In selecting the team, a definite choice should be made for each position. In other words, the All-Stars will consist of eight players and four pitchers—two right-handers and two left-handers.

The tournament should also cast a vote for his favorite manager, and for the two managers who would select for use in the series.

Creel Reveals Future Plans Of President

Budget Will Be Balanced In '39, Autho-
Says In Review Of Extensive Program

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—As an answer to recent criticisms of President Roosevelt's failure to take the country into his full confidence regarding future policies, George Creel will present in Camerer's Weekly tomorrow a complete exposition of the President's plans.

Based on information from authoritative administration sources, Mr. Creel announces that the federal budget is to be balanced in 1939. The plan for this balancing has been worked out at the President's dictation, by Treasury experts, and is as definite as precise figures can make it:

For the present year, ending July 1, 1936, receipts will be $3952 million dollars and the deficit $892 million. For next year, ending July 1, 1937, receipts will be $4200 million, with a deficit of $600 million. For the following year (ending July 1, 1938) receipts will be $5000 million and deficit $500 million. In 1939, the deficit will be wiped out and there will be a surplus of $500 million.

Says Mr. Creel: "The President holds that the best and quickest way to balance the national budget is to balance the budget of the American citizen. Even so, receipts and expenditures are being given careful consideration, and the Treasury expects already to see the day when the budget can and will be balanced—and that without ignoring an essential governmental duty or human obligation."

Mr. Roosevelt disclaimed political intent, but he spoke over the air to a Democratic party gathering, and he dealt almost exclusively with topics which are surrounded by the most active political dispute.

Various unusually early party activities have contributed to this, but the culminating event widely regarded as a sort of curtain raiser—was the exchange of speeches between President Roosevelt and Republican House Leader Snell.

Mr. Snell hardly alluded at all to political affiliations, but his address to the nation was delivered under the auspices of the Republican national committee, and his appeal for votes against the New Deal was frank and open.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Although election day still is some 14 months away, the disposition of political leaders now is to speak of the 1936 campaign in the present, rather than the future, tense.

Various unusually early party activities have contributed to this, but the culminating event widely regarded as a sort of curtain raiser—was the exchange of speeches between President Roosevelt and Republican House Leader Snell.
