Veto By Layer Could Imperil Salary Raises

By KRIS NASH
Herald Staff Writer

Following the line established at last month's contract discussions, Seminole County School Supt. William P. (Bud) Layer Wednesday rejected all but one of the recommendations submitted by a state mediator assigned to settle the impasse between the school board and Seminole's 1,500 teachers.

If upheld by the board, the move would cancel $773,000 in increased salaries, wage supplements and insurance benefits recommended by Special Master Douglas Stowell of Tallahassee.

Layer's action came two weeks after the school board bargaining team turned down five of six items in the special master's report during a final negotiating discussion session. Prior to that, members of the Seminole Education Association (SEA) had voted overwhelmingly to accept Stowell's findings in their entirety. The special master was brought to Sanford in October to help resolve disputes which have kept Seminole teachers working without a contract since Aug. 20.

In his recommendations Wednesday, Layer called for a $200 raise in the teachers' annual base pay, $100 less than the $300 starting figure recommended by Stowell. And the superintendent suggested that last year's index of salary supplements—for instructors who supervise extracurricular student activities, including athletics—remain unchanged.

"The superintendent recommends," Layer wrote, "that an ad-hoc committee be established to propose any changes in index values and any additional supplemental positions. It is recommended that these proposals be submitted to the negotiating teams of both the employer and the employees."

On the subject of medical and health insurance contributions paid by the school board, Layer recommended an increase from $150 to $160 toward the $220 annual premium. The state mediator had called for an increase to $200, and SEA leaders said they were hoping the school board eventually would assume the entire payment, as done in Orange County.

Layer matched the special master's suggestion for a two-year term of agreement, but totally ignored Stowell's recommendation that the contract include a provision to keep prior pacts in effect "so long as good faith negotiations are in progress, or—in an impasse has been reached—until 15 days after" the special master's report is received, or he added, until the mediator's findings are accepted or rejected, whichever comes first.

The superintendent recommended that the new agreement run from July 1, 1976-July 31, 1978.

The lone item on which Layer's recommendation coincided with that of the state mediator was the one dealing with class size. Stowell's report on that section called for acceptance of "the class sizes outlined in the school board's proposal and in the contract in effect for fiscal year 1975-76."

SEA President William Moore presented the board with his recommendations, which conform to the special master's report. Moore repeated that the teacher's association was not satisfied with all of Stowell's findings but has chosen to accept the proposed package as

Tiny Tim Tiptoes Into Sanford

By AUDIE MURPHY
Herald Staff Writer

When Herbert Bushingham Khauy walked onto the stage at Sanford Plaza's Rocking Chair theater Wednesday night you could tell right away that it wasn't just another pretty face trying to make it in show biz.

Tiny Tim—in person!

That tangled mat of black hair which resembles one of Howard Cosell's toupees after a megadose of Gamma Rays; that massive nose jutting like a rock formation from between those beetling eyebrows; that waveling falsetto voice which can crack the enamel in your teeth and make you giggle at the same time—it was Tiny Tim, all right.

He launched into a medley of silly tunes (Animal Crackers In My Soup, etc.) and the audience roared.

After the silly interlude, however, he put aside the toy-like instrument and launched into the main part of his show, a marathon medley of old favorites which he delivers in a booming, baritone voice while gesturing like a male Ethel Merman gone berserk.

The roof-shaking renditions of "It's A Lonu Way To Tipperary," "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey," and literally dozens of others went over well with the audience. But it seemed impossible that all that sound could be coming from the soft-spoken man who had been chatting quietly in the theater manager's office just a few moments before.

With the dialog of the theater's feature movie "Running Wild," starring Lloyd Bridges in the background, Tiny Tim had paused to reflect on his colorful career, which culminated with his meteoric rise to fame after the release of "Tiptoe Through The Tulips."

Millions of Americans subsequently watched Tiny Tim marry his beloved Miss Vicki on Johnny Carson's Tonight Show.

They were separated in 1974, but Tiny Tim still wears a wedding band.

"I won't give her a divorce," he says adamantly. "As far as I'm concerned, we're married until death do us part."

During the conversation, his ukelele, wrapped in a plastic bag to protect it from the rain, rested beside his chair.

He said he learned to play the ukelele in the early '50s by studying a book written by Arthur Godfrey and Don Ball called "You, Too, Can Learn To Play The Ukelele."

Why hasn't he been on the Carson show lately? "They haven't called," he shrugged. "I don't especially like doing those shows anyway. I like moving around, meeting people."

How does he like Central Florida? "It looks good to me," he said, adding that Sanford seems like a nice town.

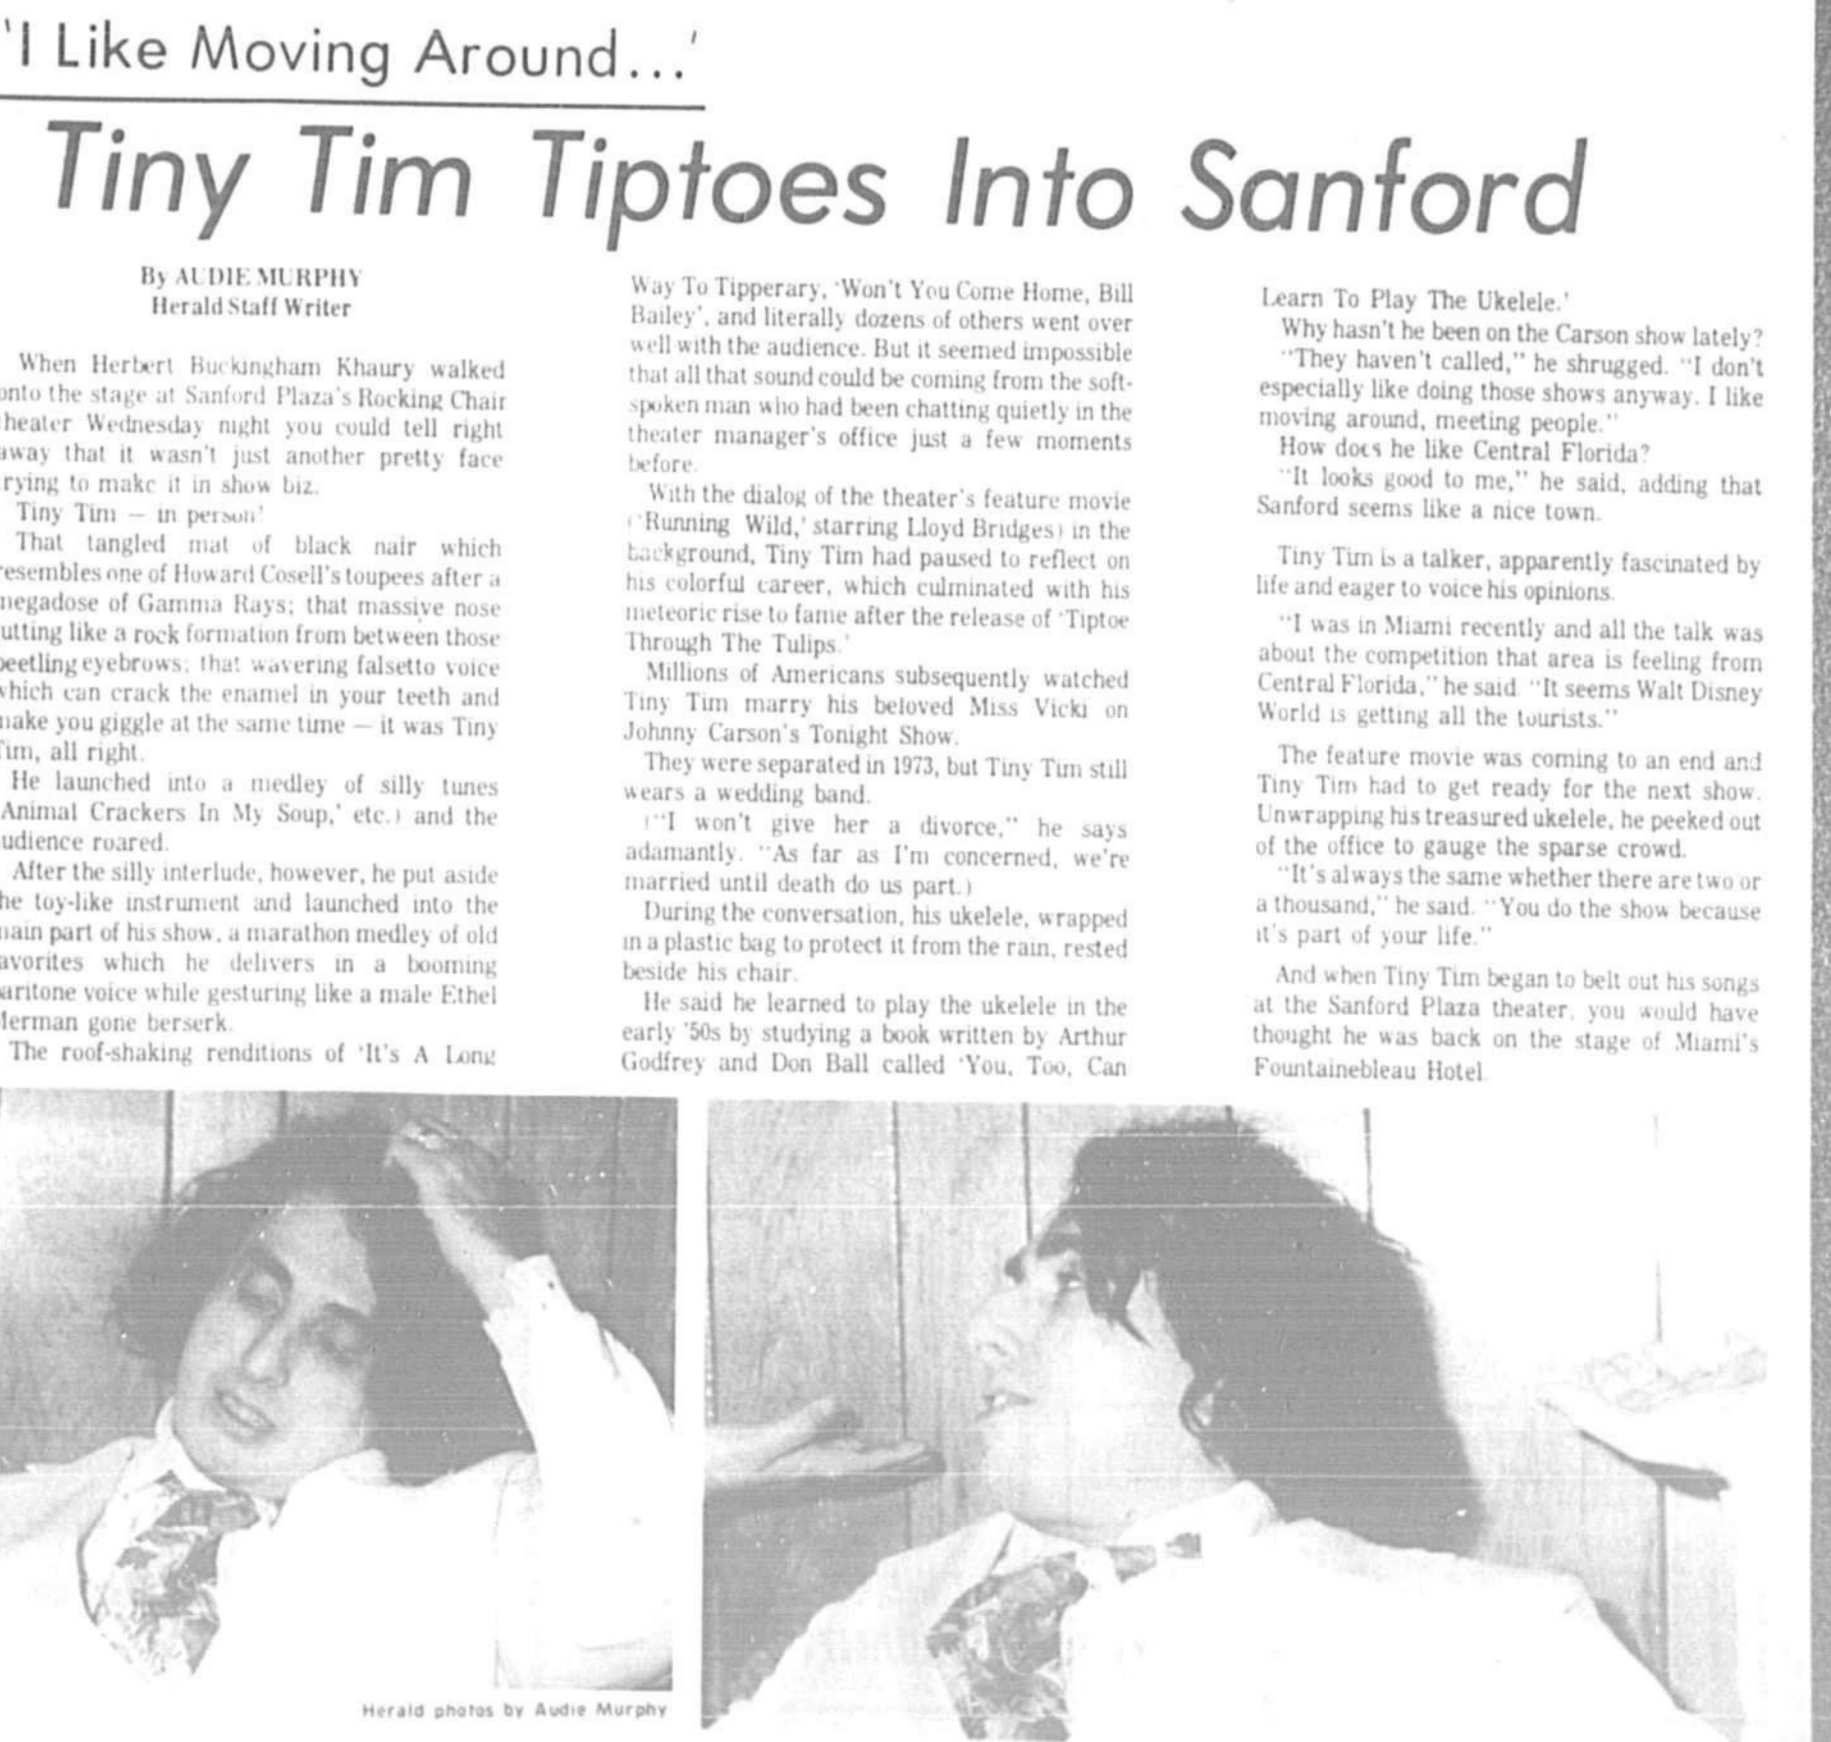

Tiny Tim is a talker, apparently fascinated by life and eager to voice his opinions.

"I was in Miami recently and all the talk was about the competition that area is feeling from Central Florida," he said. "It seems Walt Disney World is getting all the tourists."

The feature movie was coming to an end and Tiny Tim had to get ready for the next show. Unwrapping his treasured ukelele, he peeked out of the office to gauge the sparse crowd.

"It's always the same whether there are two or a thousand," he said. "You do the show because it's part of your life."

And when Tiny Tim began to belt out his songs at the Sanford Plaza theater, you would have thought he was back on the stage of Miami's Fontainebleau Hotel.

Two Blacks Killed In South Africa Riots

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Police shot and killed two black men Wednesday night in the second night of rioting in Cape Town's Guguletu black township. A spokesman said the police opened fire when scores of blacks stormed their van. The shooting followed a day of arson and rioting in the township. The police said trucks were burned, a bus was smashed, and a small van was stoned. More than 370 persons have been killed, most of them by police fire, in rioting in South Africa's black ghettos since June. However, there has been much less rioting lately, and the reason for the outbreak in Guguletu was not known.

Israel Pledges Cooperation

PARIS (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin says Israel is ready to work with its Arab neighbors "on any aspect of economic cooperation," even without a formal Arab-Israeli peace settlement. "I think it is better sometimes to begin by launching common economic projects and, thanks to the benefits derived, create an atmosphere which would help accelerate the movement toward peace," Rabin said in a newspaper interview. He also said he expects a major Arab-Israeli peace initiative next year.

Mexico Faces Austerity Period

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's new president, Jose Lopez Portillo, declared in his inaugural address that the country is faced with a period of austerity to contend with inflation, recession and financial instability, including the recent devaluation of the peso. Lopez Portillo promised Wednesday to reduce government spending, pursue a financial policy conducive to private investment, help companies hurt by the devaluation of the peso and channel investments into major industrial areas.

Corruption Charges Pending

ROME (AP) — The leftist majority on a parliamentary commission investigating the Lockheed payoff scandal has voted to charge former Premier Mariano Rumor with corruption. Two former defense ministers and a former air force chief of staff also were charged. Rumor, a Christian Democrat, was premier in 1969-70 when the U. S. aircraft firm allegedly paid $1.6 million in bribes.

Teacher Pay Hikes: Public Hearing Next

Florida law stipulates that a public hearing must now be held "at which the parties shall be required to explain their positions with respect to the" special master's findings. This must precede any final action by the school board. Layer, Moore and School Board Chairman Davis Sims agreed to meet Wednesday to determine a date for the public hearing.

The content of school board negotiations in rejecting the state mediator's financial recommendations has been that the school district's $82 million budget is inadequate to handle the $73,000 in increases.

Slowly's report itemized more than $7 million in unappropriated, unnumbered and other types of funds which the special master said appeared "available to accommodate the increase recommended in base salary, as well as the other recommendations in this report." Management representatives have denied that this assessment is accurate.

In other business Wednesday, the school board approved a $425,000 tentative operating budget for converting the Sanford Naval Academy Junior School into a two-story office complex for Layer and his administrative staff. The original budget for the project was set at $298,000, but the Casselberry architect handling the renovation told board members that an additional $127,000 in expenses had been projected.

Board members voted 4-1, with Sims dissenting, to approve the budget for the Dainwood-Derryberry-Pavelchak Partners. Included was the stipulation that the $425,000 be devoted entirely to necessary interior and exterior refurbishing, with demolition of certain walls, paving of the parking lot, landscaping and all outside painting being suspended until the board is certain necessary funds are available.

4 Youths Involved; Verdict Due The CB Burglaries

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

A circuit court jury was deliberating at noon today in the auto burglary-CB thefts trial of Daniel Morris Swift, 19, of 1314 E. Notre Dame Dr., Altamonte Springs. Swift was accused of three counts of auto burglary and three counts of theft of citizens band radios in connection with incidents on July 8-9 in the Spring Oaks subdivision, Altamonte Springs.

Swift was one of four youths arrested by police on July 9 when they went to Mr. Luckie's CB Shop, at Casselberry, where police say 12 CBs were offered for sale. Swift didn't testify and defense attorney R. Patrick Phillips presented no defense witness in the two-day trial before Circuit Judge A. J. Haseman Jr.

Swift was convicted by another circuit court jury on Nov. 3 of auto burglary and petty larceny in a June CB theft. He was ordered held in custody pending a presentence investigation and sentencing in that case on Jan. 25 by Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor.

Casselberry Police Det. Bobby Bennett testified Wednesday that the CB shop owner tipped police on July 9 that some men were trying to sell allegedly stolen CB radios.

In the earlier trial, Clifford Hall, 19, who lives across the street from Swift, testified that he and Swift broke into a van and stole a CB. Hall had already pleaded guilty in the case and is awaiting sentencing.

Wednesday Hall again testified for the prosecution against Swift, but Asst. State Atty. Claude Van Hook charged that Hall changed his testimony in court from earlier sworn statements.

Hall denied under oath reported filed with the sheriff department following the November Swift trial that he'd been threatened. Hall said he didn't want to explain his inconsistent statements to the jury on Wednesday. Hall said he earlier implicated Swift in the theft of 12 CBs from parked autos at homes in Spring Oaks because "then I wanted to get him in trouble. But now I don't want to get nobody in trouble."

Hall testified Wednesday that the night of July 8-9 he and Swift only sat in a car while Kenny McKinney, of 416 Fordham, Altamonte Springs, left the car and returned with the radios. Leslie Lee Swift, 24-year-old brother of the defendant, testified that his brother had "wanted no part" of the CB thefts and returned to the parked auto.

McKinney, who has turned 18 since the July 9 arrest, took the stand to testify that he alone broke into parked autos using a coathanger and stole the 12 radios. "I could only carry four or five at a time so I put some in yards and went back for them," he testified.

McKinney said he pleaded guilty to the thefts earlier in the juvenile division of Circuit Court.

McKinney claimed that a lawyer told him to sign a statement for Altamonte police saying that all four youths in the car conspired to steal the radios.

Wednesday he testified that Swift wasn't one of the youths who discussed the thefts beforehand.

"Dutch (Daniel Swift) didn't steal any CBs that night (July 8-9)," McKinney told the jury.

New Capitol Still Not Open For Business

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — It's all but official that the legislature won't be able to move into the new, $43 million Capitol before the 1977 session starts next April. House Speaker Donald Tucker, D-Tallahassee, said Wednesday that House quarters in the 22-story building will not be ready in time. He said the House will hold its 1977 session in the old Capitol.

$119 Ashtrays Dropped

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Department of General Services has topped its plans to furnish the hallways of the new capitol with $119 ashtrays and $3,000 sofas. Department officials told Cabinet aides Wednesday that instead of requesting $263,000 for furnishings in the public areas of the new 22-story Capitol, they would only seek $185,000, a 30-per-cent cut.

$28 Million Revenue Drop

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — State revenue collections are $28 million below projections, but if the economy doesn't get a lot worse Florida will be able to avoid a budget holdback for the first time in three years, State Economist Jay Yelton predicts.

Tucker Suffered Stroke

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — House Speaker Donald Tucker has revealed that he suffered a minor stroke last month, but says he is fully recovered and still plans to run for governor in 1978. Tucker also said at a Wednesday news conference that he has returned the widely-criticized $8,431 desk-and-credenza set he ordered for his office in the new Capitol.

Lake Mary Okays Sewer Agreement

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Council late Wednesday afternoon approved in principle an inter-local agreement with the City of Sanford and Seminole County to develop a regional sewage treatment plant for North Seminole County. Amending the language in the five-page written agreement with an agreement with Sanford even if Seminole County should decide to drop out of the arrangement. The agreement, once signed by the three governments, is to be binding until Sanford, Lake Mary and the county sets up a permanent authority to handle the work of developing the regional plant.

The interim committee, called for in the agreement, is to consist of nine members with each of the governments appointing two members and those six persons naming by majority vote three others to serve at large.

The committee will fund costs of the construction of the facility. At a workshop following the special meeting, the council worked on a new fence ordinance and personnel policy for city employees.

Livestock Trailer Stolen From Red Bug Road Ranch

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Seminole sheriff's deputies today were searching for a $6,000 34-foot livestock trailer reported stolen from a ranch and Sanford police were investigating the theft of a $2,500 electronic distance-measuring device stolen from a surveyor's truck. Robert Palmer of the B-Bar-B Ranch, Red Bug Road, told deputies that the white and black livestock trailer was taken from the ranch after a gate was left unlocked.

Deputies said to tow the trailer away the thief would have had to have a special goose-neck trailer hookup on a vehicle. Sanford police patrolman J.A. Cash reported the surveyor's instrument, housed in a dark green plastic case, was stolen from a pickup truck parked near the Lakeview Plaza offices of Doudney Surveyors Inc.

TV's Stolen Sheriff's deputies also are investigating the theft of two portable color televisions valued at $800 from two rooms at the Days Inn motel, 14 and SR-46 west of Sanford. Deputy John Hawkins reported that two men are believed to have used bedspreads from the rooms to cover the televisions as they were taken to a getaway car, described as a black-topped gold-colored Oldsmobile convertible.

Bond for Kafka was set at $5,000, according to county jail records. Grand Larceny Arrest Sanford police detective Tom Bernosky arrested Douglas Bryant Halsip Sr., 58, of 106 E. Airport Blvd., Sanford, on a grand larceny charge, according to county jail records. Bond was set at $5,000.

Geneva Driver Acquitted

A circuit court jury at Sanford has acquitted William E. Kinnaird, 21, of Geneva of two counts of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle.

Kinnaird was arrested on the charges by a state trooper on Halloween night after a pickup truck struck a compact sedan in the side at a SR-46 turnoff at Geneva.

Kinnaird was charged with aggravated assault upon the occupants of the auto, Mark E. Blish and Darlene Brazell, also of Geneva.

Blish testified that the crash came a short time after an incident on a sandy road near Island Pond in which a group of youths had a fight with Kinnaird.

Blish said he'd stopped alongside the road to wait for a friend when he saw a truck turn off SR-46 and come toward his car. Blish said he "looked off" in an effort to keep from being hit, but his auto was struck in the right side and pushed into a parked car.

Booking Solution Not With Agencies

Supposedly the mood in Washington is for deregulation of business and industry, but two federal agencies are taking the view that airlines and hotels may not be regulated enough to protect their customers from overbooking.

The Civil Aeronautics Board says it is "unacceptable" that 130,000 airline passengers last year turned up at flight time with reservations and tickets for flights aboard planes that were already full. The Federal Trade Commission is looking at the same problem in hotels, where some are said to be taking reservations for half again as many rooms as they have under their roofs.

Anyone who has been bumped from an airline flight or left standing in a hotel lobby after making reservations well in advance would agree that something ought to be done. We're not convinced, however, that the CAB and FTC can solve the problem fairly and effectively simply by ordering airlines and hotels to stop overbooking.

Airlines and hotels have a good case for doing what they do. Overbooking is their protection against the "no-show" — the person who makes a reservation and is never heard from again. If reservation and ticket clerks didn't gamble by overbooking, empty seats on planes and empty rooms in hotels would require that rates charged for customers who do show up would have to be increased to cover the loss.

Airlines and hotels are already required to make substitute arrangements when their overbooking boomerangs, and the inconvenienced customer has a right to sue if he's left out in the cold. Lawsuits are expensive, and there's enough congestion in the courts already. The whole problem might be reduced to more manageable size if people who travel were more willing to hold up their end of the bargain when they make a reservation — calling back to cancel if they change their plans.

The convenience of telephoned reservations would be lost if airlines and hotels demanded a deposit as protection against the no-show. The obligation to release an airline seat or hotel room that won't be needed is as much a moral one as an economic one. The hotel industry recently launched a nationwide campaign urging people to cancel room reservations if they change their plans. If that shows signs of success, maybe the FTC can relax.

To deny airlines and hotels the right to overbook for their own economic protection would be unfair. To require the traveler to cover every reservation with an advance payment that would be forfeited if the reservation isn't used would be a nuisance. The answer to this problem would seem to lie more in the direction of an appeal to the public conscience.

Noise Pollution

People who live close to major airports will welcome news of the Department of Transportation's order requiring that the noisiest jet airliners be given quieter engines or phased out of service over the next eight years. However, we hope this program is not headed down the same stormy course as the government's effort to get the last puff of pollution out of auto exhaust.

The auto industry is arguing that the cost of anti-smog equipment and the penalty in gas mileage becomes increasingly severe as the reduction in pollution reaches the end of the scale. This raises the question of whether anything less than an electric car is going to be perfectly smog-free, just as nothing less than a hot-air balloon would provide silent take-offs and landings at airports.

Transportation Secretary William Coleman estimates the cost of the new jet noise program at $5 to $8 billion — a figure so high that the government may feel obliged to help pay for it. No matter how the cost is divided between the taxpayer and the airline ticket-buyer, that's a stiff price to pay for a noise reduction which technicians can measure on instruments but which may be barely detectable by the human ear.

Mr. Coleman's promise that airport operations will be given more leeway in the future to establish curfews and other traffic limitations to treat their noise problem is not much consolation, either. Those steps only translate into reductions in a community's air service. The fundamental problem remains one of separating airports from residential neighborhoods.

The movie "The Front Page" is about journalism in the 1930s — that is if you can call it journalism without adding the adjective "yellow" making it "Yellow Journalism."

The freedom those scribes of old had was something. It was nothing for a newspaper writer to take off from a routine story and turn it into a sensational, one-of-a-kind happening — an event of monumental significance.

It's doubtful that freedom to "fly above" the facts was a good thing. It produced, for the most part, sensational stories studied with more adjectives than can be found in your regulation collegiate dictionary issued to freshmen to be used as the Bible when grinding out term papers on John Milton's "Paradise Lost."

But the movie, which Monday night enjoyed a rerun on television, did bring back some good memories that once were commonplace around newsrooms in this state. Specifically, the crusty, grizzled, hard-as-nails editor portrayed by Walter

Matthau reminded me of a former editor on the Tampa Times.

Matthau was much like Doyle Harvil, a legendary newspaperman who during his colorful career in Tampa turned out some of the finest journalism in this nation. Former colleague Tom Haum is now Washington correspondent for AP and other former Times reporters are rapping out stories for such fine organizations as UPI and The New York Times, in addition to other great newspapers.

Harvil was a wizard with people. One day I walked in his office, which was always decked out with old newspapers and pictures of those he thought were the greats and the near-greats.

I informed him I was going to resign. "Resign," he bellowed. "You're still wet behind the ears. You shouldn't even be allowed in my office. Now, get back out there on the street until you've got something worthwhile to talk about."

He literally cowed reporters into submission. He would offer fistcuffs, if need be, to win his way. His way: "There is no greater calling than that of a printer's devil, working his way up to managing editor. Many times he talked Haum, and others, into staying when better offers had been made. His success can be attributed to the fact that he cared, really cared about newspapers and the people who wrote them. And, it was nigh impossible to say no to somebody who loved newspapers as much as Doyle Harvil.

And, that's who Matthau reminded me of, an editor who cared more about his people than he did his own job. When "Doyle Horrible" finished with you, if you lasted, you'd be a newsmen — and that's because he cared — really cared about the profession he devoted his life to...

The Great Moonscape Cover-Up

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Americans are not the first people to be suspicious of their government. Today it is flowing again, perhaps as never before. It might be said, in this time of shifting citizen outlook, that the Republic's most unifying force is that of universal doubt in the capability, the activity and most assuredly the honesty of the governing system.

This responsibility has ebbed and flowed through the centuries. Today it is flowing again, perhaps as never before. It might be said, in this time of shifting citizen outlook, that the Republic's most unifying force is that of universal doubt in the capability, the activity and most assuredly the honesty of the governing system.

A remarkable example is currently embodied in one George Leonard, a former and long time government employ who is now accusing the administration of a stupendous conspiracy to sham the people. He believes there is intelligent life on the moon, that the government knows it but for its own reasons is keeping the facts secret.

For instance, Leonard says there are "mechanical rigs" near King Crater which are over a mile in length. Then near the impact area of Ranger Seven, "there is a crater containing bathysphere-shaped commodities, each 60 feet in diameter, which have identical markings on their backs." Beyond this Leonard says his pictures show huge platforms, lights that move in patterns, and many vehicular tracks.

Not surprisingly, the government is unmoved by Leonard's hypothesis. It says the occurrences in his photographs were constructed by nature, or perhaps Leonard's own imagination. And most certainly, in this case, the government has the weight of probability on its side. Of all the world's star gazers, only George Leonard has thus far seen conspiratorial intrigue on the lunar surface.

Still, Leonard's book is not complete nonsense. That part of it which suggests that the government is capable of anything, even fraud on the moon, is of contributing value to that body of evidence which suggests America's obsession with suspicion may be approaching a limit past which patriotic responsibility becomes destructive rot.

Needless to say this lack of faith has not come without reason. The news is daily revealing new governmental shenanigans. Recently it was learned that officers of the National Zoo purchased a Bactrian breeding camel that had no testicles; shortly after, a federal study concluded that high federal employees deserve 50 per cent salary hikes.

Gun Law Enforcement Stymied

WASHINGTON — The embattled Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is supposed to enforce the nation's weak gun control laws. During the Nixon years, Watergate figure G. Gordon Liddy tried to dismantle ATF's gun enforcement program altogether. The agency was also beset with internal problems. Gun controls were virtually ignored, therefore, until a few months ago.

Now the ATF has started to crack down again on gun law violators. Just last month, for example, ATF agents seized more than 1,000 illegal guns in an eight-state raid.

Yet already, this belated gun enforcement drive is facing a new obstacle. The ATF's parent agency, the Treasury Department, is quietly trying to shake up the ATF before the Democratic takeover in January.

Our sources say the proposed shakeup will de-emphasize field investigations of gun law violators. Right now, dozens of special agents are being ordered to relocate or resign during the final weeks of the Ford Administration. The effect of all this, according to trusted sources, will be to hamper future gun enforcement efforts.

The reorganization was vigorously opposed by the ATF's veteran chief, Dex Davis. But in late October, he received a stern, private memo from his Treasury Department bosses informing him that they had decided to go ahead with the shakeup.

"You are hereby directed to implement this plan, effective December 1, 1976," he was ordered. The election of Jimmy Carter only made the lame ducks at Treasury more determined to complete the reorganization before the Democrats take office.

U.S.-China Relations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Will Americans be watching Monday night football on Red Chinese television sets a few years from now?

That's one of the intriguing questions raised by Barry Richman, professor of management and international business at the Graduate School of Management of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Richman, an expert on the economy of the People's Republic of China, thinks trade between the United States and China will increase dramatically in the next few years, with color television sets, transistor radios and other consumer electronics among the possible items being imported by this country.

"You may well see color television sets from China within the next five years," Richman said in an interview. "They're producing them now, but they're talking about producing them for mass markets. If they did, they could undersell the Japanese. In fact, I think you'll see some of the same imports here that you saw after World War II from Japan and Korea."

Richman, who has traveled widely in mainland China, says the recent purge of the so-called "radical" Chinese leaders after the death

A Warped Sense Of Values

WASHINGTON — Babies, both born and unborn, are front-page news here in the nation's capital and the juxtaposition of these two stories raises some profoundly disturbing questions about the way our society has come to view the value of human life.

First, the unborn. For several days, the Washington Post has been running stories about an alleged baby-selling operation at a local hospital. The case involves two Maryland obstetricians, a Maryland lawyer, the natural parents of the unwanted children born out of wedlock and the individuals who wanted these babies.

The statute which the defendants are accused of violating is the District of Columbia's Baby Broker Act, which allows only a close relative or a party licensed to place children for adoption to receive payment in a case involving a boy or girl less than 16 years old.

If convicted of this misdemeanor, the defendants could receive up to a year in jail and/or a $1,000 fine.

The physicians were paid only for the medical services involved in the birth of the babies and the attorney received a fee for placing the babies for adoption.

This source describes the natural parents of the babies and the couples adopting them as "fine people, outstanding; they are not sleazy or slimy," but people who were "desperate" to get a child. Licensed adoption agencies in the area have reported a shortage of adoptable babies.

One investigator who has looked at this case says, "There is no evidence of a corrupt motive here; it was at best a technical licensing violation." This individual says it appears that the lawyer knew one of the doctors. Thus, the adoptions outside normal channels apparently occurred when families unable to have children of their own and unwed mothers not wishing to keep their children were able to make contact through a third party.

Now, the unborn. For the first time over, the District of Columbia's Dept. of Human Resources reports that the number of legal abortions obtained by residents of the nation's capital last year exceeded the number of births. In 1975, there were 9,819 abortions performed as compared to 9,746 resident births. About 85 per cent of these abortions were paid for by the government and performed either at private hospitals and clinics through the Medicaid program or at the city's "free" public hospital, D.C. General.

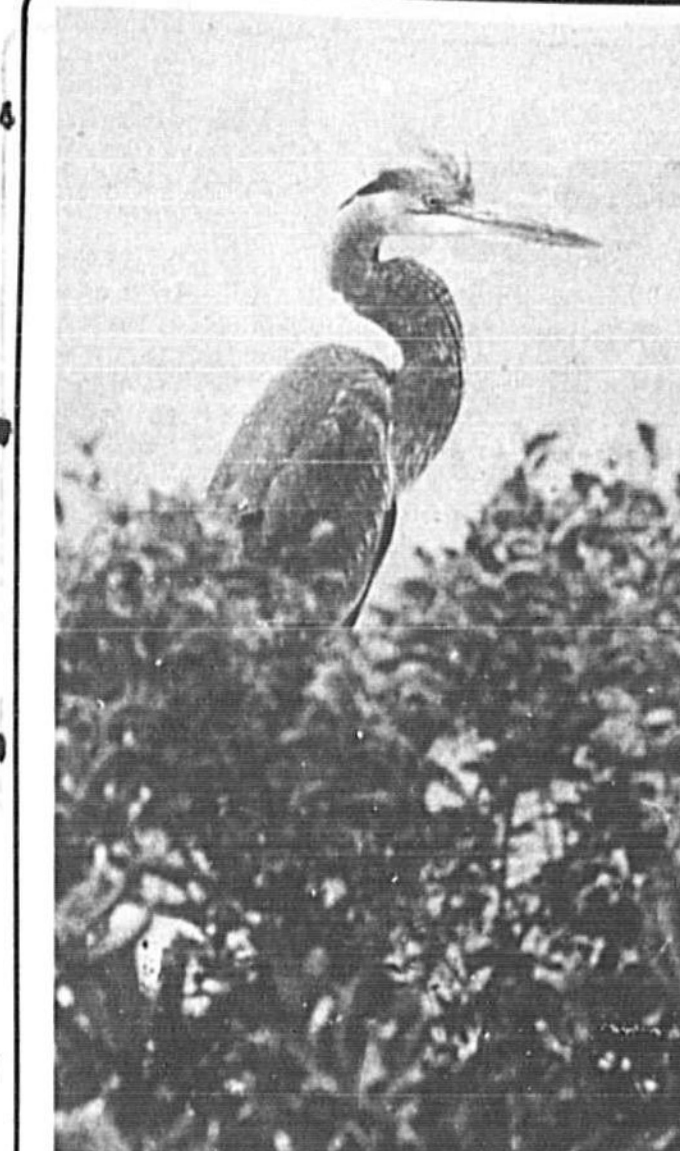

Officials at the Planned Parenthood Federation and federal officials who compile abortion statistics say that Washington, D.C. is the first major U.S. city where abortions performed on residents apparently outnumber births.

Nancy Berliner, an aide to the head of the D.C. Dept. of Human Resources, says, "There's a big change going on. At first mostly middle-class women were getting abortions because they could pay for them. But now poorer women who want them can get them, too."

Abhh, equal justice under law. Isn't it great? The New American dream — the right of the poor as well as the rich to snuff out the lives of their unborn children and all at the expense of somebody else.

Well, I find the whole thing extremely upsetting, to put it mildly. As the late Alexander Bickel, the former Yale law professor, has put it: "To acknowledge no values at all is to deny a difference between ourselves and other parties tumbling in space. The irreducible value, though not the exclusive one, is the idea of law. Law is more than just another opinion; not because it embodies all right values, or because the values it does embody tend from time to time to reflect those of a majority or plurality, but because it is the value of values. Law is the principle of institution through which a society can assert its values."

How true. So, here in our nation's capital we see the value of life asserted and the verdict is that it is not valuable at all. It's okay to kill unborn babies, but it's illegal to sell babies that have been born.

Blood And Business Ties All Part Of Florida Politics

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Rep. John Culbreath, D-Brooksville, says the fact that his brother is president of a large electric company will not color his judgment as chairman of the House committee overseeing utilities.

Culbreath said his brother, Hugh, president of Tampa Electric Co., has never tried to influence his vote as a lawmaker. Speaker Donald Tucker, D-Tallahassee, abolished the old Growth and Energy Committee two weeks ago and moved its responsibility for legislation affecting utilities to Culbreath's Regulated Industries and Licensing Committee.

Culbreath said they discussed the fact that his brother is a utility executive and "evidently I convinced him it would not be a problem."

Culbreath's blood relationship with a person vitally interested in legislation that passes through his committee may be unique, but he's right in step with most other chairmen in drawing much of his financial support from interests overseen by his committee.

One of Culbreath's utility supporters was his brother, who gave $100.

Analysis

Culbreath received $1,100 from the Florida Action Committee for Rural Electrification, $450 from the Gulf Power Co. Employees Business forum, $200 from the Electric Employees Committee for Good Government, $100 from the General Telephone Management Employees Political Action Committee and $300 from Tampa attorney Chester Ferguson. Ferguson's law firm represents General Telephone.

Other heavy Culbreath contributors include liquor, real estate, dentists, optometrists, osteopaths, chiropractors and racing, all of which are overseen by his committee.

"I think every chairman who's had an area, people in that area know him better and that's where he gains his support," Culbreath said.

Indeed, campaign reports bear him out. The chairman of the legislature's commerce committee, Sen.

W.D. Childers, D-Pensacola, and Rep. John Forbes, D-Jacksonville, drew heavy support from banking, insurance and other interests affected by their panels.

Senate Agriculture Chairman Alan Trask, D-Fort Mead, was backed by citrus and other farming interests.

Former Senate President Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, chairman of the Governmental Operations Committee, received $94,851 in contributions in his grueling reelection fight against Travis Marchant of Tallahassee and Sam Mitchell of Vernon.

The roster Barron's special-interest backers includes liquor and beer distributors, doctors, bankers, construction, retail sales and insurance.

Rep. Jerry Melvin, D-Fort Walton Beach, whose appointment as chairman of a new House Committee on Economic Development and Tourism was an open secret for some time, was backed by motel interests as far from his district as St. Augustine, Manatee, Fort Myers and Fort Lauderdale. The Tourist Industry Political Action Committee kicked in $100.

So widespread are special-interest contributions to influential legislators that it takes some effort to find a chairman who isn't beholden in some way to someone who wants something from his committee.

One who was appointed to a committee recently and had taken no contributions from interests in that field is House Education Chairman James Redman, D-Plant City.

He reported total contributions of $701. All but $100, which came from a Plant City auto dealer, was his own money.

Of course, Redman had no re-election opponent, so he didn't need any contributions.

When Rep. James Eckhart's constituents go looking for his legislative office, they won't find it in his district. Eckhart advised the media recently that his office is in Coral Gables, which is outside his South Dade District.

"It would be appreciated if you would correct your records to reflect my district as Southwest Miami and South Dade, rather than Coral Gables," he said.

President Ford's Half Brother Killed In Head-On Collision

LEBANON, Tenn. (AP) — Leslie Henry King, President Ford's 53-year-old half brother, was killed today when his car collided head on with a tractor trailer loaded with pipe, police said.

Ford learned of King's death shortly after 7 a.m. when King's widow called the President, a White House spokesman said. There was no immediate word whether Ford would attend the funeral.

State police Sgt. Ron Hill said King's car was westbound in the eastbound lane of Interstate 40 about 5 1/4 miles west of this central Tennessee town when it hit the tractor-trailer. King, a resident of Cookeville, Tenn., where he owned an auto parts store, was alone in the car and apparently was killed outright, Hill said.

Mafia On The Boardwalk?

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Behind the famous boardwalk, the wheeling and dealing for financial position is on as this decaying resort city dreams of regaining its former elegance with the help of casino gambling. Since New Jersey voters authorized casinos here in the Nov. 2 general election, a bill has been introduced in the legislature to regulate 16-hour gambling and grant casino licenses to hotels with at least 400 rooms; three airlines have applied for permission to fly to nearby Atlantic City Airport; and the FBI says organized crime is already trying to move in on the local vending machine and garbage removal industries.

Await Immigration Ruling

TORONTO (AP) — About 200 Canadian doctors wishing to emigrate to the United States are waiting for official interpretation of a new U.S. immigration law, says a spokesman for the Canadian Medical Association.

The new U.S. Immigration and Nationality Act says work permits will be given only to foreign doctors who have passed U.S. national board examinations or their equivalent.

A spokesman for the Canadian Medical Association said the U.S. embassy in Ottawa has recommended the Medical Council of Canada exam be considered equivalent to the national examination.

Pollution Scare Hurts Canada

SUDBURY, Ont. (AP) — Ontario's minister of industry and tourism says adverse publicity is costing Canada's tourist industry millions of dollars.

Claude Bennett said Wednesday that "a few more stories about toxic chemicals in Lake Ontario salmon, or mercury in northwestern Ontario, and a lot of people are going to hang up their rods and reels and take up basket weaving."

Bennett said the mass media does not balance adverse publicity by explaining industrial pollution only affects a small number of Northern Ontario lakes.

Quebec Position Undisclosed

QUEBEC (AP) — Quebec Premier Rene Levesque has refused to disclose Quebec's position at next week's federal-provincial conference of finance ministers.

Discussion of the government's stance took a good part of the Parti Quebecois cabinet's first full session Wednesday.

Levesque said his separatist government finds itself in a "fundamental ambiguity". He said he is trying to provide a strong provincial government "while keeping our options open for the future."

Snow Blankets North States

By The Associated Press

Snow fell across most of the Great Lakes region this morning. It was heaviest in western New York, where up to four feet of snow already covered the ground.

In the six-hour period ending at 1 a.m. EST, two inches of new snow fell at Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Muskegon, Mich.

Snow also fell in eastern South Dakota, Iowa, northern Illinois and the Ohio valley.

Uniforms Bring Complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a glimmer of hope for sailors who long to go back to the Navy's traditional bellbottom trousers, jumper and white hat. Adm. James L. Holloway III, chief of naval operations, has told the Navy's personnel bureau to take a new look at uniforms. The old style was jettisoned a few years ago. But on a recent tour of the Pacific fleet, Holloway heard repeated complaints from sailors about the new uniform of coats, shirts, black ties and peaked caps.

Issues Heat Forum

By DONNA ESTES

Longwood citizens braved the cold to attend a candidates' forum sponsored by the Longwood Groves Civic Association at the unheated civic building across from the fire station Wednesday night.

Twelve of the 13 candidates on the ballot in next Tuesday's city election appeared to state their qualifications and appeal for votes. Councilman Gerard Connell, who is seeking the mayor's office was out of town on business and was represented by his wife, Claire. Virginia Warner, external vice president of the organization, served as moderator.

The mayoral candidates: Charles Barsh, a retired Teamster truckdriver, said he would be a full-time mayor and would make no promises, preferring to wait and see what the people want. He said the mayor has no vote and not too much to say at the meetings.

Mrs. Connell, on behalf of her husband, urged the citizens to look into Connell's record of hard work for the city and standing up for residents. He researches the issues before taking a stand, she said.

Lynette Demits, noting she has been actively involved in helping and raising money for the police cadets, the only youth-oriented program in the city, said it is time for the community to join together. "Don't be afraid to get involved," she said.

Ethel Goldberg pointed out her husband Larry, is a member of the city council, but even if she is elected there would be no violation of the sunshine law because the mayor does not have a vote, she said. "My interest lies in the city," Mrs. Goldberg said.

Peter Pflanz urged a united effort to serve all the people equitably and sanely. He said the city needs charter revision, codification of the ordinances and paving improvements without restrictive assessments.

Andrew Seminazzi, a member of the city's Land Planning Agency, said the city has the choice of increasing property taxes or expanding its commercial tax base, preferring the latter. He urged that a place be set on the agenda of council meetings to let citizens speak.

J. Russell Grant, incumbent council chairman, running unopposed for the district three post, said the city was in debt when he took office and he "swasted at least a million dollars to make ends meet for awhile."

Council candidates for district five:

Stephen Barton said he is responsible for $250,000 worth of sales per month for the Texaco Co. He said he wants to restore respect and integrity to the city and to hire qualified persons to run the various city departments.

Robert DeMio, saying the job of a councilman is legislative, added that he has personally visited 1,189 homes during his campaign. He pointed to a sign which read "Character is what we are and Reputation is what people think we are."

Jerome McCaskey said he was appalled to hear that the city paid bills that it did not know whether it owed, adding that the city's accountants should be able to supply this information. He is a certified public accountant.

Harvey Smerelson said he could work with every member of the city council. He said the city has a set amount of revenue coming in and the only way it can get more money is to increase production and to cut costs.

The candidates for city clerk: Mrs. Bettie Brown said she is not a politician and running on her experience and efficiency and that she is energetic and ethical.

Mrs. Onale Shomate, incumbent for the past 18 years, said she manages all the functions in city hall prepares assessment rolls for street paving, and supplies information instantly for the council.

... 20 Floats, 10 Bands ...

The Greater Sanford Christmas Parade with around 90 confirmed units participating, will step off Saturday at 9 a.m.

Theme for this year's event, "Christmas Enchantment," was submitted by Terry Beck, 14, an eighth grader at Sanford Middle School. Terry won a $25 savings bond and the opportunity to ride with Santa on his float. The theme contest was opened to first through eighth graders.

Grand marshal will be "Miss Florida," Nancy Stafford of Ft. Lauderdale.

There will be 20 floats, 10 bands, marching units, decorated cars, equestrian units, local dignitaries, Orlando National Training Center color guard, and top Golden Age Olympics winners Tom Hopkins and Edith Harrison.

The parade route will be from the old Sanford Naval Academy building west on First Street to Laurel Avenue; south on Laurel to Second Street; West on Second to Park and south on Park to Fourth.

The parade is sponsored by the Greater Sanford Christmas Parade committee — Jack Weible, chairman; D. C. McCoy, Virginia Longwell, Fred Davis, Bill and Pat Register, Dr. A.H. Cann, Bill McLaughlin, Johnny Higgins, and Judy Hawkins.

Trophies will be awarded the winning equestrian units, and decorated cars and floats in the religious, commercial, school and civic categories. Judges will be Tom Hunt, Sara Jacobson, Dot Polk, Eliza Fringle, and Mack Blythe. The reviewing stand will be on First Street between Park and Oak Avenues.

The parade route will be from the old Sanford Naval Academy building west on First Street to Laurel Avenue; south on Laurel to Second Street; West on Second to Park and south on Park to Fourth.

$550,000 Gates Hold Firm Near-Crash Of White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government recently spent $50,000 fortifying the White House gates after a gate-crasher rammed his car through the old wrought iron gates in 1974.

On Wednesday a Santa Fe, N.M., man drove his battered pickup truck off Pennsylvania Avenue and straight at the new solid steel gates in a bid to crash onto the grounds.

The gates did not budge.

The driver, Steven B. Williams, suffered cuts and bruises. He was arrested immediately and charged with destruction of government property.

His truck's front end appeared to have incurred the most damage.

Asked by reporters as he was taken away what his motive was, Williams pointed to the White House and shouted, "Trying to wake him up before he kills us all. Trying to wake him up before he kills us all."

President Ford was working in the Oval Office at the time of the mid-afternoon incident, officials said. He had no comment.

On Christmas Day 1974, a man who said he wanted to deliver a copy of the Koran, successfully crashed his car through a White House gate.

Claiming that he was armed with explosives, the man kept police at bay for four hours before finally being arrested unharmed.

Florida In Pitched Battle For Tourist$

MIAMI (AP) — Florida, once the nation's most popular winter playground, now battles for every tourist dollar it receives. Facing aggressive competition from warmer areas and colder areas, cheaper places and more elite places, Florida has seen its biggest industry and more change drastically in recent years.

Central Florida is understandably happy over the fame and fortune that Disney World has brought to the Orlando area, but officials in the Miami area are hustling to reawaken interest in the region or to attract new, younger tourists.

Hotels in Miami Beach and the rest of South Florida traditionally attracted most of their guests from the northeast and Canada. Now, local interests are turning toward Latin America for new customers.

In past decades, the development of the jetliner and the publicity generated by such early television stars such as Arthur Godfrey and Jackie Gleason helped the Miami area attract many of the people who used to vacation in the Catskill Mountains of New York State.

As the action in the Catskills dried up, more and more northerners came to Florida for summer and winter vacations.

But now, the tables have turned for South Florida interests.

Many of the older people who used to travel here and stay in hotels have purchased trailers or condominium apartments in which they live year-round or visit for months at a time. Others are taking advantage of reduced-cost charter trips to Europe, Hawaii or the Caribbean.

"What we've seen is a maturing of these people in their traveling habits to Florida," said Wayne Berens, who owns four travel agencies in Trenton, N.J. "Many have their own townhouses or condo apartment. They often don't even book airline seats, they just drive down or take the Auto-Train."

In addition, younger people often have a different concept of a vacation than their parents had. While vacationers used to be content to sun themselves for a week or two at the beach, young people now want more action. Skiing, scuba-diving, tennis and backpacking are some of the ways that many young adults prefer to spend their time.

"It is alarming to me that young people are not responding to Florida," said Berens. "Ten years ago, we sold many many honeymoon packages to Miami, but now Miami as a honeymoon destination is no longer prime."

Berens said that a week in Miami, including airfare, a room at a decent hotel and three meals a day would cost a couple about $1,000. And aside from water-related sports, there isn't very much for that young couple to do in Miami.

"We have a tremendous need for a major, first-class attraction," said Hal Cohen, director of the Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority.

For about the same $1,000, the newlyweds could ski for a week at Aspen, scuba-dive in Bermuda or visit a Caribbean island such as Aruba where they would have a better beach than at Miami, equivalent night-club entertainment plus the lure of casino gambling.

In addition, charter tours now are available from the East Coast to Hawaii that cost about $800 per couple — including airfare, hotel room and meals. And similarly priced tours of Europe might be available as early as next spring, travel agents said.

There are other problems. The beach has been almost completely eroded from parts of Miami Beach. Although the federal government is about to begin a $60 million, two-year-long restoration project, in some areas the surf washes up to within yards of hotel patios.

Several of Miami Beach's largest and best-known hotels, such as the Eden Roc and Fontainebleau, have suffered severe financial problems. Both are now open, but the Eden Roc closed for awhile last year.

The Fontainebleau owes more than $1 million in federal taxes and needed a $1.27 million loan recently to help pay local taxes. The facility reportedly might be sold to a group of foreign investors.

Marilyn Green, a travel agent in Bowie, Md., said the hotel's financial problems generally aren't known by tourists, but are well-known by travel agents who are hesitant to send customers to a hotel that suddenly might close its doors.

"But frankly, we no longer send enough people to Miami hotels to worry about it," she said.

Like many other agents, Mrs. Green said that most of the people who go to Florida now travel no farther south than the Orlando area.

"Among young people with small children, we get a lot of movement to Disney World, but not to Miami," she said. "Near Disney World, there is Sea World, Cypress Gardens, Cape Kennedy (Canaveral), etc. They can spend a whole week there."

Wayne Berens, the Trenton, N.J., agent, agreed.

"We run a fantastic amount of people on charters and individually, to that area," he said. "That's where the trade has been going, certainly not to Miami as it did even 10 years ago."

"We've also had some complaints about the accommodations in the Miami area," he said. "Although the prices are generally pretty good, it seems that some of the hotels and motels are not being kept up."

Although Central Florida's tourist trade is booming, the visitors are not as easy with their money — and often don't have to pick up three checks a day in restaurants.

Daytona Beach, located about 40 miles northeast of Orlando, allows beachfront parking on its 23 miles of hard-packed sand. It calls itself the "Affordable Florida."

Daytona Beach has grown by 5,000 hotel rooms since 1970 and cut-rate accommodations are the rule.

Ray Asselin owns a nicely kept motel at which three can sleep during the height of the Christmas season for $14 a night. Many visiting families shop in local supermarkets so they don't have to pick up three checks a day in restaurants.

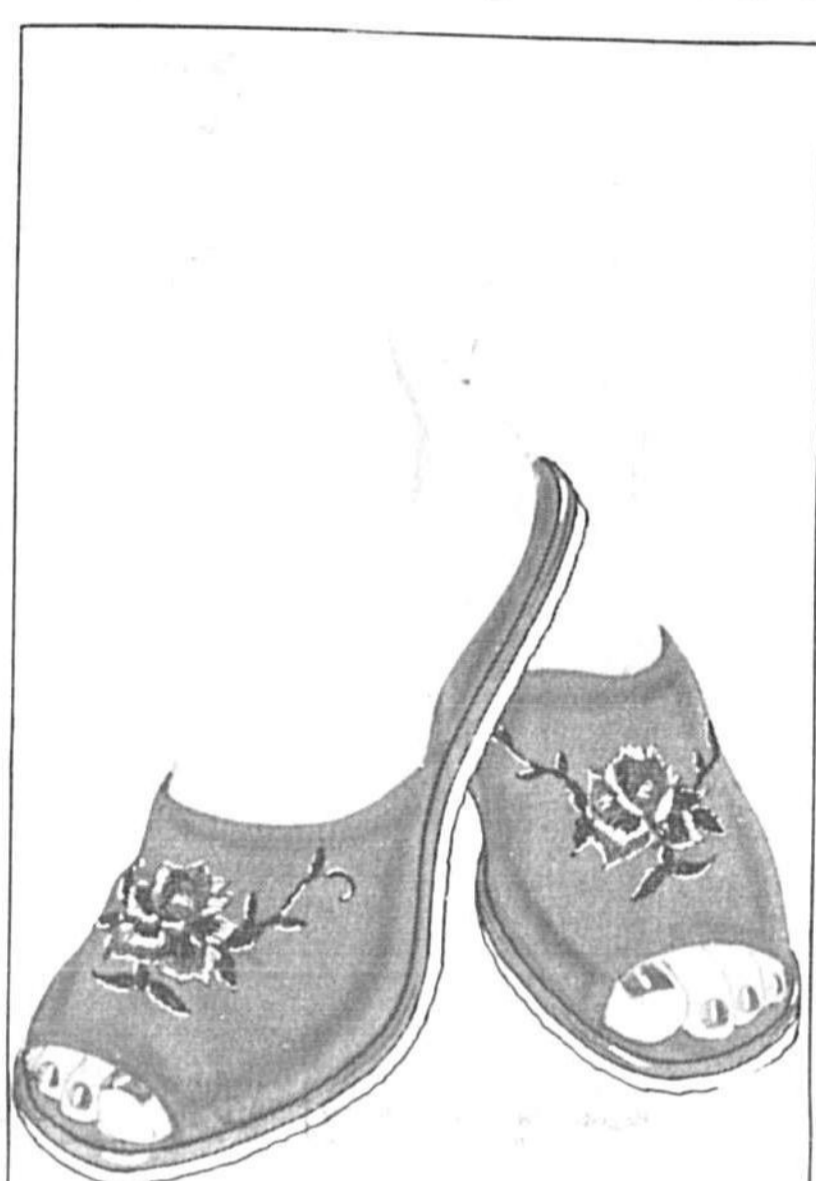

"Daytona gets the people with the hot dog incomes who don't mind eating hot dogs," said Asselin. He said his season runs almost year-round, with the only exception being Sept. 15 to Dec. 15.

College kids, families with young children and singles looking for a good time make local merchants happy, but police are a bit nervous. Last year, Daytona Beach had the highest crime rate in Florida.

"Our tax base is $4,000 people," said police Capt. Charles Willis Jr. "So we have equipment and personnel for 54,000, even though, when the tourists are strong, our population is 200,000."

Many of those who travel to Central Florida do so by automobile, and that worries state tourism officials. Other Southeast states, most notably Georgia, have been trying to distract some of the visitors who will leave about $10 billion in Florida before the end of the year.

SMCA Presents Stetson Choir In Yule Program

WOMEN

For the first time in at least 10 years, the Stetson University School of Music's Concert Choir will present a musical program in Sanford at the invitation of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association (SMCA). The concert, scheduled Monday at 8 p.m. in the Sanford Civic Center, is under the direction of Dr. Robert Rich, associate director of voice and director of choral music at Stetson.

The first part of the program presented by the 50-member choir consists of two Magnificats, the first by Andreas Gabrieli and the second by Pachelbel.

They will be followed by a group of 16th century Spanish carols accompanied by traditional dances. During this interlude, the performers will literally be dancing in the aisles, as they bring the music and movement of old Spain to the audience.

Following intermission, a procession with carols is interspersed with Christmas readings. This concert, according to Dr. Rich, affords the Stetson choir an opportunity to share the spirit of Christmas with the community through beautiful music in a festive setting both festive and colorful.

SMCA members are reminded of the concert, a late addition to the 1976-77 season program, and are urged to attend what promises to be a memorable evening, according to SMCA President Bettye Smith.

CHRISTMAS CAROLING. The magic of Christmas music flooded the Sanford Woman's Club Wednesday, when a group of Central Florida Chorale singers, accompanied by Bettye Smith on the piano, presented a program to Woman's Club members. Singers were, from left, Mary Jean Berrien, Irene Brown, Ruth Michelson, Mary Reddick (soloist), Jean Metts and Dot Waller.

WHAT, NO SUNSHINE?

So this is sunny Sanford? Fortunately this out of town trio brought their winter woollies with them when they visited the city during this week's cold spell. Cuddling up to baby Corey T. Neal are his mother, Sharon, left, of Plymouth and friend Phyllis Carter of Altamonte Springs.

This Weekend Florida To Dance The Polka

Samsula will be swinging, Sunday, to the sounds of toe-tapping polka music when the SNPJ Slovenian Lodge Home hosts a Polka Party with dinner and dancing to celebrate the Lodge's 50th anniversary. To add to the merriment, a large group of SNPJ members will fly from Cleveland, Ohio, arriving at Daytona Airport Saturday, with Frank Novak, Button Box Musical Host and the Ron Lazar Orchestra.

Reservations for the non-time dinner ($3.50) may be made by calling Mary Ann Reichel, 428-9670. Admission for persons arriving after 2 p.m. is $1. To reach the Samsula Lodge from Sanford, take S.R. 415 to S.R. 44 (New Smyrna Beach Road); turn north to Samsula just east of the S.R. 415 and S.R. 44 intersection. The SNPJ (Slovenska Narodna Podporne Jednota) is translated as the Slovene National Benefit Society. Lodge 603 is a charter member in Samsula with headquarters in Chicago, Ill. It was organized in 1926 at the home of one of the pioneer Slovenian families, with 11 adult and seven juvenile members. First officers were: John Pleterski Sr., president; John Korolec, vice president; Mike Mack, secretary and Rose Mack, treasurer. A youth circle was chartered in 1947. Meetings are held every second Sunday of the month with a covered dish dinner, dancing, music and general visiting with friends.

Wife Jealous Of Husband, Sister-In-Law

DEAR ABBY: Before my husband and I were married, he and his sister not only shared an apartment, they slept together in a double bed! They were both over 21 at the time. I told him I didn't think this was normal. He said nothing happened between them, and I had a dirty mind. Even today, every time they meet she kisses him on the lips. She is still unmarried, and if anyone asks her how she says, "Because I've never met anybody as wonderful as my brother." Abby, I think my sister-in-law is in love with her brother. Is it possible that he isn't in love with her, or am I jealous for no reason? I suppose I should mention that if it weren't for the strange relationship between these two, my husband would be a perfect husband. What are your thoughts on this?

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 20-year-old girl and very nice-looking, or so people tell me, but I've got to be the loneliest girl in Toronto, Canada. I'm rather shy, and I'm not the type to sit in a bar and make eyes at a stranger. I go to dances with my girlfriends on the weekends, but I always wind up going home with the girls I came with. The men stare, but they never ask me to dance. Why is it that men don't ask nice-looking girls to dance, Abby? Are they afraid of my pedigree, or are they just not interested in me? I'm sure other girls wonder about this, too. Can you help us? PRETTY BUT LONELY. DEAR PRETTY: Being possible that nothing happened. Forget it. DEAR ANONYMOUS: It's DEAR ANONYMOUS: It's "in love" with her brother, but you say he is otherwise a perfect husband, so it's obvious that possible, or am I jealous for no reason? I suppose I should mention that if it weren't for the strange relationship between these two, my husband would be a perfect husband. What are your thoughts on this?

DEAR MUMS: Another way to handle people who ask questions that are none of their business is to look them squarely in the eye and ask, "Why do you want to know?" For Abby's booklet, "How To Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lavinia Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped (2c) envelope. WE WANT TO WIFE OUT CANCER IN YOUR LIFETIME. MEXICAN-AMERICAN SOCIETY.

Renaissance, Medieval Music Concert Set

Stick To That Diet Pounds Not A Pretty Present

The weeks between Thanksgiving and New Year's yawn as one large trap across the diet horizon. The season is a maze of feasting, drinking, and activity to be traveled with diet in hand and heart in mouth. "Fear not," says Carol Korfin, area director of the Diet Work Shop, "the diet need not be lost en route to 1977. There are some simple ways to help yourself stay thin as you make the holiday rounds. Here are ten of them: Plan ahead. This is the most important tip of all—plan your activities and your eating ahead of time. When you know you are going to a party, plan what you may eat before you leave your house. Eat only what you planned; nothing more. For example, you might plan to have four shrimp, a cube of cheese, some celery and a glass of diet soda or tomato juice—if you will feel more comfortable deceiving people into thinking that's a Bloody Mary in your hand. When you feel your energy lagging during this season, STOP. Whatever you are doing, STOP. Away from home, sit down for five minutes. At home, go to your room for a brief rest or a quick shower. Remember that fatigue is the greatest enemy a dieter can have. Plan to entertain at home where YOU are in control of the food. Keep your menus simple so that you enjoy your company and the time spent with them. Be sure you have a stunning and slim New Year's outfit waiting for you in the closet. It's a positive goal to be working toward. Buy it soon and tape the sales slip to your refrigerator door. Do not fall into the cookie-baking habit. If you wish to give a simple personal gift, root some plants and pot them. Baking does not make it Christmas. Include dinner out in your week before Christmas plans. Order a la carte and diet. Do not unwrap gift candy boxes. Pass them on immediately to a local nursing home where they will brighten someone's life. Your children can share in the fun. Enlist their assistance with the chores. You'll find that the temptation to snack is lessened when each person at the table is responsible for cleaning off his or her own plate. Remember that husbands are very good for shopping and errand-running; thus removing you from the opportunity of tiring and the temptation of being around all those holiday food displays. Don't let Santa bring you 10 pounds for Christmas! Remember—"A moment on the lips—a month on the hips!"

Was It Worth It?

Sanford artist Judy Maloney has found out the hard way what the public thinks her work is worth in hard, cold cash. And while she doesn't agree with their apparent low estimate of her talent, she still thinks it was worth finding out. She even says she would do it again, for the amount of interest it stirred and thought it provoked. This was Judy's experiment: during the recent Sanford Sidewalk Art Sale sponsored by the downtown merchants, Mrs. Maloney didn't put any prices on her exhibits. Instead she hung a sign which read: "There are no prices because you pay what you would want if you had made it." People stopped and pondered. Some refused point blank to go along with the experiment; others said that according to their calculations, they couldn't afford the paintings. Still others did their arithmetic, comparing the artist's time, materials, talent, experience and the aesthetic value of her work. Then they dropped their contributions in the piggy bank and went off satisfied that they had struck a fair bargain. "One nice thing about it," said Mrs. Maloney, "was that people who really liked something but couldn't have afforded my prices, got what they wanted at their price. I'm always happy when someone who really loves my work can buy it."

Creek At Seminole: Boys Yes, Gals No

Seminole High School's basketball team, expected to be something of a power this season, attempts to even its record at 1-1 tonight when it entertains Spruce Creek in an 8 p.m. encounter.

The junior varsity plays at 6:30, however, the girls game has been postponed until Dec. 7 because the Volusia County team wasn't prepared for competition. Seminole starters tonight are expected to include Reuben Cotton, David Wiggins, Terry Smith, David Craig and Kenny Brown.

Friday's prep lineup features an intra-county rivalry between Lake Brantley and Lyman in Longwood, Kissimmee at Lake Howell and Rockledge at Oviedo. Saturday it will be Oviedo at Eatonville, Wymore Tech and Apopka at Lake Brantley. Also Saturday night, Lake Howell's girls play at Orlando Edgewater.

Dorsett Heads AP 'America'

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Dorsett, Pitt's fabulous running back who made the team as a freshman four seasons ago, was named to the Associated Press 1976 All-America college football team today along with three other great runners in a unique five-man backfield.

Joining Dorsett and rifle-armed quarterback Tommy Kramer of Rice in the offensive backfield were running backs Ricky Bell of Southern California, Rob Lytle of Michigan and Terry Miller of Oklahoma State. Bell, Lytle and Miller were considered so even that it was impossible to separate them.

The AP All-America team will be seen on Bob Hope's Comedy Christmas Special on NBC-TV, Monday, Dec. 13, from 8:30-9 p.m. EST. Coaches Bo Schembechler of Michigan and John Robinson of Southern California, the rival Rose Bowl coaches who each have two players on the AP All-America team, also will appear.

The only other first-teamers from last year's first three teams were linebacker Brian Ruff of The Citadel, up from the second unit, and defensive back Bill Armstrong of Wake Forest, elevated from the third team.

Joining Seivers at end was Michigan's Jim Smith, a clutch receiver and gifted kick returner. The offensive tackles were Georgia's 233-pound Mike "Moopie" Wilson and Oklahoma's 275-pound Mike "U.S.S." Vaughan. The guards were a pair of 250-pounders, Ted Albrecht of California and T.J. Humphrey of Arkansas State, and the center was 245-pound John Varso of Idaho, who beat out all the backs and was named Offensive Player of the Year in the Big Sky Conference.

The defensive line consisted of 245-pound Rex Brewer of Notre Dame and 224-pound Bob Brudzinski of Ohio State at the ends, tackle Wilson Whitley of Houston, 288, and Eddie Edwards of Miami, Fla., a 250-pounder, and 225-pound nose guard Al Romano of Pitt.

The linebackers were Buff, Robert Jackson of Texas A&M and Jerry Robinson of UCLA, while the deep backs were Armstrong, Gary Green of Baylor and Dennis Thurman of Southern Cal.

Top-rated Pitt, runner-up Michigan and third-ranked Southern Cal were the only schools to place two players on the first team.

'Ahead When It Ended,' Toledo Upsets Indiana

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Bob Nichols described his victory in terms employed by coaches at every level, every day of the year. "It was," said the Toledo coach, "a case of being ahead when it ended."

It was a very ordinary phrase for an extraordinary victory. Nichols' under-rated team had just pulled off the upset of the young basketball season, defeating Indiana's defending national champions 59-57 Wednesday night.

The Hoosiers had won 31 consecutive games and 67 of 68 over a two-year period. Bobby Knight, a man whose very intensity seems to preclude the possibility of defeat, was his usual intense self after the stunning loss.

"We got outshouted and I don't like to be outshouted," said Knight. "It was their game from beginning to end."

Only one other coach whose team had gone against the Hoosiers since the spring of 1974 could possibly have made the comment Nichols made. And then the circumstances were unique.

Scott May, a junior at the time, sat restlessly on the bench, his left arm wrapped in a cast, when arch-rival Kentucky beat Indiana by two points in the NCAA Midwest Regional final in 1975.

The Hoosiers had won 34 straight going into that game. They had not lost since their victories including two lopsided decisions over perennial champion UCLA last season and a rout of Michigan for the NCAA championship.

It was a championship team built on its ability to outdefend and outshoot its opponents, a disciplined team that always managed to win the close ones. Until Wednesday night, when Marquette opened its season with an 80-39 rout of St. Leo of Florida, No. 2 UCLA walloped Jacksonville 99-68, No. 6 Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Oregon 78-67, No. 7 Louisville tripped Vanderbilt 81-76 in overtime; No. 8 Notre Dame outscored California-Poly 99-67; No. 9 North Carolina trounced Marshall 90-70; 12th-ranked Cincinnati humbled Wright State 128-52; 13th-ranked Alabama smashed South Carolina 90-66; No. 14 Wake Forest blasted East Tennessee State 84-63; No. 15 DePaul nipped Northwestern 75-73 in overtime, and No. 20 North Carolina-Charlotte ran over Eastern Kentucky 104-62.

Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Oregon behind a 21-point performance by Glen Goodenrich. Phil Bond scored nine of his 21 points in overtime, helping Louisville beat stubborn Vanderbilt.

Bond tallied nine of his 21 points in overtime for a career-high 34 points. "We did not play like the nation's seventh-ranked team," said Coach Donny Crum of Louisville. "But Vanderbilt played super. They're a well-coached, talented young team. I thought it would be close, but I was hoping not that close."

It was a great effort by a bunch of young men who just jumped in there and played hard," said Coach Wayne Dohbs of the Commodores. "Naturally, I am tremendously disappointed that we lost and so are the players."

NEA Team: Big Year For Backs

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — The eminence of the running back in college football was re-emphasized with the announcement today of the 1976 Newspaper Enterprise Association All-American team, led by Tony Dorsett and Ricky Bell. The man who actually did most for his team was Jeff Dankworth of UCLA, who was left the classic version of a passing quarterback but was an agile, resourceful sprintout field general. His main competition came from Mark Manges of unbeaten Maryland.

The NEA All-America team was not chosen on the basis of potential for the pros. Unanimously the scouts consider Bell's USC teammate, Marvin Powell, the best defensive lineman in the country. But he missed three games and was put down for a fourth for an infraction of team rules.

The All-Americans are those who produced on the field — this year. Among them are five juniors: tight end Ken McAdie of Notre Dame, linebacker Jerry Robinson of UCLA and wide receiver Wes Chandler of Florida. Chandler is regarded as one of the finest receivers of the last decade.

USC was the only team to produce three men on the first offensive and defensive units. Bell, defensive end Gary Jeter and punter Glen Walker.

NFL Today: 'Five Seconds... Cue Up, Brent'

NEW YORK (AP) — The lights beat down on studio 45. A wall of television monitors tracks the progamme warms up at football stadiums across the country. They machines click off the latest news.

"Standby please," shouts director Bob Fishman in the control booth. "Five seconds... dissolve B3... cue up Brent."

Things are popping Sundays around studio 45, which houses the venerable Captain Kangaroo during the week. Musberger, relaxed and cool throughout, keeps things flowing smoothly on the air. But behind the scenes, there is near chaos as different games ending at different times are juggled around.

Reginald King led Alabama with 29 points, 14 rebounds and five blocked shots. T. R. Dunn contributed 15 points and Ricky Brown 14. Nate Davis led Carolina with 20 points and 20 rebounds.

"We did not play like the nation's seventh-ranked team," said Coach Donny Crum of Louisville. "But Vanderbilt played super. They're a well-coached, talented young team. I thought it would be close, but I was hoping not that close."

New Radio Offering Due LOS ANGELES (AP) - CBS Radio, which in January 1973 began giving the nation the evening-highlights "CBS Radio Mystery Theater," has a new Saturday-Sunday offering coming up the first week in February. ## Joblessness At 8.1%; Economy Still Drags

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment jumped to its highest level in 11 months in November, rising from 7.9 to 8.1 per cent, while wholesale prices posted their third consecutive monthly increase, the government said today.

The double-dose of economic news from the Labor Department provided fresh evidence of a sluggish economy and strong inflationary pressures.

The rise in unemployment heightened the likelihood that President-elect Jimmy Carter will push for tax cuts and other measures to boost the economy early in the new administration.

Carter has said he will consider recommending a tax cut or increased government spending aimed at creating jobs to get the economy moving if the slowdown continues much longer. In the three weeks since he said that, there has been little evidence that the slowdown is over.

The Labor Department said 200,000 more Americans joined the jobless rolls in November, raising the total to 7.8 million. The unemployment rate, at 8.1 per cent, was the highest level this year and the peak since last December when it stood at 8.3 per cent.

Since last spring the economy has been growing barely fast enough to provide jobs for new entrants in the labor force, and the unemployment rate gradually has increased from last May when it reached a post-recession low of 7.3 per cent.

The continued softness in the economy along with rising prices could complicate things for Carter as he tries to devise ways of stimulating the growth without further kindling inflation.

Higher prices for natural gas, other fuels and energy products led a six-tenths of a per cent increase in the Wholesale Price Index last month. The November rise equaled October's increase and followed a rise of nine-tenths of a per cent in September.

Farm prices dropped for the second consecutive month, down five-tenths of a per cent, but it wasn't enough to offset an eight-tenths of a per cent rise in industrial prices.

Industrial prices, which play a much larger role in determining the over-all rate of inflation than do farm and food prices, have been accelerating since June.

Over the past year, wholesale prices have risen 4.2 per cent. However, rising wholesale prices have not yet been fully reflected at the retail level.

Price increases for basic steel and aluminum products

CARTER... may recommend tax cut, jobs and those actively seeking jobs. Employment has been stuck on a plateau since July after recovering rapidly earlier in the recession. The unemployment rate for women edged up from 7.8 to 7.7 per cent last month, while the rate for teenagers remained unchanged at 19 per cent. Meanwhile, the director of the Congressional Budget Office warned that Congress must pay the price of higher inflation and a larger budget.

General Dynamics Axing 100 Workers

By NORM OSHRIN

About 100 workers are being laid off from the Sanford and Longwood plants of the General Dynamics Corp. It was confirmed today.

"Business is deteriorating," conceded company spokesman Richard Giovannini. "We have a declining business base."

Although refusing to elaborate on the extent of that "declining business base," Giovannini did indicate that "the great majority" of the company's contract work in its Electronics Division in Seminole County is with the federal government.

The division, he said, produces such "military hardware" as small radar units and satellite-related products.

The facilities in Sanford and Longwood employ about 600 — with the 100-reduction coming from both plant sites, according to Giovannini. The process, he says, is expected to be completed by the first of the year.

Giovannini, manager of industrial relations for General Dynamics, Electronic Division, was vague as to particulars of the layoff and its reasons.

"How much government work is involved in that," he replied.

"How much business does the company do?" he was asked. "Can't comment on that," he repeated.

Giovannini said the layoff process began a couple of months ago. He was vague about future prospects for the company here in Seminole — refusing to rule out the eventual closing of the sites.

"We're continually reviewing the business picture," he said. C.J. Jameson, local manager of General Dynamics Electronic Division, was unavailable for comment.

The General Dynamics Electronic Division in Sanford and Longwood, has been here 10 years and is a division of General Dynamics Corp., headquartered in St. Louis. The company's Electronic Division is headquartered in San Diego.

Besides the Electronic Division in Seminole County, General Dynamics also has a sister division — Stromberg-Carlson in Sanford, manufacturer of electronic telephone switching equipment for about 1200 independent telephone companies in the United States. Home office is in Rochester, N.Y.

Joseph G. Hartwig, manager of industrial relations for Stromberg-Carlson here, indicated that the personnel changes at General Dynamics "wouldn't have any effect on our operations here."

"They deal mostly with government contracts, we don't," he explained. The Stromberg-Carlson facility employs between 800 and 700, according to Hartwig.

JDs Handled With Kid Gloves?

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida's procedures for dealing with juvenile delinquents are failing to sufficiently punish the most serious offenders and are in need of a major overhaul, the chairman of the Senate Judiciary-Criminal Committee says.

Sen. Edgar Dunn, D-Daytona Beach, said Thursday that the system "just isn't working," and that very serious offenders, 15 per cent of the total, should be treated more like adults.

"The average time a juvenile is sentenced for currently is seven months," Dunn said. "If you are dealing with a youngster who has committed his third armed robbery, that just doesn't work. No wonder we've got problems."

Dunn said the state needs a process to make it easier to handle the serious offenders like adults.

A state attorney can now file a petition in circuit court to try someone under 18 as an adult. However, Dunn said the hearing process was cumbersome and expensive and that many state attorneys do not make much use of it.

He said the attorneys should be given the power to determine whether to charge someone as an adult.

"We're not trying to change things for the bulk of juvenile cases that are not serious offenders," Dunn said. "But the serious cases are every bit as great a threat to society as an adult offender and we currently are not dealing effectively with them."

The legislature for the past two years has considered proposals to give state attorneys more latitude in dealing with juvenile offenders but no major changes have been approved.

Dunn also said his committee would hold special hearings on the matter and seek information from many sources, including the juvenile justice committee of the Florida Bar, before reporting out a bill.

Vance To Replace Kissinger

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Cyrus R. Vance, who served as Lyndon Johnson's world-traveling troubleshooter and tried unsuccessfully to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war in 1968, is the man Jimmy Carter has selected to replace Henry A. Kissinger as secretary of state, sources say.

Carter declined today to confirm the selection but said he wasn't denying the choice would be Vance.

"I wouldn't want to deny Cyrus Vance or anyone else at this point," he said in an interview on the NBC-TV "Today" show.

He was expected to announce the Vance appointment at a news conference later in the day. It will be his first Cabinet appointment.

Carter said he would announce two appointments at the news conference. The second is expected to be that of Atlanta banker Thomas Bertram Lance as his budget director.

The President-elect said he expects to complete most of his Cabinet choices by Christmas.

He said he has been concentrating so far on the national security area, including the State Department, the Pentagon and the National Security Council.

He also mentioned the Treasury as an early priority.

"I think that by Christmas I will have the Cabinet fairly well identified," he said.

Vance, currently a New York lawyer, was a house guest at the Carter home here earlier this week, and the visit stirred speculation that Vance would be named either secretary of state or secretary of defense.

The nomination is subject to Senate confirmation.

KISSINGER

Vance, 59, held a variety of posts under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and was a ranking foreign policy adviser to Carter during the president-elect's campaign for the White House.

A native of Clarksburg, W. Va., Vance was a Navy officer and is a lawyer. He took his first government assignment in 1957 as a special counsel to a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

President John F. Kennedy named Vance in 1961 as Defense Department general counsel and he later became Kennedy's secretary of the Army. Under Johnson, Vance was elevated in 1964 to deputy defense secretary, the No. 2 post in the Pentagon. He resigned the Pentagon job in 1965.

Johnson often used Vance as a world-roving troubleshooter. Assignments from Johnson sent Vance to the Mediterranean during Greek-Turkish disputes over Cyprus, to South Vietnam at the time the war there was escalating, to the Dominican Republic during that country's 1965 civil war, to Panama during the 1964 Canal Zone riots and to South Korea in 1968 to assess what appeared to be rising threats from North Korea.

Johnson then named Vance, along with Averell Harriman, as part of the first negotiating team sent to Paris for peace talks with North Vietnam in 1968-69.

In CB Theft Case 3-Witness Perjury Eyed

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge A. J. Hosemann Jr. has ordered transcripts made immediately of testimony by three witnesses in a trial Thursday in which an Altamonte Springs youth was found guilty of three counts of auto burglary, one count of grand larceny and two counts of petty larceny in connection with CB radio thefts.

Hosemann ordered the transcripts of testimony by Leslie Lee Swift, Clifford Hall and Kenny McKinney after Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook requested them hinting that they may be used in a possible perjury investigation.

The court ordered Daniel Morris Swift, 19, of 1314 E. Notre Dame Dr., Altamonte Springs, held in jail pending sentencing on the convictions. Swift is scheduled for sentencing Jan. 25 by another judge on November convictions of auto burglary and grand larceny in connection with a CB theft.

During the two-day trial Van Hook charged that witnesses had changed their testimony from earlier sworn statements.

Hall, who lives across the street from Swift, testified that he had earlier implicated Daniel Swift, in the theft of 12 CBs from parked autos July 89 at homes in the Spring Oaks subdivision because he was mad at one of Swift's brothers.

Hall told the jury that now he doesn't want to get anyone in trouble.

Hall said he didn't want to explain his inconsistent statements to the jury on Wednesday.

Leslie Lee Swift, 24, testified that the night of the CB thefts that he wanted no part of the "uncool" incidents and returned to a parked auto.

McKinney, 18, who said he earlier pleaded guilty to the thefts while a juvenile, testified that he alone broke into cars with a coathanger and stole the CBs.

A trial story in Thursday's edition incorrectly stated that Daniel Swift was one of a group of youths arrested July 9 at a CB Shop in Casselberry where police said the 12 stolen CBs were offered for sale.

Harold Kelly Swift Sr., the defendant's father, said today that Daniel was home in bed when the other youths were arrested at the shop. He termed his son's circuit court trial "a raw deal" and said a new trial will be sought.
