Teacher Award Repeal Nearing Death Knell

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A bill to repeal the controversial $100 competency award for Florida's outstanding teachers got the approval of two legislative committees Wednesday.

The Senate Public Schools Committee pushed through the measure to kill the program of giving $100 extra to be paid the top 20 per cent of teachers in each county.

The measure was also pushed through the House Committee on Public Schools. The present law also provides that to be eligible, a teacher must score 600 on the national teacher examination.

"I am asking for a salary reduction," said Mrs. Edna Tait, Tallahassee, president of the Florida Education Association. She said the law is unfair in that it discriminates against teachers who have been in the Florida system for 25 years yet cannot pass the test.

Under a bill passed into a subcommittee Wednesday, the Legislature would wield much more control over the issuing of bond and revenue certificates in the state.

The proposal, by Rep. Charles Hodley, Panama, was shown into the subcommittee by the Constitutional Amendments Committee of the House.

If passed the measure would give the lawmakers control over big university bond issues and other long-term bond programs now administered by the Cabinet and the State Budget Commission.

The House committee also passed and sent to the floor a bill which would give members of the proposed Board of Trustees for Higher Education nine-year staggered terms.

Both of the bills would require a passing vote by the people of Florida if they were passed by the Legislature and signed by Gov. Farris Bryant.

The Senate Public Health Committee, threatening to kill a measure proposing a special tax on milk, sent the measure to a subcommittee for proposed amendments.

The bill would levy a half-cent a gallon tax on milk from state dairymen to be used for special advertising campaigns for the sale of milk. Dairymen would have to vote on it.

The preliminary engineer's report was being submitted to the committee at a luncheon meeting by Harold Scott, of Reynolds, Smith and Hill, Jacksonville, at the Mayfair Inn.

Scott, after a study of previous surveys, aerial photographs, summaries and other field trips, presented three plans for the committee's consideration:

1. The Ellis Canal, south of Florida State Road 50.

2. Sanford-Ft. Pierce Canal, south of Florida State Road 16.

3. Maytown Canal from Lake Harney in the north to the Indian River in the south.

Scott recommended the third route, the Maytown Canal, estimated to cost $11 million for an eight-foot project or $14 million for a 12-foot project.

"The Maytown plan," Scott reported, "provides in Lake Harney and follows the St. John River to the north end of Lake Harney, and from this point east to the north end of the Indian River to intersect the new alignment of the Intracoastal Canal from Indian River to Oak Hill. The plan includes either an eight-foot or 12-foot by 100-foot canal, two navigation locks 60 by 250 feet, railroad drawbridges, four-lane bridge at U. S. Highway 1, two-lane bridge south of Maytown and other items.

"This plan," the engineer continued, "allows an alignment about 10 miles shorter than the Ellis and Sanford-Ft. Pierce proposals. The first cut passes through land elevations up to 25 feet. This will require construction of two locks to avoid overdrainage and excessive excavation costs. However, the canal would serve for water control purposes. It was considered that the summit pool would be maintained at elevation 15 feet above mean sea level. Boat lifts would be provided at each lock for passage of small craft in lieu of using the locks."

The committee heard Scott further. "The various plans were studied for a navigable waterway from Sanford to the Intracoastal Waterway in the Indian River. Each has certain favorable and unfavorable features.

"The Maytown Canal plan was selected as being more feasible. It passes through an undeveloped area, except in the vicinity of U. S. Highway

Steel Increase Will 'Pinch'

United Press International Steel users said today selective price increases by international steel producers are likely to pinch family pocket books a little.

One industry expert said most Americans wouldn't notice it unless they were told. Retail prices might edge slightly upward, industry observers said in a United Press International survey.

But the cost to consumers was expected to be far below what it would have been had steel producers maintained their across-the-board price increases one year ago.

Governor Backs Plan To Save House Seat For Seminole County

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant gave his backing today to a bill to save the seats of 13 middle-sized counties that gave up one seat each in the House to accomplish reapportionment.

Among the counties included as middle sized is Seminole.

A bill to reinstate the seats has been introduced in the House.

Although the 13 seats were written off in the reapportionment, members holding them were permitted to serve out their terms making a 126-member House this year.

Bryant said he thinks it would be a "good idea" to restore these seats, one of which is held by his home county of Marion.

The bill would affect officers and employees of the state with the exception of legislators, Cabinet members and state judges.

Also high on the Senate calendar was a constitutional amendment calling for the use of $16 million principal in the state school fund for university and junior college construction.

The move, which would have to be approved by the people, passed the Senate during the 1961 session but died in the last-minute pileup on the House calendar.

Senate Ponders Expense Increase

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A bill calling for a hike in daily travel allowances for state employees which would cost the state $100,000 was ready for action in the Senate today.

No Action Seen

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant said today he has been informed by Florida Senators that there is little likelihood for immediate congressional action to authorize an interstate highway link between Tampa and Miami.

Bursting Pipe Caused Disaster

AROUND USS WARRING TON (UPI) — A naval submarine officer said today a bursting pipe probably caused the sinking of the submarine Thresher with 129 men aboard.

Capt. Frank A. Andrews, commander of Submarine Development group II, to which the Thresher was assigned, said the tragedy will prompt the Navy to examine two key aspects in submarines — current test diving techniques and the design of nuclear-powered submarines.

Andrews, in charge of the search for the Thresher's hull in Atlantic waters 230 miles east of Cape Cod, spoke to newsmen aboard his flag-ship which was returning to Newport, R. I.

"It sometimes takes something drastic like this to realize material weaknesses," he said.

Race Unrest Hits Chicago

United Press International
Racial unrest, confined recently to the South, broke out in Chicago Wednesday night where more than a thousand persons demonstrated around a South Side apartment into which Negroes had moved.

In other integration-segregation activities, 47 Negroes were arrested in Birmingham, Ala., where a stepped up movement to break racial barriers is in its 18th day.

At Hampton, Va., nine Negroes were fined $100 each and sentenced to jail for violating antirape laws in lunch counter sit-ins. A hearing to determine whether debarred racial segregation exists in Englewood, N. J., ended after nine days of testimony.

In Chicago, authorities called out 310 policemen who used 12 police dogs to break up the angry, shouting crowd that became an unruly officer-hustled three Negro men and a woman out the back door of the building.

Windows were smashed and a United Press International reporter and a police officer were struck by rocks thrown during the four-hour demonstration.

Police also said that one of the Negroes who had been moving furniture into the brick duplex building was also hit by a rock. None of the three was hurt.

Police arrested 10 persons and Capt. Anthony Brankin called the demonstration the largest in Chicago in two years.

In Birmingham, 16 Negroes were arrested when they attempted to stage a voter registration march. Twenty-nine others were arrested in other demonstrations.

A new tact developed at Birmingham, described as the nation's most segregated large city, when Police Chief Jamie Moore made a personal plea to Negroes not to stage their march. It went unheeded.

In other activity across the nation:

—Farmville, Va. — Negro students from Hampton Institute and Virginia Union University were refused service at three all-white lunch counters and admission to a movie theater. None was arrested.

—Jackson, Miss. — The state chapter of the NAACP has called for "an immediate state and federal investigation into the operations of the Mississippi Welfare Department under the direction of Fred Ross." The NAACP sent telegrams of protest to Gov. Ross Barnett and to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in protest to a speech Ross made at Biloxi which it said belittled the Negro race.

Blood Bank Sets Urgent Meeting

All sponsoring organizations of the Old Glory Community Blood Bank are urged to attend a meeting at 8 p. m. next Tuesday at the American Legion Home on Prairie Lake to plan ways and means of building up the bank supply to meet demands.

Bank officials report that the last Donor Day brought only six pints of blood and that requests of the communities served already are in excess of the stock on hand.

The Old Glory Bank serves most areas of South Seminole County and is supported by organizations from Altamonte Springs, Bear Lake, Casselberry, Forest City, Fern Park and Longwood.

Education A Drug - Largen

"If a drug that could cure 50 percent of all known cancers was announced today, people would be excited and happy all over the world," said Dr. Tom Largen Wednesday.

"Yet we do have such a drug," he continued. "It is public education," Dr. Largen said.

Mrs. D. Lloyd Dead At 63

Mrs. Dorothy E. Lloyd, 63, died at Seminole Memorial Hospital Tuesday. She was born January 26, 1900 in Chicago and had made her home in Lake Mary for the past 30 years. She was a member of the Lake Mary Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include her husband, James A. Lloyd of Lake Mary, and three children: Roy Burns Hildum Jr. of Greencove Springs, James Robert Lloyd and Kenneth Lloyd both of Winston-Salem, N. C.; one sister, Mrs. C. F. Proctor of Sanford, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Friday at Brisson Funeral Home with Rev. John W. Pilly of Lake Mary officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Speaking to the Kiwanis Club, Dr. Largen said that more than half of all the known cancers could be cured if persons would come in for a complete physical examination soon enough.

"After the symptoms appear," he said, "the chances of curing the cancer are much less. But in some cancers the cure rate is almost 100 percent if discovered early."

Dr. Largen said that more men than women die from cancer each year; yet it is the men who insist that their wives get checkups while they do not.

Nelis Home Wins Club Award

By Mona Grinstead
The North Orlando Garden Club has announced that the Garden of the Month Award for April has been presented to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelis of 100 N. Devon Ave.

Until this year the Nelis garden blossomed out each spring with a multitude of colorful annuals which always brought admiration from friends and neighbors throughout the community. Now, though some annuals have been used to add touches of color, the garden has a new look provided through use of many evergreens which will endure the state's brief cold periods during the winter months. The home is situated on a corner lot with a fenced back yard. The most colorful of many flower beds is located on the north side near the carport where the area is packed with petunias blooming amidst azaleas, lilies and evergreens. A climbing cover of holly, lilies and more evergreens decorates part of the fence which is landscaped in front with rose beds, magnolia, liastrium, fig, lilies and a bird bath.

Cherry laurel provides a background for another bed filled with roses, honeysuckle, petunias, lilies and the evergreens. South of the house are planted palms, a cinnamom, a camphor, redwood and pansies and a variety of the many plants surround the house along the back. Perfectly trimmed evergreens again are used for landscaping. As an entrance along the front walk azaleas and pansies fold color into greenery against the overall background of the centipede planted lawn.

Strong Bond Control Sought By Lawmakers

TALLHASSEE (UPI) — The Legislature would wield much stronger bond and revenue certificate issuing control under a bill nudged into a subcommittee Wednesday by the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The proposal introduced by Rep. Charles Holley, Pinellas, stipulates that both the House and Senate must cast two-thirds favorable votes before any bonds or certificates could be issued.

The measure which requires adoption by referendum, will be studied by a three-man committee along with similar legislation affecting the controversial capital outlay program for university and junior college construction.

A bill that could give members of the proposed board of trustees for higher education terms of up to nine years was passed by the House committee and sent to the floor.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Oscar Fagan of Alachua, would authorize the Legislature to extend the terms if the measure is passed by a public referendum.

There is a companion bill under consideration by the Legislature that calls for the trustees to replace the present seven-member board of control.

Distorts Perspective

In the days when Hollywood was flooding the nation and the world with more than 500 movies a year, a standard complaint — not unjustified — was that they painted a distorted picture of this country's life.

The motion picture industry is no longer given sole blame, since its influence has waned. Yet some scholars and other observers suggest that the distortion today is greater than ever.

Those who talk about the "hidden America" of poverty, disease and distress which exists in our generally affluent nation are arguing, in their way, that the country's image is out of balance.

The reverse side of that coin has now been defined for us by educator Harold Taylor. At a Washington meeting of the National Committee on Support of the Public Schools, of which he is a vice chairman, Taylor said matters had reached the point where the largely prosperous U. S. suburbs were being portrayed as the sole symbol of American life.

For many decades our great growth has been in the suburbs. For the most part they are now the "home" of middle class America. They will get virtually all the fantastic new growth which lies just ahead. And it is to them that, with few exceptions, we hold the mirror when we think to picture the America of 1963.

The scholars say that more and more the central cities are the abode of the rich and the poor. Except in occasional "realistic" films, plays or novels, life at the poor extreme is seldom presented.

No one can object, certainly, to representations of America which stress the solid, rewarding substance of middle class living. But that life needs to be seen — and lived — in full perspective.

Taylor's complaint, echoing some before him, is that for too many people, and especially growing youngsters, the good things of suburbia are being taken in isolation.

Thousands grow up with no thorough knowledge of the cities, their often beleaguered peoples, and their crushing problems. The cities are merely something to pass through to reach the magnet of downtown entertainment and shopping.

Taylor's point seems well grounded. To isolate a steadily enlarging segment of our people in the enlivened air of the suburbs is to render them ill-equipped for the rude shock of meeting the rest of America — as many of them surely must — at some stage in a mature, useful life.

Helen Fuller Says

Political Drives 'Early'

WASHINGTON — Both Democrats and Republicans are starting early to curry favor in the states of the old Confederacy for 1964.

Last week Vice-President Lyndon Johnson sounded a opening note in an address of the Democratic faithful of North Carolina. Beware, he warned them, of Republicans who will try to divide and rule by sowing doubts about the Kennedy Administration's position on race relations. The GOP director for the South responded with the charge that LBJ is again as in 1960, assigned the role of hoodwinking his fellow Southerners of the President's party.

Both parties see the South as potentially the decisive factor in 1964 that many analysts believe it was in 1960. The Democrats reckon that Kennedy might have lost in 1960 had he not held at large a part of the traditionally Democratic South against Nixon as he did — banks largely to Lyndon Johnson. Democratic leaders recognize that the Republicans have been making steady gains in the South since then. And they are devising several complementary strategies to effect the strong offensive they expect the Republicans to wage in the South in next year's elections, for Congress as well as for the Presidency.

The Republicans are greatly heartened by their Southern showing in the 1962 elections and determined to better that record in 1964. In the 1962 Congressional elections, the Republicans surprised even themselves by polling more than one-third of all the votes cast for the House in 11 Southern states. Approximately 1.5 million Southerners cast their first vote for a Republican for Congress in an off-year last November. North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas sent significant numbers of Republicans to their state legislatures in 1962. And this year Miami and Dade County elected a solid state of 12 Republicans to the Florida legislature.

Many of the GOP victors in '62, in the South, won on segregationist platforms, more conservative than their Democratic opponents. But the Florida group this year won on a combined pledge of support for equal rights for all regardless of race.

Both Republicans and Democrats are keenly aware that in all probability the poll tax will be finally repealed early next year. Thirty of the necessary 38 states have already ratified the constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. The expectation is that removal of the tax, together with the current drive to increase voter registration in the Deep South, will increase the number of voters from the bottom rung of the economic ladder and affect the balance of political power in at least some of the five states that still tax the right to vote — Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

Both parties are debating how to make the most of the new situation which abolition of the poll tax will create. The question for the Republicans is whether to appeal to the left or the right to the newly enfranchised voters who want more recognition than old-line state Democratic leaders are willing to give them, or to conservative Democrats, resentful of changes in the political structure and perhaps open to a GOP plea to change parties in protest.

If Republican leaders knew for sure who their 1964 nominees will be, the choice of a strategy in the South would be simpler. There would be little point in trying to sell the new Negro and poor white voters on Goldwater, or old-line Southern Democrats on Rockefeller — although a current gag is that the South might prefer a Rockefeller to a Kennedy because there are fewer of them.

Kennedy Democrats have their eyes fixed firmly on winning over the new voters about to be enfranchised in the South. LBJ will be expected to carry on successful diplomatic relations with the powers that be in present Southern Democracy. And Administration will do as little as possible to rile Southern Congressmen. Meanwhile, by present plans, a quiet campaign will be launched to unseat a haker's dozen of Southern conservatives who habitually oppose the President's program in the House. The Democratic National Committee no doubt will disavow any intention of interfering in Democratic party primaries. But by one means or another Kennedy leaders reportedly plan to replace a selected 13 conservative Southerners with 13 Administration-minded members of the House. One of the 13 targets for 1964 is said to be freshman Representative John Marsh of Virginia's 7th District — two others, Floridians Paul Rogers of the 6th District and James Hiley of the 7th.

In the past such party purges have usually failed when attempted in the open. 1964 may add a footnote to history on what happens when the party in power restricts its influence to working behind the scenes.

Cross in the Deep

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Prof. "X" doesn't seem to comprehend the simple fact that if there are 600 students enrolled in a college and it lists 50 faculty members, then that gives a Student - Teacher ratio of 12:1, even though his lecture sections may have 75 to 100 pupils therein. Professors, review your arithmetic and quit misquoting me, please!

CASE P-416: Prof. X is a dedicated teacher at Ohio State University. "Dr. Crane," he protested, "in a recent column of yours you said that the Student-Teacher ratio of colleges is too small.

"For you stated that there is an average of only about 12 students per faculty member.

"In contrast, you said that the S-T ratio for city high schools is double that or 24:1 and thus we should try to pattern after the high school ratio.

"Well, I don't understand, for my classes are quite large, running 75 to 100 in the lecture sections.

"So how can we have such a low S-T ratio?" Many popular college teachers have large classes. But the way to find the S-T ratio is simply to divide the total number of listed faculty members into the entire student enrollment.

Thus, the usual college with 600 students will show you at least 50 faculty members (often more). Harvard University, for instance, doesn't even have a 3 to 1 ratio, for Harvard is trying to operate what amounts to a private tutorial system.

"Oh, but we should really have only ONE pupil per teacher!" I have heard some theorists exclaim. Theoretically, that would be splendid. And it might also be superb if we could furnish a private psychiatrist for every pupil registered in our grammar and high school, too!

But think of the cost! Efficiency engineering applied to government doesn't stop with mere theory.

We taxpayers and college alumni finance that terrific cost of education as just part of our many tax drains.

So henceforth we must compromise between theoretical perfection and the budgets we taxpayers can ante up.

"Dr. Crane says we should stop all free public schooling after the 6th grade," several educators have also been proclaiming.

Yet I have never made such a statement! So I wish you college folks would learn a little logic and show the careful attention to the facts that every newspaper reporter is taught.

What I did say was simply that some educators are suggesting that the time may come within the next few generations, when our profligate expenditures and diminishing resources may force us to curtail free schooling after the 6th grade.

There's a whole of a difference between that statement and the thoughtless remark of some educators that "Dr. Crane says all free schooling should stop at the 6th grade."

If college faculties moved up to the high school S-T ratio of 24:1, then the national income would double immediately.

It would then permit not only a big jump in faculty salaries, but also leave far more money for the "overhead" expenses of colleges.

Business Colleges thus operate solely on tuition revenues and even erect their buildings out of such income. Yet bloated state colleges tap the taxpayers for many millions, even though they don't pay taxes.

Remember, too, that Bustness Colleges do pay their real estate taxes!

So let the Liberal Arts college imitate the Business College!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona makes a headline whenever he speaks, which is daily if not oftener.

The senator's principal stock in trade is an attack on anything and everything the Kennedy administration is trying to do. This is what his millions of fans like to hear. But every so often he slips in an idea of his own. This usually makes a good story, too. But when you clip the picture puzzle pieces which report his speeches and paste them up to make a political paper doll, you get an amazing image. The question it raises is whether Goldwater — if he should ever be elected president — would do all the things he now says he would do.

The senator's latest is his statement endorsing Cuban commando raids on Russian merchant ships, even if they kill a few Russians.

Does this mean that "President" Goldwater would actually "unleash" the Cuban Freedom Fighters to commit acts of piracy? Of would this just be like President Eisenhower's "unleashing" of Chiang Kai-shek to raid the China mainland 10 years ago?

Goldwater's program for Cuba is economic blockade (an act of war) and training Cuban exiles for espionage and sabotage. He opposes U. S. invasion.

Another of his recent solutions for the Cuba situation was to establish a friendly dictator there, like Batista. Goldwater says he has no objection to dictators because they suppress communism when a country is not ready for democracy.

As a reserve Air Force general who has flown jets, Goldwater has warred constantly against Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's civilian control of the Pentagon. His criticisms have been leveled at too frequent changes of policy on the B-70 and Dyna-Soar, for abandonment of the Skybolt, for delay on Nike Zeus. He charges that not one new weapon has been produced, and that this amounts to American disarmament.

Goldwater therefore favors withdrawal from Geneva of U. C. negotiators seeking a nuclear test ban agreement with Russia.

He opposes the idea that the U. S. and U.S.S.R. should agree to any plan for destruction of weapons, bomber or bomber. The senator is, in effect, against disarmament.

He would cut the budget $10 billion without touching defense.

Some of Goldwater's ideas on taxes are of special interest. He would give tax credits for medical expenses (though that would apparently be of no benefit to people too poor to pay taxes as high as their doctor and hospital bills).

He would cut the taxes of home owners by $3 billion to $4 billion so as to give them more money to pay higher local taxes for more public education. (Incidentally, property owners pay real estate taxes to local governments, not to the U. S. Treasury. So this would be cutting federal taxes, and raising local taxes.) What happens to people who aren't home owners isn't specified.

On Social Security the senator has said that at some future time he would propose making the system voluntary, since he believes the country will start a revolt against it by 1970.

On a U. S. Chamber of Commerce panel, Goldwater defended the strike as the only weapon open to organized labor. He also opposed compulsory arbitration and removal of the unions' immunity from antitrust law prosecution as a monopoly.

Goldwater's own labor program, as revealed in a bill he introduced this year, would provide a 30-day notice of intent to strike, require a secret strike vote if 30 per cent of a union's membership requested it, make unions liable for damage suits for unfair labor practices, and ban compulsory union membership except in states passing laws to approve it. This last would reverse the legality of existing state right-to-work laws.

Goldwater is going to be the star attraction at a $1,600 a plate Republican dinner in Washington May 9. The GOP pitch is that this will be just the start of a drive to elect more Republicans to Congress next year. Goldwater already has filed as a candidate for re-election to the Senate.

He still insists he is not a candidate for the presidency and he has tried to discourage all the movements that have sprung up to draft him in California, Indiana, South Carolina, New York City, Chicago and now Washington. "But if people want to waste their time and money," he says, "let them go ahead."

Lake Monroe Jottings . . .

Mrs. H. L. Johnson
Hello. How are you tonight? How was your Easter weekend? Real nice I hope. I know mine was because I spent the holiday in North Florida with our daughter and granddaughters . . . Son Jim and Linda and daughter Sherri went on to Panama City where they visited Linda's parents. Linda's mother is confined to a Panama City hospital where she is recovering from a serious illness. . . . Please don't forget the Swiss Steak supper coming up Saturday evening at the Educational Building of the Upsala Presbyterian Church. A real nice menu has been planned for the supper. So come one or come ALL. See you there. The supper will start at 5:30 p. m. There will be a white elephant sale later. . . . Herbert and Grace Thurston and son Brian of Brandon and formally of Monroe were weekend visitors of Claude and Mary Hittell. . . . Also have a report that former Monroe postmaster Annie McArthur was in town last weekend on a short visit. She was on her way to Alabama to visit her children. Would sure liked to have seen her but being out of town myself I missed her. Sure am sorry. Maybe she will stop on her return to Miami. . . . Mrs. B. C. Kreejar is moving back to Monroe from Elberth, Ala. and will reside in the William Mount home. Marilyn's husband Chuck is again stationed with the Navy here. Sure glad to welcome them back to town. . . . The William Mounts have returned to Ohio to reside. . . . Rev. and Mrs. Joe Douthitt are new residents here and are living in the Edwards home across from the postoffice. Rev. Douthitt is the new pastor of the Monroe Baptist Church. Very glad to welcome them to the community. . . . The RA's of the Baptist Church are having meetings again on Monday nights at the church. D. C. Spivey is the leader. . . . Mrs. J. C. Sapp, granddaughter of Dale Freeman of Tampa, Florida and in Myrtle's shoes yet? . . . Watched the Melaney Paint Co. Softball game Tuesday evening. They won 29 to 5. There was a nice crowd there too. Sam Watson is the coach of the team. They play again Friday night . . . go down to the lakefront park and see them. You will enjoy it. . . . Jean Reynolds left Tuesday night by plane for Trafalgar, Ind., where she will become the bride of Rev. William Luttrill on Saturday evening. Bill is pastor of the Methodist church there. I am going to miss Jean very much as she has been residing with us. But she will be doing such a wonderful job up there being a ministers wife. Her son Stanley and I are planning to go see them when school is out and Stanley will then stay there. . . . We have another thought this week by Will Rogers. He says: "Plans get you into things but you get your way out."

Civic Group Asks Help On Project

The need for a group of individuals or a community organization to accept the responsibility of stapling and delivering the "North Orlando Newslet," was stressed at last week's meeting of the North Orlando Civic Assn. by Mrs. J. D. Grinstead, chairman of the project. Organization of committee heads and staff workers for the Newslet, monthly publication put out by the Civic group, is nearly complete and copies of the paper are expected to be published on a regular schedule after this month, Mrs. Grinstead said. Stewart Helmly, association president, suggested that since Brownies, Girl Scouts and 4-H Club all have free use of the Community Building, which is in charge of the association, they should be willing to handle at least the delivery as their contribution to upkeep on the building. Ideas on this matter and suggestions for other details of the publication are requested by Mrs. Grinstead.

Suspension Warranted - Lombardi

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most National Football League officials, including Vince Lombardi of the world champion Green Bay Packers, today agreed that the indefinite suspensions handed two of the pro game's greatest stars for betting on games were fully warranted.

Paul Hornung of the Packers, regarded as the most versatile player in football history, and Alex Karras, star defensive tackle of the Detroit Lions.

Lombardi, coach and general manager of the Packers, was "shocked and hurt" when he learned of Hornung's suspension but he admitted Roselle had no alternative.

Paul Hornung, the "golden boy" of the world champion Green Bay Packers, is through in the National Football League for at least a year.

Both suspended players said they had no plans until 1961 when their cases will be reviewed by Roselle. They had hoped to continue playing football elsewhere, but officials of the American Football League and the Canadian leagues said they would honor the NFL suspensions.

Jim Campbell broke up the long struggle in San Francisco when he homered off Don Larsen with two out in the 18th.

Burdette's win marked the second straight time he has followed Spahn with a triumph. The pitching heroes of 1957 and '58 have scored four of the Braves' six victories so far this year.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last year, when I was hospitalized, my neighbor and very "dear friend" helped my husband care for our two youngsters. I thought I would never be able to repay her for her kindness — until several weeks ago when my husband confessed that their relationship had gone beyond what he ever thought it would. He said he was sorry and asked my forgiveness. The "friend" tries to act normal. She doesn't know my husband has told me. We own our own home and I don't intend to move. I cannot bear the sight of this two-faced woman. What should I do when she comes knocking at my door with her sweet smile and her apple pies?

BETRAYED

DEAR BETRAYED: I presume your husband knows this woman well enough to speak to her. Ask HIM to tell her that he has confessed to you. I doubt if you'll be bothered again with either her sweet smile OR her apple pies. And if she sends anything else over, don't eat it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your women readers to be careful of a man who proposes marriage on condition that the "candidate" pass inspection of all his children first. A widower asked to marry me, but first I had to meet all his six married children separately before they would give him the go-ahead. I passed "inspection," I wish I hadn't. When he was well, his children came first. Now he is sick, and he's all mine.

STUCK WITH AN A.K.

DEAR ABBY: I have an older friend who works with me. She wants me to break up her son and his "girl friend." The son is 29 and his "girl friend" is 22. I am 26 and have seen the son, and although he couldn't possibly mean anything to me, I am sure I could break them up. Should I?

"THE GIRL WHO HAS EVERYTHING."

DEAR GIRL: Don't attempt to destroy a relationship which could be very satisfactory for the two people involved. Your letter and your signature don't matter.

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

All hands in the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers' intercollegiate tournament this year were not difficult, but each did illustrate some point of play.

Hand four was a problem for the defense. West opens the three of clubs and it is up to East to win with the ace and lead back the queen. That isn't very difficult. He is looking at all those good diamonds, hearts and spades in dummy. West's play likewise should not prove difficult. He must overtake his partner's queen with the king and lead the eight or seven. Eventually he will get in with the ace of

NORTH (D)		EAST

♦ K J 10 8 4	♦ A Q	♦ A 2	♦ 10 9
♣ 10 9	♣ 8 7 3 2	♣ K 7 3 2	♣ A Q

is rather easy for a par contract, yet many players missed the winning defense. It seems that West would not notice that his eight and seven of clubs had acquired enough importance so that he could afford to overtake his partner's queen.

The bidding par on the hand also is interesting. North and South must get to game if they want their par, but there is good reason for this. Their hands warrant a game bid and the game contract would make except against a club opening.

A good bridge player should not expect to make all his game contracts. Players who wait for sure things won't get set, but they won't win often.

As stated earlier the hand diamonds and two more club tricks will set the contract.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

One of the best ways for older people to grow still older is NOT to live their own lives.

And one of the best ways for them not to live their own lives is to let their grown children make all the decisions for them.

I know one woman who has a simple formula for living her own life.

She sums it up thus: "I listen to all my children's advice—then do as I please."

That's not a bad formula for any parent whose children are grown and leading busy lives of their own.

For too often grown children force their parents into settling down to grow old long before it is necessary.

Often all the children are doing is trying to avoid worry. They will worry about mother living alone, taking a paid job or whatever it is she feels perfectly capable of doing.

And so they try to get her to do something more suitable from their point of view. It simply means they are asking her to stop taking chances, to lean on them instead of trying to stand alone.

That is really asking the older person to give up and quit living. You can't maintain independence or really live your own life if you aren't free to take a few well-calculated risks.

So don't think your parent is headstrong if he listens patiently to your ideas about how he should live and then does exactly as he pleases.

That spirit of independence shows he is still young.

Help him stay that way by letting him live his own life!

In this case, the wife (Audrey Dalton) likes the easy money and refuses to believe her prizefighter husband Bruce Yarnell has a brain injury that could kill him the next time he fights. Trying vainly to apprise her of the danger is Mitch Guthrie (Earl Holliman), who has already flattened the pug with one punch.

Tonight he plays a sculptor who falls in love with his model, but is thwarted by the model's mother. Before long he has a heavy load of circumstantial evidence pointing at him and he is accused of murdering the elder woman. Faith Domergue is excellent as the older woman, with Marianna Hill and regulars Barbara Hale, William Talman and Ray Collins.

Homemakers

Well, Easter is over and those who had ham as their main meat dish probably had some leftovers. I spent the Easter weekend in Northwest Florida with my daughter and while there I got some real good recipes. Here is one for using up the leftover ham. This would be nice for a luncheon party; try it sometime. It's called Party Ham Pie.

- 1 can (10 ozs.) condensed mushroom soup
1/2 tsp. prepared mustard
1/2 tsp. prepared horseradish
1 medium tomato, peeled and thinly sliced
1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Brown onion and green pepper lightly in drippings. Pour off drippings. Add ham, 1/2 cup mushroom soup, flour, mustard and horseradish and mix well. Spoon half the mixture into baked pie shell. Top with tomato slices. Spoon remaining ham mixture over tomatoes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 minutes. Add enough milk to remaining soup to give the consistency of gravy. Heat and serve with the pie. Serves 6.

While looking through some of my grandmother's things I came across a recipe of hers that she loved to make. In fact I have sampled it many times. It is really good — I hope you will try it.

- Baked Meat Loaf Dumplings
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup Crisco
5 to 7 cups cold water
- Filling
1 lb. raw ground beef
1/2 cup fine crumbs
2 tps. chopped onion
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 cup ketchup
1 egg

Combine all ingredients. Place 1/2 cup of filling in center of each square of pastry. Moisten edges with milk. Bring together. Bake in 400 degree oven until done, 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Frozen fruits may be served right from the package as appetizers and desserts. However the label should be consulted before sugar is added as many frozen fruits have already been sweetened. Frozen fruits may be used the same as fresh fruits in pies, cakes, sauces and other desserts — even in jellies and jams. These recipes are just a few bright necessities will give your spirits and your winter wardrobe an end-of-the-season lift. You might add a necklace or silk scarf in a "spring's coming" color, such as a daffodil yellow. Then your necessary additions can be worn right into spring.

and stir in margarine and salt. Stir berries lightly into thickened sauce. Turn into 1 1/2 pint casserole. Sprinkle crumb topping over and bake in hot oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes. Serve warm serves 6.

Crumb Topping
Combine 1/2 cup flour (unsifted), 1/2 cup packed brown sugar, 1/2 tsp. cinnamon, 1/4 tsp. nutmeg and 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine. Mix until crumbly.

Here is a recipe for Refrigerator Cake that I got from a lady in Trenton last week-end. She says her family really loves it and it does sound very good.

- 2 pkcs. (3 ozs. each) straw berry gelatin
2 cups each, boiling water and cold water
1 pkg. (7 1/2 ozs.) vanilla wafers
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 can (8 1/2 ozs.) crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup heavy cream, whipped (optional)

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and chill until slightly thickened. Line a 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan with slightly broken cookies. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add nuts and pineapple; mix thoroughly. Spoon mixture over cookies.

On Speaking Terms Again

By Joseph W. Grigg PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is on speaking terms again with his allies. But there still seems to be no chance he will meet with President Kennedy this summer.

State Dean Rusk and French leaders, including De Gaulle, did serve at least to take relations between the two countries out of the deep freeze in which they had been since De Gaulle vetoed Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

Rusk's meeting with De Gaulle, Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville were said to have been polite, friendly and in some respects almost cordial.

But both American and French officials agreed there was no change in the basic differences which have divided the United States and France. In those circumstances, American and French officials saw no change of De Gaulle's meeting with Kennedy when the U. S. leader makes his European trip this summer.

As one responsible French official put it: "All they could do would be to repeat attitudes with which each is thoroughly familiar. It would be a waste of time for both."

De Gaulle has made it clear that he will not let Britain join the Common Market at the moment. He also has convinced Washington that, come what may, he will push ahead with his French nuclear force plan.

There was very little discussion of either question in Paris last week, because the United States recognizes that De Gaulle will not back down or even make the slightest concession.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Again, Again And Again

Repeatedly your Herald has used the "Comment" to sound off about, and warn against, careless negligence which annually causes the loss through fire of acre after acre of our county timber and pasture lands.

Again this week Ranger Albert Harris issued warnings that the county is in a record dry period and that now is NOT the time to do any burning. Variable winds coming at this time of year only add to the danger for a single spark dropped in what is thought to be a safe place quickly can be whipped several hundred yards in any direction to ignite dry grass or undergrowth.

In addition to pleading with the public to take precautions with burning, we might also remind that stronger enforcement measures are being taken by state and county officials with those caught in the act of causing fires, either deliberate or accidental.

Again, again and again, until such needless destruction becomes a thing of the past, plea after plea and warning after warning will be issued in the effort to fight waste through fire.

Panel Discusses Legislation

By Jane Casselberry
Dr. Paul Douglass of Rollins College and four students from his Central of Practical Politics presented an informative and stimulating program at a meeting of the Seminole County Young Republican Club held Tuesday night in Howell Park.

The student panel consisted of John O'Rourke of New York City, John Stevenson of Sarasota, May TenEyck of Richfield Park, N. J., and Barbara Rainer of Winter Park.

The group gave a resume of legislation coming before the current session of the State Legislature and debated the proposed bill to put more teeth in the present Right to Work Law.

Included in bills under consideration are an across the board sales tax, a limited medicare program for the needy aged, a conservation bill to take control of the waterways away from counties, and a bill to require children to be six years old before entering school.

Also under study is establishment of a technical institute at Cape Canaveral and one in Central Florida which would be a division of the University of Florida.

In the opinion of the students the latter has a better chance of getting approval from the legislature.

Though alert young people disagreed strongly on the right to work law, they agreed unanimously that the bill to implement it with provisions for injunctive relief and penalties had little chance for passage.

This opinion was based on information they have received regarding "a deal" to prevent its passage resulting from a meeting in Tallahassee last week of Associated Industrialists and AFL-CIO leaders.

Viewpoints of the Union were presented by Herbert Swezey, union shop steward at the Martin Co., when the question was opened for discussion in the audience.

Dr. Douglass congratulated the club for making history with the election of Jan. Kurland, the first Republican Legislator to date for Seminole County.

Anderson Advocates Vote On Tax Issue

The suggestion of putting the question of a personal property tax in North Orlando directly up to the residents through a referendum was made last week by Mayor W. W. Anderson when the matter of raising funds for village operations came up at a special meeting of the council.

"How do we know the people don't want taxes? . . . the kind of a city the people want should be left up to the citizens and available funds are not sufficient to provide even the necessary facilities," he pointed out.

Bear Lake Girl Scouts Hear Nurse

By Shirley Westworth
Bear Lake Girl Scouts of Troop 407 heard a program on nursing presented by Mrs. Richard Ostrander, registered nurse of Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando, at their regular meeting last Thursday.

Through questions encouraged by the speaker the girls learned that only registered nurses are eligible to wear pins which actually are a part of their uniform. She also explained that each school of nursing is identified by its cap stripe which cannot be copied and that nurses are required to pass a two-day state board examination before they can become registered nurses.

Program speaker scheduled for today's 8 p. m. meeting of the troop at the home of Leader Mrs. John Hall is Mrs. Amy Dechle, beautician and hair stylist.

At this time Anderson scored another point by replying, "Have you ever had anything handed to you? . . . I've worked for everything I've ever received as I'm sure you have. I'm neither for nor against this tax business. I'm only suggesting that it should be left up to the citizens."

It was pointed out earlier in the meeting that a tax had been proposed but only for businesses and professional offices.

Life In Everglades Described For Altamonte Garden Club

By Louise Simunek

The fact that camping trips and tours in the Florida Everglades do not present the dangers feared by most people was stressed by Howard McBride last Thursday night in his program for members of the Altamonte Springs Garden Club.

McBride, who formerly was associated with the State Conservation Dept., said that tales of threats posed by alligators and snakes in the 'Glades were largely unfounded since the alligator will not attack unless molested. This also is true of the snake which actually will run from man, he said.

He told of organizing many camps in the tropical area for boys between the ages of eight and 18 years who, by taking general safety precautions, made the trips in and out without difficulty.

McBride also showed a shell collection taken from the unusual and brilliantly patterned tree snails which cannot be found anywhere north of the Everglades. Many ideas and designs copied from these snail shells are used by the Seminole Indians for their handicraft.

The speaker said that Indians in the Everglades are slowly dwindling in number due to the fact that ways of earning a living are gradually becoming harder and harder to find. This, in part, is caused by the white man who has copied the Indian crafts and is able to produce them in quantity through use of machinery.

Because of this, McBride said, he foresees the eventual extinction of the Indian race which mode and more is being forced into the "white world."

Ranchers Seek To Build Own Air Strip

By Mrs. Adam Muller

M-Q Ranch owners, Herman and Robert Morris, applied for permission to build a private landing strip on their ranch site near Osteen at the last District 5 meeting of the Volusia County Zoning Board held at the Recreation Hall of the Delray Fire Station.

The proposed air strip, with approaches at either end, would be one mile long and three-quarters of a mile wide.

The matter was referred to the attorney in New Smyrna Beach.

Bessie Buhler was advised to advertise for a public hearing on her request to be allowed to locate a house trailer south of Bailey's Truck Stop north of the Oak Hill Town limits on the east side of the highway.

The board took no action on a request from Sam Furnari who requested that permission be given to use lots one and two of Bella Vista Units No. 2, south of Edgewater, for trailer lots.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF Seminole, Brevard, Volusia and Orange Counties will be invited within the next two weeks to a joint session seeking their support for a proposed waterway between Sanford and the Atlantic Ocean. This map was presented by the engineer, Harold Scott, to the St. Johns-Indian River Navigating Committee Thursday. It depicts three alternate routes-of-way. The first and favored route is the Maytown Canal, from Lake Hurney to the headwaters of the Indian River. The second is the Sanford-Titusville Canal, south of Highway 46. The third is the Ellis Canal, south of Highway 50. John Krider, committee chairman, said he will request the four counties commissioners to meet here on the project.

Hilarious, Laughing Solons Destroy Secret Meeting Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — "The people of Levy County like secret meetings," Under said. "I am serious about this bill," Cross said, adding "somewhere in the Bible it says 'ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free.'" He said the bill would prevent officials from getting together in secret to informally discuss matters. All it would require, he said, is that no official actions be taken except at meetings open to the public. It specifically exempts secret meetings of the Senate, allowed by the State Constitution. Maximum penalty for violation would be $500 and six months in jail. When the roll was called only one senator, James Conroy of Brooksville, cast an affirmative vote. And he laughed as he did it.

Area College Bill Proposed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A bill directing immediate establishment in East Central Florida of a branch of the University of Florida Engineering College was introduced today by Sen. J. A. Boyd of Leesburg. The bill specifies that the institution be a graduate level university specializing in masters and doctor's degrees in science and engineering and in research. It directs the Board of Control to select a site in the Orlando-Daytona Beach-Casselberry area and appropriate $311,000 for its operation. A bill appropriating $40,870 for establishment of a state junior college in Okaloosa County was offered by Sens. Ferrin Campbell, Crestview, Clyde Galloway, DeFuniak Springs, and Clayton Mapoles of Milton.

Dog Licenses Overdue In Casselberry

Casselberry dog owners were warned today that April 1 was the deadline for licensing their dogs and that those who have not bought their dog tags are subject to fines of $50 or 30 days as called for in the ordinance adopted last September. Town Clerk Mrs. Lillian Henning said that only 81 from a possible 350 persons have had their dogs vaccinated and registered as of this time. Before registration can be made and a tag purchased from the clerk, dogs must have received their rabies shots for the year.

ACL Trying To Kill Us --- FEC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Florida East Coast Railroad (FEC) made the charges in a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) for permission to intervene in support of a bid by D. W. Bronson, president of the Southern Railway, to continue serving as a director of FEC. The FEC had been under receivership for about 30 years before it was reorganized in 1961. During the reorganization the ICC permitted the presidents of the Seaboard, the Atlantic Coast Line and the Southern to serve on FEC's board of directors. However, John W. Smith, president of the Seaboard and W. Thomas Rice, president of Atlantic Coast Line, have resigned and demanded that Bronson do likewise. The Florida East Coast wants Bronson to continue as the director. "FEC submits, however, that a conflict of interest created by the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard to destroy East Coast would not bar Mr. Bronson's service," the FEC said in its petition to the ICC.

25th St. Project Wins Approval

County Commission will learn Tuesday that the State Road Department will four-lane the one mile of the 25th Street (Highway 46) between French and Mellonville Avenues at a cost of $300,000. The two-lane street long has been a bottleneck in cross-city traffic. Construction is expected to start on this new project shortly after July 1. This is a primary road project of SR1. The County has just completed improvement of 25th Street west of French Avenue as a secondary road project. The proposed 25th Street improvement between French and Mellonville long has held a "top priority" by the County Commission in requests to the State. However, the State always has balked because it demanded a 100-foot right-of-way. The County owns only 60 feet. Now, it has been learned, the State has agreed to go along with an 80-foot right-of-way and the County is taking steps to obtain this additional 20 feet. The county engineer has been making a study and will recommend to the County Commission for its action whether the County shall seek to purchase 10 feet on either side of the street, or the entire 20 feet on one side, either north or south of the present thoroughfare. This report by the engineer will be made to the County Commission's session Tuesday. In fact, it has been reliably learned, there will be "a blast" during the discussion in the matter but it is expected the Commission will reach an agreement and proceed to obtain the extra 20 feet wanted by the State so that work may get under way at the earliest possible date.

VAH-11 Flight Crews Return Home Sunday

Aircraft and flight crews of Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven will land at the Sanford Naval Air Station at 4:45 p. m. Sunday, ending a seven-month deployment to the Mediterranean aboard the attack carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt. Officials at NAS reported the remainder of the squadron's 100 support personnel will arrive by bus from Mayport Monday at 2 p. m. The Roosevelt is scheduled to dock in Mayport about 9:30 a. m. This will be the first appearance for VAH-11's A3B Skywarrior twin-jet attack bombers in Sanford skies since last September. During the squadron's absence, it has operated extensively with the U. S. Second and Sixth Fleets and participated in numerous NATO and joint-service operations. Cdr. John F. Barlow, the squadron's new skipper, will lead the Checkertails' four-plane fly-in. He replaced Cdr. Lester H. Laupman March 25 aboard the Roosevelt in Piraeus, Greece, after serving as executive officer. Greeting Barlow will be high-ranking officers from the Heavy Attack Wing One staff and Cdr. Barton W. Bartholomew, who is slated to take over Barlow's vacated duties as Executive Officer upon the squadron's arrival. Besides fulfilling its responsibilities with U. S. at-sea forces, VAH-11 entertained many high-ranking officials from Mediterranean nations and visited ports such as Rhodes and Athens, Greece; Istanbul, Turkey; Barcelona, Spain; Cannes, France and Naples, Genoa, Livorno and Taranto, Italy.

Kill Income Tax Move OK'd

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House opened hot debate today on a proposal asking Congress to kill federal income taxes while a bill to hike state sales tax revenues by $20 million was filed in the lower chamber. The House resolution calls on the Congress to pass a constitutional amendment to end the tax on grounds that the nation "is on the road to ruin." Meanwhile, bills were introduced in the Senate to establish a school of engineering in East-Central Florida and to borrow $50 million for public recreation lands in Florida. The $90 million sales tax proposal and the $50 million bond plan have both been endorsed by Gov. Farris Bryant.

JFK Defends Fiscal Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, strongly defending his fiscal policies, told the nation's newspaper editors today that a $5 billion slash in his new budget would mean one million fewer jobs by mid-1964. The chief executive took his case for the administration's legislative program and his record fiscal 1964 spending program before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. In his prepared text, Kennedy attacked the contention of congressional economists that the tax cut he wants to stimulate business should be matched by at least a sizeable reduction in federal expenditures.

'Sloppy' Work Plagued Sub A naval court of inquiry investigating the sinking of the submarine Thresher was unexpectedly closed to the public today for undisclosed reasons. PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (UPI) — Two crewmen who by chance missed the fatal dive of the nuclear submarine Thresher with 129 men aboard have testified that mechanical difficulties and "sloppy" work plagued the vessel during nine months of overhaul and tests. The Navy court of inquiry, gathering evidence that might solve the sinking of the submarine, was to reconvene at 11 a. m. EST today. Navy vessels equipped with sensitive sonar devices cruised the North Atlantic 220 miles east of Cape Cod in search of the hull of the missing craft. In Thursday's testimony, Machinist's Mate 2C Frank J. De Stefano, 29, of Hartford, Conn., who was transferred from Thresher's crew the day before she left on her last cruise, said that design changes on the sub may have hampered the crew's ability to respond with split-second precision to emergencies.

Exile Group To Be Rebuilt MIAMI (UPI) — Antonio de Varona, vice-president of the Cuban refugee Revolutionary Council, sought today to rebuild the exile group following the stormy resignation of President Jose Miro Cardona. The State Department issued a statement in Washington calling Miro's charge a distortion of the truth and saying the United States could now allow Cuban refugees to lead it into possible war with Russia. Seven other members of the 17-member CRC resigned with Miro, pulling out four of the six political groups in the council, which has been the chief representative of 250,000 Cuban exiles in the United States.

Committee Meet Set Airport Site Expected Today However, it was learned the port will be placed along Highway 46 West, in the vicinity of the new Interstate 4 highway. Preliminary planning is for a small airport capable of handling and servicing small airplanes such as used by sportmen, business executives, salesmen, company representatives and others. However, the long range planning carries the thought that future expansion would be to handle commercial airliners operating throughout Florida, such as shuttle air services to main national and international airports. It was pointed out that the federal government would finance 50 per cent of airport construction on a matching fund basis, even to the point of supplying lists, a beacon, etc., on a "for-free" basis in order to stimulate aviation. Presently air service out of Seminole County is available only at Orlando, Deland, Daytona Beach or Tampa. Warner, himself, long has favored construction of an airport in Lake Monroe, along Highway 17-92 about midway between French Avenue and the I-4 interchange.
