit cards, bearing the owner's name and address.

I felt so conspicuous, and half fearful that I would be approached and accused of stealing it, I rushed immediately to the Lost and Found Department and turned it in, leaving my name and address.

Several days later I received a nice note and a lovely bandkerchief supposedly from the "owner" of the purse. She mentioned that altho she had only "a few dollars" in her wallet, she was grateful to have had her keys and credit cards returned!

I quickly realized that her purse had not been returned intact. Most of the money had been removed. Imagine how learned a lesson then and there. If I ever found anything again, I would NOT turn it in. I would leave MY name and address at the Lost and Found, with instructions to have the owner contact ME. That way I'd be sure of its REALLY STUPID safe return.

POLLY'S POINTERS Remove Pen Marks With These Tips

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY-I am answering the reader whose twoyear-old had marked on her stereo with a felt tipped pen. My little boy marked up my dresser, a door and the dryer with a black, a blue and a green one. While putting on some cologne I dabbed some of the marks to see what would happen. They were removed completely and with no damage to the finish on any of the things. DEAR POLLY-I am a college art student and so many people in art classes have duplicate equipment. I use adhesive-backed plastic-coated paper to identify my tools. A small patch or strip of a distinctive design is on everything I carry with me. This takes a bit of time but certainy beats trying to scratch my initials on everything. This also would be useful for all school children no matter what age. In our dorm we are not allowed to put anything on the walls that would make a hole or scratch. Consequently there are a lot of barefaced walls. I put inexpensive adhesive backed cork tiles on a wall so they cover an area 4x6 feet and on them I hang my drawings, posters, pictures or just about anything and have no worries about the plaster. The cork panel makes a dramatic focal point for the entire room .- DEBORAH INEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

If you win the club in your hand and lay down the ace. a smart East may drop the nine to give you the option of playing the king next on the theory that West started with jack-5-4-2.

If you lead the first diamond from dummy, East is much less likely to make that nine-spot play. If he does you pay off to him.

Unfortunately, they also do not realize that, as the children grow older, the questions become unanswerable. A parent's usual reaction to this kind of question is to stammer, "Pass the peas, please," or, "Did I tell you our club has raised $568 for the United Fund?" Since a parent cannot be expected to be fully informed on every subject, the best recourse is to have some stock questions to use in reply to questions you cannot answer. The following may be useful:

It required from the county.

Herndon, County Talk $$

"When we first started serving Seminole County, we had three or four calls a day, now we have seven or eight. There are four ambulances in Seminole County-one in Sanford, Casselberry, Maitland, and a new one planned for a substation at Lake Howell." so stated Idus Willis, of Herndon Ambulance Company, during a hearing before the Board of County Commissioners.

According to Willis, the cars are moved around over the county to cover all areas, and some are even brought in from Orange County when necessary. Patients are taken

When Commissioner John Kimbrough asked Wi'lis who made the decision as to which hospital, he said that if the patient is conscious, he is asked, but otherwise, his men decide following a conference with investigating officers.

He said that on many occasions and with proper information relayed to them, his men would carry doctors and nurses along to the scene to accompany the patient to the hospital.

Willis said that in Brevard, the charge for an ambulance call is $35 and the county gives a subsidy payment annually of $120,000. In Volusia, the subsidy is $115,000 with a $35 call charge. In Seminole County, the ambulance calls are $20 with a $22,000 subsidy. He said that if -he could collect all that was due him, he would need no subsidy from Seminole.

Willis related that nursing homes called and asked him to transport patients across the street to the hospital, that doctors had called and asked him to take patients to the hospitals in Gainesville. If the patients are not admitted. neither Medicare nor the veterans groups will pay for une service and the ambulance company then is the loser, because most of the time the patient cannot pay and the families are not responsible for poyment in the State of Florida. He said that collection agencies take 50 per cent of total collections so the company still loses money. Based on his collection ratio. Willis told Commissioner Sid Vihlen following questioning, that in South Seminole, the service is self supporting, but that that in Seminole overall, he would require at least a $15 increase in service calls. "We are losing men every day, after we give them the emergency medical training, because our pay scale is so low. A good ambulance driver now is a professional and salaries in some places double ours." When queried about the feasibility of keeping the helicopter service, Willis said that he really felt that this has been an invaluable service. While the ambulance charge may be $25 for an emergency pickup, the helicopter charge is $50 but it is worth it to the patient, since there is the radio. medically trained attendants, often a doctor and drugs aboard, if needed.

Hoose stated that there are great pressures for doing so. First is China's difficulty with the Soviet Union. Second is the threat the Chinese see in Japan being the dominant economic power in Southeast Asia.

On that day residents wishing to cooperate are requested to keep their porch or exterior lights on as an indication of their willingness to welcome young visitors and offer them treats. Children are encouraged to call only at the lighted homes of neighbors whom they know Other safety tips offered by the Jaycees to young "spooks"

Do not wear Halloween masks since they tend to restrict vision, use flashlights after dark. If you carry a pumpkin, light it with a flashlight, not a candle.

The Jaycees also urged children to observe the National Safety Council's basic rules of pedestrian safety on Halloween. Cross only at corners, never between parked cars, never diagonally across an intersection. Look in all directions before crossing the street. Walk on the sidewalk, not on the street. Wait on the curb, not in the street, until the street is clear to cross.

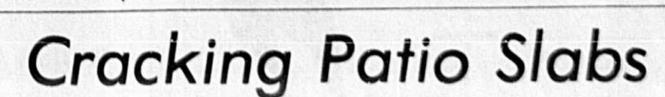

The sheriff had words of advice for motorists, too. He cautioned drivers to be on the alert for excited youngsters on the afternoon and early evening of Oct. 31.

"If we all do our part and follow common sense rules of safety, this Halloween will be an enjoyable and safe holiday for the children of Seminole County," said Sheriff John Polk

Nixon Inks Sharing Act State Gets Windfall

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)-With the stroke of a pen in Philadelphia's Independence Hall today, President Nixon will provide Florida with its second windfall of federal funds this week-some $63 million in revenue sharing money.

Earlier this week, Congress overrode Nixon's veto of the $24.5 billion Water Pollution Control act, providing Florida with up to $528 million to improve sewage treatment over the next three years.

Nixon invited the nation's governors to the signing of the revenue sharing bill at noon. but Gov. Reubin Askew declined, saying he had a full schedule of office appointments in Tallahassee.

In addition to the state's share of federal revenue, the act also provides for distribution of another $97.3 million directly to cities and counties. A spokesman for the Department of Administration - the state budget making agency said the money will probably go into the bank and earn interest until the 1973 Legislature decides how to spend it next "The Legislature has to appropriate it," he said. "It should probably be considered in conjunction with review of the total state needs that makes up the budget process." The shared federal revenue
